2600	7/12/2012	Our family loves to read books.

2601	7/12/2012	Libraries provide a responsible source of information for the community. The institution is (and should continue to be) one of the key contributors to the mental, educational and cultural health of the community. A strong public library system says a lot about the people who are willing to support it.
2602	7/12/2012	i use the library instead of buying most books!
2603	7/12/2012	Its not just about the reading materials and media, it's a meeting place and neighborhood connection for community building.
2604	7/12/2012	I love reading! The library is the main way I get books. Also, libraries provide a free education for everyone through access to books and electronic resources.
2605	7/12/2012	I need a quiet place to go to study at. Where I can use the computer, copy machine and other resources.
2606	7/12/2012	I love to read & now that I am retired I can't buy as many books. So access to the library is essential to me. I would be very unhappy without my library books!
2607	7/12/2012	Knowledge and learning are the key to all other accomplishment; without them, nothing else that we desire for our society is possible. Libraries are a key element in making sure that knowledge and learning are available to all members of our society, no matter what their life circumstances may be.
2608	7/12/2012	Because I like to read but don't feel the need to buy books unless for collection. I like browsing and when I was young I liked having access to the internet and job searching at the library.
2609	7/12/2012	Selfish reason -- I am a ardent reader -- a bookworm. However, I believe libraries build community, democracy, provide all sorts of intangibles that are immeasurable (for example, place to be with others where you don't have to buy anything on a rainy day, a feeling of comfort and security, a place of quiet). One of the last (only???) non-commercial interior space where people can enter freely for a useful, pleasurable experience.
2610	7/12/2012	I feel like the library allows access to technology that not all residents are able to access w/o public support. I rated as "somewhat important" b/c I group police and fire and public safety into the category of public services and feel that safety comes first. Libraries would grouped with recreation for me.
2611	7/12/2012	A library is a prime source of our culture, promotes literacy (which is decreasing with the increased usage of electronics), and provides a haven of normality and quietness for everyone.
2612	7/12/2012	libraies provide a place of solitude, pleasure, adventure, help, respite, understanding and community.
2613	7/12/2012	Everyone should have access to books and literacy support.
2614	7/12/2012	Libraries are very important. We have a two year old daughter that loves to read, so we pick up 20 books or so a week. It's an important trip for her, and she loves going to the library.
2615	7/12/2012	Access to books, computers, & dvds

2616	7/12/2012	It is an important connection for me to the community and the world. I cannot afford to buy books or magazines, so all of my reading material comes from the library.
2617	7/12/2012	Because libraries represent the value of learning and advancement and growth as a necessary and vital component to a civilized society. The society values these elements to the point that they provide them free of charge as a way of showing that critical thinking and growth are cornerstones to a healthy community.
2618	7/12/2012	I have my studio in Hillsdale.[] I use the library for research.[] The library adds greatly to the quality of life here.
2619	7/12/2012	People like myself--those who are low-income--depend on their libraries for access to books and other media they could not otherwise afford.
2620	7/12/2012	I am continuing my education and beginning to read a variety of books so I appreciate the services our libraries provide.
2621	7/12/2012	we could never afford to buy a the books we borrow, and we also learn from the Lecture series we find. These are available to everyone, not just people who can pay to go to school.
2622	7/12/2012	I rely on local library services a lot.
2623	7/12/2012	Libraries and schools are the most important services a local government can provide for the citizenry.
2624	7/12/2012	Available to all [] I am a retired librarian
2625	7/12/2012	the access to information and self-education is invaluable and the best resource for enriching your mind
2626	7/12/2012	The quality of our libraries mark the quality of life in our city. Libraries are the storehouse of our community's knowledge. A very important part of our county.
2627	7/12/2012	Because other more necessary services must also be funded(e.g. emergency services)
2628	7/12/2012	Reflects my values in terms of a informed, literate community.
2629	7/12/2012	Key community resource
2630	7/12/2012	Because I love libraries - I distinctly remember going to the main library downtown (central branch) as a child with my dad and spending HOURS there. It is such a huge, beautiful building. I have such fond memories of those times... Now I try to take my son at least once a week to our local branch for storytime or just for checking out books. (He thinks he is "buying" the books - hasn't quite caught on yet to the idea that we are just borrowing them :)
2631	7/12/2012	They tie the community together as a central gathering place, they provide access to information for those who perhaps do not have access and they educate people.
2632	7/12/2012	I guess the library isn't terribly important to me.
2633	7/12/2012	We really value it, I homeschool 2 kids and it is a huge resource to us. We check out 5-15 books a week.

2634	7/12/2012	The public library system is an American institution that's core to the health of our nation. It's all about learning and little about aditude.
2635	7/12/2012	The library provides independence to its many patrons. People can get books to enjoy or educate, take classes for self-improvement, or use the computers for internet access. Also, many young children will suffer from lack of access to library services.
2636	7/12/2012	I believe education is knowledge and having a free local resource to use for computers, internet, printing, reading, listening to music, and watching videos is an important part of learning.
2637	7/12/2012	I think primary services like housing, food, and health care for low-income families are more important, but libraries are right after that!
2638	7/12/2012	minor, but i see a greater good for limited income and seniors. need to get back to the basics
2639	7/12/2012	love to read: love having the resources available, see value for the entire community
2640	7/12/2012	Although I would rank fire, police, and schools above library the library offers not only reading, viewing, and listening entertainment it also offers programs to aid education and gives children a great place to spend time, especially in the summer when school is out, and helps adults who cannot afford computers to do resumes, job search, and learn. For those of us who cannot afford to go to or rent movies, buy books, buy CD's, etc. it provides us with a much needed service. I've always considered reading skills to be crucial to learning and education.
2642	7/12/2012	Because I use them and i see that many other people use them as well. Especially poor people who are unable to afford to purchase books or who don't have computer access at home need the public library. Also, I love the Spanish Tertulia led by Alan Gabriel at the Midland library, where both Spanish and English speakers come together to read and discuss Spanish books. What a great cultural exchange that is! I hope you can afford to continue it!
2643	7/12/2012	I am an avid reader and listen to a lot of audio books during my 45 minute commute. Since the economy downturn, I have used the library heavily instead of purchasing books. I personally don't use the computers or job search, and have never attended any activites, but I recognise these services are important to many people. I wouldn't put library services above water, heat, and electricity, but it's right up there close!
2644	7/12/2012	Because a well read mind is a happy and informed mind. I was lucky to grow up in a home that valued books ... we had books all around, but I also know that there are those who don't have books as easily available. Access to books allows ones to delve into creativity and to empower and understand the world around.
2645	7/12/2012	They are important but not as essential as transportation, water/sewer, public safety.

2646	7/12/2012	When I want a book, I always check the library first, often on-line. If it's not readily available, which sometimes happens with recent fiction, I try to buy used, then new. Also, I think a flourishing library is an important resource needed for any community that wishes so support and well-educated society.
2647	7/12/2012	1. Equal access. [] 2. Knowledge is power - our libraries provide access to knowledge = empowerment for all.
2648	7/12/2012	I've been going to the Multnomah County Library since I started reading. My father took me weekly because both my parents were big readers. I think it's the most democractic institution we have. I'm now 64 and cannot imagine a world without this wonderful access to libraries.
2649	7/12/2012	I use the library almost every day. I use it as a source of information on any subject I am interested in and for entertainment, borrowing many movies, audio books and print materials. It is the only place possible to pursue all one's interests for free, and stimulate new ones.
2650	7/12/2012	Free access to books and reference material for everyone. Exposing children at an early age to books and story time.
2651	7/12/2012	Maintenance and availability of historic books and records not readily available in any other way.[] Resources for reseach.[] An aid to education.[] As a community center available to all.
2652	7/12/2012	Education, education, education.
2653	7/12/2012	Because literacy, and universal access to books/internet/community/resources is important to me and my family.
2654	7/12/2012	It is a fountain of education - and an educated public is paramount to a thriving, safe world.
2655	7/12/2012	fire department, clean drinking water, maintained roads and bridges are more important to me.
2656	7/12/2012	The library is very important for several reasons, the main reason for me is, our community needs to educate our children and lower income people need access that the library provides. True equality means education and access to tools for all, not just those with money. Libraries enrich my life and that of my family. I'm always saying to people that I love my tax dollars at work for the libraries.[]
2657	7/12/2012	Services such as police/firefighters, etc. are essential, as are the maintenance of roads, electricity, gas, etc., for our communities physical well being[] [] Libraries and "The Arts" sustain our communities soul/spirit well being. With no Libraries or Art programs there is no growth, no future.
2658	7/12/2012	I have three children. I cannot afford to buy all the books they read. There school library is limited and does not Offer enough services. They can only check out one book at a time[]
2659	7/12/2012	It would be great to increase services and outreach through ebooks They are our community resource centers, cold weather shelter, place of learning

2660	7/12/2012	I use the library frequently and could not afford the books I need for my education and work.
2661	7/12/2012	To find in depth materials that are not available at book stores.
2662	7/12/2012	education/books/knowledge- gotta have it
2663	7/12/2012	Educational and cultural institutions are a high priority to me.
2664	7/12/2012	To me personally? Because I can read many more books than I can afford to buy. To me professionally? Because I'm a librarian by schooling, and I know the value of a strong public library. (See previous page)
2665	7/12/2012	It is a place where children can learn to love to read and continue to educate themselves throughout their lives so that they can be contributing members of the society. It provides programs for all ages that are free so all can participate. Nothing is more important to the children than learning to read and think and have experiences through reading that enlarge their imaginations and base of knowledge. It is an opportunity for parents to learn good parenting and thereby improve the atmosphere of the home and raise competent children.
2666	7/12/2012	Societies are judged upon the access of free information and education
2667	7/12/2012	People would get along fine without libraries. Taxing homeowners to death seems to be more of a problem at this point.
2668	7/12/2012	Public libraries provide essential educational services and materials. In a time when schools have cut back, workers are laid off, and people are tightening their belts, the library has more demand than ever. [] Libraries are critical for civilized society and social mobility.
2669	7/12/2012	Books and other available library materials have always been important to me. Going to the library has been a lifelong activity for me and my now adult children.
2670	7/12/2012	Libraries encourage learning, and our city needs learning when the economy is good and when it is not.
2671	7/12/2012	Cause I use it.
2672	7/12/2012	we get all our books and cd's from the library. the main importance of the library is that it for everyone..rich or poor. everyone should have access to books and library services
2673	7/12/2012	I use the Internet exclusively for my news and information gathering. The only reason I come to the library is to check out current books. I read it and then decide if I want to buy it. As far as library services: I would like to pay as I go. I would like to see the taxpayer unburdened of the library system. I know it won't happen, but it should!
2674	7/12/2012	We consider libraries a "quality of life" issue. This is the best library system we have ever used and hope it continues to provide wonderful books to ALL!
2675	7/12/2012	I love to read and appreciate the fact that I can borrow new titles without having to wait for the paperback version.
2676	7/12/2012	Because books and information should be accessible to all people.

2677	7/12/2012	Important resources from staff and materials because they can help to find what is needs for users.
2678	7/12/2012
2679	7/12/2012
2680	7/12/2012	It's important to have resources and study space available that are free to the public. Even though we do not have kids (yet), I feel the library is most valuable to providing an avenue for children to become engaged in reading. Would love to see more outreach to children of minority and low economic families by either the library coming out to their places of gathering (i.e. shelters and the like), or spending more money on advertising for events/services in public schools.
2681	7/12/2012	It is a foundation of democracy and needs to be supported so that everyone has access to the services provided.
2682	7/12/2012	Libraries are a community center of knowledge that gives everyone an equal opportunity at learning.
2683	7/12/2012	Libraries provide so much more than books. My dad, a single father, used to take us to the library all the time. He's an avid reader and he passed that along to my brother and me. Money was always tight and visiting the library was a great way to spend time. When I moved to Portland 2 years ago, I had no job or internet service at home. I went to the library at almost every day for the first month until I found a job using the computer resources in the downtown branch. After that, I was still going twice a week to use the internet to email friends and family for almost a year. It's important for people to have a place to go when they need help be it information, a job, an escape or just time to unwind. Libraries provide hope.
2684	7/12/2012	Libraries offer people a safe place to learn and educate themselves. It is a place to share and access information, a place to better yourself. Plus, I just love books and would consider it a tragedy if libraries were shut down.
2685	7/12/2012	Though I have a job, I still live with a pretty tight budget. I love to read but wouldn't be able to purchase new books if I didn't have the ability to borrow from the library. Not to mention I also believe it's so hugely important for our youth to have access to books like this. As a kid, I loved going to the library! Lastly, when I was unemployed, I accessed the computer for job seeking. So many benefits!!
2686	7/12/2012	For practical reasons, police, firefighters, sanitation workers and ODOT employees are of more importance to keeping the city functional. But library systems are extremely important in keeping our society educated and upwardly mobile. It is an educational space available to those who may not otherwise have access to resources like computers and class room instruction.
2687	7/12/2012	I am at the library at least once a week for my knitting group and to take out books.
2688	7/12/2012	Libraries are our community held reservoir of knowledge, information and entertainment and they are a place where people can engage with each other on a face to face personal basis. It allows those without the resources to buy books the opportunity to continue reading; again and again ad infinitum.

2689	7/12/2012	I rely on the library to obtain materials needed for the work I do (I teach English and film). I suppose I could get those materials elsewhere, but it's nice to have the library.
2690	7/12/2012	The level of importance to me is very high, as I have young children and libraries promote reading for young children.
2691	7/12/2012	Books and information are essential to my growth as a human and participation as a citizen. If libraries, well-stocked with current titles, did not provide books to me free of charge, I would certainly not be willing and able to purchase even a fraction of the books that I do read and benefit from.
2692	7/12/2012	Since I am reading a lot getting books is easy and convenient it gets expensive buying books all the time
2693	7/12/2012	Though obviously things like public safety, utilities, transportation etc. may rank higher that is not to say a functioning library system isn't vital to a society.
2694	7/12/2012	Libraries are essential for communities - providing free reading materials, both entertaining and educational. They encourage reading, especially for those who cannot afford to buy books. They also are excellent resources for young children, elderly, and job seekers through the programs provided. I have gone to the library about weekly since I was a toddler and it has been an important part of my life.
2695	7/12/2012	Literacy is important. Americans are getting dumber. It's important to have media on hand at no charge for those who are motivated enough to try and educate themselves.
2696	7/12/2012	I use them frequently, in this economy I can no longer afford to purchase books
2697	7/12/2012	The basis for a functional democracy is the ready access to information and ideas. This is the foundation of a functioning democracy. Free public libraries are essential for this.
2698	7/12/2012	I use library services more regularly than nearly all other public services. It would help others taking this survey to have a partial or full list to compare what are the other local public services that vie for funding.
2699	7/12/2012	Because they are places I can escape from reality and into a new novel.
2700	7/12/2012	I love books and having them available to me for free is a nice option should I feel the need to browse for something different. And having that available to the general public is also admirable, so that anyone who seeks knowledge, entertainment, or just a place to relax can do so.
2701	7/12/2012	When our kids were young there were cuts to the library hours, etc. I was unhappy at first but I readjusted my schedule and it worked out just fine. We are in a severe recession and many of us are trying to hold onto our homes. I already pay $400/year for the library. We've cut our budget so should the library system. Soon I'll be paying an extra $500/yea for the Portland Public Schools bond coming up. Increasing the rate is too much of a burden for home owners.
2702	7/12/2012	I utilize the library multiple times a week. It greatly enhances my quality of life and saves me a lot of money.
2703	7/12/2012	Access to materials not otherwise available

2704	7/12/2012	Emergency, safety, health and basic infrastructure come first. However, libraries are vital community builders as well as vital resources for people across the economic spectrum.
2705	7/12/2012	Because they provided me with new books to read and help with school subjects. It's a way to enjoy my reading hobby or a low income budget. It also gives me something to do with my god daughters.
2706	7/12/2012	To me because it's one of the most basic rights as a human...to learn and better oneself. You don't need any paperwork at all to walk into a public library and sit down to read, or try and /or learn to do so with help from staff sometimes. Homeless, illegal, poor; whatever the story it's a needed thing in our country and one of the things I believe make this country great.
2707	7/12/2012	Even though I don't use the library I realize the importance of it to other people and that is why I have always supported library funding.
2708	7/12/2012	The more educated our children are the better their and our future become. It all starts with reading.
2709	7/12/2012	Libraries are one of the cornerstones of American culture and values; one of the few achievements of democracy; one of the few places where people of all classes, races, ethnicities and languages mingle. It's extremely important to preserve a robust library system in order to maintain a vibrant city.
2710	7/12/2012	We need all citizens of any age to have the opportunity to become better educated in all ways the library provides. The more knowledgeable we are as a nation the better we can improve our lives.
2711	7/12/2012	Literacy, education and access to knowledge is essential to a democratic society. The library is a safe-haven of knowledge and a place where people are inspired to learn new things and connect to community. There are few public services that offer these benefits to the individual, society and community.
2712	7/12/2012	Libraries are a critical source of printed material which is increasingly difficult to find. Free access to borrowing books, computers and literacy programs are crucial to having a literate and informed populace.
2713	7/12/2012	Libraries equal education, education is essential to a civilized community.

2715	7/12/2012	Extremely important. It is an amazing resource for the community. Our family can afford to buy books but the library gives us the opportunity to read a diverse array of books that we could never experience if we were just buying our own books. For families that cannot afford books, it is indispensable. Also the services such as computer access and just a quiet place to study are fantastic. Although we don't use the library in this way, we see so many people who do. I also think it is an important community space. We love to go the Northwest Library not only to discover new books but also to run into friends and share books with them. It really contributes to our sense of community.
2716	7/12/2012	Library services are a cheap, wonderful place people of all ages can enjoy. I took my kids when they were young and let them check out 10 books each. We spend a lot of time with these books until the next library trip.
2717	7/12/2012	Very important. Most of my childhood I spent summers at the library participating in summer reading programs and enjoying hot days wandering around the library reading books. I think that computer access for people who can not afford it is invaluable. Having access to books for young people is extremely important.
2718	7/12/2012	The library systems serves a wide array of people across the metro area, including children, seniors, the unemployed, and non-native English speaking people, providing access to current and historic media, internet and computer services, and life skills development and entertainment. The library staff is very knowledgeable and supportive, offering help whenever needed.
2719	7/12/2012	Libraries not only represent the value of learning, they pragmatically supply the tools.
2720	7/12/2012	There are many services for people in need, emergencies, abuse victims, etc. that are more urgent and lacking funding also.
2721	7/12/2012	I actually use the library and we pay quite a bit for them, so I like to make full use of the resources I am paying for.
2722	7/12/2012	Obviously police, fire protection, and other emergency services are the most vital. After that, services that help the motivated solve their problems are the most important. Libraries are more important than stand-alone centers that do the myriad things the library does--helping job seekers, senior citizens and children, for example.
2723	7/12/2012	I use them more frequently than any other public service, and the substitution cost to me would be astronomical (if I were to buy all of the materials that I check out from the library, I would go broke!) Luckily, I don't need police, fire, or social services on a regular basis, whereas I'm utilizing library services nearly every day.
2724	7/12/2012	Mentioned in previous question

2725	7/12/2012	Knowledge is power. The only thing that gives equal access (particularly thinking of those with low/no income) to knowledge is the public library system. If you take the library away, you take power from the poor and middle class and give the wealthy (with their top notch private and very expensive schools) even more control. Public schools are limited, college is often a joke. The library offers the information without the games and bologna.
2726	7/12/2012	Libraries are a cornerstone of children's education and literacy and mental development. In the techno/digital age, where kids learn to race from one thing to another, spending split seconds on computer/TV/iphone screens, super-multi-tasking, and learning impatience, a quiet library is haven for the better minds. Children (and adults too) need quiet time to explore and learn, in a relaxed atmosphere without distractions. Each school can't hold all the resources for children - it makes more sense for many schools to share a community library.[] [] Also, the availability of books to borrow at no cost is an important tradition that holds fast to the good old value of trust and sharing and community. Not everyone has a computer at home, not everyone likes to read books on kindle, not everyone can afford every book he/she might want to read or skim.
2727	7/12/2012	Because they provide access to literacy, which is a building block for a successful/functional society.
2728	7/12/2012	A literate society enables us to do a better job in delivering all other public services!
2729	7/12/2012	reading is huge
2730	7/12/2012	continued education and the only source of information and education for many people
2731	7/12/2012	"There is not such a cradle of democracy upon the Earth as the Free Public Library -- this republic of letters, where neither rank, office, nor wealth receives the slightest consideration." --Andrew Carnegie[] "America's greatness is not only recorded in books, but it is also dependent upon each and every citizen being able to utilize public libraries." – Terence COOKE[] "At the moment that we persuade a child, any child, to cross that threshold, that magic threshold into a library, we change their lives forever, for the better." -- Barack Obama[] "If you cut funding to libraries, you cut the lifeblood of our communities." -- Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley
2732	7/12/2012	Very important
2733	7/12/2012	library is about community
2734	7/12/2012	The library serves the whole community just as fire, police and health services. The library helps people grow, connect, stay current, save money and be part of their community.
2735	7/12/2012	they would full after police and fire
2736	7/12/2012	None of the other services can be created or maintained without access to knowledge. Also, the Library is a central information dissemination point for those seeking other services.

2737	7/12/2012	As I age, the library and it's materials will continue to be one of the main ways I spend my time. Until I did this survey I did not know you delivered to the home bound. I do not need that now, but I hope it is available when I do. [] The library is crucial to families with children of all ages and to the teachers that get books for their class rooms.
2738	7/12/2012	I use the library to get reading materials. And that is very, very important to me. However, I'm good at using the online catalog system and putting items on hold if need be. So, I don't know the library open as much as someone else does. However, I recognize the value to others if those programs are available to others, and I realize there are other places that offer the service programs of the library, but not the checkout facilities of the library.[] [] As a side note, I'd prefer that there was 1-2 days of the week when the library was open later into the evening. That's the best time I have available to do research with LIB ONLY materials.
2739	7/12/2012	I am a participant in the Portland culture of reading. I value this culture highly. i believe it is unique in the country. it is precious.
2740	7/12/2012	I use it all the time. I feel it needs to be available for everyone especially people who don't get to have a computer at home.
2741	7/12/2012	Local libraries provide free access to a variety of services that otherwise many in our community would be unable to use. They also encourage young adults and children to make reading a part of their life and greatly assist students by allowing use of services and materials that they might otherwise be denied due to their income level
2742	7/12/2012	Libraries have always been a special oasis to me. The wellspring of information on tap plus the calmness, an oasis if you like, where I can absorb the information and learn.
2743	7/12/2012	It not only gives us an opportunity to keep up with current books and magazines but also brings us in contact with other citizens of all ages and nationalities.
2744	7/12/2012	Libraries are the repository of knowledge and have been for centuries. If it were not for the library of Alexandria, Egypt, for example, many great pieces of history and literature would have been lost
2745	7/12/2012	I consider libraries very important for my entertainment, education and access to information.
2746	7/12/2012	I believe funding for police, fire, and public schools are more important. I also am fortunate to have computers with Internet at home to search for information that I might otherwise need the library for.
2747	7/12/2012	Police, fire, roads, all are more important. After that comes things like Libraries.
2748	7/12/2012	The library allows me to continue my education and peek my interests on my low budget. It brings people together at ar intellectual source. The sharing of resources is important to our survival and the library is an amazing example of this; we do not all need to own everything.
2749	7/12/2012	A library is a luxury - a luxury I can no longer afford. Cut back the days, cut back the hours and MAKE DO - just like I have to make do. Well maintained streets, funding for education, police and fire protection - these are important! Libraries are a luxury!!

2750	7/12/2012	Without public access to information the general public falls apart. education and community building are the pillars of society
2751	7/12/2012	As a low-income individual, it's so important to have affordable internet access (for job-searching, school support, etc.) and printing, plus books! Plus, libraries support community connection and interaction.
2752	7/12/2012	Because it is a resource that all citizens (especially children and the disadvantaged) can find easily and use to improve their lives...
2753	7/12/2012	A well-read person is a more beneficial member of society. Everyone should know the joy and power reading allows
2754	7/12/2012	It's education and using the mind that are important to me. The library allows us to educate ourselves. And its a good place to socialize with others in the community.
2755	7/12/2012	Everyone, regardless or finance should have ready access to books, especially young children.
2756	7/12/2012	the library is one of the only public services I really use!
2757	7/12/2012	i feel they are very important but have to consider social services as well.
2758	7/12/2012	essential for all the categories of people served
2759	7/12/2012	for many it is the only information and recreation resource they have
2760	7/12/2012	Because they offer services and attention to the widest portion of disenfranchised people within our city.
2761	7/12/2012	Every citizen should have free access to information resources in a democracy
2762	7/12/2012	I love to read and can read 4-6 books a week.
2763	7/12/2012	Libraries create community.
2764	7/12/2012	I believe that people need safety to get their basic needs met before they need a library. Since the County is responsible for funding services for low-income people, I would not put library funding, at the expensive of other needec services, at the top of my list of funding.
2765	7/12/2012	i use them more frequently than any other local public service
2766	7/12/2012	fabulous resource; people of all ages, social groups come together (community), culture available to all with no entrance fees
2767	7/12/2012	We need to educate our population. The library needs to provide a free resource to do that.
2768	7/12/2012	depend upon library for extensive literary information including books, periodicals, newspapers
2769	7/12/2012	I have always checked out books (fiction) rather than purchasing, as much as I love Powell's. I now have a Nook, and love being about to check out books on that.....hope the library continues to add titles here.
2770	7/12/2012	they are of very high importance to me
2771	7/12/2012	They are best and most reliable souce of information and available to anyone -rich or poor
2772	7/12/2012	Libraries are a huge source of information and help to those who cannot access information from other places (i.e., no computer at home, etc.).

2773	7/12/2012	They are important to the community. People who do not have access to computers and other media can use the libraries resources. As it becomes more difficult for people without computer access to manage their daily lives, the library will be a vital link to survival for economically challenged citizens.
2774	7/12/2012	It's part of what makes Portland Portland. People know the Library is good in Multnomah county, so it's a factor in moving here, and in staying here.
2775	7/12/2012	I love libraries, they house information that is hard to find and allow for efficient research.
2776	7/12/2012	For a civilized society to exist, the public must have access to a variety of information and media without cost.
2777	7/12/2012	They are my number one favorite public service!
2778	7/12/2012	We must have an educated lower and middle class.
2779	7/12/2012	They provide constructive and educational activities for my teen age son.
2780	7/12/2012	With the increased use of electronic modes to access information, hard copies are still required in classrooms and desired in the necessity to share information whether historical or current.
2781	7/12/2012	My kids can't live without library books and I'm constantly finding something good to read as well.
2782	7/12/2012	Access to a wide variety of reading materials in a variety of formats that are lent out to a wide variety of people.
2783	7/12/2012	Libraries are a wonderful resource and sustainable in that books and media are shared over a large number of people. It's a important resource for people who don't have the income to afford buying books, cds, movies, internet access, classes, etc.
2784	7/12/2012	For me, the library is about community. Yes, the MAX and garbage service and police services are vital, but the library holds and anchors a neighborhood. It's a gathering place, an information/resource center and a hub for people of all ages and types. Libraries know no age, race, social, economic differences--people are there as equals. Without a library, a community has no life.
2785	7/12/2012	Without a solid educational system all other aspects of society suffer. Funding the Police over education puts us in more of a militaristic state, not advancing us as a society.
2786	7/12/2012	We don't have cable, so the library is our source for literature, books, music, video. Very important.
2787	7/12/2012	It is one of the best examples of the power of my tax money. My funds go to provide services for my entire community--no one is left out unless they want to be. This service is available for anyone--even those without library cards. People can use library facilities as long as they behave according to community standards--even without a library card.[] [] The concept of public libraries has been a cornerstone of our nation since the 18th century. Some of our libraries offer excellent examples of certain types of architecture--all free for the public!

2788	7/12/2012	Libraries provide individuals with free resources to empower themselves with knowledge. ¶ ¶ Plus it is all relative. If you don't use a majority of local public services, the ones you do use have the most importance.
2789	7/12/2012	I am an educator and I see the difference it makes when families use these services or fail to take advantage of them. Public libraries are a fundamental source of information that protects democracy.
2790	7/12/2012	Resouce of empowerment for bottom 2/3 of society.
2791	7/12/2012	It's a great resource for people of all income levels. Show's neighborhood pride.
2792	7/12/2012	because it is access to free info for everyone
2793	7/12/2012	As a senior I have the time to find other resources/computer to complete my task and used the book exchange and e-book for my reading needs. I think the library is critical to the health of our community. Police and fire services keep us safe, health services promote community health, and libraries provide the community with resources to learn and grow. Many individuals could not acces books, computers, and reading programs without the library. Valuing the library demonstrates that we as citizens value intellectual curiosity and literacy--critical, in my opinion--to maximizing our potential as a civilized society.
2795	7/12/2012	Both for personal use and for the educational and other services necessary for a good community. For the reasons I stated above: I believe libraries provide egalitarian access to knowledge (power) that is vital to a healthy democracy. I would argue on equal footing with the "fourth estate" of media. A somewhat related point: it seems that the library is a public health service as well -- I'll simply note that the homeless population appears to depend on the library as a place to get access to information and communication that more ordinary citizens take for granted -- and as a safe place to be without fear of harassment.
2796	7/12/2012
2797	7/12/2012	Community building, children's literacy programs, educational resource for adults too!
2798	7/12/2012	because i am neither a senior nor a child. i value the benefit of books and having almost any reading material at my disposal
2799	7/12/2012	Because if I did not have my library to go to I would not have many books to read or a place to take my clients.
2800	7/12/2012	The library makes it possible for everyone to have access to books, periodicals and other materials for pleasure, for helpful information, for educational purposes and more.
2801	7/12/2012	Important
2802	7/12/2012	I believe that reading is a fundamental element needed to increase knowledge and understanding.
2803	7/12/2012	As a family with young children, having access to reading material that we may not be able to afford is important to us.
2804	7/12/2012	the libraries are a resource I use regulary
2805	7/12/2012	Well, Police and fire are more important, along with quite a few others

2806	7/12/2012	I am able to live and function without a library. I have done so many times in my life. Having a wonderful library is a benefit but not an absolute need.
2807	7/12/2012	A self-educated populace is a community that can co-exist with success. The North Portland Library (and others like Central) are the real living rooms of our city. As a low income family, we have access to way more reading material than we could afford. It is also a pleasant free outing. We love the library!
2808	7/12/2012	without a good library, democracy is threatened.
2809	7/12/2012	Because of that trite old saying, "Knowledge is power." Libraries do so much to educate people, and at the very least, just being in the midst of all those books must have some positive impact on people. My branch serves a fairly low socio-economic neighborhood, and I know that resource is good for those kids (and their families) who might otherwise be limited.[] []
2810	7/12/2012	I love the St. Johns branch. Our libraries are the center of knowledge, information, and exploration for people!
2811	7/12/2012	Without knowing WHICH other local services you mean, I can't compare. Just in general, I love to check out and read a wide variety of books and do some research at the Central Library just a block from where I work.
2812	7/12/2012	I believe there are other services that may be a little more important. Other than having books/media, computers, and some classes, I'm not aware of any other offerings. Are there study programs/tutoring programs for underprivileged families? That would be an offering that would increase the importance of the libraries, in my book.
2813	7/12/2012	Libraries are a free treasure of knowledge available to everybody. Having free resources, classes and online access levels the playing field for all. Libraries are not only for the wealthy or poor- they are there for the entire community.
2814	7/12/2012	I'm an avid reader. I use both written, audio and now, online materials for entertainment and the how-to sections to prepare for and to complete personal projects. I read about 5 books a week.
2815	7/12/2012	Libraries help communities to thrive.
2816	7/12/2012	Besides the societal function of free access to information, we still read books, watch DVD's and listen to CD's. Our library has been top-notch in providing all of those services. Also, access to Consumer Reports is fantastic. Although we serve ourselves 98% of the time, we appreciate the librarians and reference librarians.
2817	7/12/2012	Knowledge is the key to solving any problem.

		Although I use the library all the time and it is very important to me, I think many of the County's other services for health and various social services are a more important use of the County's money. It is extremely disappointing to me that so many people have a knee-jerk reaction to supporting the library - just support whatever proposal is made without thought to all the other programs that lose when the library puts out a levy.[] [] I find it disturbing to read over and over that we are tops or near tops in circulation in the nation - to me this means we are overspending. I don't think we should be aiming for number one.[] [] I question whether buying a gazillion copies of the bestselling authors is the best use of money; I think the library has cut back on this practice so this may not be a fair criticism. I don't know what the buying strategy should be, but there are so many books out there and so many other choices on the shelves for people.[] [] I volunteered for the library for a number of years and will do so again. I admire many of the new initiatives of the library director. But we paid too much to get her and we spend too much on the library. The county has other priorities. They're just not as easy to market as the library is.[] [] Discussion of a library district never spells out the effect it has on funding to other entities - from what I understand that calculation is so complicated it is near impossible to explain BUT I wish it would be explained. In general, my
2818	7/12/2012	As a teacher, I know how vital a library system is to the development of young readers and the continuing education of the public as a whole. However, I have to say that as a voter who supported the recent levy, it was a slap in the face to approve the levy only to have service and hours cut. It really felt like a betrayal to all of us who showed our support financially. If the amount was not sufficient to maintain current levels of service, that should have been made clear at election time and an opportunity should have been given to voters to support a larger levy that would have been sufficient.
2819	7/12/2012	I would love to rank it higher, given my belief that education and reading improve all of society, but the fact is that we can get the information in many ways - on line, internet, bookstores... I can't justify it being higher than public services of firemen, police, local utilities. It is a vital part of the community and one that should be at least as high as the local community center.
2820	7/12/2012	Libraries rank very highly, yet public safety (fire and police); road maintenance; sewer and water improvements and public school upgrades rank higher
2821	7/12/2012	Learning is a lifelong process.....enough said.
2822	7/12/2012	My entire family reads a lot -- for pleasure, education, and intellectual stimulation. Without getting what we want from the library, we would either spend substantially larger sums at bookstores (we patronize local bookstores extent anyway) or we would do without, because of budget constraints. So the library is probably the most direct and tangible benefit that we get from our local government.

2824	7/12/2012	Libraries are a free source of knowledge and promote reading. I think that is extremely important.
2825	7/12/2012	Our family is in at least once a week to check out books and media. We could not afford it otherwise.
2826	7/12/2012	It is important, but I understand it is not the top priority where the tax should go.
2827	7/12/2012	It's very important to have books available for those who can't afford to but them. Also, libraries are a place that serve the whole community of learners.
2828	7/12/2012	Because I dont go as much as I use to but I still like to know it is available
2829	7/12/2012	Because Police & Fire have really strong unions that always lobby for funding and use the threat of chaos to scare people into supporting their budget. These two services along with schools, parks, etc all have very opaque budgets that citizens don't see or understand. I don't know how gang prevention dollars are being spent because I don't live in a neighborhood with gang trouble. ¶ Libraries are different, I see lots of different branches and know what it means when I can't get materials, access online materials, etc. Libraries also don't have a major union lobbying for them and need more public support.
2830	7/12/2012	Libraries are a beacon of light and hope in the increasingly coarse and despondent American culture.
2831	7/12/2012	I have not used the library in a while but when I was a preschool teacher I went every week for new stories for the kids. They are a great resource for children of all ages and adults.
2832	7/12/2012	Educated people need less public services.
2833	7/12/2012	It's necessary to have a safe place where children/teens can hang out, where people can have access to computers and get assistance for job searches.
2834	7/12/2012	I dont have to spend a lot of money on books
2835	7/12/2012	our family visits the library often for books & media & programs for kids & language " mango" are also important to us
2836	7/12/2012	Free access to information and literacy resources make our community stronger by helping adults gain job skills and find work, and giving children the skills they need to be productive community members as they grow into adults. Libraries also help to educate people about world events and local government, making them more educated voters.
2837	7/12/2012	Because information is power. People need the best information to make informed decisions in their lives and participate as effective citizens in communities.
2838	7/12/2012	I would prioritize services that help provide food, shelter, and medical care. After that, I think the library is very important, as a point of access to education, information, and self-improvement.
2839	7/12/2012	I believe they support a stable community, which is a primary reason why our family loves living in Portland and Sellwood in particular
2840	7/12/2012	Libraries promote learning! Because I'm old fashioned and want to hold a book in my hand when I'm reading!
2841	7/12/2012	I normally buy from Powell's used books.

		After basic services like sewer, water, police, garbage/recycling come public libraries.[] []
2842	7/12/2012	An educated and intellectually curious electorate is essential to the functionality of a democratic society.[] [] Libraries allow access to information, materials, tools and resources for everyone, regardless of income -- VERY IMPORTANT!!!!
2844	7/12/2012	They are not a matter of life or death, but I think that it is important that everyone have access to books, videos and computers. Other services, like teaching parents and helping with homework are not that vital and should not necessary be supported by tax dollars.
2845	7/12/2012	I just think that a repository of information and learning and a center of resources dedicated to the same is a hallmark of greatness. Even though Alexander the Great is remembered as a powerful military leader, Alexandria is remembered for the library.
2846	7/12/2012	My family uses library services. It is very important that my children have libraries to enhance their learning and love of reading. We need information and libraries are full of important information. The services are well used.
2847	7/12/2012	They are my family's principal source of entertainment and an indispensable element in my children's education and upbringing.
2848	7/12/2012	Our libraries provide sources of education and entertainment that many people cannot afford to obtain elsewhere.
2849	7/12/2012	citizen's access to all material
2850	7/12/2012	I'm a teacher, and could never afford to sustain my own reading habit, much less rotate my entire classroom library on a bi-weekly basis, without library services. Part of the reason I came to Portland was that it seemed like a city that really valued books and reading. I see library books out on every bus I board, and feel like part of a very lucky community each time I do.
2851	7/12/2012	The future of this country depends on citizens being informed thinkers.
2852	7/12/2012	Knowledge is the key that opens all doors. The libraries are the keys
2853	7/12/2012	I am in that "elder person" category. My local library is about six blocks from my home. In my "growing up years," I loved going to the library. Now, I have the time to spend time there again. I've recently retired, and one of the things that I most look forward to is - spending time at both the local library and the central library. It's important to me that the libraries remain vibrant - and... open!
2854	7/12/2012	I am an avid reader.

2855	7/12/2012	The library is our primary source of books and other media and an indispensable element in the education of our children.
2856	7/12/2012	I grew up going to the library -- it was our Sunday afternoon thing as a family. I want to make sure that all kids have access to the amazing worlds that live inside books. It will help them personally and it helps us as a community. Reading makes good citizens.
2857	7/12/2012	Books should be available to anyone, regardless of income level
2858	7/12/2012	I love to read, but don't always have time nor do I have money to buy books. I am very, very bad about returning books on time as well. I have found that ebooks, and audiobooks will "return themselves" for me. This has worked great for me. I read (listened) more now in the last 2 years than I have in the prior 20 years. I tend to listen to books while driving rather than the radio too.
2859	7/12/2012	Reading, opportunities to read for free, are extremely important to our society. I believe helping our children read functionally is of great importance, as well as the capacities that go beyond that - developing the intellect. Media is rapidly changing and keeping and promoting access to traditional learning materials is vastly important.
2860	7/12/2012	Libraries are critical for kids as a place to explore and follow their curiosity, especially those kids whose parents do not encourage curiosity and learning at home. Libraries give kids something they can't get anywhere else: time to be alone with discovery.
2861	7/12/2012	Access to materials and convenience to me personally. Libraries help educate people of all ages, which contributes to building stronger and more productive communities.
2862	7/12/2012	other than schools and transportation, it's the main public service we use
2863	7/12/2012	The library is important to me as I use it to check out books, music, and movies.
2864	7/12/2012	Libraries offer a place for people of all income levels and ages to meet and learn.
2865	7/12/2012	I think that libraries are an amazing resource that are often underappreciated. They give everyone in the community access to information and learning opportunities.
2866	7/12/2012	Because when people don't have access to knowledge about their history, traditions, science, etc... It will cease to exist. I think of all the ridiculous things that Americans spend money, we could try to maintain the foundation of all learning in our society.
2867	7/12/2012	We read most of our books through Ebooks through the library.
2868	7/12/2012	This is a service that is used by all residents. It also is the only online resource that is available to the public-we live in a digital age, but a significant percentage of the population doesn't own a computer-this access is critical. Reading is a life-long skill that is so critical to one's quality of life!
2869	7/12/2012	Maybe schools are more important but I am a senior citizen and depend on the library for a number of services.
2870	7/12/2012	"The very existence of libraries affords the best evidence that we may yet have hope for the future of man" □ — T.S. Eliot
2871	7/12/2012	After community health & safety, libraries are of the highest civic importance.

2872	7/12/2012	The librarian can be friends with you and they are more helpful than other people who work at local business.
2873	7/12/2012	I think it is necessary for a healthy society to focus on things like education, literacy, critical thinking, freedom of information, exchange of ideas, and churning out well-rounded and intelligent people. The library is critical in meeting these goals.
2874	7/12/2012	I actually use them. I am very poor. I could not possibly afford access to these materials without the library. I live a much more enriched life due to the library. It is the most important free public service as far as its potential for empowering the poor.
2875	7/12/2012	Knowledge is power. [] I can't tell you the excitement I get when a book I've particularly wanted to read shows up on the hold shelf waiting for me.
2876	7/12/2012	Libraries promote equality and education. All people have the same opportunity to check out books and resources for pleasure and learning. Libraries are essential to a civilized society.
2877	7/12/2012	I strongly believe in knowledge, education, and equal opportunity and access
2878	7/12/2012	a well read population is an educated one!
2879	7/12/2012	I read non-stop. And I "listen" to books. I have a disability which makes reading slow for me and audiobooks are really valuable to me. So reading and listening to books is by far the biggest reason the library is so important to me. I also babysit and check out books and music for the children I care for, and also check out music for myself. [] And I just love being in a library, where all those books line the walls. I love the library and our library system. If I were stranded on an island, one thing I'd want to be sure to have is Central Library on my island!
2880	7/12/2012	Information access is critical. Knowledge overcomes ignorance. [] In this technical & digital world there must be some sort of public access especially for the many with no other access. [] Libraries model sharing & cooperation along with other needed aspects of community.
2881	7/12/2012	They help me educate my children and make them excited to learn. My four year old daughter describes the library as one of her favorite places and asks to visit other libraries when we travel.
2882	7/12/2012	I wish to live in a community of civically engaged, curious and educated people. Libraries represent a tangible good that; they are fundamental to a vibrant democracy. They are part of the mortar that connects and secures us in civil society, a reliable source of light that helps cut through the fog of unknowing, a welcoming refuge from the everpresent noise and chaos of life.
2883	7/12/2012	Good for kids and students of all ages.
2884	7/12/2012	When I think of libraries, I think of community. They are a gravitational center for people in the community to meet and work together to plan events. The library is important as much for what it does as what it represents.

2885	7/12/2012	Because we use our local library a lot. We don't make a lot of money, so having that resource for books, movies, and CDs helps us tremendously. In hard economic times, people like to have something they can escape harsh reality with for awhile. That's how we use books, movies, and music.
2886	7/12/2012	People of all income levels and education levels need access to quality books, internet, magazines, and research tools. Libraries increase equality in our communities and help bridge class barriers.
2887	7/12/2012	The connections to information and resources as well as the wide variety of people gathered there make libraries essential.
2888	7/12/2012	I can't imagine life without reading, music, and research, and I can't possibly afford to buy all the materials I rent from the library.
2889	7/12/2012	Because without libraries critical learning would not happen and these services need to be around for all ages.
2890	7/12/2012	we have to teach kids to read, to be educated, to learn, to be interested in the world -- so that they can grow up to be life long learners and educators -- libraries should be a critical piece of every childhood -- they more hours they are open and the more programs they offer, the more possible it is to bring the children in!
2891	7/12/2012	there are more important issues in these hard times, like the unemployed, health care, child care, senior care, etc
2892	7/12/2012	Because libraries speak to the ability of a society or community to educate and be educated, to have access to basic and advanced information without which no person or group of people can hope to be informed or make informed choices. The standard of any modern culture is participation in the culture and basic skills like literacy and communication are built upon free access to learning resources, represented and provided first and foremost by libraries. Even schools cannot be seen as the first providers of education when there are age and citizenship restrictions placed upon access to both primary and higher education. Libraries are the primary source and outlet to any and all people of a community for literacy, education and learning assistance.
2893	7/12/2012	My current interest in books and reading was fostered by my local libraries when I was a child.
2894	7/12/2012	I LOVE books and have been reading since age 3. I now have a daughter (almost 10 months) who I would love to have follow in my footsteps. I grew up at the library, checking out tons of books, participating in programs and events through the library, doing homework and research there in a quiet space, and just hanging out there reading. We are a book oriented family and I'm so excited to take my daughter to Book Babies (among other things) and to keep having her excited for reading (she already is and LOVES books)!
2895	7/12/2012	THEY PROVIDE LOW COST EDUCATIONAL AND RECREATIONAL RESOURCES FOR A WIDE VARIETY OF PEOPLE AND PROMOTE LITERACY.

2896	7/12/2012	People need a place that is quiet to go and do research, or look for a job, do homework, or just read and relax. Keeping the brain and imagination active is very important to me for myself and my children.
2897	7/12/2012	Ongoing education/lifelong learning for myself, family, and friends.
2898	7/12/2012	Readers have the opportunity to change the world, change our communities.[] Motivated people with gathered knowledge can build and improve what's broken.[] Also, such a HUGE resource for EVERYONE, not just the rich or the poor or the private schooled or whatever.[] I LOVE the Multnomah County Library system.
2899	7/12/2012	Lack of access to self education contributes to lack of skilled labor contributing to reduced community ability to attract business and jobs.
2900	7/12/2012	I have a 2 year old daughter. We don't have a lot of money, but I want to give her access to every book, class, activity I can. The library has so many resources to offer us: storytimes, book readings, amazing children's books, summer reading programs, etc. Without the public library, my daughter would not be as bright and well-rounded.
2901	7/12/2012	The library is probably the most widely used public service that i use. It provides a great public resources for everyone in our society.
2902	7/12/2012	Libraries have shaped my life, they have given me the opportunity to learn what I otherwise could not have. I grew up going to the library, and I love the Portland public libraries (though they should add more movies, more indie and niche ones to the collection) even though I didn't grow up with it, I find most books I want to read and the environment is awesome. I can't get the same materials through my college library, so when I want to read for fun, I head to the Woodstock one. It's great!
2903	7/12/2012	Libraries are the leveling place for our society--A place for exploring books and other media, having computer access, a place to do research and finish homework, a place for classes--for all groups of people, English and non-English learners alike. It doesn't matter how much money you have, where you live, where you go to school, if you're young or old or aren't from this country, or English isn't your first language...you can go to the library and explore all of its resources..
2904	7/12/2012	Because they're an important part of a healthy society.
2905	7/12/2012	We use the libraries often and rely on them. They are a crucial resource for our community.
2906	7/12/2012	Properly managed, a library system is critical to educating the public at a low cost. It should provide basic educational services to assist all people in meeting their civic obligations.
2907	7/12/2012	They allow all of the citizens of the county equal access to information, to resources, to knowledge, to entertainment.

2908	7/12/2012	Because I am a teacher and I am always checking out scads of non-fiction books for my 5th graders.[] [] Because I'm a teacher I have a very modest salary that doesn't allow me to constantly buy books and dvds. I count on the library for my entertainment. The MCL system rocks and I am very proud of it.
2909	7/12/2012	knowledge for the students, seniors, & children also I notice the children enjoy being with their parents. They look forward to going there to show their abilities in reading.
2910	7/12/2012	Access to informatikon and literature is essential to success
2911	7/12/2012	My family uses library services several times a week--far more than any other public service.
2912	7/12/2012	It is very important for me to go to a library with friendly staff that makes me feel comfortable to ask for the location of a book, a program, concerns in my account. If I compare the service provided for any multnomah county library with the DMV for example, the Multnomah county libraries have the best service with friendly staff available to help you.[] If I go to any DMV office they have the worst service ever! Meanest and rude staff, not saying the waiting time.
2914	7/12/2012	I can't afford to buy books or subscribe to many informational services -- the library provides those for me and others, and is a glue to our community. I'm lucky now to be employed, but if I were not I'd be relying heavily on the library for both job-related research and a healthy way to spend my time while waiting to find employment.
2915	7/12/2012	I read a lot and value self education, yet can't afford to purchase as many books as I read, or have access to the Internet. The library provides these services, as well as all of the databases I belong to as a member of the library.
2916	7/12/2012	As a poor college student, when Financial Aid has been held up, I order textbooks through interlibrary loan so I can keep up in my classes. Additionally, it provides literacy and media to people who may not be able to afford it. Libraries are one of our greatest resources. Being able to go open a book and get the information you need instead of wading through websites and links and pay sites for magazines is important for students...and in this life, aren't we all students (whether we're still in school or not)?
2917	7/12/2012	Access to books at the library has allowed me to expand my knowledge on numerous topics that would not have happened if I were required to purchase all the books. As a person who reads predominantly non-fiction works, the library has been a source of informal adult education.
2918	7/12/2012	Reading and access to knowledge are crucial to development and opportunities for people in the community. This has an overall impact on conditions of the community.
2919	7/12/2012	Education should be free.

2920	7/12/2012	The library provides all the services already mentioned to ANYONE who can get to any one of the multiple locations.
2921	7/12/2012	Mostly on an economic level, it's important to me to not have to purchase books or movies I am interested in.
2922	7/12/2012	Not all people have means to enrich their knowledge and to have their researches done with much materials. Books are my first friends, they gave me wide imaginations and took me to far different places. I came from a third world country where good well-maintained books, and education are limited to well-off people. People here especially the children are so lucky to be able to enjoy books and computers that they can read free. They are blessed that they have the privilege of enjoying their rights. I hope this rights may not be taken from them.
2923	7/12/2012	As a parent, I rely on the library for services for my toddler. As an educator, the library is a key resource. I check out approximately 70 books every 2 months to correspond with my content units. It is not feasible for my school to purchase all those books, so the library's resources bring a plethora of books to my students that they wouldn't have access to otherwise.
2924	7/12/2012	Libraries for me are a source of enrichment and entertainment. Since I am poor, books, lecture series, and music titles provide a great deal of entertainment for me free of charge (apart from the taxes I gladly pay to support the system) as well as a way to educate myself since I cannot afford higher education. I also love walking into the Central library because I feel like I'm walking into a kind of palace, a palace built for the people. It's the nicest building by far that I ever am allowed to enter. Maybe that isn't very important, but it means something to me. None of the other Multnomah libraries I've been to feel quite like that.
2925	7/12/2012	I grew up with the summer reading program. My brother and I were always excited to go to the library, get a new book, and get our passport filled out for the cheap little prizes. I credit that program with providing motivation for children, including myself, to read. As I continued with my education, the public library became a great meeting place for study groups during highschool and college.
2926	7/12/2012	How can you compare? The library system is VERY important. So are other services. If you want me to rank them, give me some examples to compare against.
2927	7/12/2012	I value an educated populace, and having access to books and information is key.
2928	7/12/2012	Because libraries are gateways for learning, exploring, and growing as human beings and they serve to equalize society by not discriminating financially on who and who can not access their services- all are able to utilize their resources.

2929	7/12/2012	For me the library held all the knowledge when I was a kid. We didn't have much and my step- father was an alcoholic and my mom tried her best. When I was introduced to the Holgate library in 1988, it became my second home I was able to escape and go anywhere all I had to do was open a book, and start reading. .and it was all free, so my parents couldn't say no. and it was just down the street from my house. I felt safe because my step-father wouldn't find me there. growing up I was teased alot and again I turned to the Multnomah County Library system to find the answers to my daily tears. I came to soon realize that books gave me the freedom to be who I wanted, and now as a 37 year old mother I believe that the greatest gift for a child when he or she can write their own name is a library card.
2930	7/12/2012	Not as critical as water, but very important.
2931	7/12/2012	A literate community is the surest defense of democracy. The library is more than a place to get books. It should be a central part of every community, offering resources, respite information, community services and more.[] []
2932	7/12/2012	Given the importance, I think it was shortsighted of library management to close one day a week when they could have staggered closing days and limited hours of less-used facilities.[] [] Make staffing more effective and functional. This would reduce costs without penalizing taxpaying library patrons.
2933	7/12/2012	Cost savings through borrow books over buying every book that strikes my interest. I'm in grad school, so books are essential to my studies and success.
2934	7/12/2012	It is the working class who pay for the things they never seem to have time to use. The undeserving hoards of "each according to his needs" are the beneficiaries of unearned rewards and achievements.
2935	7/12/2012	In a democracy, citizens must have access to information in all forms, including fiction, films, music.
2936	7/12/2012	They aren't so directly important to me but as a mother and grandmother I know what a library means to children and seniors.
2937	7/12/2012	Reading and watching old movies are a big part of our lives(ages 63 and 86). We can't afford to buy many books, so it's very nice to be able to put our names on the wait list for new books and not have to pay for them.
2938	7/12/2012	Given the competing demands of issues like public education, transportation needs, and public safety, library services falls to somewhat important.
2939	7/12/2012	The library is a place where the intrinsically motivated can find the information they believe that they need in order to be successful.
2940	7/12/2012	I believe schools, police, and fire departments are more important, but libraries are next on my list!

2941	7/12/2012	Though not essential, like police and fire, it greatly enhances the lives of those in the community. Allowing access to information and technology helps the individual better themselves and the whole community benefits.
2942	7/12/2012	If I do not have home internet access, I rely on the library's computers. I also use their meeting rooms, attend meetings there, meet people there, and access reference materials.
2943	7/12/2012	I think police, fire, and medical emergency services are far more important. I rank libraries in the next tier.
2944	7/12/2012	To maintain access to quality of life and self improvement features that we're better off if all have access.
2945	7/12/2012	Schools are number 1 for me. Now that so many of our schools don't have a librarian, our local library becomes even more vital.
2946	7/12/2012	wide access to books fuels my children's love of learning, opens their worldview
2947	7/12/2012	Libraries provide equal access to information, culture, and stories, which gives everyone the opportunity to create their own life.
2948	7/12/2012	It's hard to rank this, when I consider that police and fire services are also public services that are vital, as are services providing protection and care for the vulnerable members of our society. A good library system that is easily available is essential because of its role in educating people, providing entertainment, and other services through print and online sources.
2949	7/12/2012	As more and more people have limited income, borrowing books a greater service to all. Also libraries are community centers. Prioritizing Libraries prioritizes learning. I have very fond memories of taking my children to libraries and watching them joyfully hang out and discover books. Also, a great place for homeless people and those without internet access to access these necessary and positive experiences.
2950	7/12/2012	The ability of all of our community members (youth and elders) to learn is critical to our healthy human existence; libraries play an absolutely imperative role in this.
2951	7/12/2012	Because schools are losing their librarians and kids need the access for books and library help with research.
2952	7/12/2012	Libraries are foundations of communities, especially for individuals with limited funding who may not have another means to access the internet and reading materials.
2953	7/12/2012	Libraries are a unique and irreplaceable resource to me
2954	7/12/2012	Libraries represent education, the ability to better oneself, and the freedom this country is founded upon. Libraries provide everyone with equal access and offer opportunities to those who would otherwise be without.
2955	7/12/2012	Critical for families with children. They need a variety of books to learn without spending a bunch of money.

2956	7/12/2012	I and my family use the library for research, study and entertainment, and appreciate the recent music and DVDs as well as books, along with the huge archive of older materials that are available.
2957	7/12/2012	Kids need to enjoy reading. Books are expensive to buy and once you have read them its nice to keep them in circulation for others to enjoy. An educated population leads to a bright future.
2958	7/12/2012	I think that public libraries are an essential resource for supporting early literacy for children, particularly low income families that cannot afford to purchase new books. Access to literature and services through public libraries helps support our public schools and education.
2959	7/12/2012	It is more likely I will use it than fire and police protection
2960	7/12/2012	Without the library I would be much less informed about literature music and film
2961	7/12/2012	I think that the library is very important, but could not place its importance over police and fire.
2962	7/12/2012	The freedom to access new, interesting and vital information is essential to staying informed and educated. We need to provide free library services to those who do not have ready access to the Internet, books and other sources of information. Knowledge is power and the library is a great source for knowledge!
2963	7/12/2012	Literacy is the key to our democracy and the library is a place where literacy services are free - Libraries are a place of enfranchisement. It is a place where all people of all socio-economic backgrounds come together. It is a meeting place. It is an amazing equalizer among those who thirst for knowledge, adventure, information, and fun.
2964	7/12/2012	Since age seven, I've felt the library is the single most valuable thing society has created.
2965	7/12/2012	It's knowledge, history and learning just sitting there, waiting for someone to dip into it, and it's just about free. What else could be more important, other than schools? Nothing!
2966	7/12/2012	I think education is invaluable. It is the most important thing for our society. It is what will keep us alive and thriving as a people. Libraries give this. They give information and human contact. They are about learning and community and staying connected.
2967	7/12/2012	Not everything is available on the net and it saves me from buying so many books.
2968	7/12/2012	not used
2969	7/12/2012	My local library is very important to me because I've always found it to be a great resource. The librarians and employees are always friendly and it's a wonderful place to study/read/work.
2970	7/12/2012	As they say at Faber College "Knowledge is Good"
2971	7/12/2012	The deplorable state of the public education system, as well as the protracted economic recovery, suggest more families and individuals will depend on libraries for a range of potentially life-altering services, but minimally their funding should evidence governmental commitment to fostering intelligent public discourse, and knowledge creation and development.
2972	7/12/2012	I think Public safety Police, Fire and Ambulance service to be higher priority. I would then place education k-12 and then colleges. I think Libraries are important.
2973	7/12/2012	Dear Multnomah County and state of Oregon- - -Let's keep making our world a better place!

2974	7/12/2012	Because I use our library regularly. I am there 3X a week, picking up and dropping off material.
2975	7/12/2012	The outreach services have been a great program for Seniors who otherwise might not get to the library.
2976	7/12/2012	Children, in particular those without computer access, need libraries to research items for school and for their general education. Additionally, free access to books is very important for a child's intellectual growth and to develop strong reading skills.
2977	7/12/2012	I use library services fairly frequently. I also have sentimental attachment to libraries - I was a bookworm and spent a great deal of my childhood in libraries. I think libraries have a civilizing influence on people.
2978	7/12/2012	I use the library more now than I did 2 yrs ago...
2979	7/12/2012	Knowledge is power; every citizen deserves the right to learn, to explore, to find their place in the world by accessing knowledge.
2980	7/12/2012	The library is a place that nurtures scholarly self-enrichment and literary pursuit, which is in short supply in everywhere else in our media-saturated environment.
2981	7/12/2012	They are important to us and we are heavy users, along with our children. Our family does have other options than using the library (borrowing from friends, computer use at home, download books on readers, etc.) . For me, public schools are more important. And I am not sure how library funding and school funding interplay.
2982	7/12/2012	Many reasons. The library is a great resource for people who might not otherwise know where to turn for services. It is a refuge for both children and adults on rainy and hot days. When my home computer has stopped working, I know I can go to the library and have access to anything I might need. As money grows tighter, I no longer purchase books and movies, since I know I can get almost anything I might want through the library system. Also, it is very nice to go in, for whatever reason, and know that I'll be greeted by staff members who know me and are glad to see me.
2983	7/12/2012	Education, literacy, and an interest in knowledge! Access to this in all socioeconomic levels is vital to an educated and informed public
2984	7/12/2012	Libraries offer the most democratic, economically reasonable, and fair way to open culture, learning and information to a diverse public. It serves adults and children individually at whatever level is required. To me it is the most important social service any city or county can offer, short of keeping people from starving or being sick.
2985	7/12/2012	The library services: 1. Provide free access to books, media, electronic information, research to all individuals. 2. Promote preliteracy and literacy in children 3. Provide storytimes and educational opportunities for families so parents can help their children develop reading skills and an interest in language/music/learning 4. Provide community programs that support the interests of many ages 5. Provide a place for people to gather to read, learn, etc.

2986	7/12/2012	Access to knowledge. Knowledge is power.
2987	7/12/2012	Books are an amazing and powerful source of knowledge. What better way to educate and empower people than through a free and cultivated resource such as the libraries?
2988	7/12/2012	They represent knowledge, a place for people to gather, and a quality of information that may not be available in peoples' lives elsewhere.
2989	7/12/2012	Reading has been a basic hobby formover 50 years
2990	7/12/2012	For me it is more the feel of sitting down and reading a paper book rather than the knowledge gathered by reading.
2991	7/12/2012	Libraries are one of the founding pillars of our communities. Without libraries, access to knowledge and information becomes restricted, and every citizen should havethe right to this access.
2992	7/12/2012	access to the world! See my school comment. State and city mandates that they get ever more money, the burden on home owners continues to climb and will not ever stop, so the priority has to go to them. Push to shove, most people have internet access to get info they want or need, even on their smart phones - pc's are a dying technology, and books???
2993	7/12/2012	Fahrenheit 451 anyone? You can download thousands of books on readers now. Other than as significantly-downsized internet cafes, brick and mortar libraries are an anachronism, like large-scale LP and CD record stores and book stores. Time to change the Public Information Repository paradigm. You'd be much better off having x number of MuCo Internet Community Access sites (East, North, Central, West, South, all on Max/Streetcar lines) with just 100 reservation-only workstations with wi-fi'd cable-locked tablets, readers and check-out chips and flash drives, eliminating all the books, magazines, racks, chairs, etc. I don't like to lose the old ways but times have changed, and it's not the world I grew up in anymore. I don't like seeing people lose their jobs - that's the only reason I want funding for the brick and mortar libraries we have.
2994	7/12/2012	Libraries are a cornerstone of democracy and a well informed public - and I use ours a lot. It's one of the things that makes living in Portland wonderful - something we can be proud of.
2995	7/12/2012	I use the library for books, movies, music. It helps me reduce my consumption from companies that I'd rather not support and reduces my impact on the planet. And saves me money.
2996	7/12/2012	Borrowing books from the library in our depressed economy and culture fosters the best elements of our humanity: intelligence, values, and purpose. Being able to freely access library services nurtures dreams, abilities, and community.
2997	7/12/2012	Libraries are places people with few resources can go to better themselves. Many of my students are able to access reading material and computers, which they don't have at home. Access to reading over the summer, especially, is essential in building a strong workforce and educated in the future.
2998	7/12/2012	It is an important part of the social safety net. The poorer you are, the more you rely on the library.
2999	7/12/2012	Free books and CDs!

3000	7/12/2012	I use the library all the time! It is important to me that there is new materials being bought. Its also very important that those who want to read & learn may have that opportunity if they don't have money to buy books and to rent music & movies.
3001	7/12/2012	Low/no cost access to opportunities that provide an equilateral situation for all citizens.
3002	7/12/2012	I love books and I love my library. I use it for videos and books. I place holds on line. I also enjoy the Lucky Day section....it is great. However, I am disappointed in the Lucky Day section at the Hollywood Library. Not many books, or maybe it is widely used??? The Belmont Lucky Day section is good and varied....the Central Library has the best! Great idea and stars to whomever thought of it.[] [] I appreciate that the homeless and lower income have a place to come and sit and read, even if it is the comic book...al reading is good.[] [] Upon purchasing a Kindle I went to the Central Library to get a clarification on the process for transferring electronic books.[] Staff wasn't well informed on the process. After going up that management ladder, it was finally clarified that books could no be donwnloaded from the library, the computer was blocked for security reasons.
3003	7/12/2012	They preserve and protect knowledge and culture.
3004	7/12/2012	I feel like it connects my family with the community. It makes me feel like we are part of the community. And while we are connecting, we are bringing a deep love for print into our home for our children. I fell madly in love with the library when my first son was born. I had no idea so many services were offered to families with children, even babies. The library has become a huge part of my son's life and I hope for the same with my baby. Library trips bring my family together like nothing else.
3005	7/12/2012	Well... water, sewer, electricity.. people die when you don't have those...[] people just get stupid with out libraries.. when I was in College I practically lived at Central branch.
3007	7/12/2012	Libraries are truly the cornerstone of democracy, providing free and open access to information, technology, and literacy, and serving as key community places for all of our diverse populations to interact, convene, and learn. There are few public services that positively build communities and engage nearly all segments of residents in bettering themselves, their families, and their communities. The role of our libraries in supporting equity and communities are undervalued and often unrecognized.

3008	7/12/2012	When I was growing up, my mother walked to the library at least three times a week. I went with her once a week. We were not in the practice of buying books because we didn't use our discretionary income for book purchases. Today, I am probably more likely to buy a book that I want than to be fourth in line with a "hold" on that book (recent experience when we went looking for a book on hiking the Central Oregon Cascades by William Sullivan. Note: please get a few extra copies! at least during the summer!). But I recognize that many people rely on libraries the way I used to. ¶ ¶ I am also saddened by the way people gain information these days - Internet sound bytes, sometimes quite inaccurate. For me, that underscores the importance of having trained people who love stories, words, and information and know how to find them, and love helping people access them, in buildings designed to protect the stories, words, and information and access to those things.
3009	7/12/2012	Keeping a core of literacy in society is one of the threads that can hold a city, or a culture, together using intelligence rather than coercion or other unpleasant means.
3010	7/12/2012	Access to information is the foundation of society, democracy and civilization.
3011	7/12/2012	information equals freedom. self education is very important to stable character growth.
3012	7/12/2012	The library is very important to me, but so are fire and police services.
3013	7/12/2012	I am a school teacher. Access to library materials enhances my classroom teaching, as well as providing books for my students to read.
3014	7/12/2012	I love to read and I am a student so access to computer and free books are great!
3015	7/12/2012	information is power!
3016	7/12/2012	Library services are very important and bring a wealth of knowledge to the public. It's difficult to compare that to other services without specifically stating which other services should be used in the comparison. The public needs access to programs for education, public computers, help with jobs, language learning and especially be able to check out materials for personal use whether it be an item to excersize the imagination or to learn something.¶ Also, many school librarians and art programs have been cut from schools a the only access to those programs is thru the library. Having an affordable and local facility where folks of all means can gather and access information is extremely important. It allows those who might otherwise not have access to media to enjoy these luxuries for learning and entertainment.
3017	7/12/2012
3018	7/12/2012
3019	7/12/2012	A community without a library is like a playground without swings
3020	7/12/2012	I value the use of the Library, especially the books, music, and film.
3021	7/12/2012	Hard to think of other local public services specifically. I guess I use public parks and roads but those aren't really services....
3022	7/12/2012	Very.

3023	7/12/2012	I think reading and having access to books is extremely important. I could not afford to buy books all the time and the library gives me a chance to enjoy one of my favorite past times, reading. It is also the center for community activity. Programs at the library touch young and old and are important in keeping people connected to what is going on in the world around them
3024	7/12/2012	Fire department, voter pamphlets and other voter mailers, county commisioners, mail.
3025	7/12/2012	A citizenry that doesnt read not informed...tv and radio cant give the whole story. The internet is good but sometimes its hard to tell what is real.Reading expands your world and makes you smarter
3026	7/12/2012	Library services are essential to a community. Library gives access to so many resources, materials, computers, public information, support for children, seniors, homeless, lonely. lifelong learning with dignity.
3027	7/12/2012	Our local libraries are like no others in the world. They support the life of the mind for everyone, wealthy and poor. Without their services --- books, media, educational programs, lectures, languages, exhibits, a community can become a sort of wasteland. I have seen this in other places in this country and abroad; it is a sad picture.
3028	7/12/2012	It directly affects the health of the community.
3029	7/12/2012	I believe that they support an educated, informed, and connected society and community.
3030	7/12/2012	They service many uses and one never knows WHICH SERVICE ONE MIGHT NEED, on a daily basis. Ex: if our Computer goes Zip, one can always go to a LIBRARY for their use.
3031	7/12/2012	They are a great resource for all community members. There is so much that can be accessed through libraries and it is the only place some people can access such services (job seeking resources, children's programs, reading material, computer access). I am a high school teacher and recognize the importance of reading in a child's life. Libraries are important to all communities.
3032	7/12/2012	Because reading is knowledge and education.
3033	7/12/2012	Knowledge in general and of the arts is the key to our existence!
3034	7/12/2012	library services are as critical as other other local public services
3035	7/12/2012	They are a resource for me while on a restricted budget for entertainment and free access to knowledge and new ideas to work on and things to do.
3036	7/12/2012	The library allows students to access research materials, promotes literacy by providing free books to loan out, allows people to see movies for free, and sample music before purchasing it. I have used the library on a regular basis throughtout my life. The library promoted my reading skills by offering summer reading programs that gave me incentives to continue reading all summer long. It has made a positive impact on many children and other members of our community.
3037	7/12/2012	I am a reader.
3038	7/12/2012	It's important to have affordable access to books and other resources in our community. I only put somewhat because if I had to choose, of course I would have to put police, fire, schools first.

3039	7/12/2012	The library is a gateway, and vital, I think, to a community and especially to those with less financial means.
3040	7/12/2012	Being able to "borrow" all the books we read is fabulous! We would never be able to purchase them all. We are now also enjoying e-books!
3041	7/12/2012	police and fire more important
3042	7/12/2012	I cannot afford to purchase a copy of every book or periodical I need to use. Access to these materials is very important to me. I am constantly looking for things either in the collections of the MCL or using their website as a gateway to online materials such as the Oregonian or WorldCat.
3044	7/12/2012	I worked in social services. I provided direct service for children and mothers fleeing domestic violence in an emergency shelter. The library was a place people with few resources could access information, reading programs and support around language development as esl learners. The library accepts local submissions, which was a way we got teens involved submitting their own zines and limited edition books. At the library they teach computer skills to seniors for free. The grand stairway of the central library still inspires me. I m so proud of the library system as a truly public American institution founded on the belief that all questions deserve answers, a place where people are treated equally and respectfully. I volunteered in the summer reading programs and watched children latch onto books. They gained so much confidence, many improving grade levels in reading comprehension just over the summer. When I moved to Portland I didn t know a soul, but the library was a welcoming sanctuary. I didn t have to spend money to be there and the books were endless in supply and variety.
3045	7/12/2012	So important for neighborhoods to have places to access information, read, gather. So important for children and the elderly.
3046	7/12/2012	I have personal sentiment for libraries in general but also think they serve a positive general purpose for a very wide range of people and that many would refer to themselves as truly loving the library.
3047	7/12/2012	It is very important. Reading and summer reading is very important to my kids. They love going to the library as much as possible. We often have 10-20 books checked out. They love it! We love the librarians too!
3048	7/12/2012	Because I have learned so much from materials I have borrowed from the library. I'm not buying books unless I want them for reference or to give as gifts. The thoughts and concepts I have learned have enabled me to change and enrich my life many times over, in all of life's cycles.

3049	7/12/2012	All members of our family rely heavily on library books for most of our learning and most of our entertainment. We are a homeschool family and the library is very important to us. I also believe that beyond my children enjoying reading and learning, it is deeply symbolic of living in a culturally rich and connected community. It teaches us about living in a peaceful world where there is enough resources for everyone. That is much bigger than simply having a good reading selection at home.
3050	7/12/2012	Because we are elderly and spend evening hours reading.
3051	7/12/2012	It's a way that all people in the community can have access to information and education. Libraries are a meeting place for people to get resources to improve themselves and our community.
3052	7/12/2012	Promotes literacy, exposure to media & community building
3053	7/12/2012	Reading is the foundation of education. Libraries are essential to an educated populace, and provide important resources that are accessible regardless of socioeconomic status and financial ability to purchase materials for oneself.
3054	7/12/2012	They offer services to people of all ages and backgrounds. I see a greater diversity of humanity in the library than anywhere else I go in my day.
3055	7/12/2012	My kids are still quite young. My fear is losing the funding for our libraries and having them be non-existent by the time they are older. I also know that the library is a lifeline to those who don't have a home or a computer. What happens to those people when that lifeline is lost?
3056	7/12/2012	reading and access to information are vital to democracy.
3057	7/12/2012	impt to encourage reading for everybody
3058	7/12/2012	I am a passionate reader and devotee of books. I believe that having educated citizens is the most critical element to a functional democracy, and that libraries are key to creating a well-informed, literate public.
3059	7/12/2012	Reading is an essential and basic function that everyone should be able to do and enjoy. People should have free access to a variety of books and materials. My sisters & I grew up going to the library every week and I wouldn't have had access to that many books and variety without it. It opened my mind and provided an escape when I didn't have many friends. I love to read as an adult and rediscovered the library a few years ago. I also believe people need free & public access to computers since many people don't own one. I have gotten way more than my money's worth from the library and believe it's more worthy of my tax dollars than many other services.
3060	7/12/2012	Reading is self-improvement
3061	7/12/2012	The library provides a wide range of services.
3062	7/12/2012	I LOVE the library personally but, it is that level of importance because of the service and access it provides to all. Access to books and other learning materials is vital to having a well-informed, educated society.
3063	7/12/2012	The public must have access to information. This allows for continued or extended education regardless of an individual's financial situation.

3064	7/12/2012	I believe in education and always learning, and reading is a huge part of that.
3065	7/12/2012	It is a very public service, open and accessible to all with all kinds of resources, pleasure and business, for all ages.
3066	7/12/2012	They are part of the foundation for our society, particularly for the future, since they help educate the community.
3067	7/12/2012	Because I have used in the past and would like to continue to do so.
3068	7/12/2012	Culture is important and libraries are a space for everyone.
3069	7/12/2012	They level the playing field. Libraries offer books/tools/resources to all community members regardless of income. They provide learning environments. We need libraries in a democratic society
3070	7/12/2012	They provide so many services to so many people. The books, the videos, the computer access, the educational support, the access to literacy for all people. They are also an important meeting place for the community.
3071	7/12/2012	Crime health and safety are essential. That would include safe roads, drug free city, and homelessness. We are so far behind in taking care of these function of government. Then there are the schools. Money for schools hands down before libraries. Libraries are a great luxury. When we get the other essential services up to standard, maybe then we will have enough resources to fund libraries at the current level.
3072	7/12/2012	Local library services are of the highest level of importance because I don't see much that remains of public services. Are there any public services available that provide materials for reading, research, education, and solitude? The library. Maybe an outsourced nonprofit that has no oversight? I don't see much left in our community that can provide what the library does for our neighborhoods and schools. Sad that we have shifted/voted the task of public services to our local libraries. But it's true.
3073	7/12/2012	Because the library provides access to books that I would not be able to get
3074	7/12/2012	I love the library and it's services and it is very important to me that we fund and continue to keep this service thriving
3075	7/12/2012	They enrich our communities with knowledge and access to necessary services. They give a tremendous amount of opportunity to our communities children.
3076	7/12/2012	I am a student who works part time and I really depend on the library for resources. It's a great place to get novels, help from the librarians and a spot off campus to use the computer and read.
3077	7/12/2012	Education [] Current affairs[] Quality of life[] Enjoyment[] A place to gather

3078	7/12/2012	The library benefits all of us. The programs assist those who would not otherwise have access to educational and computer resources in the home. It also supplies current reading and electronic materials at little or no cost.
3079	7/12/2012	I check out books there sometimes. Very convenient. They provide resources to anyone and everyone - they are a very egalitarian service and those who want to get more out of them -- or need to get more out of them - can. It's a resource to those that need it and those that just want it.[] []
3080	7/12/2012	I thought that technology would put an end to libraries but it seems the opposite - library services seem to be better accessed thanks to technology such as being able to search for and request books to pick up. A lot of people are accessing the internet and other info from the library as well - great for those who can't or don't have computer access at home.
3081	7/12/2012	As an avid reader the security of the local library services are paramount. The availability of resources as well as their quality will help keep people coming to the library as well as attract new users.
3082	7/12/2012	This is an institution that should never have been given the shaft these past years. I believe it is a right for all citizens to have a public library. It is a disgrace that it has come to this.
3083	7/12/2012	Access to information is one of the most important things in a "free" society.
3084	7/12/2012	We use the library on a regular basis. Several of our neighbors do also and we compare notes.
3085	7/12/2012	THE LIBRARY SHOULD BE A "FIXTURE" NOT A SERVICE THAT EVERY FEW YEARS IT CAN BE RADICALLY CHANGED BY $$$$. I dont no how to rate that.
3086	7/12/2012	They foster more community than most other public services.
3087	7/12/2012	Everyone needs access to books, magazines, music, internet, etc.
3088	7/12/2012	very low
3089	7/12/2012	Because I use it every week and during the summer daily. I love taking my son to the library and getting to borrow new-to-him books. I love seeing my neighbors there and just having a cool place to go that doesn't cost me money.
3090	7/12/2012	for reasons listed previously, and generally that they are a mainstay of our society. it is important to have social centers, where people interact, get information, entertainment and enlightenment.
3091	7/12/2012	I love reading and can't afford to feed my addiction, and I am passing that love on to my children
3092	7/12/2012	Not everyone can go to powells every time they need reading material or reference materials. Not everyone has their own computer or Internet access. Libraries help to equalize that
3093	7/12/2012	I love to read!!!
3094	7/12/2012	Libraries assist those in seeking a job, they bring together the community with book readings/book groups, and the help educate children.
3095	7/12/2012	Libraries are not essential for survival (water, food, safety, sewers, garbage disposal, roads...) but are right in the next line together with education

3096	7/12/2012	De facto community center
3097	7/12/2012	The libraries are a critical component in building our community, providing educational materials for our children and inspiring reading and learning in our daily lives.
3098	7/12/2012	I read, I write, I think. Free, public libraries are the cornerstone of an intelligent populace, along with quality public education. Libraries foster literacy. Literacy helps people function in education, jobs, accessing health care, and many other facets of life. Free access to information is empowering. []
3099	7/12/2012	I have used public libraries since my earliest memories, reading far more books, articles, et cetera than I could ever afford to purchase. When I was 17 years old I used my local public library to find a job across the country. In college I was a library assistant, through a work-study job that helped me afford my education. Now my teen daughter has a book or two on hold for her at the library every few days. She is a voracious reader. I want all kids and adults to have access to the wonders in our libraries.
3100	7/12/2012	Nice but not nearly as important as public safety.
3101	7/12/2012	As a teacher, I use the libraries constantly to flesh out my classroom library. For a poetry unit that I did recently, I was able to check out a bunch of poetry books rather than having to purchase them. I love being able to go online and request books and then pick them up at my local NW library. I also utilize the printer at the library, since I don't have one in my apartment.
3102	7/12/2012	i think that self education is extremely vital to our community, and for people with low incomes, such as myself, buying a new book weekly simply is not possible. the library makes it possible, and also offers resources for people struggling in other ways.
3103	7/12/2012	It is a great resource for school age children to learn how to access research material. Preschool children can learn how books can take them on adventures. College students use the library for research for the many papers they write. The libraries I have gone to in Portland are not an inviting atmosphere where a person can go to read and relax. They are far to cramped.
3104	7/12/2012	This is the source of knowledge for everybody.
3105	7/12/2012	I use the library often
3106	7/12/2012	Because they are utilized by so many citizens for a variety of reasons. Literacy is important!!!!
3107	7/12/2012	They provide resources to everyone, not just one group. All walks of life can use the same facility. That isn't always the case with public service areas.
3108	7/12/2012	Everyone has the right to education for free weather that be libraries or school
3109	7/12/2012	access for everyone; convenient location; environmental and economical (don't have to purchase every book); resources for the neighborhood/ community
3110	7/12/2012	N/A
3111	7/12/2012	BEcause I read a great deal, my family members read a great deal, and we only borrow CDs and DVDs from the library as opposed to using Netflix, etc.

3112	7/12/2012	Books are very important to all learning. The use of a library must be available for all ages and needs. It is a social service and unfortunately underfunded because social services do not receive the respect and consideration that they should.
3113	7/12/2012	They provide access to resources and information that some people would not have access to otherwise. A healthy active library is a key part of a community.
3114	7/12/2012	They represent a community resource of a literate and informed public.
3115	7/12/2012	A library is something the whole family can use. And it is a repository of books and information that all types of people can use, for pleasure, for research, for learning, and for help. It would be a sad world to not have libraries.
3116	7/12/2012	I grew up going to the library, it is a place for kids to learn and since the Portland public schools are so bad we need libraries to be a safe clean place for kids.
3117	7/12/2012	Its not life or death (police and fire departments) but it has a huge influence on the quality of life in the community, now and in the future.
3118	7/12/2012	A place where people can seek knowledge and sometimes peace and quiet and of course reading and education
3119	7/12/2012	Because it is available to people of various incomes.
3120	7/12/2012	For many people who cannot afford to purchase books the library is their only option. This is especially true for elderly and homeless. Students need a place to study as well as access to research materials and those w/out a computer need free access to one and library is the only place that offers this.
3121	7/12/2012	b/c i use them weekly; they provide an opportunity for my child to engage in independent reading and research; they allow me and my family access to leisure which we might not be able to afford to pay for (books/dvds/cds/classes such as knitting); i have been going since i moved here and so it is like my favorite coffee shop: i run into people i know at the library, i am familiar with most of the staff - they are an extended family i don't have in portland.
3122	7/12/2012	Libraries are a fundamental community resource on so many levels. I'm taking this survey on my phone, and the last time o waxed eloquent about my love of the library, it became a 3000bigger word essay, which is not happening here :-)

3123 7/12/2012	Libraries are places where Library people offer so much from classes and job search assistance to training people in technology and entrepreneurship or teaching a new cultural experience. Libraries are where people come together to learn a language in ESOL classes or get a degree to get ahead like GED classes. Libraries are where our cultural folktales, myths and histories are learned in storytelling classes and where millions of people have found solace, a voice and the strength to go just one more day because of something they read in a book. Libraries are our community anchors - active social hubs in our neighborhoods where all generations can come together, interact and pass on cultural information through a story read, a book suggested, a video offered, a new food tasted, a new music heard. The "glue" that holds all of this together are the Library people who care care about providing engaging learning that help the community they serve and hold so dear. ☐ ☐ Libraries contain the books and materials are where people learn who they are and where they come from and where they can go. Without libraries, people become ignorant. Ignorance breeds misunderstanding and mistrust, which breeds fear which breeds contempt that leads to hatred - which ultimately triggers violence. ☐ The public library in America will only be irrelevant when it is inaccessible
3124 7/12/2012	I am ethically more comited to funding the basic needs of hunger, shelter, and health care for Oregonians and those who live in my community. However, I love and respect the wonderful Multnomah County Library system in Oregon and appreciate the services that they provide for children, the elderly, and individuals who don't have the financial resources to afford books and technology that might make a library less necessary for their education, pleasure of reading, and access to resources for finding jobs.
3126 7/12/2012	someone needs to look out for literacy
3127 7/12/2012	I like to go to the library when it's convenient for me, Not you.
3128 7/12/2012	The library is a central part of the community. It ensures equal access to information, since not everyone can afford to subscribe to and purchase the publications they want to read. Classes and workshops are excellent and important for creating a sense of neighborhood cohesion.
3129 7/12/2012	Because I simply don't use the library any more. Books are available online, as are periodicals. I can search for back articles online. For what I pay in taxes to support the library system (close to $700 a year), I could buy all the books I could possibly want to read in a year. The cost of the system is completely disproportionate to the percentage of the population it serves or the needs it presently addresses. ☐ ☐ And I am a reader! I love the idea of libraries, I spent much of my life studying in them. But they are no longer necessary for either book borrowing or reference. The system should look to going entirely online so that it could function at a much lower cost.

3130	7/12/2012	Every time I go in to the library, I am amazed by the sheer volume of knowledge that is contained inside it's walls. I like to browse into new areas. My pattern of reading is to check out one or two non-fiction books for every fiction book to expand my knowledge and intelligence. The library is a very fun and pride building place to get to enjoy.
3131	7/12/2012	The library helps educate the populace and that is important if our democracy is to function properly.
3132	7/12/2012	I use the library frequently to be able to have an affordable way of continuing to access books and media. It reduces waste also to be able to have books read by many vs buy a book that is read by only 1.
3133	7/12/2012	Reading books is a great way to escape and to learn. Libraries serve an important role in our communities by having an array of reading material for people that want to learn, to escape, to broaden their horizons and for those that need to use the computers for job searches. It's especially important for those that are low income and cannot afford to go buy books.
3134	7/12/2012	I think communities need these resources
3135	7/12/2012	I put it up there with public transportation. Libraries provide broad-based opportunities through books that are not available for the average family.
3136	7/12/2012	We love our Mult co library!! We donate to the Foundation. Our children read several books per week. My husband and I use the ebooks. My husband constantly checks out business books that would be too expensive to buy for the single read. Without the convenience and accessibility of our library, our community would really suffer. We have one the best systems in the country (I have used library services in WI, IL, GA and KY).
3137	7/12/2012	Not as important as schools or public safety, but very important to keep the public literate which is critical to freedom.
3138	7/12/2012	Because it is an affordable source of information and entertainment for all ages.
3139	7/12/2012	Libraries are a vital part of the community.
3140	7/12/2012	I think public health services are more important. But the public service of providing knowledge and access to information is a close second.

3141	7/12/2012	It is a quality of life issue. It is available to anyone with a card, free of charge. It is the best in the country because Portlanders value it so much. When I have out of town guests I take them downtown and show off our Central library and brag that We voted excess money so we could preserve and glorify our local monument rather than rebuilding a new one. I grew up in SE Portland. We were very poor but had a richness in my life because we have such a great library. My senior year of high school I spent more time in the library than at school... (it was '72 when PPS Dist#1 was only open 8 months... sound familiar?) The library served my education well. Education from any source is much needed in Oregon. ☐ How many reasons do you need?
3142	7/12/2012	Public transit and libraries are the two most used services the city provides us.
3143	7/12/2012	I am a student a PSU. I rely on Mult. Co. Lib. for materials that I can't get otherwise. I also rely on them for my happiness. I am a book junkie and try to read 1=2 books every week. Without the library, due to my limited funds, I wouldn't be able to read what I want to.
3144	7/12/2012	Libraries rank high on a level of local [over-all] public services. They serve multiple functions. They're available to the poorest among us. Anyone can access a library, regardless of who they are. Libraries are an invaluable resource, in terms of knowledge, info-seeking, and media access.
3145	7/12/2012	Education and access to information is critical to modern society
3146	7/12/2012	I use the library frequently. It allows me access to books and other media that I don't have the money to purchase. I think the purpose of the library is important, but I don't think it's more important than health services.
3147	7/12/2012	All should have access to materials to create an educated society of informed citizens.
3148	7/12/2012	I am a frequent user and enjoy the convenience
3149	7/12/2012	Because access to learning should be available to all. Society is at risk when learning is limited to a few. A library strengthens democracy and an educated, engaged populace.
3150	7/12/2012	Provides community resource, technology, education. All necessary elements for a succesful community.
3151	7/12/2012	Great for my kids, an important tool for seniors and it's an integral part of the community.
3152	7/12/2012	information, education, entertainment
3153	7/12/2012	Because libraries provide a place to go use the computer, read, do your homework, stay out of trouble, volunteer and more.. libraries have so much knowledge within them
3154	7/12/2012	I moved to the greater portland area about 7 years ago, and the library system is one of my proudest bragging rights about living here.
3155	7/12/2012	See my earlier answer about education and the underserved and those who perceive themselves as powerless.
3156	7/12/2012	The library is my main source of books. I wouldn't be able to read nearly as much without the library. When doing research I need access to a large number of resources. I can't afford to buy every book I want to read.

3157	7/12/2012	It's the one I use the most.
3158	7/12/2012	With limited income things are still available to me that otherwise would not be
3159	7/12/2012	Access to research & reading is a basic right of a society
3160	7/12/2012	I believe literacy is important to our community and having the opportunity available to everyone is beneficial to society in general.
3161	7/12/2012	They provide an important need in society
3162	7/12/2012	Education has been the way out of many things for our family. The local library has the means to educate youth to elder. It is a positive place to refer people to.
3163	7/12/2012	I am a teacher and an avid reader. I support literacy, learning, and access to a variety of reading materials. I will always support libraries.
3164	7/12/2012	they offer access to culture for EVERYbody and it's FREE
3165	7/12/2012	Libraries have been part of my life since I can remember. The weekly trip to the library was always something to look forward to. Bringing home new books, taking part in the summer reading programs and learning about how much the libraries have to offer is something I am looking forward to teaching my daughter.
3166	7/12/2012	Libraries have a great deal to do with the educational level and general proficiency of the citizenry. Besides being a source for learning, they are a tremendous source of good entertainment. ¶ ¶
3167	7/12/2012	This library is special and should remain so. Love of reading.
3168	7/12/2012	I believe in education and having access to a library is one of the biggest parts of this. We are a society that is increasingly becoming lower and lower on the social economic scale, and our children's test scores are becoming a joke. We need libraries for people to educate themselves. Also in these hard economic times people do not have the disposable cash they use to for bookstores, and for many entertainment options, libraries give free wonderful entertainment to the masses.
3169	7/12/2012	Because I love to read and have access to info on any subject - in BOOKS, not online
3170	7/12/2012	I feel it is essential for every member of a community to have free access to books, music, and a computer.
3171	7/12/2012	even with a bad economy, people still can have access to education means & enjoyable means of reading
3172	7/12/2012	I just feel that when I go in to use our Library, like other public services, I can never get a good answer.

3173	7/12/2012	We utilize the library frequently; it has become our sole source of books, music, and dvds. My husband lost his job two years ago and the strain on our finances dictates that we no longer purchase new books, or even used ones, and buying music or dvds is out of the question. A world without the exchange of ideas that these media provide us is not a world in which I want to live. There is nothing like the joy of feeling a book in your hands and the smell of the paper; electronic reading material just isn't the same. To have this continued access 7 days a week is worth the cost of paying for a library district, and will enrich the lives of everyone.
3174	7/12/2012	Literacy is important to me, I believe we should all read well in order to be competent citizens. Libraries help advocate for literacy and try to help those that don't have access to information, classes, books or computers.
3175	7/12/2012	Read a lot
3176	7/12/2012	I prefer to check books out rather than purchase books...and the library has been invaluable as I research career shifts. Further, I believe that strong libraries are important points of access to information for the public, and create opportunities that would not otherwise exist, especially for low-income folks.
3177	7/12/2012	connecting with staff who are always "there for you." and with resources beyond the scope of my little world
3178	7/12/2012	One of the few government services I use and feel I get value for my tax dollars.
3179	7/12/2012	The library is the source of my reading material. It is also one of my favorite places to go.
3180	7/12/2012	They are my source of research resources and a place of community.
3181	7/12/2012	The library services are important to me because I feel the library supports and encourages a cross-section of Multnomah County residents to read and develop life-skills in a low-cost environment.
3182	7/12/2012	If people and especially children do not learn to read they are unable to compete in quality good paying jobs. Eventually Americans will be come irrelevant to the global and local economy. A good education starts with the foundation of reading and becoming interested in learning at an early age is the best way to help them get started. The library also does not discriminate based on ethnicity or income, everyone has access to it.
3183	7/12/2012	I like the library personally and for my family, but I have seen in various ways how it impacts the community positively.
3185	7/12/2012	It's a healthy place to be a part of! Has there EVER been a day there has not been a line of people waiting for the doors to open, or when it was time to close the building was empty early?

3186	7/12/2012	While police and fire fighters respond to threats, it was always the calm, welcoming library that truly made me feel safe. I can not remember when I met a policeman, but I practically lived at my library.[] Water and garbage service bring a level of health to my home, but it is the library that has the resources for me to understand my health and my history. While others applaud the internet, I need the reassurance that I can stop reading, go away, and come back to my book. How could I live without the fantasy, the science fiction, the history, and the indepth knowledge that I can only get from my library. ?
3187	7/12/2012	Question not well defined. Not enough information to answer.
3188	7/12/2012	Expands the world across socio economic levels
3189	7/12/2012	Lifelong learner -- I need information on abandoned mines-- I am an independent contractor, it fufills a role for my career. They have a good collection at central that has been developed over hundred years. Don't let the mgmt bleed it away until it's just a playpen with popular comic books
3190	7/12/2012	although I don't use them very much they are an important resource for others
3191	7/12/2012	the library was my favorite place to go as a kid and cemented a lifelong love of reading. still a great resource and place to kill an hour or three.
3192	7/12/2012	I see the local library as a friendly, safe, free and extensive community resource. Other local public services that I've used are not as extensive or have not had as friendly/helpful staff.
3193	7/12/2012	there are very few public services left in the west hills and the library is a beacon for those still seeking to read a book, seek references, and find answers using the printed word. Librarys foster a sense of community.[] Librarys serve as a safe, non-commercial gathering place.[]
3194	7/12/2012	Education is a life-long process. Librarys enrich the lives of citizens.[] Free access to information is critical to democracy.[] Librarys make excellent economic sense when the rate of use is as high as it is in Portland.[] Librarys are eco-friendly: we should share resources whenever possible.
3195	7/12/2012	It's a free way to enrich my children's lives. It's a place to go when it's raining. It's a place to gain some social contact during story hours for kids and parents. I check out books at the library for myself all the time too.
3196	7/12/2012	My family uses the library in all aspects of our life, work, play... education and entertainment. I also see how libraries provide equal access to crucial resources.
3197	7/12/2012	It is important but not vital for our survival
3198	7/12/2012	Because they help me educate and entertain my children. They also give me access to the internet if my home internet is not working.
3199	7/12/2012	Because reading is fun and good learning.

3200	7/12/2012	Schools and Safety are of utmost importance in a community. Libraries support schools and offer other services needed to educate the public. Education is the most important factor in a happy, well-led life.
3201	7/12/2012	Public libraries provide key access to cultural and educational resources. Any significant curtailment of service chips away at the quality of life in our community.
3202	7/12/2012	A well informed, well read community can make wiser more thoughtful decisions about the future. It is a safer and sane environment.
3203	7/12/2012	I work in a neighboring library district. I understand the importance of libraries in the community bringing literacy opportunities for all ages in many formats. I wholeheartedly support libraries in all their capacities.
3204	7/12/2012	Because I can get so many books there, and other media too. I therefore have access to the world, in addition to the internet, which is great but not always enough. I always have liked going to the library, sitting with a pile of books and squirreling away the information in them. I love the whole idea of libraries and I love that idea that they have always helped people gain access to the greater world.
3205	7/12/2012	I have always gotten a library card before most anything else when I move to a new community
3206	7/12/2012	They create access for all and promote positive learning experiences.
3207	7/12/2012	Libraries contribute greatly to the development of our young ones. They promote lifelong learning, curiosity, self-improvement, and community.
3208	7/12/2012	I do not they think are essential but they are a great service to have
3209	7/12/2012	I use the library more than any other public service. Also, it's a great way to keep people informed about things and to help out those who don't have money.
3210	7/12/2012	Health and safety are most important. I can plan my visits to the library around the hours it is open.
3211	7/12/2012	Being able to get books and other educational media is very important to my education.
3212	7/12/2012	It is a truly democratic institution and represents, or should represent, these values. I have admired how the Multnomah County Library has stood firm on free speech issues. Also, librarians are smart, and if they don't have the answer to a question, they know where to find it, or a helpful staff or patron who does.
3213	7/12/2012	essential to democracy

3214	7/12/2012	The library is a free source of education and information available to all members of our society according to our needs, interest, and motivation. Because of the poor quality of underfunded public schools, the public library can help compensate for material neglected in schools (such as the humanities) and supplement educational resources available to children and teenagers. In the same way it serves working adults like myself who do not have time and money to pursue courses at colleges. Multnomah County Library is therefore directly involved in the sustenance and development of the intellectual, cultural, and civic life of our community. It has also been useful as a source of information to me as a founding member of an upstart local business.
3215	7/12/2012	Because libraries allow low income individuals to prosper in so many ways. Without libraries we would have more youth out on the street with little guidance or tools to help them direct their lives. Libraries provide an alternative place to study for kids who may not privacy or a peaceful environment. They provide individual guidance into almost any new project or goal they have set out for themselves.
3216	7/12/2012	Very high--right up there with school funding. I'd rather cut the police budget than the library budget.
3217	7/12/2012	They are an important resource for information, technology and computer access.
3218	7/12/2012	They are universal, high quality, and the source of human knowledge.
3219	7/12/2012	Libraries contribute to the economic well being of the community through its learning programs which in turn helps support other local public services
3220	7/12/2012	Where else would I be able to order and pick up Chinese language materials, especially books and academic papers?
3221	7/12/2012	It provides different reading material for my family. I like to learn from instructional books. I want my child to have positive entertainment instead of just TV or video games.
3222	7/12/2012	I use the library all the time. I check out fiction and non-fiction on a regular basis. I can't imagine how/what I would read without our awesome library system. I have also use the library computers to print resumes and do job-searching every time my employment changes. The libraries are an invaluable service, providing equal access to information and resources for all people.
3223	7/12/2012	I grew up frequenting the San Diego library, and it was a big part of my childhood. I think that people feel safe at the library, and are able to easily find services that benefit their community.
3224	7/12/2012	Because they are essentially the only public services I utilize.
3225	7/12/2012	I think there are important because we have access to books and materials that we can't afford.
3226	7/12/2012	The only thing keeping evolution going is open access to information and literacy. Everything else is a result of this simple foundation.
3227	7/12/2012	i supremely value libraries for their basic purpose of allowing people to try out books and other media for free. they're also useful community centers and just very pleasant places to spend time for me personally. also the fact that the library is one of few places where the homeless can spend some really worthwhile time out of the elements is very valuable.

3228	7/12/2012	I value education, access to materials and a safe place to learn for everyone - for little to no cost for those who have a low income.
3229	7/12/2012	I love the library. I would say that if I had to choose between public health and the library, public health would win.
3230	7/12/2012	use the facilities regularly
3231	7/12/2012	Because libraries are something that everyone or as close to everyone as we can get, can use in so many different ways to improve or enhance life and good will towards all.
3232	7/12/2012	The library helps keep people less stupid than they have to be, and to use internet when they have none
3233	7/12/2012	The public library is the soul of a society. Access to information and ongoing education available to citizens through the public library system is key to an aware population in a democratic society.
3234	7/12/2012	education and community services = good life
3235	7/12/2012	Because they open the door to other resources. Because they empower me with knowledge. Because they help each member of my family in various ways - job search; kid and senior programs; new books new knowledge. We also really appreciate the help that the librarians give us at Central Library - from the very first desk as we walk in the door (although the young lady tells me she is not a librarian - she is very knowledgeable and helpful) to the 3rd floor reference desks, we always get the help we need, and it is very much appreciated!
3236	7/12/2012	Beyond clean water and public safety I think it is the most vital public service/
3237	7/12/2012	Checking out materials is a very efficient and sustainable way of accessing books and other media.
3238	7/12/2012	six days a week is fine. we can't afford more. please be sensitive to the incomes of seniors and the disabled. now the schools want a new tax.
3239	7/12/2012	No matter how broke I am I can always go to the library and find a good book or movie for entertainment. I have spent many hour at the library with my children.
3240	7/12/2012	Nothing else compares with the gift of reading.
3241	7/12/2012	Literacy, knowledge, access and entertainment.
3242	7/12/2012	Library is our learning center, we get the material for our project, learning, most of all, keep reading with various books. It's even more important than school can provide, sometimes.
3243	7/12/2012	Library services are only somewhat important because they do not have a wide variety of the types of books and resources that I use most frequently (Christian religious books and resources).
3244	7/12/2012	To help further/aid my current education by providing resources for research, etc.
3245	7/12/2012	L:ibrary is a major educational and information resource for the community.
3246	7/12/2012	extremely-- I consider it one of the most valuable, accessible resources to the public -- which includes all age groups & ethnicities
3247	7/12/2012	I do research constantly, much in lieu of an "ordinary" social life. Autonomous access to the finest minds in print is as essential to me as food.

3248	7/12/2012	The library provides an essential resource for public education that not all people are able to maintain otherwise after high school.
3249	7/12/2012	Free access (even though we pay indirectly) to information & services.¶ I think it is important to have public libraries to encourage & sustain higher levels of engagement with the world, democracy, and creativity. (and community, although i do not connect with my neighborhood through the library).¶ I do not like the world I can imagine without public libraries.
3250	7/12/2012	Because I am a library user; I love the library, I love books and information.
3251	7/12/2012	allows people free resources they would not otherwise have available
3252	7/12/2012	I read
3253	7/12/2012	Fundamental to the fabric of a healthy, informed, educated community.
3254	7/12/2012	Libraries hold knowledge, knowledge holds power.
3255	7/12/2012	not a "basic necessity", but libraries are community places, education centers, and a whole variety of things other than just a place to borrow books and media. i love to go in to the St Johns library and see it being used well.
3256	7/12/2012	Well, let's be honest. We need policeman and roads more than we need libraries. However, libraries are a public service that benefits a wide variety of people, not just a small subset of one occasionally marginalized group (like.... bicyclists).
3257	7/12/2012	Education is essential in living, and having access to a library greatly increases the level of education and the opportunities for nontraditional learners. This is one of the most important services of Portland, it's up there with Trimet.
3258	7/12/2012	I find that I use the service a lot and it appears that others do to. Re-using versus purchasing is invaluable in all areas, I feel. So why purchase DVD's and books when they can be used and shared by many!
3259	7/12/2012	Access movies
3260	7/12/2012	Reading IS fundamental to almost every aspect of our lives. Access to current information about our world, country, community, etc. offers everyone the opportunity to make all of the above more livable. Everyone benefits from well-informed citizens, who can in turn encourage better solutions for the challenges we all face.
3261	7/12/2012	The opportunity for education and enrichment which a library card can provide for everyone from lower income families to high school students to the home-bound.
3262	7/12/2012	I don't know what other local public services you want me to compare with. I am a strong believer in public service, the commons, etc. and value the libraries as a source of information and learning for any and all in our community.

3263	7/12/2012	I moved to downtown Portland to have access to cultural services. Part of that is easy and frequent access to the library. Central library has the GREATEST book club going. I believe if some effort was made to identify non-library related services and eliminate them from the library, great savings would be made. This is not an easy task as, like bueraracy [sp], over time, things have been added on and they seem like they belong at the library but they do not.[] [] This is a set up and typical of government thinking. . .the following three options are not the only options available!
3264	7/12/2012	They provide people with knowledge which assists all other programs and reduces their costs.
3265	7/12/2012	Reading is freedom access is essential.
3266	7/12/2012	Nice to have if we can afford to continue paying for services.
3267	7/12/2012	The Multnomah County Library System provides so many wonderful programs to the community -- reading programs for children, resources for conducting research, computer programs for seniors, computer access for job seekers, etc. It is very important for our community to have these resources available to all. I am a college counselor and some families do not own computers and public libraries make it possible for them to do homework. Also, libraries provide a learning culture for your community.[]
3268	7/12/2012	Access to great books you don't necessarily want to purchase.[] But most importantly encourage young minds to read and surround themselves with others who share the same passion.
3269	7/12/2012	I check out books all the time, rather than buying them. I love access to so much material!
3270	7/12/2012	Police, fire, general public safety, and emergency management are #1. Schools next, then libraries.
3271	7/12/2012	Our family uses the libraries frequently (not quite but almost daily), so it's a service more visible than other services. And this system is more excellent than libraries in other states, so we need to maintain that edge. Well, literacy and education are important to the general population and to individuals. More education means better opportunities to obtain work (short version). But there are other more important issues like homelessness, hunger, poverty, violence, lack of health care, domestic violence etc. So, I think the library is important but there are also other important issues at hand.
3272	7/12/2012	VERY important. Until I got an e-reader I was at the library every week or so. I can't afford to buy all of the books I read, and reading is a mainstay of my lifestyle.
3273	7/12/2012	Libraries are a source of education and information that is available to all citizen. This institution is the one place where social and economic boundaries are removed.
3274	7/12/2012	somewhere between very important and somewhat important. In less affluent times and with the disappearance of local book stores the libraries become more important.
3275	7/12/2012

3276	7/12/2012	I think that having access to a public library is an indication of how a city chooses to enrich itself, it's people; the existence of access to information for all brings greater equity to the community and builds on our collective ability to educate ourselves and be effective citizens.
3277	7/12/2012	Literacy is the most important thing in our society. It enables us to make educated decisions.
3278	7/12/2012	The libraries are very important to me because I love to read and listen to music and this is where I can explore different genres in books and music to help expand my world.
3279	7/12/2012	I see libraries as the first in a series of public services. Particularly for kids, I think libraries provide an opportunity to see a world outside of their own, and can help kids become adults who don't necessarily have to rely on other public services. Of course other programs are incredibly important, and if you're just trying to deal with one catastrophe after another, libraries may not seem that important, but I think that a fully funded library system is key to a successful, happy, healthy community.
3280	7/12/2012	This is one of the best library systems in the US - the best I've ever experienced. I'm proud to live in a city with so many people of all ages reading so avidly. I would hate to see that go by the wayside because of funding restrictions and the effects of changing hours of operation.[] [] I wish this question were at the end - I just had to come back to it. Even though you've had to reduce hours of operation PLEASE consider shifting the hours around a little more. Opening your doors a little later and making it so that patrons can come in more weekdays after 5 will make a big difference. Even if it's just until 5:30 or 6, there are a lot of working families and individuals who won't be able to keep using the system if it's just the 2 days...and that's a lot of kids who need new books to read that might not see them if parents are having trouble getting books. They'll get returned easily enough, but new check outs can be fewer and fewer as it's harder to come in for holds after work. :(
3281	7/12/2012	Books are the repository of knowledge. Technology is all well and good, very entertaining, but technology changes so fast that the best archive is on paper. Ask the people in charge of archives at any museum. Ask the archivists at the Oregon Historical Society.[] [] If we are prepared to transfer all files to the latest technological medium every time the medium changes, which seems to be at the speed of light, then books don't matter so much. Who can afford this?
3282	7/12/2012	Libraries are very important because they provide resources to everyone. They promote the spread of knowledge and prevent everyone from having to buy the books they want ready. They also promote a sense of community.
3283	7/12/2012	We utilize the library every week - to check out books and other media.
3284	7/12/2012	I value having free access to books and resources the library offers.

3285	7/12/2012	Lack of support for govt. in general means that all services - even the most basic - are threatened. Libraries, no matter how important they are, cannot make up for a lack of schools for example.
3286	7/12/2012	I use the library regularly but I have internet service at home. When I do buy a book I usually pass it on instead of collecting them. So the library suits me just fine.
3287	7/12/2012	access to information is a human right , a place where people can come together to share information publicly is a human need.
3288	7/12/2012	Reading is important
3289	7/12/2012	Public has the right to access knowledge.
3290	7/12/2012	all the community can come together and support reading/learning and create a culture to support higher literacy for all
3291	7/12/2012	They're important to me, but less so than emergency services.
3292	7/12/2012	Providing access to literacy to everyone is of utmost importance in a poor economy and when misinformation is abundant.
3293	7/12/2012	Very important. People who want to improve themselves can do so thanks to our libraries.
3294	7/12/2012	Information should readily available to all people. Knowledge is power... personally -for usage / utility / relevance; professionally -an option re: research / reference; culturally/socially -a touchstone for man being civilized
3295	7/12/2012	Because the library is for everyone, no one gets turned away. Because it is a source of knowledge, even if you can't afford to buy the book or movie or textbook, you can still learn. Because you can find help at a library. Because everyone is accepted and treated the same at the library, no matter what you look like. Because knowledge is power and you can educate yourself and improve your life.
3296	7/12/2012
3297	7/12/2012	They provide free books, publications, movies, news material for the public.
3298	7/12/2012	I think libraries rank higher than some of other local public services but similar to parks.
3299	7/12/2012	As a disabled person living in poverty, the library allows me access to literature, the arts, culture, travel and music; all of which are fiscally unavailable to me otherwise.
3300	7/12/2012	I'm a teacher and I believe all kids need access to good books.
3301	7/12/2012	Because even though I don't go all the time, I'm glad it's there when I do. I love books and the experience of going to the library. The computers have been very helpful for job searches when my PC crashed. The printers were also helpful for printing shipping labels when my PC crashed.

3302	7/12/2012	Free or minimum payment education that the library offers is essential to a growing community. Children and adults need a friendly, cheap place to learn and grow. Libraries are a great tool for that. It is very important that children have a positive place to go if they are bored. If you take libraries away, that's one less positive influence we have to offer our children.[] Something else I want to mention is that a few years ago I was out of work. I had lost several jobs in one year. I didn't have the internet or a working printer at home. Both tools are essential for job searching. I can honestly say, if there was no library that provided me with these, I may not have gotten the opportunity to be as successful as I am today.
3303	7/12/2012	Lots of people can't afford to buy books or computers--classes for children--encourage love of learning
3304	7/12/2012	When I was younger nothing held as much magic as a trip to the library
3305	7/12/2012	All other fields and activities rely on knowledge! Leave the dark ages in the isles, not on the streets!
3306	7/12/2012	They represent the American ideal, that anyone can pull themselves up by the bootstraps and make it. Libraries provide access to information, education, and resources (e.g. internet access, a quiet place to work and concentrate without having to buy coffee or something) for less privileged people.
3307	7/12/2012	They give me resources to exceed and strive for a better future which at my age is highly needed.
3308	7/12/2012	It's easier to get to even on the weekend, the majority of them are walking distance in different areas of Portland, their all on a busline. Their services are free, people can go in them and not worry about quite a bit of noise. It's easier to find a staff person then anywhere else. They all are wheelchair accessible.
3309	7/12/2012	Moderate
3310	7/12/2012	Basics like police and fire are more important, but libraries are still very important.
3311	7/12/2012	Education and resources for success are vital for our economy and communities.
3312	7/12/2012	Because of the access to the resources provided
3313	7/12/2012	The library provides everyone with valuable resources.
3314	7/12/2012	They are a social force for joining together neighbors, especially those with young children, and they are a resource for accessing books and other information that we couldn't afford to buy on our own.
3315	7/12/2012	I do not use them, but I know other people that find them important.
3316	7/12/2012	I am a life-long learning and avid reader. I also enjoy the variety of CDs and DVDs available for use and the ability to go online daily to check email and stay connected to my community, since I am now retired and cannot afford these luxuries at home. I take online classes and continually learn about my community and the world through the wonders of the internet. In the current economy, the Library is more important than ever to those of us with limited resources.
3317	7/12/2012	Because I read a lot.

3318	7/12/2012	1) Access to books and free knowledge is a basic human right. □ 2) Not everyone can afford to spend money on books. □ 3) Reading is fun!
3319	7/12/2012	I frequently use online library resource materials in my work and having access to such a wide range of materials is a very valuable asset.
3320	7/12/2012	I like to read a lot of books and the library makes that economically possible. I also like to borrow new music and movies.
3321	7/12/2012	I don't know what other programs this is comparing the library to which makes it difficult to answer. If you are talking housing services, food services, mental health, and physical health services well then I'd rank it not too important compared to those things and I believe it is more important to meet people's basic physical and emotional needs. However, if you are comparing it to programs like movies in the park, concerts in the park, parades, festivals, that sort of thing, then I would say it is very important as it gives people of all socio-economic backgrounds access to resources and learning.
3322	7/12/2012	Reading is one of the main ways I learn and connect to the world. I have a low income and can't afford to buy numerous books and newspapers (which have fees for online use as well, by the way). As I grow older, transportation will become more difficult, internet service less affordable. Searching and reading online are not always as productive as being able to browse through actual books, because I see things I would not have thought to look for. Members of my extended family need the library for internet access and a place to do homework. It is the biggest knowledge and education equalizer I know of for people of lower income. A democracy is only as good as the education and access to information of its people. To limit or close public libraries is a direct blow to our democratic system because it denies the ability of low income people to participate.
3323	7/12/2012	Library's are where people go who may not have enough money to buy books for their children, or own a computer to seek work.
3324	7/12/2012	As a parent of a young child, we are living on a limited budget. Access to a wealth of books and media through our local library system enables us to raise not just a reader, but someone with exposure to a diverse array of subjects, formats, etc. We could never afford to purchase all of the books that our son has enjoyed (not to mention that we have) in the last few years.
3325	7/12/2012	The library offers me access to Literature and Media that I can not afford to purchase for my private use.
3326	7/12/2012	Libraries provide access to uncensored information, educational opportunities, promotion of literacy,
3327	7/12/2012	I believe that police should be unnecessary, but since everyone can't behave, police, fire people, libraries; public services are all important because people require different things.
3328	7/12/2012	Most public services are important. I view library services as part of the overall educational services provided to the community and education is an essential part of a prosperous society.

3329	7/12/2012	I am a grad student and use the library for all my research. I also take advantage of the large media selection available, instead of subscribing to online streaming/rental services.
3330	7/12/2012	Even though I don't use the library often, it's still vital for the community.
3331	7/12/2012	heart of the community, provide a variety of services, free people needs free access to information
3332	7/12/2012	Because access to internet has become essential for maintaining competitive in the job market. Access to materials like auto manuals are very helpful for people needing to maintain their own vehicles. Access to the librry for all raises the standard of living in the city I live in.
3333	7/12/2012	Libraries are some of the most beneficial things a community can provide. Knowledge and resources—and convenient, free access to those things—are paramount when it comes to a community's requirements.
3334	7/12/2012	I use the library all the time! I'm glad the police and fire fighters are there, too. Can't say their importance, but hopefully I'll never need the police and fire!!
3335	7/12/2012	I can't afford to buy books plus I don't need to have a stack growing at home. Also, I can check out books that I'm not sure about but look like they might be interesting without "gambling" and buying a dud. I also like that I can have books delivered to my community library. I talk about it often.
3337	7/12/2012	I like to find information using books and have an extremely large selection with the mult colb system.
3338	7/12/2012	The library is important to me not just because of the services and media materials provided, but because it is a place for community gathering. I also appreciate that the services provided by the library are available to everyone in the community.
3339	7/12/2012	Reading and access to information is essential to creating strong communities.
3340	7/12/2012	They add to quality of life beyond basic needs.
3341	7/12/2012	The libraries provide a place for safe, equal access for people to educate themselves and connect with the community.
3342	7/12/2012	I use the library often! I wouldn't have access to many books if I had to buy them. I am okay, however, with the library being open more limited hours.
3343	7/12/2012	I buy most of my books.
3344	7/12/2012	Vital information and educational resources are available to everyone at public libraries.
3345	7/12/2012	i feel knowledge and access to it make communities stronger...and on a personal level...i love to read
3346	7/12/2012	Without well operated libraries with a great variety of services, a city - community is dead.
3347	7/12/2012	It is a great resource to have for all ages.

3348	7/12/2012	I much prefer to borrow materials than to own them- I do not have the financial resources or space for the number of books that I would like to read. Beyond that, the library serves as a community resource and meeting space (both formal and informal) for all of the members of my family..
3349	7/12/2012	I think education is very important and I know that many people can't afford to buy books or buy a computer. The libraries offer these services. I can afford these, but still love the fact I can check out materials and not waste money on something I will read once or watch once. I feel schools and libraries are extremely important to keep up literacy rates. It is sad that we are lacking and have fallen behind other countries with education, graduation rates etc..but a strong library is a good foundation.
3350	7/12/2012	Helps me as a professional actor, low income resident, and perpetual student of the world. This is one of the few services that has ineffable importance to a thriving society.
3351	7/12/2012	Libraries are very cool in so many ways. They help young people get into reading and other healthy hobbies (staying out of trouble). They keep children entertained. They are environmentally friendly (sharing books, music, movies, etc rather than buying them for one use then leaving them to clutter up one's house). They give access to culture (through the aforementioned means, as well as through computer/Internet access) to people who might not be able to afford it (and make it easier even for people who can). They provide so many resources for such a variety of people. I could ramble on all day.
3352	7/12/2012	It opens up a world of learning and exploration for my kids...my daughter will read as many books as I'll feed her. The library provides that ongoing/endless supply.
3353	7/12/2012	Libraries offer a place for people to come together to share and gain knowledge. Libraries offer a safe place to better one's understanding of things without fear of persecution. Libraries offer a platform from which to share cultural identity through books and other media which may otherwise be inaccessible because of financial and legal restrictions.
3354	7/12/2012	Literacy is the most critical skill for society. Free access to information resources for all people, regardless of age or income is an invaluable public resource.
3355	7/12/2012	Books are too expensive to purchase. They're so much better than tv. I don't use public transportation and can't think of any other public service.
3356	7/12/2012	Libraries are where ideas are born. A good library fosters culture and education in my community. A thriving library provides resources to everyone, regardless of their income or status. Libraries are essential to a civil society. It's where you can learn about other lands and people. Libraries are so important to our nation's growth and health. They rock!
3357	7/12/2012	Internet provides much info that previously was pretty much available in libraries. Unfortunately, the computer age seems to be taking over. It will be very sad if one is no longer able to check out a good book----whether for research or just reading enjoyment.

3358	7/12/2012	Well, I value social justice and human services programs first and foremost when thinking about public dollars and where they should be spent. In terms of library services, I think those are important too, but not critical to the functioning of MultCo residents.
3359	7/12/2012	I read a lot! It's too expensive to buy books and I love that I can now check them out occasionally to my Nook. (I won my Nook through a library drawing a few summers back--thank you!)
3360	7/12/2012	I think things like health care, shelters and soup kitchens are more important than the library - although I may not use them - however, I do utilize the services the library provides and they are very important to me.
3361	7/12/2012	a public institution that provides non-commercial access to information, education, culture and entertainment. It is really part of civilization.
3362	7/12/2012	My wife & daughter make extensive use of our local libraries, both for programs and checking out books/media.
3363	7/12/2012	I like to have access to books and other media without the need to buy and own them. I also appreciate the access to internet and computers for when my own computer or internet are unavailable.
3364	7/12/2012	Libraries are fundamental for access to learning for those unable to get learning aid elsewhere.
3365	7/12/2012	The library provides access to avenues of learning that would be otherwise too expensive for my children.
3366	7/12/2012	Libraries hold the community together. They bring opportunity to those who otherwise would not have it. Libraries promote literacy and education which are extremely important for the future of our country.
3367	7/12/2012	Libraries foster a love of reading in young children, provide access to internet for those who cannot otherwise afford it, give students study space and help with their homework, and just generally assert the importance of books and literacy.
3368	7/12/2012	Knowledge is power.
3369	7/12/2012	Our libraries benefit everyone, promote reading and education, improving minds.
3370	7/12/2012	I check out a lot of books and I often stop on my way home when the library is open late to see what's new. I hope to buy a Kindle in the future and be able to download books.
3371	7/12/2012	Only public safety (excluding prosecution of victimless crime) and transport are of higher import.
3372	7/12/2012	Libraries serve many purposes in our community and are available to everyone. I lived in the library growing up and still read avidly. Libraries are also visible and non-threatening to most people. Most librarians are very helpful and welcoming.
3373	7/12/2012	I believe that fully functioning libraries are of central importance to any civilization.
3374	7/12/2012	People need to spend more time at the library less time at the video centers.
3375	7/12/2012	Essential to public life! We love our libraries and are very proud to live in a place with such a good library system. Quick access to millions of books and other publications. Awesome collection.
3376	7/12/2012	As.a.former.librarian,books.are.always.important.

3377	7/12/2012	I personally don't use many of the public services that the library has to offer. But I know those who do, and they would say that they are VERY important.
3378	7/12/2012	What "other local public services" are you comparing to? Emergency services - fire, police, ambulance? Street repair or street lighting? Bus service? What? This question was ambiguous.
3379	7/12/2012	Access to materials and opportunities-- such as internet and job seeking assistance for those who may not normally be able to use such resources.
3380	7/12/2012	Because libraries, their books, media and staff feed my intellectual curiosity. I want everyone to hold open that door to creativity so we can't become robots.
3381	7/12/2012	I've gone to the library to get books on subjects I need to learn. I found a great job due in part to the materials I've checked out from the library.
3382	7/12/2012	I read, I think I write and study
3383	7/12/2012	The only thing more important are emergency services.
3384	7/12/2012	I truly believe knowledge is power, and that the library serves an important function in that regard.
3385	7/12/2012	Public safety comes first, but then an educated populace is the next most important goal.
3386	7/12/2012	I am a teacher, and could not do my job as well were it not for the resources I obtain via the library for both myself and my students. Additionally, and of equal importance, is my need to borrow books for personal use. I cannot afford to buy everything I want to read. I feel like my personal and professional relationships to the library are very important in my life.
3387	7/12/2012	The library is an essential resource for information and entertainment for my family, and has been my whole life. We can't afford internet access at home, so we use the library computers often, for job-seeking and other pursuits. Every week we check out books, DVDs, and CDs that inform us and enrich our lives, which we could not afford to buy if not offered for free at the library.
3388	7/12/2012	Libraries provide reading and research materials as well as resources (trained librarians) for everyone, regardless of income.
3389	7/11/2012	Because education is important (stupid kids make stupid teachers make stupid kids make) and library facilities offer an opportunity to self-improve, even as a hobby, free and independent from the institutionalized school system, whose quality may vary on neighborhood.
3390	7/11/2012	Access to free books for myself and my children is very important to me.
3391	7/11/2012	They are a level of importance as they provide a resource for entertainment and learning that I can't get anywhere else. Especially as my age.
3392	7/11/2012	because i use the library on a regular basis- free access to learning and education for those who may not be able to access classes/schooling due to income constraints
3393	7/11/2012	they are very important, but not as important as basic needs such as water, schools, electricity etc...
3394	7/11/2012	One of the few places I pay tax for that I think gives something back. Also, children need to have libraries. It doesn't mean, however, that I will keep paying and paying.
3395	7/11/2012	They are one of the few public services I use.
3396	7/11/2012	Everyone should have free and easy access to information.

3397	7/11/2012	avenue to information, knowledge, escape, entertainment
3398	7/11/2012	Having the resources that libraries provide is invaluable. They cross all cultural, economic boundaries.[] Growing up in a poor family the only children's books I had were from the library. Even though I don't use it as often as an adult I still value the importance.
3401	7/11/2012	I use them frequently as do many others in the community. The library is not just a place to check out books but also strengthens community (unlike our roads which I also use daily).
3402	7/11/2012	They are fundamental, offering benefits to all ages and backgrounds. I have very fond memories of long hours spent in the local library, especially during the summer school vacation, but all through my learning years.
3403	7/11/2012	In addition to providing reading materials, I enhance my knowledge on a number of subjects, which I believe makes me a better informed citizen.
3404	7/11/2012	They give people who are low income or have lost jobs access to books and resources for them and their families. Libraries encourage literacy for young children and non-native English speakers.
3405	7/11/2012	Having access to books is power. All communities need to facilitate learning and knowledge for their citizens.
3406	7/11/2012	The library has been there for me to use for my entire life. When I was a student, it was there for my research. Now I know I can request almost any book that interests me, including best sellers. As a volunteer at a nursing home, I check out books and movies to take to the nursing home for the residents to enjoy.
3407	7/11/2012	job creation is more important
3408	7/11/2012	It is the poor person's information connection. If you can't afford to purchase books or other media and if you can not afford internet access, you can not be an informed citizen and fully participate in society without library access.
3409	7/11/2012	I think you learn more from books and teachers (and parents) than anything else.[] i think the library is inportent for school work and for good stories and i think it is helpful for people that dont have much mony and cant get their own books. I also think with tecnology becoming what it is books are becoming more and more inportant for children.
3410	7/11/2012	The library provides important services to me while I have limited financial opportunity. I am able to check out books while going to school which saves me much worry.
3411	7/11/2012	Because kids need somewhere to go, that is safe and will be good for them in the long run.

3412	7/11/2012	Because I believe a well read community is much less dangerous and far more fun than a community that does not have access to these resources.
3413	7/11/2012	Very important especially for my young children
3414	7/11/2012	They offer a quiet place of learning and personal reflection. Librarians tend to be amazing resources when it comes to searching for new topics of interest and are generally helpful. Access to free information is integral for an intelligent society and can promote self learning and discovery.
3415	7/11/2012	Libraries are very important to me, but public libraries are not common in many other countries that have higher standards of living than this one. I selected somewhat important because life-saving emergency services such as EMS and fire department I consider to be the most important local public services.
3416	7/11/2012	Our library is the best in thr country! It is very difficult to reinstate services once thr services are cut. Many people in the neighborhood walk to the local library
3417	7/11/2012	Going to the library is a nice place to hide by getting lost in reading and it can be wonderful entertainment.
3418	7/11/2012	An educated and engaged populace makes better citizens. The more we know, the more we can improve our own communities.
3419	7/11/2012	I feel the ability for equal access to books is really important.
3420	7/11/2012	It is a stress reliever for me. I need a good book to slow me down. The cost of books today makes buying them less realistic.
3421	7/11/2012	it is important to provide free access to information and literature to the public
3422	7/11/2012	Having libraries and library programs (such as story hour, and special events geared toward kids) was incredibly important to me as a child. I would not have become who I am without them.
3423	7/11/2012	I depend on the library for my entertainment and educational materials which I otherwise could not afford.
3424	7/11/2012	I couldn't decide as to whether they are very important or somewhat important. If I need to eat, food services are more important to me than books. The same for medical needs. If someone breaks into my house or my house catches fire, I want police and firefighters to be right there. But... after the most basic public needs are taken care of, for me and my family, being able to have the resources the library provides, is crucial to our well being. My quality of life would deteriorate dramatically if I weren't able to use the library's resources. I am retired and on a fixed income and I really can't afford to buy a lot of books or films but having the library to provide them for me allows me real mental stimulation and satisfaction. I feel the library is as important as our parks are to us!

3425	7/11/2012	After public sanitation (in which I include sewer and water service) power, and public transit, all of which are simply essential for the existence of large urban areas, public libraries and parks are the services which add most to the quality of life and are most accessible to residents who have little in the way of disposable income. I believe that a person cannot honestly claim to support the American ideal of the rights to liberty and the pursuit of happiness without supporting equal access for all persons to libraries and parks: to do otherwise is to behave as though only those people with enough wealth to buy art or literature deserve to appreciate it, or that only those who are able to buy counsel deserve knowledge of or protection through the law, or that physical recreation should be reserved only for those with the money to pay fees for private clubs.
3426	7/11/2012	libraries are essential for our community. It gives our children the opportunity to learn & read.
3427	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to information and reading material, without regard to income, race, sex, age, etc. An educated population makes for better decisions and a better future for all.
3428	7/11/2012	I would rank police and fire the highest. Also, I think libraries are declining in usefulness. I have library cards for other systems and can access many of thier services remotely. In fact, it really doesn't matter where I download an e-book form.
3429	7/11/2012	Libraries provide many learning opportunities for the community, such as the story times, language development, and study help for kids who might not get it else where. They continually reinforce the importance of literacy in not only the youth, but adults who may not have had a chance to learn. Public libraries also aid people in personal and economic development, through their educational programs and the ability to access the internet to help people find work and other business tools.
3430	7/11/2012	Our family reads and want other family's to have a facility to encourage reading/learning. Story hours and access to books for children was valuable for us and would like to see it continue for my grandchildren.
3431	7/11/2012	Library provides important service of education to the community
3432	7/11/2012	Reading is one of the most important things in life and teaching our children to use the library as a resource. I love that I can get the books that interest me without buying them. I love the library system because those who live in poverty can easily access computers, books and other help that they wouldn't have other wise. The library system is for everyone not just for one particular segment of our society - it brings everyone together in love of reading and gaining knowledge.
3433	7/11/2012	I love books!
3434	7/11/2012	The library provides 90% of our entertainment (books, movies, music, magazines) and at least 50% of our research as citizens and professionals (online databases, books, etc.). Without the library, my husband and I would have to spend tons of money to buy books and entertainment, and we'd be completely cut off from research materials--because what individual has the money to subscribe to a database? PLUS...all of the materials from the library are reliable resources, not cluttered websites full of advertisements.
3435	7/11/2012	Nice but not necessary

3436	7/11/2012	Access to literature is very important to me and I love reading. As a social worker I am on a limited budget and would not be able to afford purchasing books at the rate I read them. I also enjoy getting to check out a cookbook or CD before I buy to see if I like it. I also believe that a library is a direct path to education, and feel that education can solve many of our bigger picture issues in this world. Finally, I work with individuals who are homeless and know what a valuable resource our libraries are to them, both as a safe refuge from the winter weather as well as a place to access free books, media, and internet.
3437	7/11/2012	Because there is no expense to checking out a book to read. Whereas the same book to buy it i the store is at least $6.
3438	7/11/2012	Books and reading lead to library visits. However, I have my own collection of books to draw upon, as well.
3439	7/11/2012	I feel thT those who are most in need of help to seek employment, learn reading, use public computers and check out materials regarding training, prep for college or associated admissions tests, and those who need aid with basic English skills are those who are likely to have the smallest level of resources and desperately need the services the libraries provide.
3440	7/11/2012	Because it is one of the few services that returns and adds value to the community and me.
3441	7/11/2012	Because I love books and they are really important to the community, (for early literacy, etc.).
3442	7/11/2012	access to information and the enjoyment of reading is of the highest importance.
3443	7/11/2012	Other than critical or safety related services, I use the library services the most.
3444	7/11/2012	I use the library so frequently that I value it a lot.
3445	7/11/2012	I work in the media and have access to a lot of materials but think libraries are important to children, seniors, low income people
3446	7/11/2012	They allow for accessibility to continuing education
3447	7/11/2012	The library is the only place offering education related resources and affordable entertainment for families of all ages.
3448	7/11/2012	I have a life long love affair with reading and the fact that you can get Hollywood's latest movies on DVD for free. There isn't a single thing that I dislike about libraries. I love them!
3449	7/11/2012	1) Fire Fighters[] 2) Street/Infrastructure Maintainance[] 3) Education [] 4) Police
3450	7/11/2012	Because it's the one public service that I always use, and I think most people use it, over the other public services. How did we pass a bond measure that doesn't fully fund the library?
3451	7/11/2012	Without libraries nd the information they contain, we would not have the knowledge to support the other services

3452	7/11/2012	first 1,000 days of life critical developmentally. if babies/children aren't read to, they will start school behind and then will never catch up making all the other services less important as they will be on a pathway leading to less likelihood of reading by 3rd grade, school success, and later job success. increase and do not cut programs for early literacy!
3453	7/11/2012	libraries provide learning, understanding, harmony, community building, computer access, discussion space and so many of the building blocks of civilization. providing libraries to communities keeps people busy and out of trouble.
3454	7/11/2012	immediate personal and societal and economical needs
3455	7/11/2012	library is part of public services and should be one that duplicates existing services elsewhere
3456	7/11/2012	i use them as often or more than most services.
3457	7/11/2012	Because we value lifelong learning.
3458	7/11/2012	Because an educated populace is valuable.
3459	7/11/2012	For the reasons outlined above. We are retired, living on a somewhat limited income. Apart from our children and grandchildren, the library is one of our most dependable sources of pleasure and relaxation.
3460	7/11/2012	We rely on the library for reading, entertainment, and classes. Having the library nearby, with great classes for children helped my daughter learn to read.
3461	7/11/2012	Because I pay my taxes, and I'd like the library to have a vast collection of literature and media available or reasonably available to me as I need it. I think it's important to have access to books, film, music, and ways to get copies of older publications (magazines, newspapers, even just in electronic format). These services preserve our history and will inspire our future. Classes and programs are nice, but I view those things as secondary.
3462	7/11/2012	Libraries are important because they give everyone an opportunity to read, learn, etc. I imagine they give some people a safe place to go for a few hours. □ Ranking the importance of libraries depends on the other public services you are comparing them to. □ I am currently unemployed so I count on the library for affordable entertainment as well as research,.
3463	7/11/2012	The library is my source for literature.
3464	7/11/2012	Information is fundamental!
3465	7/11/2012	property taxes are so high it is absolutely necessary to make use of the Library to the max in order to not lose money or the property taxes paid out

3466	7/11/2012	I LOVE the library and have been happily using it most of my life. As a mother of 2 toddlers getting library cards for my kids when they were weeks old instilled for us, a love of reading books. That love of books will open their minds to many possibilities and instill a sense of curiosity beyond anything they will get from watching TV. One of the most important things you can do for a child is to read to them. Just think if we did not have access to books. What would be the long term result? It makes me sad to think.
3467	7/11/2012	When we bought our house, we wanted to be close to a library branch. It was key in a huge life-decision making way. Literacy for our new baby is also a very big deal to us, and the library is beloved and has helped us get off to a flying start. Our one year old is obsessed with books, and without the songs and tips the Book Babies groups offered us, we would not know how to keep our baby calm in a car or even when he's upset. Book Babies has been invaluable to me as a new mom, more than pretty much anything else. It allows me very special time with my baby that clearly makes him happy. If we stay home all day together, he gets pretty bored, but on Book Babies days, he is actually calmer and happier all day. ☐ ☐ Personally, I love books, learning, freedom, and access to information for all. Also, I love to learn about new and different music, crafts, languages, films and other new things. The library allows me to continue learning and growing as a person. This is an incredible opportunity.
3468	7/11/2012	They provide services to people who may not be able to afford things like computers, new books, community college classes, etc. They bring the community together, there is always a diverse group of people using the library. I grew up in Portland and my fondest childhood memory is walking to the old Hollywood branch with my mom so we could pick out summer reading material. I always entered the competition to see how many books I could read during summer break.
3469	7/11/2012	Source of information, entertainment. Encourages reading without having to spend a lot of money on books. Great family activity.
3470	7/11/2012	Because anyone can utilize the services!!!!
3471	7/11/2012	Two adults and 2 children in our family use the library all the time. Having an open library provides a good place for kids to go. So important with the current economy and the shrinking of the middle class. The library is as basic a public service to me as any of the others. Public library systems must be saved.
3472	7/11/2012	there are other services that are provided through private sources
3473	7/11/2012	Not to me but to others who don't have computer access and to people who need books!
3474	7/11/2012	It's a cost to benefit ratio. What am I paying for via my property taxes? The libraries do not provide a decent service - if I borrow a book, I have to renew it so frequently that it hardly is worth the effort. In addition, if I want to find a particular book at my branch I can pretty much count on it not being there and would require me to have it shipped in from some other library.

3475	7/11/2012	I and most people who are low income need these resources. Rich people buy the books but the ones who need a better education need the resource.
3477	7/11/2012	Libraries serve in material ways (e.g., providing literature, reference materials, skills of librarians, computer access, etc.), but are also representative of the cultural and intellectual content of the community. Closing a library sends a message as much as closing a firehouse, and the message is that the mind is not important. We can't afford to nickle & dime the libraries away, when the intellectual capital of our citizenry is what will fuel our future commerce.
3478	7/11/2012	We always have library books in the house. We save lots of money because we don't have to buy many books, movies, etc. □ We also enjoy the friendly people at the library. When my daughter was younger she loved storytime. She still stops and talks to Joan when she is in the library.
3479	7/11/2012	Because libraries are the rare institution that offers resources and education to everyone, regardless of socioeconomic background. They are a pillar of actual democracy in a society where ideals of equality exist more in hyperbole than in fact.
3480	7/11/2012	They are not integral to the way the city operates (IE Fire Dept, Police etc), but a good resource for the public.
3481	7/11/2012	Access to library materials promote freedom of speech, better education for adults and minors and promote the foundations of democracy.
3482	7/11/2012	Access to free knowledge is a civic duty. I know some people who don't have Internet/computers in their home. The library is the ONLY place thy can go to stay connected and find community resources.
3483	7/11/2012	i read alot
3484	7/11/2012	Because I use the library regularly. I especially appreciate that I can order a book from any library and have it delivered to the library closest to me. I wouldn't check out books nearly as often if this weren't the case.
3485	7/11/2012	The local library is my major source for media.
3486	7/11/2012	They are very important to me but fall behind the bridges and streets
3487	7/11/2012	Police, fire, and other safety matters come first, micro managing my life comes last. Library's are near the upper end of the middle.
3488	7/11/2012	Besides buses, it is the public service I use the most. As someone for whom books, films and other media are essential, I consider the library to be essential too. It is the only service comprehensive and cheap enough to sustain a healthy and affordable reading habit. It is one of the only sources of entertainment and information that everyone can freely access.

3489	7/11/2012	Libraries ensure FREE access to knowledge for EVERYONE
3490	7/11/2012	Libraries are a central meeting place for everyone in the community. It's where I go to orient myself to a new city, make new connections, peruse the latest magazines, get tax forms and check out books.
3491	7/11/2012	One must have access to information. Free information.
3492	7/11/2012	Libraries embody our freedom to learn at our own pace and in our own directions. Take that away, and we become either cookie cutter academics or fall by the wayside as a society.
3493	7/11/2012	Even tho Terwilliger Plaza has a small library, I look forward to the third Tuesday of the month when Jere and his group come here and bring me any book I ask for - it is a wonderful service for the elderly. Thank you so much. I had heard that Portland was a great place for senior citizens, and since I moved here three years ago, I have found this to be true. This library service is greatly appreciated by those of us who are readers.
3494	7/11/2012	As I explained in the earlier question - they are wonderful resources for all ages. My children love them and need them. My son (11 year old) lives for the day we go to the library (about once or twice a week) so he can get his next book. He loves reading and devours books. We couldn't afford to buy all the books he wants to read. If we didn't have libraries, he wouldn't read nearly as much. My daughter (age 4) loves books as well. She runs into the library eager to see what's new and pick out books for me to read to her. And seeing her brother read so much, helps her want to read also. I don't know what we'd do w/o our libraries.
3495	7/11/2012	look at the schools
3496	7/11/2012	Being on a very limited income, the books and services are very important
3497	7/11/2012	I am thakful for the library system that we have, but would much rather have necessary services like police, firefighters, paramedics, and emergency response systems available. That said, having a good library is more important to me than free concerts or art exhibits in parks, etc.
3499	7/11/2012	I like to have a library within walking distance, be able to check out books, the children's program are very important in that they teach them to like to read at an early age. It is also very nice to have community interaction with the library on all other services and programs they offer.
3500	7/11/2012	Reading is vital to our happiness and for our childrens' development.
3501	7/11/2012	Provide a source of information to all member of the community.
3502	7/11/2012	literacy

3503	7/11/2012	I use the library a lot for checking out books so I don't have to buy them. This question is tough - it would help to have a list of other services as we might not think of them on our own.
3504	7/11/2012	Neither my grand daughter or I have cable TV due to financial difficulties. Being able to receive DVD's at no charge is our only entertainment. Also, when she was job seeking, the library was filled with reading materials re: writing resumes, etc. Until I was able to have my computer hooked to the Internet, I used the library's at least once a week.
3505	7/11/2012	To me, libraries are as important as schools, fire departments and postal offices. They are a quintessential element of civilization, offering educational tools and access to knowledge for all members of the society regardless of their economic status. They provide a refuge for so many people in the community and are an invaluable resource to all of us. Whether you are checking out a book about the civil right movement or model airplanes, listening to a CD of Romanian folk music, writing your resume or taking your 2 year old to story time, there is no other space that provides so many tools for learning that is also free to the public. Libraries are truly a magical place, an enlightened place, and I cannot possibly over emphasize their the overall good the provide our community.
3506	7/11/2012	I never reread any books and I don't want them cluttering my room, so the library is important to me because it gives me the opportunity to read books and then just return them when I am finished.
3507	7/11/2012	The libraries provide a great wealth of information, programs and services to anyone who is interested.
3508	7/11/2012	Right now, our tax dollars are needed for police, fire, roads, bridges, etc. We have limited funds and need to pay for what is the most necessary.
3509	7/11/2012	I'm not sure what other local public services you are referring to but I use the library several times a week.
3510	7/11/2012	I use the library system more than any other public service.
3511	7/11/2012	The library is crucial for the cultural and educational health of a society. This is on par with (does not exceed) the need for basic plumbing, (public) health services, transportation services, electricity, and to an increasing extent in today's society, access to information such as the Internet.
3512	7/11/2012	Because we go the library multiple times a week to check out books and use services like Book Babies. I feel having a good library is key to make our kids and our community educated and competitive with other areas of the country.
3513	7/11/2012	It is a service I use, promotes education, and is important for kids

3514	7/11/2012	I love to read, I'm a movie buff and the Mult Co. library system has a GREAT collection of foreign films on DVD. I cannot ever see as many movies on my limited budget, unless I borrow them from the library. I often tell others about the amazingly diverse collection of DVD's that we have access to here (in many languages, current & vintage). [] And I'm self-employed- part-time (tho, not by choice) & the library is an essential resource for me. In fact, I'm sitting at a computer in a library at this very moment! [] The resources provided by our County libraries touch all aspects of my life- work, recreation, social, and family. [I also have (at least) five other well-used library cards, including Shoen library (at Marylhurst Univ.), PCC, Concordia, Wash County & Clackamas County.]
3515	7/11/2012	With so many other service taken away, the library is one place that everyone can use. Children after school, Mothers and babies during the early hours and seniors throughout the day.
3516	7/11/2012	Because they serve the community and further the sense of community, whether it is the children, the seniors, the students, etc. The library is the heart of the community and important for much self-directed education and resources, especially for those with little funds. I love to read and books are so expensive now--plus it is more sustainable to keep re-circulating books. I donate my used ones all the time to the library.
3517	7/11/2012	Because of the spectrum of individuals that they serve is wider than many other public services.
3518	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power. [] Literacy is critical to democracy, personal success, and having an informed public.[] Libraries serve EVERYONE--ALL THE TIME.
3519	7/11/2012	" Because it's a place where you can go and research for information", an excellent place for our children to learn more about reading and researching along with their parents on special projects. And don't forget checking out material for personal use, especially for people like me who do not buy a lot of books. I can also read out-of-town newspapers and magazines. I've lived in two large metropolitan cities back east, but Portland Oregon library's are the best.
3520	7/11/2012	Reading is very important to me and society, but there are other services that are even more important to society, such as safe roads, good schools, police, fire and courts.
3521	7/11/2012	Libraries serve all people. People have access to education through library books, use of computers, other resources. There are programs for children that are important. The most important is that there is equal access to all.
3522	7/11/2012	Because I depend on the library for books, DVDs, and other materials. Without the library, given my current economic situation, I'd have little access to those materials.
3523	7/11/2012	Free access to books, learning and information are of central importance to our society. These are basic, human rights.
3524	7/11/2012	They have the potential to serve the entire community whereas other public services may be useful to only a segment of our population.
3525	7/11/2012	books are expensive to buy

3526	7/11/2012	I do a lot of reading and can't afford to buy books.
3527	7/11/2012	Supporting my own love of reading, building literacy in my family, connection to community.
3528	7/11/2012	reading and public information like books, reference materials etc are very important to me because I feel that everyone should has access to those resources. It's intrinsic and fundamental to the health of civic society and democracy that the public - everyone can read and have access to information. literature, information reference, research materials, entertainment magazines, dvd's etc all are contributors to the quality of life as well. having it available to everyone improves our lives, individually and to the whole.
3529	7/11/2012	Libraries are used for helping the public borrow material to enhance their knowledge. I have visited the library from a very young age and it's been so resourceful and helpful. If I need help on homework or research, I can use the library's computer, or search for books at the library relating to the topic. Also, I go to the library to enjoy reading. There are many book-lovers everywhere. Not everyone is able to buy their own copies of books. A library fixes the problem. That's why it's important to have local library services.
3530	7/11/2012	It's a social outing and educational. My children would not be able to read as much as they do without the library as we can not afford to buy all the books they want to read.
3531	7/11/2012	libraries offer free access to information
3532	7/11/2012	Not familiar with functions of local public services enough to make decisions. Fire Police Libraries & Schools Administration of city
3533	7/11/2012
3534	7/11/2012	they are a shared public space dedicated to fostering self-education, entertainment and other resources etc.
3535	7/11/2012	A healthy library system is a sign of a healthy and thriving community. Important for community discourse, feeling connected to your neighbors, being a meeting place. Without libraries we are nothing.
3536	7/11/2012	Libraries offer a place to gain knowledge, check out books, do reseach ad stretch our boundaries. I know that for me persinaslly, I am a senior citizen with limited income, it provides reading material for free. I could not injoy this on my limited iincome without it.
3537	7/11/2012	I use them quite a bit. I do not buy books or other media and am willing to wait my turn to get the book I want.
3538	7/11/2012	They are just as important of an asset to a community as the post office, banks, and government offices. It's vital for infrastructure.
3539	7/11/2012	Because I really like to read and like having access to the specific books that I want to read, and also sometimes need the library to print things for work or money or bills or whatever.

3540	7/11/2012	If they're being ranked with police, fire and public transportation (can't do without), they come below that.[] [] But libraries are about growing our minds, not protecting our safety. They represent part of the "health" of a community I believe libraries are still important to have.
3541	7/11/2012	Libraries=democracy
3542	7/11/2012	Don't use them very often.
3543	7/11/2012	I have a computer and get my "research" online.[] I buy or borrow books from friends. BUT I know they are invaluable to many people!
3544	7/11/2012	I see how important the library is to not only myself, but others. It is a service to all people no matter income level or age.
3545	7/11/2012	free and easy access to culture, literacy and information for everybody close to everybody is just necessary in our society. it should not even be subject to discussion.
3546	7/11/2012	Knowlege is power; and free knowledge is a power for everyone! Especially in these tough economic times, libraries help keep us educated and well-informed (so we might know more completed know why we are in such economic times...and do something smart about it...). Computer access is also important, especially for people who are out of work and can't afford internet. I am also a regular user of the periodical section, where I get some of my news (I also practice my foreign language reading using the non-English newspapers -- Spanish and French). Without public library services, either my mind or my wallet would wither--I prefer having a full mind and a full wallet.
3547	7/11/2012	Libraries provide so much at no charge and people tend to take library services for granted, thinking that it will always be available.
3548	7/11/2012	We rely on the library system for home schooling resources, entertainment and personal enrichment.
3549	7/11/2012	They are an integral part of developing my children's mind and the offer various resources to building a well-rounded and diverse individual.
3550	7/11/2012	It's a great way to learn, entertain myself with books for FREE, and establish a community meeting place. I think it sends a great message to kids that books are important as opposed to sitting in front of a TV.
3551	7/11/2012	They provide access to information for all, regardless of income or personal resources.
3552	7/11/2012	I am CONSTANTLY checking things out from the library, especially language materials and music. I am also very concerned about the welfare of others who benefit from the library, be it seniors, children, etc.
3553	7/11/2012	Reading continues to allow self education, open the world and people's visions.
3554	7/11/2012	I use many library services, including Library2Go and Freegal. I am in to pick up books every week.

3555	7/11/2012	Not sure what other local public services...
3556	7/11/2012	Quality of life
3557	7/11/2012	because the access to books, publications and computer access is highly important for everyone and the library provides this regardless of income bracket or age demographic.
3558	7/11/2012	being able to educate and entertain oneself is mandatory! if you have nothing else, you can at least apply imagination!
3559	7/11/2012	I love the library and would rank it "very important" on most days but in this funding crisis the library cannot be more important than my childrens' schooling, fire and police. Having said that, the Multnomah County Library system provides a great support for our community serving needs of citizens of all ages. Without the library, other public services will struggle even more to serve the community.
3560	7/11/2012	Not everybody uses local public services, but everybody can use the library.
3561	7/11/2012	Books are great !
3562	7/11/2012	Multnomah County Library system and its high circulation and great services is one of the things which makes Portland attractive and livable.
3563	7/11/2012	I enjoy reading. I belong to a book club and being able to borrow instead of purchase a book is a big help.
3564	7/11/2012	Obviously, the lack of adequate police, fire and emergency services can often be immediately life threatening whereas the underfunding of a cultural/educational resource is only noticed after the harmful effects of any cut backs erode the quality of cultural life in the community. The later is a slower process, but it can be an equally harmful one.
3565	7/11/2012	I'm a voracious reader.
3566	7/11/2012	Not critical to public safety and welfare, but of higher importance than merely "nice-to-have" amenities
3567	7/11/2012	For me its continuing education. I could not afford to read all that I do if I had to find and purchase all the books that I currently read myself. [] If the economy continues to worsen the library may end up being the only source of educational materials for many.
3568	7/11/2012	I use the library regularly and so do practically everyone I know. The library is an excellent resource for people that don't have access to basic things like computers or just a place to go.

3569	7/11/2012	This new issue of decreasing libraries hours of availability and access will just prove the priorities of the state is not for educating it's constituents through Governor Kitzhaber's education agenda "40-40-20 plan" at all. Personally, if the 40-40-20 plan has any chance of succeeding in these coming years then the governor needs to encourage Salem Legislators to look elsewhere for budget cuts and support the libraries. How else will students get to higher education and beyond if their community resources for education as the library is being threatened every fiscal budgeting season. Plain and simple, libraries is the lifeblood for educating the public and a convenient way to ensure all people have access to new information, technology and full pursuit of opportunities the United States and the great state of Oregon has to offer.
3570	7/11/2012	I do use the Multnomah County Library on a regular basis. To me the libraries come in third in importance to police/fire protection and water/sewer service.
3571	7/11/2012	Obviously, emergency services take precedence. Beyond that, however, the library is one of the best sources for supplementary education and continuing education. Its great benefit is that it is free and caters to all ages. If education is valued by our society, and if education is a major factor in determining success, then it makes sense to support the library in the same way one would support schools.
3572	7/11/2012	The library is an extremely important resource in my life. I absolutely love books and yet I have very little money to buy them. I check out books for the kids I babysit, my stepson, and myself constantly. When I took a class this last semester I was completely reliant on the library for the books that were required reading in my class. I think our libraries are unique and excellent and I would like them to stay that way.
3573	7/11/2012	Libraries are absolutely necessary for a civilized community.
3574	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to materials and resources that not everyone has available in their own home.
3575	7/11/2012	We don't have enough money, we can borrow books, DVDs, and CDs for free. <input type="checkbox"/> It is very important for my family.
3576	7/11/2012	The local library is the ony resource available as to obtain literature, computer recources and other media (dvd's,cd's,etc)
3577	7/11/2012	I am a student. For me the library is indispensable. For the hungry, homeless, poverty stricken, ailing and disabled out there, there are hundreds of other things they need BEFORE books.
3578	7/11/2012	It is important to have a place to congregate and gain access to community resources.
3579	7/11/2012	I think having access to all the available resources at the libraries is of the utmost importance. Many people do not have the funds to buy books or don't have computers or access to publications and information that the library provides.....movies, music c.d.'s etc. To me having access to such a variety of books on a myriad of subjects is just heaven. And for young people books open up worlds for the imagination.

3580	7/11/2012	They provide a great resource and place for all people to visit and be able to have access to books, internet etc that they otherwise would not have.
3581	7/11/2012	i cant think of any other public services i use other than the library.
3582	7/11/2012	Books are a central and essential part of my life. They provide me with entertainment, (I read instead of watching TV or movies) and education (I am constantly researching and learning new things through books). But I would not be able to afford my book-centric lifestyle without access to such an excellent public library system.
3583	7/11/2012	The library is a community gathering place, never minding your gender, race, age, or socioeconomic standing. It's a safe place to be. Books open your mind to new worlds and help educate... for these reasons and so many others.
3584	7/11/2012	They keep me and other community residents informed
3585	7/11/2012	Though probably not the most important thing that the city provides. I think that the libraries provide a vital service of supplying information and resources to students and the the population in general on a range of topics. As a mom I would hate to see that go away for my kids. They look forward to coming in and picking up the items that we put on hold for them.
3586	7/11/2012	The are the cornerstone of my daughter's education, and a major form of our weekly entertainment. The library encourages her curiosity about the world because it rewards it. We'd be lost without it.
3587	7/11/2012	libraries are repositories of knowledge
3588	7/11/2012	Reading fosters education for our youth and maintains brain function in adults and elderly. Our future is in our children and they need to be educated!
3589	7/11/2012	The library is a public facility that people can use to read, use the computer, the internet, print, tutor, and more, for free. There are plenty of other programs out there, that are free, that provide the same services. What the library needs is to be a place where people can go to do work.
3590	7/11/2012	The library is a vital resource in our community. It serves a diverse population and provides invaluable support for families, students, teachers, the elderly, job seekers, and more. I would be lost without the public library.
3591	7/11/2012	Most of the library services seem frivolous in this economy.
3592	7/11/2012	All social services are important. They provide resources and build community. Budget cuts to social services should never be "on the table."
3593	7/11/2012	I read and research a lot
3594	7/11/2012	Because I don't have a computer at home or internet service on my phone
3595	7/11/2012	Libraries are only second to public schools and just ahead of Parks and Rec for keeping Portland a healthy, vibrant community for all of us.
3596	7/11/2012	Before the internet and downloading of e-books I might have rated library services higher. I still would if the cost justified the outcome.
3597	7/11/2012	libraries hold all knowledge and information for all people free and accessible. Libraries contain history. they are everything. very important to our society and community.

3599	7/11/2012	The library is a center for the community. Public libraries have proven invaluable to me over the years and have contributed greatly to the successes I've had. [] I could not have read for pleasure as a child if not for public libraries. I otherwise would not have been exposed to what was an enjoyable and enriching process. [] [] Language and intellectual development through reading is as obvious in its importance as it is in its decline. Libraries provide access to self-improvement through learning. [] I have also used public libraries for academic and personal research. A library provides excellent conditions for quiet activity that I am unable to duplicate at home. [] There were times when I didn't have a personal computer or internet access available to me, so I used the library to help me accomplish necessary activities (looking for a place to live, preparing a resume, searching for a job or a used car, etc).
3600	7/11/2012	They are available to low income people who probably wouldn't have access to these services provided by the Library without stable funding of services. They create a constructive, quiet environment to learn where you might not have it anywhere else. This was particularly important to me during college. Having access to knowledge is also of utmost importance. Everyone should be able to freely enjoy this knowledge and libraries are so wonderful for this very reason ; they don't discriminate!
3601	7/11/2012	Because Librarians continue to have resources and knowledge that others don't always know how to find. Also, the library was a great place to go with my kids and meet other moms and kids when they were small. The library is still my go to place when I want information on a specific topic, in a book, that I want to use at home but not buy.
3602	7/11/2012	Public safety must be #1.
3603	7/11/2012	I read library books all of the time, and usually have more than one book at a time checked out. Libraries provide access to literature, community resources, computers, and shelter to people who might not otherwise have it. They represent a "heart" in the community...they are a place where community (in the larger sense of people being together in a common space that nurtures them) happens. I never go to the library, or leave it, without smiling. Thank you for being there. And I'm willing to pay my share to keep it!
3604	7/11/2012
3605	7/11/2012
3606	7/11/2012
3607	7/11/2012	Being able to have the world's knowledge at the "public's" fingertips is one of the best things the US has to offer.

3608	7/11/2012	Thousands and thousands of citizens use the library every day. It's an equalizer: you can access the same great services without money. Libraries are like our parks - a true community resource and treasure, appreciated by MANY.
3609	7/11/2012	Reading is VITAL to education, and a well-read community is a more involved community!
3610	7/11/2012	I use this service more than anything other public services, with the exception of public transport and maybe water fountains.
3611	7/11/2012	Its helpful
3612	7/11/2012	Much of the use of the library is for popular entertainment, as information can be found elsewhere relatively cheaply. The advent of the internet decreases the importance of the library overall. That said, the value we get from the library as a community far out weighs the cost. It is an outstanding value.
3613	7/11/2012	Libraries provide a service to the mind. Trash pick up is important, police are essential, re-cycling the right thing to do, but libraries enlarge our minds and our vision of the world. In my opinion, they are an essential service to the community.
3614	7/11/2012	Free access to knowledge and betterment of the mind is key to a better society (both free as in freedom, and free as in no cost). This is true when viewed from a high-level or abstract way, as well as the simple joy of watching a child read a new book, discover a new computer game, or taking in good music and movies which the library provides.
3615	7/11/2012	They are the building blocks for children to learn to read prior to entering the school system. IN addition, they are a resource for folks who do not have the funds to buy their materials to "rent" them at the library and enjoy a higher quality of life. Reading is life!
3616	7/11/2012	You asked in step 7 how important I feel local library services are compared to other local public services. What local public services are you talking about? The police? Firemen? Street cleaners? Custodial services? Teen entertainment centers? Homeless shelters? Oregon state job placement office? What "other" services do you mean? Your answer would depend on how I respond to step 7. I LOVE my local library and value its services highly. But I would not put it over the police or firemen services. I cannot answer step 7 without more information to make my choice.
3617	7/11/2012	It's the only one I use.
3618	7/11/2012	Like education, libraries are a way forward for people. Both are an absolute foundation for a thriving society.

3620	7/11/2012	I use the library on a regular basis to check out books & other materials. Many individuals without access to a computer use library computers. Families bring in children to check out books and participate in other programs.
3621	7/11/2012	Our public leadership responsible for managing the assets of the county as a business are tax and spend oriented. The library is a very valuable service, but the waste of resources on other programs (e.g. bicycle initiatives) makes the decision easy at this point in our economic cycle.
3622	7/11/2012	I have used libraries all my life. As a child back in the 50's, my father took us to the library regularly. Free access to books is critical to our ability to learn and be on top of current events and contemporary culture (or old culture, for that matter). It is immensely useful for people who are seeking employment and do not have access to a computer anywhere else.
3623	7/11/2012	Because they offer many services. I like to check out books rather use an electronic device
3624	7/11/2012	We need access to information to be an informed citizenry.
3625	7/11/2012	without that information available to the public we become illiterate
3626	7/11/2012	I use the library as a resource for everything. It's costly to buy a resume guide if you're already out of work - and those resources are free for library patrons.
3627	7/11/2012	I think that there might be some other agencies that need the money more.
3628	7/11/2012	I am retired. I read daily. I walk to my local library as destination and social contact.
3629	7/11/2012	The attain the knowledge that I can access the library at any of the given times.
3630	7/11/2012	Highest level - it is where I research and write.
3631	7/11/2012	Who wrote this survey? How can a person possibly answer the question above...compared with WHAT other public services? Fire, police, and garbage type services? Um, a lot less important. Parks & Rec kinds of programs, bike lanes, and other non-critical services? Equally or more important. How are you possibly going to interpret the data from this question???
3632	7/11/2012	Libraries are critical. They provide amazing services to a wide range of citizens. I've had the experience of tutoring grade school students in reading - my MLC branch comes through with books on a weekly basis. I've also worked in a health sciences library and found that reference services there were supplemented by MCL in some cases.
3633	7/11/2012	I want access both to new and to older materials....generally, bookstores only offer the former.
3634	7/11/2012	Our world-class library system offers/promotes something that is so beneficial to our community; reading and social interaction. It is great that there is a place to go that does not cost money and is a positive influence on young people.
3635	7/11/2012	The library provides a safe environment for patrons to learn. Storytimes provide a place for children to appreciate what books can mean in their lives, as well as get a new mother out and about. The library staff are helpful resources.
3636	7/11/2012	Access to information in all its forms is vital to a democratic society.
3637	7/11/2012	I believe a strong library provides an equally accessible resource for education, career development, and quality of life for all members of the community.

3638	7/11/2012	They're one of the most valuable and affordable ways to educate and inform a wide range of individuals in our community. They support freedom of expression and honor accessibility.
3639	7/11/2012	I think I answered that earlier in the survey.
3640	7/11/2012	People who use the library put themselves in a position to make better decisions about everything.
3641	7/11/2012	I see how many people are using the library whenever I visit and I know that it's an important resource to many people in the community.
3642	7/11/2012	I depend on the library as a resource for books.
3643	7/11/2012	I love knowledge. The library provides a safe educational and productive place to spend time for all ages of people in the community. It is also a great gathering place for neighborhoods. My child is learning so much just because we spend time reading books borrowed from the library. We would not otherwise have access to so much great information without spending a fortune on books.
3644	7/11/2012
3645	7/11/2012	Because they are supplementing the decline in education from our public education system, and helping our children become readers starting at birth.
3646	7/11/2012	I love libraries and think they are crucial to a healthy, safe, and viable community
3647	7/11/2012	Important, because I use the library on a weekly basis.
3648	7/11/2012	Kids need to learn to read and be exposed to lots of ideas in order to to become critical thinking adults.
3649	7/11/2012	equality in education, access to books, i am a student and i value the library for research and the pleasure of summer reading-- I'll read about 4-5 books per week and I can't afford to buy them! i grew up going to the library every week with my mom and sister so its of sentimental value too.
3650	7/11/2012	Even with the information highway on the internet, libraries provide important information and entertainment services along with a valuable resource base. Not all school aged children have access to computers in the home and the library provides needed resources and computers that are essential for those student's academic growth.
3651	7/11/2012	Check out of materials and some research. Access to printers. Computer access.
3652	7/11/2012	Because it's a free source of information, accessible to everyone. Besides that, I grew up going to the library once a week when I was a kid, and checking out loads of books. When I was a poor college student, I would use the internet at the library. There are plenty of services I don't use now (like child and young adult programming) that I hope to one day when I do have kids. I can't imagine losing those services. In addition, Multnomah County is one of the best library systems I've used (I have had memberships at at least 7 other public library systems in the past). When I move to a new apartment, a consideration is staying in Multnomah County so I don't have to switch to another library.
3653	7/11/2012	Books are important.
3654	7/11/2012	There are often very few other local public services that are free and accommodate all age groups.

3655	7/11/2012	Low-income but access to free services (books, media, job resources) helps a lot with expanding knowledge and improving my well being and mental state.
3656	7/11/2012	The public needs free access to quality information.
3657	7/11/2012	The last bastion of personal interaction and access to resources, research etc.
3658	7/11/2012	The library has always been a very important resource in my life. I use it for reading materials, video, music, reading the local news, internet access. If time allowed I would attend more activities such as reading groups and knitting groups. It is a place in the community for information.
3659	7/11/2012	I can access books etc. on tablet.
3660	7/11/2012	People need access to information I used the library constantly when living in Troutdale. I was new to Oregon and was able to look up all kinds of information for local and statewide. Children today do not know how to use a library and I feel the service you provide is truly invaluable.[]
3661	7/11/2012	Libraries need to be local for families who do not have the resources or knowledge of computers. The staff provides much needed information.
3662	7/11/2012	I am literate. FOR MY WORK with special needs children: I use the library to get books for the classroom, to encourage families to get books for their children and to have a community place to bring their children, especially including storytimes in different languages, and sensory storytimes. []
3663	7/11/2012	We also use Raise a REader and the bins of books that are brought to schools. [] PERSONALLY: I read books and since they are part of the library system, I am able to then share my use with other people in our community, instead of owning them myself. It gives me access to books and I would never be able to buy them. I use the library to get music that I wouldn't be able to afford to buy, and gives me an opportunity to find out if I like the music before I do purchase it.
3664	7/11/2012	To the extent that I use the library (for reading material), it isn't the highest of priorities. Obviously, leisurely reading comes second to other life fundamentals - such as food. But for others, it may be highly valued as it's the only way that they can access the internet or acquire certain skills.
3665	7/11/2012	libraries rank with firefighters and police, in my opinion. Children need access to programs that involve them on a community level, or they will get lost in mass media marketing.
3666	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the key components of a strong vital city. Access to books, publications, resource materials is critical to our citizens. Reading programs that encourage young people to read and learn are important for a well educated populace.
3667	7/11/2012	Public safety is more important.
3668	7/11/2012	Promote reading and a great sense of community!
3669	7/11/2012	there is easy and plenty access
3670	7/11/2012	It's a model of how public services benefit everyone.

3671	7/11/2012	We are a family of readers, raising a child to be a reader. We read fiction, non-fiction. My child is learning another language and the library facilitates our ability to supplement school with audio-visual materials in Mandarin that, as a non-Mandarin speaking household, we cannot provide in the same way.[] [] Our library is also part of our community -- we see our neighbors there. Book Babies was my life-saver when my daughter was an infant. Through Book Babies, I met other moms & kids who lived nearby. Years later, some of them remain my closest friends although we don't all live in the same place any longer.
3672	7/11/2012	i have such fond memories of reading and checking our masses of books as a kid. It is a memory i hope to re-create for my daughter. We are on a limited budget. What better way to expose her to new experiences, ideas, entertainment. I know the library will play such an important part in her life. I usually place holds on the internet site and pick them up when they are in. I take my kids to the library and read magazines when there. I thought that the "lucky day" program is a good idea to allow other people to get newer materials instead of going on line and ordering it. That makes sense and also brings more people in to the library. [] [] The employees are very helpful at the library and I also enjoy the self checkout.
3673	7/11/2012	I usually place holds on the internet site and pick them up when they are in. I take my kids to the library and read magazines when there. That makes sense and also brings more people in to the library. [] [] The employees are very helpful at the library and I also enjoy the self checkout.
3674	7/11/2012	I love to read.
3675	7/11/2012	The library is an extremely important resource but I think road maintenance, public transportation, waste management, etc might be a bit more important.
3676	7/11/2012	Libraries are crucial sources for education and help foster a love of learning. Without the library I would have trouble accessing all of the information that enriches my life.
3677	7/11/2012	When I was an educator for PPS, I relied heavily upon the Library to provide films and books on current topics in the social sciences because my curriculum budget was less than $1 per student per semester. On a personal level, I rely on the Library less than I used to because most of my research is now conducted on-line at home. However, I believe that Portland's libraries are an essential bridge in the digital divide.
3678	7/11/2012	Books are expensive, and education is a high priority.
3679	7/11/2012	I don't go to the library all the time, and parks/ recreation areas are more important to me.
3680	7/11/2012	Libraries are an incalculable local resource. As safe locations for children to learn, a literary resource and a symbol of a vibrant culture, the public library represents one of the crowning achievements of our society.
3681	7/11/2012	I am on a budget and the library allows me to read at minimal cost. I read a lot of books about history that I otherwise could not afford. I also think that as a community, we need to emphasize the importance of reading.

3682	7/11/2012	If you are talking police or fire, then they are very important. I walk or ride my bike, do not go downtown, do not ride max. I do not ride the tram. They may be important to others but I like to frequent my neighborhood.
3683	7/11/2012	Access to information is the great leveler in society
3684	7/11/2012	Libraries are, while somewhat dated institutions, still very valuable places to obtain information and items of cultural importance (literature, music, movies, etc;) and public resource centers for the elderly, children, and impoverished members of our society who may not otherwise have access to computers and the internet, which are increasingly important in day to day life and in job seeking. Libraries need to adapt with the times to remain relevant, but are nonetheless something I consider essential to a civil society that values equal opportunities for all.
3685	7/11/2012	I visit my local library every week to check out new books for my two children. I see this as one of the main ways I try to give them a love of reading and of good books. I, myself, also frequently check out digital audio books and books on CD. This makes my commute much more enjoyable. Thank you!
3686	7/11/2012	It is a free knowledge for people. Some books are too expensive to buy.
3687	7/11/2012	Access to continued education is vital...for kids and adults. New books are available without having to purchase them so we can read more!
3688	7/11/2012	They open the world to everyone via books, music, knowledge, resources, etc.....that makes it of the utmost importance.
3689	7/11/2012	We do not have the income to purchase a lot of reading materials and music.
3690	7/11/2012	I think literacy is vital and I think it is an indication of our health as a community. Free access to reading materials, etc. is of major importance.
3691	7/11/2012	Libraries provide uplift that stimulates the intellect and curiosity. Whithout these, what kind of community are we?
3692	7/11/2012	for many people it is the only place they can get access to resources, including books, articles, and computer access
3693	7/11/2012	Libraries provide materials and services that enrich people's lives. They are one of those rare resources that are available for the whole community to use.
3694	7/11/2012	Libraries provide much access to information and computers for people who wouldn't otherwise have that access
3695	7/11/2012	We mainly use the library to check out books for my children. When school is in session, my children can use their local school library to check out books weekly limiting the need for us to use the public library.
3696	7/11/2012	I can afford to buy some materials online from vendors and online sources, however, if I am able to check out materials first, I make wiser choices with my money.

3697	7/11/2012	Because I rely on the Multnomah County Library system for research materials for my work, as well as for all of my recreational reading material. I cannot afford to buy all of the books I read and count on the library for having an excellent selection of published books (and CDs and DVDs).
3698	7/11/2012	Access to information for EVERYONE is necessary for a well functioning democratic society.
3699	7/11/2012	I'd like an option between very and somewhat - because having fire fighters is maybe technically more important...but libraries are needed too, just on a less life or death scale.
3700	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the best sources of knowledge and are available to everyone
3701	7/11/2012	because i get what ever i need
3702	7/11/2012	The Public Library is where all of the people regardless of income, education or any other status, can seek and gain knowledge in almost any topic.
3703	7/11/2012	Libraries are open and free to all regardless of class. Some books are too expensive for me to buy, so I obtain use of them at the library.
3704	7/11/2012	I cannot afford to buy enough books. I listen to 5 or 6 books a week, while I work or relax, in addition to reading printed books and e-books. Not having more books readily at hand would be terrible for me.
3705	7/11/2012	I love to read and I like having access to information that I can hold in my hand. Reading online becomes tiring.
3706	7/11/2012	They reflect the degree of importance our society places on access to information, learning, exchange of ideas, etc.
3708	7/11/2012	Libraries are were the poor and homeless can use technology and old fashion books to learn and enjoy. The young can discover the wonder of the wriiten word., and the old a place within the community .
3709	7/11/2012	I am unemployed and need access to literature and computers.
3710	7/11/2012	Library provide so many critical community functions from traditional information lending resource to services for less advantaged, etc.
3711	7/11/2012	Books and keeping people reading is important to the future.
3712	7/11/2012	All success comes from reading.
3713	7/11/2012	Because my family uses them regularly.
3714	7/11/2012	literacy, and education are so important to cultural awareness and participation.
3715	7/11/2012	As a history writer I use online library research resources nearly every day.
3716	7/11/2012	I can get just about any media I could ever want for the best price.

3717	7/11/2012	I don't have much money to buy new books and media, but public roads and fire/emergency care are somewhat more important.
3718	7/11/2012	They serve the local community where children can have easier access.
3719	7/11/2012	The library is the last bastion of privacy, free speech, and unfiltered information in our society.
3720	7/11/2012	yes
3721	7/11/2012	overall the libraey is a great boost to learning and literacy, which is critical to success in earning a living and having a satisfyiny life
3722	7/11/2012	I love to read.
3723	7/11/2012	It is accessible to all people, many (like me) with little money, out of work, no computer access or able to otherwise get books or media. I grew up going to the library, used to do summer reading, which helps children love reading and keep up with skills. The library is a free, open, haven for many people who would not otherwise have opportunities that only library gives. It opens the world up! I got at least 3-4 times a week.
3724	7/11/2012	They are a major means of 'pulling up with your bootstraps'. An informed society is a better society, the library is key to give information, and knowledge to all of our citizens.
3725	7/11/2012	Not having access to library materials and services on any level is equal to validating a new American caste-system.
3726	7/11/2012	I am retired with a fixed income. My purchasing power has been adversely affected by the economy. I count on the library being there to allow me to keep in touch with the world, and to entertain me with books and media.
3727	7/11/2012	an illiterate society cannot function well or thrive.
3728	7/11/2012	Libraries are the foundation of a free and equitable society.
3729	7/11/2012	As a community we did it to continue our literacy level. History has taught us we need an educated community.
3730	7/11/2012	The library is a community hub. There are resources that are unavailable anywhere else for free. At a time (many years ago) when I was homeless I was able to use the internet at libraries to claim unemployment, look for jobs, find resources, etc. I would hate to see these services not be available to others in the future. Libraries are such an educational resource for everyone in the community.
3731	7/11/2012	Libraries are a part of education (general education - not just the amount required to pass a standardized test) and education gives children a chance to learn to become productive members of society. If we don't fund education and libraries now, we'll need to fund prisons and unemployment schemes later.
3732	7/11/2012	As I stated before, people from any kind of economic background / status can utilize the library system to enrich themselves and gain knowledge.

3733	7/11/2012	Libraries represent knowledge and learning; they provide services to those who cannot otherwise afford them.
3734	7/11/2012	I view the resource as critical and think it is a very important sort of community glue to hold neighborhoods together
3735	7/11/2012	High - I don't use other public services other than police and fire protection, paid utilities and riding Tri-Met buses
3736	7/11/2012	Important to have a civilized, quiet place to read and the opportunity to check out books, media, etc from the library's enormous catalog. [] It's a sane place with no expectations of me buying anything to enter.
3737	7/11/2012	I personally use the library for reading for entertainment. I think services for school children, seniors, job seekers etc[] Are invaluable. Libraries are the center of a community. Easy access to information is vital for the education of the whole community. With better education comes better jobs, better health, lower crime and a better community. The computer access at the library is often the only internet access for low income adults. The access to both the programs and the internet can assist in a job to help get a person or family out of poverty. The library is also often the first place kids discover the concept of reading for pleasure which can set them on a path of becoming curious and well-read adults. [] []
3738	7/11/2012	All of this is only part of why local libraries are important to me. The heart of it all is that my strongest childhood memories are of spending hours after school in my tiny local library. I was a latch-key kid by 7 years old and the library was the place I would often go when on my own. If I was lonely or scared at home I could bike to the library. I would wander the aisles finding new book that looked interesting and just enjoying the environment. (This was before there were computers in the libraries.) I want any child in need of that kind of safe place to have it available to them 7 days a week like it was for me.
3739	7/11/2012	My family reads a lot. We would not read nearly as much without the library.
3740	7/11/2012	I really value the ability to reserve books from other branches & have them brought to my local library. Before I could afford a printer I would use the local library's -- not possible w/o a local branch.
3741	7/11/2012	The libraries supliment peoples ability to learn.
3742	7/11/2012	Some things are crucial, like maintaining infrastructure and programs for those who have been hurt the most in the recession. While libraries may not fall in this group, they are still a key component in an educated and engaged community.
3743	7/11/2012	i believe having access to a diverse assortment of learning materials is critical to my own and to society's growth. without a library system, access to objective information is difficult and expensive to obtain.
3744	7/11/2012	Access to good books, audiobooks, music and othe media.

3745	7/11/2012	I still enjoy holding and reading books. To me it is the access to books. I particularly like the large print books and the access to reference materials and magazines like consumer reports. It is a part of our community, it pulls people together and offers a wonderful service.
3746	7/11/2012	The mark of a civilized society is how much the citizens support their library system.
3747	7/11/2012	Information resources are essential to economic development, an educated work force, competitiveness, AND well-being. Almost as essential as life and safety services and good public schools.
3748	7/11/2012	Education is important to me. The library is a huge resource for knowledge.
3749	7/11/2012	The library provides all kinds of knowledge-based services to people of all income levels. It helps level the playing field for people who could otherwise not afford access to books, media, programs, etc that the library provides for free.
3750	7/11/2012	internet and job seeking access - programs for kids and seniors - general education.....
3751	7/11/2012	Knowledge is key in understanding our society and pursuing a better life and the library is the cornerstone for all of that.
3752	7/11/2012	People of all income levels need access to educational materials.
3753	7/11/2012	Community! We are losing so much of our community every day. The more 'SMART' items filling up our lives, the less 'human' we are becoming! Knowing your local librarian and listening to him/her and their wisdom and wealth of information about all kinds of books, stories, etc... Why they are simply irreplaceable!!!
3754	7/11/2012	Libraries don't directly affect humans basic needs, but they do help to make those basic needs sustainable.
3755	7/11/2012	reading is my most fundamental pastime
3756	7/11/2012	I mostly use the library to do research and find specific information. There isn't a ready alternative to the library for me, so I find it very important to be able to use the library. I know it also serves as a community center for people with young children and senior citizens.
3757	7/11/2012	I read a lot of "non-serious fiction" as entertainment, and don't want to buy anything I don't plan to keep. (I buy art books.) I don't mind waiting a few months if necessary to get a popular novel.) (For what it's worth, in the city we used to live in, best sellers could only be taken out for 7 days. You could reduce the wait time a lot by not letting people hold onto popular books for 3 weeks.) I like the computerized search and "hold" service a lot.
3758	7/11/2012	Fire, police and medical are utmost. Libraries are secondary to life/death services.
3759	7/11/2012	Typically services from the library aren't vital to survival, like power and water

3760	7/11/2012	Libraries are for the people, by the people and of the people. Very few institutions are as noble and useful. They open up information, resources and a respect for knowledge to ALL Americans regardless of their age, race, income, etc. Without libraries we lose one of the last good social institutions left in this country. I'd rather ride my bike across broken sidewalks and potholed streets to my Library than arrive on pristine pavement only to find my library closed!!! Plus - It's our youth and elderly who seem to use my library the most. What would these people do? Where would they go? I see kids doing more than games - they are WORKING and they are on task. My library makes my community BETTER in ways perhaps certain idiot legislators and political hacks refuse to acknowledge. It's stupid not to support a library. It says a lot about a person who balks at chump change out of their pocket to keep the library going. Even if they never use it. It should be a no brainer. I support ANYTHING Library.
3761	7/11/2012	I love to read, and borrowing books is a wonderful way to do this. I also have a low income, so with the library I borrow books and movies, so can still have those pleasures, vs. not being able to buy books, or pay for movies.[] I pay plenty in property taxes, and am glad they are (partially) used for the library.
3762	7/11/2012	Because they are there to help everybody regardless of class or income, and few things are as important as free access to information. Knowledge and learning changes attitudes and can easily change a persons life!
3763	7/11/2012	This is my second school !
3764	7/11/2012	A great resource for literacy and free access thereto
3765	7/11/2012	It's important for my kids to learn how to use the library, it fosters their love of reading.
3766	7/11/2012	It is the only place you can find knowledge for free. the US lacks Culture and it will be worse with school budget cuts, the library is a vital place if we want to keep this country "civilized"
3767	7/11/2012	Because they give access to all the members of the community to important resources that very few of us could access on our own. They are not life and death important, but very important to the intellectual, social, and cultural life of our community and they serve all citizens, regardless of income.[] []
3768	7/11/2012	However, right now there is a shortage of revenue and a lot of unmet needs in our communities. I REALLY think that it is hard to justify a tax increase at this time for libraries when our schools have had to make such huge sacrifices--I would rather give money to PPS right now and increase tax for the libraries when the economy gets a little better. Hard choices.
3769	7/11/2012	America is in a rut, no matter which way you look at it, and if our citizens were more well rounded that would help ease the problem. Hopefully we aren't too far gone.
3770	7/11/2012	Because we need to live in a literate society.
3771	7/11/2012	The library gives me freedom to pursue new interests on a whim. I don't have to worry that I'll spend $20 on a book that I won't like.

3773	7/11/2012	The library provides so much for so many on a daily basis. Fire and police protection are important, as is infrastructure like roads and other civic projects, but libraries help lift us above the survival line and in to culture.
3774	7/11/2012	I use the library for a wide variety of services, including WiFi internet access and an economical alternative to pay video rental options such as NetFlix and Blockbuster.
3775	7/11/2012	Obviously the library isn't as important as public education, fresh and clean water, etc. but in the big picture providing access to free reading materials among the other services libraries offer is integral to a developed society.
3776	7/11/2012	I believe the library develops a sense of community in cities like Portland, It allows people access to information/research, and to broaden their horizons and take in new points of view. []
3777	7/11/2012	This is something I find important to the betterment of societies as a whole. It is of equal importance.
3778	7/11/2012	Educational, neighborhood building, (bringing people in from the neighborhood)[]
3779	7/11/2012	accessible, used on a daily basis, would personally rate as very important but would need a list of other local public services [] to give realistic rating
3780	7/11/2012	Libraries are very versatile in their uses. They provide entertainment and education in many forms: reading materials (fiction and non-fiction, classic and current), Internet access, music, movies, and events. Not only that, but they have people who give face-to-face conversations to assure that their visitors find the help they need.
3781	7/11/2012	Libraries are extremely important as a part of keeping communities educated and for giving resources to the people in the community that need them. Libraries raise the quality of life for children, adults, and elders who utilize them.
3782	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader.
3783	7/11/2012	i believe that libraries and integral part of a thriving community. the services they provide are filled by no other service int he community and in his poor economy are more necessary than ever.
3784	7/11/2012	Because I am a teacher and I use the library all the time. It's a great value if you use it!!
3785	7/11/2012	See my above remark regarding knowledge and education.
3786	7/11/2012	It keeps my old mind more alert with the different books available.
3787	7/11/2012	Because I depend on the library for research and education. I also read several books a week and would not be able to afford them if I had to buy them. The library should be someplace for everyone to visit on any day of the week. I remember when I was in school the libraries were open until 9 PM every evening, we could go there and get our homework done, closing the libraries deny's many children, young people and adults an invaluable resource.
3788	7/11/2012	They are not life and death but they add to the enjoyment of life.

3789	7/11/2012	Having a strong library influences the culture of a city, which is important to me. I think it helps keep crime down, encourages community involvement, and raises the awareness/education level of the citizens.
3790	7/11/2012	Literacy and education is the most important thing citizens need to truly understand how to communicate and understand the world around them
3791	7/11/2012	I love to read books and learn. there is no way I could afford to purchase and shelve the amount of books I go through. when I lived downtown, I spent hours there every week. sadly there is very little reason for me to go to the smaller community libraries as there is very little there to read.
3792	7/11/2012	Human needs: shelter, food, water, heat, clothing. Books are not a need...they are nice. Libraries are not Top priority.
3793	7/11/2012	I believe Libraries offer so much more now. When I was young it was just a place to check out a book. Don't get me wrong, having books available to read to all, is very important..but I think Libraries play an even bigger part in our societies now. They offer so much more information and resources to the public.
3794	7/11/2012	I enjoy my library, but when I need the police or fire department, I really need them! With that said, I can't imagine my life without a library that's close to where I live.
3795	7/11/2012	I have been able to educate myself about so many subjects throughout my life by using the public library's resources. Many books on medical issues or other subjects of interest to me have been wonderful.
3796	7/11/2012	For us, the library is like water or garbage service - we visit it every week (usually multiple times), it is an important part of raising our family, enriching ourselves, and living in our neighborhood. Without it we would not be as well off in a variety of ways.
3797	7/11/2012	public safety is important. the rest is an optional service.
3798	7/11/2012	The library is one of my joys. I constantly have books to read, and I wouldn't be able to do that without the library.
3799	7/11/2012	As a culture, we are what we know and what we remember. Libraries act as civilization's memory banks, cultural archives, and keepers of knowledge -- and by extension, librarians are the people who enable us to find the specific information we need and often can help us apply it against our specific needs. If we are crippled by an earthquake, invaded by aliens, or some other disaster acts to throw our culture into chaos, any chance we have to rebuild will depend on recovering and making use of the knowledge stored in libraries. And even in "normal" times, libraries allow and enable anyone, regardless of social or economic status, to study, learn, and acquire the means to improve their lives and the world around them.
3800	7/11/2012	I love knowledge and Multicolib is like the Internet to me, it is a "Must Have!"
3801	7/11/2012	A nation cannot survive unless its populace is educated. Libraries offer all people the opportunity to expand their minds, not just those with money.

3802	7/11/2012	A great library means educated children, educated adults, and with help for those who need help finding a job, learning how to use computers, and generally a more literate population.
3803	7/11/2012	no internet at home.
3804	7/11/2012	it is a resource that my family all uses on a regular basis
3805	7/11/2012	Because my taxes provide me with access to books and other media I could not afford to buy. Because everyone's taxes provide a way to use the internet for those who cannot afford a home internet service. Because a community library is a gathering place for citizens offering all types of information and entertainment of the mind. Libraries should be well stocked, accessible and conveniently located for all the county.
3806	7/11/2012	Because Library helps us learn what we dont know, and It important kids and young adult to take the changes to go to the library and read some new or books.
3807	7/11/2012	Keeping our children and community intelligent and educated through books, etc. We're dumbed down too much already by TV, other media.
3808	7/11/2012	Access to data and resource materials
3809	7/11/2012	Library is a good resource, after education at school.
3810	7/11/2012	Libraries open the door to the big wide world for those who may not be able to have a direct opportunity to learn what is beyond their neighborhood . It evens the playing field for people with differing levels of economic and educational status.
3811	7/11/2012	Because everyone should have the right to free access of books and other information if we are to evolve as human beings. Our Constitution stipulates legislation for the greater good and the welfare of all. Reading and learning are vital to human beings everywhere. The current political and economic climate are threatening to take those rights from us. We must not allow that happen.
3812	7/11/2012	I have always loved to read. At 86 years of age, reading is something I do lot and enjoy for pleasure and to learn. A reading group meets at my apartment once a month that is a real joy. Several in our group drive to Midland to check out books we are reading and share with those who do not drive. For my other reading, I really appreciate the Bookmobile that comes to CherryWood Village once a month. The librarians, Liz and a very nice man, are exceptionally helpful and kind to us. I also appreciate being able to use the databases, such as Heritage Quest, you make possible for me to access on my home computer--very valuable! Also on the computer I can put a hold on material I want to check out which my children or friends check out for me at the Midland Branch. Thank you for providing all of that and more. I love libraries!!!
3813	7/11/2012	In order for our society to function people need access to books!
3814	7/11/2012	Libraries are a place to gather as a community, as well as centers of information and knowledge. The better informed and/or educated a community is, the better the community will be. The more cohesive a community is, the more likely we'll be to want to provide aid in difficult times. That's pretty simply stated, but it's the gist of why my library matters to me.

3815	7/11/2012	The library has so many different resources. Even though Wilson has a pool and there are nice parks around, the library is great no matter the weather and the summer reading program in the summer brings fond memories of the excitement of reading in the summer, In the winter, it's a quiet, dry, cozy place to study. It is relevant to every person.
3816	7/11/2012	It's a part of my life. I borrow lots of items from the library, from non-fiction books to learn something to fiction to comedy DVDs for entertainment to foreign DVDs to learn about other cultures to e-books to databases.
3817	7/11/2012	I make extensive use of the library for books and reference. I recall what the library meant to me as a child growing up in rural South Carolina in the 1960s.
3818	7/11/2012	Other public resources, such as pregnancy resource centers and such, are also important, but the library helps the community learn to research and think to make educated decisions on their own.
3819	7/11/2012	Libraries are not only a source of information, they also function as a community center. Attending library events and classes connects community members with shared interests. As a new mom with a new baby, the Book Babies program at the Gresham library helped me foster an entire support base with other new mothers. We still call ourselves 'The Library Group' even though our activities are not always centered around library activities. Similarly, activities such as the Big Trucks coming up this Saturday are quickly becoming family events that we look forward to each year, and can hopefully continue to look forward to for many years to come.
3820	7/11/2012	The local library is one of my girls' favorite places to go to because they love to read and play the games on the computers for children. I, especially, love the programs and summer reading program that they hold there because my girls get even more excited about keeping up with their reading and learning.
3821	7/11/2012	I rely on the library for research, books, and music.
3822	7/11/2012	It's critical for people to be able to have access to FREE publications and print resources that cost significant amounts of money to purchase.
3823	7/11/2012	Schools, Firefighters, Police, Roads are more important to me, but Libraries comes next.
3824	7/11/2012	Tools
3825	7/11/2012	I am proud of the Multnomah Library System. It is well-run; lots of people use it; it has a great collection. I think it is a real asset to our community.
3826	7/11/2012	there are some services for the sick and needy that are more important. This is a support to the community in this time of financial strain.
3827	7/11/2012	Libraries provide accessibility to information which is crucial to the empowerment of marginalized people.
3828	7/11/2012	Libraries should be moving from physical to online services. The bond will reduce money available to support other public services...public safety, parks, transportation projects. As long as the library exists in cyberspace, I am happy.
3829	7/11/2012	I don't use it that often, but am glad these services are available.

3830	7/11/2012	Access to information and other library materials is a core function of government, most other local public services are politically driven and of value to often very small constituencies
3831	7/11/2012	Because we don't get very many public services at all to begin with. We need to keep the ones we got before they disappear.
3832	7/11/2012	This is poor question. What kind of information can be gleaned from a blanket comparison to unspecified "other" services? [] This survey is beginning to look like it's designed as a promotional, rather than an information gathering effort.
3833	7/11/2012	my daughter is employed there
3834	7/11/2012	Because they serve everyone...not just those old enough to vote, work, drive, etc. Making kids aware of books and printed media from early days is key to a more informed, involved population. We all benefit when our neighbors are informed and see the importance of continuing education.
3835	7/11/2012	Equal access for all to employment, educational resources.
3836	7/11/2012	Use the library often
3837	7/11/2012	It gives everyone more of an equal chance for resource of knowlege.
3838	7/11/2012	Anyone can use the library, but other services have eligibility requirements or aren't relevant to all community members.
3839	7/11/2012	preventative for our youth, assistance with those trying to make changes, and reading helps educate our communities.
3840	7/11/2012	Because literature, the arts, education - as manifested in libraries - are all great and important, but not as important as combating poverty, improving he school system, etc. There are higher municipal priorities than libraries in my view (but not so many that we can't fund them all).
3841	7/11/2012	I visit once a week and get four books for myself and 4 -8 for my grandson. I need to read. It is funn relaxing, enlightning and good for me mentaly
3842	7/11/2012	Free public access to human knowledge is critical for all citizens to participate in society.
3843	7/11/2012	encouraged knowledge and traditional public service. Independent of the internet
3844	7/11/2012	Resources for education and communication are a foundation of any city
3845	7/11/2012	only safety net services and education are higher in my opinion for a democratic society
3846	7/11/2012	Libraries are necessary for an educated populace, and they help even the playing field of rich vs. poor.
3847	7/11/2012	Part of the week to week fabric in my life
3848	7/11/2012	The availability of books to everyone, especially children and those who can't afford to buy books.
3849	7/11/2012	Education/reading/information all extremely important to be/make good citizens.

3850	7/11/2012	Public access to knowledge is necessary for a strong, functioning society. I also love that I can borrow books and return them for someone else, rather than purchasing books. I like the public space for going in to read - our libraries are very nice to be in. They are great for my children, who are both teenagers, to do research.
3851	7/11/2012	Because I can do research if I wanted too and check out books if I wanted to do a book review.
3852	7/11/2012	Cost people want the service let me pay..Why is is acceptable for people with no interest in paying into the cost of society to demand that others pay for them.
3853	7/11/2012	Free public access to books and other media through library services is a wonderful resource for people in any city, and in my opinion goes a long way in the quality of life to be had for city residents. Not everyone uses the library, but A LOT of people do, and anyone should be able to.
3854	7/11/2012	I use them the most
3855	7/11/2012	Very helpful people
3856	7/11/2012	Education is vital to society. The only way a community can remain educated is to have a current resources available to them for personal enrichment. Libraries provide a place for the community to gather, share ideas and learn.
3857	7/11/2012	My child loves to go the library and pick out his books for the week. We have been going since he was one year old and now he is almost four. We read the books together and often he will incorporate parts of the story into a song he makes up, or compare himself to the characters in the book, or role play the characters in the book and say the character's lines. The books validate his childhood experiences and help him grow a sense of empathy and awareness. And Mom and Dad, the books can offer a bit of sanity when we need some "quiet time" and our child sits in his room and "reads" his books.
3858	7/11/2012	libraries should be open to everyone, 7 days a week
3859	7/11/2012	I see my library as a community center. I know that there are people in my neighborhood who rely on it for their computer and internet access and as a place for students study. For myself, I value the books (paper and electronic) that I'm able to get from the library. I can't imagine the money I save just by checking out materials. Plus, when I have the time to visit the library it is like a holiday. Capitol Hill is a relaxing branch, with a great community feel and the staff is always friendly and welcoming.
3860	7/11/2012	Offers access to literacy and information, opportunities for low income individuals and families, community space
3861	7/11/2012	Equal / equitable access for each citizen to learn. Authentic choices in following ones' curiosities / interests in learning , learning about the other public services available to oneself. Unequaled resources for parents to empower and become partners in their children's learning that is self motivated. The current services provided within the libraries encourages and nurtures democratic thought and practices / collaboration between private sector and public services and/or domains.

3862	7/11/2012	Library services are very important to our family because we use the lending of materials to a very high level. Our family also realizes that police, fire, justice, corrections, education, roads, parks and many other services play a vital part in our society.
3863	7/11/2012	Because libraries educate the citizens of an area. It makes the whole community a smarter, better, kinder place.
3864	7/11/2012	Everyone has access to them regardless of personal circumstances and abilities
3865	7/11/2012	Our community is faced with a troubled education system. I believe the library can and does help play a key role in ensuring young children begin school with skills to succeed. The library is also a major component of helping the smaller communities within Portland remain connected. We are all lifelong learners and the library helps support that.
3866	7/11/2012	The local library where I grew up was extremely important to me, and fueled education and reading that took me well beyond what my school offered. It helped me a great deal in my formative years, and I think good public libraries are still of critical importance for helping youth, and the community in general, to be more literate, educated, and informed. Also, since moving to Portland I've found the library system here to be the best public one I've used. It's been a valuable resource to me, and I'd hate to see its quality reduced.
3867	7/11/2012	Not really sure, partially I believe it is because I am a huge reader and believe that reading a large variety of books leads to a more rounded and informed adult. I also believe that it is a solid background to raise your children with and to ensure a breadth of knowledge for them. Beyond that I really cannot put it into words.
3868	7/11/2012	I depend on the library to not open provide me with entertainment but also to have what I need for homework research and job searches.
3869	7/11/2012	We like the access to use books and computers as well as other materials. But Police, Fire, and other such services are surely more important.
3870	7/11/2012	It's an amazing resource that everyone in my family uses. School is obviously important and roads and courts etc etc, but I use the library more than any other service.
3871	7/11/2012	I don't know how to answer question 7 without a better idea of whether you and I agree about what "public services" includes! Library services are important, but not as important as public transportation (which TriMet has made inaccessible to the poor) so people can get to jobs, schools so that they can read books and get a job, or basic services provided by public health and unemployment offices.
3872	7/11/2012	Because lifelong learners thrive on libraries. Libraries have something positive to offer everyone, whereas many public services are only for those with specific needs.

3873	7/11/2012	The library for me is a portal to our cultural resources. I appreciate the non-commercial aspect of it. I rate its importance just below basic services like roads, utilities, fire and police protection.
3874	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and I cannot afford to buy every book I want to read. Also, we need children to be reading alot as they are the future generation and I hope will be informed about important things in life, both current and historical.
3875	7/11/2012	everyone should have access to a quiet place to read.
3876	7/11/2012	Free access to information and self education is the building block of all other services in a community.
3877	7/11/2012	See my previous explanation. Every essential service is looking at surviving with less money-- firefighters, police force, schools, libraries. It's time to look at the tax structures for large, international corporations to anti-up their ACTUAL fair share to fund the services of the state in which they operate.
3878	7/11/2012	I enjoy using the library
3879	7/11/2012	I read a lot and they are my primary source of material. I can walk there!!
3880	7/11/2012	Without the library available our statewide reading and educational level will be diminished. We must maintain a high standard with our libraries if we want our community's achievements and living standards are to rise.
3881	7/11/2012	Libraries are important for school age people. I remember going to the library in NYC frequently as an elementary school kid to read and check out the story books, and going to the Midtown library in Manhattan to do research for high school work. [] I can see libraries being important for job seekers, and when we don't have access to funds to buy our own books - online or hardcopy.[] I support local libraries and their services, even though I currently don't use the library on a regular basis.
3882	7/11/2012	police, fire and health come before library
3883	7/11/2012	They are essential to developing a well rounded family, connecting with our community, and encouraging reading/education.
3884	7/11/2012	- grandchildren education[] - books for seniors leisure reading
3885	7/11/2012	Experience with literature and the other arts makes for a more aware and involved citizenry. Private means are not enough to generate an adequate quantity and broad distribution of such experience.
3886	7/11/2012	i believe the library is far more important due to the personal face to face assitance in a world of automated and outsourced programs

3887	7/11/2012	To reiterate what I have already stated in previous fields, I feel libraries are a crucial element to modern society. The internet does not always provide the sort of knowledge or satisfaction you get from sitting and reading a book. We learn better in the solitude inside the walls of a library. Learning is the number one path to understanding the world and our place in it. Understanding is the key to making wise decisions about our necessary paths for the future. (Paths that do not include shutting down our invaluable resources such as libraries.) In libraries we can wander and browse and find that we have interests we never knew we had. Children find themselves through reading and identifying topics that light up their minds. Asking why libraries are important is like asking why the human brain is important. Without knowledge, the brain is just a lump of grey flesh. We need books to sharpen our wits and continue to build our knowledge base as a species. We learn of past mistakes and failures and learn not to repeat those mistakes. We learn of the cutting edge of knowledge which drives us to hunger for more. Libraries are part the foundation of our endeavors as a species to continue to achieve new levels of understanding of nature and our place in it. Libraries aren't just a great idea. Libraries are the birth place of great ideas.
3888	7/11/2012	Not as important as police and fire. But I do "use" it more. Libraries are critical to a community's education, culture, and quality.
3889	7/11/2012	popular fiction books are my primary personal entertainment
3890	7/11/2012	I have kids that are starting reading and it is very helpful to have such a wide variety of books for them to learn to read.
3891	7/11/2012	Because libraries are the cradle of democracy and they were key to bringing me out of poverty and a culture of ignorance. After justice they are the most important thing a city can provide. I rank it even higher than public education.
3892	7/11/2012	I think they are very important in general, even though i may not be among the populations who uses them the most frequently.
3893	7/11/2012	Cannot answer this question. Schools need the most support. But the tax base is limited to homeowners, which is unfair and inadequate. Same holds true of library services.
3894	7/11/2012	Because literacy is the cornerstone of any civilized society, and the library offers resources those who might not otherwise have access to information and various learning opportunities.
3895	7/11/2012	Library services are important to us all but perhaps other public services (fire, police, child services, etc.) are more important to the general population.
3896	7/11/2012	because i use it a lot
3897	7/11/2012	This is not a fair question. Having some library support is important. Having 24 carrot gold library is not. It is not more important than having 911. But is more important than sending our officers to India at tax payer expense. It is not more important than having my garbage picked up, but it is more important than separating out my food waste.
3898	7/11/2012	Because unfortunately, access is not equal for everyone. The library is one of the only equalizers. School systems are not, they are wildly disproportionate in their services even within the same school district.
3899	7/11/2012	I use the library every week and rely on the library to access and discover new media, in all forms.

3900	7/11/2012	Because a library system is a crucial facet of a large urban community. Think of all the resources available at the library: free books, cd's, dvd's, audio books, children's programs, adult lectures, resources for job seekers, all FREE!!
3902	7/11/2012	I am a senior (71 yrs old this year), an avid reader, and most highly value the ease and access to reading materials which I could not afford, were I needing to purchase the quantity of books I seek for learning and entertainment (love Powell's but can't afford to purchase all my books). I value the ease of on-line renewals and such (read several or more books, up to 5 or so/week plus reference other needed info, particularly regarding my interests in artists and travel and mysteries. I also value the "reduce/reuse/recyle mantra and the library is a perfect example of that belief and the various branch locations, which allow me to turn in or check out books on my daily walking sprees.
3903	7/11/2012	I respect libraries as a source to access knowledge, and view this as fundamental for forwarding society along less bestial directions.
3904	7/11/2012	I can afford to buy books and home computer and internet access, but some can't. The library is their only option, and i needs to be there for them.
3905	7/11/2012	I am retired and I enjoy the services the library provides.
3906	7/11/2012	Cause I believe the children are our future. Teach them well and let them lead the way! [] [] Access to a wealth of collective knowledge for all classes, is the most important civic service.
3907	7/11/2012	It's a place of learning for many of us. And gathering place where ideas are exchanged. I would hate for it to disappear slowly.
3908	7/11/2012	I have a child so, it's very important to me and for thier education. Having new books to read to my children enhances our quality of life. My 4-year-old is very curious. We love the begining-reader nonfiction shelves.[]
3909	7/11/2012	I marked "somewhate important" rather than "very important" because I assume you're asking me to compare library services with other life-saving services such as the fire and police departments.
3910	7/11/2012	Literacy and learning is important for everyone
3911	7/11/2012	As stated earlier, I see the community essence reflected in the actions and support issued by our local branch and its staff. I can only assume that this public service shines in other branches as well.
3912	7/11/2012	Education, pleasure, ability to read without having to buy books!
3913	7/11/2012	a place for research, as well as meeting with others to discuss books
3914	7/11/2012	I grew up visiting the library and am an avid reader.
3915	7/11/2012	They are important for all ages.

3916	7/11/2012	We access the library several times a week either online or at our local branch. It helps my son with early literacy because we are able to get him a variety of books that spark his imagination. We also lean in the library for books and media that we could not afford otherwise. They also offer great programs for kids and people with English as a second language and kids who might not otherwise have much exposure to books. By unending in this opportunity for kids to learn and grow we are avoiding higher costs in the future for rehabilitation, illiteracy, joblessness, etc.
3917	7/11/2012	Access to information is power. Libraries are empowering for me, my family, and my community.
3918	7/11/2012	knowledge is power and information makes one strong
3919	7/11/2012	Because I use the Fort Vancouver Regional Library District.
3920	7/11/2012	provides learning for children, resources for people job seeking, research for students in school and college, resources for seniors and talking books
3921	7/11/2012	It's a community gathering place with services that affect literacy, help those with lower incomes, assist new immigrants; these are all hugely important.
3922	7/11/2012	Education is one of the most important resources in our society.
3923	7/11/2012	I value access to information for every one.
3924	7/11/2012	I use the library almost every days and find the value to be excellent and more direct than many other public services.
3926	7/11/2012	Because we use them so much. Frankly, I'm prepared to support WHATEVER measures our county leadership decides to implement to restore our libraries to seven days a week AND to increase resources.
3927	7/11/2012	Education for our public
3928	7/11/2012	Books are expensive and at the library low income children and families have access to them.
3929	7/11/2012	I use Maslow's Heirachry of Needs to determine how important library services are to our community relative to other public,tax funded services. And while I personally feel that library services are paramount to my well being, if Ouse Maslow, I must come to the conclusion that they are not absolutely essential to meeting the most basic needs,like food,safe shelter & clothing. But, once those needs are addressed & met, library services come next.
3930	7/11/2012	All essential. I use this resource often during school year.

3931	7/11/2012	As a librarian, I not only value what libraries provide, but understand their importance to the community as a whole. Libraries are an equalizer, providing computer access and other needed materials to those who cannot otherwise afford it. Libraries also serve as important gathering places.
3932	7/11/2012	public access to information is key -- support of public institutions that seek good for the community
3933	7/11/2012	The library is used by a broad spectrum of the community: homeless and housed, rich and poor, all ages, many races. It is a place for many community members to learn, absorb knowledge, and find new resource materials. Outside of the essential public services (trash, sewer, electricity, etc), Multnomah County Library enriches our city by being there for all our citizenry.
3934	7/11/2012	I believe it is very important for the public to have libraries as a source of books and other services. Police and fire are more important so I ranked libraries as somewhat important.
3935	7/11/2012	It's convenient for those who don't have access to computer equipments and reading materials.
3936	7/11/2012	Education, Education, Education, and, of course, accessibility to information.
3937	7/11/2012	There are other services needing higher priorities, health, schools, etc.
3938	7/11/2012	Now that I'm retired having books and videos and opportunities to meet in the library for groups is very important to me. I know that schools will also be asking for a Levy and I think that is of critical importance.
3939	7/11/2012	It's a way for everyone to have the same access to books, movies and learning materials.
3940	7/11/2012	Making books and other resources available to everyone
3941	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of few institutions that offer free opportunities for enrichment to populations who need them most (low-income people, kids, seniors, English language learners). This is some of the best anti-classist organizing we have. In "bad" neighborhoods (although that concept is based on rich peoples' opinions of "good"), libraries are a safe community space.
3942	7/11/2012	They are more than just a house with free media. They remind the community of it's own strength and unity.
3943	7/11/2012	levels the socioeconomic playing field, great way to educate w/o purchasing/wasting resources. i both buy & check out books/dvd's but am inclined to check things out via the library 1st.
3944	7/11/2012	It is my primary resource for books and other materials.
3945	7/11/2012	because they had to our quality of life
3946	7/11/2012	The library system has been a wonderful source books for my children as well as fun baby and toddler programs. The library system allows my children to be exposed to a large variety and ever changing array of books.
3947	7/11/2012	Affordable reading and access to computers and the internet are critical to all members of society. A safe place for young people and seniors is also important.
3948	7/11/2012	They are not important, I don't like paying for things that I do not use... NO MORE TAXES...
3949	7/11/2012	Encouraging reading at all ages is essential to a healthy community.
3950	7/11/2012	Because learning has one of the greatest impacts on your life.

3951	7/11/2012	I use this public service weekly, as opposed to other services which I have never used
3952	7/11/2012	Library services promote knowledge for all that seek it.
3953	7/11/2012	just knowing they strive to keep humankind knowledge in one place is comforting.
3954	7/11/2012	The range of services provided by the library is very broad. When I could not afford internet access at my home, I relied on the library on an almost daily basis. I am looking forward to bringing my niece who is 3 in to browse books to read, to hopefully foster a love in reading in her.
3955	7/11/2012	Easy and free access to books is a necessity for an intelligent, open, truth-seeking public.
3956	7/11/2012	Library provides a great resource to literature (for me) but I also believe public health services are more important.
3957	7/11/2012	we use the library for most of our reading materials and some of are dvd watching
3958	7/11/2012	Provide a safe and positive community space. Access to reading materials/knowledge that those with limited means would not have access to otherwise.
3959	7/11/2012	A public library allows low income individuals to have access literature and nonfiction materials which will help them learn and grow so that they can improve their lives. I am one of those individuals, too, and wouldn't be where I am with my career and life without public libraries.
3960	7/11/2012	Police[] Fire Protection[] Roads[] Enforcement of safe and prudent construction standards[] Reading[] [] That is my priority list
3961	7/11/2012	That what Ben. Franklin would have wanted.
3962	7/11/2012	we have been unemployed for over 2 years. the library is a source for cd/movies, job searches and research both on the Internet and in books. but, even when we were employed, , the library was always a great source for information and entertainment.
3963	7/11/2012	Libraries are the backbone of the community They mean many things to many people, including a safe place to spend time after school for teens, an important source of early literacy education for children, the best source of information and entertainment for all ages. They enrich everyone's lives.
3964	7/11/2012	They create community and awareness around neighbors and provide learning opportunities. Still, their importance falls below services such as police, jails, healthcare, and social services.
3965	7/11/2012	I believe access to information is important in a community. Education and entertainment can sometimes be pushed to the wayside when looking at community policy and needs, but I think they are very important and need advocates.

3966	7/11/2012	This community service is about freedom of information, freedom and real ability to educate one's self. It is one of the truly democratic and egalitarian aspects of our society. It is a gathering place, where people meet in person in a wholesome supportive environment. It is great for the community, it preserves basic rights to better ones self as a person!
3967	7/11/2012	We use the library for checking out books.
3968	7/11/2012	They're necessary but not life-and-death. I'd actually rank them between Somewhat and Very Important.
3969	7/11/2012	A literate and informed society is a better place to live
3970	7/11/2012	I regularly use and depend on them as due my children
3971	7/11/2012	Because they provide information and tools to use that information to people who might otherwise not have access to those things. If we are not an educated community, we are a weak community.
3972	7/11/2012	I would like to say most important but there are other things that must take precedence for so many at this limited resources time. Because my family is very low income and yet my 2 small kids have a ton of books laying around for us to read to them each day. This free resource is critical to giving low income children the same kind of head-start as kids from wealthy homes. We rely on our public library all the time for free entertainment, activities and getting our kids excited about reading and learning.
3973	7/11/2012	I personally rarely visit the library. I buy books and have Internet access. Yet the role of libraries seems vitally important to just society and democracy. Not sure what form it will take in the future. Seems like Google is somewhat the modern version of a library. I wish a public library or a non profit coop was my a portal to the internet.
3974	7/11/2012	Making knowledge and information available to all parts of our society is essential to democracy. The libraries are one of the primary vehicles by which that can occur.
3975	7/11/2012	I don't frequent the library regularly,
3976	7/11/2012	I'd say its about an 8 or 9. Libraries offer so many things to so many different people. The programs for young children are really important to me because I grew up enjoying the summer reading program. I have very fond memories of going to the library, and I want anyone and everyone to love books as much as I do.
3977	7/11/2012	The library gives my family a way to invest in a very important asset -- their minds and wellbeing! We can use the library to learn new skills, research information that helps us make good choices, meet community members, build ties and connections to others, and use the computers.
3978	7/11/2012	An educated population is one of the highest goals for American society and it is not going to be achieved by having a more pervasive culture of television. Libraries and their budgets must be considered sacrosanct when budget and tax options are considered. No citizen left behind should be the ideal and the source of the funding must come from the military budgets and increased taxes on the wealthy and corporations.
3979	7/11/2012	libraries provide continuing education for all ages which positively affect other public services
3980	7/11/2012

3981	7/11/2012	It's important for people to have access to information and also to have a central place to go to find the information, assess services they may not otherwise have access to and it also provides a sense of community
3982	7/11/2012	schools aren't necessarily educating people, so they should be allowed to educate themselves at the library.
3983	7/11/2012	Access to information is priceless.
3984	7/11/2012	among all public services available, they are the one i think that i use most & subjectively appreciate most
3985	7/11/2012	it is one of the few county services that i use. i like to read and from time to time watch videos/
3986	7/11/2012	I have to compare them against emergency services, e.g. life or death services. A city with an inadequate library however would be a sad city.
3987	7/11/2012	this is the one public service I actively seek out
3988	7/11/2012	I am a school teacher and use the library to bring books and movies into my classroom that relate to topics I teach. As well, living on a tight budget, I use the library to help keep my expenses down. I do so by checking out books and movies (rather than buying and renting) and using the printers (rather than owning my own). As a future parent (due in December!) I look forward to one day attending the wonderful children and family readings and events.
3989	7/11/2012	Because people NEED to read and be exposed to books, not just thru the media. Books convey culture and we seem to be losing that and the value of that to our society. Reading encourages thinking which builds conversation, hopefully NOT just on electronic machines. Let's not lose our humanity, for God's sake.
3990	7/11/2012	I love to read, and the library has most of the books that I'm interested in. Besides that, I like having the ability to volunteer for Summer Reading and be a part of Teen Council.
3991	7/11/2012	This is one of the few public services that my family takes advantage of in our everyday lives. I have young children who love to read we have limited space to store purchased books in our home so being able to checkout and return books to the library is a great way to keep them engaged in books. Our family also struggled with unemployment for three years recently. While we were able to maintain our housing and have something to eat from our savings we had no extra income for entertainment. Taking the children to the library and story time was a real blessing and greatly increased our quality of life. We have lots of fun memories of the library and the staff during an otherwise very dismal period of our lives. Even now that our income has been restored the library is a great rainy day activity for our kids when they are feeling cooped up in our tiny condo.
3992	7/11/2012	I read 3 books a week.
3993	7/11/2012	Because there are certain things (e.g., water) that are absolutely necessary for survival.

		What else does, or should, the County do? What services do/could others provide?[] [] The basic thing is that libraries are one of the most basic county services, and that's meant with a small letter "c." [] [] Elections, jails, many human resource services (that aren't primarily provided, or funded, by the State) and public safety services outside cities. Aren't those the primary public services which, along with libraries, aren't provided by any other units of government?[] []
3994	7/11/2012	Out of those, the libraries -- especially in troubled, distressed economic times like the past 8 years or so -- not only provide tools and resources and programs which actually serve to advance the accumulation of skills and education of children and adults, help the many unemployed find work, etc., but also allow thousands to afford to remain involved in books after they've had to forgo Powells and Amazon and the like because of economic hardships.[] [] If we live in a region concerned with supporting education, we have to remember that education is more than just kids a school. Many adults would not have the opportunity to remain part of an educated populace without libraries.[] [] And if the County believes it's a priority to support funding for schools as an important component of broader education goals, it's equally important to continue library funding as a priority. And while the State, the City of Portland, and others, all share in funding schools, it's up to the County, exclusively, to keep the equally important library system fully I have pre-school aged children. Having a free activity I can do with my kids is of paramount importance. We go to the library more than once a week to do story times, check out books, and participate in summer reading. I have met many great friends at the library though the children's programs. I have even become a successful small business owner through a partnership with a lady I met at book babies when our first born children were infants. It is not an overstatement to say that Multnomah County's libraries have changed my life.
3996	7/11/2012	yes
3997	7/11/2012	I use the library every week, wether is reading journals or browsing for books and videos. It helps me save money.
3998	7/11/2012	Because I use the library quite a lot to check out books that interest me. I have rarely been interested in a book that is not available from the library, which I appreciate
3999	7/11/2012	Because literacy is the foundation for a better economy, a more informed population, and a smarter work force. In my opinion libraries are right up there with police and firefighters in terms of importance to our community.
4000	7/11/2012	It is all about education, and social gatherings and it is a still a free service. There are lots of opportunities for many nationalities to learn so much in our libraries, share skills in classes, attend meetings, attend reading programs for children, too much to list. It is about continuing education... to me that is the bottom line. Our libraries are here to help educate and provide materials to do so.

4001	7/11/2012	The best way I know to describe it is to say that when I moved here the first official thing I did was get my OR drivers license. Either that day or the next day I went and got my library card.
4002	7/11/2012	educational services open to all
4003	7/11/2012	I'm a young, stay-at-home mom. I use my library almost every day, to connect with other parents in the community, to encourage literacy for my child, and of course to check out books and CDs I would not be able to afford otherwise.
4004	7/11/2012	I'm 55 and have a BA and a MA, so when I write that I don't use the Library much anymore it is because I find what I need on Google. I'm aware that many, many information sources on the Internet are not credible, but many are credible.[] [] I don't check out fiction so much anymore because I can download it to my i-pad.[] [] Good luck.
4005	7/11/2012	I work as an independent artist and freelancer, and depend a great deal on access to Multco and Worldcat materials that the library provides. From books on grant and proposal writing, to research on urban and transportation studies for the content of my work, to view other media and books that address the issues my work is concerned with (movies, photography monographs), to access reference materials such as publications by the Foundation Center. All of these things combined would be cost-prohibitive to me as an individual consumer. Not to mention, I value the experience of being able to enter a public space like the library where I can see and interact with a diverse mix of community members.
4006	7/11/2012	because i feel the public library is an invaluable resource for everyone in the community
4007	7/11/2012	As a single parent, this allows me to check out and read books my son and I want to read for FREE! This is a great cost savings for us.
4008	7/11/2012	Library services are are for everyone, not just one particular part of the population. They are free. They are important for literacy, for school support (which with continued cuts need all the help they can get), for job searching, for entertainment.
4009	7/11/2012	With not much money for "buying" books or other materials this is every important to have this service.
4010	7/11/2012	I don't need the library that often, but when I do, I'm really glad it's there.
4011	7/11/2012	I have a reading addiction that I can't afford, I read anywhere from 3 to 7 books a week. The library is also my source of computer access, and periodicals.
4012	7/11/2012	I have children and think it's vital to teach them the importance of libraries as we watch funding for the ones in schools diminish each year

4013	7/11/2012	Ignorance will destroy my democracy. People who don't need a public library for source of information - scare me - search for answers, knowledge, information is essential to a dynamic society, government, business and personal health and growth - absolutely necessary for a voter to participate in a democratic country. Immigrants children develop and become self-sufficient and reliable employees in the economy - due to the public library efforts. The reduced income of the elderly - the library services enhances their lives - I can no longer afford to buy a book or subscribe to The Nation, Atlantic Monthly, the New York Times, Bloomberg Business News (please put this on in the library - it's excellent) and now, the Oregonian - also The Asian Reporter and I can get them at my library.
4014	7/11/2012	I see libraries as one of the few social levelers for those who choose to use their resources and services. As an English teacher, I also believe strongly in the good of reading, particularly for very young children, and am appalled by how expensive books are--particularly picture books for kids! I think libraries offer families an alternative to cutting out books as an unnecessary expense during difficult financial times.
4015	7/11/2012	They are very important but that is because that is the only local public service i use. I dont know of other local services or if they might seem valuable to me. But i mostly use the library to check out books and movies, and i think of this as the role of a library.
4016	7/11/2012	freedom and access to information is a cornerstone of our society
4017	7/11/2012	Tri-met is the only public service I make use of anywhere near the same extent as the library.
4018	7/11/2012	Vital source of research materials and general (current) reading selections
4019	7/11/2012	Libraries service all levels of society. The percentage of people impacted by libraries is much higher than those of any other public service. Some people are affected by crime, some people are affected by fires, some people are affected by medical emergencies but everyone can be positively affected by strong library systems and programs.
4020	7/11/2012	They aren't necessarily of that level of importance to me, but to the community and the people who rely on them for daily use.
4021	7/11/2012	Education is how people get to become who they really are.
4022	7/11/2012	Reading, education and the freedom to learn should be the foundation of our society. Instead, people are spending more and more time passively soaking up entertainment that threatens critical-thinking skills -- which is detrimental to a democratic society.
4023	7/11/2012	In this day and age, you can retrieve a lot of information / books on the internet. The library doesn't have to be open everyday. Once people know what the hours of the library are, they will make time to go then. The library was not open on Mondays when I was growing up.
4024	7/11/2012	I took my kids to the library all the time when they were little - to get books, or books on tape, or listen to storytellers - all kinds of things. I think exposure to the resources of a library is crucial to sparking interest in the wider world and helping kids become lifelong learners and generally better people.

4025	7/11/2012	A strong library system is essential to an informed citizenry in a participatory democracy. It is a reminder that our community values educational access for all people regardless of their income level.
4026	7/11/2012	They provide the information/education/resource/media services to the entire community that are virtually inaccessible to the vast majority of people otherwise. The kinds of resources available through the library system have no comparable alternative, in breadth, depth, or geographical/physical accessibility.
4027	7/11/2012	I am unemployed & disabled, I no longer have the luxury of purchasing the books I want to read, also I know people who benefit from the outreach program. Also it is important to have resources available for research.
4028	7/11/2012	Ranks below services like police, fire, street maintenance, schools, etc. library would come right after
4029	7/11/2012	Accessible libraries help make a healthy informed community.
4030	7/11/2012	the free access to information and resources that they make available
4031	7/11/2012	Because while I believe everyone should be using libraries, there are still alternatives.
4032	7/11/2012	A literate and caring community is essential to the health of our world. Libraries provide so much towards that end. Not just the materials, but physical places that bring people from all walks of life together.
4033	7/11/2012	Because libraries are places of refuge, and places of growth and learning for all of us...but especially for children. My son grew up spending a lot of time in libraries, and I credit those experiences for helping to make him the curious and well-informed person that he is today.
4035	7/11/2012	Libraries are the single most important resource for the dissemination of information and access to the knowledge required to build and keep a civilized society. Even in these days of ipods, iphones, Kindles and more, libraries are needed.
4036	7/11/2012	they provide equity of access / services, regardless of SES status. Also, as public school libraries and services are cut, public libraries play a bigger role in supporting a literate society.
4037	7/11/2012	I believe that an information and art literate population is the only hope for solving the problems that we face at all levels from local, to national to international issues. Library materials and services are a key.
4038	7/11/2012	Because they help with other important services like education, community enrichment, family support, job search, and providing a strong learning model for our young children.
4039	7/11/2012	I can purchase my books and periodicals myself. I have my own internet service. Therefore, I really don't need the library.

4040	7/11/2012	I use it and don't other services.
4041	7/11/2012	Without a strong education system, which libraries play a vital role, we will have a weakened, unskilled labor pool from which our "other local public services" would receive their staff. I find the above #7 hard to answer in that broad a context. e.g.: Police & fire are more important than libraries as are quality of water and sewer services----they directly impact health and well-being. Safe parks and park & rec programs are at about the same level of importance with libraries I think. But informed decision-making, knowledge, an appreciation of and access to cultural experiences and resources are vital to a population of citizens seeking to live peacefully and improve their quality of life no matter their income or age. The library provides access to many people that would otherwise have none. I always have a nummy feeling just being in the presence of all that a library embodies; it offers so much potential mind expansion and mental exploration. There is also a feel of belonging to your community; a social value that single individuals may not otherwise experience; just being around other people. It is true I personally do not avail myself of that regularly; I use the library as a "go to" resource for something specific I need for whatever I am interested in or working on at that point in time. My husband, however, considers a trip to the library to return his last batch of mystery & suspense thrillers and pick out a new batch for the next 2 weeks a "God-given right" and ultimately a chance to get out of the house (he's retired) and enjoy himself. He just purchased a Kindle and free access for all to use
4042	7/11/2012	the availability of information and technology is critical for those living in today's world who would otherwise not have access.
4043	7/11/2012	I really enjoy reading and think library are important to the literacy of all.
4044	7/11/2012	As a senior, reading is very important to me but it would be too expensive to purchase books. I borrow on average 2 or 3 books a month from the library and they are a big part of my life.
4045	7/11/2012	The reason I cannot answer this question is because you do not identify the other services. Seriously, are you asking people to compare with life saving services? In my opinion libraries help make life richer they cannot be compared with services that allow people to survive.
4046	7/11/2012	Knowledge = power!
4047	7/11/2012	Libraries are open to everyone, they are meeting places for many aspects of the community, and they provide resources that help people maintain or improve their situations. For example, a job seeker can use library computers to search for work while his child maintains his grades by using library resources for homework. Useful places with full public access are becoming fewer and fewer. We can't all afford high-speed internet service or expensive tutoring services.
4048	7/11/2012	Expensive - Fire - Police - Emergency much more important
4049	7/11/2012	With the economy in the shape it's in and bookstores closing everywhere, access to books and media is crucial...not just for me but, for the entire community.
4050	7/11/2012	They are important because libraries provide a self educational service to all people of all ages.
4051	7/11/2012
4052	7/11/2012

4053	7/11/2012	We live in the age of information and technology. All of our community members deserve access to both of these, and the services the library includes (use of computers and the internet, access to newspapers and other publications, programs to support parents, seniors, English language learners) are all critical.
4054	7/11/2012	They provide me resources to satisfy my constant love of learning, my needs to watch good films and TV, it provides me with how to projects and new recipes in books, provides me with new types of music to listen to, provides me with access to downloading music from freegal.com, and it satisfies me with a constant supply of books to read for pleasure!
4055	7/11/2012	Reading is very important to me and i greatly appreciate being able to visit the library all the time.
4056	7/11/2012	Retail books are very expense. I'm recently retired, can no longer afford to buy books. The library is a wonderful resource that I've would really miss if it were not available to me.
4057	7/11/2012	Library services are able to help all people across all spectrum of society if the appropriate emphasis is applied
4058	7/11/2012	I think they provide a service that no one else does, between computer access for job searches, serving low-income areas, teaching kids how to read, giving a place for senior citizens to go during the day and read, etc.
4059	7/11/2012	Extremely important. From the time I was very little until I die of old age
4060	7/11/2012	The library is a major function of any communiity, for all the reasons you've addressed and more. If there is anything I can do to help keep it open please feel free to let me know. I may not have much money, but I have a good voice and I'll talk to anyone necessary to keep our libraries open.
4061	7/11/2012	I regularly check out books from the library.
4062	7/11/2012	I don't use many other public services.
4063	7/11/2012	We homeschool and could never afford the amount of books my kids and I read. The library is our public school.
4064	7/11/2012	Libraries create equal access to information, which is one of the most important tools for social transformation. Access to knowledge, education, and resources such as computers for job-seeking promote social justice. They also provide crucial community space.
4065	7/11/2012	Because education and information dissemination is important for every individual. The young adult can benefit from it by learning more or learning new things. There are many of variety of books to choose from, and it is very helpful, may it be spiritually, psychologically and mentally. Reading books are good for everyone.
4066	7/11/2012	Convenience factor is important. The resources are available in one location, which is also lovely.
4067	7/11/2012	Because they provide access to information and keep alive the culture of books. Also, they are a way that people with fewer resources can go to level the playing field.

4068	7/11/2012	Until I retired I taught at the university level. I still audit courses at PSU. I do not have access to a computer at home. I use the Central Library for reading journals and such on-line, obtaining DVDs, and reading leisure books , academic books, and the New York Times. I'm there about five days a week. It's an excellent resource for me.
4069	7/11/2012	We are constantly using the resources our library offers. Many people are unaware of what's available. Those of us who use the library all feel it's very important. From books, cds, research materials, reference materials, interlibrary loans, worldcat, help for small businesses, seniors and computer access for those of us who don't have computers. It's the starting point for children to get interested in reading and have a love of books throughout their lives.
4070	7/11/2012	Just other public services benefiting the community for a better quality of life, the library provides many resources to benefit every age group.
4071	7/11/2012	I use them more than other public services
4072	7/11/2012	I avail myself of music, books, and movies through the library on a constant basis. I love that in this virtual world we are more and more inhabiting with the internet that there are still community places like the library, where you can go and feed your mind and soul and have a conversation with a kind and informed individual, where people can come together (even if separately) to educate themselves in various ways, or to find healthy forms of entertainment.
4073	7/11/2012	Question 7 would not let me choose an option so I Somewhat important because issues of health and Safety, transportation, economics and the like often supersede our need for self improvement news and diversions. However it is still somewhat important because it supports children's education and cares for seniors.
4074	7/11/2012	Because books open up new worlds. It is importance to be able to get information and to find entertainment with books.
4075	7/11/2012	Information and media access are of crucial importance to an informed populace.
4076	7/11/2012	because library services provide education and entertainment for the less advantaged and/or lower income public.
4077	7/11/2012	I think social services, police and fire are more important.
4078	7/11/2012	i was raised with going to the library to get books, which is why i take my kids there now. It does not need to be open as often as it once was. It is probably an important resource to those with less who may use other features of the library.
4079	7/11/2012	books are expensive, not all can afford to buy them. Library is a great way to access books and we need reading to keep going on.

4080	7/11/2012	I think the Multnomah (and Clackamas) library systems are pretty amazing. During a recession like our country has been in, I think libraries are important places to keep people informed. I have implemented regular library use as part of my way to save money right now while times are tight, but honestly can't see why I would not continue to use libraries even if times were better. The local library in this and in other communities I've lived in has been a resource I valued for entertainment, escape, a connection to community, conducting research and educating myself.
4081	7/11/2012	Our democracy and economy depend on an educated populace. Library services enable anyone/everyone to access to materials for enjoyment, enrichment, enhancement, education.
4082	7/11/2012	I use the library often for audio books, comic books, and new music. I would say it is the most important public service that I use, if not the only public service I use.
4083	7/11/2012	The library is a place where anyone can take refuge- for free- and be comfortable and treated equally. It offers tools for people to help themselves be better people and improve their situations. The library gives kids a place to go to hang out --especially Midland and Rockwood where I have taught craft workshops to teens. The kids who live in the suburbs don't have any fun places to go but the library.
4084	7/11/2012	Fire and Police are more important. Schools next which allows for students to access their library.[] With Web competing with library wonder how long public library will be around. Most books I read are purchased and CD's being purchased less even DVD's purchase is less due to Netflix and RedBox.
4085	7/11/2012	"When you are growing up there are two institutional places that affect you most powerfully: the church, which belongs to God, and the public library, which belongs to you."[] - Keith Richards
4086	7/11/2012	Libraries provide services that no other agency or institution offers the community.
4087	7/11/2012	It is a resource that I use on a weekly bases. It fills a need that some of the other services do not provide and more then anything it helps with strengthening our community.
4088	7/11/2012	Education & Information
4089	7/11/2012	I think because the library serves such a wide range of people and their needs. It fills in gaps for other services that get cut as well. It is so accessable and useful to so many people. It is also a very valuable resource for students of all ages as school resources and libraries get cut back. This in turn helps us all as a population in the long run. As a side benefit, I feel like it also keeps people feeling connected to their community, which is very important to keeping Portland so friendly and livable.
4090	7/11/2012	Portland has a big history of being book friendly (Powell's), I think that's a unique and important aspect of our city that needs to be supported
4091	7/11/2012	Libraries help create a sense of belonging to the city that doesn't require money to participate, so it is fairly accessible to everyone. It seems like we are loosing more and more accessible community resources every year. Libraries also helps share knowledge for us to better ourselves.

4092	7/11/2012	I probably use the library more than any other public service. The books, magazines, dvds, etc keep me connected and engaged to current events and my community. It is equal opportunity - all can access.
4093	7/11/2012	Access to important materials for the poor and students. I like to see how every kind of different people have quality access-
4094	7/11/2012	As a lifelong learner with eclectic tastes, libraries provide access to a healthy variety of materials to satisfy and stimulate.
4095	7/11/2012	I don't currently use the library much but in the past I have used it for research, job searching, keeping informed of news and socializing with others.
4096	7/11/2012	Libraries have been important to me all my life, and to my children. When I was in college and later in graduate school, I spent many hours in libraries doing various kind of research. I've always enjoyed reading and now, at age 87, it's even more important than when i could still do a lot of other things like hiking, going to concerts, etc. My hearing is not as good as it once was but my eyes are still strong. I buy fewer books now and will be relying more on the library's collectins.
4097	7/11/2012	The library is resourceful to me in many ways, helps me research and learn about valued artists and authors, get directions to where I need to be, and stay up to date on current events.
4098	7/11/2012	I have always heavily used the library for my own reading and research, and now I am there constantly finding books, audio books and movies with my 4 year old son. We also attend some of the young child programs. Probably more importantly, libraries are at the heart of our community's effort to offer disempowered people equal access to the materials that record, analyze, innovate and archive every aspect of our culture.
4099	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to printed media, computers, educational programs, as well as a clean, safe place to enjoy them.
4100	7/11/2012	Because I read a lot, as does my husband. A lot.
4101	7/11/2012	my library has many more books and videos than I can ever afford to purchase. But police, fire and emergency services rand above library services
4102	7/11/2012	I'm attending college and some information I seek may be found conveniently at the local library.
4103	7/11/2012	Our local library improves our quality of life and contributes to what we love about living in Portland. We take our kids there weekly to participate in story hours with other kids, and to explore new books. When our household budget got tighter a few years ago, we started relying on the library more and more as a source for books, movies, and music that expand our knowledge and experience of the world.
4104	7/11/2012	I like getting books at the Library
4105	7/11/2012	We go to the library almost every day and I don't know what I would do if that resource wasn't as easily accessible.
4106	7/11/2012	I use the library system fairly often for books and other media - it helps reduce the cost of buying everything.

4107	7/11/2012	Research, resources, community service opportunities, accessibility to information (yes, things that are and are not available on the internet!). There is nothing like reading a good book!
4108	7/11/2012	The library helps me save money on books, dvd rentals, and keeps me connected to the community by getting me involved in the activities they put on like Intercambio last summer.
4109	7/11/2012	I love having the ability to catch up on the latest books and media and interests with out having to sacrifice a lot of money if it doesn't work out in the end. I also love the atmosphere of most of the libraries I visit.
4110	7/11/2012	Because I use the library so much. I am there at least once per week and am always checking things out online.
4111	7/11/2012	As a lifelong learner, I cannot imagine trying to use the library's resources from other places, such as Powell's, and have to pay for everything I read. Very, very important.
4112	7/11/2012	I don't have the $ to buy books and they're hard to move and take up a lot of space.. It is my main source of entertainment. I also don't have the $ to get internet at home and must either go to the Lib. for free or go to a coffee shop and there I'm more tempted to spend..
4113	7/11/2012	I think that the library is something that is easily accessible to everyone. Often, there are local public services available, but people might not know about them, aren't comfortable stepping out and using them, or are limited to a certain people group (e.g., low socioeconomic status). But I think that the library is a place that everyone feels comfortable stepping into whether it is to use a reading program for kids, getting helping looking for a job, or just getting a chance to use the computers.
4114	7/11/2012	I love the library.
4115	7/11/2012	A library is a community center, a heart. It brings people together in a creative environment.
4116	7/11/2012	libraries ensure free access to knowledge for all americans and i believe that is at the very core of what we as americans believe makes our democracy unique and powerful and free. also, libraries provide a secular community meeting ground for learning, sharing, exploring in a way that no other institution can provide.
4117	7/11/2012	i use them
4118	7/11/2012	I have always loved to read and going to the library to peruse the shelves has always delighted me. I have a computer at home, but I see so many people using the computers at the library, so I would think that is an invaluable community service. Children open a new book and their imagination takes off!
4119	7/11/2012	libraries are very important for many groups but essential services are more important
4120	7/11/2012	see previous response
4121	7/11/2012	Access to information, education, and community is the foundation for a responsible, empowered citizenry: "Knowledge is Power"
4122	7/11/2012	Booskaq

4123	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to information, and a library's collection should remain relevant to the population around them.
4124	7/11/2012	Available resources to the public that support education are extremely important for the growth of our society. Being able to access books is a key part of this.
4125	7/11/2012	I believe the public library is an essential service just like public schools. All towns and cities should have them.
4126	7/11/2012	Police, fire, water, sewage treatment, schools, highway maintenance, library, bicycles.
4127	7/11/2012	One of my happiest aspects of life is that I can read most any book I desire for free. The same goes for listening to music and watching films. I anticipate the emails from the library that let me know my materials are "ready for pick-up". Since I am a very low income person I would otherwise not be able to have the literary and entertainment immersion if the library was not functioning. For me, the weekly library trips are as important as going to the grocery store!
4128	7/11/2012	Libraries are important resources for those without the means to procure library services for themselves.
4129	7/11/2012	Libraries contribute to the education and knowledge of citizenry.
4130	7/11/2012	Because they offer free knowledge and entertainment, can build community, and offer opportunities for people who may not otherwise have them. They also prevent the waste of buying books I would only read once or want for a temporary resource, and they provide access to resources I probably wouldn't be able to otherwise afford.
4131	7/11/2012	Libraries are an important resource for anyone...I went back to school at age 45 and I used the library everyday. It's huge to have the services it offers available to the public. Books have been my joy, my refuge, my educators, and even my livelihood all my life (I am an author). As a teacher years ago of American literature, journalism, etc. I found opening books to others of great value to them and a joy to me. Today libraries also offer films, music, etc. which can expand our hearts, minds, and souls - or, as is true of books, sully them. We are a free country, thank God, and I am willing to risk readers have contact with books that point them toward unwise political decisions, racial and/or religious bigotry, moral laxity, etc. to keep our libraries places that offer a broad view. But I also rejoice when the library pushes books that aim at the highest ideals of humanity by personal appearances for readings or in the perhaps now defunct (haven't seen it lately) librarian newsletter. I WENT TO THE NEXT QUESTION ABOUT WHAT SOURCE OF FUNDING. I THINK DUE TO THE ECONOMIC HARDSHIP PEOPLE ARE EXPERIENCING ESPECIALLY ELDERLY AND DISABLED WHO USED TO BE HELPED BUT NOW ARE BEING VICTIMIZED (i'M NOT AMONG THEM) THROUGH THE PROPERTY TAX DEFERRAL PROGRAM, WE SHOULD ACCEPT THE LOWERED SERVICES FOR THE NEXT SEVERAL YEARS. AT THE TIME WHEN THE ECONOMY BEGINS TO RECOVER, I THINK A LIBRARY DISTRICT OR A HIGHER RATE SHOULD BE PUT TO THE VOTERS AS EACH IS A GOOD ALTERNATIVE. SINCE I CAN'T SAY THIS ON THE NEXT PAGE, I WILL LEAVE THAT
4132	7/11/2012	i think they have a great value to society but I don't personally use them
4133	7/11/2012
4134	7/11/2012	The library educates and opens doors! I would not have done well in school/gone to college without the library.

4135	7/11/2012	I believe public libraries are a cornerstone of an educated, egalitarian democracy. Without them, our country would be even more polarized.
4136	7/11/2012	access to knowledge empowers
4137	7/11/2012	I appreciate and use the library more than other public services, but have to rank fire, police, schools, health, etc. higher, because they are more fundamental.
4138	7/11/2012	They provide a free service that offers countless hours of entertainment and education that is easily accessible to all classes.
4139	7/11/2012	Teaching children to read and enjoy books is crucial
4140	7/11/2012	Libraries are important to provide free access to books and resources, but in this economy, other priority services such as getting people back to work, support to strengthen businesses, and fixing our roads is more important.
4141	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge.
4142	7/11/2012	It's a very important resource-especially for our children.
4143	7/11/2012	Living in a democracy it is essential that the people are literate, informed, and involved. A free, open library system is the most fundamentally vital service our government can provide.
4144	7/11/2012	From childhood till the present, the love of reading has enriched my life more than any other factor.
4145	7/11/2012	Because I believe libraries are important to the Portland community. The availability of information (be it books or media or community events) is essential to our culture. There are many of us out there that don't have the funds to access these things without the library.
4146	7/11/2012	They are places where the community can gather, but most importantly, they provide access to the outside world that is a necessity for people to manage their lives. Information and access to information, especially for those in need, is critical to help keep citizens engaged in our community.
4147	7/11/2012	Public computers, dvd,cd ect.
4148	7/11/2012	read a lot and have been going to the Belmont Library since childhood.
4149	7/11/2012	Our income does not allow for buying books. We only purchase books that are of great importance to us. We have no desire to obtain books electronically. However, we do not feel that the library has to be open every day of the week. We feel that the story hours for younger children are important. One should also read to children at home and encourage reading as they grow older. Books need to be available to people of all ages especially to those who have limited access to books from another source. At the same time schools also have a responsibility to provide libraries and quiet places of study for their students.
4150	7/11/2012	I use the library services much more frequently than other services except water. The library increases my quality of life. Libraries are essential to keep our children reading instead of being gobbled up by electronic devices.

4151	7/11/2012	I believe the Library is equally important to the Portland Children's Levy, and for that reason, I will not vote for increase funding for the Library, because I want to see the Portland Children's Levy programs survive too. The libraries in Portland are great, but not more important than other city-funded youth programs.
4152	7/11/2012	I have access to a lot of the resources the library provides, but many others don't. It provides them with resources it would be almost impossible for them to acquire on their own.
4153	7/11/2012	I recently rediscovered how great the library is. When I was a child, it was a huge highlight to go to the library & I became a reader & broadened my language as a result.
4154	7/11/2012	An educated and informed society is key to a well functioning democracy. We live in an information age and the libraries help ensure that everyone has access to information.
4155	7/11/2012	tops necessary free resource making it possible to learn, research, and plan for jobs, work, education, and recreation
4156	7/11/2012	Because I can access necessary information for my life.
4157	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to reading materials that low and middle income families could not otherwise provide for their children. Early and continued education for children who want to learn are extremely important to our family. Supporting children who seek higher education is woefully underscored in our public service system.
4158	7/11/2012	Because its essential to our children's future.
4159	7/11/2012	I have a lifelong passion for reading and learning new things. With the library I can continue to indulge my love of reading as much as want without spending a fortune or only reading the books I can afford to purchase.
4160	7/11/2012	Many public services are more important but the library is proactive instead of reactive. For now the library is not the most necessary of resources for those in greatest need, but it is a service that is vital to the community. It is a gathering place at times, an enrichment for young and old alike, a source for those looking for work or life improvement, a port in the storm so to speak.
4161	7/11/2012	The future of the community depends on citizens who can read, research, absorb, and analyze information.
4162	7/11/2012	They make learning and literature accessible to everyone, which is the cornerstone of a functioning society.
4163	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge is important to all citizens
4164	7/11/2012	Libraries are what provides education, culture, entertainment, socializing, assistance, job training / finding, and so on. They help provide equal access to all of us, even the handicapped, rich, homeless, and the average citizen. Many of us have learned to love reading by going to libraries. We get tax help, learn how to access ebooks, acquire job hunting skills, find a warm place to read the newspaper.
4165	7/11/2012	Well-informed population, center for the community, access to information/literature

4166	7/11/2012	They help combat ignorance.
4167	7/11/2012	Because having a learned population that reads and is engaged in the community is what makes Portland such a great city.
4168	7/11/2012	It is a means to get out and learn about new things, to be exposed to news of the world through Internet, magazines, etc., to choose reading without having to buy it.
4169	7/11/2012	Generations have benefited from free libraries, in ways that can't be measured. Educationally, politically, emotionally, -- worlds opening to young people through literature, the humanities, arts and sciences, They are as important as free public schools.
4170	7/11/2012	Some things are more important, like emergency services. But the library is more than just a place to get books. It is a community center, an education hub, a resource for job seekers, a place where all ages can intermingle and interact ... ditto for ethnic groups. Gregory Heights is a great cross-section of all these. I would actually weep if we were to lose this important service to our community.
4171	7/11/2012	I am an educator and student so I believe that the library serves a very important role in the development and maintenance of a strong community.
4172	7/11/2012	Books and printed matter are necessary. Libraries are used for research by students and scholars and everybody who needs to use them for such.
4173	7/11/2012	I use the library frequently. I think public transportation, parks, and other services are very important to our communities but I do not use them very often. So, libraries are important to me personally, but don't overshadow other services that are essential for the whole community.
4174	7/11/2012	We (as a community) need many public services (libraries, public transit, garbage service, etc.). Libraries are near the top for importance, because above all else, they provide the opportunity for increased education. Learning is the key. Keeping libraries open for people playing games (even socially) on PCs is not a priority for me, but just about every other use of the library is.
4175	7/11/2012	I use the library more than any other public service. I love reading. I also love interacting with the people that also come to the library.
4176	7/11/2012	It provides me and my children access to a variety of reading materials we couldn't otherwise afford.
4177	7/11/2012	I think they are an important resource that everyone has access to.
4178	7/11/2012	Due to the education value that they bring to the community.
4179	7/11/2012	Other public services include the fire department and police station and other services that are extremely necessary. Aside from emergency services, having a local library available is very important and a wonderful thing to have. I wish more people, of all ages really, would realize how much it is possible to enjoy browsing or taking advantage of the library.
4180	7/11/2012	We use the library a lot not only for pleasure but research for information. There will always be a need for libraries.
4181	7/11/2012	Our family uses and enjoys the services, but beyond that, I feel strongly that they are services that should remain accessible to all.

4182	7/11/2012	services everyone, regardless of income. Provides a place and programs for the community. A gathering place for communities.
4183	7/11/2012	After the public parks, the library is the second most important local service for my family.
4184	7/11/2012	Hub of community
4185	7/11/2012	I love the library, its very handy for college. I actually wished they would stay open later at least once or twice a week; like until 10pm.
4186	7/11/2012	I have used libraries and valued them since I was old enough to ride a bike to my local library on Queen Anne Hill in Seattle.
4187	7/11/2012	They help to educate, employ, and improve the lives of every member of our community, without discrimination. Whether you have very little money or more than you know what to do with, the library offers you worlds to explore and a multitude of ways to enrich your life.
4188	7/11/2012	I say "somewhat important" only because public safety & infrastructure must be there for the libraries to even be used. However, libraries are a critical foundational block to create desirable communities with good housing, jobs & public amenities that reduce the need for public safety spending.
4189	7/11/2012	They are important at different levels to different groups in society. At this stage in my life I don't use it as much but I can see it becoming very important to me in the future.
4190	7/11/2012	I think it is important for people to be educated and the library offers opportunity for folks to educate themselves.
4191	7/11/2012	life is useless without books
4192	7/11/2012	It gives me, and many many others access to resources which we otherwise wouldn't have access to due to cost.
4193	7/11/2012	Reading and access to books and internet is empowering ,knowledge and a necessity to our community. Many who can barely survive after taxes and utilities. Many voted for the library tax even though it is hard to make ends meet because we need the library.
4194	7/11/2012	The library serves all patron information needs. For some people, this is the only computer or internet access they have. Through the programs, services and resources it provides, the library is an essential to the educational, social and civic life of our community and metro area.
4195	7/11/2012	All social services are important. □ Everyone should have access to books.
4196	7/11/2012	Free access to books and other materials.
4197	7/11/2012	They're a fundamental civic good, and important to folks who don't have internet access or money to buy books/newspapers.
4198	7/11/2012	Without public libraries knowledge becomes a privilege of the wealthy rather than a basic human right and that is un-American
4199	7/11/2012	I am on fixed income and the library provides books, DVD's and other resources to me at no cost. I would personally vote to support any measure that comes up regarding the library.

4200	7/11/2012	I don't want to write an essay, but in short, I think libraries are a pillar of democratic society, a civilizing influence, an opportunity for people from different backgrounds to gather and interact in a free and open space, an important educational resource in a society where education is getting more expensive and where access is divided by class and affluence more and more every year. I really can't say enough about how important libraries are.
4201	7/11/2012	We use and see the benefit of library in our community.
4202	7/11/2012	I'm an MLIS student! But seriously, libraries provide services that are essential to virtually every group of people in communities - seniors, children, adults, job seekers, teenagers, etc. We're really moving into the Information Age now, and providing free access to information and alternatives to Google-style search engines is very important.
4203	7/11/2012	I need books. I need Trimet more, but a library can take over the functions of job counseling, further education, recreation, and community.
4204	7/11/2012	It's vital that the library services be available for free to the public. With corporations taking over the economy, there needs to be a place ALL citizens can get the intellectual support they need. Research, art, storytelling, job search, and just plain pleasure reading should be easily accessible to anyone who wants it.
4205	7/11/2012	It is the most vital library I have ever used. It serves the widest of social, ethnic and cultural diversity I have ever seen. It is amazing.
4206	7/11/2012	It is the only resource of free knowledge that you can take home to study. It is how I learned much of what I know today.
4207	7/11/2012	Because reading and learning are important. Because community is important. Because building community around learning is one of the most important things of all.
4208	7/11/2012	I always encourage people to use their local library. Printed texts avoid many of the shortcomings of virtual media in terms of accuracy, consistent perspective, authority, and it also encourages extended, attentive thought.
4209	7/11/2012	maximum
4210	7/11/2012	Libraries provide services and opportunities that can't be found anywhere else and that improve communities.
4211	7/11/2012	I use them at least once a week (but I'm online at multiple times per week). I feel they're important to the public since there's no stigma associated with them (compared to food stamps or WIC or other public services for low-income families). Anyone can access services at the library.
4212	7/11/2012	They provide the opportunity for education and bettering of self!!
4213	7/11/2012	I think that they offer me an opportunity to read and learn more about the world around me.
4214	7/11/2012	I really enjoy the services that the library offers and I have a 1 year old and am looking forward to taking him to the library when he's a little older.
4215	7/11/2012	The library provides places to read, grow and learn, It is very important to maintain these services,

4216	7/11/2012	Books and media are an important part of our cultural lives, as is a central location to gather information. Purchasing books is expensive. Libraries make media services, information and literature available to all. A great way to educate a community, which humanizes us all - contributes to less crime, more empathy.
4217	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge, technology, entertainment regardless of income or ability is vital. I learned to love to read because of my local library; I can't imagine my life without it.
4218	7/11/2012	Access to a wide variety of media across all income levels is important for the development of fully rounded citizens.
4219	7/11/2012	Because they offer a wide range of services not found through other organizations. And play an important role in education.
4220	7/11/2012	In this economy, I have chosen to check out books from the library instead of purchasing new books. It saves me money and I love the library system here in Portland.
4221	7/11/2012	more important is public healthcare, public school, social services, mental services, food assistance, housing assistance. gas, water, and electricity are important too but we wont be able to do much with those resources if people do not continue to learn and the library is the most basic resource to educate oneself - especially for those who may not have home internet access. It is very important to me to improve the education and literacy of ANY person in our community. The library is accessible to those in marginalized populations that we need to be sure we address the needs of and improve their social & economic status- one way to do that is with education and the library is an incredible service free to residents.
4222	7/11/2012	Libraries can and should provide a hub of education and community activities. Without libraries, we make it difficult to pick up the destitute, entertain the educated, or help parents engage in the education and development of their young. My fondest memories as a child were at the library (which is probably why I still go to the library to work on occasion).
4223	7/11/2012	Libraries are not in the same level of importance as police, fire, utilities and roads but libraries are a major contributor to the the quality of life in any city or town.
4224	7/11/2012	I read a great deal and the library gives me access to materials in all forms that I could not afford to purchase on my own.
4225	7/11/2012	Reading is mid-expanding and everyone deserves access to books
4226	7/11/2012	public access to literature is undervalued
4227	7/11/2012	Public libraries are an American tradition and incredible resource for all regardless of age, race, income. In a time when our youth are becoming less well educated, it is vital for there to be other resources for learning to read, to research and become informed outside of the school systems which are also failing unless one can afford an expensive private school. Education should not be based on income.
4228	7/11/2012	they are good for the community

4229	7/11/2012	The library and it's services testify to the health of the entire community, especially to those who may be economically disadvantaged.
4230	7/11/2012	I use them as a vehicle to conduct research and to provide me with readding materials, so they are very important.
4231	7/11/2012	Especially in Portland, having access to books and other materials keeps the city vibrant.
4232	7/11/2012	I would not be where I am today without the resources available at the library, nor would the rest of my family. We have researched everything from agriculture, appliance repair, legal strategies for bad landlords...the library is a vital resource which (if only for copyright reasons) the internet will never replace.
4233	7/11/2012	I utilize the resources and materials frequently.
4234	7/11/2012	For me, being able to put holds on books that I want to read and pick them up at my convenience is very important to me
4235	7/11/2012	Libraries give access to all people regardless of how much money they have. At the very least, if someone can have access to a library, even if they can afford nothing else, they can check out a book for entertainment and company, or education.
4236	7/11/2012	Access to reading materials is essential to healthy cognitive development for children.
4237	7/11/2012	the Hilsdale Library is my only access to the web and my school requires me to have that access. i also can't just go out and buy every book that i want so i borrow them and it gives me a chance to still experience that author's work. I'm also very fond of libraries and would hate to see any go down.
4238	7/11/2012	The public library is one of the only public resources available to me on a daily basis. It is a source of information, entertainment, and a place to be around my fellow citizens. I do not know what I would do if I did not have the library as a resource. It would be a devastataing loss to me.
4239	7/11/2012	I believe the library is a vital component of our local communities. Books are the basis for learning, developing, understanding, sharing, exploring, fantasizing...
4241	7/11/2012	The library provides resources that people might not otherwise have access to; it levels the playing field so that lower income people have the same access to information and learning as high income. It is also a vibrant and positive example of community, a place where all people are welcome and belong. It supports literacy, knowledge, and culture, which are the basis of a happy society.
4242	7/11/2012	An educated public is the best hope for the future.
4243	7/11/2012	I use them on a frequent basis. My family used them when raising kids to foster a love of reading. Libraries are invaluable.
4244	7/11/2012	I love my library, it is very important to me and my grandson

4245	7/11/2012	Most of my entertainment is gained through the library, be it books, videos, magazines, etc. Having a free resource for current media is important as many other staples in life there is no free or even inexpensive options and entertainment often is first on the chopping block.
4246	7/11/2012	Libraries keep information, knowledge, and education free and verifiable for ever stratum of society.
4247	7/11/2012	The library provides direct services. As long as my faucet works and my toilet flushes and my library is open--what else matters?
4248	7/11/2012	I use the library most every day. I am a prolific reader and with the books on tape and large print volumes I can continue to read even though I am getting older. When my children were young we went to story time etc and they love books as much as I do though they are grown.
4249	7/11/2012	An informed citizenry is essential. The library helps inform those with fewer resources to pay for these materials for their family home. It's also a modeling situation for children and teens when they see all these many and diverse people reading, etc. at the library. This is very important for encouraging life-long learning in our students.
4250	7/11/2012	A strong democracy depends upon an educated and engaged electorate. Libraries provide access to information at no immediate direct cost, a service that is vital to democracy. [] Both of my parents were teachers, and my husband and I were also teachers for part of our working lives. We are both "life long learners" and believe that libraries are what make this life style available to all.
4251	7/11/2012	Libraries are available for everyone which is important if someone doesn't have the money to buy books or a computer to access knowledge. Libraries promote learning which people need to be well informed citizens and human beings.
4252	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and without the library my access to the books I want to read would be much more of a challenge.
4253	7/11/2012	I use the library for learning new things and honing existing ones, which would have been impossible without the resources at the library as books can be expensive.
4254	7/11/2012	I know that the public library meets the needs of people at all levels of socio-economic status, but is often the most accessible and well-known resource for vulnerable members of our communities.
4255	7/11/2012	As a senior I plan to utilize some of the training that is offered on the computer & I download books for my Nook without having to purchase an expensive book.
4256	7/11/2012	Free activities for my kids that are both fun for them and educational. I have been able to make both personal and property/material improvements through research utilizing the Library's vast resources. The Library provides stress-relief & leisure through available music, literature and cinema.
4257	7/11/2012	It is a necessary resource for many folks that do not have access to computer or job search opportunities. Also it gives free activities for kids.

4258	7/11/2012	Libraries enhance the knowledge base of the community. They provide social services to needy people (such as: children with homework help, adults with internet access). They build community through their busy storytimes and the amazing summer reading program for kids, Everybody Reads for adults.
4259	7/11/2012	I love to read, and I gain so much enjoyment & knowledge from reading that I want everyone to have that available to them.
4260	7/11/2012	I enjoy the library, but think it is an invaluable resource to families who cannot afford books, computers, etc. to aid the development and learning of children and adults.
4261	7/11/2012	Because the trend over the last twenty years has been away from reading; Americans are poorly informed, saturated in t.v. propaganda. I have loved to read since I was a grade school. Now that I am older I read about 1 book a day. I love going to the library and finding books. I also use it as a resource.[]
4262	7/11/2012	I take my grand daughter there for stories and it is a good neighborhood place to go, feel's like a "safe" place to engage with young children. [] It is the only local resource that I use on such a consistent basis.
4263	7/11/2012	Not absolutely essential, but close.
4264	7/11/2012	They are a good, neutral place for people to come.
4265	7/11/2012	They are somewhat important to support my reading and media interest and to provide access to current databases.
4266	7/11/2012	The majority of the books I read come from the library. If the library system didn't exist, I would have a much harder time getting books to read. Without the library system, I wouldn't be nearly as well-read as I am.
4267	7/11/2012	Literacy is of the utmost importance. Not everyone can afford books. When I was a child I rode my bike to the library 3 times a week to get books and read. As a parent-educator the library outreach and young kid programs were essential to my clients learning how to read with and encourage their kids. As a high schooler, all of my research was done at central and the cultural offerings at n Portland reminded my peers that black ppl are an integral part of oregon's history. I am starting a reading group for low income students to learn key texts in their cultural histories and the library is essential to that group's success. If we lock up the books and only make them available to the rich we rob people of their right to knowledge, imagination, and ultimately equal access to academic success.
4269	7/11/2012	A literate informed public can make rational decisions.
4270	7/11/2012	Books are important for anyone who wishes to know anything. they are a way to experience diversity without huge expense for travelling.
4271	7/11/2012	A strong library system increases access for everyone to literature, educational information and community support. I remember when any question I had could be answered by our library either by having the information on hand or by research.

4272	7/11/2012	Because all of the services at the library are to there to help the community as a whole, and not just a few minorities.
4273	7/11/2012	I would say very important, but Schools are really hurting, so they must be our first priority. However libraries are even more important now, as many kids don't have access to good school libraries staffed by persons with degrees in library science.
4274	7/11/2012	Our library system is a big part of our community!
4275	7/11/2012	Democracy needs the free access to information
4276	7/11/2012	BOOKS! That is what the libray is all about...not a bunch of other junk. [] People need to read to use thier minds.
4277	7/11/2012	variety and options
4278	7/11/2012	It gives everybody equal access to a variety of resources. It is also provides a strong sense of community.
4279	7/11/2012	knowledge
4280	7/11/2012	Because they provide opportunities for education and personal improvement and fun!
4281	7/11/2012	I love having information available for free, to all citizens. Also, it helps reduce usage of resources when things can be borrowed, rather than bought. I am able to order books from other libraries and have them to delivered to the Belmont branch, my local library branch. [] Also I think the more people read, the more they are informed to pick their government based on their needs.[]
4282	7/11/2012	The physical book is more viable today than it ever was with the onset of electronic materials. We need an alternative to electronics.[] Portland is a reading town and because of that it is better informed in all aspects of education.[] Please keep our libraries open 7 days a week- Night libraries would be wonderful too. [] Also- Libraries are the most democratic of institutions.
4283	7/11/2012	I have been a user of libraries since first learning to read as a child. I am a huge reader and I reserve and check out books regularly. I think literacy is of huge importance. Also, access to books and periodicals.
4284	7/11/2012	Libraries provided ways for people to get a leg up, whether its for research for school (elementary and college level), job seeking or computer and online access. It also builds a bond within the community with programs and acts as a social hub. Reading is an inexpensive recreation that in these tough financial times is much appreciated.
4285	7/11/2012	Because it means EDUCATION!
4286	7/11/2012	Personally, the library enriches my life in a way I could not afford otherwise.[] Library services are vital to a strong community, and that is the type of community in which I would like to live.

4287	7/11/2012	Libraries are truly important resources. They provide access to information, community, and learning. They are indispensable.
4288	7/11/2012	People need the resources that libraries offer: books, periodicals, and computers. They are important to those looking for work, those who are young and learning to read, and elderly. EVERYONE benefits from the services that libraries offer.
4289	7/11/2012	yes
4290	7/11/2012	Free access to media and information is essential, especially for young people and seniors. Libraries are safe community spaces that nurture a love of reading and a healthy, curious, informed mind.
4291	7/11/2012	Because I am a huge reader; however, I cannot afford to buy all of the books and media that I'm interested in. This is a simple way that I can continue to be an active reader.
4292	7/11/2012	police and fire are more important. then libraries. i might have forgotten other critical services though.
4293	7/11/2012	Our family-life centers around books, including reading stories to our daughter (4 years old), teaching her basic concepts in math and science, helping her learn about her culture (Canadian, Mexican, and American), and exposing her to music. Without at the library, we wouldn't be able to afford all of the resources that are available with a library card. [] Similarly, my wife and I use the library as the first place to explore interests and find books to read for pleasure. I would rank the library as of similar importance to public safety and providing clean water to the community. Though culture and the life of the mind often seem less urgent, they ultimate sustain us as human beings and as a community.
4294	7/11/2012	I started reading and going to libraries at about 4 - don't need to buy many books but want to stay current.
4295	7/11/2012	i understand all of the benefits of a local library system beyond just lending the newest best sellers.
4296	7/11/2012	I grew up visiting the library and reading lots of books - it's important to me that kids have that venue available, particularly as parents do not want to buy a lot of books for their kids on a regular basis. In addition, it is a great equalizer - everyone should be able to read, and have reading materials available to them, not based on ability to pay.
4297	7/11/2012	Early literacy in children is the most important thing for our future as a whole. The library makes books available to local childcare places as well as all of the services for children at the library. In order to thrive we NEED local libraries.
4298	7/11/2012	Reading is so important for everyone! And the resources that are available through the library are often not available elsewhere - at least not for people of limited means.
4299	7/11/2012	because i think that having access to all those books, media, computers, and having a safe place to educate and entertain yourself is very important. i think that knowledge keeps us free, and freedom is priceless

4300	7/11/2012	I use the library all the time, I would have as much exposure to literary works if I couldn't check out books from the library.
4301	7/11/2012	I see it as a resource for others who may need it more than I.
4302	7/11/2012	literacy
4303	7/11/2012	Resources allow us to find information ourselves, be prepared, and succeed.
4304	7/11/2012	Because I use the library often for personal enrichment through reading (print and e-books) and exploring new-to-me music by borrowing CD's.
4306	7/11/2012	Library services are beneficial to everyone, unlike some programs that might cater to special groups. Libraries historically have provided resources not available anywhere else on a face-to-face basis. Even though the internet has totally changed research capabilities, the ability to access physical books and have a place to come to relax and read is an important facet of urban life.
4307	7/11/2012	a solid education is needed for improvement in all other areas of life. library is a place of comfort for many people.
4308	7/11/2012	#1
4309	7/11/2012	It is that important because of my child and wife's need for reading and knowledge.
4310	7/11/2012	They are not vital to public safety or basic necessities, but they provide a valuable resource accessible to all socio-economic levels.
4311	7/11/2012	They serve such a range of people in the community : children, seniors, homeless, job seekers, and people who want to gather information without getting it on a tiny phone or computer all the time.
4312	7/11/2012	Literacy and access to information and are the key to a free society.
4313	7/11/2012	Because I love reading and love being able to loan books instead of buy them and lose out on the space.
4314	7/11/2012	all citizens need to be able to access all ideas even if they have no extra money
4315	7/11/2012	Basic city and county services (police, fire, etc.) are of more importance.
4316	7/11/2012	It's important for people to have options to expand their learning, creative, social and intellectual worlds. I work with students who don't have computers at home. It is absolutely vital that they have access to not only computers but the collective materials offered through our libraries.
4317	7/11/2012	There are many services more important, such as police, fire bureau, public transportation, etc. But having free access to the world of books, research help, DVDs of movies and TV programs enormously enhances the quality of my life.
4318	7/11/2012	Because I'm a bookworm and Portland is a city of readers.
4319	7/11/2012	Libraries serve a wide range of citizens.
4320	7/11/2012	As a person on a fixed income, it is easier to check out materials I want to read or see than to buy them.

4321	7/11/2012	The community library is a critical resource for our neighborhoods.
4322	7/11/2012	Like schools, police, fire fighting and parks, libraries are resources needed by all and not available to individuals except through the agency of community government.
4323	7/11/2012	This is like our dictionary in our neighborhood and there is no way any one can live without it. Especially our children.
4324	7/11/2012	Libraries are important, but they can never rank higher than public safety, mental health services, health care, and other essential county services directly related to life & death issues. For that reason, I stated previously that weak economy & lack of jobs are the biggest threats to our libraries. We need to EXPAND the economic pie so our libraries can get a fairer share of RISING INCOMES. Sadly, in today's economy, funding libraries at a higher level fall into the "wish we could do it but we can't afford it" category.
4325	7/11/2012	I don't use most public services, but I use the local library at least once a week.
4326	7/11/2012	Libraries help grow and sustain communities through learning and self improvement.
4327	7/11/2012	They serve a great variety of people, they are public so available to all residents, no matter how much money they have. There is access to knowledge, in many forms, that can enrich everyone's lives.
4328	7/11/2012	The library is a free resource for people who can't afford to subscribe to cable TV and newspapers or go to private schools. It gives everyone an equal chance to get information and be successful.
4329	7/11/2012	I like to learn. the internet just isn't good enough.
4330	7/11/2012	Free access to knowledge is one of the only things that can help the poor bridge the gap to the middle class. I use my internet for all of my research so don't need my library for that resource. I only use the library as a resource to get books to read.
4331	7/11/2012	If public schools/teachers made more use of local libraries, i.e., referred students to libraries for their research, AND if local libraries would be housed in other public buildings such as schools, libraries would be more integral/easier access to general public use.
4332	7/11/2012	Internet replaces the need for libraries
4333	7/11/2012	The library serves so many purposes. It is not just a place to get or read materials, but also a source of information, a place to vote, a place for people to access resources and enrichment. The library is key to our community. Also, the library is across the street from our elementary school and near our high school. These young people in our community need to be able to utilize what the library offers, day after day.
4334	7/11/2012	Very important
4335	7/11/2012	Conceptually, libraries are a reservoir of knowledge and culture that all citizens regardless of wealth and social status can access and use to enrich and improve their lives. I think maintaining this reservoir is an important priority.

4336	7/11/2012	I don't make a lot of money, but I like to read. I would not be able to buy all of the books I'm able to check out of the library. Having access to all of those books, movies, and other materials is a blessing for those with low incomes and a love of reading.
4337	7/11/2012	Libraries are the community's main source of education, inspiration, and joy to all people of all ages.
4338	7/11/2012	access to freedom of speech
4339	7/11/2012	I read a lot.
4340	7/11/2012	Public libraries provide access to current, relevant, and scholarly materials to help improve individuals' educational situation. They are a (mostly) free option for kids whose parents are unable to afford day-care, or relevant educational material.
4341	7/11/2012	need more helping with reading
4342	7/11/2012	Police fire and road maintenance are immediate needs. Library is more of a long term need.
4343	7/11/2012	They bring a source of education, community building, and inclusion to all with no concern about income level, political affiliation, background, etc. in a present day environment that does not hold these values in high esteem.
4344	7/11/2012	Books are a primary source of entertainment, enjoyment and enrichment to me and the members of my extended family. It would be prohibitively expensive to purchase individually the books we read each year. It would also be a waste of the knowledge and enjoyment they contain if no public source existed and books only sat on private bookshelves after being read once or twice. It is also a macro-economically inefficient use of the resource, e.g. compare uses per dollar spent on library books versus a book owned by an individual. Finally, having a library of knowledge available allows for low or no-cost exploration of new ideas and knowledge that it might be difficult to afford (or impossible to justify) if one had to purchase every book that you think you might be interested in reading without knowing for certain that it would be worth it.
4345	7/11/2012	The library is extremely important. It is the one service that serves all class levels equally.
4346	7/11/2012	Access to uncensored information is the most vital aspect to a strong democracy.
4347	7/11/2012	outstanding educational resources, the stimulation of our curiosity that can't be achieved elsewhere
4348	7/11/2012	easy to get to and saves me time
4349	7/11/2012	Without them the community will suffer tremendously. Our kids need programs like summer reading and access to an essential part of life. Without reading we are a lesser society. We need our libraries to compensate for our lack of education in other areas.

		I love to read[] I love to give the gift of reading and knowledge to others[] I am learning Spanish though library's Russian - Spanish club[] I volunteered and help people to find jobs and complete home work assignments for their college career at Rockwood library computer center. I decided not to travel to Dagestan, my birth place,by checking out awesome book written by inspiring young author about the present day Dagestan, where the writer lives.[] It is place to meet ,to network and help people while helping yourself in the process. My son is motivated to read at the age of 7 through a summer due to library's summer reading program! I love the library. It caters to my every need as a life long learner!
4351	7/11/2012	I think the promotion of literacy is a key goal for the city.
4352	7/11/2012	there are books, internet, and movie access that is vital to a lot of ppl I live right across the street from the fire dept. and next door to the Library. I can tell you, I use the Library way more than the fire dept....thankfully :)
4353	7/11/2012	This library is also used as a back up for our neighborhood high school as well. I am troubled that it will be closed on Mondays. It's vital that we provide access to books, media, computers to those who cannot afford to buy their own. It's vital that we encourage literacy and sharing in our community. It's vital that we provide a place for people to go to read, learn, engage.
4355	7/11/2012	Very, very important. I save money using the library instead buying books and magazines. I read a lot, really a lot.
4356	7/11/2012	My children and I visit once a week and check out books. It is a public service we use more often then any other.
4357	7/11/2012	The library and the parks are the only 2 public services (leaving aside roads and public transportation, which I'll count as infrastructure rather than service) that I make use of on a regular basis, so they're both very important to me personally. I also believe that libraries, like public education, are a foundation of a healthy civilization.
4358	7/11/2012	Because education fuels everything else.
4359	7/11/2012	Well, Fire and police come first. Safe roads for cars and bikes are second. But library's rank high on my list because I'm a lifetime user and I love to read. I can't afford all the books I want to read.
4360	7/11/2012	Reading is one of my favorite past times. It's the great escape, a luxury, leisurely, relaxing, and stimulating, all at the same time. It's important to be able to expose that treat to others through the library services.
4361	7/11/2012	Books, Movies and Music make my brain bigger.
4362	7/11/2012	They are essential for the building of neighborhood esprit d corps, but I'm not sure I would put them "above" fire and police.

4363	7/11/2012	I have been to other countries who do not have our library system. It is a wealth of information that is a gift to all of us. □ □ I have had free access to such wonderful movies, music, and books that I would - otherwise - never be able to afford. I have been greatly enriched by our public library system - personally and professionally.
4364	7/11/2012	Libraries give people who otherwise wouldnt equal opportunity to use tools. Be it, books, computer access, magazines, and educating themselves in science, launguage, math, writing. With our population having its current umemployment rate, public tools like these are more important than ever.
4365	7/11/2012	I have been a patron for 65 years and have contributed to levies and fund drives many times. In general libraries are a godsend especially to people who are not in school, perhaps for years, but who want what the library can offer: facts, background, context, entertainment. From what I read, Multnomah County Library is one of the best in the country. I hope we can keep it that way. And□ I have never voted against a school or library ballot measure/levy. You can count on me in September.
4366	7/11/2012	Because it lets you get a chance to find useful resources you need and to research artifacts that you want to know. Also, it's a very safe environment to go into and to spend time reading.
4367	7/11/2012	this library offers my only access to much material of particular interest □ this library is one of the best systems of its nature that I have encountered□ maintaining current level of service (material and hours) is essential to me □ and, I think, to the entire community
4368	7/11/2012	dumb question
4369	7/11/2012	it is the only public service that really delivers consistently
4370	7/11/2012	Free access to information is the cornerstone of democracy. Period.
4371	7/11/2012	use library all the time for books, DVDs of movies, old TV series□ big source of home entertainment
4372	7/11/2012	I feel that the Library system is necessary but ranks low in importance of Public Servcies such as Emergency services
4373	7/11/2012	I am a reading addict and it is one way to keep a well-informed citizenry.
4374	7/11/2012	Because you don't have to buy a book just to read it once and you can check out up to 3 books at a time so if you have a family that likes to read then that is good.
4375	7/11/2012	Good access to informed wisdom provides a bright ray of hope in a rapidly dimming landscape.
4376	7/11/2012	Libraries have always been a resource for the general public to access information that is otherwise not available to them.
4377	7/11/2012	the library system is very important, but compared to emergency services, fire, police, roads, etc, i had to say somewhat

4378	7/11/2012	Not much now.
4379	7/11/2012	They offer so many resources for so many people. I am an avid reader and could not be such without the library. It would cost me a LOT of money to buy all the books I am able to get as well as the movies and cds. I don't want to buy things that I am truly going to read once and let go of - or that I may not actually like at all after I get them home - so the library is a great option for me. I also enjoy picking up books for my daughter who is almost 3.
4380	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power!
4381	7/11/2012	I use the internet at home for most of my research these days, but there are still things that can't be found online, especially without online databases such as the ones provided and paid for by the libraries.
4382	7/11/2012	Since I am retired now and have the time to do a lot of reading, they give me access to books I would not normally buy.
4383	7/11/2012	I think health services, fire, police, public safety, etc. are of higher importance to me. So many folks have access to the internet these days that most things can be researched via that medium. (I realize not everyone has a computer.) I think having the library open six full days a week should be more than enough for folks who use the library regularly. I'm not exactly sure what the library hours are, but if it isn't already being done, it might be good to have the library open later some mornings and stay open later to accommodate folks who work and can't get to the library during their work hours. For example, open some days at noon or 1pm and stay open until 9 pm or 10pm.
4385	7/11/2012	Libraries help to educate the public. Without this resource millions of people in the United States would not have the opportunity to educate themselves.
4386	7/11/2012	On the personal level because I am an avid reader and the fantastic online system for researching and ordering books (in contrast to the library system in SoCalifornia where I lived before). In a broader sense for the outreach and provision of community programs and services for all age and skill levels
4387	7/11/2012	Not a necessity
4388	7/11/2012	A literate citizenry is required for a democratic society to function well.
4389	7/11/2012	they are the first resource of 'source of info' I use;
4390	7/11/2012	Perhaps not as critical as water, utilities and emergency services, but they help maintain cultural parity, is an important component of a successful society.
4391	7/11/2012	My Mother is 94 blind and deaf, and the library has an excellent program for the Homebound which supplies her with hours of entertainment books on tape.
4392	7/11/2012	I could not afford to buy as many books a year as I currently read through the library, and it smells so good.

4393	7/11/2012	I feel that I get my money's worth which is not true of road repair, police, water bureau, or garbage pickup.
4394	7/11/2012	Libraries can be the heart of the community - a place where everyone is equal.
4395	7/11/2012	The staff are so polite and helpful. I have taken 2 major trips in the last 4 months and was able to find materials on the history, culture, geography etc of these countries. Just wonderful. Also being able to renew easily is a plus.[] [] The library is useful to all segments of our community.
4396	7/11/2012	Libraries are central to the overall well being of our community and society as a whole.
4397	7/11/2012	Important for the young to encourage reading, and activities...
4398	7/11/2012	I believe reading and education at all age levels are valuable and necessary for a healthy community.
4399	7/11/2012	With the economy in this depression state the use of FREE resources is what we have for help.
4400	7/11/2012	libraries help ALL people of the community: reading, job seeking, learning
4401	7/11/2012	I love the convenience of the system ... that I can find and reserve library materials from home. I rely on the library to provide books for my students that the school does not have. We do not have a school library, I have a classroom library, and I supplement using books from the library. [] Also, I do a lot of research for my job and would not be able to afford to buy all of the books I read. As an educator I know what a difference reading makes for kids and want them to value that skill. I know that with all the programs offered its such an important community center and I truly believe in the power of a united community. I think the library offers a perfect place to start that.
4402	7/11/2012	I grew up spending hours at the local library. Having that access to countless books was a very formative part of my childhood. That can't go away.
4403	7/11/2012	Libraries have saved my life. They continue to give me a life of growth and expectation. They are a place of social connection. I feel the librarians are my family. Libraries are my heart.
4404	7/11/2012	I need access to books for research, pleasure, reading to my daughter, and personal enrichment.
4405	7/11/2012	My family loves to read
4406	7/11/2012	Libraries keep people up to date, and allow them to have contact with materials they would otherwise not have.
4407	7/11/2012
4408	7/11/2012	it is a resource for info, pleasure, community gathering, & computer availability that is not available elsewhere. our system has kept up with the latest technology to make it a premier system in the usa.
4409	7/11/2012	Very inportant
4410	7/11/2012	the jobs they provide and the book lending services
4411	7/11/2012	I am a senior citizen and I do not have any of the info devices except a computer.
4412	7/11/2012

4413	7/11/2012	I lived for several years in a place where I did not have access to a library at all, and really missed the opportunity to access quality reading materials easily. I was recently unemployed, and so appreciated the ease and ability that the local library provided as I needed access to current resource materials. The library is also a place that helped (and still does!) relieve stress in a difficult time-- providing books and other materials that are fun to read/watch. I would not have been able to relax with a book at the end of a long day with my limited income if not for the library, and that is something that has been helpful in my life.
4414	7/11/2012	access to reading materials is important to me, but I think libraries are absolutely essential to more vulnerable populations- struggling parents, those with less access to computers, english language learners, and all the folks not able to fill out this questionnaire from a laptop in their home as I am doing right now.
4415	7/11/2012	I think local governments focused on public safety, human services, and education are the highest priority. I love the library system and it does contribute to human services and education but, if cuts are needed, I think it would fall below these other categories. I don't think there are life/death decisions made by the library but I do believe it adds considerably to the quality of our citizenry and lifestyle. Access to a well thought out sample of the human knowledge base thus far. And Arts. And everything else we have done and are doing...[] [] What do you even weigh it against? Filling potholes? Too simplistic - not fair. [] []
4416	7/11/2012	Social services? Yes, fair question, but in the end the only road for a great city/nation/civilization is to learn how to provide these things. [] [] If the United States, if Portland, hopes to consider itself an example to others, then they find a way (as Portland has so far) to provide a world class library. Without it, we fall below mediocre in the annals of history. It has to be considered a basic human right.
4417	7/11/2012	The access to such a broad media base of knowledge is priceless.
4418	7/11/2012	Police, fire, public health, etc. come above library services in terms of importance because they are vital to the functioning of the city. Library is in some senses a "luxury" in that it isn't crucial for the city to continue functioning, but it is a very important service that I cherish and feel fortunate to have access to.
4419	7/11/2012	I read approximately one book a week. I could never afford to purchase all the books I obtain from the library. The library is very valuable to me.

		Now that I am retired, I can no longer afford to go out and purchase books, even at Goodwill. I depend on the library for my reading material (4 to 5 books a week) and for my reference material. I do have a computer at home, but still utilize the resources offered by the library.[]
4420	7/11/2012	[] In addition, I love the fact that my grandchildren have access to such a wide variety of material and programs through the library.[] [] I have not had reason to need the training programs for the unemployed or the computer services offered, but am aware that a lot people do depend on them.
4421	7/11/2012	Whenever I need to know something about a certain subject, I know where to go to find it. I have a computer (from my family) but I rarely find what I am looking for. It is so complicated and the Library[] has people there to help me when I can't find it myself. I just can't imagine a city without Libraries
4422	7/11/2012	We utilize the library often
4423	7/11/2012	For the younger generation
4424	7/11/2012	they are a vital lifeline
4425	7/11/2012	I grew up using the Multnomah library and I would like that to continue into the future.
4426	7/11/2012	I go to the library at least once a week to get books, and sometimes more. It's a very important resource to me and I use it most out of all public services.
4427	7/11/2012	Libraries rank below fire stations, trash pickup, water & sewer, and parks, about equal with DHHS, but above road maintenance, police force, dead animal pickup, building & zoning permits, fancy GIS services, and government tourism campaigns for me.
4428	7/11/2012	The library is an important resource for those who are socially economically disadvantaged, in need of these public programs and resource and an invaluable outlet for many population demographics. Education should be accessible and available to all, and what better place than the library!
4429	7/11/2012	It's available to anyone, even if they don't live in Portland
4430	7/11/2012	In addition to providing an endless supply of reading material, libraries are doorways to information, knowledge and resources for members of the community who may not have internet access.
4431	7/11/2012	It's an amazing resource! All the books in the world at your fingertips. I love it.
4432	7/11/2012	Libraries are an essential resource for citizens to be able to exercise their responsibilities and have access to opportunities in a democracy.
4433	7/11/2012	They provide services that help people find jobs, thus increasing the tax rate and lowering the number of people on public assistance. They provide programs that engage children, keeping them "off the streets" during non school hours and also provide services that help children and adults learn to read, helping the overall community. I could go on....

4434	7/11/2012	I don't think that it ranks above police, fire, or other public safety services, but the libraries offer many great services to the community.
4435	7/11/2012	Literacy and knowledge are so important to our society that allowing access for all individuals in our community is one of the best services we can provide.
4436	7/11/2012	I believe in the power of books.
4437	7/11/2012	I would put Library Services in forth place behind Fire, Police, Schools, then Library, Transportation...
4438	7/11/2012	Actually, I think that there are many local public services that are important, and one don't necessarily override the other. We need mental health care, we need assistance for battered women, we need ALL of that. But reading and reference resources are so very important to a community, it is the essence of learning.
4439	7/11/2012	An educated and informed society makes our community a better place to live.
4440	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge through literature and the internet, especially for those in low-income brackets and those for whom English is not the first language, is essential to moving our overall community forward.
4441	7/11/2012	They are important because literacy is key to a thriving community and democracy. And we are in a time when librarians are fast disappearing (or already have) from our schools.
4442	7/11/2012	The importance of an informed public is the essential to the longterm health of the county and the country. Libraries provide information access to the public that is both comprehensive and unfiltered; no other source can match this service.
4443	7/11/2012	I cannot afford to purchase books very often. My library is nearby, convenient, and if I'm willing to wait I can read almost any new book. Also, I enjoy checking out CDs to see if I like them before I buy them.
4444	7/11/2012	The lack of funding and the negative impact that has had on not only the reduced hours and staff but how that severely impacts the community. I have many clients that are unemployed and underemployed that using the internet at the library and other library resources is a crucial part of their job search, without it I do not know how people will be able to access the basic necessities in life. Many clients use the library's internet to look up shelters, food banks, apply and search for employment positions, this goes way beyond people not having equal access to literature and knowledge the library's resources are extremely vital to the livelihoods of many people. [] [] For being a developed nation we have a high rate of illiteracy and children who are performing at a grade level way below where they should be at. Without libraries resources and access, inequities and disparities between the have anc have nots will only increase. This is a serious threat to future generations to not be able to supplement their education after school or when they are on break.
4445	7/11/2012	For those that need other services (Family Services,all federal programs & state programs) libraries would come in here in order of importance.

4446	7/11/2012	I used them more frequently and they impact my daily life, they enhance my daily life even, but I also know emergency/law enforcement services make a big difference in my life in ways I don't even know.
4447	7/11/2012	Access to information is the great equalizer. I've found the library's resources to be invaluable both to my personal education and my professional needs.
4448	7/11/2012	Counties provide other important services such as public health.
4449	7/11/2012	It provides free access of information to everyone and I use it every day
4450	7/11/2012	They rank 1 level below basic needs like water, electricity, heating. They are a part of what makes multnomah county a great place to live.
4451	7/11/2012	They provide a community gathering place, demonstrate that reading is an important priority for the community, and provide access to books and other reading materials to everyone.
4452	7/11/2012	I use the library for work related research every day. Everyone deserves access to learning and literature - the library provides that regardless of age, culture, or socio-economic status.
4453	7/11/2012	Out of all the public servies (ie Parks, Rec Centers, ect.) offered for Portland families, the library continues to be the most enjoyed and beneficial resource for my children and family. In a city where is rains nine months of the year, the library becomes invaluable.
4454	7/11/2012	I am retired; I can't afford to purchase the latest and greatest best-sellers, and I don't have expanded cable television, so the library provides me with the opportunity to access the top cable TV series and good reading material.
4455	7/11/2012	If it came down to a choice between libraries and, say, mental health services, the answer is obvious - mental health services are acutely important. To balance the acutely needed services with those that define our quality of life is a tough call, but we rely on libraries to keep ourselves aware and educated - something of critical importance to our overall well-being.
4456	7/11/2012	The library, for me, is a resource for information, socialization, and exploration. I have used resources for personal and professional research and development. The online research tools I have access to have broadened my knowledge base on several occasions (generally not work related topics).
4457	7/11/2012	I read a lot and dont want to buy books. I like browsing the shelves and trying new authors. I dont want to be dependent on the internet or tv for my entertainment.
4458	7/11/2012	other local public services' is a very broad term and I'm not sure what is included. Therefore, I cannot make an accurate assessment.
4459	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and rely on the library as a main source of material. I am also researching literature for a book I am writing and the library is a major source.
4460	7/11/2012	I like to read
4461	7/11/2012	Public services are vital to our community. I don't like the option to have to choose between one or the other. They are all important.
4462	7/11/2012	I love my library but other critical services take priority

4463	7/11/2012	Free access to all kinds of materials for research and homework and free programs for entertainment for the kids. . . especially in the summer. In this economy, we can't afford to attend museums, plays, or other programs, so free programs are most welcome!
4464	7/11/2012	Access to current information increases the education level which is crucial to the progress of modern society.
4465	7/11/2012	As an educator and an avid reader, I could not afford to find books for my students or my own personal interests. The library allows me to bring a large number of books and videos into my classroom to help with learning.
4466	7/11/2012	The provide much needed intellectual stimuli.
4467	7/11/2012	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. My family and I use them frequently.[] 2. It is very important for students to have access to library resources.[] 3. It is important for the community as a whole to have access to (and to utilize) library resources.
4468	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and use the library a lot
4469	7/11/2012	I'm a teacher and a single mother who uses the library religiously.
4470	7/11/2012	I use the library services far more than other local public services.
4471	7/11/2012	education and knowledge result in a more positive community. Also, great to have a wide range of people all gathering to gain knowledge and improve their lives
4472	7/11/2012	not dependent on income access for those who really need it
4473	7/11/2012	An educated populace is essential to the welfare of society as a whole. Libraries provide the opportunity for individuals educate themselves or supplement more formal education. They also provide ways for the community to come together through meetings, book clubs, and childrens programs that inspire a love of reading at an early age. Our community has a large number of immigrant populations and low income families for whom the library system can provide wonderful resources they could not afford to access otherwise. Libraries and our City Parks and Recreation programs are two of the best services in our community.
4474	7/11/2012	Without access to knowledge and educational resources we are on a backwards path.
4475	7/11/2012	Reading is something that not only educates a person but helps us attain a higher lever of lexicon usage. Books can help with therapy for children, teach diversity and help learners build a culture of historical knowledge.
4476	7/11/2012	Access to books mainly.

4478	7/11/2012	Access to information is key for a functioning and equitable society!
4479	7/11/2012	I read constantly and can't afford to buy new books and media. I have to teach myself how to cook, work on cars and sports marketing because no one else in my life has the time to do so. These books not only give me something to do but something to look forward to. I use the library as an opportunity to become more self-efficient as someplace to go so i'm not home alone.
4480	7/11/2012	everyone should have access to books and a place to find new information for whatever they need it for.
4481	7/11/2012	Not everybody has or can afford internet access to find jobs.[] Buying new books is expensive.[] Students need a place for research.[] Children need to learn the importance of reading/learning.
4482	7/11/2012	Libraries are part of our educational function in society, which is the MOST important function government can perform- our citizenry must have the means to be educated as citizens and individuals for the sake of any society.
4483	7/11/2012	Everyone needs access to education and knowledge. If we do not have free access our society will suffer. Our people will not thrive at their fullest.
4484	7/11/2012	The public school system is in crisis. The health care system is in need of a complete overhaul. Unemployment continues to plague the economy. Libraries are important, but the country, state, and city governments are also in crisis and all systems must restructure how they do business in this new environment.
4485	7/11/2012	I believe a strong library system is the great equalizer in any community. Multnomah County's system is the best I've ever seen - and I thought when I lived in the Bay Area that Santa Clara County's was the best until I moved to Portland. An effective library system has the strongest potential to facilitate a community's well-being and growth in so many different ways: Information Resources; Entertainment; Education; Positive Social Interaction; Career Building Tools; Small Business Resources and Networking; etc. More than any other public service, a great library system can touch the community it serves in so many effective, positive, life-changing ways.
4486	7/11/2012	Reading is the base of education. Don't have to buy books.
4487	7/11/2012	I love books. They are the doorway to the world.

4488	7/11/2012	I see the library as a vital part of our community's intellectual, social and economic health, going hand-in-hand with the other institutions of learning. From encouraging young readers, to helping job seekers, to enlightening voters, to satisfying avid readers, to deepening research progress in all fields, to fulfilling the entertainment needs of the poor and the elderly, the library is many things to many people. And our library system is awesome!
4489	7/11/2012	I can think of some more critical pressing needs but I still feel like this is an important service to the community.
4490	7/11/2012	everyone needs access to information that is free of cost in order to educate and improve the overall community
4491	7/11/2012	Resources, books, research materials, etc. are available via the internet if not available at the library.
4492	7/11/2012	I love to read and can not afford to buy books.
4493	7/11/2012	convenience and accessibility
4494	7/11/2012	Good local schools, libraries, and other community gathering places build better neighborhoods and help keep neighbors connected.
4495	7/11/2012	Not sure--you should have given examples of other local public services so I knew exactly what kinds of things I should be comparing it to.
4496	7/11/2012	confusing question -[] libraries are equal opportunity services, available to all citizens, and need to be kept that way[] keeping libraries in all areas of the city provides the power of books to all who may not have access to books at home
4497	7/11/2012	Affordable Quality Family Time. Availaility to information and technology. Books provide access to the world outside that would otherwise not be there.
4498	7/11/2012	I constantly use the library to research topics of interest, to learn new things in my day to day life. To read novels, fiction, etc. Reading is an integral part of my life. I learn everyday from it. I am so grateful to be able to pick up a book for free and glean from it. Thank you.
4499	7/11/2012	Health, food, and transportation are bigger problems for many people (if we have to choose).
4500	7/11/2012	It's important that all people be able to access books and computers in order to function in our society. So many can't afford to just go to Powell's and buy a book. Our libraries are important links in our communities. They offer opportunities for education, job search and civic responsibility.
4501	7/11/2012	My husband is from Morocco. We moved there for a short time in 2010. I really missed Portland. The main things missing were parks and libraries!
4502	7/11/2012	They provide support to the community that wouldn't happen in any other way. This includes the children programs, access to resources for people who have english as a second language, internet access, as well as the fundamental access to books and knowledge generally.
4503	7/11/2012	Without an informed and engaged community, there's no hope for us. The library is both symbol and catalyst of that engagement.

4504	7/11/2012	As a kid, as soon as I learned to read, I practically lived in the library. Though I don't physically visit often now, I like knowing I can if I want or need to, and after the basic necessities - water, food, etc. -- free public libraries are extremely important and valuable. Over the past few years, library taxes are the only increases I voted for.
4505	7/11/2012	The library is almost my sole source of reading and other entertainment materials such as CDs, videos, and books on tape. I use it more than any other local public service, including Trimet, which I use because I don't own a car. I can walk to my library, and when the heat is not working, or the day is very hot, the library is a comfortable place to study or read.
4506	7/11/2012	Because I use the library all the time!
4507	7/11/2012	Education and literacy are a necessity for all stages of life. All other public services depend on these two principal foundations.
4508	7/11/2012	I
4509	7/11/2012	I use the library on a weekly basis. The wealth of books and materials available have a measurable and significant positive impact on my life.
4510	7/11/2012	I think the library is a great resource for keeping both myself and the community literate. It supports many facets of society that need assistance and if the community does not have places like the library as a resource then the divide between rich and both the middle and lower classes will continue to broaden.
4511	7/11/2012	Of all the services provided by property taxes, library service is the by far the most used and definately the most enjoyed. Parks comes in at close 2nd.
4512	7/11/2012	Please see my previous answer.

4513 7/11/2012	Sacred public service. Like the police, the military, fire protection services - the library system is NEEDED in order to keep a free society FREELY informed and FREELY literate. [] While I agree that a public library needs to be publicly funded it is not the entitled right of library administrators or county officials to abuse their power over the public in abusing that public library system. [] No way do I trust current county officials, city leaders, or the library administrators and public union thugs who negotiate personnel costs - colluding behind the scenes and dumping excess public costs on the people. [] No way should any of us believe a sacred service like a PUBLIC LIBRARY should have ever been allowed to morph into the unethical immoral shell game of excess and ever expanding TAXATION EMBARRASSEMENTS that the Multnomah County Library system has been turned into. [] It is paramountly IMPORTANT to me that the people take back all of Multnomah County library's from any and all public and/or private entities colluding to mismanage and corrupt each and every one of them. [] Multnomah County has completely thrust me in a distrusting relationship with how they justify they taxation overages, their taxation forecasts, their taxation justifications. Multnomah County needs to be shamed into acknowledging how they are responsible for defaming and degrading the concept of public library services. Holding our current county library services hostage and locking the doors of OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY SYSTEM is beyond contemptible.
4514 7/11/2012	I guess fire and police are important but fortunately I haven't used/needed them.[] Then there are the public parks which I really appreciate but fortunately I'm a homeowner with a yard.[]
4515 7/11/2012	I rarely go out to eat, don't go to the movies or other entertainment. I don't take advantage of many the amenities of living in a city...but I DO use the library. I and my 3 (now adult) children all feel this is something we could not live without.
4516 7/11/2012	We live paycheck to paycheck. Without access to the superior resources in our libraries our lives would be sadly narrow and uninformed.
4517 7/11/2012	Provides info and enjoyment to all users regardless of how much money they have. The sign of a caring community.
4517 7/11/2012	Access to print and online reading materials is essential to the well-being of our community.

4518	7/11/2012	Libraries continue to serve as an informal gathering place for the neighborhoods they serve. They help build community feeling. They are a place that one can go and feel welcome. Libraries serve an important educational and community service, much like the public schools in our neighborhoods, but expanded to include more of the people living in our various neighborhoods.
4519	7/11/2012	I think the library is not that important to me because I am fortunate enough to have the ability to have other means of getting books, media, and information. I will gladly pay more taxes so that those that are less fortunate can seek out a job if they don't have internet access, books and media if they don't have the ability to buy them on there own, and for children to learn the importance of reading books from an early age. The library is very important as a public institution.
4520	7/11/2012	The local library branches support values that need to be reinforced in our society, not only a love of reading (which encourages intellectual inquisitiveness and openmindedness) but also a sense of community. The library also provides free access to resources that give equal opportunities for learning and personal betterment.
4521	7/11/2012	I am always so grateful for my library and the abundance of resources there. The inventory of books and DVDs is amazing and one of the top reasons I cite when people ask me what I love about Portland. The library here is tops and everyone I know relies on these resources for computer use, job hunting, pleasure reading, keeping up with tv and movies, learning new things. I've learned to play 3 different instruments because of the instruction books available at the library. love it!!!!
4522	7/11/2012	A Clean, Safe place to learn, and spend time.....A place for those who don't have computers/homes to gain access for job-seekers etc.
4523	7/11/2012	When competing with other service limitations such as schools and public safety, libraries do drop on the importance scale. However, they bring such a benefit for access that I will not dismiss them. My children have always enjoyed going to the library and book stores as well. They both have cards and use them when needed. We know that resources are tight so if 6 days is the limit we will accept that.
4524	7/11/2012	Reading keeps the mind sharp, and self-education is the only way people who don't have much money are able to get an education.
4525	7/11/2012	A local library system is an absolutely vital part of a city/town - it gives its citizens resources to improve themselves and the community.
4526	7/11/2012	I would rank library services lower than emergency services, but they are still very important, especially in relating to continued education for young and old alike.
4527	7/11/2012	Added value to the community as a whole; they increase our overall quality of life by bringing knowledge and culture to the neighborhoods as well as valuable free services for all.
4528	7/11/2012	Reading and music are very, very important to me and always have been. Add to that the library is one of the last free things on this earth to enjoy, and I frankly find it hard to believe there would be someone out there who thinks it is NOT important.

4529	7/11/2012	Libraries are cornerstone to my learning, growth, and community involvement.
4530	7/11/2012	We check out books and movies all the time. I would never read what I do without the library.
4531	7/11/2012	without a library, I wouldn't have access to books, information and other media since I'm on a limited income.
4532	7/11/2012	It's hard to really say how important libraries are compared to other local public services without specific examples of what those other services are.
4533	7/11/2012	Education and learning is a lifelong process that should be available to everyone. Not everyone can afford higher education, attend conferences, or even to buy books, but everyone can afford to go to the library.
4534	7/11/2012	Police and fire are more important.
4535	7/11/2012	Because I love to read and read every day.
4536	7/11/2012	The public service that I use the most is the library system. It has a triple benefit in that it supports a sense of community, serves disadvantaged portions of the population, and is a critical part of a working democracy.
4537	7/11/2012	Public libraries are one of the foundations of life in America.
4538	7/11/2012	opens avenues for research for those without computer access. People use the library to research health issues as well as other issues. it's an important service.
4539	7/11/2012	Libraries offer an opportunity for ANYONE to educate themselves regardless of their bank account balance. FREE ACCESS TO INFORMATION FOR ALL!!!!
4540	7/11/2012	I'm a freelance writer, and I often use the multcolib.org site for research. Every issue of the Oregonian -- ever -- searchable and readable on my desktop is priceless.
4541	7/11/2012	I can't afford to purchase my own (computer, books, etc), and at times these are absolutely necessary (for example, I spent a lot of time a Hillsdale Library when I lived there, looking for work online). Libraries help people better themselves! And in many other ways, too.
4542	7/11/2012	I think that access to libraries and the materials they offer are critical to a community. Also, I always notice many people using the internet. So it is a safe, comfortable community location for people who do not have access at home. I've been going to libraries since I was a small child. There's nothing like being able to pick out a book, any book, and as many as you like, for free! ☺
4543	7/11/2012	☺ Before I had a computer of my own, I also used my library for internet access during a job search. If you can't get online from home, the library is the best place to do it for free.
4544	7/11/2012	Police and fire services are primary. I think the library may be more important to people with less resources than ourselves.
4545	7/11/2012	because as a student I use the library almost every day. I can get things there that school libraries do not provide
4546	7/11/2012	An educated public is vital to a democracy.

4547	7/11/2012	I'm retired, so need the stimulation that comes from books. Just can't buy them all. The library has been a godsend. Streets and crime and everything else is also important, but if I can read, I can cope.
4548	7/11/2012	Public libraries allow residents access to books that would otherwise be costly. Literacy is the building block for success in our education system. It also allows computer access to those who might not have that at home.
4549	7/11/2012	Libraries help create an educated and cultured society. They also are available & useful for all income levels. I would say they are the most valuable non-emergency public service offered.
4550	7/11/2012	bring richness to personal and community life
4551	7/11/2012	good access to knowledge for everyone!
4552	7/11/2012	I love literature
4553	7/11/2012	Literature is something that confirms our human experience and connects us with others and libraries celebrate democracy and equality
4554	7/11/2012	BECAUSE THEY ARE A CORNERSTONE OF EDUCATION AND AWARENESS. PORTLAND PUBLIC HIGH SCHOOLS GRADUATE MAYBE HALF OF ALL STUDENTS. THIS IS UNACCEPTABLE.
4555	7/11/2012	I remember growing up that the library was a place of solace for me. I could go and disappear within the stacks, learn whatever I wanted to learn, escape in whatever stories I wanted to. Literacy and education should be a primary focus, but libraries are a part of that.
4556	7/11/2012	I can't imagine my life without library access. The library serves a large portion of the public who use it's free resources. I know nothing is actually free so we need to support the library thru our tax dollars. I compare the library with public transportation. There is a need for these services.
4557	7/11/2012	I have been a reader all my life and can't afford to buy all the books and DVD's that I go through. More generally, good, accessible libraries are extremely important to the proper functioning of a democracy!
4558	7/11/2012	They are an integral part of Portland (Multnomah County).
4559	7/11/2012	Libraries provide basic information and education resources and provide a connection to one's community. Libraries help to minimize the digital divide and offer a community meeting place for everyone.
4560	7/11/2012	information is power
4561	7/11/2012	Libraries and schools are the only "free" places of learning we have in this country. Since public schools are having such issues with attempting to foster imagination and instilling a desire to learn, the library is really the only place where one can trust one's children to be able to learn more about what they're interested in without anyone getting in the way.

4562	7/11/2012	The local library is extremely important, because it is part of the fabric of the education in the community. Without the library, fully staffed and full of the necessary services, there will be a decline in education which in turn lowers the community's income level which leads to increased poverty which then leads to increased crime . When it comes to money, we can spend it in the beginning, educating the public, or we can spend it in the end on incarceration.
		Yes, we have the internet to find things in, but that can be as efficient as swimming through mud. Books that are published and categorized in certain places are assured to be true to that genre. Finding what you need is the next step after identifying what you need, no?[]
		[] The services of a library are priceless (but obviously not fundless).Getting someone to learn English, teaching youngin's to read, giving people and opportunity to build relationships of all varieties and societal advancement are core services that a community should provide - and libraries do that.[]
4563	7/11/2012	Libraries have gone from a sacred location of a wealth of knowledge and power to a Bank of Knowledge+. We have a sophisticated way to route and transport media between libraries and cities, even nations. Keeping our knowledge and resources and community-building activities are something that we as a nation need if we're going to keep our sanity and hope to advance. []
		[] I don't believe I need to get into the importance of keeping jobs.[]
		[] Two generations from now, are the citizens of this area going to wonder what having a library, a center of resources and community, would be like? Will they be left to wander around on the internet for information that has no guarantee of being accurate? Will they know how great it feels to finish that epic tome, set it down, and feel enriched for taking a
4564	7/11/2012	I wouldn't be able to afford the resources I use at library. But people's general health is more important.
4565	7/11/2012	Because I like to read and the library is am important source of reading materials and also entertainment in the form of DVD's and music CD's. Also for information on the computers at the library where[] I can copy what I need.
4566	7/11/2012	I use library services all the time. Because not all people can afford to buy books.[]
4567	7/11/2012	Because not all people can afford computers[] People use the library for programs that are available for children and senior citizens.[] People use it for research and many more....
4568	7/11/2012	Reading and education are the fundamental value that leads to advancement in life for individuals, which in turn leads to a better overall society.

4569	7/11/2012	libraries are crucial to every city! We wouldn't be able to read all the books we want to read if it weren't for a library in the neighborhood.
4570	7/11/2012	Because libraries are the only public service I utilize.
4571	7/11/2012	Other options available
4572	7/11/2012	Libraries provide an invaluable form of education, especially for those who cannot afford the high costs of books and educational media. I highly value the summer reading program for students and children so that they are encouraged to continue their reading progress outside of school. Libraries provide another level of community for people that I feel is necessary and important for keeping neighborhoods and families strong and connected. For schools, libraries are a fantastic partner in helping students to research, read, and learn, even when the school cannot afford new books.
4573	7/11/2012	Access to books, movies and online resources, the opportunity to use and reuse, sharing the materials
4574	7/11/2012	If we don't give access to educational and reading material to everyone (kids, seniors, disadvantaged) we are failing our community.
4575	7/11/2012	I can not only checkout books at no cost (other than my tax dollars) but I also have access to a skilled librarian who can assist me in finding the information I am seeking.
4576	7/11/2012	free learning empowers people
4577	7/11/2012	A wide variety of needs are met and a wide variety of people served. A last resort for education and entertainment for citizens.
4578	7/11/2012	I have a young son and want him to know, use, and appreciate the library for the wonderful resource it is. I want my community to be livable, and a strong library system certainly contributes to Portland's livability. I appreciate the Library's summer reading program and everybody reads campaigns and believe offerings like those definitely contribute to a sense of community.
4579	7/11/2012	Because while I count on access to the commons (streets, fire protection, sewers, etc.) as part of the package of living in a developed nation, I don't take libraries for granted. Access to information is about more than sitting at my computer. It's about the presence of a public site devoted to that knowledge, and the maintenance of that site as part of the commons, as an important idea shared by all. The library is a concept as well as a building -- and without a physical plant to maintain, and physical materials to collect and process (and pass on, vis a vis the Title Wave), ideas will go from being shared and localized to being individualized and atomized. We have few enough town halls and citizenry processes as it is; removing libraries would isolate us even further. Libraries are an important part of social cohesion as well as information access.
4580	7/11/2012	It is the only service that anyone can use regardless of income levels

4581	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of our most important services -- literacy and literacy programs leads to increased participation in school and lessened chances of crime. Services for seniors and job seekers are immeasurable. A library is the nexus point of curiosity and necessity for the public. While, say, a courthouse is incredibly important for public good, no one goes there unless they need to. A library serves as one a positive place to go -- a positive place supported by and for the public.
4582	7/11/2012	I order some books via WorldCat and I noticed that the process via the local library takes around 4-6 weeks to even send the request to the lending library. It really seems long and they usually can't borrow the items.
4583	7/11/2012	I use the library more than I use any other public service.
4584	7/11/2012	The value of information increases regularly. While I recognize that emergency service and health services may hold more value, access to information of all types is crucial to our community, our city, state, nation, and world.
4585	7/11/2012	Libraries are more than warehouses of information. They're also community centers, places to learn and grow, where those without computers can access the Internet, places where children can find the world of knowledge and imagination through books and other materials. Librarians are the tour guides to this world.
4586	7/11/2012	well, if my house was on fire or I was being robbed, I'd rather the library was closed than the police or fire dept..
4587	7/11/2012	The library is the only way we can afford to entertain and educate ourselves and our children on a weekly basis.
4588	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to books, computers, job resources, etc., to enhance their lives.
4589	7/11/2012	Next to police and fire.
4590	7/11/2012	I use the library to enrich my ongoing education and to have access to books and resources that I might not otherwise be able to afford. My job involves working with under-served populations, and I can report that most of them view the library as a valuable resource for learning, entertainment, access to internet and other resources, and family friendly activities and events. I believe the library is such an important part of a healthy neighborhood and community.
4591	7/11/2012	Water, Sewer, Power, Schools and Library. Scxhools and Library should be co funded. Can't have one with out the other.
4592	7/11/2012	It's a want, not a need PUBlic safety is a need
4593	7/11/2012	The library is a public space where knowledge and information is democratized.
4594	7/11/2012	Schools have taken huge hit over past years. Youth and job seekers seem like would be better served through programs at schools and community colleges. (Summer school for youth.) And libraries checking out physical books seems a relic. Tend to think physical libraries should be totally phased out within 10 years.

4595	7/11/2012	Knowledge And education are the best way to empower all citizens, for some the library is the most available route. It is imperative that this service remains available. access to educational and readding materials for every member of community
4596	7/11/2012	literacy matters. beyond tv and internet.
4597	7/11/2012	I believe that everyone in our community should have access to books and that everyone should be encouraged to read. Libraries are also a great way to foster a sense of community.
4598	7/11/2012	Because I do not own a tv and I prefer reading and quiet places where I can have access to a lot of reading material for research.
4599	7/11/2012	They provide important educational materials for people of all ages, races and income levels. They are one true way of leveling the playing field for people who chose to take advantage of them. Plus, in an electronic age, it is nice to be surrounded by books and people who love them.
4600	7/11/2012	Because I use the library so much for personal and educational use.
4601	7/11/2012	I am a frequent reader, and I don't have a lot of money to buy new books. I really value the fact that I can easily check out or place a hold on a new book without having to spend money. I also value the other resources that libraries offer that I use on a regular basis - computer and printer access, a place to work when it gets too hot at home, and training programs.
4602	7/11/2012	police and safety have to come first, only because of budget priorities though. Libraries are just as important, but with limited funding safety and health have to come first.
4603	7/11/2012	A library is a source of knowledge and learning, which is vitally important. It also gives access to many, many books and it is proven that reading is quite important. However, I wouldn't say that it is AS important as trash pick up, electric power, transportation systems, and so on. I've used the library consistently for the last 25 years for reading and research materials. I'm a market farmer and have used the library to find books and other materials on the subject. I've also studied foreign languages and love to cook so there are always loads of cookbooks to try out.
4604	7/11/2012	Probably the most important thing is researching a health problem that has developed and wasn't getting any help from the doctors that were treating me, by the way I was able to help myself more with information for the dozens of books checked out from the library than from the doctors.
4605	7/11/2012	I love the library, and I see libraries as of foundational importance in any functional community. In a society in which only those with expendable income can read, literacy and enrichment are then inaccessible to those experiencing poverty. I do not live in poverty, but if I had to spend $5-$30 on every book I wanted to read- I would rarely read books- and certainly never get to read new releases! As a teacher, I am also aware that without library access and library programs young children whose parents do not have the time or resources to prioritize literacy at home would be at and even greater disadvantage than they already are.
4606	7/11/2012	very high

4607	7/11/2012	I enjoy the utility they offer me, but they are not a critical/life-safety service like sewer, public transit, police, or school system.
4608	7/11/2012	It should be a fundamental part of our society: the ability to find and read almost any book you can think of. Our library system is the envy of the country. We need to keep it.
4609	7/11/2012	reading is the best that we can do
4610	7/11/2012	The local library was my lifeline as a child. We didn't have money to buy books, but I always had a huge variety of things to read from the library. Reading opened up a whole new world to me and gave me hope for a better life. I think that every child deserves the same opportunity. [] Libraries also provide computer and Internet access to homeless and low income families. It nearly impossible these days to find and apply for jobs without going online.
4611	7/11/2012	Necessary for an educated society which leads to better decision making in all other areas including support for the community.
4612	7/11/2012	The Internet And other resources have made libraries less critical than in the past. Schools and parks are a higher priority
4613	7/11/2012	Education is the number 1 tool to help people beat the cycle of poverty. The library offers the resources necessary for people to continue/better their education.
4614	7/11/2012	The "pure" library service is very important but the "luxury" system that they're creating is just that, a "luxure" system. Our other necessary public services services need to take priority!
4615	7/11/2012	Local libraries are sources of information at no direct cost to the user and not sponsored. They are, therefore, "independent" resources and most valuable to a free society.
4616	7/11/2012	Midland Library is not only a place to check out a good book but also a community gathering place. The services offered to preschoolers (story time) and fostering a love of books, through senior activities is much needed in our area. Midland is VERY important to the health of our community.
4617	7/11/2012	Water, sewer, fire, police, libraries, roads, in that order with "demonstration energy house" very near the bottom of a list of these important items.
4618	7/11/2012	Firstly, I'm not sure to which "other local public services" the question is referring. But libraries are important! They provide resources like books, knowledge, help, computers, internet access, etc. to those who may not have resources elsewhere. Libraries are not just essential for poor people. Everyone uses them when the library provides things like the Summer Reading Program and kid/family events. Libraries are necessary to a community.
4619	7/11/2012	An educated and informed society has always been recognized as a fundamental element for a viable republican democarcy
4620	7/11/2012	My journey from poverty and ignorance to professional success and a good retirement started in the Central Library.
4621	7/11/2012	VERY important.

4622	7/11/2012	Literacy and education is central to the success of any community. Libraries provide access to those resources that might not otherwise be available to many groups in any community.
4623	7/11/2012	Other public services are more important, but the Library is important.
4624	7/11/2012	I can not afford to buy new books or even used ones. i am able to get the new releaases and read alot of my favorite authors over and over again
4625	7/11/2012	They are a cornerstone of community. Even if you don't use them, they affect our community.
4626	7/11/2012	I only say "somewhat" instead of "very" because the EMS and governmental bodies are essential to public functioning. However, I feel that the library is an important public service because it provides a source of information that many of us could not otherwise afford. The breadth of information that is available would simply not fit in the space available in my apartment, on a very practical level. For those who are disadvantaged, it is important to have the ability to gain the information to try to improve their lot in life, or at least to expand their viewpoint on the world. The library provides the resources for this.
4627	7/11/2012	I would read a book by candlelight if I had to.
4628	7/11/2012	It's a free service giving people access to materials and media and maybe a warm or cool place to go. It provides opportunities to learn and broaden oneself.
4629	7/11/2012	I use the library all the time. I'm a huge reader and I can't afford to purchase all the books I read so it's vital to the quality of my life to have free access to those books. I also spend time in the library with my family, choosing books to check out and also just reading in the building. It's an important part of our family's life. And finally as an educator, the library provides invaluable assistance and enrichment for my classroom.
4630	7/11/2012	As a teacher for Portland Public Schools, I not only rely on my local branch for personal-use materials, but I access the library for books for classroom use as well. My educator's card and the six-week check-out period is an important support for teaching middle school social studies. Because the service the library serves is beyond the basics of checking out a book to read. Just to name a few of the services it provides might be; [] []
4631	7/11/2012	1) The availability of the computers serve a larger purpose in allowing individuals without access to the internet the ability to do research and potentially find employment.[] [] 2) It is a safe place to go and find a sense of community.[] [] 3) The librarian are an amazing source of information and very willing to share it all with everyone.[] [] 4) For some it is even a warm place to come into for a brief respite.[] [] 5) It reaches the young and old at all levels and meets their needs in different ways.

4632	7/11/2012	This is a hopelessly vague question, All other servcies covers too much territory.
4633	7/11/2012	We need access to all functions of the libraries. We are a community and need community based services...
4634	7/11/2012	Living a fixed retirement income and living alone I take advantage of the library as much as possible
4635	7/11/2012	Education is essential in order to be successful. Literacy is a must to keep the community educated.
4636	7/11/2012	They are that important because I love reading and couldn't go without it.
4637	7/11/2012	The library provides free access to knowledge which is important due to the rise in education costs Library= poor mans college
4638	7/11/2012	Transportation, head start, senior services etc very important
4639	7/11/2012	access to information.
4640	7/11/2012	Reading is one of the greatest joys and sources of entertainment in my life
4641	7/11/2012	Libraries provide education, information, internet access and community building. I have been going to libraries since I was 8 years old and always find them comforting. It is a very low cost way for millions of people to have access to information and entertainment.
4642	7/11/2012	I love to read and learn, but it would be impossible to afford to read and learn everything I want to know if I had to go to the bookstore and buy the books myself. To limit the access to knowledge to only those who can afford it would be an idescribable tragedy. Also, limiting the hours or days open means that only those with "flexible" schedules can actually use the library.
4643	7/11/2012	Many people canot afford to buy books, so therefore they will not be readers. Also, it is a great source of information.
4644	7/11/2012	Libraries serve the community in so many ways and actually provide many public services. A library anchors the community with access to information, literacy, family time, education, and a place to be.
4645	7/11/2012	It is related to education, and education for our children is important to me.
4646	7/11/2012	The more public services we have, and the better their quality, the better the quality of life is for everyone.
4647	7/11/2012	We can't function, get ahead, get a job without strong reading and research skilla
4648	7/11/2012	Because K-12 is even more important
4649	7/11/2012	I remember as a kid spending a lot of my time at the library. It was somewhere I grew up. I not only learned how to read but i learned how to enjoy reading. I want other children to experience that. I also think it's a great resource for school purposes and it's just a great part of our community in general.

4650	7/11/2012	High level. We access all the books and media services the library has to offer. In addition to books, we use the music and movie resources constantly. Many people don't realize the treasure trove of media the library has to offer. Whenever people say....Did you rent that from netflix? We say: No, the library! The same conversation happens with music, etc. I am also in education....the library's children's dept. has helped me on countless occasions.
4651	7/11/2012	I could not afford to buy the books I get to read from the library.
4652	7/11/2012	some people do not have computers to send their job applications/resumes, kids can study or hang out after school/during the summer without getting into trouble, you can meet great people there, if you cannot find the book you are searching for, you can get the info on line, I would be devastated if the libraries were closed!!!
4653	7/11/2012	The library is my second home! I am always using it and taking books and music out. I will support it any way I can!
4654	7/11/2012	Police and Fire of course, safety must be first, then education
4655	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly. It's wonderful to have the ability to search for things, put them on hold and easily pick them up. I would never be able to buy a steady stream of books to read (or listen to - I have books on CD for my daily commute).
4656	7/11/2012	Very. They facilitate cultural literacy in young and old.
4657	7/11/2012	It is a free resource center open to all who live here. Encourages learning. Important use of our tax dollars.
4658	7/11/2012	I think the library is a resource to other public services. For someone new to the community. library is a good place to find out about those things.
4659	7/11/2012	Because they are such a valuable and valued resource for every member of the community, particularly the less well-off. When I visit the library, the computers are always in full use, mostly by people who look as though they cannot afford their own. The extremely high turnover of books also demonstrates the importance of the libraries to the community. [] A literate and reading community is essential to a well-functioning democracy. We need our libraries.
4660	7/11/2012	Very imp
4661	7/11/2012	Libraries and the time and interest to use them are markers of a thriving and vibrant community.
4662	7/11/2012	I would have ranked them the highest but knowing that police, fire and public schools are also public services I couldn't. I realize that, for me, the libraries are providing a recreation and not a necessity for my safety or well being. However those considerations aside, the libraries are extremely important to me.
4663	7/11/2012	I use the library frequently.

4664	7/11/2012	because of the range of services offered, especially for people who are out of work, and the materials they make available for people who can't pay for them. Libraries improve education, help people better themselves and find work, help parents teach their children, and provide entertainment and enlightenment freely to everyone in the community.
4665	7/11/2012	Primary source of information, enjoyment
4666	7/11/2012	Libraries are important to a free society. Access to information is necessary for an informed population.
4667	7/11/2012	The library is the hub of a community, meeting social and intellectual needs. Plus, I feel safe in a library.
4668	7/11/2012	Police and fire protection would take precedent.
4669	7/11/2012	free flow of information is central to democracy
4670	7/11/2012	Easy access to knowledge and leisure reading.
4671	7/11/2012	I use the library much more often than TriMet due to a change in living conditions.
4672	7/11/2012	There are people who do not have home access to technology. I see public libraries stepping in where public schools leave off: early childhood, summer vacations, after school.
4673	7/11/2012	Although I don't use the library very much right now due to an incredibly busy work schedule and less need, it is extremely important to me. I grew up in a poor family in a economically depressed rural area and the library was extremely important to me. From kindergarten on, my family went every week and brought home a stack of books that we would read and read. I learned to love reading and this opened up the world to me. My grandmother volunteered at the library and in high school I led the summer reading program. I excelled in school, went on to college (many did not in my community), and am now a manager at a large corporation in downtown Portland. Having access to the library changed my world as a child and on through my young adult years. The library helps bridge the divide between those with fewer access to resources and those who have resources at their fingertips. Having a public library represents the best of a democratic society. I place tremendous value on the services provided by the library and want them to continue to be available to all. Having access to a library doesn't just help one survive, it helps one to thrive.
4674	7/11/2012	because libraries keep people literate. without libraries illiteracy would be even worse than it is now and our society would fall even deeper into ignorance. that is a step backwards.
4675	7/11/2012	It is a community resource, a cultural heritage, an aid in continuing literacy and development of our society
4676	7/11/2012	Nowhere else are there free services available to enrich the lives of the community as there are in a library. I grew up near the Midland branch and do not remember a time when I did not have a library card, or my mom didn't take me there to find books with my brothers. Reading and being read to were an integral part of growing up and shaped the person I am today.

4677	7/11/2012	Personally, these days, i buy a lot of e-books soni don't use the library as much as i used to. My partner always has many books on hold and many books checked out; it's a huge resource for her. But primarily i think it is important as a resource for the community...for kids to learn to read, for folks who can't afford to by books & computers, etc.
4678	7/11/2012	I suffer from heart problems. Reading and DVDs are my only source of education and entertainment. I do not have cable and do not watch commercial TV at all because it causes serious stress. I am semi housebound. I have no car and travel on the bus is a hardship, or I would be at the library more often than once a month. I read an average of 40 books per month (often running out) and watch the same number of movies. I have not taken advantage of the delivery service offered by the library, but due to my heart it will not be long before I will need it and I am very happy it is there. I think library hours are problematic. The library could be more proactive about downloading and other electronic solutions and not require so many hours of open time.
4679	7/11/2012	I love Books.
4680	7/11/2012	it is important to encourage people to read especially in this day of internet. having a space in the community that encourages that is really special and helps create the community.
4681	7/11/2012	Less important than sanitation, more important than school funding.
4682	7/11/2012	Education and access to knowledge is important to me. Whether or not that is more important than, say, police services, I don't think the two can be compared on an even level.
4683	7/11/2012	To much money wasted on other projects, such as Light Rail trains
4684	7/11/2012	All local public servoces are important
4685	7/11/2012	Because it a great place for kid to go and learn and read
4687	7/11/2012	Local libraries were much more important to me when I was young. They helped me pursue my love of reading and learning. When my child was very young they served a similar purpose. Even though the Internet tends to be my principal library now, local libraries are important to me because I want to continue to live in a society re-generated by young people who value knowledge and who can always get what they need, in that regard, no matter their socioeconomics.
4688	7/11/2012	very important
4689	7/11/2012	libraries are essential to the well being of lower income individuals who do not have access to key resources (computers, internet, places of learning, education help, etc...)
4690	7/11/2012	A smart republic is a strong one.
4691	7/11/2012	The library had so many services that we need on a daily basis.
4692	7/11/2012	Equal access to info & ideas

4693	7/11/2012	It's an excellent way for my family to read about new things without having to buy the book. Our house is full of books that we may not read again, so the concept of borrowing books is completely genius.
4694	7/11/2012	Libraries are a source of information available to all and help create a literate populace.
4695	7/11/2012	I heavily rely on my library
4696	7/11/2012	Continues sense of community and offers everyone a chance to learn
4697	7/11/2012	The library is my favorite place in the world. I could not buy the number of books I read.
4698	7/11/2012	very important
4699	7/11/2012	Access to information is everywhere. The library is simply a self-contained mechanism.
4700	7/11/2012	Reading is freedom.
4701	7/11/2012	It has always been a resource for me since being a small child. When the library system is being threatened its the decline of America!!! I am an avid reader. Libraries give me the opportunity to read books that I could not necessarily afford to buy or have the room to store them. Libraries also give me access to reference material that would be difficult to obtain on my own. Large atlases for example are quite expensive.
4702	7/11/2012	the only thing more important is infrastructure and health
4703	7/11/2012	When my computer was down, it was helpful to be able to come use the computers. Also, I enjoy reading books and do not have the money to buy the electronic items.
4704	7/11/2012	bringing the opportunity for reading and exposure to books to the neighborhood level. [] there are children and others who may not have this opportunity otherwise[] When I was growing up, we all looked forward to the day each week when the bookmobile came - reading is everything!
4705	7/11/2012	Librery is my main source of information and entertainment.
4706	7/11/2012	Police, Fire and social services for those in need come first.
4707	7/11/2012	Growing up is I was always involved in the reading program the library puts on in the summer. Not only did it increase my love for reading, but also allowed me valuable volunteer opportunities and experience. My childhood would not have been the same without the library.
4708	7/11/2012	although i am not the avid reader that many people are that frequent the library, i like that i can access a lot of craft related books, maybe even photocopy a technique instead of having to go to the store and buy books. that is not in my budget at all. [] i also have used the computers and copy machine for job related tasks, not only in portland but a few times during the eleven years i lived in seattle. [] i think the library has a lot of things to offer and is a great resource that we need to maintain in our community.
4710	7/11/2012

4711	7/11/2012	Provides information/education/entertainment to ALL, regardless of income. Is important source of education for folks who can't afford to buy books or take classes. Encourages kids to read and learn.
4712	7/11/2012	Definitely important, perhaps not as much as healthcare, food, and shelter?
4713	7/11/2012	free access to books, computers, etc. is a key to our democracy
4714	7/11/2012	Lower frequency of use.
4715	7/11/2012	I use the library to assist me in my job: research assistant for a local art gallery.
4716	7/11/2012	Hard to rank without seeing other services you are asking me to compare to, but assuming police, fire would be more important,.
4717	7/11/2012	Although police, fire and schools are very important, I USE the library more than any other service.
4718	7/11/2012	Libraries are the most democratic form of knowledge. Everyone has access to and the potential to acquire knowledge a no cost. Libraries act as community centers and help to hold neighborhoods together.
4719	7/11/2012	My local library keeps me connected to my community, and is a resource that I rely on.
4720	7/11/2012	I think we all need information, weather it be for jobs, local events, or research.
4721	7/11/2012	Public safety and jobs are more important.
4722	7/11/2012	Availability of information, research,
4723	7/11/2012	Important to our family for a five year old who is learning to read.
4724	7/11/2012	Our county libraries are our town square. I become informed, I have quiet time that is not alone, I get to meet my community, I get to feel pride about a something that I help support. I know we need public assistance to help families in need and that should take priority because if Safety and hunger for families isn't met they cannot utilize the other services but these services need to be present. We should be a community who understands that libraries offer more than free books. I for one feel it goes hand in hand with the other public services in our community.
4725	7/11/2012
4726	7/11/2012	Important because it concerns the total community
4727	7/11/2012	i use them all the time--irreplacable
4728	7/11/2012	Libraries, schools, parks. Need I say more? These are the elements of community that weave us all together.
4729	7/11/2012	They represent the community's approach to a healthy lifestyle with education first.
4730	7/11/2012	Free public access to information.
4731	7/11/2012	Because it is one of the few institutions/services available to everyone, it provides a positive source of literature, media, music, etc. and it's free of charge.
4732	7/11/2012	a readily available resource
4733	7/11/2012	It is a place where you can get free internet access, read books without buying, get help with school work, they have programs and resuorces for all ages.
4734	7/11/2012	Books are integral to my life, and having this kind of system has made me discover more, read more and use more

4735	7/11/2012	Knowledge!
4736	7/11/2012	Libraries, next to schools, are the most important community tool to keep and improve literacy.[] Democracy depends on a literate public.
4737	7/11/2012	In my mind, the Library is the bastion of literacy - literally and culturally. It provides us with the riches of our human culture. Access to these riches is necessary for a continued understanding of who we are as humans. And understanding leads to interest, which can inspire us to evolve.
4738	7/11/2012	Because I'm a great reader and a writer myself. Libraries and books are essential to my life.
4739	7/11/2012	Because I'm an avid reader, my children are too...and we don't own a tv.
4740	7/11/2012	have access to the internet at home I'm a preschool teacher. I go to the library at least once a week and take out between 50 and 100 books. And I read them ALL, all week. Reading is a priority. []
4741	7/11/2012	[] The police however we could do without. And some other stuff, but I won't get into that.
4742	7/11/2012
4743	7/11/2012	1. Because an educated citizenry is vital to a democracy.[] 2. In times of dwindling economic resources, I depend on the library to have access to books and CD's that I need.
4744	7/11/2012	The library is the last meeting place in the community that brings together people of all backgrounds. It provides a free education to those who need it most, as well as offering the power of reading. Libraries continue to be a vibrant community gathering place, providing real connections with their range of resources, programs and services. It's great to have computers, events for kids and families, programs for seniors etc and in a setting that is beautiful, clean and welcoming. []
4745	7/11/2012	Whether you are a wealthy person or a homeless person, a toddler or an elder the library is your place. In Portland where sense of community has always been a key to our quality of life the libraries are an integral and essential piece of each neighborhood. It brings a smile to my face every time I walk in the door and feel that sense of connection.
4746	7/11/2012	computers have the library and a lot more... tough to compete. The buildings are expensive and probably upside down in today's market. better scan those books and have access from schools and home computers. Focus on scanning.
4747	7/11/2012	I rely on the library to provide books I would love to read at a low cost. I would rather not buy books when I could borrow them, which I find to be more financially as well as ecologically friendly.
4748	7/11/2012	I think library services are important to the health (especially in the long-term) of our society, but I'm not sure where, in terms of priority, they would land when compared with other more urgent needs.
4749	7/11/2012	police, fire, water, sewer, roads, schools are more important
4750	7/11/2012	Without public libraries, and the services and access to information they provide, the public is doomed to ignorance, and the voice of Fox News.

4751	7/11/2012	Book/reading access and information resource for school age kids
4752	7/11/2012	we enjoy the assortment of books
4753	7/11/2012	They provide knowledge and education, learning and reading to the public that can never be taken away and is priceless.
4754	7/11/2012	I use the library.
4755	7/11/2012	I both read for entertainment and education, and also use research services for my small business. All are extremely important to me.
4756	7/11/2012	An well-educated society forms the basis for a thriving community, including employment.
4757	7/11/2012	avoids use of vehicles to travel far, saving on pollution; convenient location of facilities is what makes a neighborhood and why i love portland.
4758	7/11/2012	libraries (librarians!) are central to accessing opportunities and to being a part of the community esp for people with limited resources.
4759	7/11/2012	I read a LOT, and love having the access to so many books. I also feel like as services go, I get the most bang for not that many bucks out of my pocket. I understand that public services need money and I'm OK paying it, but our library system is excellent and from a consumer's perspective it's a ridiculous bargain.
4760	7/11/2012	We don't rely on the library much but know others depend on it's services. Schools, public safety, roads and bridge repair are higher priorities.
4761	7/11/2012	People turn to library as a resource in times of economic strain. A literate, engaged population is important for the health of the community.
4762	7/11/2012	Libraries anchor communities and neighborhoods. Improved literacy and access to art, culture, and lifelong learning improve everyone's quality of life. As a culture, our literacy is decreasing as we become more dependent on "virtual" communities via computers and smartphones. Teens can text 60 words per minute but can't write an understandable sentence or complete a job application. Libraries and schools are hopefully anecdotes against the demise of American literacy.
4763	7/11/2012	The library is a place where you can actually go to use internet, check out books, and research.
4764	7/11/2012	free access to reading materials and computers for those who don't have the money to buy these items.
4765	7/11/2012	Libraries are fundamental to health of the community and to a rich family life, right up there with access to good education, health care, having a diversity of people and jobs, homes and businesses, culture and recreation, caring for the environment...
4766	7/11/2012	The library is a safe place for me to enjoy books which is a very high priority
4767	7/11/2012	Although I don't use the library often as an adult it had a huge impact on my love of reading and I hope libraries continue to have the same effect on children today.
4768	7/11/2012	Because I look to them for information, the ability to provide tools for research, and getting books, or movies, to read, and watch, for pleasure.

4769	7/11/2012	The library is home to all people, all ages, all social classes, the library is a sanctuary for a community. I am a school teacher and nanny; my dad is a school teacher and my parents are local residents. We grew up taking weekly visits to check out Ramona videos and Shel Silverstein poems at the Central Library. Our libraries offer a place for people to feel welcome and explore.
4770	7/11/2012	I love library
4771	7/11/2012	I have many other options that provide the same services as the library.
4772	7/11/2012	I would rank them very important but I do beleive basic services such as school funding, health benefits etc to be one step higher.
4773	7/11/2012	Libraries are free and available to all, they serve democracy at a fundamental level. An erosion of library services (even if I am not an overly frequent user), erodes true community values and democracy.
4774	7/11/2012	They are a place where all levels of society come together for cultural and educational enrichment
4775	7/11/2012	Already answered. The next section did not allow me to choose, it automatically entered the numbers!!!!!!
4776	7/11/2012	Reading is an amazing tool, and all communities deserve the right to have free access to books and other learning materials!
4777	7/11/2012	Libraries provide equal access to knowledge and the American Dream (what is left of it ;-<). I think library services are a critical part of the cultural infrastructure of the U.S. . Their existence represents the key values of a democratic government, related to providing free educational and literacy services designed to benefit everyone regardless of educational level, ethnicity or wealth.
4778	7/11/2012
4779	7/11/2012	we use them often for ourselves and our kids for reading materials
4780	7/11/2012	It is that important to me, because I use the library more than I use other local public services.
4781	7/11/2012	The library is important but not as much as the police and fire departments.
4782	7/11/2012	They showcase literature history-they breed community and represent infinite knowledge every time you open the doors.
4783	7/11/2012	Allow people to better themselves and save money.
4784	7/11/2012	I think they fill the need to view ourselves as humane.
4785	7/11/2012	We utilize the library often as a free place to entertain the kids. My oldest daughter reads a lot and gets all her books from the library. My youngest gets books for bed time stories there once a week. It is a huge part of our lives. The employees at our local branch have watched my kids grow. We love it there
4786	7/11/2012	Libraries spread literacy and they are an important resource for a life of learning.
4787	7/11/2012	Think it is very good thing for community.

4789	7/11/2012	Every time I travel and people ask me what I like about Portland, I say our libraries! This is because feel like I can get anything that I need at the library. Librarians often go the extra mile for me. As a child, I remember going to the Belmont library for story time, something that I know fostered the love of reading I have today. Libraries are a community center and provide a welcome environment for so many who feel disconnected or on the fray of society. I'm proud of our library system, and want to see it grow!
4790	7/11/2012	While they do not top safety and health concerns, they absolutely contribute to quality of life, especially for those living on limited incomes
4791	7/11/2012	The materials and services they offer are invaluable to the public. They also help to foster neighborhood community.
4792	7/11/2012	I am a realist, education, police fire, transportation health all rank higher than libraries, but the library in turn is much more important than swales, columbia river crossing, diversity programs etc.
4793	7/11/2012	A community that doesn't care about its libraries is a place that promotes ignorance, a threat worse than any other. Also. books and other available materials are expensive and having them available at the library is such a blessing for those of us on a limited income.
4794	7/11/2012	They elevate the level of knowledge of the community - especially those with less education, opportunity, training, wealth, etc.
4795	7/11/2012	So much a part of my life, it is hard to imagine what I would do without their services. I also use the priceless services like InterLibrary Loan, search their subscription databases, find the newest stuff with "Your Lucky Day" books, read magazines, check out music CDs, listen to audiobooks on the long trips to Eastern Oregon to visit the grandkids, buy from TitleWave used bookstore, ask children's librarian for suggestion for my granddaughter, volunteer on the weeding crew. My brother, the unemployed one, uses the library computers to write books which is selling on Amazon Kindle (and maybe I won't have to pay his rent anymore!). All in all, a treasure for this community.
4796	7/11/2012	because of being next to my home
4797	7/11/2012	The library is the only government organ that succeeds in delivering "quality-of-life" enhancement.
4798	7/11/2012	To me personally, they are important, but that doesn't mean I'm willing to sacrifice other services such as public safety, parks, etc.
4799	7/11/2012	Libraries are more than depositories of books. Like a free press, they maintain awareness of our own society and our constitution.

4800	7/11/2012	The library gives value to education and literacy. It gets kids excited about reading. Education and literacy are the foundations for a productive community.
4801	7/11/2012	The library is an oasis. We desperately need the cool waters and serene shade for shelter in a world gone mad from powerful forces wielding ledgers and balance sheets to smash humanity's compassion into antiquity. The library holds our history and the key to our future. Many would ignore our haven without realizing the peril they place upon us all. Don't retreat. En avant!
4803	7/11/2012	Libraries serve everyone directly, they offer positive services to everyon. Other programs often serve limited people for special reasons.
4804	7/11/2012	Over the last few years my income has been reduced significantly and without access to the wonderful library content we enjoy my "entertainment" would have been nonexistent. I still consider the library a primary information resource. When I was house shopping, the books I had to choose from to help educate me through the process was daunting. I found 80% of them in the library system. This allowed me to review the books in more detail, without incurring the cost of the book that I would most likely not need in the future. [] []
4805	7/11/2012	And now and then I like to take a book when traveling for work. I don't have to shut down while on the tarmac like the guy with the Kindle does. [] [] Libraries are a place for continued education for those that want it.
4806	7/11/2012	don't read that much
4807	7/11/2012	As an academic, I have trouble divorcing the availability of the Mult. library with those of Willamette / L&C, etc. Therefore, they are not too important as they are merely a crude substitute.
4808	7/11/2012	I'm a home owner and the libraries are just one of those guarantees with my freedom, in my opinion. It's right up there with fire/rescue and police. It's just one of those things that I wouldn't live in a city without.
4809	7/11/2012	I think a library is important to society, but with the internet it is losing much of its importance
4810	7/11/2012	because I use the library lots
4811	7/11/2012	Libraries are an important part of how I identify with my community. I also would not be able to read as many books or see movies and tv without libraries. Databases and ill also helped me greatly while i was in graduate school.
4812	7/11/2012	A public space for community, knowledge, and resources is the very definition of evolved civilization!
4813	7/11/2012	they are key to a city as so many people are dependent on them.
4814	7/11/2012	because I love to read and cant afford to own books or computers.
4815	7/11/2012	I am quasi-retired. I read a lot. I live within walking distance of the Central Branch

4816	7/11/2012	The resources a library can offer for a community are extremely valuable. There are many, many people who rely on the availability of the internet, networking, language classes to find jobs and better integrate them into our society as responsible citizens.
4817	7/11/2012	Libraries are a source of knowledge and entertainment, as well as communication. Everyone needs access to these areas in order for our society to flourish.
4818	7/11/2012	The library is a resource for the whole community which is available regardless of age, race, class, religious or political beliefs, or mental or physical capabilities. All are welcome.
4819	7/11/2012	I've been a great reader all my life - more than a hundred books a year. My husband is as well. The Multnomah County Library has a wonderful selection and great staff, and needs to be recognized and supported. I think reading makes good citizens and helps us continue to learn throughout our lives.
4820	7/11/2012	Because for me as a college student I like to be able to access more information than the things provided at the community college I attend. Also my little cousins are able to read during the summer and learn new things due to the library services provided.
4821	7/11/2012	I love to read and I think life long learning is important for individual growth and society as a whole. Libraries are one of the best examples of a civilized society.
4822	7/11/2012	Digital media
4823	7/11/2012	It's a community center that brings people together of all ages, and is free. Promotes learning, community.
4824	7/11/2012	I feel reading is the key to success in everything you do.
4825	7/11/2012	I use them constantly in ways that nothing else can substitute for
4826	7/11/2012	Access to information; access for those without internet to research, look for jobs, have entertainment. Social space.
4827	7/11/2012	It evens the playing field socioeconomically. Libraries help people grow and stretch themselves in new ways.
4828	7/11/2012	Less important than safety-related services, but up there with parks as important for quality of life
4829	7/11/2012	The library is an important service because it can be used by all people. You can be rich or poor. You can be a single person or a family. The library is a resource for everybody.
4830	7/11/2012	The library is often the first place people go to access or find out about other govt programs. The library is the gateway.
4831	7/11/2012	The library seems to be a safe haven for many different folks to go: families who need something to do during the day, teens exercising their independence, and all people thirsty for a book, a piece of music, a DVD or record.

4832	7/11/2012	As previously stated, for the poor, the library services are needed more than ever in these economic times. Jobs and education are the 2 most cut areas in company and government budgets. The need is greater than ever to help people get jobs or attain education and the services at the libraries are essential for those who have lost their jobs and children who are trying to stay in school. It is the biggest bang for the governmental buck for it helps people to get back to work. Library services are essential even more so in these tough economic times.
4833	7/11/2012	Hard to rank when compared to paying a city water bill, and now the schools want/need money to upgrade facilities.
4834	7/11/2012	I really enjoy the library. The library is great.
4835	7/11/2012	I can't afford to buy the books I like to read. Without the library I wouldn't read as much and I would feel intellectually and spiritually bereft without it.
4836	7/11/2012	With a very busy schedule I need access to a close location to be able to take my daughter to get a book, assist my special needs sister with services the library offers, or my aging mother that doesn't have internet access at home. Three very different needs but all equally as important.
4838	7/11/2012	not so much for me personally, but for people in my community who rely on all the services that the library's provide.
4839	7/11/2012	Libraries are tremendously important to the cultural and intellectual well being of society. They provide information that might otherwise be unavailable to those in need. They supplement the educational needs of the children of our community. Libraries give us access to information, via various avenues of research, that helps us to better understand the machinations of government and increasing our self awareness as citizens and arming us with the tools to more fully and effectively participate in the civic ventures.
4840	7/11/2012	Having a good library system that is up to date and accessible is a necessity for all citizens to be able to grow, expand horizons, and contribute to society on a meaningful level.
4841	7/11/2012	Convenient, saves me money and time. I still prefer an actual book and don't enjoy ebooks. As far as resource materials, I now do that primarily online. If I kept every book I ever read my home would become overwhelmed!
4842	7/11/2012	It's a resource center for everyone.
4843	7/11/2012	Reading is fundamental. Not all can afford books. In this economy we need free options.

4844	7/11/2012	When I was very young, I hated to read. Hated it. But one day I was handed "The Jungle Book" by Rudyard Kipling and my young mind made it all the way from the Bronx in NYC to the jungles of India...quite a trip, and ever since my book travels have taken everywhere. Public libraries are so very important, giving, free of charge, an opportunity to everyone to experience an enlarged view and understanding of the world that we might otherwise never have.
4845	7/11/2012	Free access to reading material provides all sorts of advantages.
4846	7/11/2012	I love to read and learn, but if I step foot in Powell's I won't be able to leave without spending at least $60. I love having access to all that information for free. Also, it is a source of pride and identity for our city, in my opinion, that we value this service, and all that it stands for, so highly. I wish we had that level of support for public schools. I respect the library's mission, and it's commitment to education and privacy. Since I frequent the Central Library the most, I also value it as a warm, safe, dry place for some of the county's neediest people.
4847	7/11/2012	I'm a teacher and the library is a great resource
4848	7/11/2012	Because I love to read and being able to access books or other information is very important to me and being able to do so for little to no cost is incredible. Books have played a big role in my life and as a child, without the library, I would have never been able to have so many to read as my family was a bit poor (monetarily). It was a way for me to escape the circumstances of my life at the time.[]
4849	7/11/2012	There is something very magical walking into a library, having a library card was one of the most important cards in my possession when I was a child and still is. [] I don't know if this is helpful but lovely to remember and to realize how the library and people who worked there helped me in my life.
4850	7/11/2012	Because we need literate people and in this age of recession and job loss people need access to all library services
4851	7/11/2012	Libraries support education, literacy, culture
4852	7/11/2012	I like to read and take advantage of the music there. I understand I am at an age where it may be more important to young children and high school kids for the services provided. I just like to check out books.
4853	7/11/2012	Public libraries, along with public schools and a free press, are the foundations of our democracy.
4854	7/11/2012	We have pleasantly found the library books and media well-stocked. And with the option to place a hold and pick up the item at our local branch, it makes more sense to use the library rather than spend money on purchasing new books.

		wherever I live, practically the first thing I do is get a library card. [] []
4855	7/11/2012	When I first moved to Portland in 2001, and left my wallet in a store at the Lloyd Center, my Multnomah County library card was a big help in finding it. Even though I still had an out of state drivers license and the security guard thought I was probably a tourist . . . when she saw my library card they knew I actually lived in Portland and held the wallet until I came to claim it . . . a big relief.[] []
4856	7/11/2012	Oh, and of course I use the library at least once or twice a month for books on tape, books, and dvd's. very important
4857	7/11/2012	police and fire first of course. but libraries are next - we need them as a society to read and be informed.
4858	7/11/2012	My husband and I rely on the library for various sorts of personal research and are heavy recreational readers.
4859	7/11/2012	To me, everything else in local government is just background. The library is the number one resource I and my family use a few times a week. I use it for my job, including Books 2 You and library tables at family reading nights, for books and on-line services for my students, for my professional reading and my own pleasure reading. My high school aged children use it for research, but also continuing pleasure reading--several books out at a time! I could not do my job without the public library. My children would not be as happy and well-rounded, and, as a teacher, I know thousands and thousands of students in this city, (45,000+ in Portland Public Schools), many English language learners, would not be as literate.
4860	7/11/2012	I use them so frequently and I cannot afford to buy books and magazines a lot (although I do buy some)
4861	7/11/2012	great for research
4862	7/11/2012	They are based on constitutional ideals that are surprisingly socialistic. I use them a lot and enjoy their services.
4863	7/11/2012	Personally- learning and social opportunities for my young children. On the community level- Access to free reading and computer materials for low-income families.
4864	7/11/2012	Free information available to the public is why I chose to select local library services as important. Although it is easier and more accessible having written records is very important for historical and record keeping purposes, as well as research.
4865	7/11/2012	Setting for the enrichment of the public.
4866	7/11/2012	Education and access to literature, supportive programs, and the joy of reading and[] intelligence is central to democracy and quality of life of a community.

4867	7/11/2012	I've been out of work for a couple of years and I don't know what I would have done without the library. I no longer have money to buy books or rent movies but although I might have to wait a bit, I can always get it at the library. The staff has helped me in my job searches and I have had a couple of research projects and of course the library is my main resource. The library helps me stay in touch with my community, even though I no longer have a job to go to.
4868	7/11/2012	Because they make life richer. Using the library feels like a huge part of being in a community and that's what Portland is all about.
4869	7/11/2012	I love taking my children to the library and they love going there. It ranks right up there with other activities in town such as OMSI or the zoo and they have often chosen to go to the library over these other types of activities. I grew up in a family that attended our library every two weeks at which time we returned our books and excitedly gathered up a new stack to take home and I like passing that tradition on to my children. I believe the library is vital to encouraging a love of reading in our children.
4870	7/11/2012	I wouldn't rate this higher than public safety like police & fire fighters, but it falls in pretty high, certainly higher than social services for example that only benefit a certain segment of the population. The libraries can & should serve everyone but primarily as a source of books & info (educational). The more we can access online, the better including the wonderful ILL services that open up a world of info. The library system is a very important service but it also needs to be affordable, not another big burden on the tax payers to fund, especially just those paying property taxes. People using the services should be the primary ones paying for them.
4871	7/11/2012	I love to read and I can't afford to buy books. The library allows me to have my favorite past time without going in to debt.
4872	7/11/2012	In my opinion, the services of the Multnomah County Library system are on par with that of Portland Parks and Recreation, in terms of importance to my young family. Both have been two of the biggest reasons that I continually thank my luck stars that we live in a region where people care as much about improving life for its residents as myself and my family.
4873	7/11/2012	mental health
4874	7/11/2012	My family is on a very limited budget and having the library open to check out books and educational dvds is very important to our family. Plus, having the story time session's for my son is extremely important to us. Having him get out and socialize with others in a structured setting is so vital for our daily routine!
4875	7/11/2012	Education is the most important and if people can't get a college education, then they have to have a place to come.
4876	7/11/2012	The Commonwealth of Knowledge was a central impetus for the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and the rise of democracy and democratic capitalism. Libraries are the repository of knowledge for "the common man," and must be preserved if democracy is to survive the coming hard times!
4877	7/11/2012	Literacy and knowledge is power.

4878	7/11/2012	To have access to books, magazines, research, activities, is invaluable to me. I can almost always find what I need, with out buying it. Also, for the youth in community, who may need this for school work. I can not imagine my life with out a library!
4879	7/11/2012	depends on what you mean by local public services. Fire and police? Well, sure they are more important than the library. but having good stuff to read is so important to me, and as i get older, and will be able to do less, reading will only get more important. if i had to buy all my books it would make a real dent in my budget.
4880	7/11/2012	They aren't as important as mental health services for example, but they provide important links to our community and serve our poor, under served populations for free.
4881	7/11/2012	I rely on it for resources for teaching children on sundays and my own reading
4882	7/11/2012	I have become a "library person" since moving to Oregon about twenty years ago. As a child, my family didn't go to the library much, especially not with children. I thought of it as an adult place. When I moved to Oregon, I was supriised at how many people talk about the library in their day to day lives. I began to use my computer at home to reserve books, and couldn't believe just how fantastic that was. ☐ When my daughter was born, we got the library card application in the mail, and I thought, "they want to give a baby a library card!?" But we brought her and now she is my bookworm. As an emerging reader, she reads at least a book a day and even she often says how thankful she is for the library because she wouldn't be able to buy all these books. We have also utilized the library staff in helping my daughter find more good fit books. And the summer reading program is FANTASTIC!!!!
4883	7/11/2012	Because they are free. Because no matter how poor you are, you can still read. Because education and betterment of self should be available TO ALL. They are our last bulwark for social justice. I am disabled and on a limited income, and I volunteer in the public schools, tutoring reading and writing. The Multnomah County Library is what enables me to bring 25 books to my volunteer job at Alder Elementary, the poorest school in the state. I switch out books every two weeks, and I gather books for individual students based on their interests. Reading is such a basic need and right. Wha can you do in this life if you can't read, or if you don't have access to information? No way could I afford to buy the books I use in my tutoring. I ordered a book on sale from National Geographic, and all of my students were thrilled, because it was a book that had been given to them by Books To U, the program the library has, that volunteers come into elementary schools and talk up books. Just by coincidence, I had ordered that same book, and every single one of my students wanted to read it. The person who came and did the presentation must have done a FANTASTIC job!!! A strong library system, that has new and current books and other materials is a social justice issue. I'd like to think that Portlanders would want such a basic right to continue to be a highest priority.
4884	7/11/2012	its where i go to read new books and manga since i can't afford to buy them
4885	7/11/2012	a curious and educated population is essential to maintaining a functioning society
4886	7/11/2012	Not important enough to pay higher taxes for them.

4887	7/11/2012	They are accessible to all, offering education and resources that people may not be able to get elsewhere. Libraries are a great community center for all people and are essential for a thriving community.
4888	7/11/2012	other services include police, fire, etc. which have higher level of importance to lives and property
4889	7/11/2012	Provides access to a multitude of services to everyone in the community. Particularly important to low income or fixed income people, including seniors, unemployed and families living at or below the poverty level.
4890	7/11/2012	They are not so important to me but they are extremely important to a large number of the local population and should be at the top of the list for funding. Regarding public services libraries should be at the top of the list and rank along side water, sewer and sanitation.
4891	7/11/2012	Below maintaining infrastructure, utilities and public safety.
4892	7/11/2012	Public safety should always come first.
4893	7/11/2012	society depends on it's community library to progress
4894	7/11/2012	Reading and information is key to life. The library brings the community together in place to learn, read, and share. Everyone benefits both directly and indirectly from the library. EVERYONE.
4895	7/11/2012	reading is fundamental
4896	7/11/2012	i personally love the library. i also believe that access to information (via a variety of media) should be available to people to have an active and informed community.
4897	7/11/2012	They are definitely at the top!
4898	7/11/2012	Almost as essential as public safety - and in the long run, AS essential.
4899	7/11/2012	Because the libraries are for everyone, free and accessible, and are the foundation of our society and culture.
4900	7/11/2012	It's a service that I use on a regular basis. It's very important to have education available for everyone. I see the library serving that function.
4901	7/11/2012	I use them as a quiet place to work away from the kids.
4902	7/11/2012	The library provides me with materials that keep me involved, well, connected. The library allows me to 'afford' media that I would not otherwise have access to.
4903	7/11/2012	I use the library all the time for my family and my work in education.
4904	7/11/2012	to be able to read all of the books that interest me with no cost
4905	7/11/2012	I have friends who are next to homeless and need access to job resources. They build community
4906	7/11/2012	access to affordable and quality health care should be your priority.
4907	7/11/2012	I love to read, I appreciate being able to read, and it's a great public service to make reading materials available for ALL.

4908	7/11/2012	I think it is important to encourage reading and make a variety of literature readily available to the community. However, I do think public services involving safety (police and fire for example) are more important.
4909	7/11/2012	Libraries are an essential part of our continuing education. The library provides an important resource not only for children who don't have access to computers, books, and other media, but to us all. To remain competitive in this world our library system is absolutely one of the single most important tools for communities, especially as a supplement to schools.
4910	7/11/2012	A literate educated citizen is of the utmost importance.
4911	7/11/2012	Without a good library system, a community declines. We need to support access for all to reading and resource materials. We need to stimulate our children, help job seekers, encourage the preservation of our intellectual capacity.
4912	7/11/2012	Our country is based on a free education for everyone, the library is an important part of that educational process, starting early and continuing on into retirement. The library is an active gathering place for diverse segments of our population, a safe coming together of ages, races, education levels unlike any other. I can't imagine not having a library and have told so many friends outside Oregon about our fantastic system, how up to date, easy to use and well stocked it is.
4913	7/11/2012	Even though we live in a different communication age than I grew up in I believe the library still provides the greatest access to the largest source of information freely available. For many it is a great social outlet also. For some seniors it is a wonderful learning tool
4914	7/11/2012	An educated public responds better to major societal issues than an uneducated public.
4915	7/11/2012	Because we have a small child and read to him all the time. I love being a part of the community and getting our books through the library. It has made a huge impact on me as a mother and how our child relates to books and learning. I also loved the baby and toddler classes. The library is very important to our family.
4916	7/11/2012	I can check out almost limitless books and read without expense
4917	7/11/2012	Libraries provide knowledge to the people. Knowledge is power. Knowledge and an informed populace are the foundation of a strong democracy. That foundation is being undermined and needs to be protected.
4918	7/11/2012	Free access to books for all community
4919	7/11/2012	principally because the media, especially TV, is so powerful. Libraries enable a grater scope of synthetic thought and a greater liklihood of novel or original thought. The also provide a natural check on political discourse.
4920	7/11/2012	library provides access to information for all. the library is invaluable to me and others
4921	7/11/2012	Current level of services (6 days per week) is fine. 1 hour could probably be cut per day. I would support a library district, but the levy I really want to see is for parks and rec.
4922	7/11/2012	It provides a sense of community..something larger than our personal/private selves

4923	7/11/2012	They're not a necessity like water and sewage, but they're a public service that's irreplaceable for many.
4924	7/11/2012	it is a service that we actually use, and is convenient, and saves us from having to buy books. People can take special ownership of their neighborhood library.
4925	7/11/2012	Libraries provide a source of continuing education that most of us are being priced out of due to the high cost of college education.
4926	7/11/2012	Because I use library more than other services.
4927	7/11/2012	reliable and knowledgeable resource.
4928	7/11/2012	Library services are very important because, as I stated earlier, I believe it is a great community hub, as well as being a great resource for so many different people. Education, reading, sharing, and learning are things I value greatly, and I've been watching so much of that be stripped from schools and the public sector over the years.
4929	7/11/2012	Libraries are the backbone of equal opportunities for public education
4930	7/11/2012	It's the service I use most.
4931	7/11/2012	As a foster parent taking my children in foster care to the library & teaching them how to use it is very important! It gives them a resource they can use even if they have to move to ten different places while in care.
4932	7/11/2012	The level of importance to my library is very important in my life. I find that having this resource now in this difficult time has alleviate some other stresses in my everyday. I am currently applying to jobs and needing the use of the wonderful computers provided. I also am looking for new residency and at my current place non is provided. The local libraries are of utmost important in my life due to convenient locations and all the resources. I would hope there would be NO MORE Cutbacks in this truly needed resource for many. I am a proud supporter of my libraries! They do so much for everyone.
4933	7/11/2012	I think that we never know enough in this lifetime; the more we learn the more interesting life is in general.
4934	7/11/2012	Libraries encourage literacy in our society. That is the foundation of a literate society.
4935	7/11/2012	Reading is something that I cherish, being able to access information is as well.
4936	7/11/2012	This service represents the best form of free education to all Americans.
4937	7/11/2012	Because a library is an essential component of a culture
4938	7/11/2012	Libraries are a great resource for families for reading and study material for children and adults. Exposure to new ideas and sources of information.
4939	7/11/2012	very important because costs of things have skyrocketed. i cant be a reader unless i borrow the books from the library. children won't learn without reading.
4940	7/11/2012	I get ALL my media (movies & music) & many of my books from library -- I love our libraries!!

4941	7/11/2012	The Library is an amazing resource for the public that outstrips most other services far and wide. [] 5A place to find information is invaluable in a community.
4942	7/11/2012	Well clearly, public services that help save/sustain - lives is of most importance! But beyond those, I feel Librairies are clearly in the next category of - while not required for the above mentioned, are still very important to the lives saved/sustained, to be therefore enriched by Libraries.
4943	7/11/2012	I believe in an informed an literate society where all have access. I want young children and families to know the joys of being literate. Libraries are part of being a strong community.
4945	7/11/2012	While public libraries were once very important to me their relevance now has been largely diminished by personal computer/other electronic media. Obviously it is faster, more convenient, more efficient to use a PC/ than to go to a library.[] Secondly, other public services now have more importance to me than libraries. Therefore In the increasing competitor for tax dollars & with the increasing obligation to entitlements funding public libraries does not seem as important as it once was; and I would not rank high public libraries as an essential service.
4946	7/11/2012	Libraries -- along with schools and parks -- are what makes us a community, rather than just a group of people. So important for leveling the economic playing field and for providing the tools for change and mobility for people.
4947	7/11/2012	Public safety is most important and to get the Gresham Police to respond to any non-life threatening is near impossible.
4948	7/11/2012	The benefits are very real and very hard to quantify. They fall under responsibility to our community at large. Keeping an educated society cures a lot of social problems.
4949	7/11/2012	A community is enriched when citizens have access to a well run library.
4950	7/11/2012	Because I cannot often afford to buy the books I read, and being able to check them out for free, whether they are for leisure or academic purposes, is important. I have also checked out music and DVDs as well, and enjoy being able to do that.
4951	7/11/2012	I think that they're very important to me, personally, but I feel like, to the community as a whole, there are social services that hold more value to the community. I find libraries to be a very valuable resource, and I use them frequently when I'm in Portland, and I use the electronic version when I'm out of town.
4952	7/11/2012	because i go to a college that has a library w/ alot of materials as it is.
4953	7/11/2012	Of all the services provided by the county the library is the only one that is wanted by most of the people
4954	7/11/2012	Less than major government functions

4955	7/11/2012	This is one service that almost everyone uses and needs. Personally, I am unemployed and have needed to use the computer there sometimes to do research, etc.
4956	7/11/2012	Police, fire, road maintenance are key as is education and library funding is only slightly lower as an important piece of education for our community!
4957	7/11/2012	I have to put public protections services (police, fire, health) above libraries, but that's about it.
4958	7/11/2012	I used them all the time. It is important to educate the populace in a democracy
4959	7/11/2012	Libraries expand the world of every person who visits. Countless opportunities for enjoyment, improvement, and mental enhancement are there for anyone to explore. I learn something every day I visit and the experience improves my feelings of self-worth and my relationship with the world and every other person I meet.
4960	7/11/2012	Because they are a very important resource for the community at large. Our libraries are one of the great equalizers of society
4961	7/11/2012	Libraries allow citizens to better themselves during all economic times. To take away access to[] programs during an economic down-turn is counter productive to the community.
4962	7/11/2012	Clearly, police, fire, water, garbage, judicial system are very important. After those, I'd place the library, parks, and environmental initiatives at about the same level.
4963	7/11/2012	For a lot of low income families the library is one of the few places that they can find free entertainment. Also, when libraries offer other affordable services that promote childhood literacy and education, the whole community benefits. Few other local public services are as readily accessible and as familiar as the Library.
4964	7/11/2012	Book and media prices are going up.
4965	7/11/2012	Because information, and knowledge is imperative for evolving.
4966	7/11/2012	For some people on limited incomes, they are a great low-cost (as long as you return the materials on time!) resource for recreational reading materials, including talking books and other visual media. Valuable resource for children and those attending school.
4967	7/11/2012	Ongoing learning for all ages is vital to the economy, social fabric of community and health of our democracy. Access to books, other forms of media, resources and a place to connect with others and learn is an investment that provides a magnified, regenerative return.
4968	7/11/2012	I think all human beings should have access to reading materials. Libraries keep you involved, current,[] and educated regardless of your ability to pay. This is especially true of young children. I don't[] personally have children but I can still remember the importance the library played in my young[] life.

4969	7/11/2012	They are extremely important to me because I believe that they are a great resource for a variety of materials. Reading is a very important skill to have. People shouldn't be kept from reading or having access to the internet (the internet is so huge, important, and significant these days) just because they don't have money to afford it, so receiving these services for free is a great privilege. To have all these resources at hand is a wonderful and empowering thing.
4970	7/11/2012	The library is a very important place within the community for self-education, for meeting other people in your community, and for finding hard copy resources for furthering your education or for other objectives.
4971	7/11/2012	Because they provide reading/listening/watching materiel for free, and a place to use the internet.
4972	7/11/2012	I probably use the local library services more than any other local public service disregarding the school system.
4973	7/11/2012	If we lose the libraries, we lose knowledge. This isn't only important to public service, it's important to humanity and our culture. This is more of a threat to society and our morals. It would be a colossal mistake to neglect the importance of our libraries!!! Especially with the impending fate of physical books as they will become eclipsed by digitally-accessed and purchased lit. I think these issues should be more at issue than what has been.
4974	7/11/2012	Access to books! see note on previous question. [] []
4975	7/11/2012	I understand that libraries are important to those who need their services.[] [] No one dies if the library is closed on Mondays, but if all fire houses close on Mondays, big problem.
4976	7/11/2012	I use the library more than any service- never call police or fire and the library impacts me on a daily basis.
4977	7/11/2012	As a community member I feel that local library service is beneficial to everyone regardless of age, ethnicity, language, etc.
4978	7/11/2012	I don't use it that often.
4979	7/11/2012	They are with school the most important tool for lowering the social differences between porest and richest people.
4980	7/11/2012	I read a wide variety of material, and constantly purchasing new books, or other media, is not a financially viable for me. Additionally, libraries provide an essential access point for information and community resources / gathering that simply are not available at other public service destinations.
4981	7/11/2012	Libraries serve as a community space for people of all ages and from all backgrounds. They are an amazing resource for all people, regardless of their socio-economic status.
4982	7/11/2012	Free access to a lot of resourses

4983	7/11/2012	I am a bibliophile. I consume literature voraciously and appreciate the opportunity afforded by being able to seek out new works easily and at little/no cost.
4984	7/11/2012	I think very important after safety ...
4985	7/11/2012	Local library services, whether it is a quiet room that allows me to tutor, the invaluable assistance from reference librarians locating materials, or checking out the most current written work by a favorite author, provide GUIDES TO KNOWLDEGE and without that knowledge our society suffers as a whole.
4986	7/11/2012	What other public services are you talking about?...sewage and water are probably the top of the list. Be more specific.
4987	7/11/2012	Offers free services to families who can not afford reading programs for their kids.
4988	7/11/2012	It is one of the few places remaining in our culture where mixed ages, mixed cultures come together. It is a place where people can explore the world in their own neighborhood. Libraries allow all economic levels to access information.
4989	7/11/2012	I am not sure what you mean by local public services. I feel the public library is the most important service besides schools and universities. By other public services if you mean government and state agencies I would have to say that those agencies are a disgrace and one will never find an iota of truth or something to be passionate about in the other public services-that is unless one is a crook!
4990	7/11/2012	its a place where i can go and feel safe. Its nice to sit and browse books. Its warm in winter. its nice and quiet.[] I could not afford to buy the books I read, or the DVD's I watch.
4991	7/11/2012	Education is the key to success.
4992	7/11/2012	For the reasons described in answer number 6.
4993	7/11/2012	Expanding knowledge and experience by access to multi dimensional resources.
4994	7/11/2012	Libraries are a safe, public, free environment that allows people from all walks of life to learn and to explore the world. Libraries have been foundational in my exploration of knowledge for as long as I can remember and into adulthood.
4995	7/11/2012	See previous comments.
4996	7/11/2012	See my previous response.
4997	7/11/2012	Because it is important for the library to be open as much as possible and to have a lot of materials for my family.
4998	7/11/2012	Because the services they provide can be accessed by anyone who can get to a physical library, or via their own computer. Anyone meaning, no discrimination ... the services are there. But the computers at Gresham, naaah, they're "owned" by rambunctious adult-free kids!!!

4999	7/11/2012	Although not as critical as police, fire, sanitation, or public education, I believe that public library services (including internet access terminals) are one of the keystones of a free and democratic society. Without access to proper information, how can responsible citizens remain informed about important information crucial to the continuation of our civilization?
5000	7/11/2012	I personally love the library. There's a lot of government waste and far too many taxes as it that needs to go away BUT the library is not one of those.
5001	7/11/2012	Because they're free and available to everyone which is what people need.
5002	7/11/2012	They provide a free (or very cheap) service to a huge population that may not otherwise be able to afford getting new books to read.
5003	7/11/2012	I'm an educator. I'm also educated and well informed politically and know that without libraries the future of our nation is at stake. Break libraries and we surrender ALL our liberties, may as well give 'up the fight to keep our nation for "WE THE PEOPLE." Libraries are essential to the general welfare of our citizenry.
5004	7/11/2012	First off, I love to read. Reading is an enriching and stress relieving pass time that can be healthy for children as well as adults which is the main reason why I believe our libraries are so important. Also many students dont have access to a computer at home so they rely on the libraries to complete assignments. As well as the language and computer classes that are offered. When I was younger and couldnt afford to buy books my safety blanket was my library card. Libraries are a source of continuing community education---even our public schools would be challenged to educate youth who had not benefited from books at the library, from seeing their parents reading at home (with books from the library), from hearing their parents read to them (perhaps with stronger skills from library reading programs), or who had not learned that education continues well outside of the compulsory classroom setting. ¶ ¶
5005	7/11/2012	If you had asked me to rank library services with actual other services by name (something I only think you should do because I've read about survey results---something a library helped me out with once), I might have to admit that I really really value having emergency services, healthcare options, access to clean water and air, mobility services like sidewalks and transit support, parks, safe and affordable housing programs, and regular old public education. I can say that I rank library service among these other big services, and am constantly frustrated in a world that insists we have to choose.
5007	7/11/2012	They aren't. Question seven did not specify that the answer be a personally related one.
5008	7/11/2012	I feel like libraries are a hub of a community. In addition, access to books is essential to a country who hopes for everyone to be literate and who tells its poorest that they have hope to fill the American Dream.
5009	7/11/2012	Probably because I don't lean heavily on library resources.

5010	7/11/2012	I believe reading and an education are essential to a well-informed citizenry. Literature in particular teaches us to think creatively and to question norms and governmental decrees. Literature allows people to experience other lives, reflect on their own and see how others have addressed their problems.
5011	7/11/2012	As a resource for information, internet access for people without internet access, and public meeting place, our libraries are unmatched. Our libraries are easily one of our most important public resources for the community.
5012	7/11/2012	Community gathering place open to all / Fosters a love for books, reading, literary exploration and imagination in children / Provides adults and older students with access to solid research materials outside of Wikipedia and Google
5013	7/11/2012	knowledge is power and the library provides that to every single person
5014	7/11/2012	I don't make a lot of money so being able to check out books, DVDs, music, etc. adds value to my life. I feel like I can have exposure to the things I love (film, literature) even though I may not have the extra funds to own these things. My life is much better.
5015	7/11/2012	Library services are worthless without the basic like fire, police, sewer, water... After those services, people need welfare programs like medical and food... Of course if the general population is ignorant it leads to lower quality of all the above mentioned programs...
5016	7/11/2012	Cost benefit analysis-SPECIAL INTEREST limited group usage mostly..... Literacy is extremely important, and the access to information for the general public is crucial. Historically speaking, the masses haven't always had the resources available to gain knowledge and make better informed decisions. Removal of libraries and reduction of library resources and hours of availability greatly increases the ability for the general public to access information in a centralized location. It also reduces the ability for them to gain information by communicating with knowledgeable staff.
5017	7/11/2012	My preference would be for all libraries to be open from at least 7 AM to 11 PM to provide ample opportunity for everyone, regardless of their work schedule, to have the opportunity to make use of such a wonderful resource. The reduction in hours disturbs me since it seems like a trend to reduce the availability to knowledge that is harder to manipulate than the internet. There is always the possibility the internet may end up being inaccessible or shut down which will leave the general populous cut off from knowledge. I personally am willing to pay more in taxes to keep the libraries open longer.
5018	7/11/2012	It provides access to education and culture for everyone despite their income.
5019	7/11/2012	With internet access, the library is of little value to our family.

5020	7/11/2012	Without the library, we lose a community gathering place, a free place to go and check out things that are useful and entertaining. We lose programs that teach and engage. We lose a concept of getting something that is important as human beings for no charge. Today, almost everywhere one is at where one can "get" something one has to pay for that. The library offers everyone with a card the option of learning.
5021	7/11/2012	I rely on Mult. Co. Libraries to provide me with resources for my business.
5022	7/11/2012	Books are what make us human. Knowledge and information are the keys to self improvement and a higher quality of life, the community has access to get current information , find employment or just relax in a positive environment that our local libraries provide. Books are a link to our past and future and foster creativity we must not lose this precious gift, for me the library is the most important city service as it gives so much to its patrons, who would be devastated if they didn't have a library to go to.....
5024	7/11/2012	The library has always played a role in my community and has been a safe and relaxing place to feel welcome
5025	7/11/2012	Libraries and the education system go hand in hand, both are very important and vital to our society for the growth of students and of a person, which in turn means the growth of our society...
5026	7/11/2012	I love to read. Libraries are so important to a civilized society.[]
5027	7/11/2012	Our young people need access to all the services of a library. education is everything and reading is fun too
5028	7/11/2012	Information is important for a free society. Libraries allow reading for everyone (very democratic). They are an important aspect of hope-learning what is possible and bringing people together.
5029	7/11/2012	I can't afford cable, I can't afford to go to the movies, I can't afford to buy books - the library is my savior so I can check out materials and not feel so downtrodden! It's very important!
5030	7/11/2012	Great resource for research, learning and entertainment.
5031	7/11/2012	Public safety, public works, employment, water, cost of living (affordable housing), essentially items for daily survival are most important. Those who have access to the internet or mobile devices can access E-books and other news, information, video, etc. which can be found in a local library. I tend to see many patrons in the library for the purpose of using the internet (computers). While I understand that the tangible experience of holding and reading a book, I also think the public library could save costs by focusing on E-books for adults. Technology has changed the playing field.
5032	7/11/2012	With so many people on limited incomes the library is able to provide such a wide variety of valuable services that most people can use. It provides job seeking services to entertainment and everything in between. What other public services offer so many different services to so many different people?
5033	7/11/2012	very valuable education and information resources to entire community

5034	7/11/2012	Most other public services are of no benefit to me or people I know. Libraries are used very often everyday.
5035	7/11/2012	A good resource but not as critical with internet access more and more available.
5036	7/11/2012	I'm not going to say I'd rather cut the schools or firefighter budgets; but I firmly believe that children who have access to a wide array of books growing up and who have adults who read to them are so much more likely to become outstanding, valued members of our society.
5037	7/11/2012	Reading is an essential skill to cultivate
5038	7/11/2012	Literacy is extremely important. A library is very under utilized in this time.
5039	7/11/2012	When my daughter was very young we took advantage of the childrens programs and I believe it helped her so much in school. As our family changed and we all grew up we had differant needs like internet access and help with homework. And the season we are in now we have family in all the differant stages of growth. We have seniors, adults , teens and children. We all highly value the library and the wonderful people who work there.
5040	7/11/2012	Somewhat important.
5041	7/11/2012	I read voraciously, and I try not to buy too many books. Accessing and borrowing from the library is an essential part of my life.
5042	7/11/2012	It is a public resource available to so many people and for so many different reasons.
5043	7/11/2012	The access to reading and other materials seems outstanding to anyone who makes the effort to find out what is available (inter-library loan, etc).
5044	7/11/2012	Libraries keep our communities educated and culturally savvy.
5045	7/11/2012	Literacy is fundamental. Libraries provide access and resources to individuals regardless of circumstance. For my family, storytimes have of course been a fun and enriching literacy activity, but they also have given us a way to feel connected rather than isolated, and allowed us to meet families who became lasting friends. That was a tremendous support to us when we moved to Portland as new parents.
5046	7/11/2012	The library is at least partially responsible for my literacy!
5047	7/11/2012	They are part of our lives. Finding what we need and what we want are there.
5048	7/11/2012	I like how updated the books are and how helpful the staff are
5049	7/11/2012	I could never afford the books, magazines, or dvd's provided by my local library!
5050	7/11/2012	Educated citizens are the lifeblood of a successful democracy.
5051	7/11/2012	The library reaches all poor and rich. I think helping with the job market and living wages is number 1 for me. However that may not be looked at as a publoc service.
5052	7/11/2012	I used the library many years before information was provided via computer. But nothing can replace the library experience, including ambience (especially Central), sharing space with humanity and experiencing the comforting feel of a real book in one's hands.

5053	7/11/2012	They are of importance to me because I grew up with libraries. I think it's important that everyone has access to information. Young children need to become hungry for books through story hour or picking out 10 books for spring break. ☐ ☐ On a selfish level: I am a very fast reader. I like highbrow and lowbrow books. I love that I can check out a best seller and return it the next day. I'd be happy to rent a best seller (libraries in the twin cities do this) for a small fee and return it within a week.
5054	7/11/2012	The library puts an entire world of culture at my fingertips - at everyone's fingertips. The greatest stores of knowledge and art and edification on the earth are within the grasp of every citizen in the county, and this library system's exhaustiveness and efficiency have few equals. I moved to Portland from the suburbs of Chicago and thought I knew what really good libraries were like from the few that I frequented there, but Multnomah is on a different level entirely. Talk of "budgets" is almost absurd in the face of such seemingly invaluable service.
5055	7/11/2012	Library is an important place for me to grow and learn, which is a big part of my life. The library, and most particularly Multnomah County, is an excellent resource for:☐
5056	7/11/2012	1) discovering and learning more about new cultures through text, music, video☐ 2) research related papers for school and work☐ 3) meeting place for small (quiet) study groups☐ 4) keeping Portland educated☐ 5) learning about green roofs☐ 6) and so many more reasons...
5057	7/11/2012	I'm student. I've been going to the library before I couldn't even read. Reading and learning are very important to a community. This form of education will improve the quality of life in communities. The libraries provide many positive services. People are able to learn seconds languages, do research, read for pleasure, teach their children how to read, finds jobs etc. at libraries. Libraries are a cornerstone to a civilized community. They are must be preserved.
5058	7/11/2012	The library allows people of any socioeconomic status access to materials that they may not otherwise have access to. In particular, teaching young children to value reading is very important to me and my family.
5059	7/11/2012	No comparisons come to mind Reading books gives younger generation Hope☐
5060	7/11/2012	Senior to still dream about life☐ Place to meet people. Community
5061	7/11/2012	literacy is of utmost importance, and should be encouraged at all times and ages. Also, I couldn't afford to buy the 50 or more books I read each year, not to mention the waste of resources used to print all of those millions of copies of best-sellers everyone rushes out to buy as soon as they are published.

5062	7/11/2012	I use library services more than any other local public services.
5063	7/11/2012	I believe that the resources from a library are needed for all people. The information is universal so should the availability .
5064	7/11/2012	where else am I gonna go to experience such a huge treasure chest of culture, knowledge, and entertainment? I sometimes go to the library just to get out of the rain. I don't use the children's or senior citizen programs but I see that others do. I can tell it is a good thing too because they are connecting with their neighbors and learning life skills. Humans are mostly social creatures and the library is one of the few public services that supports this positive aspect of our behavior.
5065	7/11/2012	I think that libraries provide Information and resources to all people. It helps those that can't afford to buy reading material and provides computer services and research capabilities for all who can't have their own resources in Their home.
5066	7/11/2012	A well-used library is the nest of good citizenship. Democracy requires literacy.
5067	7/11/2012	I'm an avid reader and an educator...of course the library is important.
5068	7/11/2012	I am proud of the library system in Multnomah County and the standards maintained. The are an invaluable resource to the entire community and very accessible. I would hate to see this taken for granted or slip under the radar of community support and involvement. Let us know what we can do to support you.
5069	7/11/2012	I use the library as my main source of entertainment and information. I am on the library website almost every day. I believe books and reading are important in a civil society
5070	7/11/2012	Because i actually use it, and it is a huge public service not having to buy every single book you wish to read. thanks!
5071	7/11/2012	Information access is vital to our community's well-being and growth..
5072	7/11/2012	It is a way for my children to explore their interests and increase their literacy, which would otherwise be unavailable to them due to lack of money.
5073	7/11/2012	I needed to use the library when I was searching for my first job out of college.
5074	7/11/2012	I think libraries are an important community resource. They offer not only exposure to many genres of book, movies and music, they also offer community programs and events.
5075	7/11/2012	Because we use it so often. We really want our kids to become avid readers.
5076	7/11/2012	It's free and therefore keeps learning and knowledge available for EVERYONE who might not have access to schools or media at home. It keeps the social playing field more level,
5077	7/11/2012	Very important - free literature available to the public
5078	7/11/2012	Reading is the key to knowledge and progress.
5079	7/11/2012	The library still has the ability to bring a wide variety of people together just like with books. To have access to knowledge is the purpose of the library even if it is only a sitcom video. Libraries must become the brick and mortar aspects of the information age.

		When I think of what I'm grateful that my tax money goes to, I think of libraries. [] []
		1) It's important to have a resource for (especially young) people to educate themselves about anything they want, regardless of their economic standing.[] []
		2) It's so efficient to have books that many people read. Just mathematically, buying a book and then never reading it again doesn't make sense!![] []
5080	7/11/2012	3) It's a good way to foster community.[] []
		4) It's a great way to help kids foster a lifelong love of reading, learning, and consequent happiness and economic productivity - which makes other people happy.[] []
		5) It's fantastic for kids, and adults alike to have a comforting place to read, learn, relax, that isn't their home. Often, people's homes are stressful, dirty, angry, loud, tv-filled, etc., and libraries can provide refuge from that.
5081	7/11/2012	I work with kids. Seeing them be able to learn, investigate, be curious and innovate is critical to their formation.
5082	7/11/2012	The library is one of the few places where age, economic status, race, and culture do not present a potential barrier for participation.
5083	7/11/2012	Regular access to neighborhood librarys has the potential to keep crime down. The library is an educational tool that builds strong families and strong independent thinking individuals.
5084	7/11/2012	I work with disadvantaged individuals (low income/ disabled / seniors) and for those with little, the library opens up a whole world that they would not have. I grew up in a low income house, and spent as much time as I could reading borrowed books from the Holgate Library. Libraries are essential to the intellectual development of disadvantaged children.
5085	7/11/2012	We alternative
5086	7/11/2012	Because they are the ones I use the most.
5087	7/11/2012	The library is not as important as vital services such as Police, Fire and Utilities or garbage disposal.
5088	7/11/2012	Free access to accurate information is a cornerstone of freedom and democracy in this country. Many people cannot afford to purchase the information that libraries provide, nor can they access the Internet; and libraries provide access to all.
5090	7/11/2012	Compared to fire and police not as important but next to that literacy is the key to school success and the future.

5091	7/11/2012	The library is a part of my everyday life. I use the library for personal research, education, and entertainment, as well as teaching my children to read and find what they are interested in learning about. When we choose where to live, proximity to a library is a very important consideration. I have used the library from a young age, and I think it has benefitted me through my entire life. I cannot imagine what I would do without my local library.
5092	7/11/2012	No opin
5093	7/11/2012	A major source of information, educational materials and entertainment for our family.
5094	7/11/2012	They are somewhat important because it had never been an issue for me
5095	7/11/2012	It's nice to be able to check out books and not have to buy them.
5096	7/11/2012	Literacy allows one to experience real and fictitious culture, world events, love stories, fables, epics, art, philosophy. Without open book shelves, there are no open minds. Without someone or something informing you of the text, a work may pass by unnoticed. Words are immortal, just dormant until picked up. This is even more important a concept in a city such as Portland. I love my library and all it symbolizes and all the potential it has.
5097	7/11/2012	Community, education, roots...
5098	7/11/2012	Public utilities, fire, and police outweigh library services.
5099	7/11/2012	They provide a vital resource
5100	7/11/2012	It is a community resource that I depend on for reading materials, either for pleasure or for work. It is also nice to be able to get music and DVDs there.
5101	7/11/2012	I really appreciate the library for my personal use- in terms of access to information. More broadly, I think it is assess to the larger community for information, gathering space and potential for educational empowerment. Do I think it is as critical as maintaining roads, well no, but it is an important part of a well served community.
5102	7/11/2012	I am highly literate, and use the library for reading, research, media, special events, and so on. However, the American and worldwide economies are in decline, and have been for years, and will continue to be for years to come, and the Portland area has been in greater decline than much of the nation. This seems to have escaped the library board. When revenues decline, that is the time to conserve resources by elimination of non-essential programs, and not to shut down 14% across the board, and not to try to guarantee income at tax-payer expense. The library system is of less importance than public health, infrastructure, and crime deterence.
5103	7/11/2012	The services provided by the library bind the community together. They provide crucial resources for families that can't afford new books, interesting magazines, research tools, job-seeking tools, fast internet access, discussion groups, meeting places.and expert advice.
5104	7/11/2012	Utmost
5105	7/11/2012	I enjoy reading and find that our library has almost all the books I want. I also like to check out DVDs. I also get materials for my ESL students.

5106	7/11/2012	I have a 2 1/2 year old daughter who loves story time and reading- we live 1 block from Gregory Heights and visit often. Exposing her to reading early is so important. We have another daughter on the way and want to be able to continue frequenting the library. It is such an amazing neighborhood resource. My husband and I get books and DVDs all the time as well.
5107	7/11/2012	Libraries expand my world; how many local public services can make that claim; not having them is not life-threatening like some local services, but I really need my library and have been using it since I was in grade school.
5108	7/11/2012	Not a vital asset, but enjoyable and an important tool for kids and adults
5109	7/11/2012	Since the library is free, it really helps since I have very little income, plus the overall environment is great. I love the library and everything they offer.
5110	7/11/2012	The library is about education, community, and continued learning. It affects my family more on a day-to-day basis than most services. We read for hours in my home. Without access to the library, that continued learning time would be lost. My daughter is 3 and loves reading. Her vocabulary and understanding of the world around her is increased constantly. That would have been compromised without books from the library.
5111	7/11/2012	because it is near my house, I and my son can look for something that we needeasily and quickly.
5112	7/11/2012	reading and literacy and access is extremely important to me personally and to the community as a whole.
5113	7/11/2012	People having access to a variety of written ideas and authoritative sources regardless of ability to pay is Important!
5114	7/11/2012	It is one of the only public services i use.
5115	7/11/2012	It is a base level access point to art and culture to the entire community. Show me a thriving community without a thriving library - doesn't exist.
5116	7/11/2012	Having libraries in our community provides opportunities for all. Rich or poor.
5117	7/11/2012	Because my wife gets her books there that she couldn't afford. It's a place for me (and other home office people) to work- and for my son to learn
5118	7/11/2012	Access to books and media for my children and even more so for those in the community with the fewest resources who need public library access even more as they may have few books, magazines, newspapers in the home for their kids.
5119	7/11/2012	I personally love the access to books, CDs, and DVDs. I also believe in libraries as a community resource and as a wonderful sliver of socialism in a capitalistic world.
5120	7/11/2012	High as I use them for my job as well (I'm a teacher)
5121	7/11/2012	It's an opportunity for everyone in the city to explore and learn. Our library helps our communities keep their spirit. In these economic times, it's very valuable for people with short budgets, especially families.

5122	7/11/2012	In addition to providing access to actual books for anyone that has signed up for a card, the library provides access to movies and TV shows, e-books, manuals and study material - a place to go that is safe that one can read or do some research. Access to a computer and the internet for searching for jobs, and doing research. Skilled employees that can help one find information about anything and everything. We are lucky enough to have an excellent library system and because of that we have a more intelligent and well rounded community.
5123	7/11/2012	Absolutely critical.
5124	7/11/2012	The library provides affordable (free!) means to keep myself educated and entertained!
5125	7/11/2012	The library is one of the first places I check so that I can conduct any research that I have. If I did not have a library that is easily accessible with current materials (both print and online access) then I would not be able to do my work. In addition to that, the library provides me with a place to discover new material pertaining to hobbies and interests that I have. The library feeds my mind like no other, and fuels my passion for learning.
5126	7/11/2012	I am a teacher and I have seen how rich we are in the USA. Many people do not have access to literacy nor to reading materials. This is a cornerstone in our freedom.
5127	7/11/2012	It's a public space where people enjoy learning, get help, explore, and feel a part of the community - all ages, gender, races. It's a socioeconomic equalizer in that you don't have to have money to buy books or movies or audiobooks or magazines - you can borrow them. The community shares in this way, and it reinforces for children and adults that it's good to share - that you don't need to own everything yourself - borrowing and lending are lovely parts of being human.
5128	7/11/2012	I love to read but don't want to keep books around my house. Libraries allow me to anything that I want whenever I want!
5129	7/11/2012	Libraries are an enormous part of children's education and adults' continuing education. Additionally, they act as a de-facto community center, and provide all-but-necessary computer and information resources to those who would not be able to afford them otherwise. (Job hunting without a computer, for instance, is fairly difficult!)
5130	7/11/2012	because public safety is more important
5131	7/11/2012	First of all, it would be helpful to provide a list of "other local public services". I do not know what services we are comparing to. However, I do feel that the library is very important. Reading is destined to become a lost art in this computer era. We check out lots of books on a monthly basis. My children are great readers!
5132	7/11/2012	I can hardly think of a public service that I use more frequently that is more important to me. The public library system is one of my favorite things about being an American.
5133	7/11/2012	Library services are at least as important as any service as people need to have access to material for research job info medical info internet use. searching for jobs and education purposes. and also reading material.

5134	7/11/2012	Free, for-the-public portals of human learning and knowledge like libraries are crucial to the continued positive evolution of society.
5135	7/11/2012	It's an educational tool, a safe place to hang out, and a place to learn something new.
5136	7/11/2012	When I first moved to Portland, I supported myself by working as a math tutor, and the library provided many of the books I needed, and a place to meet students. I use the library to print documents I need, especially on the weekends when I can't use my office print. And of course, I use it to access books I don't want to buy. Other than public transportation, it is the public service I use most actively. (Of course I rely on police, utilities, etc., but those services are provided in the background of my daily life.)
5137	7/11/2012	They help people learn, which is always highly important. It also provides a place and resources for certain types of recreation, which is also important.
5138	7/11/2012	Libraries provide services to everyone, without discrimination. Everyone can use the library.
5139	7/11/2012	I like to read a lot, and can't justify buying all the books I'm interested in. If I'm looking for a resource and having trouble, the reference librarians are always extremely helpful.
5140	7/11/2012	We need resources to make informed decisions.
5141	7/11/2012	Because they are truly free to the general public and provide for civic goals and provide the weakest in our communities the opportunity to access to the world of reading and thought without restriction or censorship. An uneducated population will never be democratic.
5142	7/11/2012	Reading and books are crucial for our children's education. They are only allowed one book/week at school.
5143	7/11/2012	Libraries are for everyone. Their access cuts across all ages, education levels, socio-economic levels.
5144	7/11/2012	Because anyone can go there and have access to books and computers. They help keep a literate and productive society.
5145	7/11/2012	I think safety comes first, but the library helps create an environment of reading and reading educates. Education leads to a better life and better community.
5146	7/11/2012	I am unclear what "other local public services" is or would be. [] I think the library is an important feature of our neighborhood and should be open and available.
5147	7/11/2012	Library services are important in their own right, but not important compared to police/fire services, etc.
5148	7/11/2012	I READ A LOT AND OFTEN GO TO THE LIBRARY
5149	7/11/2012	Because books and technology enrich our lives and local libraries are a resource for everybody.
5150	7/11/2012	It's important for kids to have access to free resources as well as our senior population and disadvantaged.

5151	7/11/2012	I think public library accessibility is more important for others than me at this point in my life. I have a pc, and have benefitted enormously from the senior classes and personal help offered by librarians at both my branch library and the Central Library in years past, before I had a pc.
5152	7/11/2012	being able to resurch and look for meterial 's help and teaches my child also how to enjoy the libuary and child acctivie's give's me and my child somthing to do it would be nice if there where more activite's , crafts on weekend's for kid's not toddler's but kid's
5153	7/11/2012	for my children
5154	7/11/2012	The public library opens up the world to its patrons, providing materials and services not necessarily affordable or available in every home. I didn't own books when I was young but access to neighborhood branch libraries kept me in reading material throughout my childhood. Some books I checked out so often that I really thought of them as my own. I now live in Washington County and use my local library more frequently than the Multnomah County libraries although I still have a Multnomah County library card and visit the central library from time ot time.
5155	7/11/2012	The library helped me tremendously when i was homeless!
5156	7/11/2012	Not exactly sure what "other local public services" would be. Would be nice to list some examples. I'm guessing helping homeless? If this type of services are what you mean, I think it's more important to provide a safety net to those in need than have reading material available to all.
5157	7/11/2012	Helps to bring and keep a community together.
5158	7/11/2012	Access to reading material
5159	7/11/2012	Because libraries keep a community connected. They are very personal and get people to know each other. It is also a great place to encourage others to read, and share your favorite kinds of literature. It even helps kids trying to learn English, which is amazing.
5160	7/11/2012	It keeps the community involved, which has a lot of attached benefits.
5161	7/11/2012	Police, fire and other public safety are No. 1 concern for citizens.
5162	7/11/2012	they provide access to education for everyone
5163	7/11/2012	I use the libraries on a daily basis, for books, ill, and kids classes.
5164	7/11/2012	I rely on the local libraries as a place to study and learn.
5165	7/11/2012	it is symbolic of the failure of government to stand up to corporate interests
5166	7/11/2012	the utmost.
5167	7/11/2012	Access to the collected knowledge of humanity is vital to the functioning of democracy.
5168	7/11/2012	The availability to access information, history, entertainment. No need to teach us anything at school, but how to read and how to research. The world truly becomes an open book.
5169	7/11/2012	Promoting literacy and the love of literature is vital for everyone.
5170	7/11/2012	libraries are one of the few public services that offer something for everyone from infants to seniors and libraries are used daily by these various groups. in this depressed economic environment, this is one of few places where you can get free computer use & instruction; entertainment, educational events and a place to relax. The educational opportunities alone are incredible.

5171	7/11/2012	Knowledge is everything. Sometimes I say the opposite, regretting knowing the truth about financial shortfalls and occasionally indulging ignorance of my world to let me enjoy my world. However, I think there is a brighter light at the end of the tunnel when guided with understanding.
5172	7/11/2012	what can't you find in the library?
5173	7/11/2012	The library is available for everyone. Love that no matter who you are, you can't get any more or less out of the library than anyone else. Besides, I love to read. I don't use the computers at all, sometimes a DVD and books on cd for a road trip. Kind of frustrates with the electronic books as nothing is ever available and overdrive media is a pain to use.
5174	7/11/2012	Knowledge is the pinnacle of importance in my world and work as a doctor. I feel very strongly that everyone should have equal access to knowledge, and the free library system provides that access.
5175	7/11/2012	Again, this is one of the few free places that people can go for information, computer use, education, entertainment, or just a chair in a dry, safe place.
5176	7/11/2012	I use them frequently for checking out books, book on CD's, DVD's, etc. They have great access and resources and provide education and opportunity for thousands of people.
5177	7/11/2012	Because knowledge is power.
5178	7/11/2012	very important. Love the resource and accessibly.
5179	7/11/2012	Libraries represent education and opportunity at low or no cost. This is a service for the most under-served in the community.
5180	7/11/2012	Extremely important
5181	7/11/2012	Libraries mean free access to information, something I believe to be vital in a good society.
5182	7/11/2012	Libraries serve everyone.
5183	7/11/2012	I use the library for most of my media.
5184	7/11/2012	Many people have no other options for opportunities that are free at the library.
5185	7/11/2012	I love reading books and will always use libraries to check out books to read.
5186	7/11/2012	with well functioning libraries ALL people have access to the whole world of information and literature
5187	7/11/2012	I don't use them as much as I use other services, like public transit, but I appreciate having them available.
5188	7/11/2012	Education is the foundation of the countries success. The public library is essential to the public's education.
5189	7/11/2012	A well-informed, literate citizenry is a big key to the success of any society. Without it everything else is in jeopardy.
5190	7/11/2012	One of the very few services provided by government that I regularly use, and provides access to many materials that I could not access otherwise (not even over the web). [] []
5191	7/11/2012	(Roads is a runner-up, but government doesn't do road repair well). They represent equal access to information across social/income lines

5192	7/11/2012	We only get free education through 12th grade. After that? You're on your own.[] Libraries are free. That means free education via books and other media. [] And free entertainment.
5193	7/11/2012	Because of reasons previously stated as well as during various points in my life when I was unemployed and/or underemployed, having access to the free resources at the library allowed me to use the computers to research jobs, fill out applications, find a job. I enjoy the feel of my local library (Kenton). I have gotten to know the librarians, who are always helpful. In my professional life there are often resources that I can not afford but can access them from the library, receive articles ILL, attend lectures/events on topics of interest. I have been researching my genealogy and without access to the library edition of the Ancestry.com, my search would be very limited and would not have progressed. I was mystified when I saw the sign on the library about the reduced hours after I and many of my friends/family had voted for the measure. The librarian explained the funding issue. In my opinion, public libraries are one of the few places in society without racism, classism, heterosexism and the other isms. Everyone is respected and resources are available regardless of who you are, there are even supports for folks who can't read. I only wish our public school system could learn from the public library system.
5194	7/11/2012	education and inspiration from books is critical to a civilized society and creating a space we all want to live in.
5195	7/11/2012	Libraries offer full access to information/instruction/speculation and fantasy. These are the building blocks of our future.
5196	7/11/2012	They are an incredible resource, but police, fire, water, etc seem a little more vital, if we're having to rate them.
5197	7/11/2012	Important source of community support
5198	7/11/2012	If library services were better utilized, we would need less police enforcement. Literacy must be a top priority.
5199	7/11/2012	Having been a teacher for over 20 years, I am concerned with literacy. And access to information. It is very important to me because it is a place where you can just sit down and read a book, but it is a little bit more than that. To me it is a magical place full of wonderful stories and all you have to do is reach out and grab your next adventure. []
5200	7/11/2012	Its like a candy store with an array of many colors that speak through the pages. [] when you tern a page, you can feel the paper carefully slide through your fingers and here it crinkle in the silence. That is a very different experience than swiping your finger across a screen.
5201	7/11/2012	That's a very vague question. Police and fire department services are very important. How can one put a book on the same level as human life?

		I love to read and have loved spending time in libraries since I was a girl. Books were magical worlds where I could often escape my own less than magical one. My love of reading and writing has given me a leg up in both of my career paths and has been integral to success in so many areas of my life. ☐
5202	7/11/2012	☐ Education and literacy are very important to me personally, and I know that these are key factors that improve our communities. The library can be a haven and a help to us from childhood through old age---we need to have access to these services. I'd like to see the open sign in the window everyday, but if something has to give then a one day a week closure is a better option than the loss of programs.
5203	7/11/2012	Education, access to information and books
5204	7/11/2012	Ignorant people never maintain their liberty. Access to information is the first line of defense against tyranny.
5205	7/11/2012	They represent the best aspect of a democratic republic. An institution that is accessible by all the people and whose purpose to make knowledge accessible to all the people. And it is free.
5206	7/11/2012	I would hate to lose the library system, but if forced to choose I would prioritize other public services like transportation, health care, and waste management.
5207	7/11/2012	So many reasons, however library's provide a safe place where one can develop intellectually, something our schools fail to provide.
5208	7/11/2012	Internet access of information means the library shouldn't have as much impact in the community.
5209	7/11/2012	Has to do with society valuing literacy. Ray Bradbury said it well, 'you don't have to burn books to destroy a culture, you just have to get people to stop reading them.'
5210	7/11/2012	I'm an avid reader, and have been since my childhood. I believe libraries provide a universal service to the public--a conduit to attain a well-read and educated worldview as well as support for other educational services. I love that they are available to all without a linear cost based on usage.
5211	7/11/2012	Literacy provides a key to untold freedoms.
5212	7/11/2012	Being able to borrow the material for free free access to information☐
5213	7/11/2012	☐ an informed public
5214	7/11/2012	They are more oriented towards the public than most other supposed public services.
5215	7/11/2012	My kids learned to read through events at the library for kids, reading to dogs at the library, and having access to so many books to read. We love the library.
5216	7/11/2012	Schools are often ignored because most households in Portland do not have children. Only 20% of households in Portland have children. While libraries are important, public schools are far more important. Hunger services are very important too. I don't want to see one more dog park!

5217	7/11/2012	Because these are ones I fear would be taken away because of the impression that we could technically live without them. They add so much to our lives and community, though. I will fully support the efforts to save the libraries.
5218	7/11/2012	Libraries really go hand in hand with schools. We need educated people in our community. Libraries play a big role in complimenting our schools (at all levels), especially for people who are not in school. I also see a lot of people using the library for computer access, job searches, email, etc. Don't make it harder on those people who depend on those types of service at the library by cutting services/hours so they no longer have access when they need it.
5219	7/11/2012	It basis public service
5220	7/11/2012	If we do not supply reading and research resources to all the population, we are selling ourselves short for building a better community.
5221	7/11/2012	For me personally, the library is very important to my personal happiness. I get almost all my reading material from the library. I get much of my children's reading material from the library, and we go to many children's events. As a teacher, I regularly use the library to enhance the curriculum, and to get reading materials for my students. No other public service compares!
5222	7/11/2012	Knowledge
5223	7/11/2012	In a tough economic environment, they provide a place to lose a couple of hours finding great books. They are also a great way for my son (5 years old) to develop a lifelong love of reading.
5224	7/11/2012	Reading is so essential. Libraries are the only source for many people. The programs are very needed for young kids.
5225	7/11/2012	I make more use of library services than I do almost any other public service
5226	7/11/2012	I use the library all the time and it is important for building community. It is at the top of my list with schools.
5227	7/11/2012	Promotion of literacy is important. Also, as there are fewer and fewer book stores, library becomes even more important just for access to books. Very useful reference resource for work reasons. And it's a great community space, bringing people together. Plus, librarians are so helpful in identifying resources for all ages!
5228	7/11/2012	I believe that everyone should have access to library materials and books, at the same time, it seems the library is used more for surfing the web.
5229	7/11/2012	Libraries offer tools for success.
5230	7/11/2012	By bringing neighbors together community is built. Also helps with sustainability and promotes simplicity if we are able to share resources. Offers resoruces for students/ children & their families gorwth/ development & success in school. Ensures that finacines are not nesscary for entertainment and that low income families have aces to books/ other written materials.
5231	7/11/2012	an educated populace is the cornerstone of democracy

5233	7/11/2012	The library is the most tangible public service we use. Because we have a good library system; we know that other public services are operating such as fire and rescue, police, public utilities.
5234	7/11/2012	A well educated populace is essential to a stable democracy and the library system is as important as the availability of public education. I don't think it's imperative to have a library available in every neighborhood, but it is important to have one available to children and on a bus line for those who are not able to drive.
5235	7/11/2012	I believe that investing our children in the library as a resource offers our children a consistency throughout learning. I think that access to the library is the key to unlocking the resource. The current materials are the resource.
5236	7/11/2012	The public library plays such an important role in our society, especially for children. Without the library, countless children would have little to no access to books, since not everyone can afford to buy them. But even as an adult, I utilize our library system more than any other public service, and I feel so grateful to have this provided to me.
5237	7/11/2012	Though I'd categorize public services like fire and police at the top of the list of importance, I really do think that public libraries stand alone as a kind of symbol that represents any local community. A library can and should be the place that joins us all together. Be it as an afterschool destination for students in need of a quiet place to study, for someone without internet access looking for the opportunity to browse the Web, or for a person like myself that simply wants to check out a book or music CD... the public library is that friendly place full of information that's available to us all.
5238	7/11/2012	Everything is very important in keeping up a good community that it's next to impossible to say something is more important than another. But if people can't read then they will get nowhere in life.
5239	7/11/2012	Libraries help equalize opportunity for all members of our society/community. []
5240	7/11/2012	Also, I enjoy having access to so many materials at a very reasonable cost. Libraries serve as a place to educate oneself. I think this is very important for everyone to have access to books, computers, programs and services that the library offers.
5241	7/11/2012	I have elementary school aged children. We have been frequent library users since they were toddlers. Books are central to our family time together. There is no way to personally purchase the variety and sheer number of books that we have gone through.
5242	7/11/2012	I believe in education for all, which the library helps provide in the form of free-access to books, media, computer-usage, classes, and community programs.
5243	7/11/2012	good resources but don't need constant access
5244	7/11/2012	They represent an important part of our American culture.
5245	7/11/2012	A democracy cannot thrive without a literate and informed public.
5246	7/11/2012	They are not as important as infrastructure such as sewer, water and roads, but I believe the quality of a library system directly correlates to the knowledge of that system's young populace.

5247	7/11/2012	Literacy is a necessity for all people across all walks of life and everyone in the community should be able to access books and media. It is also highly important as a safe meeting place within a community.
5248	7/11/2012	It is an equity based access issue, but I would say that some of the other needs like healthcare and homelessness are more important.
5249	7/11/2012	continuing education
5250	7/11/2012	they are essential to a well educated and informed populace
5251	7/11/2012	Because reading is very important for all ages. I love the library because it opens up opportunity to read. making sure there are new book options would be most important to me.
5252	7/11/2012	They are important because they are places for people to get books, especially those who can't afford to buy them themselves. If we don't think that's important as a society, what DO we think is important? It's also a place for people to come and learn how to use technology and other useful life skills. They need to be FULLY funded, funded especially by the rich who are killing our society.
5253	7/11/2012	The library is my source for books, and beyond just pleasure reading, it gives me easy access to books and resources I need for school. It is an easy and free way to listen to music by checking out CDs, something that aside from music purchase is not available through any other service. It is a space for me to work on things or just sit during any form of interim period between my school day and when I have transportation. The library is a true ally.
5254	7/11/2012	I am able to seek the information I want and need at no cost at all. Also the sense of community participation I experience when using the library builds and reinforces pride for my city.
5255	7/11/2012	It's important for the whole community to have access to reading materials. They are an important community anchor.
5256	7/11/2012	NONE of the "public" services are important. The use of force and the threat of force to extort money from citizens to pay for services is stupid and a waste of money AND a violation of liberty and individual rights. So, on a grand scale of things, NONE of them are important. Read Murray Rothbard and Stephan Molyneaux and other libertarians.
5257	7/11/2012	Libraries are important to communities, but can't compare it to anything unless I know exactly what these 'other local public services' are? I have a quote on my fridge that I love since it embodies why I love libraries so much. Here goes:[] []
5258	7/11/2012	"My two favorite things in life are libraries and bicycles. They both move people forward without wasting anything. My perfect day; riding my bike to the library."[] [] I believe that if the public sector only funds safety net and basic municipal services and doesn't balance those with services that provide hope and move people forward. we will become a less hopeful community and government will lose the support of a sector of folks who's major intersection with a cross-section of the community may occur in libraries.

5259	7/11/2012	Libraries serve a great purpose and allow many that don't have resources to get access to them.
5260	7/11/2012	it's an integral service in our lives...the library fosters learning, curiosity, laughter, community for me and my son
5261	7/11/2012	Give access
5262	7/11/2012	The ability to read and access information defines who has the power to control our lives. If that access is restricted through lack of funding we are all diminished.
5263	7/11/2012	Libraries provide free, unlimited access to books--as an obsessive reader, I can't think of anything more awesome than that. I think having access to this service is really important in getting kids excited to read and learn, providing programs for kids and teens, providing free entertainment for those who can't afford purchasing books or movie tickets, enabling people who are out-of-work to utilize online career services, and providing services and programs for senior citizens--libraries serve the public at all stages in life.
5264	7/11/2012	there is no price on the availability of knowledge and the ability to read
5265	7/11/2012	Schools are most important Parks and libraries are secondary
5266	7/11/2012	They represent one of the most tangible, street-level provisions by a working civil society
5267	7/11/2012	Because it is a service I regularly take advantage of and use.
5268	7/11/2012	The only thing that makes me smile when paying my property tax is knowing that I am supporting the library. The library democratizes knowledge and is an essential place for community gathering and sharing.
5269	7/11/2012	I have 2 very young children. I would go crazy if we didn't have our weekly library excursion and weren't able to continually change out our supply of children's books.
5270	7/11/2012	Because our family use libraries and parks more than any other service...I guess roads too.
5271	7/11/2012	It's part of what makes a community.
5272	7/11/2012	They provide our children with valuable teaching experiences such as story time among many other programs. The summer-reading programs are a great way to encourage children to read and foster a love for reading which will result in becoming better students.
5273	7/11/2012	There's a lot of thing at the library and tons of things someone could get a resource such as meeting possible new friends at baby books, or any other service at the library.
5274	7/11/2012	I feel libraries are important because they give access to books and information to all levels of the community. Local library branches also really anchor a neighborhood, providing a community space and identity to an area.
5275	7/11/2012	As mentioned before, I believe libraries serve as a community hub. They are a meeting place for citizens to engage with their community (at the more local/neighborhood level to the larger city/county level), whether that engagement involves simply attending meetings/community involvement activities in the physical space, participating in library programming, or accessing resources provided in the library.

5276	7/11/2012	Libraries provide--or should provide--unfettered access to information individuals need to assess their position in society rationally, They provide a concrete example of democratic ideals by sharing resources with all who respect them, poor and rich alike. And--if used--they will help instill in the young a lifelong love of learning. They allow us to see what other people are thinking about. They foster intellectual serendipity; browsing shelves lets us find items of interest in a way that browsing the Internet can only approximate. They amortize the cost of experimentation with new ideas-- I've read innumerable things that I would not have brought home had I been required to pay for them individually. And local libraries are neighborly--they provide opportunities for face-to-face interaction which are becoming rarer and more tenuous as more and more contacts shift online.
5277	7/11/2012	I love books and teaching my kids to read and to love books
5278	7/11/2012	It's a quality of life issue. For example, downtown Kenton went from sketchy to pretty okay once the library branch opened there.
5279	7/11/2012	Geez! You get a continuance of the current property tax assessment and you still reduce hours. My income was reduced by 25% in 2008 and continues to drop while my bills go up. You are asking for blood.
5280	7/11/2012	I can print things out, since I don't have a printer. I also feel like I read more than I would if I didn't have a library close to me. It saves me from having to buy books.
5281	7/11/2012	I receive most of my video and music materials from the library. And the research function, which allows me to access a wide array of periodicals, is critical to my work as a freelancer.
5282	7/11/2012	They are a necessary resource for job seekers, a vital public space for community building, an essential tool for education, and it improves the quality of life of everyone who uses it. The library is valuable for the whole community, but it is of particular value to the underserved and I have trouble imagining that inequality can be reduced without services like the local library.
5283	7/11/2012	I really like the ability to get Books and Media without having to buy them or pay rental fees.
5284	7/11/2012	We love the library and do not take it for granted for a second. It is a gateway to information new and old, and the tipping point towards knowledge.
5285	7/11/2012	Because literacy is the most important skill a person can have. Without access to books, materials, and programs that advocate for higher levels of literacy we will never conquer the illiteracy problem. MCL's local branches are the most influential force in their communities. The higher the literacy rates, the higher the graduation rates, which ultimately leads to lower unemployment. Oregon may have one of the highest literacy rates in the nation and this is mostly due to the presence of the library system. Public school funding is dwindling and what are considered to be "non-essential" programs are the ones that get cut. Local libraries fill in the gaps and provide invaluable community resources.
5286	7/11/2012	Police, emergency services more important than libraries
5287	7/11/2012	Libraries provide a huge resource. Research is important for so many things, and libraries provide it. Because they are free to use, they're accessible to everyone, and that's important too.

5288	7/11/2012	I think it's important for a healthy community.
5289	7/11/2012	Access to information enables a person to seek resources effectively and make the most of them.
5290	7/11/2012	Useful resource for students and children especially.
5291	7/11/2012	expand our exposure to literature, videos and music
5292	7/11/2012	Because life and death services have to take precedence.
5293	7/11/2012	A library should always be there as a resource of information and books, available for all people.
5294	7/11/2012	They are important, but rank slightly below schools, police, and maintained parks for me. Not as important as things like streets, housing, emergency (fire, police) but still needed for those people with no access to the internet or money to buy books, etc. Also, needed as a quiet place to sit (I don't usually get peace and quiet at home these days).
5296	7/11/2012	My family of five uses the library at least 3 times/week.
5297	7/11/2012	Access to books and reading material is critical for me personally and for an educated society
5298	7/11/2012	We use the library as a family to find materials to teach our children and help them in school as well.
5299	7/11/2012	There is no other more important resource available to all than a free, well-stocked, open all days public library.
5300	7/11/2012	I can no longer afford to buy books so it is wonderful to have the library.
5301	7/11/2012	i use a lot of materials for further education and resources in my vocation (teaching music) and the free tax program held there was really helpful for me this year. also, i hugely benefited from having library access as a child and teen and think all kids should have that resource, especially in a poorer neighborhood like north portland. also computer access is important for people who don't have them.
5302	7/11/2012	Libraries are multifaceted; they offer not only information and diversion, but help maintain community in an age when that feels threatened.
5303	7/11/2012	It is an affordable way for people of all backgrounds to access knowledge and art. Before a public library system access to these vast resources were only in the hand of the wealthiest individuals who could afford private libraries and collections.
5304	7/11/2012	Because they provide an access to a great variety of important resources, which otherwise wouldn't be that easily accessible.
5305	7/11/2012	I love going to the library with my kids to get books for them. They love
5306	7/11/2012	I feel that the library serves all factions of the public, from young children to seniors. Through exposure to all kinds of reading material, it instills a love of books and reading, which is essential to a good education. It provides resources to people learning English and provides materials in varying languages; it serves lower income individuals and families by providing media in all forms.
5307	7/11/2012	To expensive for what you get.

5309	7/11/2012	critical to what makes us love and enjoy portland. access to reading and entertainment, intellectual discourse. husband is frequent user of libraries. kids use it too. me when i can or hub gets me books. not as critical as social services, but still very important.
5310	7/11/2012	If you get people interested in reading, being smart Is the beginning to building and maintaining a population of productive citizens that can think of creative solutions to all crisis facing the state. Reading keeps kids off the street and out of trouble. Developing minds of our young people will make society better.
5311	7/11/2012	Books, magazines, DVD's. However why are there so many services? Why not spend less on social services and more on library materials and staff? [] I realize MCL is very interested in awards and their ratings--that's okay to a point, and we are way past that point! When Central Library (and others) is filled with disruption, stressed staffs and patrons, and the MCL Administration is more concerned with national attention, award winning programs for social services--things that look good on paper, or impressive at conferences--they are in danger of "inappropriate guilt" in giving so much attention to the Portland's poor, and not enough to getting their own house in order.
5312	7/11/2012	Schools are more important
5313	7/11/2012	free education and access to books for all social backgrounds
5314	7/11/2012	educating our children, supporting our seniors, awesome book collection, superb interlibrary loan and hold systems
5315	7/11/2012	As mentioned, our NW library is important as a key element in the community. It is a place where EVERYONE can come to together and enjoy one of the most important parts of education...reading.[] Also, it is a fun place to bring the kids for activities. We love the library!
5316	7/11/2012	If you have a book, you're never poor.
5317	7/11/2012	Although I do not use the library a lot, when I need it, I need it.
5318	7/11/2012	offer access to important educational resources at no cost to the public. Help a wide range of people.
5319	7/11/2012	Everyone needs to read. Kids need a safe fun place to go
5320	7/11/2012	They serve as a critical source of knowledge in a community setting.
5321	7/11/2012	As a society, we will fail without knowledge. Reading is a main method as obtaining knowledge.

5322	7/11/2012	Even though we have computer access at home, there are just so many things that we can accomplish better, easier and more effectively at the actual library. There are so many resources in one place. This includes the personnel knowledge resources, which my family finds invaluable.
5323	7/11/2012	because the question is difficult to answer as compared to what?
5324	7/11/2012	EDUCATION
5325	7/11/2012	It's one service that every member of our family actively chooses to use. We all enjoy and benefit from it and would miss it greatly if it weren't there. It has a positive impact on our community, especially for young people and those with limited resources.
5326	7/11/2012	I am a public sector worker
5327	7/11/2012	Provide access to information and literacy opportunities for ALL residents. Space to build community.
5328	7/11/2012	Because it serves a valuable place in connecting all members of the community to learning.
5329	7/11/2012	I personally utilize the library on a daily basis. I am a firm believer in the power of knowledge, it terrifies me to learn that I am part of a society that places so little value on such an immense resource.
5330	7/11/2012	used to be important, not so much anymore as stated earlier
5331	7/11/2012	Water, sewer, and transportation infrastructure are fundamental. Library services are wonderful and essential to a free-thinking society, but not critical to public health and economic prosperity.
5332	7/11/2012	without libraries many people are as stuck as most of us would be without roads. I grew up poor and unable to buy new books but I read voraciously and travelled the world inside the pages of a book. everyone should have the same opportunity.
5333	7/11/2012	Think about what the community would be like without the library! To me, it would be scary in a way--not having the benefit of all those resources (books, information, computers, classes, research, etc), so needing to somehow find similar resources each on his/her own or simply do without. The library serves EVERYONE--all ages, geographic locations, races, genders--no discrimination. Everyone has equal and abundant access. That feels so important to the growth, education and cohesion of our communities.
5334	7/11/2012	I really don't like being around people so it being a public place of course challenges that. But my income level demands that I visit libraries if I want to maintain my quantity level of reading. I do think they are important places for kids to have access to. Books are highly important to me as is the desire that everyone know how to read and read often.
5335	7/11/2012	I just love books! I also see libraries as an important part of public education and promoting excitement in learning. The library very much had that effect on me when I was a child and still does.
5336	7/11/2012	i really don't understand the questions!
5337	7/11/2012	I read a lot . I get inspiration for books that I would otherwise not read . I love the educational music programs at the Central Library .

5338	7/11/2012	If you lose the libraries and local arts and culture all hope for civilization is likely lost along with it. Plus its a nice place for all the homeless to hang out during the day to stay out of the rain. :-)
5339	7/11/2012	Need to obtain knowledge about certain things
5340	7/11/2012	Libraries are so necessary for cultivating the civic mind.
5341	7/11/2012	I enjoy the books, CD's and periodicals that are available for use at the library or checking out.
5342	7/11/2012	Libraries are educational, cultural, and community gathering spots. They add a sense of community to every neighborhood.
5343	7/11/2012	not critical but highly important
5344	7/11/2012	A resource that must be freely available to all in a democracy
5345	7/11/2012	Because they are the foundation of education, one of the most critical aspects of today's society.
5346	7/11/2012	Reputable knowledge is still vetted through publication.
5347	7/11/2012	It's a very important community center. Because I visit the library more than once a week. It's a place to get hard copy research and get help from librarians with a number of different things. It a place of resource and opportunity that ALL people can use, regardless of how much money you make or where you're from.
5348	7/11/2012
5349	7/11/2012	because I rank safe bridges, sewers, disaster recovery, traffic control, safety rather highly. Not that books rank lower, but on a daily basis am grateful to live in a place with clean water right out of the tap, toilets that flush, regular power and heat, roads that are only moderately unsafe, basic infrastructure that we tend to overlook and take for granted.
5350	7/11/2012	Importance fading fast in internet era, I lived through this. My own usage of library is a shadow of what it was in 1980s.
5351	7/11/2012	Libraries are extremely important to people from all walks of life. It is also provides an important sense of community.
5352	7/11/2012	The library was one of my favorite places to go when I was young. I have very fond memories of the library, the librarians - who knew me from the frequency of my visits -- and they let me bring my dog and give him water. (I can't say I would appreciate having to deal with other people's dogs in the library - but as a kid, this really left an impact on me.) A love of reading has served me well. I love the resources that the library offers me. I LOVE being able to find my books via the website, put them on hold and being notified when they are ready. No often, I appreciate calling the reference line for some obscure grammar or reference question. Also love that I get emails when my books are nearing the due date. This makes using the library very convenient. I can just pick up what I need, or if I have time to browse around (I look at the new books) I enjoy just leisurely looking at the shelves for whatever is of interest to me that day.

5353	7/11/2012	Libraries provide services to many people that are truly needed and valued besides simply books and education, such as shelter, restrooms, drinking fountains, warmth or escape from the heat, a place to sit, a tranquil environment, helpful and kind employees, etc. Of course, access to books and information absolutely should always be provided to the public. As well, I believe classes such as language acquisition or computer skills to assist under-supported populations are extremely important and should be available.
5354	7/11/2012	See #6.
5355	7/11/2012	Public health, mental health, safety and public education all outrank the library.
5356	7/11/2012	I credit my love of reading to my grade school librarian & our local public library (in Tillamook). They're necessary for people of all ages & backgrounds who rely on them for knowledge & bettering themselves. The libraries in Multnomah County are priceless to my family, my friends, & myself.
5357	7/11/2012	The library is one of the last places that promotes finding things oneself. In this time we are increasingly heading towards a society where free thinking and problem solving are replaced by advertising and propaganda.
5358	7/11/2012	OK, so the library is not as important as water and sewers, or Tri-Met, But I got my present job through the library (thanks to its computer network), and found my present home the same way. I listen to audio books at work and on the bus, most of which I get from the library. And most of the books I read come from the library (I can no longer afford to buy many books). So it has a major impact on my life.
5359	7/11/2012	Libraries are here to interest people in reading and to teach our youth the importance of reading and learning.
5360	7/11/2012	I read most of my books from the library and I read a lot.
5361	7/11/2012	i guess i read more than most and enjoy my library
5362	7/11/2012	I think that libraries benefit everyone, from educating children and adults to helping job seekers. They are a sanctuary for quiet study or relaxation, that often provide a necessary escape. Libraries are a service to which everyone should have access.
5363	7/11/2012	Clearly safety is first, as are maintaining and building city infrastructure, and more. Libraries are important but so are parks, community service programs, and more. Could more volunteers be used in libraries?
5364	7/11/2012	Reading has been a gateway to acquiring knowledge and gaining a good education which in turn has improved my self-awareness, career and interests.
5365	7/11/2012	It is important for everyone to have access to educational tools. Ignorance is dangerous.
5366	7/11/2012	They provide an opportunity for citizens to educate themselves, in a way that is accessible to anyone, regardless of income.
5367	7/11/2012	We use the facilities a lot
5368	7/11/2012	Allows people of all income levels access to a wide selection of books and other resources.

5369	7/11/2012	Of all the local public services I utilize on a regular basis, the library is the one I derive most enjoyment from and would miss greatly.
5370	7/11/2012	They are somewhere you can always go to read, study, browse. They are a gateway to knowledge, creativity, and community. It is difficult to find words for, but libraries are important beyond belief. They provide FREE access to so many resources for anyone who is interested. That is particularly important given the current situation of the national with high unemployment rates and education on the chop block. Keeping libraries open can help supplement our struggling education system. Furthermore, it's a space that accepts everyone. I think it's highly important we, as society, maintain spaces such as these.
5371	7/11/2012	It's one of the greatest accomplishments of civilized society: a place to learn, to get information and cultural enrichment, at any age, while connecting with your neighbors, supplied as a basic right. I used to work for the library and I have great respect for it as an institution (though I think there's room for improvement).
5372	7/11/2012	I use the library in all aspects of my life! From personal hobbies to professional development, I use the library to access books and research tools I could not otherwise afford.
5373	7/11/2012	I like to stay abreast on the latest news & political events locally.[]
5374	7/11/2012	And of history & culture.
5375	7/11/2012	Right behind SAFETY (ie fire, police, prosecution) issues. The library is second to those issues.
5376	7/11/2012	To have an informed electorate and society, we must have access to information and libraries provide access for all. Libraries are less important than the fundamental services; i.e. garbage, safe and clean roads, city drinking water and sewage, city police, housing assistance, supplemental nutrition assistance. But without a library, a city does not have a focal point of culture and knowledge, nor does it have an assumed gathering place where any citizen can improve himself.
5377	7/11/2012	I mean- police and fire are probably more important, but I don't "use" them daily. I read books from the library very often though, and really love the programming they provide.
5378	7/11/2012	They level the playing field. The libraries offer resources for all who are willing to make an effort to better themselves. I often think of the Matt Damon scene in "Good Will Hunting". I don't remember the exact quote, but basically he was taking a jab at those who spent thousands of dollars at Harvard to read the same books he read at the library for free.
5379	7/11/2012	I'm an antisocial compulsive reader.
5380	7/11/2012	In my experience, I found my education had a strong base in using the library to learn and find resources. I believe that education is the cornerstone of our society.
5381	7/11/2012	I like to be able to check out books, DVDs, and CDs instead of having to buy them.
5382	7/11/2012	I feel that education and literacy are of great importance to a functioning society, I love being around books, and I like having a public gathering place that is oriented around books and information resources.

		Question 7 is not a reasonable question.[] Public libraries are very important. So are other public services.[]
5383	7/11/2012	Do not allow the forces that are squeezing public services to set one service against others. That is a classic divide-and-conquer device. Any one who believes that some services must be sacrificed for others has no business being involved in public policy making.
5384	7/11/2012	my parents encouraged my reading when I was a child by taking me to the library every weekend, where I had access to so many books and ideas that I otherwise wouldn't have at home. Culturally, it set an expectation of reading regularly.
5385	7/11/2012	Books provide my main source of information and entertainment.
5386	7/11/2012	I am a living breathing example of the power of public libraries. Access to the incredible Chicago Public Library as a very young child launched a life-long love of learning. I studied in public libraries during every stage of my education, from grade school to college.
5387	7/11/2012	Cause when i need something, a closed library can help me about information and something that i cannot remember but it so important to me :)
5388	7/11/2012	Fire and police are more important than you. You cannot keep acting socialist in a beuracracy. You must relieve the property tax on homeowners, and find some other way...even libraries can fall.....
5389	7/11/2012	Library is very important, but schools and some other public services are more important
5391	7/11/2012	Libraries provide all citizens with information, which is vital in this information age. They also provide a safe place to be during the day that doesn't cost anything.
5392	7/11/2012	All library's and school are important....
5393	7/11/2012	For the good of the people.
5394	7/11/2012	Because education is important to the future of a society.
5395	7/11/2012	A great community resource - where we vote, get our books. The library helps us stay connected to our community and the world.
5396	7/11/2012	Because I feel that the library allows people to seek knowledge for free. This knowledge allows them to bring themselves up, explore the world, and understand the events happening around them.
5397	7/11/2012	We, humans, operate in a very crisis based way of reacting to our problems. I'd prefer that, instead, we continue to grow curious and intelligent problem solvers who may learn to think ahead to prevent, rather than wait to react. Libraries offer the resources for just that.

5398	7/11/2012	Again, it acts to equalize the availability of knowledge between the have and the have nots. I work & volunteer with low income populations and there are still many people, for instance, that do not have home computers. There are people that need help learning english and passing the citizenship test that wouldn't have another resource like the ones the library provides. Not everyone can afford a $60 history book but they CAN check it out from the library.
5399	7/11/2012	We dont have enough money to obtain all of the services we require. Multnomah county and its taxpayers simply cannot afford to do everything we wish to do. Stop taxing us more and start cutting services. We can't afford it.
5400	7/11/2012	I love the library. I utilize the library for so many things: storytime and summer reading programs with my children, books for my own personal interests and hobbies, books to use in my classroom as a teacher, as a place to spark the love of learning and reading with myself and my family.
5401	7/11/2012	I am a Summer Reading volunteer and I see the positive impact the library has on the people who walk in every week. A place to learn, study, and have fun is crucial for children and adults alike. I adore my library, and I'm deeply worried whenever I hear of staff and funding cuts.
5402	7/11/2012	Because if our citizen become any more stupid and uneducated then they already are we are all doomed.
5403	7/11/2012	because my family uses our library for so many different uses.
5404	7/11/2012	Because knowledge is key to democracy.
5405	7/11/2012	Access to information. They allow people who can't afford to buy new books, magazines, etc. often (like my family) to read books, listen to music, learn a new skill.
5406	7/11/2012	Libraries provide the necessary connective points to maintain an informed, literate society.
5407	7/11/2012	Libraries serve everyone, and provide access to information for everyone.
5408	7/11/2012	Library services are extremely helpful. I would not read nearly as much as I do if I had to buy books because I can not afford them. The library is very important to myself and all of my family and friends!
5409	7/11/2012	Libraries are wonderful sources of new books, dvd's and information.
5410	7/11/2012	Very important.
5411	7/11/2012	I think it give a healthy alternative forum of entertainment, learning, and environment that does not exist anywhere else in our community.
5412	7/11/2012	Some services related to health and survival trump the library. However, the library is still supremely important.
5413	7/11/2012	They provide everyone with the same service. The libraey is a staple in our community and is a necessity to better ourswlves and hlep others.
5414	7/11/2012	I love borrowing books and other materials without having to buy them.
5415	7/11/2012	To be an informed and educated society everyone, no matter income, needs access to books and other informational materials.
5416	7/11/2012	important for kids to have access to books

5417	7/11/2012	Reading is the key to learning
5418	7/11/2012	I use the library personally and professionally. It provides lots of services both to my family and to the children I work with daily
5419	7/11/2012	Because libraries are my first source of books when I'm looking for something to read. Reading is simply a big part of my life.
5420	7/11/2012	Equal access to learning and information to people of all education and income levels.
5421	7/11/2012	first: I LOVE books. libraries allow people who might otherwise not be able to access reading materials and learn. internet access, research subscriptions, job/small business resources, community meeting place... so many reasons!
5422	7/11/2012	i can use computer programs that i don't have at home like microsoft office and also printer+copy machine which i use frequently during school.[] mostly i check out books and music cd s.i can not afford to buy all the time.
5423	7/11/2012	It's not just an affordable resource for my family but something I recommend to low-income clients I see who need activities and literacy for their children
5424	7/11/2012	I'd rather have pot holes
5425	7/11/2012	The library represents an important way I can conserve funds. I can borrow books instead of buying them. Same for CDs, comics, all the other wonderful media the library offers. I deeply, deeply value how the library makes so many things accessible to myself and my neighbors, who otherwise may not be able to afford it. I am happy to chip in my yearly portion to keep this going for all of us.
5426	7/11/2012	Education is my #1 issue. A well read public is a well informed public. And a well informed public usually make wiser decisions>
5427	7/11/2012	bridging the digital divide by leveling the playing field for many that don't have online access.
5428	7/11/2012	I go to the library to check out stuff and maybe their programs. I do not go to use the internet or other services they offer.
5429	7/11/2012	Libraries are essential to an educated and involved citizenry. I'm betting that crime rates are lower in neighborhoods with libraries, especially those with programs for young adults and at-risk youth. Good libraries are a quality of life issue, and while I appreciate public safety and other infrastructure issues, I think there are efficiencies to be found there in order to restore library services.

5431	7/11/2012	I use the library on a regular basis. Although I use mainly for recreation purposes, but also for research. And I know others strongly rely on the service for basic needs. It is very important.
5432	7/11/2012	Libraries serve people in several ways whereas other resources are narrow. Cutting libraries actually cuts several resources. Also, the internet is crucial to many aspects of daily living now and most job applications are online. If someone cannot afford internet at home and cannot get access through libraries, that increases thier chances even further of maintaining unemployment status.
5433	7/11/2012	They are not as important as police or fire departments, but they are important because they add to the community activity--people can use computers for free and attend talks (esp at the central library they are wonderful). I could not afford to read all the books that I want to read without the library. I love books and I love being able to put things on hold. ☐
5434	7/11/2012	☐ As a member of the community, the library is extremely important for children, students, seniors, job seekers, everyone really. I wish libraries could be open all the time.
5435	7/11/2012	With the internet and access to books online more people may be moving away from needing real books.
5436	7/11/2012	Libraries are essential to the betterment and enrichment of our community
5437	7/11/2012	We feel it is important to have educational community resources especially with the decline of the portland public schools.
5438	7/11/2012	I really like the atmosphere and how it helps everyone, but I just don't use it as much anymore, but I still think it is important.
5439	7/11/2012	libraries have far too many contributing factors to list here in detail. it is an indispensable resource for the communities and overall society for that matter.
5440	7/11/2012	Books! Anyone can come and read books (assuming they're able to read). I am a teacher and a mother and I love to see my students' and children's eyes light up when they see the shelves and shelves of treasure and it's all theirs. On a field trip to the central library I once had a Kindergartener say to me (as he was using paper and a black crayon to make a rubbing of the staircase), "This is better than recess!" ☐ ☐ I never feel richer than when I walk out of the library carrying an overflowing armload of books.
5441	7/11/2012	Library materials mean a sense of freedom to me. The ability to get educated, get electronic media, and computer access...not to mention children reading time..jst fantastic!
5442	7/11/2012	Public libraries are as important as educational instututions. They provide unparalled services (specifically, access to educational materials) to people of all walks of life.
5443	7/11/2012	Very important
5444	7/11/2012	The library is the most important public service i use, other than sidewalks/roads.

5445	7/11/2012	I grew up in New York City and owe my enthusiasm for learning and for music to their wonderful libraries. Now, as a senior citizen, why would I want to live in a city without excellent libraries?
5446	7/11/2012	Explained previously. Also, libraries are an important haven for youth - a place where they can feel safe and explore higher ideals. In the same way that after school programs can prevent children from turning to at risk activities, libraries provide a place where children can not only imagine doing better, but can find information to help them do better.
5447	7/11/2012	Because they are an important as a reference source on matters on which I conduct research.
5448	7/11/2012	There isn't another place in the world that has the ability to offer what the library has to offer. The wealth of information that is available, for free!, to ALL, still amazes me. Inside those great walls is where my love of learning and reading began - I hope all children are given the same opportunity.
5449	7/11/2012	Givesd all citizens equal access to technology and information and community interactions that are not commercial
5450	7/11/2012	The St. Johns library branch is very important to the neighborhood. Equally important is the St. Johns Community Center.
5451	7/11/2012	I work in a factory and am able to make it through the day by downloading audio books onto my ipod. I read 4-5 books per week this way and don't know how I'd mentally survive otherwise.
5452	7/11/2012	I went to the Hillsdale library in the 60's with my mom and sisters. We got books every two weeks, and drove home along Humphrey Blvd, carsick like crazy reading our new books. I took my three kids there all through the 80's, and some of the same employees are still there. I am embarasses that I have spent so much time listening to books in my commuting life' but it completely works for me.
5453	7/11/2012	-I love books.[] -Important tools for literacy[] -community gathering Because libraries are second only to schools in their value to the community and with schools cutting back education in favor of test teaching, libraries are even more important in offering an opportunity for inquisitive minds, young and old, to learn more about the world.[] []
5454	7/11/2012	I have a friend who moved to Chicago recently. She regularly complains about the library there. I've lived in Chicago. The libraries there are okay. She's just been spoiled by the amazing Multnomah County library system. I don't want it despoiled by lack of funding. [] []
5455	7/11/2012	Personally, I'm now finding it difficult to read print books (because of injuries to my hands that make it painful to hold paper books). Having the ability to read e-books is wonderful. and I wish there were more books available as e-books through the library. I use my library all the time. It's essential to me. Other local public services are too, but I'm very aware of how much I use the library.

5456	7/11/2012	It provides access to a variety of media for the general public.
5457	7/11/2012	Libraries provide the culture of many of our neighborhoods. They are replacing the schools as neighborhood cultural centers.
5458	7/11/2012	Growing up, I went to the library weekly, if not more often. I want other people to not take for granted what a great library system Multnomah County has
5459	7/11/2012	Because the majority of people are not rich...we are the 99% and most of us rely heavily on these services.
5460	7/11/2012	Because I love to read
5461	7/11/2012	The library provides numerous services for a wide group of people for free. Information may be accessed via a computer.
5462	7/11/2012	I was raised by a single mom, and summer programs at the library were a lifesaver for both of us. I don't know how I could ever live without books, and I think it's seriously important to try to open the eyes of the video-game generations.
5463	7/11/2012	Because I value knowledge, learning, and literature, I suppose. Also, because a democratic system of government requires some sort of mechanism to ensmarten the participants.
5464	7/11/2012	They give you the chance to read as many books as you want (well, unless you're taking them home, then there's that limit), and that is fantastic when you're a book-lover. You could stay at the library for hours and read. Or take books home with you. Even renting out movies is really cool because often times it's more expensive at movie rentals. And I haven't found a place yet that rents out CDs. Libraries are just a fantastic place. Especially when you don't have the money to go and buy a book. And sometimes when you DO buy one, and then after reading it you don't like it very much and regret paying that money for it. It's a great place to study, and to just read. JUST READ. Especially if it's hectic at home and you need a getaway, the library is the place to be. Especially for a reader.
5465	7/11/2012	What is the alternative to a good public library? Ignorance is not bliss. Education needs all the help it can get.
5466	7/11/2012	I get 99% of my books and movies from the library system. I would rather use my money to support the library and make books available to all, rather than use my money to purchase every book I want to read or movie I want to see and use them for myself only. It is more economical and ecological to share these materials within the community. Having computers available for people looking for work is essential.
5467	7/11/2012	they provide access to books and other media, create community

5468	7/11/2012	They are my mental health escape from the stressors of work and urban life. They are the place where I can be civilized. They level the playing field in the sense of giving all of us access to information. I don't make a lot of money so I can't buy new hardback books all the time. The library carries me away for just awhile. I love Everybody Reads. You can join conversations about these books with strangers on buses, in coffee shops, at the grocery store. That program really builds community.
5469	7/11/2012	I think the library provides an educational resource that has no rival. Including the Internet. Books have a psychological importance that the Internet will never achieve.
5470	7/11/2012	Libraries are somewhere you can go, to read, to be, to find materials--all for free and as part of a community. It makes you connect with community. It is a resource and place for learning, and gives people access to books and computers when they might not otherwise have it. It educates our mind. It is an investment in the well-being and education of our local community, and what opportunities and materials exist inside and outside of our library's community. It is so fundamental--growing up, this is where I could go to get books. It was striking in an unsettling way, on a Monday several weeks ago, when I went to stop by Central Library with a 7-year-old to pick out a book and get him his first library card, only to find the building closed. It was sad, and...inspired me to take this survey. I have always loved books and libraries, wherever I am. They are the marker of a place. Keep them! And keep them well.
5471	7/11/2012	Reading is the great equalizer. Knowledge is power.
5472	7/11/2012	I use the resource a lot, but would not place it above social welfare services.
5473	7/11/2012	The quality of the library system is one of the first indicators I look at when assessing the health of a community. I value the library system and hope that it can continue to enrich the community.
5474	7/11/2012	Libraries are emblematic to education. Education is emblematic to freedom. Freedom is emblematic to a happy and healthy life.
5475	7/11/2012	I think libraries are very important and they provide a safe friendly place for people to do educational things and stuff.
5476	7/11/2012	open to all in the community I grew up in and around libraries and librarians, and worked in libraries while in high school, college and grad school.
5477	7/11/2012	While libraries are important to me, they are even more important to people who have limited access to other resources, including English-language learners, senior citizens, families (especially those on limited incomes), and students.
5478	7/11/2012	For so many people it is their only access for internet, books, and materials.
5479	7/11/2012	We are casual library users with preference of children's activities, that makes it a valuable resource, but I could not say that it is vital.
5480	7/11/2012	Libraries are access to knowledge, which is vital to success in life.
5481	7/11/2012	access to everything

5482	7/11/2012	helps everyone in community[] helps improve knowledge[] allows sharing resources
5483	7/11/2012	They help educate our neighborhood
5485	7/11/2012	It's a personal instant outcome having libraries available to the public. I don't know how they will evolve now that so much can be accessed online, especially by kids. It's possible, then, that library services for seniors may be the most important thing to offer. These people may be the least likely to be on line.
5486	7/11/2012	I love to read and I could not afford to buy all the books I read. I think it's so important to give people access to library materials, both for fun and education. It's especially important for children to have access to all the books they want to read so they can learn to love books, but as an adult it's very personally important to me. I think that the internet access is also a valuable public service.
5487	7/11/2012	Libraries play a role in creating community and they help a lot of people that may not know how else to access information.
5488	7/11/2012	Most people have internet access nowadays in their homes or elsewhere. They can download books for a reasonable fee onto Kindles and iPads. They can do research and communicate adequately from home. Physical books are going the way of the dinosaur and will be much less important in the future. (Save the trees!) It is nice to be able to check out movies, documentaries, etc., for free however, especially for low-income citizens, and as a place for parents with small children to go for learning opportunities, or for homeschoolers to congregate. I like the services for seniors.
5489	7/11/2012	Libraries represent the free exchange of ideas and serve as an introduction to the wonderful world of books and reading for children who may not have books at home. Libraries serve as focal points for community education and activities. Just the pleasure of browsing in a library can never be replaced by electronic media.
5490	7/11/2012	Not as imp. as health services for citizens.[] For me, the library is my book source because I don't usually purchase books.[] For people w/o the internet, the library is absolutely crucial! The haves and the have nots will experience a bigger gap if everyone doesn't have access to a computer.

5491	7/11/2012	Reading is very important for our society. □ It is poor management to close all branches on the same day. If we have to cut hours then why can't each branch be closed on a different day. For example, the Gresham branch could close on Mondays and Rockwood branch be open on Mondays but close on Tuesdays. This way people will always have a library to go to. Or is this your way of making it more difficult for people in hopes of coercing people to vote in a budget that most of the community can ill afford at this time. I know that I can't afford more than .89 per 1,000.00 And, why is it that only homeowners are assessed this tax? Why not tax all people by doing an income tax?
5492	7/11/2012	It is more important to have the police, fire department, emergency services, well-maintained infrastructure (roads, signs, etc), legal system, and quality basic public education (my feeling is that tons of electives here is also a discretionary spend). Libraries rank after those things right along with outdoor parks as the next most important thing to me that tax dollars should pay for - you could live without them (whereas the others you could not), but they are definitely used for the public good and economies of scale make them much better for all if tax payer money supports quality parks and libraries for everyone. They rank VERY HIGHLY above total discretionary spend like native plant gurus for your backyard, free bike racks for businesses, and other things that so few people take advantage of, I can't believe our taxpayer dollars support them at all.
5493	7/11/2012	The Library is where I get almost all of the books I read. The Librarians have helped me hunt down information and books I would never have known about without them. I would never be able to afford to buy the amount books I've read.
5494	7/11/2012	Top! We homeschool and could not do it without our library.
5495	7/11/2012	Very important, we are there often and learn much about being a good community member.
5496	7/11/2012	That question is vague and was not very well thought out. What other services? Police? or Public Restrooms in Public Parks? Obviously we need police, fire, schools, well, maybe not schools. I mean, most schools these days battle attendance and vanity rather than challenged minds. So, lets take more money from the schools budget and support the library.
5497	7/11/2012	I love books. I love that Portland loves books. I recognize that police and fire fighters are actually more important but I do not see them as being threatened. My children all believe that access to Multnomah County libraries was more influential to their education than what was offered to them in the public schools.
5498	7/11/2012	Free is a good price, especially when you don't have any other ways to educate yourself.
5499	7/11/2012	Equal access for all. □ Materials available to those who are unable to purchase them.

5500	7/11/2012	We use the library a lot and it's an important resource for all kinds of people in the community. It's a place our community comes together, e.g. we often see people we know there and it makes our community feel more friendly and cohesive. The library offers lots of great programs for all ages and all kinds of people. I think the programs for young children and families are important to help families start reading and to impart that value to their children.
5501	7/11/2012	The only public service I use is the library. I count on it for validating information, looking up authors and books, widening my scope on old and new topics. I can't think of any other public facility I use that comes close to it. [] [] #9 is broken. A district sounds great!
5502	7/11/2012	Because they provide public access to all types of information.
5503	7/11/2012	Access to information and education is something everyone can use.
5504	7/11/2012	I utilize my library resources frequently. Other social service resources are critical also but I do not use them at the moment. The library is something that I will ALWAYS use.
5505	7/11/2012	Library is a great resource to have, but not a primary resource for job seekers, social services, etc
5506	7/11/2012	Fire, police, jails, and 911 are more important to the safety of our community
5507	7/11/2012	some people do not have any other resource for the kind of services the library provides. This is it for them. The programs for kids is very enriching.
5508	7/11/2012	Safety (police and fire) and schools have to be first.
5509	7/11/2012	The health of the community relies on the people being well informed and well educated. The library is a great tool for those with limited means to educate themselves and better their position in the community.
5510	7/11/2012	Again library offers much more than books for pleasure or information. It is a good resource center for the community. Place for children to grow, families to bond and individuals to explore the world around them. Libraries are a place of wonder and discovery. They provide community. They provide a place of quiet and refuge for reading, researching, and reflection. They promote the idea that we don't have to own everything that comes into our lives. Presumably, they help the environment as not everyone is buying their own copy of the books they read.
5511	7/11/2012
5512	7/11/2012	I oftgen buy books that I want to read. The library is important, but close to being secondary.
5513	7/11/2012	I love to read and love to go to the library to just browse.
5514	7/11/2012	It is important to me that we have high quality literature available for all ages and all income brackets. Many families living in poverty do not live in a print rich environment. Libraries offer them the opportunities with books and other media.

5515	7/11/2012	The library is something our family uses on a regular basis and we greatly value access to print books, audio books, and dvds. It feels like a cornerstone of the community that we take for granted to always be there, but would be sorely missed if it were not. Equal access to information/knowledge and technology for all is essential for the strength of our communities. People of all income levels and all walks of life need libraries--books and access to knowledge should not be accessible only to the privileged, so our libraries play an important role. We and our children read more because of the library and what we have access to. Our children are voracious readers and we could not afford to pay for the number of books they go through on a regular basis. □ We value many local public services, but I am not exactly sure which other services this question is referring too (it would be helpful to have some examples in the question).
5516	7/11/2012	access to library services supports the education of all our citizens and contributes to the most basic foundations of our democracy.
5517	7/11/2012	It is a free medium that anyone can access. To cut libraries would cause the public (especially lower socioeconomic groups) to loose the possibility for growth, education, and all around betterment.
5518	7/11/2012	Libraries are part of the heart and core of a community. □ □ Also a lending library, the shared resource, that is paid for by everybody and can be used by everybody is a scarce "business model" these days. It's vitally important that this shared resource model is maintained not only because libraries, learning and community intellect are important, but because a lot of the rest of the world is hyper-focused on making a profit and all the ancilliaries that come with that. Libraries are a potent symbol that we're all in this together. The community and people lose in the long-run when laissez faire, survival of the fittest is the only model there is. Libraries provide a powerful antidote.
5519	7/11/2012	As I said before, we need to have this resource available so that our children can explore the world of books.
5520	7/11/2012	I use the library more than I use the fire or police department. I am discouraged when it is not open after my walk up there. I LOVE the way I can request a book, and pick it up later.
5521	7/11/2012	What are "other local public services"? Music festivals paid for by our taxes or, say police protection? Cutting off dangerous limbs on trees or sending out brochures and newsletters? Safety and health should come first. After that everyone and everything should be as lean and at the hardship level of the rest of the citizens. PERS: is that gone yet? That is an insult to everyone who is saving every penny that they can for a barely livable retirement. Question #7 is not informative enough to generate valid responses.
5522	7/11/2012	This is where students go to study and sometimes the only place they CAN go without noise and to use a computer to do work either school of job related.

5523	7/11/2012	People who read and having access to information is the very cornerstone of freedom.
5524	7/11/2012	equal access to free learning and entertainment is a great socio-economic equalizer.
5525	7/11/2012	Even though I don't use the library that often, I feel the libraries should be kept available to those that need it and use it frequently. It is an invaluable community resource and a vital part of our cultural fabric.
5526	7/11/2012	reading skills = improved education skills = school readiness for young children = value of higher education = improved community support with local educated population = reduced crime, improved family relationships, educated population.
5527	7/11/2012	The certainly come behind emedrgencuy services, buit they shoud be way ahead of stuff for bicycles, symphony, opera -
5528	7/11/2012	I get most of my reading material from the library. I cannot afford to buy all of the books my daughter and I like to read. Reading is important to our society. I believe other public services are important, too.
5529	7/11/2012	Most important to our family.
5530	7/11/2012	I love reading, and libraries are where I find my books. I've had great experiences with the staff as a customer and as a library volunteer. Reading is such an important skill and love to have in life, and I believe libraries are essential - especially to young children.
5531	7/11/2012	I use the library at least once a month, as in check things out or put something on hold. I also browse the library probably just as often. I really enjoy having libraries.
5532	7/11/2012	I think they are a critical foundation of a community - a place for people to learn and feel safe. The library in my hometown played an important role for my childhood
5533	7/11/2012	NOW Come on folks.....Libraries the World over are a center for learning for all AGES.....Without them knowledge is withheld from the population.
5534	7/11/2012	I believe library is the source of all knowledge The variety of services for all types of citizens....not available elsewhere. ☐
5535	7/11/2012	☐ I rediscovered the library after retirement; when I cannot afford books I want to read, and I have time to wait, I get on the wait list. So far, that approach has worked well.
5536	7/11/2012	because in the library people meet each other, they have access to the culture and news of the world and our community, and nowadays the library is more of the center for our people than any other thing.
5537	7/11/2012	Regardless of the tech world, the value of holding, smelling, and reading an actual book can not be replaced.
5538	7/11/2012	I consider libraries extremely important, but the County has other extremely important functions including the Sheriff, Elections, courthouses, jails, probation supervision, mental health services, medical services and on and on. Libraries are critical to this county's citizens but so are other county services.

5539	7/11/2012	They are a bright spot in our week--expansive resources and helpful staff available often. i rate police and firefighting ahead of the library as well as anything to do with public safety
5540	7/11/2012	we would "exist" without the library, however, it would be a big loss to the community as a whole and the the quality of life in portland reading and encouraging reading are extremely important both as art and as information
5541	7/11/2012	Libraries are necessary for public education and the strength of our democracy. Libraries provide access to all.
5542	7/11/2012	The online ability to check things out is very important to me! Not sure about how many actually go into their local library.
5543	7/11/2012	Very high on the list, along with services for people in need, and police. decreased availability of library staff in my childrens' schools. continued large portion of community without computer access.
5544	7/11/2012	increasing data that supports need for early education programs for infants, toddlers, and their parents. my strong belief that my children need to feel that they are a part of a community, not just my family. The library provides children with a place to explore and learn new things as well as a place to research and do schoolwork for those who do not have a computer or internet at home. The library provides me personally with resources I can use in the classroom as a history teacher. Not only can I check out books to expand my knowledge of what I am teaching, but also to bring books into the classroom to provide students with more resources.
5545	7/11/2012	Libraries provide something that really doesn't exist elsewhere! I love being able to borrow books and other media rather than buy it. I also love that it is a community gathering point and a place for my children to learn about and fall in love with books. I love my local library.
5546	7/11/2012	Our visits to the library offer us new ways to explore our world. Not just through what we read, watch, and listen to, but also who we meet while we are there. My children can't imagine having a week pass without a visit to the library, particularly during the summer when our visits are nearly daily.
5547	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly. I am an educated woman who does not have the money to buy a lot of books. My life would not be the same without the library!
5548	7/11/2012	I also rely on the library for DVD's of movies and documentaries. Access to libraries serves as an equalizer that is immeasurable in its impact on a democratic society.

5549	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to knowledge which I consider a hallmark of democracy and freedom. Not many other resources are provided to the end user for free and at such a low cost relatively. Plus all the entertaining books and other media at our fingertips. Your programs provide resources and opportunity which are also invaluable.
5550	7/11/2012	Books and knowledge is valuable. The library makes book available to everyone.
5551	7/11/2012	Libraries exist to supplement and improve their community around them - as long as they keep to the core of their reason for existing - promoting the written word.
5552	7/11/2012	public safety and security are more important
5553	7/11/2012	i love it!! love books, love the resources, love the people, love the access
5554	7/11/2012	They empower all people to access resources that allow them to be educated, informed, literate members of society.
5555	7/11/2012	Literacy is very important. Access to books, free internet, and services like homework help, etc. are very good for the community.
5556	7/11/2012	Having a library makes me feel like I am part of a community. I know there is always a safe friendly place I can go that is free. It is such a joy to be able to read a good book, and to have access to such a wealth of free information :)
5557	7/11/2012	We use the library a lot. We have a large family and we all like to read and try new things so the library is very important to us.
5558	7/11/2012	If I can't find a book or if the book is in horrible condition, I know that I can walk to Powells and just buy a book.
5559	7/11/2012	I LOVE the library. i commute 60 miles a day 5 days a week and i depend on the library for books on tape.
5560	7/11/2012	Libraries offer an opportunity to feel part of a community. They provide access to reading materials and resources for people of all incomes. They provide a safe, dry place for people who are homeless to be during the day.
5561	7/11/2012	Funding for roads, higher education - funding for colleges is usually neglected, safe water, libraries - all important. Plus, more should be spent on local animal shelters to lower euthanasia (sp?) rates.
5562	7/11/2012	The library is the epitome of the concept that knowledge gained by one does not take away from knowledge gained by others. Unlike most other things in our lives, knowledge cannot be consumed. I can't borrow bread from you - once I consume it you can't have it. But I can "borrow" knowledge from you - consuming that knowledge does not take it away. Without the library we would lose the most important application of this principle in our every day lives, making it harder and less efficient to learn and gain that knowledge.
5563	7/11/2012	Access to resources, knowledge that might not be available to some if we didn't have libraries.
5564	7/11/2012	Open service for all to access. More should utilize it.

5565	7/11/2012	In this electronic age, it is calming to enter a place where books live.[] It is important that young people are exposed to libraries.[] Older people need a place to get out and be among other people.[] Libraries are awesome places.
5566	7/11/2012	They represent opportunity, enlightenment, recreation, and education.
5567	7/11/2012	Universal access, wtihout regard to age, race, class, or income[] A portal to the world
5568	7/11/2012	My library is a better window into the world than the internet: it's copious, it's curated, it's organized, and it's always there when I need it. I simply don't want to live in a county with a poor library system.
5569	7/11/2012	Reading is a healthy, enjoyable, educational, entertaining past-time. Libraries provide books and classes for people from all walks of life and of all ages.....FOR FREE!
5570	7/11/2012	The library provides an opportunity for everyone to utilize for growth and enjoyment. It is not just maintenance of our infrastructure of police and fire protection and street quality that we hopefully have few encounters with.
5571	7/11/2012	For myself, I use the library for current books and materials, and I love the variety. [] However, I also work as a therapist with many lower-income clients, and the programs at the library are essential to maintain literacy, provide reading programs for children, and free computer access.
5572	7/11/2012	I am in education and I know what a resource they are for low income kids. They give opportunities for kids to access knowledge and literature that they wouldn't be able to get at home. It also impacts all kids/people. In our economy it isn't just about low income kids and people. More and more people are using the library resources.
5573	7/11/2012	They are important to me because i can not afford to buy books to read and i love to read , however because of technology , so many people can now get books on their Kindle and can do research on the internet.
5574	7/11/2012	I value them and use the libraries on occasion, but I know that they are a lifeline for a number of people in my community. They provide resources that are much needed (i.e., computer use, trainings, story hours, positive environment, etc.)
5575	7/11/2012	Well, libraries are important, but public safety and social services are probably more essential.

5576	7/11/2012	I'd put police, fire, emergency services and water first and term those essential but the library is very important because this is where people can come to learn what they can't get someplace else. There's no way you could have a library like this at home, access to these materials is priceless to me. I couldn't afford my math classes at PCC so I've been studying the lower level course material at the library and I'm hoping I can challenge a higher-level math class and be able to afford at least one. I teach my kids at the library and help them with subjects they need help with that they don't get help with at school so they do well and don't get left behind. I homeschooled my children at the library before I started them in public school and taught them to read, to do basic arithmetic, the start of their history and science and geography education with library materials. I see many kinds of people at the library: families with children teaching their kids to read or just finding them books, people who have no where else to go can come to the library and be warm and safe and enjoy a book they wouldn't otherwise be able to get. Kids doing homework, people doing research, job seekers and entrepreneurs learning new businesses. I can't possibly say all the wonderful things the library gives the community and never mind that I'm a total bibliophile and that it's stuff with fiction enough to satisfy even me.
5577	7/11/2012	The libraries provide a safe place for children to do homework after school. They offer all kinds of wonderful programs to broaden our lives. They give people, who could otherwise not afford it, the opportunity to read periodicals, classic literature, best sellers, non-fiction, work on computers, listen to music, watch movies, research areas of interest, learn to do home improvement projects or manage their budgets, the list is endless. It gives us all opportunities, not just those who can afford to purchase books.
5578	7/11/2012	The core library services of lending a wide and deep selection of books and media, and providing computer/internet access are very important to me because they represent a democratizing influence in society. They help people to educate themselves, stay informed and connected. And importantly, these services being available to all the public at no additional cost beyond taxpayer support means that basic and essential opportunities for a healthy society are not restricted based on income.[] [] *My ranking on question 9 is due to my view that the preferred option would be to first revise the menu of library services down to what are really the core services, prior to cutting hours or seeking additional funding. I believe that many of the services offered, while great services, are not "core services."
5579	7/11/2012	Libraries are a part of the community and create an epic center for people to gather.
5580	7/11/2012	People who don't have access to information in cyberspace or don't have sufficient literature for information purposes, and for sharing of cultural experiences, won't have anywhere to turn to without libraries. Libraries help those who want to learn and to be informed.
5581	7/11/2012	People need to have their basic needs for food, shelter, and healthcare met. But without access to culture, without the ability to engage with and create literature and art, we aren't able to be fully human. The library helps students, but it also helps everyone learn and grow, no matter their stage of life. And, the library is open to all in a way that no other institution can match.

5582	7/11/2012	Without access to read, learn, share ideas, and interact, a community or society falls into disarray and disconnection. Those with the least, depend on this access the most, and without this opportunity, are the most likely to look at less productive activities.
5583	7/11/2012	By having a library system it keeps my own money in my pocket and enables me to read current books without having to buy them.
5584	7/11/2012	It is an open community area that offers resources to the public for free.
5585	7/11/2012	Libraries are an important public service.
5586	7/11/2012	A library provides a safe home for our knowledge. It represents the community's value on history, preservation, learning, sharing, and pride. I use the library from researching what I want to learn to the enjoyment in getting lost in a great book. I can buy a book but borrowing a book read by many others reminds me of commonality with others.
5587	7/11/2012	Community building, encouraging reading.
5588	7/11/2012	A high-functioning society needs access to books, resources and information.
5589	7/11/2012	They are an important civic institution. They show that our society cares about everyone and is willing to invest in our culture and education. It would be a sad day if all our government did was fund jails and shelters. Those things are important, of course, but the library touches a broader segment of our citizens.
5590	7/11/2012	i am an avid reader!!!! i read at LEAST 12 or more books a month, unless im reading romeo and juliet or similarly super long!!!!
5591	7/11/2012	Libraries help the community and people get the resources they need for many different things. Research for schooling and job seekers find work. People are using the computers at the libraries. This has helped me and my family in need of printing and faxing for free. The resources that are offered are free and that is great because everywhere else wants to charge you for these services. My child benefits greatly from the books, audios, the music we check out and the learning movies. I love the Library.
5592	7/11/2012	Libraries are a valuable resource for all kinds of people, especially folks who have less money and are trying to raise a family or who are older and have limited incomes.
5593	7/11/2012	The access given to books for the cost paid is financial in my families best interest given the number of books read. There is no way I would be able to afford the number of books read or looked at by my family particularly the children.
5594	7/11/2012	i grew up using libraries a lot, we moved from state to state frequently and libraries filled my life with other peoples ideas, gave me someplace to go to learn about other cultures.
5595	7/11/2012	They meet so many needs for so many. It's free (not including taxes, ect.), which helps serves people from all economic levels. It's historic and connects us through that history.
5596	7/11/2012	Reduced cost for all, a sense of community
5597	7/11/2012	Our country was founded on good education. That was (and should be) one of our strenghts
5598	7/11/2012	I love books.

5599	7/11/2012	Libraries are free access to unlimited information. If you want to learn and better yourself, one of the very first places to turn will be your library. You can't take that away, or limit that for people.
5600	7/11/2012	Literature is extremely important for many reasons, particularly to increase the imagination, grow neurons within the brain, and allow all to 'self-educate'
5601	7/11/2012	The library advocates literacy, which benefits individuals and is essential to a working democracy. Anyone can benefit from the library services. Some patrons access resources that are not available to them anywhere else.
5602	7/11/2012	I rely on the library a lot, for entertainment, education, activities for my kids. When I was going through very tough times financially, and I had two small children, library programs were literally the only entertainment that I could provide them with outside the home. They never knew how tight things were, because of that, and I will always be grateful.
5603	7/11/2012	Libraries are useful, but should be funded ONLY by the actual consumers of the product, through an annual fee. Bus riders have to buy a pass, campers have to pay a fee, and you can't visit Oxbow park or Chinook landing without paying $5. Better yet, libraries should be privatized. They could be customized for the cliental they serve, i.e. "liberal", "conservative", "business" libraries, etc.
5604	7/11/2012	My family uses them every week. They are virtually our only source of books. I believe they are a fundamental source of books for many people and perhaps the only source for some.
5605	7/11/2012	They are the public service that I use the most by a long shot. I think that free access to information is one of the most important parts of freedom and the library is a cornerstone of that access. Plus I love books but do not want to buy or own most of them for financial and environmental reasons.
5606	7/11/2012	One of the most profound community services that local government & citizens provide for the well being of all!
5607	7/11/2012	Libraries are important public service.
5608	7/11/2012	Libraries serve so many people with so many different needs. Ours is like the heart of our community.
5609	7/11/2012	Because it helps a lot of people who can't afford computers and books for their needs to get them at affordable way from the library. It provides a conducive place for studying and research work. It provides a lot of resources materials. All these make the library an important public place for the society. Children start their learning from here.
5610	7/11/2012	The library is important because it's a vast resource for knowledge
5611	7/11/2012	I would rather have police and fire protection before library services.
5612	7/11/2012	Because it offers an affordable way of exposing my children to literature and other educational programs. It offers myself an affordable way of reading.
5613	7/11/2012	I am a teacher for an after school program so being able to check out lots of books for my classes is how I save money.

5614	7/11/2012	Access to good information is absolutely necessary in order to have a free, healthy and safe community
5615	7/11/2012	The service a library offers is important and serves to all levels of the social economic system regardless of how much money each member makes. Everyone should have a chance and opportunity to further their education and learn to read!
5616	7/11/2012	Because the library is full of important resources for EVERYONE - and gives us the tools to help us educate ourselves, and enrich daily life.
5617	7/11/2012	monetary savings
5618	7/11/2012	I love accessing the library and feel very privileged to access such a wide array of reading material without cost. Being able to access the library has allowed me to increase my reading over the past several years whereas if I had to pay for all the books I've read, I would not have read nearly as much.
5619	7/11/2012	I feel that some services are non-negotiable (water, police, fire, etc.), but the library is very close to that distinction in my mind.
5620	7/11/2012	Access to resources is important for so many community members. The libraries resources are critical to a society
5621	7/11/2012	Free and easy access to knowledge, arts, and the Internet is important and should be provided in every community.
5623	7/11/2012	Because citizens can only be effective if they are enlightened and educated.... And the library has always been a great leveler between the rich and the "unwashed." Any one can learn. Any one can access books, newspapers, computers. All of us can be better citizens and make better decisions because we are only limited to the choices defined by our literate minds.
5624	7/11/2012	I am a reader and check out 3-4 books at a time. I cannot afford to buy very many books at retail stores.
5625	7/11/2012	Extremely important for young families to have a physical library space to go to. A well-run public library is a natural community center and the values it promotes are the key values of education and critical thought. As Thomas Jefferson said, democracy without literacy is impossible. The young families that value reading and teach their children about libraries are raising the next generation of thoughtful, literate citizens. The elderly who seek a comfortable, pleasant library space are staying connected to their community. Low-wage adults like myself often cannot afford to purchase access and learn to use databases, books, and DVD's . How great to access those in the center of the community, the library.
5626	7/11/2012	Reading is a vital precursor to academic and life success.

5627	7/11/2012	For those that like to read and stay informed it is a major resource
5628	7/11/2012	I can not afford to buy many if any books. If I did not have a library system to utilize, I would have fewer opportunities to read. In addition, libraries were very important to me in my teen years as a place to study away from home, hang out and read in a safe location, and volunteer in the community.
5629	7/11/2012	I love going to the library. It's a great way to be connect to community and the services offered are important for
5630	7/11/2012	There is no other place to obtain the kind of services available in a library. It's a safe, essential space in every community.
5631	7/11/2012	Libraries are a source of freedom. They allow people to dream, to learn, to socialize without constriction. And most importantly, the libraries are free for patrons!
5632	7/11/2012	I read a lot, and I read a wide variety of types of books. I could not begin to afford to purchase books that I use for a month and then am done with. I feel strongly that a strong library is important to democracy. At anytime people of all levels of society a can just about whatever they desire through the library. Priceless.
5633	7/11/2012	I prefer to live within walking distance of a library for ease of use. The library saves me tons of money in books that I don't end up buying. It's a source for my own continuing education, and it makes me happy to see so many types of people able to receive the assistance and resources needed in today's world. Also, I like librarians. They are helpful and kind, as a rule. And frequently funny.
5634	7/11/2012	Reading has been my favorite pastime throughout my life. I remember all the librarians that read to me and helped me as a child, the summer reading programs I participated in, all the activities that were available to me throughout my life. As an adult I belong to a book club and depend on the library assist me in accessing the newest books for free. I plan to return to graduate school this fall and look forward to studying at the library and accessing books to further my education. Libraries further our educations and prepare children for their futures. My local library is just as important to me as any other public service.
5635	7/11/2012	They create a common, accessible source of information for the community. Assuming everyone has internet access and therefor does not need access to printed or other materials is doubly incorrect. I went for many years unable to afford internet access at home and used my local library (KCLS at the time) for both traditional and online research and access.
5636	7/11/2012	An educated America will be more successful and the access to information the library provides helps all not just those that have money.

5637	7/11/2012	I can't be entirely impartial, as I worked as a medical librarian for 30 years, but I have been a library user since I was a child. My parents had very little money to spare, but they paid the annual fee for library membership for us. I introduced my children to the library as soon as they were able to read (and both of them worked in their college libraries to help pay the tuition). We may purchase more books now than we did in the past, but we still depend on the public library for the majority of our reading materials, and the online resources are an added plus.
5638	7/11/2012	Libraries educate, an uneducated populace can be easily controlled.
5639	7/11/2012	A library is a vital part of a community.[] I have access to materials that I would never be able to find on my own.
5640	7/11/2012	I don't even know what you mean by "public services." Who drafted this survey? First premise of a good service is to define exactly what you're asking. To me, "public services" are police, fire, food stamps. I haven't needed any of those things. I know that I consider a "public service" maintenance of roads, but that's not being funded so ... Again, I need to know what you think "public services" are.
5641	7/11/2012	They provide community access, support, and resources. It is the best and most cost effective way to be educated, entertained and teach others. Every civilized society since time began had a library.....
5642	7/11/2012	Libraries can equalize to a large degree the impact that economic advantage or disadvantage has on a person's learning, life, and success. This fact, I believe, is the real reason that the wealthy anti-tax advocates pose such a threat to libraries; they do not want to give up their perceived economic advantages. Regardless of what they may give as reasons for wanting to cut taxes, I think that underlying it all is fear that if they had no advantage because of their wealth they would not be able to succeed.

		I used to like to read; can't seem to find much fiction I like now. A lot of reading material offered is dumbed-down romances, unappealingly homosexual books, boring fantasy (Harry Potter, etc.) books, or a bunch of murder mysteries-B-O-O-R-R-R-I-I-I-I-N-N-N-N-G-G-G. The shelves are filled with that crap. The "everybody reads" selections haven't been very good, either.[]
		[]
		Hate to say it, but the videos are appealing. Timewasters, though. []
		I used the job seeker computer room a lot when I was job seeking and didn't have a computer; now I don't go because I bought a lap-top. []
		[]
5643	7/11/2012	I really dislike how the library is no longer a quiet place. Screaming babies do not belong in a library. I wish the librarians would just escort them out. I don't like the little kids acting wild and loud; when I was young, the parents would make their children behave quietly and people would rarely bring pre-schoolers in. []
		[]
		I think the library should cater to the people who check out the materials. Kids under 5 don't check out materials so their misbehavior should get them quickly escorted out, along with their parents. The real problem is stupid parents who bring in their children when they are too young (they don't HAVE to bring in toddlers in order to check out books for them!) and then are too clueless to keep them quiet. They think their squalling brats have "rights" to squall, for cryin' out loud! The Central library doesn't have this problem so much because the children's' library is separate.[]
		[]
5644	7/11/2012	I don't mind reduced hours or days. I still haven't found a job, so will not support any increase in funding for the library It is important due to community outreach and what is happening in the neighborhood. There are very little free quality entertainment for children, but the library, or classes for all.
5645	7/11/2012	Our libraries help develop my children's literacy skills.
5646	7/11/2012	Basic health and welfare trump libraries
5647	7/11/2012	Because libraries offer free opportunities to learn and gather
5648	7/11/2012	I feel the library gives the opportunity for learning, self-improvement and the pursuit of individual interests that might not otherwise be available. There is no way I could ever afford to buy, nor I could I store or get the use out of all of the materials I have access to from the library.
5649	7/11/2012	I think people need to have things available to them. Some people need to educate them selves and they have no other way, elderly need to have more at their hands.
5650	7/11/2012	We are a homeschooling family and use the library ALL the time. For us the reduced hours are a real pain. There's a community that's inherent in any gathering place and the library is no different. We love our library and are sad to see the continued struggle.
5651	7/11/2012	It helps alot of people.
5652	7/11/2012	Even in a digital age with so much information available for free online libraries provide a critical service to the public by serving as a community resource that promotes literacy and continuing interest in the printed word.

5653	7/11/2012	Aside from food and shelter, books sustain me like nothing else does. Discovering the ease of using the public library to check out books that I've been longing to read has meant the world to me over the past six years, as my economic circumstances have declined to the point where I often cannot justify the luxury of buying even a used book. When I have a book with me, I do not feel alone. Books nourish my soul and my dreams and help me through the hard times of my life and inspire me to imagine different worlds and different possibilities. When I haven't had money for movies or dinners out with friends or concerts or travel or Netflix or any other little luxuries, library books have continued to enrich my world.
5654	7/11/2012	It is the only affordable way to have access to current materials at the rate I read. [] [] As a social worker I also know how important these resources are to my clients.
5655	7/11/2012	not as important as police and fire or other necessities such as maintenance, but close, because they are a great resource.
5656	7/11/2012	Brings resources and info to the people
5657	7/11/2012	I use the library almost every day, from home and at my branch, Hollywood. I use it for educational research for my work, for media, and fiction/nonfiction reading. I don't attend programs but I see the value of them when I visit the library. Mult. Co. Library is the local public service I use the most and I value it highly.
5658	7/11/2012	Libraries and what they represent--free and equal access to information--are one of the most fundamentally important safeguards of democracy. They serve and meet the needs of a diverse number of people. When my grandparents were my age, church was the place where a community would gather. In Portland, libraries have taken up that role. Don't get me wrong though, food stamps, road building, and public schools are all equally important. I see them as having a symbiotic relationship, not a competitive one.
5659	7/11/2012	Schools, social services, fire, police are all more important.
5660	7/11/2012	Libraries promote literacy, self-education and free access to information. They provide internet access to those in need.
5661	7/11/2012	In addition to providing the public with a wealth of knowledge, the local library provides me with a way to help inspire our youngest members of society to love reading and learning.
5662	7/11/2012	Without books and access to books, I think the community breaks down. If we can't have community libraries, we must bring back bookmobiles because library services should be available and important to everyone.
5663	7/11/2012	Reading, computer access, access to job search materials, and senior opportunities all keep our society healthy and smart.
5664	7/11/2012	being homebound, the delivery is critical
5665	7/11/2012

5666	7/11/2012	The library has served me throughout my lifetime. For pleasure, research, intellectual growth, help with job resources when I was unemployed, and even occasionally as a nice, quiet meeting spot for friends. I highly value all of those ways the library has served me.
5667	7/11/2012	Nothing is more important to me than an educated populace with full access to information and resources that stimulate thought, creativity and inquiry. Everything else follows.
5668	7/11/2012	They are very important, but less important than the Police and Fire Departments. Because I'm fairly well off, I can pay for equivalent services to a library (e.g., at Powell's). I can't personally afford to pay for a Police or Fire department. But I'm not the only person who matters. Providing library services for those who are less well off than I am is quite important.
5669	7/11/2012	I have depended upon my local library where ever I have lived throughout my life. I have done research, developed my lesson plans for classes I taught, read numerous books, taken computer classes, browsed magazines and newspapers kept abreast of community activities, checked out movies and classical music and just spent quiet time. I love libraries and they have been an important part of my life. I cannot imagine not having access to libraries. They are the life blood of a healthy, productive society.
5670	7/11/2012	I use it all the time
5671	7/11/2012	Without literacy and free access to books and media, we are less informed and less in charge of our freedom.
5672	7/11/2012	When I had trouble walking (have since had hip operation) I depended on the library for books to read. I am an avaricious reader, mostly of history and biography, an occasional murder mystery.
5673	7/11/2012	The library provides a place to encourage people of all ages to interact with books. It is a place that I use frequently to meet class mates to study with, and I think the library provides a great service by getting young children interested in books early on.
5674	7/11/2012	Because they provide a foundation of cultural and social development for a range of ages, backgrounds, and income levels that is not duplicated, nor even approximated, elsewhere.
5675	7/11/2012	They are community gathering places where people of all income levels can get a variety of things they need without any cash outlay. More and more, the library offers services you can't find anywhere else. I love going to the library, browsing amongst thousands of books, checking them out and reading them, and knowing that in a few weeks someone else will use the same book and get pleasure out of it just like I did. I do buy books on occasion (if I read something from the library that I absolutely HAVE to own) but mostly I am trying not to acquire more possessions. The library lets me do that and still be an avid reader, plus I get to try out a lot of interesting-sounding books that I might decide after a few chapters not to finish reading.
5676	7/11/2012	I go so often that it seems weird when I don't go. I also don't have all the money in the world to buy books I want or dvd's so the library is essential in my life with that especially if they have the next book in my thrilling series. WITHOUT MY LIBRARY I WOULD LITERALLY DIE.
5677	7/11/2012	Libraries are an incredible resource, improving the quality of living for all.

5678	7/11/2012	because books and library services should be available for the entire county.
5679	7/11/2012	Because I love the library; I use it often and appreciate that I don't have to buy every book I want to read. They did a great job with the new e-reader service and I love using that also. [] [] I think that the library fills great gaps in the community for access to information.
5680	7/11/2012	I would make that very important if you do not count police, fire and schools as public services.[] All citizens regardless of anything should have access to books for reading, research and enjoyment.
5681	7/11/2012	Libraries represent an equal opportunity for everyone to learn and better themselves regardless of social or economic status. To me, there is nothing more important that society can provide.
5682	7/11/2012	Because knowledge leads to a strong democracy.
5683	7/11/2012	I'm a student, access to information through books and media, as well as public internet access, are vital to me. Also I work with children and to be able to bring them to the library for activities is important to me.
5684	7/11/2012	Access to information.
5685	7/11/2012	I use the library frequently and think it provides very important services to the community (though I don't use many of them). The Multnomah County libraries are well known throughout the country and should continue to serve as an example of a well-run, community supported and vital aspect of our community.
5686	7/11/2012	They are important for people who cannot travel easily to the Central Library.
5687	7/11/2012	I take pride in the fact that are libraries are so well-run, modern, full of current materials, and well-utilized. The library system is well-loved by Portlanders and reflects well on our city.
5688	7/11/2012	Safety and wellness services are most important. But education is also important and I consider libraries as belonging in this category along with schools.
5689	7/11/2012	Very important. It's one of the only environments I can focus fully on my school work.
5690	7/11/2012	The library allows people to experience the joy of reading and expand their knowledge of many subjects. If our local libraries are not around, many of our current and future students will suffer.
5691	7/11/2012	People need to read.
5692	7/11/2012	I depend on it for free information and entertainment -- which is very important to me since we are a single income family. It ranks behind police, fire, and EMT's, but it is still important to me.
5693	7/11/2012	Provides an avenue to a wide variety of education which can be totally self selected.
5694	7/11/2012	No replacement org exists in our society. Replacement pieces yes, but not all.
5695	7/11/2012	They are so valuable to everyone, regardless of socio-economics.
5696	7/11/2012	Love to read. Buying books are too expensive.
5697	7/11/2012	free access to information and education for EVERYONE. a place for communities to come together. a safe place for children and teens to "hang out"

5698	7/11/2012	I want a source of information, a place to sit and think, and study, and feel surrounded by the thoughts of all the people who have published them for consideration by others. And I want that for everyone.
5699	7/11/2012	It's very important culturally and educationally to the neighborhood and city. It is a place that is safe, has research materials and where you can work in peace and quiet. It's an important hub for internet access and, thereby to the whole global information system. You can stay as long as you need to, to accomplish what brought you to the library.
5700	7/11/2012	Library services foster reading, literacy and lifelong learning. Especially with the current economy it is even more important that libraries are available as a resource.
5701	7/11/2012	I lived in place with an outdated communist library in an Eastern European country so people traded more modern books and had literary cafes. It worked well for the circumstances, but now as a parent I wonder if I would have been satisfied.
5702	7/11/2012	They teach the world out there.
5703	7/11/2012	I regularly check out and read current books and appreciate these books being available to myself and others. Reading is important and changes lives.
5704	7/11/2012	The variety of things available for your mind
5705	7/11/2012	I have the resources to buy or rent books from other sources, but recognize not all citizens have those same resources.
5706	7/11/2012	We use the library frequently and more than any other public service.
5707	7/11/2012	Libraries are part of the ideal American lifestyle, providing community, and exhibiting a societal value in education
5708	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and depend on the library to have new and current materials along with a good selection of large print books and audio books.
5709	7/11/2012	It's convenient, easy to use, nice to be able to order books to check out.
5710	7/11/2012	Books are expensive. Community needs access. I think you have forgotten about books too much.
5711	7/11/2012	Libraries are free and open to all, and provide the opportunities to satisfy curiosity, spark imagination, nurture a sense of wonder, further the quest for knowledge and need for information. I loooooove my library.
5712	7/11/2012	I only use the library to avoid spending money on a book I need temporarily for a school project
5713	7/11/2012	They are a valuable way to get access to information that would otherwise be difficult to obtain.
5714	7/11/2012	Access to current literature and music and movies that would have to be purchased otherwise.
5715	7/11/2012	beneficial to all citizens
5716	7/11/2012	Sense of community and allows books and services for free that people can't otherwise receive
5717	7/11/2012	I don't use the library as often as other public services like public transportation, but I think local libraries and educational programs are important to the overall health of a community.

5718	7/11/2012	We can make progress as a community by informing ourselves. The library is especially important for under-served populations because they have fewer resources. I remember moving and not being able to set up our household because we didn't have internet access. The only place we could connect and begin to establish services and community was at the library.
5719	7/11/2012	I would survive without the library, but a large enough section of our population is more dependent on outside help and expertise than I. If more people use the libraries rather than depending on T V and advertising to educate themselves we might just get better informed voters, leading to a better government.
5720	7/11/2012	I love our libraries and use them frequently. When I go to the Albina library, it is crowded with users of all ages and ethnic groups.¶ A community that values libraries and access to information, books, programs and other materials is a strong community and one that I want to support
5721	7/11/2012	I read all the time and couldn't possibly purchase all the books. My granddaughter is a constant reader and the same applies. She has learned to read by checking books out from the library.
5722	7/11/2012	While the library is incredibly important, there are other local public services that are more essential, such as food banks and health clinics.
5723	7/11/2012	Libraries support schools, community, businesses and the individual. A well-read, literate population contributes to a strong nation.
5724	7/11/2012	I believe that medical and other public services like that are important I would put liberties right below that.
5725	7/11/2012	We need police, fire man, human service in our community. Library seems not so important.
5726	7/11/2012	Reading and community activities are very important.
5727	7/11/2012	There are some other local public services such as police officers and firefighters that need to be supported before libraries.
5728	7/11/2012	Although they are not "life-saving" like fire & police, they are critical to improving the education of the population, protecting equality in that all people have the same access to materials, and widening Portlanders' understanding of the world.
5729	7/11/2012	Safe, comfortable spaces for people of all ages and backgrounds to learn and grow--for free--Libraries have the potential to reshape lives for the better in countless ways. This is as important as the police responding to trouble; it hopefully prevents trouble from happening in the first place.
5730	7/11/2012	Police, fire, emergency medical, judicial, sewer and road maintenance are very important to me. Good schools are very important to the community. The library services would come after these. I can find sources of books elsewhere if I had to. It would be costly to me in terms of time, personal energy and convenience, but I could do it. The other services I can't find by going elsewhere.
5731	7/11/2012	Literacy and access to knowledge is important for our democracy.
5732	7/11/2012	Access to an amazing volume of literature and video and audio materials - a very life enriching resource.

5733	7/11/2012	The public library system is one of the cornerstones of democracy in our country, and is a vital resource for information and education for everyone; it should therefore be, along with public education, placed in a sacrosanct status, even in the most difficult economic climate
5734	7/11/2012	A learned society is a healthy society.
5735	7/11/2012	It gives all people access to knowledge.
5736	7/11/2012	Because we all make use of them on such a frequent basis all year long.
5737	7/11/2012	I think libraries are important but so is public safety, health and housing programs for the poor, and replacement infrastructure--roads, water, sewer
5738	7/11/2012	Literacy is critical. Having free access to books was the only way I got to read as a child.
5739	7/11/2012	I think reading is very important for all and not everyone can afford to go out and buy books for their children and themselves all the time. Being able to go to the library and check out new and older books and being able to take your children to story time with other children to teach them the importance of books and reading is priceless.
5740	7/11/2012	I enjoy the access to books that I would not otherwise be able to buy. I don't have kids yet but when I do, I want to be able to take them to the library to get them excited about books. Libraries also help maintain a sense of community. I feel more connected to my fellow Portland citizens when in a library than I do in most other parts of my Portland day-to-day life.
5741	7/11/2012	I use the library regularly. It is a short walk and a real asset to our neighborhood.
5742	7/11/2012	Our local library is a resource for those in our community who cannot afford to purchase books, magazines, computers, and media. It is of utmost importance to me that everyone have the opportunity for learning and education and a place to do homework and research without a long bus ride or commute.
5743	7/11/2012	My mom was a librarian. Libraries encourage reading and hold public knowledge available to everyone. Libraries offer anyone the whole world!
5744	7/11/2012	I don't use them that much
5745	7/11/2012	I like to check out books so that I am not wasting paper and money by buying them.
5746	7/11/2012	because libraries gives not jus a cuallity time besides, give a hole world to discover.
5747	7/11/2012	the range of services and materials offered for all age and interest groups
5748	7/11/2012	Impact everyone and quality of life, especially for those with limited resources.
5749	7/11/2012	Access to information by ALL citizens is essential to a vibrant and fully functioning democracy.
5750	7/11/2012	Police, fire and safety issues are, of course very important. The libraries shouldn't compete for those funds. But they should be high in the running for other fund competition.
5751	7/11/2012	They are a place that serve all community members regardless of social or economic background. It is the absolute only place someone can go without spending a substantial amount of money to learn and discover new skills that will benefit them for their entire life. Libraries truly are the heart of the community and are vitally important to so many regardless of class.

5752	7/11/2012	They serve more people, level the playing field and help people help themselves. They are our best example of sustainability.
5753	7/11/2012	Both research and entertainment can be conducted at no cost except for time. This is a valuable and important capability!
5754	7/11/2012	It is where I get my reading material and I want Literacy available to all~
5755	7/11/2012	I cherish the library and access to it.
5757	7/11/2012	My livelihood and life are dependent upon being well-informed/educated. Also, the local library helps improve my quality of life tremendously. The library is probably in the top three of cultural institutions in terms of its importance to me.
5758	7/11/2012	The library gives me and my family access to the great world of learning and information. It gives me the ability to raise my children with lively minds and strong imaginations.
5759	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and regular user of the library, I often refer to it as the last great free thing in the world! It would be such a tragedy for this service that promotes education and knowledge for every one to no longer be available or be curtailed to the point of ineffectiveness.
5760	7/11/2012	They are part of the core of the community and provide invaluable free resources.
5761	7/11/2012	to be able to get information and books that I cannot afford to buy
5762	7/11/2012	Education should be free and reading can provide knowledge.
5763	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power - access to knowledge for all is extremely important
5764	7/11/2012	A healthy community has healthy libraries.
5765	7/11/2012	1. universal computer access is vital to job-seekers and thus to our economy. 2. The next generation of leaders is discovering books and other materials at the library.
5766	7/11/2012	Library services are impotent to me for information research and access to readin material. My ereader - a kindle - has meant that I use library services that much more now.
5767	7/11/2012	Our democracy and various cultures are dependent on the availability and exchange of ideas.[] On-going use of libraries also reinforces public school education in adult citizens.....
5768	7/11/2012	If people can know how to use the library, then they will use it to learn, to enhance their productivity, their relaxation, their imagination, their spirit, and they will become more aware of other city institutions, their thoughts on these are likely to become more practical, maybe even inspired. I'm talking about other people. To me, books have always been important, and to be able to access some of what I read from a lending library has been a great saving. But being in this particular library system has helped me to have more civic awareness generally. That could be expanded upon...
5769	7/11/2012	good resources

5770	7/11/2012	Everyone deserves access to books, internet, other resources.
5771	7/11/2012	It is a resource for children to go and is a community staple.
5772	7/11/2012	Libraries are a very important part of my childrens' education, but libraries are less important than having good public schools for them to attend.
5773	7/11/2012	It is a main source of entertainment with books andmusic.
5774	7/11/2012	Most important is that the library is a social connection; a human connection that can't be found over the internet. A place where people of all ages can meet and understand and participate in the importance of community. They are extremely important. All kinds of people - homeless, working class (I hope), and middle class use the library services - whether for internet access, finding books and other materials, or seeking help teaching their children how to read. Maybe the extremely wealthy do not need the library system, but everyone else can benefit from it whether they are aware of it or not.[] []
5775	7/11/2012	I am 20 and I have had a library card since I was a young girl; my parents made teaching my siblings and I how to read a priority and I have been an enthusiastic reader since. I've been walking to my neighborhood library on my own since I was 11. Before then, my mom, brother and I went at least every two weeks. At 12, I realized I was queer and having the ability to find LGBT resources at the library was invaluable. I can hardly express how important it was to me. I was able to read LGBT fiction and feel less alone and more comfortable with my identity. I read nearly every book on the LGBT youth booklist I found at Belmont Library. I wasn't yet comfortable to discuss my sexuality with my family or friends. Without the library, I wouldn't have been able to read as many books whose characters I identified with. [] [] Schooling is essential, as is the fire department. Police are important too. Libraries educate and empower everyone. They have the power to improve students' reading and critical thinking skills, and keep youth off the streets where they
5776	7/11/2012	Police and Fire, safety is most important. Library services are quality of life that I value. apples to oranges comparison. I have always used libraries. My parents checked out books to read to me starting at my birth. As soon as I could read, I checked out books and kept myself busy. I was at the library every week - I was an avid reader and my parents could not afford to buy very many books (especially as many as I could read in a given week). Reading (and the love of reading) is extremely important. Libraries provide books and other media which is important but they also provide a sense of community.
5778	7/11/2012	a service that we frequently use Knowledge is incredibly important. August Willson (noted playwright) was shafted and thus educated himself. That is of utmost importance.[]
5779	7/11/2012	[] However, top importance is being able to turn the lights on to read. (And water, sewer, etc)

5780	7/11/2012	Let's admit, lives are not being saved at the local library. However, they are being enriched which should not be discounted.
5781	7/11/2012	Libraries are a true foundational institution in a democratic society. The access to information from diverse sources, especially reputable and authoritative ones, is crucial to a citizenry that can keep the powers-that-be from abusing their power. Of course, that particular function is rarely necessary so the key to having a library system that will be alive and well when it is needed depends on having citizens who have established histories of library usage for other reasons between the times when it needs to serve it's democratic function. Thus, while I do not have children and am not yet a senior I place those human services higher in my prioritization than full hours because those services are a crucial to being integral to the community.
5782	7/11/2012	Young people especially need access to educational services beyond our school system. All citizens need to stay informed and educated. The library is especially important for those with lower incomes who can't afford to buy books or pay for special classes. It provides opportunities for education in a society where education is losing the high priority it deserves.[] Portland's best civic program is its library system.[] Personally, I get exposed to books, music, periodicals, I don't get elsewhere. I also value the ability to do some scholarly medical research when the need arises.
5783	7/11/2012	A great social equalizer giving access to information and literature for everyone. Key to democracy, freedom of speech and liberty
5784	7/11/2012	Police and fire protection have the highest priority to me. Library access allows people of all socioeconomic groups to access the same material. People in lower economic groups may not have computer access at home and need a safe place to learn.
5785	7/11/2012	Reading is one of life's greatest pleasures.
5786	7/11/2012	As Francis Bacon said, "Knowledge is power." Making knowledge accessible to everyone-- not just to those who can afford it-- is one of the greatest assets our state can offer to the community. Further, libraries play an important role in helping support children's education.
5787	7/11/2012	It is a place where there is accessibility for our community! There are other more important services like fire and safety, but the Library is high on my list because it is such a hub to equalize our community.
5788	7/11/2012	I'm a big reader, and I get most of my books and books on cd from the library. I also think it creates community, bringing people together. I've lived in cities with mediocre library systems; Portland has such an excellent library system -- it would be a shame to lose such a valuable community resource.
5789	7/11/2012	Reading and education are so critical, plus many folks need the access to the internet and only get it at the library.
5790	7/11/2012	Libraries are very important, but so are other public services- parks, emergency, fire, police; etc.

5791	7/11/2012	i grew up going to my local library regularly. it provides great memories, opportunities, and an outlet for kids and adults in need of a space to learn and grow.
5792	7/11/2012	Selfishly, I use them most.
5793	7/11/2012	Since you didn't specify what other services (needle exchange, fire department, trash collection?) it was impossible to rank.
5794	7/11/2012	My children love to read, and to expose them to beautiful and inspiring art and stories is a very high value to me. I would never be able to buy all the books they enjoy. When I can find new information and ideas in the library resources, it makes my life much richer in ways that is beyond any monetary value I could assign to it.
5795	7/11/2012	Well gosh, it's not roads or public safety, but they're an essential part of a democracy because they make knowledge freely available. Probably public internet access is a big part of that.
5796	7/11/2012	Knowledge is what being human is all about and I can't think of a more encompassing repository of knowledge than a library system.
5797	7/11/2012	Access to parks and activities are important too. Also, besides Multnomah library system, there is the Washington county library system, college libraries, Internet, and stores that provide access to books and information. So without all the services provided by Multnomah county libraries, there is still other resources.
5798	7/11/2012	I personally do not use the library very often, but when I do I am incredibly thankful for the ability to use library services (such as fax, print, check out books, etc). I value the library because it allows citizens to learn things about philosophy, culture, cooking, crafts, language, health, gardening, sustainability, finance ,parenting, job hunting and all other things WITHOUT paying a fortune at a university. The library also serves as an access point to learn about community service and involvement opportunities, engage with other people within the community and to promote a sense of community within diverse neighborhoods. Its a positive, safe place for people who want to better themselves, learn a new trade or skill or just explore hobbies of interest. I love libraries!
5799	7/11/2012	i cannot afford to purchase the amount of media my family and i consume.
5800	7/11/2012	I feel reading is such a high priority for people. It opens doors for so many other things. Also for those on limited income being able to use the library computers is so helpful or even just come in to read the paper. Teaching a child to read and have a love for books to me is very important. If children are exposed to libraries early on they learn to use the library and have a love for the library so when they are adults they will want to help support the libraries, this way we will continue to have some of the best libraries in the nation.
5801	7/11/2012	I'm trying to cut down on the # of books I buy (due to space and finances
5802	7/11/2012	I'm a librarian. I passionately believe in and advocate for the absolute necessity of public libraries in communities. It is imperative that society maintain an institution that promotes reading and knowledge, exposure to diverse ideas and personal lifelong learning - an institution that is freely accessible to anyone who desires to take advantage of it.

5803	7/11/2012	I love reading books.
5804	7/11/2012	Libraries grant access to information and learning to everyone.
5805	7/11/2012	Education is the key to solving community/global issues. Public libraries are extremely important. I have used the library to find many life-changing ideas.
5806	7/11/2012	I wish I had room to post the letter my best friend sent to the Jackson County Library about she and her six children, poor, the children's reading times in the library turning the otherwise streetbound kids into readers. I'll always want to hold a book in my hand. I can buy my own today, but that was not the case for most of my life.
5807	7/11/2012	Libraries intersect various people's needs at various levels. People rely on libraries for knowledge, entertainment, education, self betterment, and as a means of changing their circumstances.
5808	7/11/2012	Libraries hold within all that we have been and are a source of ideas, creative thinking, current events, and explanations for what we don't but may need to understand. Reference desk is valuable -- a human contact offering information one may not ferret out alone. And the rare book room (Wilson Room) is a treasure but too underused.
5809	7/11/2012	I'm not sure what you mean. The library is very important to me, but less than the police, fire department, water bureau criminal justice system.
5810	7/11/2012	So we can teach our children how to read out of a "real" book.
5811	7/11/2012	As a kid, I used to hang out in the library in the summers, my parents took me to story hour etc. It's something that stuck with me and that all kids should have access to.
5812	7/11/2012	teachers, parents, school kids, and others use the library resources; books and the computers to complete important work, homework, etc
5813	7/11/2012	Knowledge and community are important
5814	7/11/2012	I am not sure which public services you are referring to? Police? Fire? I think it is extremely important to the health and vitality of our citizens but if it is a matter of library or safety...
5815	7/11/2012	Education is very important to me and to communities in general. I have always felt that libraries allow people to take control of their own education, both while they are enrolled in school and afterwards.
5816	7/11/2012	Books and education most important thing

		Professionally, I'm a working teacher and writer, and I'm not currently faculty at a university with a major library. I rely on Portland's wonderful public library system for so much, including keeping me up-to-date professionally. The library helps me stay employed and give my students the best possible education.[]
5817	7/11/2012	[] Personally, the library is a lifeline. I live alone, and like so many of us I've had many losses in the past few years. The public library is my social service resource, and my community center. It serves so many of us who both need help and are responsible for helping others--in an atmosphere of community, dignity, and respect. Nothing else even comes close.
5818	7/11/2012	because they are utilized so frequently
5819	7/11/2012	I use the local library more than most other county services
5820	7/11/2012	Libraries (should) help to maintain a certain level of awareness of local and global events, civic commitment, and general curiosity. These should help build a more intelligent community (ideally lower in crime, too!).
5821	7/11/2012	Books and other educational should be available to all the citizens who seek for info at no additional costs.
5822	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly, both for my personal use, and also to check out materials I need use as a teacher.
5823	7/11/2012	Police, fire, public transit, and utilities are all in support of primary and secondary needs. A public library can't put out the fires, arrest the drunks, fill my bathtub, or maintain the roads and sewers.
5824	7/11/2012	It is difficult to place more value on one public service compared to another. The library is important to foster knowledge to all instead a a select few. It helps get kids reading, and provides things as simple as a computer for those who do not have the luxury of a personal computer.
5825	7/11/2012	Having resources such as water and power are most important. Having access to free information via books, journals, newspapers, computers and ebooks is next in my book.
5826	7/11/2012	Libraries provide free information to all. They provide a physical community space that we cannot afford to lose. THEY'RE IMPORTANT TO ME BECAUSE I FIND THEM A PLACE TO LEARN, TO RELAX, TO RECREATE--ALL FOR FREE SINCE I PAY FOR THEM IN MY TAXES.[]
5827	7/11/2012	[] ANYONE CAN GET A LIBRARY CARD AND, NO MATTER HOW POOR THEY ARE, CAN HAVE ACCESS TO WISDOM, EDUCATION AND KNOWLEDGE AS IF THEY WERE THE RICHEST PEOPLE IN THE WORLD.WHAT A BLESSING!
5828	7/11/2012	Local library services are somewhat important to me because my utilities and telephone are most important.

5830	7/11/2012	Books and media are a central part of my life. I am a naturally curious person, and library materials provide an important source of information and entertainment (along with the Internet). I am 56 years old, and books are still my preferred method of reading. Also, I like to see a book first before ordering it online; I peruse Amazon for interesting titles and then check Multcolib.org to see if they are available. I love libraries; therefore, I always vote for library funding (I am a Multnomah County homeowner).
5831	7/11/2012	Safety issues
5832	7/11/2012	Equal access to all for information, education and community involvement is the heart of a democracy.
5833	7/11/2012	To provide access to reading materials for those who can least afford them. As a community-building focal point for neighborhoods.
5834	7/11/2012	It seems critically important to our community that access to knowledge, literature, information, and all the resources libraries provide are available to everyone. Not everyone can afford to purchase books or their own computer and internet access, that doesn't mean they don't deserve access to those resources.
5835	7/11/2012	It's a shared resource, not something we have to buy new and has an environmental impact. It's a gathering place and a safe and happy place to bring kids. Children's programming and a large selection of children's books provides a place for parents to take kids and for families who can't afford it to access lots of literature. I can't even imagine what would change without a library.
5836	7/11/2012	The Internet is not a substitute for the wealth of information at our libraries.. When all books, newspapers and periodicals (going back in time) are freely available on the internet, they will be less important. Otherwise we'd be buying books from Powell's, amazon, or on Ebay. $$$$. Librarians' services are invaluable. Thank you. libraries are a free source of information. information leads to knowledge. knowledge is power.[] []
5837	7/11/2012	whenever i move to a new apartment (or when something goes wrong) and i lack internet for a few weeks, it's nice to have a library that is open, so i can stay connected.[] [] when i want to preview a book before buying it, it's nice to have a library around where i can check out a book for free. it's occasionally even nice to view movie without buying or renting it.

5838	7/11/2012	I go to the library for various reason and most importantly it is for my education and also to get access to books for free. My family also rely on the public library for access to books because we don't such electronic devices like ebooks. It is also a great place to meet up with your friend and see what's going on. The library is a place that allows many doors to be open to you.
5839	7/11/2012	Inexpensive access to books and DVD's.
5840	7/11/2012	Education for all.
5841	7/11/2012	read read read...young people reading
5842	7/11/2012	I use it a lot and don't use some of the other services.
5843	7/11/2012	Good accessible resource to all.
5844	7/11/2012	They rank below water/sewer but above other things that are too unimportant for me to remember right now.
5845	7/11/2012	I love anything that allows me to expand my mind. Reading, music. art.
5846	7/11/2012	I want the next generations to be able to keep on schooling so that they don't have to rely on others. At least it will give them a chance to succeed.
5847	7/11/2012	I go to library almost daily to find out information. When my computer was down I used their computers until it was fixed. i do research there. I check out books both electronically and otherwise. I use the children's book for volunteer work, reading to children. Without a good library I would probably leave Portland !!!!!
5848	7/11/2012	I would place police and public safety services first, but literacy including public schools and libraries come a close second.
5849	7/11/2012	A resource for those without personal wealth to enrich lives and provide needed assistance.
5850	7/11/2012	Education in what ever form it takes. We all need that.
5851	7/11/2012	They offer children a place to learn and contonue to grow. Especially in the summer.
5852	7/11/2012	The library makes an education available to ALL, regardless of their financial or living status. It gives everyone access to books and all sorts of other media; use of computers; support for learning to read, etc, etc. It is an incredible community commons and resource that we deeply appreciate! Though we often vote against new tax increases, we always vote to support the library system here. It's that important to us. We probably have between 4 and 15 books checked out on a constant basis between us, sometimes even more. WE LOVE OUR LIBRARIES!!!!
5853	7/11/2012	Availability of the library gives me a way to access job search resources.
5854	7/11/2012	I would say very important except that I know there are so many public services that we all rely on. Without an exact example I could not in good faith make it any more important.

5855	7/11/2012	Because we have a young son and access to all manner of educational material is critical for his development. We must have access to research materials for his school work, as well as access to literature and non-fiction. Without the local branch, we would have difficulty carrying out what is required for his educational development. We have made visiting the library a common occurrence in our household, ever since he was a baby, first attending story time, and checking out board books. My background is education, and see the library as a cornerstone for intellectual development. Without it, we would not have access to the vast amount of knowledge that exists. It's simply not accessible any other way.....My husband and I use the library for all manner of information, books, music, movies, interlibrary loans, periodicals. We ADORE our local library in St. Johns!!!
5856	7/11/2012	I use the library for most, if not all, of my literary, musical, and theatrical needs. I would personally be severely deprived if the library curtailed its services. I also have incredibly fond and profound memories of the library as a child, both in terms of what we checked out, read, movies we saw, performances (puppet shows, etc.) we attended, responsibility learned. We had a table at our house where we kept our library books, so we learned to keep track of things and when they were due. And I've not often felt the competence of being able to tell a 7th grade social studies teacher, "I've seen this movie before. We saw it at the library when I was 8." I think the next generation needs and deserves those same opportunities. And that's not even touching the services provided to the elderly. I know my mom utilized the large print books for her father when his eyesight was failing, and now she checks out materials for her 80-something husband. And she belongs to 2 book clubs, and she gets all of the books for them from the library. I know it helps her feel connected, feel like she's still learning, growing, being part of an on-going culture. She could probably afford to buy some of these books, but I don't think she would, because she's concerned about being on a fixed income. Same as I'm concerned about not having enough money to feed the learning jones and pay my bills (and, I admit, I have a knitting habit - but it helps a lot to be able to check out technique and pattern books from the library, so that I can afford yarn). And I haven't even yet touched on my sister's use of the library to learn about her boyfriend's diabetes and how diet can
5857	7/11/2012	This is a place where everyone, no matter what age or level of income, can utilize various kinds of resources for free.
5858	7/11/2012	Books are the key to the future for everyone.
5859	7/11/2012	I see them as essential, second only to fire and police. My children have become readers due to frequent library trips. Our local library is part of many week nights and weekends for our family.
5860	7/11/2012	They offer so many opportunities to the entire community: a safe place for children to be after school, a vital literacy resource, free access to technology, etc. They are a pillar of democratic society.
5861	7/11/2012	Extremely important to my quality of life in Portland. I use this resource each and every day that it is open.
5862	7/11/2012	Without books and the love of reading and learning, our society will cease to exist as we know it. The dumbing of America is becoming more and more the norm.
5863	7/11/2012	Free books and computer access promotes knowledge to the masses.

5864	7/11/2012	Safety, education, transportation, power...are all essentials, therefore critical priorities.[] Libraries are another way to make information and knowledge available to all people regardless of status or class. I good library is the sign of a healthy community, but it's not food on the table, or law and order. It is a secondary priority.
5865	7/11/2012	Public Library services are an important part of citizen's information gathering and synthesis, helping us to make good decisions on the topics of public interest and discussion. I'd rank them below police, fire & roads.[] Food bank is more important & homeless shelters.[]
5866	7/11/2012	Those are needs. Next I'd say a transit system.[] The library is very important to me. I always have a book checked out for myself and child. Usually about 10. I'd pay to check out books if need be.[] I don't think we need Free t-shirts for the summer reading program. How about $5 t-shirts? Maybe that'd help fund the program.
5867	7/11/2012	I frequent at libraries very often, to check out books that I can use to teach, teach classes and attend classes. I believe all citizens can benefit from libraries.
5868	7/11/2012	My primary use is to take my kids in to get books to keep them excited about reading. I also pick a book up for myself once in a while. Books are cheap and I am lucky to have the money to buy them. My support of libraries is primarily for the less fortunate.
5869	7/11/2012	The city and Hollywood district has a set of problems affecting quality and safety of the citizens. Poverty, crime and drugs, that spiral that drags down and destroys cities is present in all districts of Portland. I don't want to discount the value of library but...
5870	7/11/2012	The library is an important resource and makes books and other materials available to people that might not otherwise be available.
5871	7/11/2012	It is an important educational tool
5872	7/11/2012	I do everything electronically
5873	7/11/2012	The internet is a valuable resource, but having a book with specific content is still better sometimes than anything the internet can provide. The library is also a great way to try a book before purchasing it. The library is the main place for education, aside from public schools, that serves the community members equally regardless of income or ethnicity.[]
5874	7/11/2012	The library has enriched my children's early childhood learning, in arts, language ,math, history etc. They became good readers because of the summer reading program.[] Librarians are so knowledgeable, I've never asked a question they couldn't help me with.
5875	7/11/2012	I am an old fashioned book reader.

5876	7/11/2012	a free and well functioning nation/world must have free and functioning citizens who are informed and have access to all kinds of information - whether they use libraries fully or slightly, libraries are essential to any kind of democratic, thinking citizenry. to deny this is to open the door to all kinds of repression - of ideas, of communication, of learnings, of growing, of becoming more ...
5877	7/11/2012	I think our neighborhood library is an important component of our community. It is an anchor, a part of what makes our neighborhood a distinct place. There is no resource like it that I can reach easily by bike or foot. My dog loves going to the library, because he knows a dogpark visit is a part of the loop home. I take also pride in our outstanding county library - how smart and effective the systems are, how easily I can manage my account and access media and books I want to read, and the range of services they provide. I have accessed interlibrary loan services to find academic books obscure beautiful books about places I want to travel, and difficult-to-find books for work purposes. I think it's important to keep the institution financially strong, because ultimately it will take many more funds to rebuild what we let go today. It is also an institution that is important to less advantaged folks, and we especially need to preserve their services in tougher economic times.
5878	7/11/2012	The library is one of the only public services that EVERYONE and anyone has access to all the time. It helps keep our community educated, entertained, engaged, and stoked on reading, learning, and experiencing art and life. It provides jobs for people who also care about these things.
5879	7/11/2012	We rely on the library a lot for reading materials in multiple languages.
5880	7/11/2012	Frequency of use; breadth of offerings; resources that help the public when private programs are cut....
5881	7/11/2012	Physicaaly we need police, firemen, water services, etc. Mentally we need the stimulation of the written word and the other media offered by MCL.
5882	7/11/2012	In relation to the Portland police, fire department, Portland Public Schools, portland parks and recreation, community services, planned parenthood, and welfare, I rank the library service very highly. I am a democrat and I support all of these services for American citizens who pay taxes to be able to use.
5883	7/11/2012	i use them all of the time. they provide resources for those who can't afford them and they greatly reduce waste and consumption. I love the library!!
5884	7/11/2012	Other local services like police, fire and bus transportation more important.
5885	7/11/2012	Because the young and the old are dependent on the wisdom and sage wonder of the media that Library's hold for them.

5886	7/11/2012	American youth are not achieving their academic goals. Access to libraries is critical for all of our children especially the young. It teaches them what fun books are and shows them how easy it is to go to The Library and spend a day exploring the adventures of a multitude of authors. It sparks their imagination and creativity and encourages them to learn. Parents and their children should have special times during the day and early evening to enjoy the Library together. Make this a community time.
5887	7/11/2012	that's a hard one! I would probably rate water, sewer, fire, police, traffic control like street lights first. Still, to me library services are very important, and also that the entire community has access to these resources and the access to knowledge and information. I enjoy reading so much and I want everyone to have that opportunity.
5888	7/11/2012	I love new ideas and my library seems to share this value.
5889	7/11/2012	Because they provide so many important services in our community
5890	7/11/2012	because I believe every citizen should have access to literature
5891	7/11/2012	I use it frequently. It is a necessary resource for a well informed public.
5892	7/11/2012	We use the library all the time.
5893	7/11/2012	It's where people are always welcome and it sort of has a homey atmosphere.
5894	7/11/2012	Not familiar with other services but this one is important for multitudes of information and education.
5895	7/11/2012	Because reading is education and because libraries make resources and skill-building programs available to the community. A community is strongest when members from various socio-economic and personal backgrounds can interact together and know one another, and libraries are a perfect place for this to manifest naturally.
5896	7/11/2012	Books (especially audiobooks) are very expensive. For people like me who read a book per week, this adds up really quickly. Plus, for teachers, like myself, the library provides an affordable option to supplement our classroom libraries. Many school libraries are very small and limited, and teachers pay for classroom libraries out of their own pockets. I have a couple hundred books that I have purchased in my classroom library, but for a class full of 30 kids who are constantly reading, you need to be able to rotate in some other books consistently or to supplement units of study. I consistently use the library for this.
5897	7/11/2012	Because it seems we use the library for all our movies and books these days.
5898	7/11/2012	Knowledge and access to knowledge are keys to success for our community
5899	7/11/2012	It is one of the best resources within the community for young and old alike.
5900	7/11/2012	I use them constantly and more than any other public service. (Police and fire/rescue are more important generally but thankfully I haven't had to use them.)
5901	7/11/2012	I love the library, and we use it a lot, but I'd rather have it closed one day a week than pay over $400 a year for extra hours (1.22 per thousand is a LOT, considering the value of most houses in our neighborhood), and we need to support schools first.

5902	7/11/2012	The services provided by the library elevate the individuals who use those services and the community as a whole. There is no more valuable asset than reading and education.
5903	7/11/2012	cannot imagine a town without library. Libraries are the soul of the community, especially our children.
5904	7/11/2012	WE NEED ALL THE LIBRARY OFFERS. THE LIBRARY IS THE ONE PLACE THAT MANY PEOPLE ARE EXPOSED TO NEW IDEAS THAT STREACH THEIR MINDS. I LOVE THE FACT THAT THE PEOPLE OF PORTLAND BELIEVE THAT FUNDING THE LIBRARY IS WORTH PAYING A LITTLE MORE IN TAXES. THE MULTNOAH COUNTY LIBRARY MAKES PORTLAND A VERY SPECIAL PLACE TO LIVE. I USED TO LIVE IN SALEM AND AND WORKED TWO DAYS A WEEK IN PORTLAND, I PAID 70.00 SO THAT I COULD USE THE LIBRARY SERVICES,
5905	7/11/2012	They provide access to information that would otherwise require additional expenditure. Also provide a way of finding something new when browsing the stacks or reading magazines I'd never buy.
5906	7/11/2012	I read a lot
5907	7/11/2012	EVERYTHING depends on reading. It is a vital life skill. Too many people are functionally illiterate and thus incapable of controlling their own lives. And for me, reading is like breathing. I HAVE TO READ! Or life's not worth living.
5908	7/11/2012	We can visit the library on the days it is open. 5, 6 or 7 days. We would adjust.
5909	7/11/2012	Level 5 with 5 is the most important
5910	7/11/2012	I use it more than other local public services
5911	7/11/2012	They offer so many things if people seek it out. There are things for people of all ages and it is free of charge. I know when I needed computers and a place to study, it was my first choice. It is a very community welcoming/building service that cannot compare to other things.
5912	7/11/2012	Police and fire are higher.
5913	7/11/2012	Libraries are a place where anyone in the community can go. It is understood that the library provides these services for the community for free or a low cost. If these services get cut a lot of people and families are affected by it.
5914	7/11/2012	Community based access to information is vital to a healthy neighborhood and city
5915	7/11/2012	Libraries are the central hub for education. recreation and community. They provide some of the most important community services that enhance our quality of life.
5916	7/11/2012	Competition/comparisons and balance, expert advice with educating/honng skills giving explanations while offering 'know-how' experience and practical plans with local resources.
5917	7/11/2012	Access to information is central to a well functioning democracy
5918	7/11/2012	We're educated, community-oriented people who consider libraries an essential part of a vibrant community.
5919	7/11/2012	maintained highways, police protection, schools rank higher than libraries

5920	7/11/2012	Reading is absolutely essential to my enjoyment of life and having access to a local source of books is of major importance.
5921	7/11/2012	We could not otherwise afford to buy or rent the fantastic childrens books/media resources provided. Educational materials for all ages are unparalleled in the MCLS. Plus, its a free place to spend time with your kids outside of the home.
5922	7/11/2012	Public libraries are a resource that can not only be used by everyone, but they may be the only place where some citizens can go to use a computer, read a new book (if they're income limited), take their children to valuable learning opportunities, provide the elderly w/ options for obtaining media materials, etc. Frankly, libraries are something a community should not have to do without.
5923	7/11/2012	I don't have the money to buy every book I'd like to read, nor do I have the money to buy the reference books I need for work. The library allows me to continue to learn and read, while providing a great space for building a sense of community. Providing equal access to computers and books means that everyone can access the information they need, regardless of their economic status. The library also provides great groups that meet to support the needs of people in the community.
5924	7/11/2012	For me, safety is always of greater importance (Fire, police depts.) and also Food and housing security. Those are the only things of greater importance than access to education and literacy.
5925	7/11/2012	Education and free public access to learning material of all types is very important to a healthy society.
5926	7/11/2012	Democracy is based on literacy and education. Libraries give a base to this.
5927	7/11/2012	I and many other citizens rely on the resources there.
5928	7/11/2012	I can't afford to purchase all the books I read so having a source where I can borrow them is huge!
5929	7/11/2012	Because so much comes from the library. We have one of the best library systems in the world and it's vital to our community, our culture, our families, that we maintain it!
5930	7/11/2012	It's information. Information is a powerful tool for many people who may not be able to afford and access it any other way.
5931	7/11/2012	I could not afford to buy books myself but the library makes it possible to keep up with my interests and to still learn at 52
5932	7/11/2012	Access to books and research databases are important to my family.
5933	7/11/2012	Being able to get books on travel, books on CDs, having a place to browse and see what's new, what's recommended...it's part of neighborhood life. It is part of the culture. It is a comfort, a friendly place, an essential place for community. It's a place where people who don't have the money can still access information, entertainment, education, a place to bring your kids and introduce them to reading in a supportive atmosphere.
5934	7/11/2012	Education, information and resources that are accessible and available for free to everyone helps to increase the opportunities for all citizens and make our community stronger.

5935	7/11/2012	Reading, educational support and social service functions are the foundation for our community. Low literacy is at the heart of many challenges from unemployment to health care and the library plays an important role in addressing literacy.
5936	7/11/2012	Knowledge is important and can never be taken away
5937	7/11/2012	Libraries represent and unite communities. They expose us all to new ideas and places. When we travel (which is a lot), we always visit the local library to get a feel for a new place.
5938	7/11/2012	I love to read and I love to learn. The library makes it easy for me and others to keep doing these things on a regular basis. Our neighborhood library is a community center that is useful to people of all ages and economic backgrounds. It's free and it's for everyone!
5939	7/11/2012	It help
5940	7/11/2012	Education and availability of resources to all.
5941	7/11/2012	Because they give all citizens access to resources that I believe are important.
5942	7/11/2012	They are a great FREE resource to so many who can't afford the books, a computer, access to the Internet, music and other media too.
5943	7/11/2012	Books and other library materials are a source of pleasure, research into any subjects, and are essential for an educated people.
5944	7/11/2012	Health and safety of the community come before "free" books.
5945	7/11/2012	Needs are easily met by other services online or the private market. Would prioritize public funding in other areas related to health and welfare.
5946	7/11/2012	I have used the library my whole life. I read for enjoyment, enrichment, and knowledge. I would never be able to afford to purchase the books I read, plus, I would never know about new releases or new (to me) authors if I didn't have books at the library to peruse. [] [] I also see the importance of the library for inspiring the young to read, a haven for those needing to use the computers, a place where people can learn new skills, and simply a place for the community to connect.
5947	7/11/2012	They are open, community based, egalitarian, provide early exposure for children to the joy of reading and knowledge exploration (nothing else comes close), a more reflective resource for research than internet searching, frequently a default community center
5948	7/11/2012	I have been a library user all my life and it has been my primary source of books and research materials all my life. When growing up we didn't have much money and I owned very few books or records, but I had the wealth of the library's collection to choose from. It was where I studied after school, the librarian in the teen section knew me. I see how the library fulfills this need for others around me when I visit the library.
5949	7/11/2012	Social networking sites, hub of healthy communities
5950	7/11/2012	I feel libraries contribute a great deal to having an informed public.

5951	7/11/2012	Gotta say that public safety (Police/Fire/Emergency responders) are first Roads next Library next They provide access to books and media to all, leveling the playing field for those who don't have the means to purchase books and computers for home. They help instill a love of books and reading in children, which will serve them well for life. They are a resource for the community-English language learners, seniors, and school aged children who need access to computers and research materials that they're unable to access at schools because of BUDGET CUTS.
5952	7/11/2012
5953	7/11/2012	I get current materials there to borrow that I couldn't afford to buy
5954	7/11/2012	Libraries promote community, reduce individual spending (on new books), make efficient use of resources, promote reading and learning. Libraries connect people to information.
5955	7/11/2012	I LOVE the library. It is for everyone, rich and poor, young and old. You get all of this stuff for FREE. There is no better place in a city or town than their library.
5956	7/11/2012	I think social services that work to meet basic human needs are most important. Feed the body and then the mind.
5957	7/11/2012	Libraries cannot trump police and fire support; just ask Aristotle or the last librarians at Alexandria. I guess that I would rate them as "Very Important" if police and fire were rated "Fundamental" or some such.
5958	7/11/2012	I go to the library almost every day. It is the most important resource available to me to continue my education and pursuit of personal interests.
5959	7/11/2012	Literacy is important for a strong community and future
5960	7/11/2012	Compared to water service and garbage collection, it is hard to say they are on the same level of necessity, but the library provides an important resource for low-income children to have access to a wide range of materials that can facilitate a lifetime habit of inquiry and lead to a more productive citizenry.
5961	7/11/2012	The library provides my only means of recreation. I love to read books and don't often search on the internet for information. My granddaughters love to visit the library and check out books and I think this helps them enjoy reading. I know lots of local people who depend on the library for all sorts of things: reading, internet, socializing, and classes. The libraries themselves are just wonderful architectural, peaceful, safe and lovely places to be.
5962	7/11/2012
5963	7/11/2012	We use it for classes, Dvds, and books to homeschool our son. I love my local libraries, and I always have. Sure, we need police and fire departments but a library is a warm, welcoming place that serves as the heart of a community. Anyone can go to a library and find a book to read, or the information they need to pursue a personal interest, their studies, or to help them find a job. Public libraries serve as an adjunct to public education. One could say that libraries are one of the foundations of a healthy democracy which requires a well-educated populace. Regardless of income, everyone has access to the millions of books and other media.
5964	7/11/2012

5965	7/11/2012	I'm an avid reader with wide interests and the library system makes it possible to have affordable access to an excellent collection of materials. Our libraries provide tools for creating a better informed and educated community. The library system is one of Portland's finest gems. Many communities of similar size don't have libraries that are as responsive to community needs or wants and as a result, the quality of life is poorer.
5966	7/11/2012	It is a venue that helps satisfy many aspects of life...self-guided learning, social interaction, resource sharing, access to technology, free of charge, a community gathering place.[] Libraries are so important to me.
5967	7/11/2012	I value the opportunity to access a wide variety of materials through inter-library loan. Libraries have been a central part of my life growing up--going to the library was a reward or a treat at our home. In school, it was a huge asset to have Internet access and the option to utilize a multitude of resources such as periodicals, textbooks, or just plain fun reads. continue to use the library as an adult.
5968	7/11/2012	The K - 12 school system will always be No. 1 priority. [] [] I love our libraries, but I don't think having 7 days/week service is a necessity. I also don't think every neighborhood needs it's own library. With such a convenient public transportation system, people can take a bus. [] [] Unfortunately, there is just not enough tax dollars to fund every service at 100%. I believe the library system needs to shrink in the # of branches and/or days of service, to maintain the school system.
5969	7/11/2012	Access to reading is something wvery person should have.
5970	7/11/2012	It provides an opportunity for my children to try out so many different types of books. The love of reading will carry throughout their lives and make them better citizens and contributors to society.
5971	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge is an equalizer among all citizens.
5972	7/11/2012	Libraries are about communities sharing resources.
5973	7/11/2012	Libraries are the most important to communities as they provide so much service and give kids a safe place to go to learn and read as well as having computers accessible for those who need to find a job. Also they provide homework help and kids programs.
5974	7/11/2012	I think that there is something for everyone there.
5975	7/11/2012	I have young kids who love going to the library. They get excited just driving by it every day and even more excited when they can actually go inside and pick a new book to read. It is better than watching TV for them which makes it a valuable place for our family
5976	7/11/2012	They enrich our community greatly; help create a better educated and more knowledgeable community, give access to tremendous resources to people of all ages, backgrounds, and incomes, thus helping to level the playing field for all and help us become a more fair and humane community

5977	7/11/2012	The library is probably one of the most important public services to us.
5978	7/11/2012	I buy more books than I rent.
5979	7/11/2012	important to community intelligence
5980	7/11/2012	Because it's an academic resource and promotes reading in a country desperately needing literacy
5981	7/11/2012	I love having the option to "rent" books, movies, music, and children's resources but I recognize that many people wish to own these individually or digitally. Personally, the library is the single most useful public service in my everyday life.
5982	7/11/2012	Because an informed citizenry is essential to a democracy. Literacy of the entire population is a worthwhile goal for any community.
5983	7/11/2012	Having something that is mostly free and easily accessible is a great boon to our local community.
5984	7/11/2012	The library doesn't missuse the money they get. I can't say that for other services. We can't continue to fund services that are broken. The library system is not one of them.
5985	7/11/2012	If I had not had access to a library as a child and young adult, I'm quite sure I would have been in a lot more trouble in my early 20's and 30's. Having access to books, computers, and information about the world beyond my troubled childhood made a huge difference in my outlook.¶ I continue to discover wonderful things to read, watch and listen to every time I go to the library. It's the first place I go when I'm on vacation, and I'm always sad if they don't have a temporary card for visitors. The library is where I go to learn about new places I visit, and where I go to feel at home, at home!
5986	7/11/2012	I have small kids, and it is of paramount importance that my kids learn to be resourceful. They are early & pre-readers. I find that exposure to libraries connect children to books and resource materials. My hope is to instill life-long skills in my children who will always love and support their local libraries. At every state in life: early readers, high school, college students, job seekers, senior programs, are valuable to my community. Libraries super important to me.
5987	7/11/2012	They serve the community as a whole no matter who you are, your income level or abilities.
5988	7/11/2012	I really enjoy having access to a library that has good materials that I want to read and checkout on the shelves and tha I can get high demand items in a reasonable amount of time. I also like how easy it is to peruse the catalog via the internet and place a hold on materials I am interested in from home.

		The libraries offer services to all age ranges---young to very old. It is not only a place to read for fun or research but it is also a 'place' for people to go and be with other people. For people who are alone it may be their only outreach. ☐ ☐ These books offer a wonderful way to live vicariously---from travel to being the detective. 'How to...' books help us cook, clean, do sewing projects, build, write, garden.....☐ ☐
5989	7/11/2012	For some of us the Books on Tape entertain us, relax us, help us focus, help us drive home in traffic.....and give us an alternative to watching TV---testing our memories. ☐ ☐ The Central library is great for high school students, college students, students learning English, and generally people furthering their education. It is a great resource and the librarians are great resources. ☐ ☐ Most of all---the library gives me access to so many books that I cannot afford to buy. And I can recommend books to others friends who cannot afford to buy either.
5990	7/11/2012	Access to information is indispensable in a democracy; it enables us to deliver on our promise to make informed decisions about governance. This kind of access is easily eroded; we can't let that happen.
5991	7/11/2012	We get alot of use from our library.
5992	7/11/2012	Borrowing books is one of the most amazing gifts of an intelligent world. It's good for the planet, too.
5993	7/11/2012	Because it is the "public" service I use.
5994	7/11/2012	Number one
5995	7/11/2012	Important that community has access to print materials; importance of literacy in today's society
5996	7/11/2012	I want access to Reading material for my family. I do not like e readers. I like the feel of books. I want my children to experience real books.
5997	7/11/2012	Because libraries are a great leveler that provides opportunity rather than a handout, and because they are a source of community knowledge linked with in person connection.
5998	7/11/2012	It's very important, but without a comparison, I can't give a definitive response to this question. Many services are more important, such as food, healthcare, and education.
5999	7/11/2012	The library is the most used local public service for me. It is a great resource for learning, and other public services cannot attain the same degree of educational service.
6000	7/11/2012	Very important...as a researcher, history buff, the library (especially in Portland) has been very instrumental in furthering my research, knowledge base, etc. Also love reading books, checking out music CDs and movie DVDs
6001	7/11/2012	our family has always used it more than other services

6002	7/11/2012	1) The importance of libraries as resource for education and educators.[] 2) The benefit of having free or low-cost books, movies, other media and computer access. I certainly enjoy free access to books and movies, and read and browse through many things I probably wouldn't otherwise. I'm also glad that these resources are available to people who wouldn't be able to afford them on their own.[] 3) I'm a lifetime reader and I love libraries, librarians and those that support them!
6003	7/11/2012	When I was a kid, I grew up in the library, being curious and giving me inspiration all the way to now days.
6004	7/11/2012	It provides a big portion of my entertainment and resources during times I couldn't afford it.
6005	7/11/2012	I think the quality of life in a community or city is greatly affected by the cultural and educational development of the citizens. Schools need the additional resource of a well maintained public library to support education and allow students and parents to strive for higher achievement.
6006	7/11/2012	I have little money and lots of interests. The library allows me to pursue my constantly changing interests by providing books, DVDs, and cool library events. I love that library events and materials are available to everyone.
6007	7/11/2012	We use the library ALL the time! It is our only source for getting books.
6008	7/11/2012	education and literacy are the basis of our type of government. without free,easy access to written materials and media, we weaken our social and political system
6009	7/11/2012	books
6010	7/11/2012	My library is the local public service I use the most and have used the most throughout my life, from the time my grandmother would take me to Belmont to pick out new picture books to read, to my unemployment days when visiting Central was the highlight of my day because it meant a moment to forget my daily stress to now – the library has always been a refuge and a place of wonder.
6011	7/11/2012	Libraries provide opportunities for all, regardless of income, education, or ability. They provide support services that would not be available as readily via other avenues for unemployed, English language learners, parents, and any student of any age.
6012	7/11/2012	The library has always been an important place for me, since childhood. I checked out the books who made me who I am today from the library. Now as a scraping by twenty something, I get most of my books/music/movies from the library. One of the 5 things I couldn't live without is my library card!
6013	7/11/2012	I would have rather said IMPORTANT, not very important. My children and grandchildren have learned so much from and at the library. They devoured the books and did research for their homework.
6014	7/11/2012	resources not unique to the library
6015	7/11/2012	It's something we can use every week to help our children succeed even when money is tight and we can't afford to purchase new books.

6016	7/11/2012	Libraries enrich our community by providing programs and access to information to the public which in turn makes us a more educated population. As an educated population we make better choices, we are able to earn more money, identify and gain access to the things we need, engage in meaningful debate, find creative solutions to the problems we face and broaden our horizons. As such, libraries are a cornerstone of our community.
6017	7/11/2012	They come right after police and fire protection. I use the library more than virtually any other service.
6018	7/11/2012	I believe that poor education is a threat to the fabric of our society.
6019	7/11/2012	Although I don't really use them enough that I should be checking "very important", I really get a sense of satisfaction from using the library. I just go on line, find what I want, reserve it and, soon I get an e-mail that what I reserved is at my local library. It works! Unlike so much else in "the city that (sometimes) works." And I never hear about library funding needing to be raised because some politician decided to spend library funds on their pet project.
6020	7/11/2012	As a Senior, I use the library continually for books and research.
6021	7/11/2012	Recently became unemployed and can not afford to buy books any more. The library is not only a source for pleasure reading but a help in searching for jobs. Also enjoy taking my grandchildren to the story times for small children. Terrific service!
6022	7/11/2012	They are the ones my family uses constantly. As a single-income family, we value the educational and entertainment materials available that we would otherwise have to do without.
6023	7/11/2012	See my comment #6.
6024	7/11/2012	We must keep our libraries open for all! Books are the most important part of our history and the future of our children!
6025	7/11/2012	I value the importance of library services the same level I value my family. I love my family very much...who doesn't??
6026	7/11/2012	Because I use it regularly, it provides me access to books and media without needing to pay up front. And I see the value of that to society as a whole.
6027	7/11/2012	Only reason I don't say very important is that they do not provide basic life sustaining services like fire, police, etc.
6028	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to good books. Reading is the key to success and happiness.
6029	7/11/2012	very high but safety is higher (police, fire, etc)
6030	7/11/2012	They are a leg up in a world that has few legs up anymore. the computer access for job seekers and others is critical and having books available to children whose parents can't simply buy them everything they want to read is equally important. Like schools, libraries are a bellweather of a community and its commitment to education, a well-informed citizenry and public service.
6031	7/11/2012	not as important as some vital services like police, fire; but the next most important thing because they are such a significant resource for so many people for a variety of reasons; they provide opportunities for betterment

6032	7/11/2012	Because the only other local public services we use are Portland Parks. Both PPR and the library system really make our neighborhood and our city more livable. When you have a little kid, a walk to the library is a great way to start building not just literacy but a sense of community.
6033	7/11/2012	They are close and free and that is just wonderful
6034	7/11/2012	They are important to foster a love of reading in my children and a sense of community and learning in classes for young children.
6035	7/11/2012	If churches are the spiritual lungs of our neighborhood, the libraries are the intellectual lungs. They are meeting places; they are safe, neutral territories in political, commercial, and social senses; they bring long-time citizens and new immigrants together; they preserve and extend the blessings of our multicultural community; they are fun places for our children.
6036	7/11/2012	I don't want to loose the opportunity to have access to a local library. Being unemployed I need books from the library to help me with updating resumes and writting cover letters.
6037	7/11/2012	It is important to our whole family of readers and the small children growing up, they love books. It not only teaches the love of reading but responsibility and respect for others and their possessions. For many in our community it is the only access to computers and job search materials.
6038	7/11/2012	It is a joy to be able to find such a wide variety of books. I don't have the money or the space to buy or shelve the many books that I read. It makes so much sense to have them held in common, so each person has the chance to read them, and then they become available to others. It is consumptive of paper (and hence forests) for eaveryone to buy their own copy.
6039	7/11/2012	I think fire, police, and schools are more important.
6040	7/11/2012	a good source of info besides the internet
6041	7/11/2012	I am able to educated my students through books
6042	7/11/2012	Free access to reading material/media is something I have grown up with and believe is vital in a wealthy community
6043	7/11/2012	I guess police and fire fighting are very important, but in terms of local services, library is otherwise pretty high.
6044	7/11/2012	Public access to knowledge and information is necessary to our society. It empowers the less fortunate and gives us alternatives to our choices of reading materials.
6045	7/11/2012	Enrichment of our children's minds makes them grow up to more productive, interesting, and interested in life, in general. Access to library services enriches everyone - native and immigrant - across the socio-economic spectrum of our community. If we want a fully-functioning community with intelligent and knowledgeable individuals supporting it (physically, financially, and psychologically), we must provide access to the knowledge available in our libraries!

6046	7/11/2012	I love to read and the library provides me with almost all of my reading material conveniently and at no expense (except for my regular donations to the Friends of the Library). I find the US public library system something of a miracle. When I visit my hometown in upstate NY I visit the library for computer access and find the same heavy usage and wonderful atmosphere there.
6047	7/11/2012	There wasn't an option for "important," but that's how they would rank for me.They are important because they serve to educate the community and connect people to resources.
6048	7/11/2012	The public gets free access to education.
6049	7/11/2012	Literacy in general is so important and it offers people services that might not get them elsewhere.
6050	7/11/2012	The library is very important to me, but fire/police - and even housing assistance/dhs services to the poor - rank above.
6051	7/11/2012	Most important is food, clothing, shelter, health and safety. After that comes education and the library.
6052	7/11/2012	I like the sense of a shared culture they provide. I like being able to browse, as well as the more focused search I can get online. I like the sense that the Central branch gives of an intellectual anchor to the community, and a visible reminder that this is valued by the community.
6053	7/11/2012	Libraries are a public good and a hallmark of an enlightened society. How do you expect the electorate to educate themselves without good access to high quality libraries? If you limit access of information to wealthy people democracy will fail.
6054	7/11/2012	I love the library. The library is a publicly supported lending source for information and entertainment that serves to equalize disparities in a community. I love the concept and the actuality of the library.
6055	7/11/2012	I rely a lot on the library for access to all sorts of media, primarily for entertainment but also for edification. I love the library and think it's incredibly important, but since I use it primarily for entertainment, I know there are other public services that are more important.
6056	7/11/2012	Provides me with enjoyment and information
6057	7/11/2012	Libraries are a great resource for learning and entertainment.
6058	7/11/2012	I frequently take my children to the library, especially on Mondays after school. I am very disappointed that the Hillsdale branch is closed now on Mondays. This gave us a place to focus on reading and obtaining reading material.
6059	7/11/2012	Libraries enhance our life, make us grow, make us better people, city, country. What other instutution takes you to new places, gives you support and makes your life better
6060	7/11/2012	Reaches across all socio-economic boundaries
6061	7/11/2012	The social and community aspect of learning and sharing information and ideas cannot fully be served by online tools. Actual physical libraries are needed to keep that local and personal connection and continue to build community conversation and action.

6062	7/11/2012	The library is a great place. I can find lots of new music there, and check out books from their huge selection. I like just walking through the library and looking at all the titles; I always find something new to read. I have some family members that aren't able to get out of the house very much, and the library's outreach programs are very important to them
6063	7/11/2012	Because reading is such a blessing & it opens up so many doors to new explorations for me and my kids. It's so affordable to check out books at the library before buying them or keeping a book that no one puts on hold for a long time so kids can read them over & over.
6064	7/11/2012	Because we all read a lot and, to lesser extent, rent movies.
6065	7/11/2012	providing an educational/recreational resource for the populace
6066	7/11/2012	An educated citizenry is essential to the strengthening of democracy.
6067	7/11/2012	I think reading is incredibly important. We have a generation of people who can't spell or use correct grammar, both of which are improved with reading education. Reading is vital to a literate, well-educated society that works to improve the world in which we live, a society which we are desperately lacking.
6068	7/11/2012	Because I like to read a lot
6069	7/11/2012	I have a 7 month old and a 4 year old and exposing them to reading books, storytimes, playtimes, music/art programs are essential. We 'hang out' at the library, it's a community center. We meet neighbors. We share resources. Personally as an adult individual, I could probably find my own books elsewhere...but as a parent, I could NOT raise children without the library!!
6070	7/11/2012	Police and Fire Safety are more important
6071	7/11/2012	Second to Tri-Met, it is the service I use the most.
6072	7/11/2012	Hard to say without ranking options - obviously secondary to safety and healthcare kinds of issues
6073	7/11/2012	Because they are free and easily accessible to anyone who wants to use them.
6074	7/11/2012	They provide a way for the community to empower themselves and make smart decisions for themselves through education.
6075	7/11/2012	The library is such a great resource. In particular, Multnomah County libraries are some of the best I've experienced. I love that they do such a good job of getting new materials.
6076	7/11/2012	I can buy books
6077	7/11/2012	Kids need books, books are expensive, not everyone can afford to own them.
6078	7/11/2012	I have a 6 and 7 yr old who r voracious readers. I couldn't afford to buy all those books at such rapidly changing levels. I check out books to expand my professional life at least once a month
6079	7/11/2012	Fundamental for access to free education. Builds community.
6080	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and love books and libraries. Reading is so essential to learning not only about other people, cultures, countries, worlds, but you also learn more about yourself in the process. Learning is part of life and what better way to explore who you are than in a library where there are so many options and programs. The possibilities are endless.

6081	7/11/2012	Also, libraries provide a free way for any citizen to educate, entertain and advance themselves. We meet our neighbors solve problems and participate in a peaceful, enriching environment.
6082	7/11/2012	It's a place where children can go and learn.
6083	7/11/2012	Research, however we use the computer more all of the time for research.
6084	7/11/2012	Because as I noted it is a space that serves our diverse community respectfully. The things that we talk about in plans is lived at the library. Staff are helpful and caring about the people they serve. People are smiling when they are in the library. And because it promotes, through all it services and resources, literacy and self-sufficiency.
6085	7/11/2012	a good service
6086	7/11/2012	Although I am a fan of all the public services I can think of, I am a reader, a teacher, and someone who believes that libraries make a difference in people's lives.
6087	7/11/2012	I don't know what you're asking me to compare it to... for example, I think garbage collection is more important than the library. Humane society is less important than the library, for some examples. The library is where using local resources, learning, reading, and community often begin.
6088	7/11/2012	behind fire, police, street maintenance, and schools.
6089	7/11/2012	They are a source of information, learning, opportunity, and community for ALL, regardless of income level. This makes knowledge and resources more equitably available in the whole metro area. It's also a way for kids to develop good skills, habits and inquiry at a young age. And it provides a gathering place for anyone who wishes to find a sense of community. These are all hugely important aspects of an improved quality of life.
6090	7/11/2012	Not considering health care services and emergency response services, libraries are one of the more important services because they can be a very useful tool for the general public to use for education.
6091	7/11/2012	One of the few non controversial public services
6092	7/11/2012	Education is key for everything. The library makes it available for everyone
6093	7/11/2012	I think books and access to books, for ALL people, is very important!
6094	7/11/2012	Library is important but not as essential as roads, mail, water, etc.
6095	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to literature, resource books, computers, and the other services that libraries offer. They're also safe, pleasant places for kids and seniors to go. I haven't used them, but I also appreciate that libraries offer classes on financial management and other life skills.
6096	7/11/2012	Convenience, although I use the Central Library most of the time, it is important to me to have the neighborhood libraries: Hillsdale and Capitol Hill.
6097	7/11/2012	i like access to reading materials, and when i need to do research, i like having the library available because online research is not my favorite thing. i do like access to free fiction as well.
6098	7/11/2012	it is a community resource for all ages

6099	7/11/2012	it isn't the most important public service but it is something that is convenient and saves us money by not having to buy books.
6100	7/11/2012	As a parent, teacher, and community member that lives in a democracy- I understand that without an informed citizenry we wouldn't be able to participate in the democratic process. Public libraries form an integral part of informing the electorate in an open and free (both monetary and philosophical) manner.
6101	7/11/2012	It levels the playing field. Everyone has the opportunity to learn and grow intellectually.
6102	7/11/2012	A good library system is one of the things that makes a city a great place to live. Even if I don't use it daily, it's good to know that the resources of library are there more or less whenever I desire.
6103	7/11/2012	I'm not sure what you mean by other public services. I need the road, police, fire. I pay for my own health insurance. We, at financial sacrifice, have opted out of public school system but receive no credit for taxes paid to school system for our children.
6104	7/11/2012	I think libraries provide a great service to families and vulnerable people who may not have access to resources elsewhere.
6105	7/11/2012	They provide a variety of services to people of all income levels and backgrounds. Libraries are not only a source of information, but of learning, personal empowerment, and community. We use the library at least weekly. □
6106	7/11/2012	My daughters always start with the library website first for homework help. □ We save hundreds of dollars per year by checking books out rather than buying them. □ The children's programs are awesome
6107	7/11/2012	Electricity□ Water□ Health Care□ Police□ Fire□ Library□ Roads & Bridges
6108	7/11/2012	Kids get involved from early age and learn to love and appreciate books.. Neighborhood comes together.
6109	7/11/2012	Helps with literacy, access for all without regard to income levels. Helps level the economic play field a little. Also, provides computer access for people without computers &/or the internet. As a retiree I have increased my usage of the library and seldom buy books anymore unless the hold list is hopelessly long and my book club meeting is impending.
6110	7/11/2012	Libraries are a source for wholesome entertainment and education for all generations.
6111	7/11/2012	Police and fire/rescue have to be rated higher. But Library is right up there with Schools as far as importance to the community goes.

6112	7/11/2012	I am a student and use the library for resources, I am a mother and use the library to teach my children the importance of literacy and a love of books, and I am a book lover that uses the library as a relaxing, peaceful place that introduces me to new authors and brings me back to old favorites. Our family goes to the library at least twice a week.
6113	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to printed and media material that would be prohibitively expensive to purchase in this economic climate. It not only feeds one's intellectual curiosity but provides resources to improve skills.
6114	7/11/2012	Fire, police, clean water are first priorities. Followed by good streets, basic social services and libraries.
6115	7/11/2012	Education is SOOOOOO expensive, I'm drowning in student debt. This is a free way to educate myself. Absent education we can't get jobs. (among other reasons jobs are hard to come by, limiting resources to education is a difficult idea).
6116	7/11/2012	The local library services are probably the local public service that I use most often, and I treasure my library so highly that I feel a positive association whenever I see a Multnomah County logo. So, for me personally, the local library services are Very Important. But I am aware that other local public services provide housing, food, and other critical needs to people who would otherwise struggle to survive, and thus I rate the local library services Somewhat Important all in all.
6117	7/11/2012	Because books/information and resources are very importance in reducing inequity in the community.
6118	7/11/2012	I use the library often, it is a peaceful place that help me grow
6119	7/11/2012	Libraries allow people to keep learning regardless of financial status.
6120	7/11/2012	they provide easily accessible information and support for our entire community, which is especially influential on the lives of those who might not have support elsewhere.
6121	7/11/2012	I don't fully understand the term "other local public services." If you are asking if the library is more important than Police or Firefighters I would say no. But I would agree libraries are more important than any City Council person's yearly income. I would also rate libraries as a much more valuable resource than half of the city parks. I would even go to say that the public could learn more from a library than any Portland Public School. WHEN these schools fail the people should have access to education.
6122	7/11/2012	Knowledge and information is the key to pursuing life, liberty and happiness even for stinky homeless people. There is no way most people can afford access to the wide range of materials and services provided by local library. Especially the MultCo system.

6123	7/11/2012	Because it makes information and literature available for all citizens regardless of their age, economic situation, etc. It makes a better education possible for all....especially the children who do not have reading material in their homes. It helps show children the enjoyment and learning available from reading and encourages them to learn to read so that they can enjoy it on their own. In a time of economic concerns, the library offers reading material without cost to the reader....purchasing a book is not necessary.
6124	7/11/2012	Children love books! This gives parents and children a place to learn.
6125	7/11/2012	It's a hard thing to put a description on--Libraries serve a unique place in the community because they are used by all ages and are a place where people from different parts of a community come together to learn about the world. They are the basis of a free society where information can be stored and shared.
6126	7/11/2012	Lower than fire and social services, sorry
6127	7/11/2012	Need people to stay informend!
6128	7/11/2012	I live within walking distance of Central Library and visit it several times a week to check out books CDs and DVDs. I love my library.
6129	7/11/2012	Its hard to compare different services because they are all necessary and relevant. Literacy and access to books is extremely important in my view. In the end I suppose it will come down to what is vital to the community. PERS benefits are going to create a stranglehold on local budgets which is clearly explained in BOOMERANG by Michael Lewis, I believe it's a book you carry. As the crisis deepens I would think library funding would be a casualty.
6130	7/11/2012	Because books are important in my life and it is good to be shared to better utilize materials. I do not want to buy all the books or some books are too expensive to buy.
6131	7/11/2012	I am a teacher and parent.
6132	7/11/2012	Free access to information resources.
6133	7/11/2012	We are avid readers for pleasure/recreation.
6134	7/11/2012	Because I am selfish and this is the one public service I use consciously, frequently and with much pleasure and never complain, therefore, about the tax I pay for it. Personally, as a writer, a good deal of my research is done through libraries.[]
6135	7/11/2012	It is also important to me that my children and grandchildren have the available resources that the libraries provide that are so valuable for a well rounded education. Culture is crucial in our society. [] Libraries are a wonderful social center for learning and for sharing information for all ages.
6136	7/11/2012	I'm a novelist, I need libraries to let people read my books as much as I need to be able to read other books for ideas and to see different writing styles.
6137	7/11/2012	The library gives my family access to education that we could not otherwise afford.
6138	7/11/2012	I am always going to the library and I would most likely see and use available resources
6139	7/11/2012	Public safety and access to well-maintained outdoor space is of greater importance to my me and my family.

6140	7/11/2012	Enjoy reading books and not having to buy them. very good place for family's to spend time. I think reading is very very important for all ages.
6141	7/11/2012	Just like to read.
6142	7/11/2012	Libraries provide educational services that help sustain communities and create committed citizens.
6143	7/11/2012	I find that even though we have access to media, it is still important that we teach kids that reading is important. With the Summer reading program we are enrolled in every Summer it teaches my daughter and her friends how to use a library and that it is an important service for many people.
6144	7/11/2012	I feel that the education I received through the public school system was inadequate. If I didn't have public libraries to supplement this education and provide what the public school system lacked, I would not have had a successful education.
6145	7/11/2012	While maybe not more important than fire fighters, I believe well maintained, well used libraries are vital to a healthy society.
6146	7/11/2012	My family uses it all the time and it is something that we can use without worrying about money.
6147	7/11/2012	Because to kill culture you don't burn books \, you have people to stop reading them.
6148	7/11/2012	bc i have small kids
6149	7/11/2012	There are other services that are more important
6150	7/11/2012	I need access to a wide variety of research materials.
6151	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the few visible and truly public resources we have in this country.
6152	7/11/2012	They are a big part of encouraging our kids to become good readers.
6153	7/11/2012	The services are so varied and they help all ages from children to seniors.
6154	7/11/2012	I'm a poor student
6155	7/11/2012	Libraries offer something important for everybody - the youngest tot to the oldest senior. A library is a place to learn. A library is a place to find assistance to solve problems. A library is a haven for those who have little (or no) space of their own. Best of all, the library has books, books, books!
6156	7/11/2012	Libraries provide education to the public. There are a great number of people who cannot afford to buy books, media and computers. We need to make sure everyone has access to books and media. We need educated people in this country.
6157	7/11/2012	Learning should be a lifelong process and libraries provide a place for everyone no matter how much money they have or don't have.
6158	7/11/2012	education and learning, job hunting and things for seniors
6159	7/11/2012	Police and fire personnel are number one on my list.
6160	7/11/2012	I read voraciously, but cannot afford to buy books
6161	7/11/2012	I have always depended on the library as a free source for books and movies. When I did not have Internet at home, the library provided an incredibly important resource for me so that I could apply for jobs. My daughter and I love going to family story time and I hope that she can grow up with the library as much a part of her childhood as it was of mine.

6162	7/11/2012	They are vital to the health of a community and they have something for everyone, regardless of ethnicity, religion, economic status, gender, ability, etc. Libraries cover so much ground. They're the biggest bang for the buck out of all public services. That's not to say that we don't need other public services; libraries just have a broader and more comprehensive reach.
6163	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly. I would lose access to personal and professional resources without access to the library.
6164	7/11/2012	They are a good source of research material, educational material, and entertainment. However, this can all be obtained either cheap or for free in other ways (online).
6165	7/11/2012	EDUCATION, MATERIAL AVAILABILITY
6166	7/11/2012	Not so important as police and fire, but they provide at least as much value (more some days) than Tri-Met.
6167	7/11/2012	People need to read and books have to be available to everyone regardless of economic status
6168	7/11/2012	It is the basis of a democratic form of government.
6169	7/11/2012	It is a place where everyone in the community can access resources. Great spot to to increase the literacy focus for young children and people of all ages
6170	7/11/2012	What do you mean by other public services? This is too hard a question to answer properly because of course other public services are extremely important too.
6171	7/11/2012	Libraries are essential to our 8-yr old daughter. She visits libraries at least 3-4 times per week. She has been an avid reader since age 5-1/2. At any one time we have at least 50-80 items checked out on each of our family members' cards. We frequent the Washington Co. libraries as well as Albina Branch. The Wash. Co. library system has a HUGE inventory of kids books, with seemingly dozens of copies of all popular titles.
6172	7/11/2012	They are very important to me.
6173	7/11/2012	There are a number of local public services which are critical for day-to-day civilized life. Libraries aren't quite up there in that group, but they're still fairly high on the important scale.
6174	7/11/2012	Frequent user with high expectations
6175	7/11/2012	Lending libraries make books, literature and media available to everyone in the community. Libraries are indispensable.
6176	7/11/2012	I would like to be able to read books without having to buy them, like I'm being forced to now because of availability.
6177	7/11/2012	It depends what other public services are be considered. When you think of police, schools, and fire departments , library's have to come after public safety and well-being.

6178	7/11/2012	Information, and a safe place to gather that information, is more essential to improving the lives of citizens than a strong economy. a strong economy benefits people in an unequal way, but a library, should, benefit all equally. i can create a job for someone at a factory, a factory that pollutes the environment that the worker lives in, but they do not know the danger that the factory produces. they have money, but still live in poor conditions. having a library with books and pictures and people who know about such topics, helps such people be informed and thus demand equality. they can improve their mind and heart through a library.
6179	7/11/2012	Obviously not as important as emergency services, but the access to information is definitely a high priority.
6180	7/11/2012	I'd pay a membership fee or more taxes.
6181	7/11/2012	It's one thing I use regularly, need often and enjoy having access to. It's good year round. Parks kinda suck when it's raining.
6182	7/11/2012	The library is the place where all have access to information,books,computers,etc.Not everyone can afford to buy,or pay for this services,I'd be lost without the services ofered at the library,and I know a lot of people who would be as well.
6183	7/11/2012	it depends on what you mean by "local public service." The police and fire stations are more important public services than the library!
6184	7/11/2012	More important are public health issues (clean water, effective sewage treatment, and universal health care). Equally important are effective schools. Potholes are much lower in priority.
6185	7/11/2012	We need libraries.
6186	7/11/2012	it is wonderful to have a library, but it also essential we have accessible/free health care for those who are sick, local jobs, etc.
6187	7/11/2012	I use it regularly and support it with my property taxes
6188	7/11/2012	I use them more than other public services. I'm not low income but I don't make a lot. I use the library as my main source of entertainment and learning.
6189	7/11/2012	Portland is a city that reads. Libraries help keep it that way, particularly when many home budgets are tight.
6190	7/11/2012	I value, use and need other county services, but the library is a service that I use often and it enriches my life.
6191	7/11/2012	See answers to previous question. Also, libraries can seve as an important gathering place - an important element in keeping a sense of community. Would be interesting to see the library promote this aspect by incorporating elements such as farmers markets or cafes to draw people to it. The electronic age is giving us too many reasons to isolate from one another.

6192	7/11/2012	I have been a reader all my life. Books are the core of my intellectual life. At the same time, new audio-visual materials are growing ever more effective at presenting vast quantities and qualities of knowledge that books could never begin to reveal so quickly and easily. The following video presents 180,000 years worth of human migrations out of Africa in about four minutes. Watch it several times and you really comprehend the vastness of prehistoric global time [] [] http://www.bradshawfoundation.com/journey/
6193	7/11/2012	I think it's a valuable public service but in a time of tight budgets I would prioritize education, community health, and food stamp programs
6194	7/11/2012	I rely on them for entertain to drop voter ballot for research on products to buy etc
6195	7/11/2012	Highly important. They offer a free service to the public with an intrinsic value that is difficult to measure.
6196	7/11/2012	The library is very important to me - it is a main source of leisure media and also an important secondary source of learning materials for me. I believe it's super important for all members of the community (all ages) to have access to library resources for a literate and free-thinking society.
6197	7/11/2012	Libraries disseminate knowledge. Libraries help kids do well in school. Libraries are community cultural resource. Libraries contribute to an informed electorate. Libraries make better citizens.
6198	7/11/2012	People who read are smart & thoughtful. Smart, thoughtful people are not so easily fooled or influenced by glib politicians and biased news reports. Libraries are a major gateway to Truth, Justice, and The American Way!
6199	7/11/2012	Libraries open up the world of books to those who can't afford to buy. Story hours provide models for parents of early literacy strategies that prepare children for school. Library staff provide homework help and reading programs that encourage students in school to develop a love for reading and to excel in school. Libraries are part of a continuum of very important public services that give low-income families opportunities that they otherwise wouldn't have, contributing to the well-being of children who will grow up wanting to reinvest in the community that served them so well in their formative years. I have been going to the library since I was old enough to write my name on a library card, and have loved every visit. I now enjoy sharing the books, media, story hours and summer reading program that libraries provide with my own children. Libraries have inspired me with hope, creativity, a love of words and a passion for my community. I can't imagine Portland without them.
6200	7/11/2012	My wife checks out about 2 books per week - it is her lifeline to entertainment and knowledge
6201	7/11/2012	Local library services are very important to our community. Without libraries, citizens of all ages will not have easy access to reading materials. Libraries are an important compliment to schools and community centers in providing educational opportunities to the community.
6202	7/11/2012	The libraries provide access to information, educational programs and the encouragement to read instead of watch TV are vital to keeping our population educated and competitive in the world.

6203	7/11/2012	I think it is important that all citizens and especially the young should have access to a reference and lending library for educational purposes. I do not think it is important to provide special reading programs for children (schools should be doing it), programs for seniors (I am one) or lending of DVDs or audio tapes.
6204	7/11/2012	I am the vice president of Pride NW, the organization that hosts the annual Gay Pride Parade and Festival on Father's Day weekend. The events we host bring in literally 1.5 to 2 million dollars to the local economy annually. I utilize the resources here often for research. Additionally, I am a freelance graphic designer, and also use the library for research for every project. In the last 12 months, the research I have utilized at the local library has benefited many local non-profits, including Pride NW, Cascade AIDS Project, Basic Rights Oregon, and In Other Words feminist bookstore, just to name a few. Without the materials and resources at the library, I literally could not afford to assist the local charities that assist those in great need in our community.
6205	7/11/2012	I grew up in a household where the library was one of our one resources, as we didn't have much money. At the same time, my father being an avid reader, it is where I first learned about how important books / knowledge is to a society. I also worked at my local library as a page for my first job. I now share the importance of libraries with my children via story times and weekly trips to provide our nightly reading as a family.
6206	7/11/2012	The avaricious have been eating away at the commons for decades. The parks, for lack of responsible adult presence, and the schools, due to entrenched bureaucracy and special interests, leave only the libraries as safe, commonly held gathering places.
6207	7/11/2012	Libraries mean access to information, recreation, ideas and community.
6208	7/11/2012	We use the library regularly in our family. It is a weekly ritual for us.
6209	7/11/2012	The Library is the one public service I use continually throughout the year.
6210	7/11/2012	An uneducated community cannot think for itself and we all need one another. It doesn't hurt to have had 31 yrs service (ret) perspective of cuts.
6211	7/11/2012	I love books! The library is a knowledge base, and the books, information, and computer access all need to be freely available to everyone.
6212	7/11/2012	I am a life long reader and love libraries, but fire, police, ambulance, street maintenance, etc. are all more important to basic survival than libraries. Once I am fed, clothed, warm and feel safe - then I can read.
6213	7/11/2012	Although I do not wish to downplay the importance of the library in my community, it falls after the basic social services of proper emergency services and schools in terms of importance
6214	7/11/2012	Public safety, schools, recreational area, roads, lights, utility delivery are more important. Library sources are helpful, but I can fulfill my use needs in other ways - slightly more costly, but very do-able.
6215	7/11/2012	Because they are education and community all rolled into one.
6216	7/11/2012	We love the library

6217	7/11/2012	We walk to our library at least 2 times a week and know everyone there. It is a vital link to our community
6218	7/11/2012	We need our community to have access to books/education/computers and programs that support these. We, also, need to make sure our children/young people have the resources to build their reading and research skills. The Library is the core of a community that reads and educates that community.
6219	7/11/2012	There are only so many dollars to go around -- so how do we meet the greater good of the whole? First, I think that is based on personal values. For example, if I have to choose between local public schools and the library, I would choose schools; If i had to choose between garbage service vs library I would have to choose garbage service due to the public health risk. If I had to choose between the library and funding marijuana for pain clinics I would vote the library.
6220	7/11/2012	Access to books and ideas are bedrock to a civilized society. Not everyone can afford to own things.
6221	7/11/2012	Because I don't use them
6222	7/11/2012	As an educated person, I often look to the library to offer new (to me) books to browse and videos to enjoy. Unfortunately I rarely find current materials on the shelves at Hillsdale.
6223	7/11/2012	access to all kinds of reading material is a democracy's right
6224	7/11/2012	As a stay at home mother to two children 3 and under, we visit the library for storytimes and for checking out books 3-4 times a week. We utilize library services far more often than any other public services
6225	7/11/2012	Libraries provides enrichment. I really enjoy books on tape, but libraries are not vital to community survival.
6226	7/11/2012	Reading is one of my favorite activities. It's so important to have these resources available for all ages.
6227	7/11/2012	Reading, communication, Internet access
6228	7/11/2012	They offer a variety of services needed by a large part of our population, particularly those who cannot afford to purchase the items offered free by the library.
6229	7/11/2012	Third in importance after police and fire services. I think the library services are more important than parks
6230	7/11/2012	I like the idea of libraries, and I'm sure they are lifelines to some people, but in a time of budgetary concerns we have more pressing issues.
6231	7/11/2012	fixed income senior who depends on library for books and films (a LOT of books and films)
6232	7/11/2012	Literacy and access to information is everything - in theory. In practice, the internet provides much if not all, of that knowledge.
6233	7/11/2012	only way for people other than wealthy to have ready access to information.
6234	7/11/2012	because they allow everybody access to media and books

6235	7/11/2012	Because I don't usually go to the library, but when i do i sometimes get movies and almost always get at least 3 books every time i go there.
6236	7/11/2012	Education should be accessible to all whenever needed.
6237	7/11/2012	There are greater needs in society (Mazlov's hierarchy) such as food, shelter, and feelings of security; however, a library can help build a sense of community that comes in after basic needs are met.
6238	7/11/2012	The library represents an equal opportunity to be literate to us all, and I feel like it is an indicator of the health of a community how the library is used. Libraries are meeting places and books are amazing-we should all have access to them.
6239	7/11/2012	I am a teacher and I am always looking for materials to use in the classroom. Also, I love to read, and I enjoy that the library is open everyday so I do not have problems to go and check reading materials after work.
6240	7/11/2012	Reading is a vital fundamental skill for life success. Access to free books supports that important lifeskill. Research materials are necessary as well.
6241	7/11/2012	I would have said "very important" except that police and fire service are vital, and without good schools nobody in furute generations will give a damn about "libraries" (what were they?)
6242	7/11/2012	It's very important to me personally, and to the strength of our community as a whole.
6243	7/11/2012	Because a library is a democratic institution that makes materials and learning available to everyone, and cuts through American class issues and offers opportunities for people to learn and grow.
6244	7/11/2012	People of all economic status' and that live all over the city can use the library's services. It does not require specific "qualifications" to use the library or any level of payment. It does not require a computer or other technology. Regardless of whether I have been flush with money or broke, I have always, always, always used (and often given to) the library.
6245	7/11/2012	Because there are books. And reading is the most important part of human development.
6246	7/11/2012	I feel that Portland libraries are part of the culture here. I enjoy living in an informed, educated, and curious community and I believe that the libraries foster that culture.
6247	7/11/2012	I have a two year old son and another on the way. This time in my life, I am using the library more than I ever have. We go to book babies at gregory heights and check out books monthly for my son.
6248	7/11/2012	The Rockwood Library and Central Library were a hugely important part of my childhood. I have many fond memories and don't want to see this important resource fade away.
6249	7/11/2012	Today, access to technology is required to be successful. For all that cannot afford access to technology, the Library is the gateway to success.
6250	7/11/2012	I like to read for pleasure, and for information. MCL offers plenty of material on both.

6251	7/11/2012	The library is a destination for our family. It keeps the kids excited about reading because we always have the opportunity to get new books to read. It also saves us money. My husband used to spend quite a bit of money buying books. Now he gets most of his reading from the library.
6252	7/11/2012	the library serves many people. When I had no computer, I went to the library. When I looked for a job--with no computer--I went to the library. Sometimes I need a resource and can't buy books, I go to the library to take books out. I love books and reading and it is a source to keep that alive, especially when children can access books and be read to. □ It keeps a community feeling serving ALL ages and many needs.
6253	7/11/2012	I feel that with all the funding cuts in schools, recreation programs and the arts people need a place like the library. It fills so many needs for all ages. Books benefit everyone, whatever their interests are.
6254	7/11/2012	It is important to be able to have a place I can go for resources that are not offered online or through school.
6255	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly for books, especially audio and Russian language audio books.
6256	7/11/2012	It is the ultimate level playing field. From homeless people to people in million dollar mansions, everyone has access to the same materials for the same length of time.
6257	7/11/2012	I plan on homeschooling my children when I have them. While the internet is a great place, I want my kids to understand the importance of finding the information in a book. Call me crazy, but if we are thrown into turmoil from a war and have no more internet, what are kids going to do?
6258	7/11/2012	Convenience. Until everything is 100% electronic and online, if its too far away, I won't go to use it.
6259	7/11/2012	The community is only as strong as its collective knowledge.
6260	7/11/2012	Without an educated populace, how are we to make important decisions. It is through being educated, that our republic has functioned over the last 200+ years. It seems like we, in the age where information is more easily accessible than ever, lack the knowledge and understanding of the complex nuanced world in which we live.
6261	7/11/2012	Looking at having a family, I feel the programs at our libraries are fundamental to raising a literate and well rounded child. Resources should be available in the community to give our children a good start, even if parents don't have the financial resources to purchase books or participate in costly programs for young children.
6262	7/11/2012	I use this resource more than most others
6263	7/11/2012	Because the library has many services it supplies to serve the vast majority of population. It serves the young readers to keep them interested in books and reading. It serves those who do not have a home computer or do not want one in the home but want access to one. It serves those who want to check out media without a charge with the economy the way it is this is a plus! It serves as a place for after school kids to find a place of resource and complete homework in a positive environment.

6264	7/11/2012	Libraries give access to individuals that might not otherwise have it, esp computer use. Story hours and other child oriented programs encourage kids to read and explore new things. It allows patrons to read the newest books keeping them informed.
6265	7/11/2012	Free access to knowledge is critical to a free society and a functioning democracy. However, as important as libraries are, a new library district under current Oregon tax law takes revenue away from cities, and Multnomah County that provide equally valuable services such as parks, housing, health clinics, and public safety.
6266	7/11/2012	they are a window on the world and a key part of teaching my children how to be life long learners
6267	7/11/2012	I like reading stuff :)
6268	7/11/2012	I don't buy books except for trail or bird books. I read several books a week and want them in my hands. I use the reference services on line.
6269	7/11/2012	Police, fire and medical services are necessary; libraries, although nice, are not life essential.
6270	7/11/2012	I put police, fire and other emergencies services at the highest level of importance. Libraries fall behind those services but I believe they are still of critical importance to allow computer access for job seekers and low income families and services for all, especially with regard to (early) Literacy.
6271	7/11/2012	They make a wide variety of resources available to all people--especially to those with limited incomes who cannot afford to access in other ways.
6272	7/11/2012	A literate, informed, culturally aware population is essential for sound governance. The library serves everyone, contributes to broad-based learning, interaction and fosters a sense of community as well as information and education Creativity and curiosity are vital for a healthy, viable future.
6273	7/11/2012	Not a basic need like food, shelter, emergency service
6274	7/11/2012	As mentioned, I'm an educator--a teacher for 30+ years. After police, fire and 911 services, libraries are absolutely vital for maintaining at least some level of public access to education and literacy services. Since we've already cut schools too far, libraries are our last line of defense.
6275	7/11/2012	I like to read. I also attend college and use both my University and local library to access books and information for my papers. Online access to search for books is very important to me because I work and attend school.
6276	7/11/2012	The library is the knowledge resource for the community.[] The ability to read and communicate the knowledge that one has acquired from reading is a basic communications functions.[] The library makes available its resources to all - including those who otherwise couldn't afford the books and the knowledge reading them brings.
6277	7/11/2012	While such public services as governance, fire, police, schools and public transportation are of greater importance to me, the library is an invaluable source of resource information for me, especially for things not available on the web.

6278	7/11/2012	We mainly use the library in the summer to check out books for our children (I can order all of my own books through the college for which I work). So why we are personally not all that dependent on public libraries, I still think they are very important!
6279	7/11/2012	Economics! I can't afford to buy books and dvds, but I can enjoy them at leisure from the library. []
6280	7/11/2012	I also enjoy participating in the Page Turners opening literary horizons I wouldn't normally select Never know when you might need the resource
6281	7/11/2012	A healthy vital library system reflects a community that is engaged and interested in learning--the sort of place I want to live!
6282	7/11/2012	I am a childcare provider. Reading spring boards children's interest in learning. When I don't get new books from the library, circle time gets stale and the kids become less interested. But when I read a new book to the kids, a whole new world opens up for them. We live in a screen rich society and I believe this is a horrible thing. The joy of books with children is not just the adventure of a new tale but a relational connection. As a mother of a young child and an business owner, I don't reserve much downtime for myself but the times when I pick out a book for myself, I find a new level of rest and relaxation that reading off a screen or watching tv cannot touch. Our nation is crumbling because we fail to really know our own history...public libraries leave every aspect of our history available to each one of us, if we would only take the time to slow down and care.
6283	7/11/2012	I don't know, but I think if I did not have water, electricity or the garbage picked up I probably would not be thinking about going to the library. On the other hand, I cannot imagine not having a library system at my disposal.
6284	7/11/2012	Police and fire are very important. People in Kenton neighborhood need resources available to them to learn.
6285	7/11/2012	I love to read. I cannot afford to buy used or new the number of books and magazines I like to read. The visible book shelves as well as the online catalog helps me discovers authors and books I would not otherwise have visibility too. The human intervention (library staff) is highly important as well. BEing an IT person I am not thrilled with virtual help and online chat.
6286	7/11/2012	There is a duplication of services with library resources going to support school reading functions. This is better diverted to the school systems themselves to improve their dwindling resources for the same purpose. Access for the entire community for a minimal tome of 6 days being open casts the widest net to reach the most people for the levy requested.
6287	7/11/2012	They provide cohesiveness to society in a way that police and fire can't. It's like school for those of us that haven't given up learning.
6288	7/11/2012	I grew up going to the library. They were an integral part of teaching me how to research, got me excited about reading, and an incredible haven of knowledge that is safe and so inspiring to explore. Also, at different points in my life it provided computer access when i had no other which was invaluabley helpful to me.

6289	7/11/2012	I use libraries. When I move to a new area the first thing I look for is the nearest branch library. I read...a lot. My budget is limited (it has always been limited) and the libraries everywhere I've lived have provided me with access to the written word--both new material and old.
6290	7/11/2012	we use the library a lot.
6291	7/11/2012	Computer and internet access to all economic and employment status groups is very important.
6292	7/11/2012	Libraries allow people of all incomes and backgrounds to access Internet, books, movies and music. Without libraries many folks simply wouldn't have access to these materials. It's especially important for kids to have access to these materials for free.
6293	7/11/2012	We are in the library several times weekly. Because we are very low income, we rely on the library for all our books and movies. My son has a special relationship with the youth librarian and is encouraged to LOVE reading. He learns about responsibility and the importance of citizenship through his involvement in the library.
6294	7/11/2012	Like education, access to information is essential for a community to thrive and grow. Community Resource and meeting place. ☐
6295	7/11/2012	☐ Access to books and movies and bks on tape or now ebook, (which I have yet to figure out), with out having to buy the material and then have to recycle or sell or donate the material later.
6296	7/11/2012	Our knowledge and culture are preserved, yet remain open, shared and alive at the library and should be kept available to all in the community, including (and especially) those populations with least access to a library.
6297	7/11/2012	I have children that greatly benefit from the library!
6298	7/11/2012	Because I could survive without the library, but I'd rather not.
6299	7/11/2012	we need to have libraries open for all. They are extremely important for students to access the computers, do homework. We need to encourage our children to read and the summer reading program is fantastic!! our children need to learn how to use the library to find books and utilize the resources other than the internet. Real books that people can actually touch and open and enjoy is far more beneficial than having everything electronic.
6300	7/11/2012	Because the library is a meeting place for the community. In addition, it is a safe space that children, teens, young adults, adults and the elderly can come together and be a part of. It offers programs and services (such as story time for infants and toddlers) that is free, giving ALL parents access to these services regardless of their financial situation, or socioeconomic status. It also promotes literacy and educational pursuits. The library is most certainly one of the most important public services the community and state can provide.
6301	7/11/2012	my family and i love to read. we are low income and need a place we can get books, internet access, a printer, classes and story time all for free or cheap. the library is one of my favorite places to be. i could spend

6302	7/11/2012	Access to public libraries benefits all in the community, it shows a commitment to education and literacy. the local library service is among the top public services that I use.
6303	7/11/2012	Police, fire, schools, garbage, power, water and parks are very important.
6304	7/11/2012	Because books and learning are important to me and my family. I want my son to grow up craving knowledge and stories the way I did, but not be addicted to the Internet as the only resource for information.
6305	7/11/2012	Basic service to have books available.
6306	7/11/2012	I consider sewer and water more important.
6307	7/11/2012	I am a kindergarten teacher and a parent. The library is our child's home away from home.
6308	7/11/2012	i love the library; i can't afford to purchase every book i read; reading and access to books is vital to one's existence; the library is more important than some of the people in office!
6309	7/11/2012	Education is the future. We need to keep people's minds stimulated.
6310	7/11/2012	They educate and lower drug use and crime
6311	7/11/2012	Our library is an invaluable resource, not just to my family, but to the community as a whole. As a homeowner, I am willing to pay more in taxes to have a library nearby.
6312	7/11/2012	Because roads and a police force strike me as being much more urgent. On the other hand, libraries serve an incredibly important function in passing on our culture's emphasis on literature to the next generation and giving adults access to the information they need to operate businesses or gain job skills.
6313	7/11/2012	Access/services for such a large population of people.
6314	7/11/2012	My local library is a great resource for finding history books, novels, and movies that would otherwise be either too expensive or too difficult to obtain.
6315	7/11/2012	It's a wonderful resource for the community .
6316	7/11/2012	The library is a community gathering place for people from all walls of life. It's where we organize, learn, socialize, share, and nurture each community member. The free activities for young children foster literacy and begin a life long love if reading.
6317	7/11/2012	The library is one of very few services provided in Multnomah County which is optional and which I use. (Obviously I'm using the roads, streetlighting etc like everyone else). But I'm not in education and have no children, my health is excellent and I'm young so I don't use health services often and I'm not interested in sports facilities. As an immigrant there are all sorts of services denied to me eg various forms of welfare. I love libraries and I always have done and I would be very disappointed if Multnomah County's library service were to suffer due to lack of funding.
6318	7/11/2012	It is access to information to everyone.
6319	7/11/2012	Maintaining the people "au courant" of new books, current ideas. Without a well organized lending system it would be impossible to keep abreast of new publication due to the price of books and magazines.
6320	7/11/2012	Please see previous comment box noted in line item #6.

6321	7/11/2012	The Multnomah county library system is a phenomenal resource for education outside of and beyond schools and colleges that is available to all. The quality of our libraries far surpasses that of any other city I have ever lived in. The libraries are well run, the staff is brilliant, the catalogue is excellent and they are always making efforts to find ways to serve the community better. The libraries are among the very best features of living in this area.
6322	7/11/2012	For college/studying purposes.
6323	7/11/2012	access to information for all is vital, esp. now that the economy is rough.
6324	7/11/2012	I do not purchase book often, preferring to get most of my reading material from the library.
6325	7/11/2012	Helpful alternative for accessing books and other reference materials without having to purchase
6326	7/11/2012	Free, accessible, and familiar to people of many backgrounds and generations: a place to get information on a variety of topics, not just books and other media, but also from brochures, posters, and human beings. Playing-field leveler.
6327	7/11/2012	For research, education and opportunity to enjoy literature. They are important culturally.
6328	7/11/2012	I use the library for reference materials on construction and gardening projects I have around my house. Also, I can check out books and videos at no cost, which is important to seniors on a fixed income. I also spend time reading magazines and newspapers I no longer subscribe to. The library helps me save money for other costs.
6329	7/11/2012	Without the arts life becomes less than "real". We are being robbed of the joy of thinking and appreciating the real meaning of life. It is more than science, math, and making money.
6330	7/11/2012	medium, not vital importance
6331	7/11/2012	Police and fire more important Library is important
6332	7/11/2012	Because we use the library so regularly to keep the family (including kids) supplied with books to read or story tapes/cd's to listen to; or non-fiction books for the adults.
6333	7/11/2012	My mom was a librarian for a period of time while i was growing up. I used to spend my Saturday's there reading. Ere are so many valuable resources from computers, books, reading programs for children, cd's, dvd's, etc. These are all paid for with taxpayer money and are FREE which is great for those that can't afford to buy papers or books. The Internet access is also great for research and job seekers without PC's.
6334	7/11/2012	Because it caters to a wide variety of age group, types of people, culture, etc.
6335	7/11/2012	We use it mainly for entertainment.
6336	7/11/2012	A library card gives access to so many things to the people of this county. It allows people of all economic access the gift of reading. Some may not afford the books that a library can offer. It offers a chance to have an adventurer, improve reading skills and vocabulary skills. The gift of reading is truly a gift that many tske for granted,as they do libraries.

6337	7/11/2012	Local libraris do provide a gathering place for access to mind expanding material. Even if the local library was only open for one hour of one day a week, it would be necessary and needed (very especially so if this were the case). I am not sure what you qualify as "other Local Public Services". If you are including Fire Depts, Police, and others of that type, than, of course these have a higher level of importance than the library.
6338	7/11/2012	Libraries offer critical access to information, knowledge, and opportunity for all. ---That is so fundamental. They are one of the most democratic institutions we offer, with open doors to everyone. [] Especially during this long economic downturn, when so many need access to quality community services. Libraries are a bedrock, allowing growth, exploration, and development.
6339	7/11/2012	I have better resources through my computer.
6340	7/11/2012	They provide access to a wealth of information to everyone, regardless of income.
6341	7/11/2012	They are key to increasing the literacy of our citizenry.
6342	7/11/2012	They offer an irreplaceable resource to children of all financial backgrounds, college students who need access to computers in order to pass their courses, job seekers who do not have access to internet resources, and all who do not have the money to buy a Kindle and order books, or who can't afford to buy every book they want or need to read. Libraries are also fantastic study spots, and great for intellectual social interaction.
6343	7/11/2012	It is the only public service that I use of my own volition.
6344	7/11/2012	It is accessible to all and provides so many more services than just book lending. It is the type of place that is the heart of a community. You can't say that about your pot hole repairs or dog catcher, necessary services, but not services that aid mind and soul.
6345	7/11/2012	Certainly police, fire and emergency medical take greater importance, however the public library affords everyone in the community and opportunity to further and freely educate themselves. That should always be a given for any nation that claims greatness. The freedom to educate oneself and ones family is essential.
6346	7/11/2012	Libraries are usually beautiful buildings with cultureal and historical significance. They are a place for me, and my community, to explore, question, challenge, interact, grow and imagine. The library is my university, a gathering place, a place that helps me be a better citizen, and a place where I can experience new ideas and new ways to live a meaningful life. The library is the cornerstone of my community.
6347	7/11/2012	dynamic resource for the community
6348	7/11/2012	Since I was a little girl, I was a complete bibliophile. My parents, at the time, struggled financially, and I believe being able to go to the library to satiate my literary needs was a vital part of my growing-up.
6349	7/11/2012	Because of the need for access to materials

6350	7/11/2012	Libraries provide "free" information, resource reading, pleasure reading, and help maintain an educated society.
6351	7/11/2012	I would rate them as one of the most important services we have, just not quite as important as say 911, safety net services like the health clinics, or the fire department.
6352	7/11/2012	Literacy and learning are the backbone of an enlightened society.
6353	7/11/2012	Almost at the top...all my life I have been a reader and books unlike other things in my life have never let me down or disappointed...they always deliver! Life without books would be unbearable.
6354	7/11/2012	It's a service adults as well as students, job seekers and children need. It allows people a public place in the community to go look up current resources to help them improve their lives.
6355	7/11/2012	I actually think the importance I place on the library falls between somewhat & very important. [] There are public services that provide many underprivileged members of the community with essential services such as food, clothing, housing, transportation, so they very need sufficient and stable funding.
6356	7/11/2012	We use the library as a lifeline to new material, to keep life fresh, to keep ourselves and now our child educated, to support learning in schools, to create community, to promote life-learning, to provide a gathering space...to simply allow people of all economic backgrounds to access what they need, when they need it.
6357	7/11/2012	They are important the libraries in our community are the center of cultural life. Our libraries are where we go to learn about great music when the symphony is in recess; they are where we go to learn about and experience great literature when school is in recess and no great writers are visiting on a paid circuit, which many could not afford anyway. Our libraries are where the children of our community go to begin their life-long love of learning, which strengthens us as a city, state, and nation. If we fail our libraries, we continue to fail ourselves.
6358	7/11/2012	everyone uses libraries, they are open to all neighborhoods, they support our declining public school system, they are FREE to use
6359	7/11/2012	I love my library and want to visit as often as I can - it is as important as my bank and grocery store!
6360	7/11/2012	Libraries are awesome and everyone should have access to them
6361	7/11/2012	Because it is the best way to get kids and teens to read and be involved in our community. It helps me get books I really want to read for free.
6362	7/11/2012	Explore books with kids, without having to buy and accumulate them.
6363	7/11/2012	Reading is the essence of learning and learning is what will bring great minds and inventors to create change hopefully for the better ad break down barriers of access
6364	7/11/2012	As mentioned before our family highly relies on many of its' services and support services too.
6365	7/11/2012	It provides a wealth of knowledge at all levels. It is a resource where people can get information on many subjects and is readily available to everyone.
6366	7/11/2012	Information, education & entertainment at a budget. I have a 13yr old that uses it for school.

6367	7/11/2012	All local public services are important.
6368	7/11/2012	Equal access of information to everyone regardless of means.
6369	7/11/2012	Access to information... free, I should say, because more and more, information is being limited to those who can afford to pay. Widening the gap between rich and poor.
6370	7/11/2012	I'm a reader and I'm never without a book, or two, or more. The library allows me to indulge that habit. I use the library more than I use the parks, schools, buses, so it's that important to me. [] As for the community as a whole, having the library to gather, explore, meet new friends (both books and people) is good for both body and soul.
6371	7/11/2012	The public library is one of the last institutions in this country that is genuinely concerned with serving communities and protecting democracy. More specifically, MCL is an amazingly impressive and progressive system that truly reaches out to members of its communities. This is more than "very" important to me. I would have went a level higher.
6372	7/11/2012	The library is a place for people to get information for free. Anyone can use the library, to get resources for a job, to read books if you can't afford them, to sing, to hang out. It is one of the public service I use the most. I use it for my teaching position. I teach in a place where kids don't have enough access to books and the public library helps me bring materials to them that they wouldn't otherwise have access to.
6373	7/11/2012	Free library access is a hallmark of democracy and libraries serve as our community gathering places.
6374	7/11/2012	The library is a public service that enables learning to the public. [] Law enforcement, and safety programs would be high priority.
6375	7/11/2012	I've always enjoyed libraries throughout my life and look forward to visiting them when I can. It is a great resource for getting into new topics.
6376	7/11/2012	libraries provide a nearly unlimited access to books, music, videos to EVERYONE. libraries can also act as a sort of community gathering space, they are important for literacy, children's appreciation of books/reading, for those who do not have computers/internet the libraries can be a window into job searches/preparation.
6377	7/11/2012	provides valuable resource - books, dvds to all community residents + age levels. Same as answer above. They are critical to teaching our kids, about words and literature and community. They are a great resource for adults to keep up as well. []
6378	7/11/2012	They are just below schools, fire and police force, water, safe roads for bikers and cars.

6379	7/11/2012	Equal access to knowledge and resources for all of our community members. Building well informed citizenry life long learning Community building and neighborhood cohesiveness
6380	7/11/2012	There are some people that do not have the resources to buy books to use the internet or do things with their children I have been there so I understand this problem.
6381	7/11/2012	I'm an avid reader & technology aside, I still love the smell of a good book. I want my children to appreciate the value of what a public library brings to its community: education/opportunity, etc.
6382	7/11/2012	I cannot get around like I used to and need the access to good books (in Large Print) so I can pass my hours at home comfortably while visiting other worlds and other times. They engage my imagination and pass the time happily. I seldom watch TV.
6383	7/11/2012	Libraries are a great resource for everyone, especially those who read more books than they can afford to buy.
6384	7/11/2012	I love reading and I love our library system. But I cannot say it is more important than other services such as school funding, public safety and health.
6385	7/11/2012	I try to make it to the library almost daily. When I was laid off from my job, it was a place I could go and use their wi-fi to look for work, take a special event/class to help me search for work, check out books and material that provided me with skill improvements I could use toward acquiring a new job. Plus, it's also a great resource for just having pamphlets and brochures around to learn about local activities and support groups. And since I am out of work and unemployment benefits were denied to me, it's been a great way to stay up on the latest music and movies, both with checking out at my local branch and downloading at Freegal. I can say without exaggeration that the library saved my mental health this past year. I was down and out, but the library was always a wonderful place to escape and have movies and books and cds and classes to enjoy even though I didn't have a cent to my name.
6386	7/11/2012	they are such a great community resource!!
6387	7/11/2012	Library opens the doors to so many new things. There are only two sources that person can learn from : people that we spend time with and Books that we read.

6388	7/11/2012	All my life I have been an avid reader. I don't own a TV, by choice, not financial circumstance. I believe that reading is one key to heightened intelligence and life opportunities. Although I do not have children, I believe that ALL children, regardless of social circumstance, should have access to the material a library provides free of cost. The world would benefit from free education for every child, but we do not currently have that. A library is an opportunity for people of all ages and from all walks of life to educate themselves, when other avenues are not open to them. As for myself, I enjoy recorded books, as well, which are quite expensive. I could never afford to have purchased all the recorded books I have enjoyed from the library over the years, which have served to entertain, educate and further enrich my life. Thank you, Library!
6389	7/11/2012	Because they make me feel like I'm part of a community. Also, books and reading are very important to me and I enjoy having a community place that fosters that and where I can share that with my family in a social way.
6390	7/11/2012	Because I love to read and because they make books and technology available to those who can't afford them otherwise.
6391	7/11/2012	I grew up with libraries; Using libraries is a very green way to live; less books to buy; services are "free" , Free activities; a gathering place for people.
6392	7/11/2012	Use the library but based on current pay, cannot afford the passed levy
6393	7/11/2012	They are wonderful resources for our communities. I work in st. Johns and live on Sauvie Island. I have dial-up internet service at home, and the library provides me a place that I can have high-speed internet for viewing stuff I can't get at home. I read a lot of books, and don't like to buy them and keep them at home. The library is great for that - usually what I want to read is there, and the waits aren't too long, usually.
6394	7/11/2012	Somewhat important
6395	7/11/2012	the library's are needed by everyone age groups
6396	7/11/2012	Because throughout my life (59 yrs), knowing where your library is has always seemed most important. But I wonder, is it doing too much (i.e., it should be a book repository, only?).
6397	7/11/2012	I am retired just recently. I can now enjoy the services the library has to offer. I just really enjoy the Central Library building; the architecture and ambiance of the place. All the librarians are so knowledgeable and helpful in assisting me with finding the correct resource materials, recommendations for books, etc.

6398	7/11/2012	As a teacher, schools do not have adequate resources for children learning to read. Our public libraries fill the void. Children's wide interests can be satisfied by the larger public library system. Augmentation of classroom material is also possible when teachers check out books in the larger public library system. When I want to research issues of political concern or do research for the books that I write, the library is the place I depend upon. It really isn't possible to have a well educated and politically informed populace without a strong public library system. The internet is great, but it doesn't always serve well for in-depth research and helping children become avid readers.
6399	7/11/2012	A literate, well-educated population is invaluable to a city.
6400	7/11/2012	It pulls the community together.
6401	7/11/2012	Because learning and knowledge are at the center of a democratic civilization. Public libraries are the only institution which disseminates information not under corporate control.
6402	7/11/2012	The ability to read, the ability to dream, to expand one's mind, all lead to a more productive and happy future.
6403	7/11/2012	free public indiscriminate information, education, and resources
6404	7/11/2012	They are essential to my work, they encouraged my children to read, they provide free services to anyone who needs them. Knowledge truly is power. Libraries give all readers the tools to control their own destinies.
6405	7/11/2012	because I think reading is the basis of all knowledge. How to move from a thought or idea to action requires knowledge and education....libraries are pivotal to the possession of that knowledge.[] [] ...and...damn...I don't have a tv, because most tv is mind-numbing crap...and I read for entertainment.
6406	7/11/2012	A great resource for my personnel education and an educated public is essential to the future of the city.
6407	7/11/2012	I am a regular library user. It's no surprise it would rank as 'very important.' This is a resource used by many people, of all ages and educational levels. The library provides free access to information. I think it is critical offer this access to all individuals.
6408	7/11/2012	I love the library system Portland has. It is very important to me.
6409	7/11/2012	They provide services that many disadvantaged groups would not otherwise receive. It is also a great community tool and resource for people who want to enjoy and education themselves but who do not want to spend money.
6410	7/11/2012	Free knowledge should be available to all.
6411	7/11/2012	Access for all due to taxes.
6412	7/11/2012	Education and the ability to read is the bases for being informed and more productive
6413	7/11/2012	Because the library is instrumental to increase the literacy level of the community, and allows the community to stay abreast of current media without having to buy books outright.

6414	7/11/2012	Because they offer opportunities for children to learn the joy of reading and traveling to places through books they may never have the opportunity to visit otherwise. Because the offer resources for our community that some of our most fragile might not have otherwise. For those who are home bound, they offer staying in touch with the community. For all of us, our library offers the opportunity to continue to learn and explore regardless of our age.
6415	7/11/2012	We are quickly becoming a multi-cultural mecca. The need to educate, communicate and share our cultures compassionately can all be realized at our libraries. They ARE where are stories are housed. When I request literature or other forms of media from my library that depict and represent other cultures I am sure I will obtain that material. I can learn, get a little comfortable, then seek out an organization from that culture to carry me forward into new learning and understanding. My library is most often my first step towards bridging gaps.
6416	7/11/2012	I use the library often and I enjoy it. New books are often too expensive at $29.00 each. I figure a portion of my tax money is going toward the library system, so I should take advantage of it.
6417	7/11/2012	This is one of the public services that I utilize most frequently and most appreciate.
6418	7/11/2012	It's one of the only forms of government service that does anything good for anybody.
6419	7/11/2012	It's a huge part of our community.
6420	7/11/2012	a well informed public is essential to understand the need to support other public services
6421	7/11/2012	I use the local library very consistently because I do not always have the money to buy the books I want to read. Also, if I want to read a book, but do not know if I will like it or not, I can check it out at the library before buying it.
6422	7/11/2012	Libraries remain the greatest source of truly free information and education for all - an essential part of our American democracy.
6423	7/11/2012	I and my children are voracious readers. It would be too expensive to buy all the books we read, and many of the books are ones we only want to read once anyway. We also like to check out videos.
6424	7/11/2012	I appreciate having the library there. My kids are teenagers now and I used the library lots when they were younger and may use it again more when I am a senior, but for now, we only use it infrequently. Still, it is a valuable resource for the community overall and for each of us at different times along our life journey.
6425	7/11/2012	It allows me to not waste money on books I want to read but don't want to own.
6426	7/11/2012	See previous response.
6427	7/11/2012	Libraries are a vital public service because many people -- especially the poor -- would not have access to books at all if it weren't for the library. I grew up very poor in North Portland. I went to James John Elementary and the St. Johns library across from my school was vitally important to my education. It was often the only place I could find books. Without it, I would have been a very unhappy child and I'm not sure that I would have gone on to be the first person in my family to complete high school (and, later, college).

6428	7/11/2012	Somewhat important
6429	7/11/2012	Without the library there would be no literary resource for our family.
6430	7/11/2012	It gives kids and parents a resource to get books that they need and maybe could not afford to buy.
6431	7/11/2012	I like going to the library for an assured quiet place to study and read. It's a productive place for me after school and I can do my homework with less distraction. I also like real books to read.
6432	7/11/2012	among the highest. it's a foundation for education.
6433	7/11/2012	availability
6434	7/11/2012	I have been out of work and my computer died during that time - those resources were vital to me in my job search - and I never thought I'd be one to need these services. The library has also kept me reading when I wouldn't ordinarily have because of the books, as my income dropped dramatically during that time. With the number of kids in our library in North Portland and the lines of people waiting to get in each morning and access the computers, it's obvious our libraries are core to who we are as a community.
6435	7/11/2012	Even though I don't use the library much now, I may in the future. But I think they are very important to people who cannot afford the alternatives. I believe it is a very valuable community resource.
6436	7/11/2012	The pursuit of knowledge and sharing of information is a beautiful thing.
6437	7/11/2012	Libraries are a public value just as much as roads, public education, electric/gas utilities, public transit, public building and infrastructure maintenance, homeless shelters, water and sewer, police/jails/law enforcement, garbage/recycling collection, parks and greenspaces, health care/emergency response/hospitals/ER, firefighters, and other local public services are of public value. Libraries provide us with access to knowledge - a key thing especially for low and moderate income families who cannot afford to buy books or attend college. Libraries help address inequities in our society through providing programming and access to information to all. What kind of society would we be without public libraries? Access to, and sharing of, knowledge is a cornerstone to a prosperous society. Libraries are part of this.
6438	7/11/2012	I use the library a lot both for work and for personal reasons weekly.
6439	7/11/2012	Knowledge and education is everything!
6440	7/11/2012	Reading is my number one enjoyment. I read an average of 2-3 books per week, plus an additional book on my e-reader. When my e-reader is recharging, I read a library book and feel at loose ends if I don't have one to read. I worked and raised my children for 30+ years and now want to have the luxury of reading to my hearts content in my retirement years.
6441	7/11/2012	Because libraries allow everyone to access education and to be a part of the community (if one so chooses). I consider access to the materials and programming offered by the library one of the most basic and important public services.

6442	7/11/2012	As a senior I can not longer buy the books and dvds I want to see. It's a service for the lower incomes and the computers seem to be a big draw.
6443	7/11/2012	The access to information provided by public libraries supports the education of the community, and thus contributes to an educated and informed community, which is essential in sustaining a free society.
6444	7/11/2012	Libraries provide information to anyone, for free.
6445	7/11/2012	Because most people have their own computers
6446	7/11/2012	They provide services that other resources do not. They are the most important component of a literate and informed citizenry (maybe right after good public schools, which are losing their libraries).
6447	7/11/2012	A great way to be involved in the community. Real service. Place for learning and resources for those of all incomes.
6448	7/11/2012	because unlike all other public services, ANYONE can use the library
6449	7/11/2012	Safety such as firehouses would probably be first and I have th eresources to provide and get books on my own if need be.
6450	7/11/2012	because a doemocratic gov. depends on an educated people
6451	7/11/2012	Having free access to information (even if it is not as up to date as I would always like) is a critical component of a democratic society and should not be a luxury only accessible by the wealthy.
6452	7/11/2012	Community libraries help support the literacy of individuals in the community. Even if one is unable to afford buying books, one can borrow them from the library.
6453	7/11/2012	Without well educated citizens nothing else is possible. We need to encourage young people to be life long learners.
6454	7/11/2012	They provide people with a chance to educate themselves in the subject of their choosing. Or pass time in a valuable and productive way, time spent reading is (in my opinion) more valuable than time spent watching TV. It's important that these materials are available to the public regardless of income.
6455	7/11/2012	Because they teach and entertain
6456	7/11/2012	It's a great local resource, and it is expensive to have to buy books or tapes when I can borrow them from the library.
6457	7/11/2012	It's a great social equalizer. Everyone has access to the same amount of books and media. Our community is stronger if all it's citizens have equal access to materials.[] [] Selfishly - I benefit. I save hundreds of dollars a year by using the library, rather than purchasing books and media.
6458	7/11/2012	Access to education has a significant impact on the quality of life in our community; ranging from voter education, health information, literacy for children and adults, digital literacy, homework assistance, and recreation.

6459	7/11/2012	Because I have a computer and can get all the info I want... no need to go to the library..
6460	7/11/2012	It's a meeting place for people of all ages. It can be both a fun place to go to or a place where you can get help when things are not going so well in your life.
6461	7/11/2012	I feel it is very important to have a local library open for people to use any day of the week. Kids to have a safe place to gain knowledge after school or on the weekends. I think it's important for the library to be accessible for people who work 9-5 Mon-Fri. And it's nice to go to the library when someone is feeling down or lonely.
6462	7/11/2012	The library system is central to who we are as a society. I've seen small communities vote down funding and in some cases actually eliminate their libraries. When this happens, you know the community isn't going to last much longer. If you don't understand how central a good library system is to the health of that community, you just don't understand what a library is. It's not just books for little kids. For some, it's the only access to Internet/computers and the vital form of communication that is. The library is open to all. You don't need money. For the disabled and/or elderly, it may be the only way of remaining connected to the community they are a part of. The value we place on our libraries has a direct correlation to how evolved we are as a community. And we have to be evolved in order to even understand the importance other agencies also have.....fire, police, health dept., animal control, parks, EPA, water, transportation.....they're all important and in some cases necessary to even sustain life. The library makes the sustained life worth living.
6463	7/11/2012	In my opinion libraries aren't a scary place. They're welcoming. If you need local services, the library is a very good place to go.
6464	7/11/2012	Libraries are community hubs and a free place for information, the foundation of an equitable, democratic society.
6465	7/11/2012	Because it is important for the public to have access to information. Many of us can't afford to purchase books and other media but we can check them out from the library. I am on a very limited income and I love the MC libraries. I also consider it my responsibility to take good care of the materials. The public should realize that responsibility comes along with the rights.
6466	7/11/2012	It's PROUD , in the U.S.A.[] Best Library.
6467	7/11/2012	Because I read 2 or 3 books a week and do lots genealogy research. I am a crafter also and I am always looking for new ideas.Also an avid cook and love to try new recipes.
6468	7/11/2012	They can be very valuable in the long term, but they are not a day to day necessity like public transit. Also, their value depends greatly on how well they are managed.
6469	7/11/2012	They allow my family access to books and information we would otherwise not be able to afford
6470	7/11/2012	I love to read!!!!!!! I really love how a book in large print can be requested.
6471	7/11/2012	basic needs for public service support for housing, food, and mental health come before library needs from my point of view

6472	7/11/2012	Education
6473	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the things that make a city civilized. The library serves all people, whether they live in a condo in the Pearl District or are homeless. I can't imagine not having them around.
6474	7/11/2012	I love to read and enjoy taking my grand kids to the library.
6475	7/11/2012	It's a matter of tradition. We've always had libraries and the ability to read and learn and explore our imaginations using tax dollars that WE THE PEOPLE provide. If we want libraries to stay open, they'd better stay open.
6476	7/11/2012	We have used the library often during our lives and appreciate the resources available there. Great place to also be part of our local community.
6477	7/11/2012	limited personal resources
6478	7/11/2012	I suppose fire fighters and police are more important.
6479	7/11/2012	I am fortunate in that I can purchase or have other resources for what I use at the library if needed - but it's crucial that everyone has the opportunity to access these resources. I work with a lot of job seekers who depend on the library as a resource.
6480	7/11/2012	Libraries offer tools of information and imagination, two things that - in my view - are key to growth and survival.
6481	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the only public services that provides all citizens with equal access to a direct source of empowerment and self-improvement. Through libraries, people can be entertained, educated, they can apply for jobs, file taxes, research topics that become essential to their lives, they can improve educational outcomes for their children, they can learn about their communities. These are all vital functions in a democratic society. Without these, I believe we would quickly cease to be capable of democracy at all.
6482	7/11/2012	One is able to find all kinds of information, reading materiel for leisure/pleasure, a safe place to go to READ!
6483	7/11/2012	I appreciate them but not a high priority in difficult funding times
6484	7/11/2012	They are very important to me, but when compared to other services I can't say that. I can't afford my reading habit so I love the library.
6485	7/11/2012	adds to enrichment of community life on many levels
6486	7/11/2012	i read regularly and do an extensive amount of research in the library.
6487	7/11/2012	Seems like a very important asset for the community at large, especially the lower income segments, but obviously not as critical as public safety services.
6488	7/11/2012	I am a life long reader; it is my only real hobby and love. It's important for knowledge and I'm instilling into my children it's importance. I love having a community library within walking distance that we can enjoy.

6489	7/11/2012	They keep my kids interested in learning. The library is a safe community meeting place for families. I love to check out items instead of spending the money to buy them and then deal with the clutter. They offer free computer use to many people who wouldn't otherwise have access. The club meeting spaces build community and foster local political involvement through Townhall meetings. The ambiance of the downtown branch is breathtaking and all the branches foster a love for and respect of the written word for everyone in my family.
6490	7/11/2012	Libraries have seen me through many a hard time. It is the public service I use the most.
6491	7/11/2012	All the resources and community
6492	7/11/2012	We have small children (4 & 6) and burn through a lot of chapter books. There is NO WAY we could afford to pay for all of the books we read nor would I want a full set of Rainbow Magic Fairies in our permanent library.
6493	7/11/2012	Fundamental human survival is first
6494	7/11/2012	Because I truly enjoy them.
6495	7/11/2012	No kids, no elderly parents in town, don't like to wait long periods to get a book or the hassle of pickup/drop off.[] [] Really don't like the idea of an additional levy..until you look at the compensation of senior management.
6496	7/11/2012	See my answer above
6497	7/11/2012	Many local public services can be maintained by the people using them by lowering or enlarging their disired service. However the local library service is much needed for the many people (young[] and old) taking all kinds of educational courses...so from that standpoint the local library is needed much more.
6498	7/11/2012	Reading/literacy and socialisation and assistance are invaluable to our culture and to my neighbourhood, just as important as they are on the scale of my family. A city without a good library system seems like a city without hope or community.
6499	7/11/2012	They are a cornerstone of civilization.
6500	7/11/2012	Inadequate collection..criteria for what is offered and what isn't is not clear to me.
6501	7/11/2012	My children and I check out tons of books we wouldn't be able to enjoy otherwise. I cannot afford my reading habit so the library provides a way for me to read all the books I could want
6502	7/11/2012	The library, like schools, represents free access to knowledge AS A RIGHT. To deny that right is no less a concern to me than to deny access to safety, health, food, water and shelter.
6503	7/11/2012	Provide unlimited hours of reading for pleasure, plus enabling us to check out various "how to" books. We often test drive a technical computer or home repair book before buying it. It's very difficult to stand in an aisle at Powell's Technical and decide which software book will be most helpful.

6504	7/11/2012	As a homeschooler the library is a great recorcfull place for me to pick up educational and entertaining reading. The computers help me in research and asist me for haveing more fun at my library.
6505	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power, and access to knowledge should be a right, not a privilege.
6506	7/11/2012	Because I read and listen to library materials frequently
6507	7/11/2012	Save money by borrowing books instead of buying them. Multiple resources are available at the library for job seekers.
6508	7/11/2012	Libraries OFFER to all segments of the community. I think that if everyone did utilize their services they would be way over crowded. I see the job seekers, seniors, kids and teenagers each time I go to pick up books. A real sense of community.
6509	7/11/2012	Library is a place to get lots of help through out books, DVD, cassette, and in addition staffs are very essential needed to everyone so people would be able to ask for help.
6510	7/11/2012	Access to books, learning, etc, for all economic levels is very important to me.
6511	7/11/2012	Because I believe that a well read citizenry is a well educated citizenry which is essential for a strong, positive, caring community.
6512	7/11/2012	I use the library for all kinds of things, I have checked out books that helped me with work, with my personal health, with my child's health, with hobbies and interests, and I've used the computers when I haven't had access to the internet or a printer at home.
6513	7/11/2012	I rely on the library for my reading material and dvds. When my computer is down, I use the computers.
6514	7/11/2012	I want to live in an educated society that promotes life long learning, and libraries encourage this.
6515	7/11/2012	Books and reading are high on our family's list of values. We read for school assignments, for self-education, for hobbies and interests, and for enjoyment. There is no possible way I could buy all the books that I and our three kids want to read. The library literally opens up the world of reading for us with titles that we'd otherwise never have access to. The inter-library loan/hold program makes the entire resources of the MCL available to every resident, no matter where they are. I LOVE it.
6516	7/11/2012	I use the library a least 4 times a week. Due to my chronic pain, reading has kept me sane.
6517	7/11/2012	I guess I'm thinking about water and safety services so the library isn't quite as important but still quite important. It's a good thing for communities and stuff.
6518	7/11/2012	All of society benefits when the largest possible population is literate and informed.
6519	7/11/2012	Used by everyone
6520	7/11/2012	I've used the public library since I was old enough to have a card. I love being able to borrow books and don't mind being on waiting lists for new or popular books. I also enjoy reading magazines at the library.
6521	7/11/2012	Use books and video materials fro work

6522	7/11/2012	A community without a library, and a well-appointed one at that, is a sad commentary on that community.
6523	7/11/2012	I think the public library is an important supplement to in-school education.
6524	7/11/2012	Because my family and many other members of our community depend upon this public service as a vital resource for life-enriching education, entertainment, social interaction, community involvement, and assistance. It is a treasure to be shared equally by all, no matter their economic means.
6525	7/11/2012	This is the one place for information other than the internet. Not everyone has access to the internet, but the library is their first resource.
6526	7/11/2012	Ignorance and poverty can only be combatted with the ability to learn and gain knowledge and resources.
6527	7/11/2012	Because clean water and electicity are vital to human beings survival.
6528	7/11/2012	I use the library more often than most things my taxes pay for.
6529	7/11/2012	Because reading is one of the most important activities in learning overall.
6530	7/11/2012	I love to read and can't afford to buy the amount of books I read even second-hand. I get to read and listen to books I might not feel strongly enough to buy. I also come across books and cds I might not find out about on my own.
6531	7/11/2012	A library is a compendium of knowledge. You can learn to read. You can find out what you need to know. You can visit other worlds in books. A library is a quiet, well-lit place where you can sit, read and contemplate. It's the best place to do homework. It's the best place to do research. If it doesn't have a book you need, staff can get it for you, at a nominal fee. You can check out the most current fiction and nonfiction, and keep up with trends, even if you can't afford to buy the books. A library is a repository of exclusive knowledge, a place where you can read books that are so rare you wouldn't be able otherwise to access them. And when you're broke and out of luck, or just stuck out in the rain, a library is a haven to lift your spirits and supply you with new ideas. Carmen
6532	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to books to further education (formal or informal) and to be able to have internet access to seek for a job. If not for libraries reading becomes elitist, something not accessible to those who cannot afford to purchase books.
6533	7/11/2012	I like reading a lot.
6534	7/11/2012	I LOVE our library system because of the ease of ordering, picking up, and having access overall to a wide variety of books and media.
6535	7/11/2012	They are integral to community spirit and increasing education across the city. We love our libraries so very much and providing education is one of the most important factors in developing a strong community.
6536	7/11/2012	Because the computers and staff were helpful in me getting employment! Please stay open 7 days a week

6537	7/11/2012	Access to educational materials through the library system is extremely important. Sure, a lot of things are available online now but not everyone has access. The library is an indispensable public asset.
6538	7/11/2012	It's a service I use regularly and is very convenient. I like that I can select books online & receive an email when they are ready for pick up. The people who work there are always very helpful and friendly - something you rarely see anymore. I always feel good when I visit the Gresham library.
6539	7/11/2012	For many years I did not have a computer..When my son was little I would take him to the reading corner every week he would be with kids his own age, where some one would read books that he picked out, it helped him learn to love reading and gain social skills with kids his own age.. He looked forward to this every week.
6540	7/11/2012	They improve everyone's quality of life without regard to income.
6541	7/11/2012	not as important as public safety, but such a valuable resource for so many for education, entertainment & computer use
6542	7/11/2012	everybody can use all kind of informartion, regradless of their economic sutuarions.
6543	7/11/2012	read newspapers, magazines, etc., check out books, attend special programs, enjoy the library with my six-year-old grandson, nice environment, I've been using public libraries all my life
6544	7/11/2012	I patronize my library every week. I enjoy sharing media with others without having to purchase it and store it in my home. The Multco library system supports my work as a certified teacher tremendously! I am a more educated person because I expose myself to many community resources at the library. The Albina library is the most equitable diverse institution in my neighborhood, which has been flash gentrified in the past decades.
6545	7/11/2012	I may not utilize the library as much as I used to but I cannot imagine living without a local library.
6546	7/11/2012	Being a great resources of books & other media for all ages.[] Give people without internet access to use it.[] Great location to hold meetings.
6547	7/11/2012	because I and my family use the services a lot.
6548	7/11/2012	If I couldn't get books from the library, I would be poor given the rate at which I read books. I read more books than anyone I know and that's saying something since everyone in my group of friends read more than almost all kids our age.
6549	7/11/2012	1) Library's provide a way for people to learn and improve their lives.[] 2) There have been times when I could only get a book that was out of print from the library.[] 3) They do provide entertainment for low income people to be able to check out music and videos.[] 3a) Though I think with free wifi and cable resources most people have those available.
6550	7/11/2012	maintains culture, history, and community in Portland
6551	7/11/2012	I was there 4-5 days a week for almost a year during my unemployment to use the computers and find research materials.

6552	7/11/2012	People should always have access to books and materials that will strengthen knowledge and keep minds creative. Without these sources, education will continue to decline. Sadly, all the politicians state their priority with supporting education, but then they keep cutting the budgets. Seems rather hypocritical!
6553	7/11/2012	Library services are on par with schools, services to the elderly and other public services because they represent a safety net for many people.
6554	7/11/2012	Libraries are places where anyone of any age can go to make use of their services without charge. It is a quiet place where one can read, study, do research, find out about other services in the area etc.
6555	7/11/2012	Because without access to books, materials and programs provided by the library, especially during times of economic downturn, low income individuals and the unemployed are even less able to educate themselves, find employment, and improve their ability to contribute to society in general.
6556	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power
6557	7/11/2012	We read widely on many topics and appreciate being able to access books without buying each and every one of them. We don't have either enough money or space for all the books we would like to read.
6558	7/11/2012	Accessibility of information and a way to stay connected with other people.
6559	7/11/2012	The library services change who we are as people. The education and cultural value of the library allows access to important information, art, culture, language and all the other forms of communication. The community as a whole benefits from young people who acquire a love of learning and thirst for knowledge which continues throughout their lifetime. Elder citizens find stimulating and challenging activities which allow them to be involved and highly valued in their community. The library is a living breathing part of the community and we all need to nurture it as it nourishes us.
6560	7/11/2012	Even when you don't have anything else, you can count on the library - for a way to communicate through e-mail, to look for work, to research important issues, or, of course, to get something to read. It's easy to take Internet access, cable, and the funds to hit Powell's once a week for granted, but if you're missing some or all of that, the library makes the difference between isolation and connection.
6561	7/11/2012	The library provides access to books, music, and movies that I can't otherwise get.
6562	7/11/2012	I am a teacher and I regularly check out materials for my students that are not available to them otherwise.
6563	7/11/2012	my wife and I use the library extensively
6564	7/11/2012	This is a marvelous way to borrow books and new ideas. My world is much expanded when I can read a new book without investing in it.

6565	7/11/2012	Libraries build communities and are tools for empowerment because they allow access to resources, and help to educate the public.
6566	7/11/2012	as important as/in conjunction with free public schools
6567	7/11/2012	It is very important to keep information available to all without depending on internet for everything.
6568	7/11/2012	I spend a lot of my time reading and I read for an hour every night before bed.
6569	7/11/2012	Knowledge is useless if not shared.
6570	7/11/2012	It is all very important and each service should be treated equally. My husband and I use the library very frequently for both reading material and research. My children use this resource often for researching school assignments and for reading in general. It is one of the major resources that my family uses in our community
6571	7/11/2012	I don't have a car so it nice to be close
6572	7/11/2012	Reading is a lifelong adventure.
6573	7/11/2012	I can't think of any other local public services I personally use. But I'm not sure if I know what's included in "local public services".
6574	7/11/2012	Again, libraries are so important in fostering a literate culture, especially among the young. We really need to give students access to books and be as available as possible, so that kids see books as a healthy hobby!
6575	7/11/2012	Library services are incredibly important to those who are looking for work, don't have Internet access at home, need help with government forms, etc. These services allow people to take advantage of other local public services like food stamps or unemployment.
6576	7/11/2012	Libraries are a vital point of access to culture and education for those with limited resources. They are a safe, community-friendly meeting place, and they provide opportunity for computer access and computer literacy to those most in need.
6577	7/11/2012	I love the library. I love being able to browse the shelves and find books and movies that I never heard of and turn out to be gems. I love taking my son there and finding him books to look at. I like being able to check out books or movies that I haven't seen so I can decide if I like them well enough to purchase. ☐ With that being said, I do feel programs like public safety, fire and medical assistance are of vital importance.
6578	7/11/2012	Libraries aren't as important as police, fire, sewer, but more important than many other programs.
6579	7/11/2012	Free knowledge. Get yours here.
6580	7/11/2012	I fell in love with reading at an early age. My family would not have been able to afford enough books to keep my interest satisfied. I want all people to have the same access to books that my local library gave me growing up and that Multnomah County Library gives me now.
6581	7/11/2012	Libraries are a necessary for the literacy and education of a community. They are a gathering place and support the multicultural aspects of the community.
6582	7/11/2012	All income levels are able to use facility and material to further educate/advance themselves.
6583	7/11/2012

6584	7/11/2012	Because they are free of cost, they benefit everybody, they are open to everybody, it's a true educational resource full of infinite value.
6585	7/11/2012	Police, fire, roads, safety and some of the administrative duties have to be ahead of library services. They are critical to the public order and survival and would cost lives if they were not maintained. Libraries provide an avenue to learning, information and art but so does the internet. I believe the day will come when every book, periodical, movie, TV program and event will be accessible through the internet. I wonder what that will eventually do to libraries and would be sad to see their demise but is technology going to force the issue.
6586	7/11/2012	Easy access to a great variety without needing to purchase them.
6587	7/11/2012	Reading is SO important. And access to trusted information is too. I spent a great deal of time at the library as a child, it helped my love of books and reading. Also, it is a place that is open to all and costs nothing to the user, nothing like that is available anywhere else. Why don't people realize how important the library is? Everyone uses the library!
6588	7/11/2012	Among top.
6589	7/11/2012	We view learning as a life long endeavor. The library facilitates this education process. As we continue to further our knowledge in a wide range of subjects, it prepares us to be better members of our local, national, and global communities.
6590	7/11/2012	They provide a service that gives children, seniors, adults a place to open their minds through the many levels of books provided, the ability to obtain those books at no cost, a safe environment to learn and help others learn, a place to congregate and meet other like-minded individuals. I believe tutoring and helping young children make better choices through education is a much better use of resources than the alternative - jail or police involvement.
6591	7/11/2012	Books are empowering, can open doors to anyone. Libraries provide free access to explore and learn.
6592	7/11/2012	Because as a social worker, I could never afford to buy the books and other media that I borrow. Also, the library is always an important, safe place for those who are struggling, like homeless youth.
6593	7/11/2012	It is very hard to rank them. I'm a public transportation user, so it is very important. I never called police or fire station but they are kind of bones in the community. I just can't say which is more or less important.
6594	7/11/2012	Water, trash, roads, schools are just a few of necessary services that are more important than libraries. I love to read and think our library system is great, but when compared to some other local public services I consider it an amenity not a critical service

6595	7/11/2012	Libraries provide a service to the community that is not available other places. The ability to borrow books and other materials is advantageous for people from all income categories and educational levels. Having access to computers is beneficial to individuals who either cannot afford a computer or have the ability to pay fees for internet access. Plus the library offers many programs that are beneficial to a variety of people. Other communities have figured out how to fund libraries; Multnomah County ought to be able to figure it out also. I served on a county library committee in Wisconsin many years ago that was searching for a way to fund and create a county library system. It has been in operation since the 1980s and quite successful with cooperation from many levels of government and the approval of the citizens to pay for it through a county-wide tax.
6596	7/11/2012	Our local libraries serve diverse functions and provide information, products & services to an amazingly diverse population -- diverse by age, education, ethnicity, social and economic backgrounds. They provide safe spaces for individuals and community to assemble, to advance their knowledge and broaden their horizons. They are a space that fosters personal, professional & social growth. I believe public libraries are possibly the only true democratic institutions in America. I guess that means would rather have a vibrant library in my neighborhood than have someone pick up my garbage every week.
6597	7/11/2012	I use them. I like to think I know their value.
6598	7/11/2012	Libraries provide amazing resources to the community. I never read books before I wandered in to the Central Library downtown about two years ago after moving to Portland. Now I go three times a week and check out cd's and books. It's what I look forward to.
6599	7/11/2012	Because libraries provide an array of services to a very wide range of people within the community, whereas with other public services, one has to qualify in specific ways. No one has to qualify to access the library & that makes it an essential component of a democratic/inclusive community.
6600	7/11/2012	My family primarily used the library for books. We may participate in the summer reading program, but that is about it.
6601	7/11/2012	Having a young child, it is very important to encourage and teach children about the value of the library and all of its many resources. It's important to establish that relationship early in the lives of our youth. Utilizing and visiting the library encourages reading.
6602	7/11/2012	Well, of course I want firemen and police available to help me in an emergency but I am an avid reader and value being able to get books from the library. As my granddaughter gets older I will take her to programs at the library.
6603	7/11/2012	I am an educator. Libraries level the playing field for all people in terms of access to current books and other media at an affordable price. Literacy is the beginning of all learning. If we cut our libraries we risk cutting out one of the biggest free supports for literacy ever put in to practice in our country.
6604	7/11/2012	I love the library!

6605	7/11/2012	Because I feel that emergency services should be top priority and then maybe services for homeless and displaced peoples. After those types of services I feel libraries are very important.
6606	7/11/2012	I do not use it as much as once did, also I do almost 100 percent of my library searches (and holds) online. Also I do not believe the library should be doing nearly so many extra (and costly) "services".
6607	7/11/2012	I can't put libraries above safety and transportation infrastructure, but whenever I move to a new place, one of the first things that I do is get a library card. During that time when I don't have internet or a computer (which is normal for many), the library is the only place that I can connect to the news, my family, and ways to find a job.
6608	7/11/2012	We get most of our reading materials there. My husband reads about 3 books a week.
6609	7/11/2012	It is very important to teach my children the importance of reading. Getting new books out of the library every 2 weeks is a ritual to us, and it is a valuable part of our lives. It means we are able to read many more books than we can afford to buy.
6610	7/11/2012	Because I love to read, but can't afford to buy all the books I want to read--and I like a chance to look through lots of books to see which I might like and which might be most useful. I also enjoy watching dvd's we borrow from the library. And I use the library for research for a book I am writing, as well as for major purchases we plan to make.
6611	7/11/2012	Because I like to read and there is no way that I am going to buy books all the time. I do purchase some books, but it can get very expensive and I also have no desire to collect a lot of books to just have them sitting on a bookshelf after I read them.[] [] Also, I think the library provides some very needed services for people. There are still many people who do not have computers or Internet access at home and it is important that they be able to use a computer and access the Internet.
6612	7/11/2012	I consider the library a very valuable resource and hope that it's funding continues at a high level it allows me to access databases for personal and business research that would otherwise be difficult to access given my current financial situation. The only reason I did not read it very important it is that there are other absolutely life-sustaining public services such as mental health services fire departments Police Department in emergency rooms which are somewhat more important to me than the local library given budgetary realities
6613	7/11/2012	Promote critical thinking, instill a love of learning and reading, offer opportunities to those who may not otherwise be able to afford them
6614	7/11/2012	I love seeing how many people are in the library. The St. Johns library is a gathering place in the neighborhood for residents to get library materials, access to the internet, information about local activities, and programs about "ethnic" members of our community. I love it when I go to the library and I see staff speaking in Spanish with residents, kids attending story time, or people checking out the bulletin board for local programs. Where else would we get this?

6615	7/11/2012	community needs educational outlets.
6616	7/11/2012	Knowledge=power.[] I cannot imagine a world without books.
6617	7/11/2012	Because I said so
6618	7/11/2012	Because borrowing books/etc. is loved by ME! Always has been no matter where I live.....
6619	7/11/2012	Helps keep educational materials (including technology) accessible by all.
6620	7/11/2012	I enjoy using the library services, but it would not be as important as public services such as fire and police protection.
6621	7/11/2012	It is access to information that those without resources can actually access, i.e., lower incomes. I use it for books on tape that I could not afford to buy.
6622	7/11/2012	It gets my kids reading, they check out new books every week
6623	7/11/2012	They give poorer people access to something that can be used to improve themselves and the worked. And I love checking put books at the library!
6624	7/11/2012	An educated society is a vibrant, healthy, resilient society. Free access to books is essential to foster curiosity, responsibility, and the active life of the mind supports a civic and civil society.
6625	7/11/2012	The libraries offer vital access to materials and resources that have been reduced in the public school. They also help to equalize access to the internet, job resources and other services to those who cann not afford them on their own.
6626	7/11/2012	Everyone in my family are avid readers. My children constantly use library for school research projects. Family members are employed by libraries, and we utilize programs from read to dogs to summer reading volunteering, teen council, etc.
6627	7/11/2012	Resource for everyone. Builds community. Emphasizes the pride Portlandians take in being smart, cultured, socially and community aware.
6628	7/11/2012	Libraries make us civilized. Libraries afford afford citizens of all ages with a wealth of resources for learning, finding employment, enrichment and entertainment in a safe and peaceful environment.
6629	7/11/2012	A sound library system is fundamental to freedom in a democracy.
6630	7/11/2012	I believe in education and the library gives that to everyone for free! We must have an educated society if we are to maintain our importance in the world.
6631	7/11/2012	Access to information & literature, outside of public safety and utilities, is the biggest contribution government can make that cannot be provided by the private sector.
6632	7/11/2012	Because it is a way for people of all income levels to access information, education and entertainment without spending money. it's a great way for parents to introduce love of learning to their children, and for adults to develop new skills, as well as a social outlet.
6633	7/11/2012	Public schools, police and fire service, parks and roads maintenance are the most important responsibilities of local government in my opinion. Libraries important too, but somewhat less than the above.

		They are because I can get any book that is available easily on loan instead of by purchase only. Somewhat less so for movies of which the pool needs to be enlarged.
6634	7/11/2012	Information should be free.
		Local public services need to be expanded .
6635	7/11/2012	Where is the public wifi or cel phone service or even public electric utility?
6636	7/11/2012	They are a source for information and services that can affect as little or as much of your life as you like. They are also the only way many people can get access to the internet or knowledgeable people who can direct them to the information they need.
6637	7/11/2012	Libraries do so much to foster community and create a livable place
6638	7/11/2012	We have young children and encourage reading. Our children are constantly checking out material.
6639	7/11/2012	I cannot afford to purchase the amount of books I like to share with my loved ones and students.
6640	7/11/2012	The library is a great way to access books and music that you don't want to buy.
6641	7/11/2012	The access to free information, technology and resources.
6642	7/11/2012	The library, probably more than any other public location, has the most diverse appeal, as a resource for education, or job seeking, or other research, social functions, community. You can do so much at the library, year round, in any kind of weather.
6643	7/11/2012	I am a retired school teacher, retired City of Portland employee , and a life-long learner. I was raised going to libraries and I believe all communities need them. This is especially important as people are being unable to afford internet and other entertainment activities. Books are a great way to learn, grow, and find out how to better your life.
6644	7/11/2012	Because access to library resources is essential to a healthy democracy.
6645	7/11/2012	They are very important but not as important as public assistance.
6646	7/11/2012	Having an educational facility is essential to bringing communities together & encouraging people (especially the young) to "unplug" & supplement their learning & recreational activities in positive ways.
6647	7/11/2012	Library services are very important because they provide free access to educational resources for everybody, and anybody can benefit from these resources. They also provide internet and job resources for those who need them.
6648	7/11/2012	We use the library for nearly all of our reading, research, and entertainment. We LOVE our library!
6649	7/11/2012	easy access to information is more important than ever and public resources like libraries help balance the degree of access across socio-economic and other division of our communities.
6650	7/11/2012	An educated citizenry makes a strong, wealthy, free nation.

6651	7/11/2012	Just supply information. not all the group programs. [] On the next question (9) you give three choices and demand I choose one, I will, but none are adequate because you are not cutting out the junk that increases the cost of operations. [] and #10 is a waste unless you cut out the programs that are wasting money
6652	7/11/2012	Libraries provide invaluable access to information. Any other equivalent source of information is far more expensive for the user. It is in our interest to support libraries communally so that services are available to everyone.
6653	7/11/2012	Because I rarely use the Library but I know that others do.
6654	7/11/2012	Because I am home schooled and it is a wonderful source of educational resources.
6655	7/11/2012	Community connection. [] Helping reduce disparities.
6656	7/11/2012	Libraries are not as useful as in years past due to the rise of the Internet and streaming media. Literature is available for free or at very low cost for the kindle as an example.
6657	7/11/2012	There's a great book out there on the subject. It's called Fahrenheit 451...
6658	7/11/2012	The library is extremely important because it is a bank of knowledge and resources that community members of all ages and social economic statuses can use.
6659	7/11/2012	Libraries have been central to my education and lifestyle for as long as I can remember. One of my earliest memories is of the bookmobile, a converted semi truck that toured the tiny towns in northern Wisconsin in the early 1970's. My family went to library several times a week when I was growing up, all year round. I knew the library as an institution before I knew school or church as an institution. Books, story time, having a space reserved for reading and calm. I use the library as my primary source of learning and entertainment. It is part of my week, just as much as the grocery is. I value it personally and as a solid cornerstone of the kind of free and educated society I want to live in.
6660	7/11/2012	Provides a quality of life for our community
6661	7/11/2012	Libraries serve as a place for senior citizens and job seekers to go in order to seek employment or other relevant information. I also believe that libraries encourage reading and education by ensuring that anyone can have the opportunity to learn if they are so inclined without incurring the high cost of purchasing books.
6662	7/11/2012	Books, culture, community, inquiry, imagination, discovery, oasis... when I walk into a public library, especially a beautiful, lively, well-maintained library like North Portland or the Central Library I believe that the world is a kind, just place, that someone somewhere cares about the little guy, the man in the street, the underdog. Once last year I was walking into the Central Library thinking about how beautiful it was, overcome with gratitude that the loveliest, liveliest building in Portland was actually the public library, and tears welled up in my eyes.

6663	7/11/2012	It's one if the few public services that creates a sense of community and brings people together. It seems to me that it's also one that is used by all socioeconomic classes, in good neighborhoods and bad.
6664	7/11/2012	I believe education and learning is the only cure for crime and war. Books broaden our minds, enhance our experience and reduces our ignorance. As a community resource, libraries are the foundation of society and those "other local public services"
6665	7/11/2012	Education and reading resources for all ages is important.
		Libraries create opportunities for people of all ages to better themselves. They are the most important place in any community. Not only do they hold a wealth of knowledge but also provide a safe place to acquire knowledge. [] []
6666	7/11/2012	Ray Bradbury said it best when interviewed by the New York Times in June of 2009: "Libraries raised me,I don't believe in colleges and universities. I believe in libraries because most students don't have any money. When I graduated from high school, it was during the Depression and we had no money. I couldn't go to college, so I went to the library three days a week for 10 years." I can say with confidence that Ray Bradbury is not a rogue example. [] [] http://www.nytimes.com/2009/06/20/us/20ventura.html
6667	7/11/2012	Information/access vital to democracy.
6668	7/11/2012	Use a lot
6669	7/11/2012	Libraries provide and environmentally sensitive way of providing reading material to the public. In addition, libraries help communities with programs for every age group. Furthermore, portland public schools lack librarians to help students use he library for both individual and academic needs.
6670	7/11/2012	A free society has unrestricted access to information.
6671	7/11/2012	They continue to change my life and ensure my future as a first generation student.
6672	7/11/2012	a vital part of the community
6673	7/11/2012	I want to live with educated and informed people around me.
6674	7/11/2012	Because they educate people and now serve as a meeting place for different classes and groups also for people to read and use computers who do not have money.
6675	7/11/2012	As someone who works in the library field (past employee of MCL and currently employed at a private library), I have seen first hand how knowledge from a book and other resources in a library can have a positive effect on a person's life Libraries are an invaluable resource --people are able to find answers, access knowledge and make new connections through learning and reading through materials made available at the library.
6676	7/11/2012	A healthy library is the sign of a healthy community

6677	7/11/2012	important because research and entertainment are my daily functions. but if i didnt have a library, I still have the internet and powells books. internet has endless videos and articles and access to books across the globe were cheap
6678	7/11/2012	Twin two year olds!
6679	7/11/2012	Knowledge and intellectual life are great gifts that we should all enjoy and treasure. The library is a superb example of the commons, which we need to protect as the precious endowment that it is.
6680	7/11/2012	They are a critical equal opportunity resource for self-improvement, entertainment, community, and a vital part of Portland's identity.
6681	7/11/2012	Literacy and access to media and literature are the foundation of an informed democracy; they are also essential to social mobility
6682	7/11/2012	Access to books for free, with a place to enjoy them, should be one of the top priorities of any modern society.
6683	7/11/2012	Utilizing the library is a tremendous savings for people who choose to use it. It also gives everyone access to the computer which is so important to have in this day and age. The library is a great community builder as well, from parents with young children all the way through adult reading groups and senior classes. The variety of services available is outstanding, and all of us in Multnomah County are very fortunate to have such an efficient library system.
6684	7/11/2012	Because they make the difference between access and no access for working people.
6685	7/11/2012	I want to use the library as a resource for my work with seniors at a Convalescent Center.
6686	7/11/2012	We need a literate society to remain a Democracy.
6687	7/11/2012	Educate and provide resources to the community
6688	7/11/2012	Books are important. Quiet is important.
6689	7/11/2012	people today need books in order to learn and that is why I believe the library is dearly important because our future children need them
6690	7/11/2012	My children and I frequent the library weekly. We take advantage of the children's programs (magic shows, Bug Chicks, penny's puppets, etc.) We have found the programming to be very enjoyable and enriching. We love following up our experience with checking out related books. My kids love picking out new books for me to read to them. We read to our children at least 30 minutes per day and having new stories to explore encourages the process. My children also love the summer reading program. We actively use our local library (as well as surrounding libraries for their children's programs) and we thoroughly appreciate the educational value-- our children are definitely love going to the library and they are becoming life long readers.
6691	7/11/2012	The library is a form of entertainment for me. Emergency services is more important.
6692	7/11/2012	very important

6693	7/11/2012	Access to information for all people is a critical component of a strong society. Libraries go hand-in-hand with education, finding means of employment, learning new languages, and more. Also affordable entertainment is important (bored creatures go mad, after all) and the library provides that.
6694	7/11/2012	Access to books and music that I could not afford to buy
6695	7/11/2012	They provide critical services to all ages
6696	7/11/2012	Because knowledge/information is king
6697	7/11/2012	Education, and therefore libraries, are the foundation of an intelligent and open-minded society.
6698	7/11/2012	intellectual stimulation contributes to intellectual safety--not getting stuck on a particular viewpoint from an uninformed place but free, easy access to a variety of ideas, concepts, information, history, poetry, etc.
6699	7/11/2012	They are important and popular, but I would not put them in the select few top priorities
6700	7/11/2012	It is important for the general public to have access to the resources that libraries provide. An educated public has reduced levels of crime and their quality of life is greatly improved. Because I utilize libraries everyday and would not be where I am today if not for the support of my local librarians and the resources, books, and knowledge they provide me and my community. I am so disheartened that while there is money for the prison and military industrial complex and the rich continue to not pay their fair share of taxes these BUDGET CUTS reign on the very services I and my community depend on everyday for survival. This is such an outcry...
6701	7/11/2012
6702	7/11/2012	Reading and access to similar materials are the cornerstone of a civilized society.
6703	7/11/2012	We go frequently and love the library, however public services such as police and fire are more important.
6704	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to reading materials. I believe too much emphasis is placed on sports or services that cater to the wealthier residents.
6705	7/11/2012	It's hard to pit the library against other hugely critical public services such as education, health, parks, police/fire, etc. I feel strongly about supporting all of those things. There is no question, however, in the midst of all the priorities - all of our family uses the library for 90% of the things we read, movies we watch, and things we need for our child's education. It's very important to us, and I'm incredibly grateful for the high level of service we find at our libraries.
6706	7/11/2012	It is my main source of information, fiction and non-fiction, adding immeasurably to my enjoyment of the world in general. If I couldn't read good literature, see good films and follow where my intellect leads me, then how else can a civilized society support me as an individual human being seeking to grow in understanding of my human condition?

6707	7/11/2012	As a preschool teacher, I could never provide the vast richness and variety of books to the children without the library. As a mother, I can say the same. My son is five and our trips to the library are like little pilgrimages-- we can find wonderful oversize books and take them into the children's library to pore over any subject Kiddo is interested in. I love learning about my world, but do not have the budget to buy all the books I enjoy, nor the desire to house/store so many. □ □ When I was nine, I received a library card for my birthday. It is still one of the best gifts I've ever received.
6708	7/11/2012	BECAUSE WE USE IT FOR AN INCREDIBLE RESOURCE OF CREATIVE FRESH EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION FOR OUR CHILDREN
6709	7/11/2012	Library services are definitely very nice, but our community can get by with less convenient library services better than we can get by with reductions in other parts of our social safety net, or with reductions in basic services like roadway maintenance or police and fire protection.
6710	7/11/2012	The library is my office, since I am homeless. It is of UTMOST IMPORTANCE. Also, an educated population is a smart population. Libraris are often where the first cuts are made and I wholeheartedly disagree with it. I stand with Ben Franklin on the importance of libraries.
6711	7/11/2012	I am just now getting back to using the library
6712	7/11/2012	They are a POSITIVE AND SAVE place in our environment. They encourage READING and literacy is of the utmost importance. There are people with very little or NO resources that NEED libraries. They need LOCAL, CLOSE BY libraries.
6713	7/11/2012	public safety and health services are more critical
6714	7/11/2012	When we have unpaved roads, schools in crisis and a high homeless and drug user population, the libraries are the least of our concerns.
6715	7/11/2012	Access to information is essential to maintain a well trained workforce and to facilitate democracy in action. The services to help children will assist in keeping us competitive with the world and it helps keep kids away from the idiot box--win, win.
6716	7/11/2012	Information and education in this increasingly technological age are survival skills and tools. That is SURVIVAL not luxury, not comfort level, but SURVIVAL.
6717	7/11/2012	I think I may be utilizing the library even more than I was when I was in school. And I used it often in school (I attended the Art Institute, not too far from the central library). I'm a freelance videographer and it's nice to know there are many "how-to" resources available for check out for free. The DVD collection, PBS variety in particular are very interesting to a documentary filmmaker as myself.
6718	7/11/2012	Library's provide a massive collection of resources that is available to anyone. On a personal level, I believe that when we enter a library, we all pay tribute to Ben Franklin and his incredible gift to every citizen.
6719	7/11/2012	Fire and police would go higher

6720	7/11/2012	they are great, but also in some ways a luxury. Emergency services and programs for low-income community members are more important
6721	7/11/2012	education and reading are crucial to an informed populace.
6722	7/11/2012	The library is the public service I actively and knowingly use the most.
6723	7/11/2012	I enjoy reading - reading is a gateway to the world.
6724	7/11/2012	I am a reader. There is little to nothing on the television or other media that draws my attention or interest. I don't purchase books at bookstores as I gobble words up too quickly.
6725	7/11/2012	Number one.
6726	7/11/2012
6727	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power! I am also a huge fan of the fact that libraries grant access to info. They are not political - completely neutral, just a source of info no matter what you want to do with it. I think that is important.
6728	7/11/2012	Teaching children to read and be resourceful, providing services to seniors and home bound, serving members of all races and wealth status enriches the lives of our entire community, directly and indirectly.
6729	7/11/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read. Having access to free books is something that has always been very important to me. I've loved visiting the library since I was very young; it's one of my favorite places. The fact that the library has also added other media like dvds and cds is a huge bonus, but the books are the most important thing for me.
6730	7/11/2012	Knowdlege is everything!! Having those resources available is equally important!!
6731	7/11/2012	I rate the library fairly high is there things that are more important of course, but the opportunity for the citizens of multnomah county the library providers many different services and it would sad to lose those services.
6732	7/11/2012	People of all ages benefit and I borrow books that are necessary for my writing. Books provide information and ideas fo many young people. Access to every book I hear about and want to read. [] Knowing they are available for any information I may want to research. (Both library materials and access to online research databases.[] Staff has generous and non-judgemental attitude - ready to help with any patron questions.[] Also enjoy the free music downloads.
6734	7/11/2012	Public libraries play a critical role in the education and civic participation of the public. They also help to ameliorate socioeconomic differences in access to education and information. Both are critical to a functioning democracy.
6735	7/11/2012	Of the highest importance. I am a bookseller by trade and a devout defender of both books and the free exchange of ideas. The library is the heart of a city, in my opinion. It is one of the few services that a citizen will return to during ALL seasons of life, in sickness and in health.

6736	7/11/2012	"Libraries will get you through times of no money better than money will get you through times of no libraries." ---Anne Herbert (1950-) U.S. writer
6737	7/11/2012	Access for all.
6738	7/11/2012	I read constantly and love "books", and have been a SMART reader at an elementary school for ten years.
6739	7/11/2012	Access to new books.
6740	7/11/2012	public libraries are the university of the people, available to all regardless of their socioeconomic status. they serve everyone.
6741	7/11/2012	It's a place to find resources that I cannot otherwise find or afford.
6742	7/11/2012	I prefer to use the library versus buy books and DVDs. I have used the library since I was 4 yrs old - old enough to read. I LOVE the library.
6743	7/11/2012	Education
6744	7/11/2012	because my kids love reading.
6745	7/11/2012	Lifelong learning and quality entertainment
6746	7/11/2012	they are not a life sustaining service. i.e. food, shelter, heat.
6747	7/11/2012	Libraries support and reflect the intellectual curiosity of users. Although the Internet provides a wealth of knowledge, I believe library resources should be available to the local community: it encourages people to take the time to read/research something more comprehensively, and is also less distracting.
6748	7/11/2012
6749	7/11/2012	many services are essential in a community, unfortunately, libraries are secondary to safety.
6750	7/11/2012	The library is my primary entertainment / learning source & I expect many residents are in the same boat considering the economy.
6751	7/11/2012	Because everyone in our community should have access to books. Not EVERYONE uses every other public service, but at some point in their lives, everyone uses the library. It's an important part of our communities.
6752	7/11/2012	Libraries are not as important as fire, police, EMS, or other needed services.
6753	7/11/2012	I've used public libraries my entire life. I love the library. Life would be impoverished without them. Borrowing books and movies is environmentally friendly. They are a service from which all benefit. It brings people in a community together of all ages, interests and socioeconomic groups. Some of my earliest pleasant childhood memories were trips to the library.
6754	7/11/2012
6755	7/11/2012	Pursuing knowledge through books, videos, audiobooks and taped lectures is extremely important to me, and my income is modest enough that I couldn't possibly afford the range of literary and viewing experiences the library provides me. Plus, I now find myself raising my granddaughter, so the resources it makes available to her have become important to me. Finally, we have a poor and struggling relative who absolutely depends on the library for computer access and other types of assistance.

6756	7/11/2012	Everyone, at every income level, should have access to information and educational materials. Libraries provide a critical public service by making these materials available for free to all community members.
6757	7/11/2012	It's really important to me to be able to access books, news media, and electronic media that I otherwise would not be able to afford.
6758	7/11/2012	I think libraries are important to me because they provide a critical resource to allow people to gain knowledge, meet their fellow community members and help us to be better informed and active citizens.
6759	7/11/2012	I am a lifelong library user and library worker for all of my adult life. As a child, they provided the escape into books I craved; as a young parent, they provided a safe and stimulating environment for my children; as an adult, they have provided me with a most satisfactory career. I simply cannot imagine life with libraries and adequate library service.
6760	7/11/2012	I believe that books need to be kept alive. With all this new e-reader technology like the Nook and Kindle, less books are being produced, and I think books are very very very important. They keep people informed on their favorite subjects, encourage kids' imaginations, and provide help for everyone. Libraries allow all this to be done easily and free.
6761	7/11/2012	Education and access to information is the linchpin stratifying element in our culture. While it may not be of acute importance to every individual, a modern, dynamic, free, and completely accessible information system is the stuff of any democratic society.
6762	7/11/2012	Literacy is the foundation of our society, economy and culture. Libraries help provide this important skill and are an incredible community resource.
6763	7/11/2012	They offer a wealth of information for communities, and provide lifelong learning opportunities for all ages.
6764	7/11/2012	Public libraries help people learn, enhancing their earning power. Libraries educate and entertain.
6765	7/11/2012	Police and Fire are more important
6766	7/11/2012	They aren't life-saving but they are life-changing.
6767	7/11/2012	As said earlier, the Library System is the last place in our social program structure that provides a wide range of services to all sectors of our community, including the poor, elderly and young. It is so incredibly important to keep this life line open, or where will these people go to have the tools needed to communicate with others?
6768	7/11/2012	Preschool age children
6769	7/11/2012	Although we have a lot of electronic media I still feel that having access ability to printed materials is critical for archives, usage, and sometimes I just WANT to hold a real book even though I have an iPhone. Also if wifi is ever shut down we still have access to printed content.
6770	7/11/2012	More for philosophical reasons than practical reasons. I believe in free access to materials, books, and information and libraries are a crucial safe haven for that access. I have the resources to access information from home, but not everyone does.

6771	7/11/2012	Because, by the accessibility of the broader world found in the wide variety of materials in most libraries encourages independent thought and a broader life view. People who read become more educated and knowledgeable, smarter and more savvy about life and its many philosophies. And while it's true that just because something finds its way into print doesn't automatically make it "true," I believe the quality of what is found in most libraries is vastly superior to most of the inaccurate and often completely false information found on the internet.
6772	7/11/2012	There are many public services that are needed for the health and wellbeing of the community, and a library is one of them. A library provides resources for students, English-language learners, little children, the homebound, high-level researchers and those just seeking answers.
6773	7/11/2012	They are a great service, not essential like fire and police but still highly valued
6774	7/11/2012	to get a wide variety of information and access to literature
6775	7/11/2012	An educated citizenry is the basis of our society.
6776	7/11/2012	water, sewage and electricity, police, fire protection are more important
6777	7/11/2012	The library is the one thing provided by the county that I use and receive immediate value from every day. Cuts in other services may indirectly affect me. Cuts in the library I notice and am affected by immediately.
6778	7/11/2012	Growing up in a small town with a small library, summer reading programs at my local library are a great part of my childhood memories! Though I don't have kids of my own right now, I would love to know other kids can grow up with lots of book adventures!
6779	7/11/2012	Everything can't rank at the top, but I also believe literacy should be given higher importance in our society.
6780	7/11/2012	reading and education are critical to an individual and their societies success
6781	7/11/2012	I'm a teacher and currently in graduate school. Books are crucially importance to my students, and I refer them to the local libraries often. I personally use the library both to access resources as educator and to conduct graduate-level research and professional development. In addition, the local library plays a key role in keeping elderly, home-bound family members connected to the community. The quality of life for both young and old in Portland would be significantly worse without access to books and library resources.
6782	7/11/2012	We are dumber than we think ,so give people a opportunity to learn .
6783	7/11/2012	I read.
6784	7/11/2012	I would be willing to pay more taxes to support them.
6785	7/11/2012	Libraries are the last place where everyone is welcome and information is free and available to all.
6786	7/11/2012	Because if we let them slide (lose funding), it will be difficult to regain any lost ground. Libraries are a big part of the community we live in.
6787	7/11/2012	Education, Reading and all the servLices Libraries provide are at the HEART of a people who live in a democratic society.[] We cannot exist as a democracy unless people are educated and informed.

6788	7/11/2012	It is our main source of entertainment and information.
6789	7/11/2012	Sense of community library provides and social services
6790	7/11/2012	They help educate people of all ages and provide low-cost ways of getting new books, movies, music, and computer access.
6791	7/11/2012	because the library provides a path to education and other self-improvement mechanisms; shows patrons possibilities they may never have envisioned.
6792	7/11/2012	Libraries are the heart of any community...especially the Multnomah county libraries. The sheer breadth and diversity of all the medias offered is astounding. But it is not only the selection of materials that makes MCL important it is the diversity of the patrons and the interactions and passing on of knowledge that takes place within (and outside too) the libraries. I don't want to forget to mention the importance of the staff...many of my book, dvd, music and community recommendations have come from MCL staff...and they never cease to amaze me!
6793	7/11/2012	I'm disheartened to hear the city be forced to make these kinds of decisions. Though I admit that there are many, many services that are more importance than libraries, such as public transit, public education, and welfare, libraries still serve an important purpose. Libraries facilitate the free exchange of culture and ideas, which are two important factors in the pursuit of personal and societal betterment. [] [] The reality is, the harder it is to get to these ideas, the likelier it will be for people to simply abandon the pursuit all together. Personally, I've used the library to discover Charles Simic's poetry. I've spent time in the library reading all of his books. His works have left an indelible mark on me; a mark of betterment and personal progress. If the library was too far away, or closed that day, I be a very different person than I am today.
6794	7/11/2012	Very high
6795	7/11/2012	Access to good information, with help from knowledgeable librarians, is vital to a good citizenship.
6796	7/11/2012	Our librарys are just as important as trash pick up. They are a resource that is used often.
6797	7/11/2012	A literate and well educated society is crucial for a democracy. Studies have shown that literacy rates are higher the closer to a library someone lives. This makes keeping libraries open and in all neighbourhoods an essential part of our society.
6798	7/11/2012	Access to library materials is access to knowledge for everyone who wants to learn. We must be an informed electorate or we are a doomed society.
6799	7/11/2012	The libraries are of the few all-community points remaining in our cities today. They reflect community sentiment and a viable community spirit.
6800	7/11/2012	Keeps the mind active.
6801	7/11/2012	Non-digital information is becoming a scarcer and scarcer commodity. Libraries are one of the few places where one can focus on what they are reading and have a wealth of material to chose from.
6802	7/11/2012	I would place them below utilities. I'm tired of rising property taxes.

6803	7/11/2012	When I moved to Portland in 2001, Central Library was nearly the equivalent in my field of the library at the Iowa university where I had taught. As I continued to do research and publish, Central Library's holdings, its interlibrary loan service, and its microfilm readers were essential to my work. I could not have accomplished what I did without Central Library. I'm only sorry that subscriptions to journals in my field have been discontinued.
6804	7/11/2012	Having still a middle school child at home she prefers to do homework and research at home on the computer. I almost feel that reference books will be a thing of the past
6805	7/11/2012	A place to gather, to use computers, books, movies etc.
6806	7/11/2012	Because the library has always been an important thread in everyone's lives in more ways than can be counted. From childhood it has been a joy to walk through the doors to enter other lives and worlds.
6807	7/11/2012	It is a community gathering and community building place providing access to all sorts of resources broadly to Portland area residents. A source of real help and refuge when you need it. It also supports other social services such as Medicare counseling and tax preparation assistance through partnerships with other county agencies and nonprofit, volunteer programs. A lot of return on the public investment.
6808	7/11/2012	They COULD provide exceptional educational opportunities but the resources are totally abused and mismanaged.
6809	7/11/2012	public safety and infrastructure is more important
6810	7/11/2012	Access to materials
6811	7/11/2012	Emergency services are ranked higher in my mind.
6812	7/11/2012	Libraries have such broad outreach and offer so many different services. They are (and should continue to be) an integral part of our community.
6813	7/11/2012	I don't use the library that often. I have most resources already available to me to use.
6814	7/11/2012	I enjoy being exposed to a wide variety of literature and media.
6815	7/11/2012	I no longer use the library because I now have e-reader and an iPod Touch for audio books.
6816	7/11/2012	We need a public place where people can meet and get any kind of information, regardless of how much money they have.
6817	7/11/2012	They're a resource to help ensure an informed and literate community, help encourage thinking, and independent learning; all of which are sorely needed in this era of videogames and short attention spans.
6818	7/11/2012	They affect my daily living, as I probably read more than 30 books from the library a year.
6819	7/11/2012	I recognize in this library found Spanish books and the most important to me is that give me the opportunity to learn English with some books and materials and contribute and help in my daily life.
6820	7/11/2012	Information and access to education free of charge is of paramount importance in a democracy.

6821	7/11/2012	Information is power, education is a must. Free, unconditional access to information in a clean, dry, protected space is one of the greatest assets we can provide to our citizenry.
6822	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to literature and other services that libraries provide, especially those who cannot afford those things on their own
6823	7/11/2012	This service is provided for people who are involved, interested, curious, want to learn, want to contribute. Many other services are provided, thankfully, in case of dire need (fire, police). Library service is provided for those who are trying to improve themselves in some way.
6824	7/11/2012	We use the library with our kids and for ourselves several times a week. I feel like the summer reading program provides great focus to continue some academics when school is out.
6825	7/11/2012	i am a voracious reader and have been since I discovered the joys of reading when i was 6 years old. i love browsing through the books to find what interests me. i love the feel, smell and substance of holding a real book - none of this electronic crap for me. i feel that without libraries our society will fall even further down the rabbit hole.
6826	7/11/2012	I come to the library for books, CDs, and DVDs on a weekly basis. It's also a community meeting spot. I've come to love seeing Gina and other librarians, as well as running into friends at the community. It definitely strengthens the feel of being in a neighborhood. It's also vital to have access to the internet. I've loved the additional activities, especially for kids (and wish there were craft times for adults!). It's one of the mainstays of my community--work, home, church, grocery store and the library.
6827	7/11/2012	They are of utmost importance to me because they keep me connected with my world and my community. I depend on the library for information, education, and assistance on a daily and weekly basis.
6828	7/11/2012	Libraries are an access to knowledge, an open door on culture, for everyone.
6829	7/11/2012	Reading is a wonderful form of education that should be accessible to everyone--not all can afford to buy new books whenever needed or an electronic reader. It's also an excellent system for returning and getting a new book, I certainly don't need to keep every book I've ever read and having some sort of exchange or check-out and return system is important.
6830	7/11/2012	Libraries are very important to me in access to resources and programs, both for academic and spiritual growth. They also important to me for friends (books for their children) and community (speaker events). A friend I admire highly judges a city first and foremost based on the quality of their public library. Seattle, by the way, is far superior to Portland in this regard in her opinion.
6831	7/11/2012	The Library is where you can learn, you can let your imagination explode, you can experience so much. The events available through the library is important to everyone. Maybe having more media exposure to your events will help increase attendance. I know that if you had more stories on the local news about what is going on then you also might have more people coming into the library to find out what else is going on.

6832	7/11/2012	I love the library. I use it to check out books that I am interested in instead of having to buy them. I use the hold system regularly and I love getting my little golden nugget for free. I also check out lots and lots of kids books that I read to my six year old and have done so since he was a toddler. I went to baby book time with him as an infant and beyond and I go to kids activities with him now. I've been to two kids activities already this summer and both were great.[] [] My six year old doesn't read yet but I am sure that when he does, he will be a voracious reader and that is partly due to the benefits of the library. I feel like no printed material is out of our reach. My son loves to be read to.
6833	7/11/2012	I can't afford to purchase the books and dvds that I consume. It is a resource for education, entertainment and research for information. It is the basis for educated people to remain informed. It is the building block for teaching children to become a literate and productive citizen. Our society needs all it can get. Libraries are the hub for communities and neighborhoods.
6834	7/11/2012	If you can read you can gain any other knowlege that you need with the exception of things such as swimming which much be learned hands-on. In addition to all this learning, your mind can travel to places your physical body may never get to go; climb the highest mountains and explore the deep seas, for example.
6835	7/11/2012	Because I love using the library.
6836	7/11/2012	Love to browse and also use library resources. I am on a budget and the library is a wonderful place to find out about events around town that are free or at very reasonable cost. Also, the library has movies, books, music, audio books that one can check out for free.
6837	7/11/2012	I love to read. Since I have retired I read alot. I like the large print because it's easier on my eyes. I have difficulty reading at night or reduced light, so large print makes it easier. I like that I can order a book on line and pick it up at my branch.
6838	7/11/2012	It's an education and technological equalizer to build better communities.
6839	7/11/2012	I go several times weekly and always have. Free public libraries is part of what makes us an educated community. It's essential.
6840	7/11/2012	Schools are not important. They are just baby sitting facilities that teach obsolete and useless things to people who aren't interested in obsolete and useless things. When people really want to learn something, then they go to the library.
6841	7/11/2012	home technology is easier and quicker to use.
6842	7/11/2012	Well they are a resource for those without resources, they are apart of the safety net for those in need, they are access to knowledge and enjoyment, those are priceless.
6843	7/11/2012	They are an equal opportunity gateway to knowledge of all kinds and for all ages.[] [] Schools focus on the young. Adult education attention outside of this is largely vocational, remedial, or expensive. Anyone can go to the library to learn.

6844	7/11/2012	Access to research materials, current books I can't afford to buy, videos i can watch, information on services I can access through the computers. Programs that lets me interact with others which prevents me from being so isolated when I am at home.
6845	7/11/2012	Intellectual growth can't come from other services. However, I was at first delighted to see so many young people in library one time and then realized they were mostly playing games on the computers.
6846	7/11/2012	Helps kids become life long readers
6847	7/11/2012	Libraries are the repository of all learning. You can learn how to do anything or find anything at them and librarians will know where to find an answer in 1/5 of the time of the internet.
6848	7/11/2012	Information is power, and an educated community makes the.best decisions.
6849	7/11/2012	I believe a community that supports strong libraries values their citizens and encourages them to become better educated and connected to their community. My son loves the library and I believe his regular visits encourage him to learn and enjoy life. He now is able to say "let's put that one on hold!"
6850	7/11/2012	Because students need resources, seniors need the activity and it is the ONLY way some people can afford to read books, movies, use computers.
6851	7/11/2012	I believe they provide a safe and educational environment for all individuals to have access to. Library materials can mainly be used to expand knowledge and better a person's situation.
6852	7/11/2012	It is important to have a place for the community to go and have access to books and media for educational purposes.
6853	7/11/2012	Because we are so caught up in the typical day, that we dont have time to sit down and read a book, and especially a good one. The library helps students with homework, reports, projects, etc.[] And all off the programs the library does makes lots of people want to jump in and read!
		It is very important for ALL people of all ages if all incoes to have access to free books and library services. [] []
6854	7/11/2012	Sometimes I am not able tO find current books in a timely manner (for self and book club). I wish we could have works available more quickly. [] [] We LOve the Lucky Day book system![] [] We live our libraries. We use the Central library as well as Belmont. I wish there were a library closer to Ladd's Addition.
6855	7/11/2012	Reading is very important
6856	7/11/2012	This serves the less able community and less financially able society. Also, libraries are awesome!

6857	7/11/2012	Because I am a nanny and it is useful to me as a tool to educate children and be able to access reading material at all age/skill levels for the benefit of raising children. Also, it's a community, a place to see people in my neighborhood and to connect to others. Not to mention it saves a great deal of money for everyone because we can all share all the material with each other and everyone benefits.
6858	7/11/2012	Local library services are a part of the cornerstone of American democracy and culture. Library services contribute greatly to American education, civics, and moral and ethical values.
6859	7/11/2012	Our family loves books and I don't know what we'd do without the library. And the other services we don't use at this time are very important to the community. I think a library is an important part of a community and if we didn't have a local branch or its hours and services were further reduced, that would put less emphasis on reading, which is obviously very important to me. (And I think is important to a community.)
6860	7/11/2012	Compared to law enforcement, utilities, etc., it comes in second. Important for people who need information but don't have resources at home or elsewhere, plus I mostly use it for checking out books, putting new releases of favorites "on hold" until they're available; I like getting e-mail notices that the book(s) are ready for pick-up, and that they're due soon!! I just wish Midland and other branches had drive-up book drops like Central has.
6861	7/11/2012	Access to information for those who have no other means to gain that access is extremely important.
6862	7/11/2012	Keeps kids off the streets and provides free access for all who want to learn.
6863	7/11/2012	libraries are the most common of community resources. It is a place where all ethnicities are welcomed. All levels of intelligence and many diverse languages too. To offer references books, movies, audio books, games, and reading books and learning programs is one thing that I can proudly support.
6864	7/11/2012	I was raised in a library. I would go frequently as a kid and I fear the communities kids would miss out.
6865	7/11/2012	because they represent what the United States says it is about....for individuals and for the whole.
6866	7/11/2012	I still have access to the internet. The library is occasionally handy for research, online services, and computer access, but almost never necessary.
6867	7/11/2012	they serve the neighborhood and the community by providing a positive environment that fosters learning and neighborhood support
6868	7/11/2012	They are no longer needed, the internet has taken its place.
6869	7/11/2012	Access to information, books and other media is necessary in a free society.
6870	7/11/2012	Always the most friendly of all public services, the best kept (there is pride left in this service), and people of all ages really need resources libraries offer.

6871	7/11/2012	I read voluminously--omnivorously--and can't afford, and don't want, to buy all the books I want to read. I believe that libraries are the fundamental repository of our shared culture and the primary means to maintain a truly, liberally informed citizenry. My library allows me to continue to read (or listen to recordings) to learn about the things that interest me and find new things to pique my curiosity.
6872	7/11/2012	I love our libraries! They serve so many functions for so many people. They are free, accessible, serve many functions for a cross section of users.
6873	7/11/2012	The library service is for culture and knowledge what the Power Grid is to the electric lights in our house. Both have an antiquated infrastructure, but are necessary and have purpose. In this day and age where we "google" everything (myself included), I find comfort in being able to go to what is essentially a "free bookstore" and still find something I wouldn't get on the internet. Getting rid of libraries would be as stupid as what many public schools have done in getting rid of art/music and/or P.E. classes. The local public services such as water/electricity/fire dept and cops are necessary for survival, and hence and first, but without the library (historically known as the container of our history, education and culture), we lose what we survive for.
6874	7/11/2012	There is a huge difference. Each person varies in opinion but in my opinion a library has the same importance as a DSHS/FS or Clinic it is "very important" to me as I use it often and it's critically important to improving my lifestyle, what doesn't compare of the same importance would be services like WIC, headstart, summer school as I don't use those services often or in the same way as the following mentioned but to others the order differs this is how I would put the order of importance for me; not saying that the others are not important in general.
6875	7/11/2012	we're not often users of the library but we understand the need of other people in the community.
6876	7/11/2012	An educated populace makes for more well-rounded, informed citizens.
6877	7/11/2012	It's vital that people always have access to information and communication options as well as the resources like classes and gatherings that libraries offer. I think that libraries can serve as hubs of learning for people of all ages.
6878	7/11/2012	I use library resources for vital work-related research.
6879	7/11/2012	They provide services across all social groups, fostering community and providing opportunities for people to improve themselves regardless of their economic situation.
6880	7/11/2012	They are a neighborhood resource that provide a sense of community, resources for all ages and incomes. We need to promote reading, writing skills and the spirit of learning.
6881	7/11/2012	Not as important as fire or police, but a very important neighborhood resource.

6882	7/11/2012	I'm a professional artist, and the public library is invaluable to me as a storehouse of inspiration as well as information. I make heavy use of online resources at home, but much of what's available for free online is superficial information. For deep research into a topic, you absolutely can't do better than books and research databases like JSTOR, both of which are made available to my through my library.[] [] In addition to media resources, the library offers me something that's almost worth every tax dollar by itself: an environment. Home can be a zoo sometimes, so having a quiet and orderly space like the library available to me when need to do some study is tremendously important to me.
6883	7/11/2012	Books are important, but I don't think that Multnomah County should have ever taken over the Library system. That puts it into competition with other more important governmental services like good roads, safe bridges, sheriff, search-and-rescue, etc. If it comes to parks (such as Oxbow and Blue Lake) vs libraries, then I think that it is pretty much a tie. It is nice to have these things, and we should take good care of what we have. But when the economy is tight, taxpayers have to make tough personal choices and do without some things. Gov't agencies need to grow up and exercise similar restraint.
6884	7/11/2012	the question doesn't make sense.
6885	7/11/2012	They provide an excellent resource for people to educate and inform themselves. However, some other services - e.g. public safety - are more important.
6886	7/11/2012	Best place to get information, check out books you can't afford to buy, use computers
6887	7/11/2012	Somewhat
6888	7/11/2012	The local library system provides equal access to resources and books to every community in Portland. It is important that people of all incomes have access to these resources. The library also supports students w/summer reading programs, educator cards, extremely useful homework sites for research, as well as classroom visitations on various topics. [] When I retire one day, I also plan to attend some of the monthly book groups.[] Also, in the foyer of each library, there is really useful community information.
6889	7/11/2012	Because we use and enjoy materials from the library everyday. The Multnomah County Library adds to the livability of our city and positively effect housing values.
6890	7/11/2012	Literacy and learning are the cornerstone of an educated population.
6891	7/11/2012	Libraries are very important to me because they provide many resources to help people, such as myself, expand their knowledge of many different topics in many different ways.
6892	7/11/2012	I love to read. Buying books gets really expensive, as pro-bookstore as I am. The library has a huge selection and really easy cataloguing. It's a great way to find reading material.
6893	7/11/2012	Libraries do a great job of leveling any number of playing fields, if well-stocked and easily available to everyone. Learning and dreaming shouldn't be limited by whether or not you can afford books.

6894	7/11/2012	Their services are free
6895	7/11/2012	The library is a source of information, entertainment, and learning. What could be more important to a society?
6896	7/11/2012	Basic services(water, sewer, roads) and emergency services(Fire, Police) are more important. Schools are also more important. Parks are less than or equal to in importance. Bike lanes,expanding light rail, changing the garbage service are much less important.[] The water/sewer needs better oversight.
6897	7/11/2012	Libraries make knowledge, learning, resources, and entertainment accessible to all citizens. They are a cornerstone of our society.
6898	7/11/2012	I love reading. Books are my entertainment and information.
6899	7/11/2012	They are not only an excellent place to discover new things and have access to knowledge, but they are also a great space for community.
6900	7/11/2012	They allow me to read books, watch movies, and listen to new music at no cost to me.
6901	7/11/2012	Actual books and other reference materials are what is most important to me. With the internet, much of the information is not verified and generally unorganized. Anytime I need to really learn about something, the first place I go is to my local library. There is always a ton of reliable and up to date information, and it's free. Love to learn!
6902	7/11/2012	I use the Library as a resource more than other public resources combined. It is a vital part of our culture that needs to be respected and funded as such.
6903	7/11/2012	I'm a reader with a limited income.
6904	7/11/2012	Reading books is very important to me. Buying them new would be prohibitively expensive. It would be easier to reply to this query if the "other" local public services were listed.
6905	7/11/2012	i use the library frequently. I see it as an amazing resource for teens, families, elderly and anyone interested in learning by themselves who doesn't have a lot of money.
6906	7/11/2012	Because access to books and computers is one of the ineffable items that makes living in a place (city, county, wherever) special. I am so proud of our library and our family loves it.
6907	7/11/2012	everyone should have access to literacy opportunities and book lending, computer access, and research help.
6908	7/11/2012	Libraries are essential. Well-informed citizens are good citizens. For me, it's sort of a luxury service. I could go buy books at Powell's, but I'd rather just give them back when I'm done.
6909	7/11/2012	Despite the library being somewhat of a leisure service to myself personally, I know a lot of other people truly rely on the library for access to computers, internet, books, and learning materials. In light of that, I think the library offers an important service.
6910	7/11/2012	I believe everyone should have access to the resources that the library offers be it books, tapes, computer access, story time, etc.
6911	7/11/2012	Reading and learning are the foundations upon which societies exist and evolve. Without free public access to these, cultures crumble.

6912	7/11/2012	After buying a home and starting a family I realized my income could not continue to support my book purchases. I started using the library reserve system and now always have a book at my side I am also teaching my children the value of reading and respecting our library system. They love to go to the library and chose their books! My husband loves the movie and music selection that is offered.
6913	7/11/2012	As I child I lived in horrible foster home and my teachers were rigid Irish nuns. One day they played "The hall of the mountain king" suite by Grieg and that same week I was introduced to children's classic...Alice in Wonderland, The Arabian nights, black beauty, etc. I found a way out of my agony. My new world of music and reading opened worlds to me and I began to feel hope. [] I know many people who have had my experience and today, continue to read as much as possible to keep that sacred space open within. The majority of my reading is done using the library. While the Internet is great the library provides a whole different feel and the staff is more helpful. []
6914	7/11/2012	I have access to news content thru the Internet but it does not replace hard copies of the Economist or Christian Science Monitor. [] Also programs like those for children bring people together who might not otherwise meet. Something the Internet cannot provide.
6915	7/11/2012	I access them every day as opposed to other services that are important but I have little contact with them mostly.
6916	7/11/2012	I want to live in an educated society where people of all incomes have access to information.
6917	7/11/2012	because I feel that services that are available to ALL (ie not needs based) are the best for the whole community. AND because I feel that access to reading and computers and books and literacy is at the backbone of a well-functioning community. It's a preventative thing -- rather than something like police which deals with problems AFTER THE FACT. and prevention is always the best route to go whenever possible
6918	7/11/2012	We need to provide education, information & other resources to empower our citizens
6919	7/11/2012	Library services are important to me, but not vital to the larger populace like fire or rescue services.
6920	7/11/2012	Libraries give kids and people places to go to keep out of trouble or out of the weather.
6921	7/11/2012	Other than infrastructure which we are generally paying for directly then I think it is the most important. It is definitely the public service we use the most.
6922	7/11/2012	Shelter, food, family services, financial aid to those who are in need (basically the essentials for life and health) are much more important than having a full time library. If libraries were available only 4 times a week to accommodate more pressing essentials, that would be okay with me.
6923	7/11/2012	This question is pretty vague to me. Other services like the fire department would probably be higher on my list, but it's hard to compare the two.

6924	7/11/2012	I am not at a stage in my life where these services are of use. I have no children and can get information on my own.
6925	7/11/2012	This is all about someone paying for someone else to have free services. Why not charge 25 cents per day for books, etc. Why does everything used by the entitlement non paying freeloaders free?
6926	7/11/2012	Having access to free books (in the least) encourages reading which is never a bad thing and promotes learning at all ages and levels.
6927	7/11/2012	Library is a place where children reach out for the books from the earliest ages. It is important for every child to have access to books, especially in an environment of community. It creates stronger sense of community for children and adults.
6928	7/11/2012	If we don't make readers out of our citizens and provide ways for them to become informed, we will end up with a decline in literacy, in turn affecting quality of workers, and leading to the inability of citizens to serve each other both inside the library and in other public services. There are already too many people one encounters in service positions whose spoken and reading skills are inadequate for the work they're attempting to do (and I am not referring to those for whom English is a second language). The speaking and writing skills of our citizens are not what they once were, and if the libraries do not offer necessary services, the picture will become even dimmer. As a retired librarian, I hate to see the quality of library service declining. But I would feel just the same way had I not been a librarian for 31 years.
6929	7/11/2012	Libraries are critically important to a community but so are police protection, parks, emergency response, roads and schools.
6930	7/11/2012	Equal access to books, music, magazines and reference materials. I place where people can use computers that don't own one. Promote value of reading and learning.
6931	7/11/2012	The library provides access to services, materials and amenities I couldn't otherwise afford.
6932	7/11/2012	I have been a library user and reader my whole life. It's a community place where people are there to help you with all sorts of things, for free.
6933	7/11/2012	?
6934	7/11/2012	Really enjoy library and what it has to offer. Not vital to my well being, however. Would miss computers, magazines and books to check out.
6935	7/11/2012	The central library is historical in its structure which is of importance to me. I love books and having hard bound books rather than ebooks is something I enjoy. The library is still a great source of information even with the internet and the librarians are great resources to find information. Not everyone can afford to buy books and the library provides a needed public service.

6936	7/11/2012	Education and Safety are the most important. Safety includes Police but also safety from disease so clean water and working sewers are highly important for a livable city. Public schools provide the greatest educational resources. Libraries are a supplementary educational tool but an important one because it is place where people of all ages can go to learn and have access to information.
6937	7/11/2012	I think that this is also a misleading question because this information may be used to match off library services with other equally important services, leading to an either-or situation that the voter will be forced into thinking to vote for one is to not consider the other important. The county should be very transparent and honest about the amount of funds it has and where it goes.[] I also do not agree with the way you designed question number 8 wherein there is no fourth choice allowing for an answer of "don't agree with all the choices" or "have no increase in levy and return original library schedules. The bulk of the work of library services I think fall on your volunteers, so it is hard to understand where all the money goes. I will choice an answer in number 8 but just to let you know it is under duress.
6938	7/11/2012	To have access to information for my children and myself that would otherwise be harder to acquire. My family loves having the experience of going to the library, having a diverse amount of materials to study and be exposed to so many new ideas has been extremely valuable. Also spending time in a safe, calm community setting is relaxing for us.
6939	7/11/2012	Common access to knowledge, literacy, and our cultural foundations are all vital functions fulfilled by a community library for an engaged citizenry capable of critical thinking and important communication/artistic skills.
6940	7/11/2012	Books are a chance to attain knowledge and freedom which physical and economic restraints can't contain. If we all spent more time reading the world would be a much more educated and discussion focused space.
6941	7/11/2012	i'm on a budget
6942	7/11/2012	They are one small piece of cultural freedom we support publicly.
6943	7/11/2012	Books are one of the only sources of education beyond one's own experience. We need more readers, not less.
6944	7/11/2012	Repairing roads is an example of a local public service of short-term importance. Education (libraries) is an example of a local public service of long-term importance. We must balance both short-term and long-term services that are important - like fixing our roads and educating our populace.
6945	7/11/2012	Books are expensive -- the only way most of us can access literature, instruction, magazines etc etc etc. For many it is the only way to have regular computer access. It has become sadly rare for there to be a free place which is quiet and welcoming for all in the community. If one has a question about anything, one can always start at the library -- it is the modern day community soul.
6946	7/11/2012	everyone should have an opportunity to continue their self education throughout their lifetime.

6947	7/11/2012	The library is an important part of my continuing education. I read to learn as well as for entertainment. I am amazed at the quality of materials available for public use. Our family enjoys the films available and I will be soon needing the staff's knowledge to introduce me to e-books.
6948	7/11/2012	Fire, police, water, etc. are more important but library systems are just below that.
6949	7/11/2012	knowledge for the masses at a good price
6950	7/11/2012	Allows us to learn and research for free
6951	7/11/2012	ex libris
6952	7/11/2012	they are important because they provide opportunities for people who do not have access to computers or who do not have money to buy reading materials to access them. Libraries are an excellent resource center.
6953	7/11/2012	The library has literally saved my life more than once. When I was suicidal and isolated as an adolescent questioning my sexuality in a conservative community, I turned to the library as a source of information and connection to LGBT community. I have turned to the library to learn about how to live well with my disabilities, I have used the library to find information about my local community and the larger world, I have referred friends, loved ones, and community members to the library to improve their own lives, and I have used the library as a source of escape when living with depression and living in poverty get to be overwhelming. Libraries help us to imagine a better world, and make the world better.
6954	7/11/2012	Library helped me succeed in learning English.
6955	7/11/2012	Compared to basic fire, police, human services for poor, library not as important.
6956	7/11/2012	Because the library provides such wonderful access to materials to the public. The access allow poor and the middle class to materials that otherwise would only be available to those with enough money to purchase them or steal them.
6957	7/11/2012	because i use them and they are close by
6958	7/11/2012	Other basic services like health, fire, and safety are more important.
6959	7/11/2012	good resources for education, study, and access to culture.
6960	7/11/2012	My wife and I use them every day.
6961	7/11/2012	Because I use them weekly in person and every few days online. I would be poorer in thought and creativity without them. I wouldn't set them above police or fire services, but they are very important to me.
6962	7/11/2012	Books are one of my favorite sources of entertainment, but I don't have a lot of money. The library lets me do a lot more reading than I'd otherwise be able to. It was also a huge part of my childhood, and I like to hope that other kids are just as psyched about things like the summer reading program as I used to be.
6963	7/11/2012	I do a lot of reading and I don't have a TV. I don't always want to buy a book that I want to read; the library fairly up to date on books I'm interested in.

6964	7/11/2012	I am not sure what "other local public services" we are comparing libraries with.[] But it is VERY IMPORTANT in this day and age. We didn't have a library as such when growing up and I became very much aware how little I knew, compared to other students once beyond our community.
6965	7/11/2012	When compared to infrastructure, the library is #2.
6966	7/11/2012	Libraries provide information -- any sort of information -- to anyone who needs it. There is nothing else in our society that performs that service, and it is vital to having a well-informed citizenry.
6967	7/11/2012	access to resources
6968	7/11/2012	I love to read and I don't have the money to buy all the books I want and sometimes I don't want to read a book or magazine or watch a movie more than once so buying would be a waste.
6969	7/11/2012	Convenient, inexpensive, adapted for senior citizens, a wealth of information is available. We moved from Colorado and thought the Jefferson County libraries were great. Portland's are BETTER!
6970	7/11/2012	We all need to know how to read and the library provides this resource at no cost to its users. You cannot put a value on books and how they enrich our lives.
6971	7/11/2012	Being able to read a wide range of books helps me keep sane. It is important that everyone in my community has access to books to help promote literacy and knowledge.
6972	7/11/2012	Educational reading, entertainment reading. If the library closed I would just acquire reading material another way. If government can not efficiently run the library, needs more and more funds to keep it in service.....maybe it's time to no longer fund the library.
6973	7/11/2012	Like I said, open education to anyone. Education to our young ones, and people of all ages. I do not know what would happen to this great country if we had no libraries. It probably would not be so great any more.
6974	7/11/2012	Because if you can't find things any where else,the library most of the time as it.
6975	7/11/2012	Besides the schools it's the resource I use the most
6976	7/11/2012	The Multnomah Library is a primary source of information, education, professional resources, entertainment. It is absolutely invaluable to my life. A reduction in availability or resources would have a significant impact on my quality of life.
6977	7/11/2012	My husband and I visit the library about every other day. We are self-educators. The library is a huge resource for our education and cultural entertainment.
6978	7/11/2012	I intensively teach my child using library materials. The ability to access a broad spectrum of topics at her level is critical.[] []
6979	7/11/2012	I am passionate about books and education for all people.
6980	7/11/2012	Its not so much for me as it is for those who haven't any other means to access computers, books, and help that only the library can, and does, give us.
		Internet access is important, people who don't have it can get it at the library.

6981	7/11/2012	The Portland library offers such a resourceful service to so many folks in our city. I think this type of resource is uncommon and special. It's unique! I'd love to keep it that way.
6982	7/11/2012	Libraries are where kids learn love of books, where people can connect, and maintain love of books and access to knowledge throughout a lifetime. Very important to the health of a community.
6983	7/11/2012	Without education we are doomed
6984	7/11/2012	Libraries are the great levelers. Free and open to all.
6985	7/11/2012	Because literacy and research resources should be available for all who are seeking knowledge
6986	7/11/2012	Because I actually use them. And this is coming from someone who works in social services. The library is an amazing resource for the the less fortunate and provides tools for turning lives around. It is also a great resource for the general public.
6987	7/11/2012	Education is power. There are too many stupid people already, and libraries help educate and empower the masses.
6988	7/11/2012	Again, I use resources at the Library to find out more about everything from canning food to remodeling, to history and childcare. I do not learn well on the Internet and don't necessarily think that Internet resources are reliable or well-researched. Those resources are for comparing prices and maybe reading reviews on products. My husband and I use online reports, etc. often, but the Library is where we go when we really want to LEARN something. We both have advanced degrees and are not afraid of books that don't have pictures:) I think that's why I see it as so important.
6989	7/11/2012	Every community needs a library
6990	7/11/2012	A huge variety of tasks and activities delivered. It encourages reading and learning and community activities. Nothing else comes close
6991	7/11/2012	personally, between somewhat and very
6992	7/11/2012	I hold education high on my list--and feel that a healthy library system is important to enrich a community
6993	7/11/2012	I feel like libraries give everyone a place to further their education and share knowledge with their community.
6994	7/11/2012	Personally, I love libraries, but where push comes to shove hospitals and schools are at the top of my priority list.
6995	7/11/2012	Literacy is key to our life. Many different medias are important.
6996	7/11/2012	the Library is a neighborhood service for so many, encouraging literacy, providing a quiet place to go to read, look at magazines, etc. We need a well-read and literate public.
6997	7/11/2012	I use it the most.
6998	7/11/2012	An uninformed, uneducated populace does make for a health community. It is a cultural resource that from which all can benefit.

6999	7/11/2012	I mostly use the Lake Oswego library because the Capital Hill library doesn't have much on-hand. I like to browse however, I think about when I was in school how important it was to be able to go to the library in my neighborhood.
7000	7/11/2012	We read and use multimedia frequently. Portland libraries are progressive and easy to use which makes them more desirable to use then old system in Texas.
7001	7/11/2012	Higher levels of education and literacy lead to fairer, better societies.
7002	7/11/2012	I believe libraries are a resource for learning for the community.
7003	7/11/2012	They represent and they provide publicly owned knowledge and knowledge resources.
7004	7/11/2012	free books and movies
7005	7/11/2012	its our tax money being put back into the community.
7006	7/11/2012	Access o information, entertainment, museum passes--knowledge and culture are what civilization and taxes are all about.
7007	7/11/2012	There is something magical about the library. Our parents took us there when we were children and we were allowed to check out books. We, in turn, take our children there in much the same way. Add to that that there is more than just books to check out. I've been able to check out television series, movies, CDs--all for free. You can't beat that!
7008	7/11/2012	I enjoy getting my books from the library but the library is DEFINATELY not as important as a strong police force, strong fire department, reasonable water and sewer rates (unlike the current pricing structure), schools that educate its student body (and don't pander to the teachers' union) and roads in good repair.
7009	7/11/2012	I rely on many of the benefits that the library offers. Such as: internet usage, new books, music.
7010	7/11/2012	They are important, but not as important as basic services such as police, fire, good roads, etc.
7011	7/11/2012	I tend to buy the books I want to read, but many folks cannot afford to do so and libraries are one of those democratic institutions that make books, records, films, etc. available to everyone. What would replace it? If America won't keep its libraries open, then we are indeed on a downhill slope as a nation.
7012	7/11/2012	I cannot imagine living in a community without a library -- nor do I want to!
7013	7/11/2012	I love to read. There are a lot of books that I want to read, but don't want to own permanently. And the library is like a second home to me. I grew up in Portland and always loved to go to the library. Most of my favorite childhood books were checked out from the book mobile that came to our school.

7014	7/11/2012	I use the library often. I put books on hold and pick them up. I stay and work at the library. I use the photo copier. I use the internet. I didn't have a computer (couldn't afford one) for a year, and I used the internet/word processor on the computers at the library a few times a week. I had to wait in line almost every time I went to use a computer! How are people without computers and without jobs supposed to find jobs nowadays if the way they're supposed to find them is on the computer? That's crazy. I also think that societies and communities which do not have governments that support (by paying for) arts, music, books, etc. that allow the people of said communities to use these things to be freethinking and creative, will often be made up of people who do not think of themselves as freethinking and creative. That is a disservice to people.
7015	7/11/2012	The library is key to an educated and informed public.
7016	7/11/2012	Libraries are great resources to communities. They are spaces for people to share and experience learning and hopefully benefit from the programming offered.
7017	7/11/2012	reading feeds your brain. libraries give us access to materials to enrich our lives, souls and minds-- materials which many would not have access to otherwise. i also think the public access to computers/internet is extremely important for job seekers and others who many not have internet access at home.
7018	7/11/2012	low. L
7019	7/11/2012	Portland libraries have enriched our lives significantly - my kids and I always have "new" interesting, appropriate books to read, and the ability to find out much more about something we're interested in. The kids and I loved story time wher they were younger and the Read to the Dogs program was so important in helping my daughter learn to read. We love Portland Libraries!!!
7020	7/11/2012	It gives our children a place to read, research and learn. The schools have a shortage in books and some family canno afford to buy book. They closed Borders in Gresham and that is where my family would go when the Library is closed. We need a book store on the East side if we cannot depend upon our Libraries. Soon school will be starting and the Library is needed.
7021	7/11/2012	People need that resoufce in their lives...kids for school, families, etc.
7022	7/11/2012	I am a public school teacher so I count on the library resources to enhance my teaching. I also use the library for personal (not job-related) reading resources.
7023	7/11/2012	I use it all the time. It appears that most of NE Portland also uses the libraries a lot. They are always busy. Lots of people. It is a great service to our community. I am a homeowner. I always support the library with my vote. Happy to help. It is worth the cost. I love books!
7024	7/11/2012	I check out a lot of material. I would like the library to continue to get new material in a timely fashion. I would like the library to be open when I want to go. I do not like the new hours.
7025	7/11/2012	If you can read, you can learn how to do anything, I would venture that the Library services should be supported above the arts and above many social programs that essentially are vehicles for adminstrative costs and burdens to be placed upon the taxpayers.

7026	7/11/2012	Because they provide so many valuable services! They are (I believe) the best community resource we have. They provide classes, information on any subject, internet access, and are just fantastic places. I love my library.
7027	7/11/2012	They are an integral part of my daily life, for reading material and
7028	7/11/2012	Internet services Everyone, all ages and abilities, need and loves the library services!
7029	7/11/2012	I have recently graduated high school and am on my way to continue education at a university. Without my local library opened full hours, containing current materials, and great supportive staff, I would not have been as successful in completing my homework all throughout middle and high school. The library is my free shopping mall.
7030	7/11/2012	Because they offer knowledge, information, and resources to everyone and anyone willing
7032	7/11/2012	Extremely important. I could not survive without it. I check out books on a regular basis, and usually more than 5 at a time.
7033	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and watcher of movies and British mysteries. I often visit the library two to three times week. I enjoy brief conversations with some of the librarians and enjoy the atmosphere.
7034	7/11/2012	It's important for the community to have access to books for free and for a safe environment for children to read in.
7035	7/11/2012	On a 1 to 10 scale they are a solid 7 we could exist of course, but losing our library system would be horrendous
7036	7/11/2012	Reading is one of the most important things people can do.
7037	7/11/2012	Libraries are maybe the only thing that has endured in our society that only does good. The idea of a space for free information and materials, with the pursuit of knowledge at the backbone is a precious one and must be protected and encouraged.
7038	7/11/2012	Easy access to all sorts of information is important
7039	7/11/2012	Literacy and access to books is a cornerstone of a healthy society, and the library system is one of the few public services that the US actually does really well.
7040	7/11/2012	Books are my primary source of entertainment, and I wouldn't have access to many of the titles I enjoy without the library, as I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read. The library also provides a calm atmosphere and serves as an enjoyable place to spend an afternoon reading.

7041	7/11/2012	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The public library is important to me as a "third space" for fostering community - The public library is important to me as a cornerstone of democracy providing the means for an informed citizenry - The public library is important to me as a means to provide early literacy support to parents and children, the importance of which is well documented in research on early childhood reading
7042	7/11/2012	They are very important to me because I use and enjoy them. The libraries offer so much and can serve so many people.
7043	7/11/2012	I love to read. It's a great community service. Promotes education, literacy = reduced crime
7044	7/11/2012	I value reading and education very highly, and I read more books than I could ever afford to buy!
7045	7/11/2012	The library is the local public service I use and value most.
7046	7/11/2012	I love to read. I could not afford to buy all the great books I read.
7047	7/11/2012	provide a service that helps children.
7048	7/11/2012	Very highly used service, promoting education and literacy
7049	7/11/2012	They are the most helpful and unbiased
7050	7/11/2012	Libraries teach the importance of reading and education and gets people interested in subjects they may not otherwise consider. The ability for poor people to have access to free books and media without having to buy books you only may read once.
7051	7/11/2012	They provide access to information and resources that would otherwise be unavailable to many people. Libraries also provide a safe and productive place for children and youth. Libraries have a large impact on children learning to love reading, which is essential for our community to prosper. Libraries also bring communities together.
7052	7/11/2012	senior woman limited financial resources, buying recently published books isn't an option, love to read and libraries provide a wide range of books, computer access, copying services and provides a community resource and a safe place to read, socialize, research and feel part of the community I live in - I moved here two weeks ago from Southern OR and the library was the first place I visited - very important to me
7053	7/11/2012	Libraries are one of the cornerstones of a well-rounded city, and to a greater extent, society. They are worth saving.
7054	7/11/2012	As a retired former professional/academic with no family in the area I spend most of my time reading. One cannot, and would not wish to, purchase the 4-5 books one reads each week.
7055	7/11/2012	increases education/learning opportunities for those that don't have other resources, bring a community together,
7056	7/11/2012	Public Access without the library I would not be able to read the diversity of books that interest me. The internet, while helpful, cannot replace a REAL library.
7057	7/11/2012	 Librarians are an incredible resource of information that are invaluable.

7058	7/11/2012	It is a really available resource via the internet for me
7059	7/11/2012	I am so proud of our library system and I do everything I can to support it--from voting to shopping at the Title Wave bookstore. As a teacher, libraries are an amazing resource for myself and for students and their families. As an individual in the community, my husband and I often use the library for books and other media. When we have children, we plan to take them to the story hours.
7060	7/11/2012	I need the professional journals.
7061	7/11/2012	My most frequented neighborhood service.
7062	7/11/2012	Libraries are for borrowing books. That should be the main mission. You have gone far from that main mission. You should get back to that. [] Everything else you gave me in your list to choose is secondary.
7063	7/11/2012	important but too expensive -- have a good system but don't pay these high wages, benefits etc.
7064	7/11/2012	i think everyone in the community should have the access to information that a library makes possible. it makes for more well-rounded people and more vibrant communities. i want to live in a community where if someone wants to know about the local birds, or how to start a garden, or how to compost, there are books about those things available to them. i'll happily help to fund the circulation of that knowledge in the community, because everyone benefits from it. knowledge that will benefit the community in such a way shouldn't have to be bought.
7065	7/11/2012	I use it constantly for education, current events, computer access
7066	7/11/2012	Gives people of all ages to access of information.
7067	7/11/2012	They represent our community needs and are safe to learn or access resources.
7068	7/11/2012	I like to be able to go and get a book and use the computer's when I need to that is the only way that I can e-mail my friends
7069	7/11/2012	Because I value the libraries services quite as much as any other.
7070	7/11/2012	Provide material that would otherwise be unavailable.
7071	7/11/2012	I cannot always afford to buy books that I am interested in, so having a place to borrow them is essential for being able to read as much as I want.
7072	7/11/2012	Without libraries our community is less rich and dynamic. The library is available equally to all and it is important that everyone have access to the information and services the library provides.
7073	7/11/2012	Many citizens have no access at home to Internet or research materials. Especially in the southeast.
7074	7/11/2012	While they are not as important as, say, water and sewage services, local library services provide a vital component to public education, which is necessary in maintaining the great services and rich culture we already have. I believe that a good local library system complements good local public services in general.
7075	7/11/2012	Equal to school funding - VERY IMPORTANT!

7076	7/11/2012	I don't have money to buy all the books I want to read and it's nice to have a resource that allows you to borrow them.
7077	7/11/2012	While libraries are very important and denote a healthy community (and civilization as a whole), emergency services (fire, police) and public education are of greater importance as necessities.
7078	7/11/2012	Communication is paramount in a society and libraries offer everything we need to learn.
7079	7/11/2012	Vert high
7080	7/11/2012	They are part of the fabric of our community and play a myriad of important roles to all ages etc
7081	7/11/2012	it is important can go any time thay i need it.
7082	7/11/2012	I believe libraries are foundational to an educated free society.
7083	7/11/2012	Believe it is very important for continuing education of the entire population, especially the young and those unable to afford books and computers.
7084	7/11/2012	I use it
7085	7/11/2012	Although I value libraries, fire & police are more important
7086	7/11/2012	The library provides a wonderful learning tool for the surrounding community. It gives so much and asks so little.
7087	7/11/2012	As an avid reader and researcher, I rely on the libraries resources. I also see many people from the community that rely on it as a safe, air-conditioned space in which to spend time accessing online resources and job searching.
7088	7/11/2012	Literacy is at the core of civilization.
7089	7/11/2012	I like to read and to research various topics.
7090	7/11/2012
7091	7/11/2012	Because of their importance as a resource for my child.
7092	7/11/2012	connection to neighborhood & community
7093	7/11/2012	High
7094	7/11/2012	They provide books and other media that I use for enjoyment and education.
7095	7/11/2012	The Internet is out dating the current model if our libraries.
7096	7/11/2012	I believe the library provides a great and needed service - exchanging knowledge and information. Unfortunately people and families might be using it as a crutch to not do things at home thereby saving public money.
7097	7/11/2012	A great way for all of us to continue life long learning. A great place for homeless to go to get out of the weather. A great place for children to learn to love learning. I wish the library was open the same hours that Powell's is open.
7098	7/11/2012	Availability of public information to all keeps the community well-informed and strong.
7099	7/11/2012	Libraries are a community resource. Libraries create a more human aspect to society as people become more and more isolated from one another as they stay at home with computer access or ebooks. A library is a safe and honorable place for people to visit in order to access knowledge and information.

10

7100	7/11/2012	Reading and education are paramount and libraries provide reading opportunities for people of all incomes. It is a great equalizer to access.
7101	7/11/2012	We use the library system all the time. I really enjoy the PageTurners book groups, also. It is important for all people to learn to read, and find the library an enjoyable place to visit regularly.
7102	7/11/2012	They serve EVERYONE, regardless of age, gender, situation. They are the resource that stands between us and illiteracy. They are the resource that opens doors for children to learn about the world, and to learn to READ...which is the whole key to everything. They support our democracy in the most fundamental and essential way, more than any other resource we have.
7103	7/11/2012	Access for everyone to book and other things.
7104	7/11/2012	The library has resources for everyone. Many people do not have computers and need access to find a job. Students need access to a wide variety of materials. For me, I love the access to books, music and movies. I could not ask for more, except maybe four weeks on books instead of three.
7105	7/11/2012	I am a low income person and cannot afford to buy books.
7106	7/11/2012	See the previous page. Without the knowledge we get from our library materials we would be much poorer.
7107	7/11/2012	Because the internet has provided a whole new continuity to learning and entertainment. I'll repeat here the response that I gave on the previous page:[]
7108	7/11/2012	Libraries (with current materials) are crucially important to school-aged kids so that they can touch and see the sources of information that will open their eyes to the world of knowledge. Browsing in a library is an important way to find out about new things. Sometimes you look on the shelf for a specific book, but on the way to find that book, you see other books that capture your interest about subjects that you hadn't thought of yet. This type of 'search' is not possible on the internet.
7109	7/11/2012	They are a wonderful place for everyone to engage in society and stay educated and build community.
7110	7/11/2012	I use my library all the time, for a variety of services. No other public service that I can think of is so large a part of my daily life and creates a community.
7111	7/11/2012	They allow access to services and information to everyone. They are a resource for the poor and rich alike. They give opportunity to all through information.
7112	7/11/2012	Having the libraries open for families and kids to access during the summer.
7113	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge and online access for all is very important.
7114	7/11/2012	Education is of utmost importance, especially for poorer people. Libraries represent the best way for people to educate themselves, and they need to remain highly accessible and free if we are to prosper as a region and a country.
7115	7/11/2012	Education is everything. Do we want uneducated police, fire, and emergency medical service personnel? I think not. With the enormous cuts to K-12 education more and more access to education falls to the local library system. An under-educated public is the greatest risk to democracy.

7116	7/11/2012	knowledge is the key to universal human connection and tolerance
7117	7/11/2012	They allow economical access to resources for everyone. Education is important and libraries are part of education.
7118	7/11/2012	Libraries serve all parts of the population, throughout the city, -- young and old, rich and poor, education and less-educated.
7119	7/11/2012	I think as electronic versions of books, music, videos, etc., become more accessible and widely used, including in my household, our level of "needing" to go to the library has decreased. That said, I still believe the library is important not only for access to books, but for all the other services it provides, especially access to internet and programs that encourage literacy in any form. I don't necessarily think the library needs to be open 7 days a week based on my own family's current usage.
7120	7/11/2012	The seat of civilization; I prize education; I remember loving books as a small child -- I would like others to have that experience and grow up loving to read and learn.
7121	7/11/2012	A democracy, a Federation , cannot function with an illiterate public, we the people are the Government. If we are stupid the government is stupid and will fail.
7122	7/11/2012	Because having access to a public library is like having access to your own personal library, but without all of the money that it takes to purchase materials and house them in a tasteful and welcoming atmosphere.
7123	7/11/2012	Safe streets and schools are of great importance. We should not be spending money on light rail, or bike projects that steal money from basic services. We should NOT be involved in ANY urban renewal schemes which take away tax dollars for basic services. PDC should be shut down!
7124	7/11/2012	i read all the time, and don't know what i would do without a library.
7125	7/11/2012	Most research I do is at home, but check out books often and like to look around the music sections as well.
7126	7/11/2012	The libraries serve such a variety of functions, no other services besides schools serve so many people in so many ways.
7127	7/11/2012	Some public services are more necessary (transportation, garbage removal, etc.), as there are other ways to enjoy the services provided by the library and their programs, but the library is such a wonderful place to be!
7128	7/11/2012	We are homeschoolers and we depend on being able to check out many kinds of books for our education. We always have a lot of books checked out. Other services, with the exception of healthcare, are just not as important to our lifestyle. We appreciate the library!
7129	7/11/2012	Education and reading is very important to me. And our county library has a great reputation, and I'd hate to see that negatively affected.

		The library provides access to knowledge and entertainment to everyone in the community if they take advantage of it. The library provides access to the Internet for people who can't afford it or who need it when their computer breaks down. □
7130	7/11/2012	□ Other public services like police and fire protection are important, but I think the library is right up there with them. I thought the last ballot measure passed, but closing the library on Monday seems like a good cost-cutting move as long as hours don't keep getting cut. I'm glad you cut Monday instead of the weekend.
7131	7/11/2012	Access to an immense variety of subjects for all ages and levels of education
7132	7/11/2012	Library services are important because they promote literacy and community involvement. Additionally they provide free/low-cost education opportunities to families with young children and other at-risk populations.
7133	7/11/2012	Libraries allow access to education for those who cannot afford it. Only through education can we create opportunities for people to live their best lives.
7134	7/11/2012	I think the not-too-distant future will bring the end of brick and mortar libraries. □ But we will always need police and firefighters.
7135	7/11/2012	Access to information of all kind is important to seniors and adults and the development of the love of reading is essential to the development of children.
7136	7/11/2012	Literacy requires us to provide schools and libraries for public use. If the public isn't literate then we have failed as a society.
7137	7/11/2012	I often need resource material for projects and studies.
7138	7/11/2012	Because access to information is fundamental. Supporting a public library is part of being a good citizen.
7139	7/11/2012	I'm an avid reader, who could not afford to buy all the books I read in a year. I have a young child who is on her way to being as much a bookworm as I am.
7140	7/11/2012	I can't imagine life without access to a public library. Libraries have been my sanctuary since I learned to read in the first grade in New Jersey. I've lived in many places before settling in Portland almost 31 years ago. Obtaining a library card has always been one of my first steps taken in making a new place feel like home.
7141	7/11/2012	They are my second home where I found help, guidance, answers to my questions and KNOWLEDGE TO LIVE AND ACT BETTER.
7142	7/11/2012	because it is used and useful
7143	7/11/2012	senior citizen
7144	7/11/2012	I love to read and books and information is very important.
7145	7/11/2012	Continued self education is the key to our future.
7146	7/11/2012	Because we are readers and supporting Library services is important to us.

7147	7/11/2012	I don't want to own books, I want to share them. Libraries are also great gathering spots. Finally, it's ludicrous in this Information Age to shortchange places staffed by experts in locating information!
7148	7/11/2012	i could not afford to buy all the materials that i can borrow as often as i want to. librarians have repeatedly helped me out with questions i could not otherwise find answers to.
7149	7/11/2012	part of our ethos.
7150	7/11/2012	Literacy is very important to our family and want our children to grow up using the local library for all resources that will help them develop skills and knowledge to become good citizens in our community.
7151	7/11/2012	I'm not exactly sure what we're comparing it to. BUT, the library is extremely important as it's a key tool in educating the public and keeping us up to date. It's also one of the best family friendly places in town. If we don't promote reading and education what kind of city will we be living in?
7152	7/11/2012	People rely on libraries in a way they don't appreciate until they're closed.
7153	7/11/2012	I like to check out books. The kids I work with love to go to the library,.
7154	7/11/2012	Without a list of what else is meant by "local public services", it's difficult to imagine that it wouldn't include things more important than libraries, which are also important.
7155	7/11/2012	because we can't afford to buy books and as a shut in books are important
7156	7/11/2012	Because I enjoy going to the library to check out my books. This is partially because of the savings & partially because it facilitates community connection.
7157	7/11/2012	An informed public is a free public.
7158	7/11/2012	Fire, police and some social services keep people alive, which is why they rank 1st. But I believe libraries are also very important.
7159	7/11/2012	The libraries are that important because they offer a vital service to the community in that they are free, safe, educational, and everyone friendly.
7160	7/11/2012	Libraries offer access to knowledge, they level the playing field, they provide guidance to future generations.
7161	7/11/2012	When we find ourselves living paycheck to paycheck, it's really nice to have a free place to go that brings us so much happiness.
7162	7/11/2012	As a tax payer I do not use many government subsidized services, however I do utilize the library frequently. I'm extremely appreciative of the services the library offers, and impressed by the efficient and effective way it is managed, particularly during a time of limited financial resources.
7163	7/11/2012	I greatly value education
7164	7/11/2012	This topic is not well-handled in 100 words. Libraries help our children explore the world of knowledge. They give our teenagers a safe place to be teenagers - and to better themselves at the same time. They are a valuable source for research, both academic and personal. They give everyone a sense of community. They are a hub for cultural events. Robust, PUBLIC libraries are absolutely central to the kind of culture and society to which I wish to belong.
7165	7/11/2012	Fire & safety come first. Maybe transportation & librarys tie for "somewhat"?

7166	7/11/2012	Libraries give everybody equal access to knowledge and technology that many people would otherwise not have at all. We Multnomah county residents are especially lucky to have such a expansive library system with multiple types of media available and online capabilities that make it easy to manage our materials and request new materials. The library is something that I love about living in Portland. Even if someone has nothing they can have a library card and that card can unlock hours of learning and entertainment.
7167	7/11/2012	They bring a broad range of knowledge, information, tools, and resources to all members of a community equally.
7168	7/11/2012	Key to a community
7169	7/11/2012	Actually useful.
7170	7/11/2012	It not only gives people jobs but a place to go to get resources and for me printing out information that I can't do at home. Lots of good reading.
7171	7/11/2012	A literate citizenry is essential to our democracy.
7172	7/11/2012	Compared to police and fire rescue services, they clearly take a second seat. Libraries don't have a immediate life or survival impact. However, long term education impacts are evident by the literacy research.
7173	7/11/2012	Education and access to education materials is very important to promote achievement and self-improvement - for children, adults, etc.
7174	7/11/2012	I have young daughter that has learned to love reading thanks to programs, books and services provided by the Hollywood library.
7175	7/11/2012	Access to knowledge and learning/instruction, as well as access to books/media in general, for everyone equally.
7176	7/11/2012	Libraries offer access to media and information to all, not just those who can afford it.
7177	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power.
7178	7/11/2012	I use the libraries a fair amount. Even during periods where I don't use them as much, it is good to always know that I have the option to use the libraries. Losing that option would be a big loss.
7179	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to books and other media regardless of income
7180	7/11/2012	They are free to all! A Vast source of knowledge and entertainment for everyone. In our tough economic times it is a resource for everyone to use free of charge. Those who cannot afford a computer, those seeking jobs, families bringing their children to our programs, those studying, many retirees enjoying reading, many enjoying the new technology of e readers etc... These are a few of the reasons our libraries are well used and loved by our citizens.
7181	7/11/2012	We enjoy libraries but hate continuous levies and extra taxes.
7182	7/11/2012	Many people depend on the libraries for computer access and job searches. Some people can't afford to buy the books they want to read. Children need to be able to check out books, as some have no other way to afford books, and some need the library to do their homework and research things.

7183	7/11/2012	I personally could get by without a library, but think it is important to have services for those who cannot. However, I think my property taxes are quite high, so if it came down to reduced hours versus a large increase in my property tax, I'd vote for the reduced hours.
7184	7/11/2012	Libraries do not provide a service that is necessary to life. However, they do provide valuable services. That being said, when money is tight, food, shelter, health, safety and education are the essentials. I acknowledge that the library provides "educational" services. But those services are not as essential as education for k-12. If schools have had to reduce days, they it is a given so should less essential services.[] [] Talk to the boards of your local school districts to find out the cuts that have been put into place over the last few years.
7185	7/11/2012	Resource for the entire community at all levels
7186	7/11/2012	I can't always get into other public services but I know the library is always there.
7187	7/11/2012	Libraries offer the greatest number of services that are available to everybody--as long as the doors stay open.
7188	7/11/2012	They are difficult to rank without knowing to which specific "other public services" are being compared, nor what the current needs are in those areas. Library services are _very_ important, but there are a few more important services (police, fire, transportation).
7189	7/11/2012	It's a one-stop-shop for many daily needs. I'm a writer and use the library for research. In addition, they promote literacy, which is critical to the well-being of the larger community, economic, civic, and social. [] []
7190	7/11/2012	I'm not sure it's been considered, but possibly branch closures could be staggered on different days of the week to accommodate different people's schedules. That way, if the only day someone can make it to the library is Monday, at least some branches of the library would be open Monday, even if their most convenient branch was closed.[] [] I'm sorry you are requiring my opinion on the next question, as I am not currently a resident of Multnomah County, although I hope to be one again soon.
7191	7/11/2012	Libraries enable people. Without libraries, people out of school will not have access to knowledge. As a college graduate, the Internet and Google are fabulous resources. However, they are severely lacking for anything considered scholarly. If people want to obtain higher level knowledge, the libraries, NOT the Internet, will need to be of the highest quality.

7192	7/11/2012	I home school my children and I need books for studying history, science, English, and for reading good literature. I cannot afford to purchase everything I would need for our home school. Our entire family reads a tremendous amount of books each year and it would be too expensive to have to purchase everything ourselves. My oldest daughter is studying music for college and checks out printed music and music CD's. As a family, we check out not only many books, but also CD's and DVD's. The use of the library gives us the opportunity to enrich our lives with books, CD's and DVD's which helps us learn new things and educates us. We are entertained with the DVD's and the CD's which saves us money by not having to rent videos to watch and gives us concert/symphony experiences in our own home when we listen to CD's
7193	7/11/2012	public transportation and health are a little more important
7194	7/11/2012	The library itself is very important to me but, if you are talking about social services, they are actually more important. While I have no personal need for same, there needs to be a good safety net.
7195	7/11/2012	It is a free way to disseminate culture and literature to our community.
7196	7/11/2012	As an immigrant child, I grew without in poverty. I used my local (Chicago) public library as an escape from a turbulent home life, Chicago humidity in an apartment without a/c and as a place for solitude and education. ¶ I continue to use the library on a weekly basis. I love browsing the aisles and seeing community members partaking in services provided by the library. I hope to bring my children to the library on a regular basis.
7197	7/11/2012	I'm a teacher, I believe libraries are some of the most important resources in a community! Many of my students would have no internet access or other ways to complete research and other essential skill-building if it weren't for local libraries. I feel blessed to be amongst avid users of one of the most functional, efficient and well supported library systems in the nation.
7198	7/11/2012	The library is THE community resource center where we can find info about anything.
7199	7/11/2012	Education and access to education are fundamental to a competent democracy.
7200	7/11/2012	A good library system helps maintain a literate population. It also helps a variety of people who need assistance not offered through established social services such as access to the internet.
7201	7/11/2012	I wouldn't be the person I am today without libraries. I hid out and read books when I felt too weird or emotionally raw for human interaction. I encountered so many great ideas, and so many ways to analyze and engage with the world around me. Libraries helped my family bond, because we'd take trips to the library together. My parents would help me find things I wanted them to read to me, and, later help me find things I wanted to read myself. Library books helped me understand and see myself as an LGBT person. Going up to the desk with a queer book was also quite a courage-builder. In short, libraries played a critical role in the course of my life, and I'm willing to pay what it takes to make sure future generations aren't deprived of similar experiences.

		Libraries are where our common heritage lies, and where our differences are highlighted. Libraries are where we expand our horizons, and learn about ourselves. Libraries are where we find people that have distinguished themselves, where they have embarrassed themselves, where they have exposed themselves, and where they have tried to hide themselves. Words, music and film.[]
7202	7/11/2012	[] Water, garbage, road construction, schools, police departments, fire departments, jails and prisons. Construction permits, sanitary sewer, stormwater protection, environmental protection, and health departments. Very important reasons local government. But access to knowledge, music, and art is the reason we have all those things. Other than national defence, feeding the hungry, maintaining strong vibrant libraries and operating world class schools are the most important functions our government can do.
7203	7/11/2012	Need access to books and range of magazines
7204	7/11/2012	Somewhat.
7205	7/11/2012	I see it as an educational benefit, keeping our minds sharp through reading and services.
7206	7/11/2012	not as important as public safety or public transportation more important than more bike paths
7207	7/11/2012	It is knowledge and power to the people and it is imperative to have an educated population.
7208	7/11/2012	One of the first things I always want to know when I move to a new location is where the library is. Everyone should have access to the materials that a library holds, regardless of income.
7209	7/11/2012	I love to read and use the library to save money on buying books. They are an important resource to our community.
7210	7/11/2012	Most often used resource. Although I would not use it anywhere as much if the number of books/media was reduced or hours were further reduced.
7211	7/11/2012	It is part of a vibrant community. I wouldn't put this service against mental health or police- it's important to have balance.
7212	7/11/2012	Because the library offers so much to so many different groups of people.
7213	7/11/2012	Schools, basic services (i.e. sewer & water), and public safety are more important than libraries due to their necessity. However, libraries are more important than parks and services for the homeless because the library system can be used to improve one's life through learning if one takes the initiative.
7214	7/11/2012	It's vital that books - current as well as old - are available for all people, not just those who can afford to buy books. Everyone needs to have uncensored information available to them for free. The library is the logical place to teach literacy, to encourage the exchange of ideas, and to prod people into questioning the credibility of their sources of information. [] Libraries can be a center for the neighborhood, thus helping to build and maintain community.
7215	7/11/2012	The libraries are often the only place for poor people to have access to Internet and printing services which help them to apply for jobs and keep in touch with family out of town. They also help to bring knowledge to people who can't afford college or other continuing education.

7216	7/11/2012	it's still is better to read off of paper than a computer
7217	7/11/2012	Books, music, film, and media/information are of critical importance to me.
7218	7/11/2012	Libraries make knowledge popular. Knowledge and education are the most important things for a nation to become powerful and healthy.
7219	7/11/2012	Explained in prior question.....
7220	7/11/2012	We need an educated citizenry to make intelligent decisions.
7221	7/11/2012	Police and fire services seem paramount. Maintenance of roads, bridges, public buildings, etc., second. Libraries a close third, ahead of schools, as I largely educated myself in libraries rather than in available public schools.
7222	7/11/2012	We used the materials a lot. We homeschool and use books (not electronic so much) and magazines, which makes our learning affordable. We would like to have more programs for homeschoolers.
7223	7/11/2012	I don't buy many books or rent or buy movies. The library is my only source for movies. They are a great resource for young children to learn the wonder of books and reading in general. A population that loves to read is an educated one.
7224	7/11/2012	It is one of my main resources for information and entertainment.
7225	7/11/2012	I work in the nonprofit sector and the public benefit of the resources for professional development, combined with the additional entertainment resources like novels, DVDs and music are so important to so many people.
7226	7/11/2012	They serve all and we are important.
7227	7/11/2012	Allow for free recreational and educational activities for individuals and families
7228	7/11/2012	I actually use the library as opposed to other services. I am an honest hard working tax paying responsible citizen who does not take advantage of too many "social services".
7229	7/11/2012	Because i am a senior citizen who loves 2 read!!
7230	7/11/2012	Libraries are the heart, mind and hope for the future in a community. Without them needy people have so many fewer options. Rich people have those options.....
7231	7/11/2012	I love the library. I think that it is really important that there be a safe, welcoming place for people to gather, learn and reflect. While many public services are focused on safety, or a specific demographic, the library is about sharing, learning and access to information for everyone regardless of background or wealth. And, the library is more than just free reading material - its also a physical place where you are always welcome. As a kid it was one of the only places that I could spend hours hanging out in and not be in the way.
7232	7/11/2012	Even if I tend to buy more books than I check out from the library, I believe a culture of literacy is important to the strength of any community.
7233	7/11/2012	It is probably the one public service I used consistently. I read a lot, and don't want to be buying personal copies of books. It isn't sustainable if everyone did that. I don't have children, so I don't 'use' the school system (although I am sure I pay plenty for it).

7234	7/11/2012	Libraries tie into a better educated public! Education is key to a better life for everyone!
7235	7/11/2012	I depend heavily on library reading materials for personal use, school and jobs. I often use the computers and printers and the library as a space to read or study. I very much enjoy the community programs like knitting, lunch time lectures and events the Portland libraries organize or host. Portland Public libraries are a huge resource to every member of the community and especially to me and my family.
7236	7/11/2012	Reading is essential, it educates & opens minds to new ideas, which in turn creates a healthier more sustainable society, & all of their services just help to further that goal. I would not like to live w/o libraries. Please help us make it work somehow.
7237	7/11/2012	see above
7238	7/11/2012	The public library is the single most critical institution to a stable, free society. Unfettered and free access to information is a basic right that needs to be protected alongside the right to an education and the right to gather. The Internet cannot be trusted to serve the public in the same manner.
7239	7/11/2012	I think that access to information, books and computers is critical to America's success as a nation.
7240	7/11/2012	Reading is fundamental. Libraries are an important part of communities.
7241	7/11/2012	knowledge is power
7242	7/11/2012	Because I am a writer, so am biased. Obviously, health and other services are vital as well.
7243	7/11/2012	My daughter reads a book a day and I cannot afford to spend $15 a day.
7244	7/11/2012	Because they make things available that otherwise would not, for free. I love the library and find it invaluable as a service of information, no matter how you find it. In books, online, or person to person. A library is the center of the neighborhood. The foundation of knowledge for those who seek it, need it or stumble upon it.
7245	7/11/2012	Libraries provide a vital community service.[] Books for young readers.[] Books for everyone.[] Programs to get kids excited about reading.[] Alternative resources for research.[] Public forum.[] Public gathering place
7246	7/11/2012	I don't use the actual library buildings very often because the selection of new/current books is limited.
7247	7/11/2012	I am an avid reader and lifetime learner. I've been a library rat since I was a child. We need physical collections, not only for the beautiful monuments that they are, but as a home for the continued education of us all.
7248	7/11/2012	Very important
7249	7/11/2012	libraries = knowledge for all

7250	7/11/2012	Access to information and books I wouldn't be able to afford or justify to purchase. And, even more so, important for our community as a whole for disadvantaged, unemployed, etc families to have access to the resources. The Greater Good is served.
7251	7/11/2012	Libraries offer many services that people otherwise would not have access to. In every aspect of our lives we rely on information. The libraries help us get that information, thereby, helping us live better lives. We must support them and keep them open everyday.
7252	7/11/2012	Read no. 6
7253	7/11/2012	Reading is the cheapest education and vacation one can experience. Police, fire, roads, schools, etc. have to take a priority but a good library levels the playing field for all of those who take advantage of what a library has to offer
7254	7/11/2012	It ia good place for me. I love to read. I love the atmosphere. The Librarians are very friendly. They take the time to help you find what you need. It is the best. I'm enjoying the best of our Libray. I rely on the library for reading material. I go through books like water -- I can't afford to buy that many books. The library is a joy to have. For many years, I have lived in countries without libraries. It was such a joy to know I'd be moving back to Portland, with its wonderful library system!! When you don't have a library to go to, you quickly realize just how important they are!
7255	7/11/2012
7256	7/11/2012	It is a resource I use all the time and I see many others using it as well. Especially, students needing library resources as well as computer access to do homework.
7257	7/11/2012	Libraries are central to the formation and maintaining of community. They serve as a hub for learning, pleasure, growth, contact, enrichment.
7258	7/11/2012	I am a voracious reader and do not have the means to purchase everything i want to read, or the movies I want to watch. The library provides these things. Most of the other local public services I take for granted.
7259	7/11/2012	I realize that the other county departments are equally as important even though I don't use them as much. These are hard decisions and appreciate what ever funding you can spare for the libraries.
7260	7/11/2012	vvvv
7261	7/11/2012	They are very important to me.
7262	7/11/2012	resource for all economic levels and ages of users
7263	7/11/2012	I enjoy reading and have always felt very at home in a library - it is a big part of my life.
7264	7/11/2012	They are a resource for all in the community. The library provides access to current and relevant books and media to those who might not be able to afford it otherwise. Also, I don't know about each branch, but the Hollywood Library seems to be a hub of the neighborhood. I always run into someone there from work or my child's school or a neighbor.
7265	7/11/2012	We are a one income family so the library resources provide us with expertise, entertainment & substantial cost-savings as we don't have to buy books to benefit from them.[] [] Also, we firmly believe libraries are a crucial element for a good community.

7266	7/11/2012	I have lived in Portland a long time. During time I have utilized the main branch and been grateful to pass time there as well as study and read.[] Now I use the Belmont branch for books I want to read by reserving the books when there is something of interest I want to read. I have also rented DVD's which I have enjoyed a great deal and was glad to have access to.[] I will support funding. Libraries are one of the defining features of a community.
7267	7/11/2012	I am low income and hold reading and learning in high regard. I rarely buy books or other media like movies, so the library is my primary resource for this. I am also a college student and can often find course materials at the county library for longer loan time than school libraries. [] Also, I do not have cable or other movie/TV subscriptions and so get most of my television or film entertainment from the library.[] In total, the library is a major source of both educational and entertainment material for me.
7268	7/11/2012	Local library services are essential to my daily life. I use the library as a constant source of knowledge and entertainment. I would be devastated to have reduced library hours, much less no library hours at all.
7269	7/11/2012	Libraries are the foundation of a democratic society. They are the great equalizer, offering access to ideas and information to all.
7270	7/11/2012	because I use it all the time
7271	7/11/2012	Services that assist hungry and poor people are more important.
7272	7/11/2012	Books and information are crucial resources for all types of human endeavor, and a egalitarian society should make them available to all citizens.
7273	7/11/2012	I use the library all the time, for many reasons. I don't use many other city services, unless there is an emergency.
7274	7/11/2012	A key function of government is public works, on a local level libraries are a worthwhile public work. They can enrich our communities, help coordinate information of other government services, provide refuge and opportunity to those who want to improve their lives, and is a statement about how we as a community value knowledge.
7275	7/11/2012	Beause police, fire departments etc. are absolutely essential services -- and while I am an avid reader I can certainly make do with diminished hours while early release of prisoners who prey upon little boys in restrooms (this week's horror story) can destroy people's lives.[] [] Maybe the cutbacks in hours could be fine-tuned so that you could keep Sunday hours, but open later in the day a couple times a week.
7276	7/11/2012	I would say they are somewhat important, but not as important as Police, Fire, sewers, and water systems.
7277	7/11/2012	The library is like no other public service in that it is a source of knowledge and inspiration that is available to all members of the community.

7278	7/11/2012	One of the very most.
7279	7/11/2012	I don't know that I can list that, but very important.
7280	7/11/2012	THE LIBRARY IS THE ONE REMAINING UNIVERSAL SOURCE FOR PUBLIC INFORMATION AND EDUCATION THAT CAN PROVIDE FULL ACCESS TO ALL CITIZENS!!!
7281	7/11/2012	It's hard to group libraries with all other public services. I would say they should at least be of the same importance but it is hard to say without a list of those services.
7282	7/11/2012	Very affordable way to read current books. I enjoy fiction, etc.
7283	7/11/2012	Certainly, I would place law enforcement and fire fighting first, but I feel that a local neighborhood library is essential for me in that I enjoy the library, and I depend on it as a resource.
7284	7/11/2012	Libraries, as well as parks and community centers, are an incredible resource for our communities and neighborhoods. Offering written materials is one of many things they offer. They are a safe space for people to meet up, allow people without internet/computer access to stay connected, and are especially valuable for English language learners and newcomers to our country. Not to mention, a dry place to read, do homework, or spend some time (in a healthy manner) during the rainy winter months. Picking a book up off the shelf will never lose its lure for me!
7285	7/11/2012	Access to books is important. Reading is important
7286	7/11/2012	I am studying to become a teacher and I always need resources like the public library.
7287	7/11/2012	I love to read and could never afford all the books I read. Your selection of materials is outstanding -- there have been only very few times when you didn't have the book I was looking for. Also important is the library book discussion group I attend. I've been a member for 12 years, and it is an important part of my life.
7288	7/11/2012	Used often
7289	7/11/2012	Hollywood library feels like the core of the Hollywood neighborhood. It is our first resource for information and entertainment.
7290	7/11/2012	They help the disenfranchised.
7291	7/11/2012	Building blocks of the community
7292	7/11/2012	Access to literature and an ability to read allow people of all ages to reach their full potential. High schools drop outs rates are directly corelated to gang membership and delinquency and high schol drop outs are often illiterate or read well below grade average. By instiling an ability to read, and therefore a very possible love of knowledge, children can grow to be better adults, and then teach their children to follow in those footsteps. By limiting children, and adults, access to the library, the public at large is in trouble.
7293	7/11/2012	Perhaps libraries are the starting place. They are the place of information, books, etc. so maybe they should be promoted that way so people begin there no matter what they are looking for. Often people can't or don't utilize services that are available because they are not aware.

7294	7/11/2012	My family relies on the library as a place to expose our son to reading, as a place to learn, a destination on rainy days, a way to read many many books that we could not otherwise afford and as an information resource. In other words, the library improves our quality of life in a very basic ways that no other local public service does. Additionally, it is my opinion that the accessibility of public libraries and education provides a kind of litmus test for any society. If a society is strong and truly democratic, it invests in the education of its people.
7295	7/11/2012	I believe the libraries provide access to education that is important to early childhood development and life long learning....reading, learning and gaining knowledge is always fundamental (not just when we are young).
7296	7/11/2012	To me, the library is one of the most important of the public services, because it allows everyone access to knowledge and therefore the ability to better themselves. I also find it to be the cornerstone of the community-particularly as a meeting place and resource for all.
7297	7/11/2012	As an educator, I see our local library services as a crucial and necessary part of our community.
7298	7/11/2012	Libraries are a source of education and learning without which nothing else in life runs well.
7299	7/11/2012	I believe in literature and information dissemination being available to the public. Due to infirmities I am less able to hold and manipulate the physical weight of books when I am reading. So I always prefer my electronic reader, a kindle. Because of this, the library has become more irrelevant to me than at any time in my past. I am 67, live in Irvington with a high tax assessed home, am a Portland native, have always relied on the library and am disappointed in the expansion of the library's perceived mission.[] Personally, I would prefer to see the library expand it's purchases of ebooks rather than expanding social services. Should it continue to become irrelevant to me I would be less likely to vote for levies. I did vote for the most recent tax measure to continue funding, but I do carefully consider whether to do so each time such measures come up. I feel as if the Multnomah County Library system believes it 's mission is to take up the slack for other underfunded agencies. I think this will eventually tip the balance against them if they are not careful. That would be very sad.

7300	7/11/2012	My life has been immeasurably enriched by public library services, both growing up (in New York City), where I learned from early childhood to treasure the availability first of (what seemed like) an infinite number of incredible books (we bought our books at the used bookstores on 4th Avenue, when we did, but I remember always coming away from the local library with eight or ten books balanced in my arms); and then, as a student and later as a freelance editor, of the library's profound support for research (especially NYC's 42nd Street Library--in fact, I later compared libraries in other countries with the ones I loved at home). I felt that I grew up (and gradually gray!) with the reference librarians in the central branch. When I retired and moved to Portland two years ago, I thought that one of the few things I would profoundly miss would be the libraries, and I was delighted and gratified to find how excellent the Central Library and the branches are here. The public library continues to provide educational resources and intellectual pleasures that often amaze me in their foresight and scope.
7301	7/11/2012	Because I utilize them to a degree at about that level.
7302	7/11/2012	I and my family read a lot, love books, and so are major users of the library.
7303	7/11/2012	education is going down the toilet in this country - we need libraries so that children can learn
7304	7/11/2012	I read a great deal and many of the books are extremely expensive
7305	7/11/2012	They're not exactly primary needs like safety, food, and shelter, but do definitely improve quality of life once those needs are met.
7306	7/11/2012	to keep active as a senior on all the latest trends and activities etc
7307	7/11/2012	I love the library, but ultimately education, basic infrastructure (roads, water, sewer), and public protection services must have top priority.
7308	7/11/2012	I'm not sure what other "local public services" we're comparing to, but I know that our family visits the library at least three or four times a week--even during the summer months. All of my children enjoy reading and visiting the library (ages eleven, nine, five and two) and the resources there are valuable because there's nothing comparable. Recreation programs? Please. Which of those are even available when I am able to take my kids there? Which of those will help my kids develop the skills to get into college and get good jobs? While this question could be clarified, it's my opinion that the library is a singular good in any community, and there is nothing comparable to deliver even an approximate value for the same money. I'll go so far as to say that the only increase in taxes I voted in favor of was in support of the library system.
7309	7/11/2012	It provides me with access to all forms of culture and media, and provides common ground to everyone in the city.

7310	7/11/2012	It's a resource that I depend on to educate, entertain and connect myself with other community resources. It saves me money, time and energy. But most importantly, it provides educational resources to children and families which I believe leads to a more educated society. I think there is a direct correlation between the educational resources a community has and the crime rate of its youth. So, you could say that I think the library helps reduce crime which makes those library dollars even more important!
7311	7/11/2012	Libraries provide educational and cultural benefits to community members who couldn't afford the materials otherwise. Educated citizenry is a benefit to the entire community.
7312	7/11/2012	It is a resource that I know is always available even though I might not use it that often. I never know when I might need it's services.
7313	7/11/2012	The library is much more than a room with books. This is a fundamental cornerstone to modern learning. Access to free information is one of humanity's greatest virtues.
7314	7/11/2012	I read alot however I don't read most of the books I check out because they don't interest me once I've read several pages so I return them the next day. i could never afford to buy these books which I end up not reading. Also I travel regularly and I take out books on travel and take notes because I can't afford to buy all the books I read on foreign places . or on health or financial issues like taxes .
7315	7/11/2012	This is my access to the world beyond my yard, the big world and the local world. I choose not to be entertained by TV, don't listen to radio, so the information I glean via my contact with the library is my trip around the world and my way of keeping up with what's going on right here in Portland and the Pacific NW.[] Connection
7316	7/11/2012	It's near by home and I am a student so it's been very helpful to do research and do my homework
7317	7/11/2012	I feel like they like they go hand in hand with education, and are important all segments of the community in different ways.
7318	7/11/2012	education is a public utility.
7319	7/11/2012	The importance of libraries for me is the access to books for myself and more important my children. Reading is important for young minds to grow both in learning and reading for fun. With that said there are other resources for getting books such as school leftovers, thrift stores, local charities and trading with friends, neighbors, relatives and co-workers. We are back to basic needs such as fire and police vs wants like libraries.
7320	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power.
7321	7/11/2012	They give me a spot to study outside of my hectic house
7322	7/11/2012	Our libraries are a resource for the entire community and nationally recognized. We have the highest circulation after NYC!
7323	7/11/2012	Everyone in my family reads a lot!
7324	7/11/2012	they enhance the public good by serving poor people, youth and encouraging self improvement.

7325	7/11/2012	I would hate to shortchange the fire department or police to have library hours. Likewise I think that social services are quite important. That said, I rank access to books right up there with shelter and food.
7326	7/11/2012	Because they are not vital for safety but very important part of the well being of the community.
7327	7/11/2012	I can get access to books, which i otherwise cannot afford buying
7328	7/11/2012	Libraries are essential to our society and its improvement. I utilize the library frequently, although this is in large part due to the fact that I can no longer afford to purchase books or media, and that, in turn, is due to a mortgage that increases every year due to property taxes, which are increased by the need for library funding.
7329	7/11/2012	Question cannot be answered without qualification. Ex: In case of a fire or a home invasion, how important is the library.
7330	7/11/2012	It's important for everyone to have access to books, a lot of families can't afford to buy new books often, so this is a very valuable resource.
7331	7/11/2012	There are other services that affect quality of life. iBut reading is something that enriches life at all ages.
7332	7/11/2012	A well run first class city has a well run first class library. My family and I has used the library for all sorts of research, from school homework to local history, for recreational to educational reading, occasionally for cultural programs (Woodstock/Chinese), for online resources and sometimes just to visit an interesting place.
7333	7/11/2012	I know many people of all ages and circumstances who depend on the library and its resources that it provides. I firmly believe that any civilization worthy of the name makes access to quality information, best embodied in the institution of public libraries, one of its highest civic priorities.
7334	7/11/2012	I would rather lose the library than water, sewer, garbage, etc. which is the only reason I bumped it down from very to somewhat.
7335	7/11/2012	Very high as they offer a great resource for the community.
7336	7/11/2012	I rely on finding professional resources in our library system.
7337	7/11/2012	It saves me space and money not to buy/own books
7338	7/11/2012	Beacouse I think reading is very good and fun
7339	7/11/2012	The library is "the poor man's university." Some people simply do not have the resources to access information, literature, internet, etc. themselves.
7340	7/11/2012	I use the library often for pleasure. I drive more than most people and I have been able to listen to hundreds of book that I otherwise would not have time to read.
7341	7/11/2012	Because they are open to all and they are free. And reading and learning support a thoughtful society .
7342	7/11/2012	Literacy, access to free culture and self-improvement are, and should continue to be, shared values of our society. And literacy includes the traditional written word, media literacy, digital literacy and any other skill necessary for the functioning of civil discourse.

7343	7/11/2012	There are so many important services that the library offers, not to mention the fact that it is a comfortable and safe place to escape and learn about nearly anything you could put your mind to. The value of the library to our teenagers and elementary school aged children is very high, especially in our current age where it seems that knowledge is less and less valuable and apathy reigns supreme.
7344	7/11/2012	A Good place to get material to read for little cost. Accesibility
7345	7/11/2012	My grand daughter and I visit the library every week. Between my daughter, grand daughter and myself we have about 30 items checked out. My grand daughter (age 5 1/2) loves to be read to and she looks forward to the summer reading every year.
7346	7/11/2012	i am not sure to what other services i am comparing. police, fire department, welfare? the library provides a positive experience that does not relate to an emergency. it is one of the few means we have of cultural exposure in this country. we aren't exactly the most supportive of the arts. when i lived in a small town in idaho the library was the only way i was exposed to beethoven's 9th, arvo part, harvard lectures, current science magazines, poetry and literature. being able to go to the library as a young adult was my only exposure to culture. these were very formative experiences. many of the books i am interested in now are art books and often cannot be checked out. this is a bit of a disappointment to me but i know the reasons why.
7347	7/11/2012	Literacy is very important to a community's health.
7348	7/11/2012	Because I like having materials I want to read or use available for personal and career growth. Also, I'm trying to cut way back on my book purchases.
7349	7/11/2012	The library allows for patrons to experience a wide selection of books, music and movies that they may not be able to afford otherwise. When you have children this can be priceless in an economy where prices just go up
7350	7/11/2012	As a senior citizen it is a place to meet other seniors. It is important to find a place where I can locate reading material, be it a book or USA Today.
7351	7/11/2012	They are a physical and intellectual resource and the ur ban area would be a poorer place without them
7352	7/11/2012	Access to information is of fundamental importance to a truly free society.
7353	7/11/2012	A great public library system's impact cannot be underestimated. Like the US Postal Service, America has the best public library system in the world. After living abroad I can say that we take the wide selection of books and services available from a local branch of our public library for granted.
7354	7/11/2012	We are active readers and the library allows us our reading addiction without having to spend lots of money. The library provides educational functions that we would otherwise not be exposed too.
7355	7/11/2012	I am a reader, have been a steady user of libraries since I received my first library card in the fourth grade in Hood River, Oregon. As cliché as it sounds, Libraries are a window to the world for so many people.

7356	7/11/2012	It's the resource I use most often.
7357	7/11/2012	I use it more often than other services.
7358	7/11/2012	I use ever part of the library for computers and books that I need to read for school and hangouts with friends.
7359	7/11/2012	8 out of 10.
7360	7/11/2012	They open the world and provide opportunity. They are a gathering place and a community builder.
7361	7/11/2012	As resources for education, art and community, local libraries are nearly invaluable in their importance to our well-being as residents. Clearly, some public services are more important in terms of survival, but I would rather see other services trimmed or non-survival services eliminated than see our libraries unable to provide resources to our communities. Because when people actually utilize this resource (which I feel our county is really good about). []
7362	7/11/2012	I also want to support transportation, Parks & Rec, etc., hence the "somewhat" vote, though I do think libraries are a vital part of a community
7363	7/11/2012	Love reading books and using on-line research services
7364	7/11/2012	It's an invaluable resource that can be utilized to obtain a wealth of information. Books and Reading are the fundamentals of life long learning.
7365	7/11/2012	Resource for reading and viewing material.
7366	7/11/2012	Recreation, enrichment, education.
7367	7/11/2012	Because access to information by all citizens is basic to our definition of society and government, and public libraries offer that access like no other vehicle or institution can.. I read from 3-4 books every weeeek,sometimes more, and also check out lots of movies. I am a low-income senior whose sole entertainment comes from the Central Library. Almost every other form of entertainment costs more than I can afford. Reading keeps me sane and entertained.
7368	7/11/2012	The library is a great thing for the community to have. I use 3 different libraries in addition to my college library. I love to read and read rather than watch TV. It is great to read to children every day and I could not afford to buy my kids new books. It is also good for the community to have internet access if they do not have it at home,
7370	7/11/2012	Safety and sanitation need to be of prime importance, but the library is one of the things that makes our society so rich. We love love love the library, one of the best things about Portland.
7371	7/11/2012	access to information on a wide variety of subjects[] enriches life
7372	7/11/2012	Some services are essential. Libraries are very important but not essential.
7373	7/11/2012	whenever I need a book for school, when i need to use a computer for hw, or when i just feel like reading, i know i can go to the library and i wouldnt be sorry.

7374	7/11/2012	In the wake of internet technology, we need to keep our libraries thriving~ providing opportunities to indiscriminately educate the public.
7375	7/11/2012	Other roads, crime schools, job training, also important
7376	7/11/2012	For me, perhaps not terribly important, although I greatly enjoy using them. However for the community, especially those who may not have the same access to resources that I do, I think libraries are extremely important.
7377	7/11/2012	I read widely for various purposes. It would be impossible to buy all the books that I need. Therefore, having access to the library is invaluable. Have occasionally found the library access to research materials, especially journals, etc. important.
7378	7/11/2012	Self education should be available to everyone. A person can learn as much as taking a college class on their own if they discipline themselves to it. Spend enough time in a library studying and eventually you can know as much as a PhD. An educated public makes for a better society overall. An educated public votes more wisely and is less likely to be unemployed. An educated society has less crime than an uneducated society.
7379	7/11/2012	Without access to the library, the community isn't able to seek the help it needs for job searching, for improving its reading and language skills, for teaching children how to appreciate knowledge and imagination and to aspire to continue learning.
7380	7/11/2012	Our libraries are at the heart of our community. They are the reason we can have a community conversation!!!!
7381	7/11/2012	Fire and police are more important.
7382	7/11/2012	Libraries are an extremely important resource that is not limited by class age sex race or gender or anything else. Knowledge should be free. It is also an important place that creates community.
7383	7/11/2012	I gain access to reading material, movies, magazines, newspaper and more I could never afford on my own. My life is enriched because of that. [] [] It is convenient - less than a mile from my house. At times, the library is a social outlet for me even if I just see one person I know and say "hi" to a librarian. I get a feeling of community being at the library. [] [] There's always something new, at least to me, at the library - another idea or another design or another recipe or another laugh.
7384	7/11/2012	Literacy, community, resources for all, as well for those who cannot afford private access/ownership of reading materials, computers, and other media! Services and programs to support a wide cross-section of all peoples for help, enrichment, learning/exchanging new ideas, and supporting reading in many ways to all ages! I cannot imagine living/surviving in a community without a viable library.
7385	7/11/2012	I use it every week

7386	7/11/2012	because i love books, i love to be able to borrow free books. also i work with people living in poverty and the libraries are essential for them and their families to access knowledge, entertainment, the internet, etc.
7387	7/11/2012	Reading is a great means of learning for all ages
7388	7/11/2012	Information, education and access for all people, regardless of income or status is available at all libraries. Don;t shut them down!
7389	7/11/2012	Reading enriches peoples lives in variety of ways but also our libraries are vital to students and other individuals who do not have home computer/ internet access as that is a staple of any education program today. We all need a place to go to gain knowledge through literature and I would hate to see our library system suffer any more budget cuts!! The public library system is a such an important resource for so many people!
7390	7/11/2012	libraries open the world to all of us.libraries connect us to each other and to communities beyond our own.
7391	7/11/2012	because I am getting my degree in library science and understand the importance and significance it can provide to its community.
7392	7/11/2012	English is my second language, therefore books are my primary material to teach my kids! English.
7393	7/11/2012	My family would not be able to afford the enrichment that comes from exploring new books without the library. Kids today are entering school with half the vocabulary they did twenty years ago. Reading or being read to is the foundation for all learning and with the education system already failing it would be horrible to see the libraries go
7394	7/11/2012	Libraries are the most affordable way for people to further their knowledge and education regardless of their personal income.
7395	7/11/2012	There are very few places that welcomes and embraces multiculturalism. It's fascinating to see the demographics of Midland Library. I constantly recommend families check out this library for their Spanish book collection. My son attends a Spanish Immersion program and parents are always asking about book titles and where to get them.
7396	7/11/2012	We use the library frequently to access a variety of reading material in English and Spanish. My sons are in an immersion program and learning to read is very important in both languages. The library is an affordable way for us to access a large variety of books.
7397	7/11/2012	I cannot in good faith rank library services is highly of those involving immediate public safety, however it is at least as important as any second tier public service and it makes a big difference in the quality of life for the entire community.
7398	7/11/2012	Freedom of self-education is the best feeling to indulge in. Plus those few children's books are simply treasure.
7399	7/11/2012	I think that it is very important, because we have access to a lot of information.

7400	7/11/2012	I think the infrastructure, the basic needs for a decent life are what are most important at the present time. Maybe in the future, when more people are back on their feet and the economy is in better shape it can be of more importance.
7401	7/11/2012	I don't use the physical library as often as some because I have access to internet and other resources at home and through school, but I do often log on to the library website to check availability of books and other media. Others, however, that cannot afford internet access or other resources, or are not enrolled in school, depend on public libraries to provide what is pretty much a crucial part of life these days. Many people work 5 or 6 days a week and having reduced library hours might be a hardship for them. So while I myself won't be terribly affected by the hour reduction, in an internet dependent society, others might be.
7402	7/11/2012	Libraries are great resources but the highest priority of public services are police, fire, water, etc.
7403	7/11/2012	We use the library so much - especially for children's books. I also think it's such an important place to build community and stress a value for reading and books.
7404	7/11/2012	There are more important services offered by other agencies
7405	7/11/2012	Life Long Education.
7406	7/11/2012	The library of Multnomah County is everything I wished for in a library. Usually libraries in schools are hard to get as quiet as the libraries in the county because it usually gets loud.
7407	7/11/2012	I depend on the library for reading material, DVDs, audiobooks. I couldn't possibly afford these materials on my own. They are, to me, as important as groceries or utilities.
7408	7/11/2012	Libraries provide informational and educational services vital to the population.
7409	7/11/2012	I use the library personally a lot. More than monthly but less than weekly, and I would like to get to know what programs the library offers more than I do right now. So there is immediate benefit directly to me. Also, I think libraries have a generally positive influence on the communities around them and are essential services, without which we would be worse off, so that is an indirect benefit.
7410	7/11/2012	Ignorance.
7411	7/11/2012	access
7412	7/11/2012	Libraries are below critical services such as public safety and public health.
7413	7/11/2012	important community resource,
7414	7/11/2012	I am a life long learner. I rely on the library for access to new materials, and old materials. I always check the library first for information. I use it for traditional books, audio books, music cds, dvds. I could not afford to buy all the info I want access to, so having it available at the library is great!
7415	7/11/2012	Education and knowledge are essential for anyone to grow. The library is a resource for schools, employment and even enjoyment.

7416	7/11/2012	Libraries have been institutions that not only permit public access to knowledge and entertainment, but also curate many varying and intersecting sources of information. Although there is an importance to local public services that seek to maintain our community's health, security, and safety needs; I believe that should not come at the expense of sustaining our community's history and education.
7417	7/11/2012	Because I can't really afford to buy books or movies anymore, but those things are luxuries and I could do without them if really necessary.
7418	7/11/2012	I appreciate having the library as a place to go and likely use it much more than the other governmental services I have access to.
7419	7/11/2012	I grew up in rural areas where the library gave me access to books that fueled my imagination and education outside of school and I would like to pass on that passion to my daughter.
7420	7/11/2012	A well read educated population is essential for the survival of our nation.
7421	7/11/2012	They are a different kind of public service than most others. Libraries help people connect with information, ideas, the world -- in ways that support intellectual growth as well as learning of practical skills. Libraries are the catalyst and means for learning for people of all socioeconomic levels, and not just for the lowest. You see a wonderful cross-section of the community when you use your local library. The library staff are absolutely terrific in being cordial and helpful to all who need assistance with their task. I believe that the public library is a crucial service for Multnomah County.
7422	7/11/2012	Because people can educate themselves for free, learn how to think freely and critically which is of vital importance to the quality of life in all communities.
7423	7/11/2012	Because they are a central point for so many people who would have no other access to these services were they to become unavailable. I believe the library system gives people a place for social connection and interaction, is an anchor for any neighborhood and books should be available to everyone regardless of their class or income.
7424	7/11/2012	Literacy is key to success
7425	7/11/2012	I dont know
7426	7/11/2012	Hundreds of people are out of work within this area. Libraries receive their funding from taxes. When taxes are down, it will reflect all services. Take a look at the shape of our public schools. They are in dire straits right now. Going down on library hours is less important than our schools
7427	7/11/2012	I love to read and cannot afford to buy as many books as I read. I learn a great deal by being able to borrow books from the library. It has greatly helped me save money and be a better person.
7428	7/11/2012	Because books nourish the brain. They keep us informed. Reading helps people to make education choices about life. Without free access to these resources, people would be even less encouraged to read.

7429	7/11/2012	Library services are important, but not as essential as public safety (fire department and police), clean drinking water (health), well maintained and safe roads (driving to work and safety for bicyclists), 911 services (emergencies), and bus services (transport for people with disabilities, youth, people without cars), etc. While I love my local library, it is not on the same level as other public services that address health, safety and mobility. It is something "very good" to have in a community - but not an essential life/death public service.
7430	7/11/2012	They are easily accessible and offer many programs free of charge for all in the community. We enjoy checking out books and videos that we otherwise would not see or purchase.
7431	7/11/2012	I use our library as an outing for my family. I am able to teach them respect for other people while we are there, I encourage their choices and expand, horizons and get them excited about books and learning. I don't believe that I could achieve that without our library.
7432	7/11/2012	Local public libraries are often the only access to free education, self-development and entertainment many individuals have. I passed an individual begging on a corner the other day and he was reading a book stamped "Multnomah County Library". It made me proud that public libraries offer equal access to all individuals whether or not they have an address and that most people are aware of this invaluable resource that enriches our lives and many utilize it despite our increasingly electronic and paperless culture..
7433	7/11/2012	emergency services and services that take care of people's more fundamental needs are more important, but then libraries I think are right up there with education.
7434	7/11/2012	This is where I obtain most information including the internet. Email is my main way of staying in contact with my adult children.
7435	7/11/2012	Many of my neighbors are big visitors to our local library.
7436	7/11/2012	I have loved the library every since I was a small child because I loved books and reading. I still love the library. But beyond that, the public library fosters literacy and provides other important services beyond simply providing books and other media. It scares me to think of losing access to libraries.
7437	7/11/2012	I'm a student at PSU. Some of the books I've needed for classes have been available to check out from county library even when they were not available at the PSU library.
7438	7/11/2012	I am not in need of public assistance, which might rate higher for someone who was out of work. I would rate the library as being as important as police and fire services because of its contribution to education and culture in the metro area.
7439	7/11/2012	Because they're too difficult to access (too many pain points: parking, homeless, etc) and not where I really want the library to be kicking butt: on my iDevices

7440	7/11/2012	I love the library. If there were a cover (or a donation box), I'd happily pay it. However, so many people in our communities are struggling with life-altering issues that desperately need resources as well. As much as I value the library, I wouldn't choose it over mental health services, clinics, low income/poverty services, etc. But I do rank it as a close second, since art and education and pleasure in learning are so essential to a thriving community.
7441	7/11/2012	Library services dramatically drop in importance after you get a full time job and internet access.
7442	7/11/2012	Because I am an avid reader and someone who loves books, but can't afford to buy all the books I want to read. Also, I feel they are a necessity for children and youth who can learn to love reading and learning, as I did as a child walking three blocks to get books every two weeks from my local library's bookmobile. If there had been no walking distance access, I would not have been able to read as much as I did.
7443	7/11/2012	THE LIBRARY HELPED ME ALL OF MY LIFE. AS A TEEN IT HELP ME DESIDE WHAT JOB I WANTED FOR LIFE. WHEN I WAS IN MY 20'S THE SELF HELP BOOKS CHANGED MY LIFE. I LOVE TO LEARN. THANK YOU
7444	7/11/2012	Public safety should always be foremost. After that public services, of which libraries are one of the most important. As for adding the costs to property taxes, I think that the property taxes are already too high and have become a financial burden to many home owners. I would be in favor of a tax on liquor and cigarettes for libraries.
7445	7/11/2012	It's important to have readers
7446	7/11/2012	Since I was a child, I've found education and refuge at the library.
7447	7/11/2012	Police and fireprotection have to be the most important services. After that access to information is at the heart of a democratic society.
7448	7/11/2012	This is free...education, research, history, media and it is a safe environment to learn and seek information and answers.
7449	7/11/2012	Intelligence and reading are interlinked. It is an important part of being human!
7450	7/11/2012	Serve all equally regardless of Ability to pay.
7451	7/11/2012	I've never seen such poor grammar in a world where it's so crucial to use reading and writing as a form of communication. If we don't have a library to improve our reading and writing skills, it will become much more difficult to obtain materials to learn.
7452	7/11/2012	It's really become an outdated system with the emergence of internet information and very expensive to fund for the few who use it.
7453	7/11/2012	I can no longer afford to buy books and audio books, thus access to them from the library has become a great asset.
7454	7/11/2012	it saves money not to buy materials to own, just to borrow
7455	7/11/2012	I think it is important as a resource for those who have limited access to books, educational materials, media and internet access to be able to rely on their local library for these.

7456	7/11/2012	Because it's FREE PUBLIC ACCESS TO UNCENSORED INFORMATION AND CREATIVITY. That's right up there after food, water, shelter and love in my book.
7457	7/11/2012	The library is an open forum for everyone within its community to educate and empower themselves, and thereby further serve the community they live in through such education and empowerment. Knowledge is a necessary institution to any community and access to information and voluntary self-enrichment is vital. My life revolves around learning in a variety of ways. I enjoy the quiet environment, access to daily newspapers, asking questions of employees.[]
7458	7/11/2012	I personally use the library to access current events, borrow DVD's, hold new books I want to read for pleasure or research, use the computer lab for tech support with job search or to answer a computer question for a career question involving the computer:for example as a writer, how to send my manuscript, or save on a flash drive etc. These volunteers are critical in helping with processes and I appreciate them immensely. All have been wonderfully kind and helpful. Because libraries provide equal educational access to all. []
7459	7/11/2012	Because the values instilled during my childhood (weekly visits to the library) have been highly influential throughout my life. [] I love books and libraries provide unequaled access.[] Every member of my family uses the library.
7460	7/11/2012	Because continuous learning is essential.
7461	7/11/2012	Literacy is second only to food, shelter, healthcare. In fact, health literacy is essential for health care.
7462	7/11/2012	WE and our neighbors use the library often--particularly putting books on reserve
7463	7/11/2012	It is a very good and important resource, the staff is friendly and professional. My grandchildren who live in the NW use it weekly and I theyr rally enjoy and appreciate its services.
7464	7/11/2012	A libaray won't get used of there's no food on the table or medical care. Obviously, police, fire schools roads parks etc etc are an integrated system along with libraries. It makes a community a community. People have more one on one with library workers, so I can't say one is more important than the other. The running of a community is complex.[] []
7465	7/11/2012	The following question does not work, my answer is invalid because I don't know enough. So please don't use my answers for your publicity.[] [] Again the question about a library district two questions down is unfair and limits choices
7466	7/11/2012	The importance of libraries to me is below that of the fire brigades, but above that of parking enforcement.
7467	7/11/2012	Police, fire, roads, schools, social health more important first.
7468	7/11/2012	Very important

7469	7/11/2012	I love to read and to watch movies. I also used the library to teach Masterpiece Art to elementary school students.
7470	7/11/2012	Several media options available
7471	7/11/2012	Haven't been to the library yet this summer but we need to go (just been too busy). In this age of video games and TV, I think the library is something fundamentally important this should not be taken away.
7472	7/11/2012	It is an invaluable resource for the community. I can't imagine a thriving city without good libraries.
7473	7/11/2012	Rarely useful.
7474	7/11/2012	Reading and learning are so important to society! But social services and the environment, transportation, education are all super important too. The library seems to be a core of activity that can really bring people together in a neighborhood that doesn't require an entrance fee or membership or purchase. It's nice to be at a place where a wide-variety of people gather for different reasons.
7475	7/11/2012	I always know that the library is there and available for me to use. For school or work it is an valuable resource I am able to access.
7476	7/11/2012	Because I think it's crucial to have a community gathering place that is open to all, promotes healthy and productive behavior and provides free access to books, other media and computers, and low-cost printers and copying machines. These are the building blocks of an engaged, enabled population.
7477	7/11/2012	I love libraries and believe that they are important, especially for the cultural development of any community, but I cannot pretend that they are more important than law enforcement, emergency services or sanitation.
7478	7/11/2012	it is one of the few public services that is actually free, helps educate & enrich our lives, and teaches sharing and reduces our environmental impact by allowing us not to buy everything individually
7479	7/11/2012	It's great to have easy access to a large selection of books, music and other media, especially on rainy days. I appreciate the convenience of the libraries nearest to me and the hours they are open. The library is a fantastic resource and I would love to say "very important", but I also understand the importance of roads/bike lanes, fire and police, and K-12 education.
7480	7/11/2012	nice service
7481	7/11/2012	We use it often.
7482	7/11/2012	I love books!
7483	7/11/2012	Because I believe in an educated citizenry and equal access to the blessings of liberty.
7484	7/11/2012	An educated, well read citizenry is essential to the health of our democracy.
7485	7/11/2012	I really like to browse the magazines. Being able to borrow, rather than buy books is great.....
7486	7/11/2012	I didn't mark very important because I have to put fire protection and law enforcement before libraries.

7487	7/11/2012	Libraries are a place where all are welcome and provide important services for all ages. When I first moved to Portland, the library was a place where I immediately felt at home and I was able to meet people in my community through various programs and volunteering.
7488	7/11/2012	Out of all the many, many important things libraries do, I think that the most important they offer is making reading and learning and researching easily accessible to every person in the community.
7489	7/11/2012	One of just a few community resources open to all. We need to strengthen those--they are part of the bond that makes us a community. Without a close sense of community, we fragment into selfishness and/or indifference
7490	7/11/2012	Because libraries provide materials and programs that educate, entertain, enrich, and provide opportunities for everyone in the community at a very low cost. This not only helpful and bebeficial to library patrons it is crucial in today's economy.
7491	7/11/2012	becuase it allows people access to resources there wise not available to them
7492	7/11/2012	I love to read but can't afford to buy books all the time (I read anywhere from 2 to 4 books per week).
7493	7/11/2012	The library often has the materials I'm looking for.
7494	7/11/2012	If I were rating just what I like and use personally, I would say "very important," but I understand the county must meet a wide variety of very pressing human needs.
7495	7/11/2012	Fundamentals of well rounded life, being able to have reading material, resource material and now media material.
7496	7/11/2012	My family and I use local library services far more regularly than any other local public service. Others are important, but our family ranks the library above many of them. We would be open to reconsidering this ranking if we had a clear list of other local public services. Based on our current awareness of them, however, we rank the library near the top.
7497	7/11/2012	Most important to me is being safe. After services that ensure safety, the library is most important because I love to read. I appreciate the variety of materials and services the library provides.
7498	7/11/2012	I am a reader and can not afford to buy books. Plus I like the idea of my tax dollars helping the very young and the elderly receive the full array of services available to us.
7499	7/11/2012	For the reasons I stated in number 6. Libraries are one of the only public service institutions where race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, socio-economic class, religious orientation are (or can be) completely neutralized and everyone can access its services equitably!
7500	7/11/2012	The library gives me access to many things I could not afford. Everything I love about books I love about the library.
7501	7/11/2012	Being able to look up any books I want/need to read is a big financial help. I don't have to purchase every book I need for my son's education and for my personal/professional development.
7502	7/11/2012	Because I use it so frequently, and it has what I need most often.
7503	7/11/2012	i use them very frequently.

7504	7/11/2012	Free service available to all. Happy to support access to all through taxes, levy, or other measures.
7505	7/11/2012	Libraries improve our quality of life.
7506	7/11/2012	can't afford buying books
7507	7/11/2012	Provides a resource base with which I am familiar. an alternative to the internet!
7508	7/11/2012	I use them more than any other. All students need a great library and we have it.
7509	7/11/2012	Sign of an evolved society
7510	7/11/2012	An easily accessible public library provides equal opportunities to all for learning, internet access, access to job search and application tools, etc. Many have no other way of accessing these things.
7511	7/11/2012	A free society needs to have educated citizens which requires access to materials that libraries make available to all, especially to those who do not have the resources to purchase books, newspapers and magazines. Programs for children introduce them to the wonders of reading and the world that's available to them through books.
7512	7/11/2012	The library signifies civilization to me. At the library, every bit of human knowledge is available to everyone regardless of income or social caste. I went to college for my professional credentials, but I educated myself at the library.
7513	7/11/2012	Libraries are a service that everyone can enjoy, not just a select few.
7514	7/11/2012	I am a passionate reader of very wide tastes with neither the space nor the desire to own many books.
7515	7/11/2012	Libraries offer a great resource, community space and cultural opportunities. However, these services are somewhat redundant in the community. While cuts to service levels will likely have an impact, the impact is not as great as the related financial burden the proposed levy will place on other jurisdictions. I would not prioritize library services over common City services.
7516	7/11/2012	The public library is, in many ways, a shelter or haven of protection for the community. It is a place of peace and courteous help. It offers space where people can gather and search for great things.
7517	7/11/2012	Important enough to pay increased taxes.
7518	7/11/2012	Libraries provide free entertainment, a place to socialize, help for people seeking jobs and internet access for those who need it. Libraries also provide a place to support and build local community for free.
7519	7/11/2012	Having a library is as important to the community as having schools, a fire dept., police force, parks, etc...
7520	7/11/2012	Of all other public services, I use only the library. I am retired and reading is my favorite past time. Using a library conserves resources and provides me with material that I could not otherwise purchase.
7521	7/11/2012	can take or leave "it" .. wish my taxes were lower!
7522	7/11/2012	They are used by every age group.

7523	7/11/2012	Instead of purchasing books, I read them at the library. Great recycling!
7524	7/11/2012	Because i'm a Eartly Education Teacher ;I'm using a lot resources.
7525	7/11/2012	I love books. This is a very literate town, it should have a good library system, the same way a small town in Texas that values football would have a well-funded high school sports program.
7526	7/11/2012	Libraries help to hold communities together. Tthey provide information, resources and security for all levels and ages of our society.
7527	7/11/2012	learning defuses the need for violent or deliquent behavior. Library's are a safe place to go and a place for those that have few social or outside opportunities.
7528	7/11/2012	I am a writer, a book lover, a lover of music, and a lover of people. When I see libraries crowded with young people, old people, students, parents with babies, people of all races (and the libraries are almost always crowded) I am moved. To me, our strong library system is the richest treasure in the city, and in the generousness and availability of its services is the clearest sign that we are indeed a democracy and a civilized country.
7529	7/11/2012	The local library gives access to information for all citizens. An absolute necessary for a democracy.
7530	7/11/2012	Knowledge is power. They are a third space - meeting place, community resource. neutral, not politicized. place for discussion and learning. they are safe.
7531	7/11/2012	Promotes community, education, outreach
7532	7/11/2012	The soul of a city lies in its openness to idea, culture and fact-based information.
7533	7/11/2012	Superseded by police, fire, public transportation and public health
7534	7/11/2012	Reading is a very important part of life for my husband and me.
7535	7/11/2012	It depends on what type of library services and what public services you are comparing.
7536	7/11/2012	I love to read paper BOOKS! And I don't have the room to own all the ones I read.
7537	7/11/2012	Literacy is important at any age. Illiterate people are a drain on society.
7538	7/11/2012	Literacy is something that cannot have a price, per say. Access for ALL community members is essential in a democratic society. If we are to have an informed citizenry, then the citizens should have access to content, regardless of income level.
7539	7/11/2012	Because all income levels can access this resource. However, the city or county need to fund the libraries out of their budget.
7540	7/11/2012	They improve neighborhoods, teach kids, provide a social place for people to meet, the list goes on and on. Really the only thing that's wrong is that a few folks abuse the system.
7541	7/11/2012	I have loved to read since I was in grade school. I think books made growing up easier for me because i had a difficult childhood. Reading let me go places I never would have. I am indebted to reading for much of my education.
7542	7/11/2012	builds community[] shows our values[] supports a range of needs from a range of citizens

7543	7/11/2012	beautiful way for kids and young children to have resources that teach them and a community resource in connecting and learning for young and old and a way to save the resources in trees etc and to have sustainable living.
7544	7/11/2012	I live near the library, and it is a central part of my life. I go there to study or browse books.
7545	7/11/2012	To constantly stay in touch with reality, both past and present.
7546	7/11/2012	I use the library alot and my family does too.
7547	7/11/2012	I am thinking of the community as well as myself.
7548	7/11/2012	Fundamental to maintaining a functional democratic society ... and vital to the local community culture.
7549	7/11/2012	Our library is a community center, not just a place to check out books. For seniors, the unemployed, parents with young children - it's a place for education, involvement, entertainment. For me, it's a source of endless education and leisure activity. The fact that the library is 10 blocks from my house is a wonderful plus. They foster so many things that are beneficial to ALL members of the community, like: * A love of books and reading and learning in the young, something that will benefit them life-long * An educational and social resource for families, especially those with limited financial resources who can enjoy the reading programs, puppet shows, etc. without expending funds outside the family budget. * An outlet for stay-at-home parents to meet other parents * An opportunity for members of the community who may not otherwise meet to gather and exchange ideas on a common subject (book groups) * A place for seniors to learn computer skills to keep up with their families and the world around them. Again, a godsend for those who may not otherwise be able to afford such training, and a chance to meet others in similar circumstances. * Resources to support our local educational institutions in developing a work-force to meet the demands of the ever-changing workplace. * Many, many other reasons.....
7550	7/11/2012
7551	7/11/2012	because i think i'm pretty representative of many of elders in this country now. i'm 65, "disabled",worked very hard all my life, did not make lots of money, counted on social security, medicare and public institutions like the libraries and a small pension for the comfort as i age (and, of course, enjoy grandchildren)no handouts! just what my peers and i built with our taxes and volunteering, etc my grandmother was an english professor, my mother an english teacher, all of us are readers...
7552	7/11/2012	because i cannot live without books!!!!!!!
7553	7/11/2012	Not as important as police, fire, community centers, etc. but an important part of our society
7554	7/11/2012	They nourish our family intellectually and provide a sense of community to at least some extent for all users.

7555	7/11/2012	The schools are having trouble getting funding, and there have been police cutbacks, so why not have cutbacks at the library?
7556	7/11/2012	If libertarians carried guns I would call them instead of a cop - but they would probably kill lots of people to, but the excuses would read better.
7557	7/11/2012	Because libraries provide information, literacy, and, these days, connectivity. Not to mention literature, music, and movies. Also, there is something I can't quite express - it is a place to go and poke around in the stacks, dreaming and exploring. I am both soothed and stimulated by libraries. Over the years I've learned that going to the library is a sure-fire way to cheer myself up. I feel like all these things are something everyone should have access to.
7558	7/11/2012	Library s may not be life saving like Fire and Ambulance, etc. but it saves minds and gives people the opportunity for larger more educated life regardless of age, race or creed.[] This opportunity makes the US. what it is.
7559	7/11/2012	I rely on the library almost totally for access to books that I would like to read. I also value the services for young and school age children. I also like the library as a central place to meet people and interact with them.
7560	7/11/2012	Public library services are central to one of the most important aspects of the infrastructure of our country: the education of our youth and, in general, continuous learning and the quest for knowledge.
7561	7/11/2012	There are few places that are low or no cost where someone can go and do quiet research, take part in community services, and enjoy the offerings of the city.
7562	7/11/2012	Free, easy, and convenient access to books and information is vital to maintaining a stable, healthy society.
7563	7/11/2012	Because reading is important at any age. The programs (from babies to seniors) are vital to our community.
7564	7/11/2012	Can access new knowledge and information at low cost or no cost
7565	7/11/2012	Because I can't afford to buy books and reading is of utmost importance to me.
7566	7/11/2012	library is essential resource my family which is a homeschooling family with 4 school aged children. Library is also a much used resource for my professional work as a musician
7567	7/11/2012	I am a mother to a young child, educator, active community member, small business owner...and find the resources offered by Mult Co Lib to be invaluable to me in regards to all the hats I wear. Being low-income, the resources allowed to us by the library are integral to supporting a high and happy quality of life for my family.
7568	7/11/2012	I use the library constantly--picking up or returning materials, ordering book online from my home. It is a vibrant and well-run service. I see my neighbors using it, small children with parents, students after school. It is such a valuable service for all of us.

		open and accessible to all, regardless of background, wealth, etc.[] []
7569	7/11/2012	HOWEVER, i am very concerned about the library putting a levy on the nov 2012, ballot because i fear it would compete with and undermine the likely PPS bond measure, which absolutely positively must pass! the schools are in much worse shape than our libraries. so please, please, please wait until 2014?!?!?
7570	7/11/2012	they offer services to a wide array of people, often those that have no access to research, computers, reading materials except through the library.
7571	7/11/2012	Great place for low income kids and seniors to go to.
7572	7/11/2012	Reading is very important to me. I use the library service heavily. Your on-line service for holding and freezing holds is WONDERFUL. I wish I could freeze holds on ebooks. Then my library experience would be basically perfect.
7573	7/11/2012	They rank just below police, fire service and public education. In other words, they are secondary only to basic safety and education.
7574	7/11/2012	They provide book for all. Children need access to books to learn how to read.
7575	7/11/2012	Libraries have always been a place for all citizens to be literate, educated, and get help during hard times. Libraries are an important part of democracy.
7576	7/11/2012	#7 is a poorly worded question. If you gave me examples of other public services to compare with, I could give a better answer. Libraries are important. So are fire departments and schools. I think schools are getting screwed the worst right now, and the underfunding of schools and libraries indicates a lot about how our community feels about the importance of all people having access to education and information.
7577	7/11/2012	...as a retired school teacher who taught reading and as an avid reader myself, I depend on the library to furnish me (in good time) the books I enjoy reading...I do read about 3 books a week...sometimes 3 at a time...I use reading as entertainment...
7578	7/11/2012	I use them
7579	7/11/2012	I use the library more than any other social service.
7580	7/11/2012	We read a great deal.
7581	7/11/2012	Because reading is FUNdamental!!!
7582	7/11/2012	I have been a life long user of public libraries. Libraries are an important resource for all socio economic groups. They provide computer access, educational programs for children as well as adults, and give rich and poor access to books and newspapers so they can be entertained, can learn, and can be better citizens. I cannot imagine a world without the public library.
7583	7/11/2012	I think they provide an important service and act as a hub within a community so that it can continue to learn and develop in productive ways.
7584	7/11/2012	Re-building infrastructure is by far the most important issue, in my opinion.
7585	7/11/2012	Especially in the current economy, FREE services and entertainment are essential.

7586	7/11/2012	I don't use the library all that much, but I value the programs it provides in the community. I also value having research resources available when I need them. Furthermore, living in a city with good libraries makes me feel like our society is functioning properly. Places with no libraries are scary.
7587	7/11/2012	I think they are a hub of resources and support that is vital to any neighborhood and community. If the libraries are taken care of, then the community can be better taken care of. The programs offered (and ones that have yet to be created) can provide a myriad of opportunities and avenues for folks to enhance and maintain their quality of life through the acquisition of knowledge. It sounds cheesy but knowledge is power and libraries provide that knowledge that is to be discovered.
7588	7/11/2012	Because I use the Library often, and I don't use many other public services.
7589	7/11/2012	Libraries provide information, entertainment, workspaces and helpful services to everyone who asks for them, and while most of us don't go there every day or even every week, I know that people would be very sad to see the libraries shut down. However I think a reduction in the weekly schedule would not be bad if it saved the city money and helped ensure the continuation of the library system.
7590	7/11/2012	I was brought up that way, and believe it still today
7591	7/11/2012	I seem use the library the most and it has the most direct impact on me.
7592	7/11/2012	access to resources as part of local tax community gathering place access to the web and other resources for the unemployment and poor
7593	7/11/2012	I prefer reading from books than from computer screens.
7594	7/11/2012	I am self educated and the library has provided me with all the materials necessary for that education.
7595	7/11/2012	Because I rank many local services to be very important, and because Mult Co Lib seems to want to do more and more which costs more and more money. For example, it's NICE to have the library open 7 days a week, but it's not NECESSARY.
7596	7/11/2012	It is important to me that low income and children have access to information, the ability to have unlimited learning capabilities. To have the ability to escape from certain situations by reading. I have learned to do many things in my life by reading. My son taught himself how to play the guitar and music by the use of books and is still an avid reader and utilizes books to self teach. He is also a writer now.
7597	7/11/2012	Use it, believe in it
7598	7/11/2012	Some other public services are more important for safety and health related reasons.
7599	7/11/2012	I learned to read by going to the library. For many people, libraries are the only place they are able to access books.
7600	7/11/2012	The library is part of our daily life. We could never afford access to these materials without the library.

7601	7/11/2012	Because they provide educational resources and opportunities available to everyone equally. It is of great service to the community and encourages learning and support for people in all walks of life.
7602	7/11/2012	They are very important to me because there is no other place to study quietly. The library at Reynolds High School is minuscule at best and I use the library to supplement resources.
7603	7/11/2012	I read voraciously, and I get all my books through the library. I am also a college professor and use the library to get materials I need for my courses. My husband and son are also library users.
7604	7/11/2012	Police and fire are definitely higher but the public library is important
7606	7/11/2012	I love the convenience of the internet as much as anyone, but when it comes to REALLY reading, it's a much more personal and gratifying experience to hold an actual, physical, book in your hands.␣ Back in highschool, I was in classes with kids who seemed to not be able to read beyond very elementary levels, and that was depressing. Anything that the existence of a library can do for teaching kids to be more invested in reading is worth keeping around.
7607	7/11/2012	Everyone should have access to books and free information. Everything has a price these days. Books and the places they take us are some of the simplest joys in our lives and can be powerful transformative tools that connect us through meaning and experience.
7608	7/11/2012	Libraries, and I qualify that against my previous list of complaints and my definition of a core mission, are emblematic of and significant to a well-informed and civilized society.
7609	7/11/2012	I used them often and over long period of time for study and savings
7610	7/11/2012	Not sure
7611	7/11/2012	I feel it is that important because the library offers a much broader scope of services for people than other public programs
7612	7/11/2012	It gives all of the population a nice place to go to read , and get information for free that a low income family needs to have in this recession.it also gives lonely people a gathering place to feel the ambience of others around them without having to pay for a coffee.
7613	7/11/2012	Libraries provide knowledge at our fingertips -- most any research tool we could ask for.
7614	7/11/2012	The resources that are available at the library are not available anywhere else at such low cost. The services are available to everyone.
7615	7/11/2012	For me personally, they are not greatly important. I go to the library for fun, but I think they are a very important resource for people who wouldn't otherwise have access to books, internet, and the services that the library provides.

7616	7/11/2012	Libraries provide an open and public place for anyone to go and have needs met. It is our civic duty as citizens of a great city to rank local libraries at the top of a broad range of services that should stay public and accessible. Libraries are one of the only places left where one can go and not be a blatant consumer.
7617	7/11/2012	Our libraries are invaluable in that they give all people access to a world of reading, access to computer for those who need it, and programs for those who are in need of assistance.
7618	7/11/2012	Everybody needs the library, it is a great resource for children and young adults
7619	7/11/2012	They provide services to a wide spectrum of users. The library is useful for everyone, not just special populations.
7620	7/11/2012	Public Libraries are a fundamental part of an adequately educated population. They are an essential part of fostering participation in community programs and services.
7621	7/11/2012	It's the only place where some people can get access to quality and trustworthy information.
7622	7/11/2012	They offer free resources and entertainment for those who need both.
7623	7/11/2012	Because they give access to the larger world and the people in it. Libraries have saved so many lives--without them where do people who can't afford to buy books go?
7624	7/11/2012	An ignorant (and bored) populace is expensive to take care of. Put another way, people need good resources/knowledge to make good decisions, and libraries provide a good set of resources.
7625	7/11/2012	For reading business books to stay up to date in my career, and financial planning books to learn about investments. [] [] Also I enjoy reading novels.
7626	7/11/2012	college
7627	7/11/2012	Not everyone can afford a computer or to buy books or magazine subscriptions. Having access to that is for many the only way they can educate themselves and improve their situation. Librarians are some of the most helpful people in Portland, and they need to be well-staffed to make the system effective.
7628	7/11/2012	I've used libraries my entire life!
7629	7/11/2012	The libraries are only one way in which the community can stay informed on not only the local news and happenings, but world affairs as well.
7630	7/11/2012	I like libraries, but I have to rank them after utilities like water, power, phone, etc.
7631	7/11/2012	Library services, like arts in the schools, tend to have a limited hold on budget priorities. What do you want? Folks in the library or sitting around watching TV at home?
7632	7/11/2012	Free access to books, information, learning tools is invaluable to a community. Education is the great equalizer. Our public library provides free access to the world and its endless amount of information. To me it's a main block of a strong community.
7633	7/11/2012	I like to read and I like to be able to get desired books in a timely manner.

7634	7/11/2012	I love libraries, they are the only place I can find books and relax.
7635	7/11/2012	Resource to overcome isolation and for entertainment.
7636	7/11/2012	They are institutions of learning possibilities. Kids can attend after class and study. Mothers can hang out with their children. Libraries are great places for our community to come together.
7637	7/11/2012	Library is house of knowledge where all kind of information are available to you.
7638	7/11/2012	The library system contributes greatly to public learning and equity in learning. I believe that engaging in lifelong learning makes us better as people.
7639	7/11/2012	Partly for the reasons stated before, I think the library system is meant to analyze and categorize what's out there. This means that if I already have many book recommendations from friends, family, etc. then I don't really need the library, I can find these things for myself (with the proper know-how). This is a personal thing, I still believe that libraries are very important as far as other people are concerned, and for particular interests I would still use a library if I felt they were adequate at giving recommendations, but librarians knowledge tend to be restricted to what they have on the shelves, rather than what is out there in the world.
7640	7/11/2012	i hate spending money buying books
7641	7/11/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read or rent the movies I want to see so the library is the only way I can get that media.
7642	7/11/2012	The library is the last truly valuable thing the Republicans have not dismantled yet, but they are still trying.
7643	7/11/2012	We actually use the Beaverton Library system more than Multnomah. We check out books and other media every month.
7644	7/11/2012	Education- schools and safety/social services are the two more important than libraries
7645	7/11/2012	We rely on the Multnomah County library system for education, personal development, and entertainment. I'm not sure what we'd do without this wonderful resource.
7646	7/11/2012	Because it is one of the few public services that I use, and I use it a lot.
7647	7/11/2012	Libraries are an integral part of the community of all ages and abilities.
7648	7/11/2012	At times of economic need the library is a "free" resource, source of entertainment, and education
7649	7/11/2012	I use the library a lot. The one I use most, 1-2 times a week, is the Lake Oswego one in Clackamas county. I depend on the library for most of my reading material. I would use the one near my home only as a back up as the hours there do not work with my schedule.
7650	7/11/2012	Reading and access to knowledge and information are of crucial importance to the public. Also, libraries are a important places for the public to interact.
7651	7/11/2012	Few public services cultivate such free thinking and evolution as the local library.
7652	7/11/2012	Great value for my tax dollar; promote knowledge and nonpartisan communitarian values; literacy is a key indicator of civilization.

7653	7/11/2012	For those who do not have home computers, access to computers at work or research material, the library is a necessity and not a luxury. For job-seekers, libraries play an important part in the employment process.
7654	7/11/2012	Libraries provide access to information and are important centers around which communities are developed and maintained.
7655	7/11/2012	The most important.
7656	7/11/2012	Our family treats the library as a form of enrichment rather than a necessary tool. So issues like library availability are more of a convenience for us. Public services associated with Health and Safety are very important to us. Our favorite entertainment services are next on the list.
7657	7/11/2012	Access to educational material is vital to me and my family.
7658	7/11/2012	i love the library. very important
7659	7/11/2012	We need an literate, informed society. The library is the best tool for accomplishing that.
7660	7/11/2012	Libraries provide affordable opportunities for people to stay informed and access educational materials. Libraries serve as a social safety net.
7661	7/11/2012	I choose to live in a city and pay taxes so that I have convenient access to important amenities: library, parks, public transportation, and recycling.
7662	7/11/2012	One of the services I use most. We have the best library system I have encountered across two continents.
7663	7/11/2012	Free access to knowledge is always important to a healthy society.
7664	7/11/2012	The library is a very important community builder. A place to meet get books and learn new things.
7665	7/11/2012	The library is mine and my family's most used public service. It is how we expose ourselves to new and varried litature. It is how we broaden our minds and further our knowledge. It is a resource that we would never want to be without!
7666	7/11/2012	To me continuing education is not simply a night school class now and then. Education is a 24/7 effort to soak up the facts and wisdom around us. Since books and other media are so critical to this endeavor, with public libraries very few of us could get anywhere near a full lifetime education.
7667	7/11/2012	Don't use services very often. Difficult to get the central because no parking.
7668	7/11/2012	Very important!
7669	7/11/2012	Important for education, awareness, opening one's mind to the world--neighborhood libraries open us up to much beyond our neighborhoods.
7670	7/11/2012	Resources, books, media
7671	7/11/2012	It's a real service I'm willing to pay for with my taxes.
7672	7/11/2012	I constantly use my library. My whole lifestyle is built around using library materials
7673	7/11/2012	Because they are an invaluable resource every person can access.
7674	7/11/2012	Educational benefit
7675	7/11/2012	They give the public access to knowledge and understanding. They serve as a community builder by giving people a place to hang out together in a safe, quite place.

7676	7/11/2012	Reading is a vital part of my life, and I can't afford to buy books. At least not the number of books I need.[] And eventually I will not be driving so the service provided by the library of mailing/delivering the books will be necessary[] and will be greatly appreciated.
7677	7/11/2012	I check out books from the library on a weekly basis. The Multnomah library system has a fantastic large selection of books available. I place holds from my home computer and when they become available I come into the library to pick them up. Reading expands my world in ways that other local public services don't. I love this library system!
7678	7/11/2012	Because I love reading, but there is no way that I would have enough money to buy all the books that I've read.
7679	7/11/2012	Libraries provide easy and free access to all kinds of information and services. They are open to all who choose to use them. Libraries have supported my intellectual needs from early childhood to my current 70's. I hope to use the library for many more years.
7680	7/11/2012	I value education and information: to me, they can help and empower anyone, from any group. A library has the power to teach anyone who walks through its doors and is willing to learn. It is a source of wealth to the literate and enlightenment for the illiterate. Given the importance of democracy and equal opportunity in our country, libraries are one of the few unbiased resources available, and they should be considered as equally powerful and valuable as state-funded education.
7681	7/11/2012	the library is a place that all people can educate and better themselves
7682	7/11/2012	If you are comparing the library to fire and police services, then I'd have to rank it lower. I certainly use the library more than any other public service other than the bus though.
7683	7/10/2012	I'm tired of paying for so much irrelevant materials
7684	7/10/2012	The library is very important to me, however if I have to pick between the library and the fire department, I would fund the fire department.
7685	7/10/2012	I read
7686	7/10/2012	I like to be able to check out a wide variety of book for myself and my children.
7687	7/10/2012	Reading and education are what makes a strong, informed, active, socially-conscious citizenship
7688	7/10/2012	libraries are the window to the world, they provide resources that people may not be able to afford
7689	7/10/2012	I love reading
7690	7/10/2012	They help the community
7691	7/10/2012	It's a service we use all the time. Our family reads a lot and buys books very, very rarely.
7692	7/10/2012	I think libraries are as important as paved roads, and police & fire services. Although as an adult I appreciate the library I think they are crucial institutes for kids to learn to read & appreciate books.
7693	7/10/2012	libraries serve the community by providing free access to information for all.If not the library,then who?

7694	7/10/2012	I am a teacher and I cannot facilitate our reading program w/o MCL. Senior residents at our assisted living facility come into our Montessori classroom, which is located at Laurehurst Village, to read to our 3-6 yr. olds. Great program for intergenerational activity!!!
7695	7/10/2012	A library allows people of all economic levels to have access to information. It helps people to be aware of the world around them. A library is a place that people of all ages and cultures can utilize.
7696	7/10/2012	We turn to our library for all sorts of info. They are our number one source of knowledge.
7697	7/10/2012	Particularly now, when so many people are out of work, and some don't have access to digital info at home or work, a library is an important resource of news and information, accessible to all.
7698	7/10/2012	great for studying while in school, and pretty much the only way i get books
7699	7/10/2012	All Our children must have access to books. Only public libraries can do this
7700	7/10/2012	They provide an incredible resource to those without financial means, but with the will to learn and invest their time to do so.[] [] It is the single biggest offset to the current horrifying trend of "the rich get richer" ... and more access to more tools ...
7701	7/10/2012	Because my local library is where I get information and knowledge on subjects that I can't get else. I also check out books there for leisure reading, as well as taking her to the library for it's resources.
7702	7/10/2012	My two grandchildren are just beginning to read and enjoy books. The ability to search for and reserve books with such helpful librarian staff is a joy to them and to me. I also love the system which allows me to do the same for my desired books.
7703	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to ideas. Books, magazines, and other resources are increasingly expensive, yet ideas are hard to put a price on. I enjoy not having to buy every book I read, but to share in the public wealth of knowledge that libraries contain in their stacks.
7704	7/10/2012	I use the library in some way every day, whether it is using the catalog, databases, or checking out books, music, and dvds.
7705	7/10/2012	Well read, educated and literate citizens are vital to the health of our community and to the operation of democracy.

		Because reading is something everybody should have access to, no matter who they are. Where they live. How much money they make. []
		[]
		The truth is, America's future depends on intellectual capital, especially if we plan to compete with China, India and other developing countries. []
		[]
7706	7/10/2012	And where does intellectual capital begin?[]
		[]
		In school.[]
		[]
		And what do you need to do to acquire intellectual capital?[]
		[]
		Read... which is fostered in our libraries.
7707	7/10/2012	the library is a great way to get reading materials for class without having to constantly by new books
7708	7/10/2012	Being able to check out books and DVDs gives me much greater access than if I had to purchase them. I enjoy going to the library to browse for what I might find on the shelves.
7709	7/10/2012	People need access to books
7710	7/10/2012	I read and do a lot of research
7711	7/10/2012	Allow commOn people access to literature, computers, etc. babies introduced to the concept of public library
7712	7/10/2012	While not necessary for survival, libraries have provided much of my lifeblood. I thrive on books and without libraries I would not be able to nurture that part of me. In fact, I doubt I would have ended up a successfully employed Reed College graduate if I hadn't become so fond of the local library at such a young age.
7713	7/10/2012	We are huge users of library, be it to check out books, or download books or read books electronically. We also attend kid programs. It would be a tremendous loss for us not to have library services available.
7714	7/10/2012	I have been using to the Multnomah County libraries since I was a young child. My mother took us there weekly. As a retired senior citizen, I continue to make a weekly trek to the library for new reading material. I rely on the library, and think the service provided is essential to an educated involved public.
7715	7/10/2012	for the storehouse of knowledge that can be found there. And knowledge is its own reward.
7716	7/10/2012	Access to current information and reading materials is pertinent to individual[] s and community's ability to succeed.

7717	7/10/2012	Self education and continuing education are good for people and their overall sense of well being. It's good for society to have educated citizens who respect knowledge and the arts. I think that the ready access to information is what makes Portland one of the best cities in the world.
7718	7/10/2012	child approaching high school age, will need resources past school hours for research, etc. soon.
7719	7/10/2012	Libraries provide basic access to a wide variety of information, much of which would otherwise only be available to the wealthiest people.
7720	7/10/2012	Because I just retired, still need help with technology, am rather community bound because I still have a child in school, yet want to know much more about the world and have the time to gain the knowledge now.
7721	7/10/2012	An informed and educated public is best guarantee for democracy
7722	7/10/2012	Local libraries are an accessible source of free knowledge for all.
7723	7/10/2012	Streets are #1 for me. Especially when our loser mayor, head of the street dept. doesn't handle snow removal efficiently. I'm kinda not kidding. I'm handicapped, and I'll never forget what a disaster winter was 2 years ago...what a loser. I was housebound for 2 weeks. After that, Libraries. There you go.
7724	7/10/2012	Very important. I believe that learning to enjoy reading is a fundamental building block for children and libraries are a positive place for them to spend time during the summer months.
7725	7/10/2012	create sense of community and I frequently use it.
7726	7/10/2012	Public libraries are integral to the common good. All other public services are impacted by the success and support of a community's public library.
7727	7/10/2012	I have worked at several libraries and regularly use both the Multnomah (where I live) and Clackamas (where I work) library systems. Whenever I'm interested in a book, a movie, or a piece of music, I think of the library first, and that has been a constant in my life since I was a child.
7728	7/10/2012	I count on the computers to get my e-mails for work.
7729	7/10/2012	high
7730	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot!
7731	7/10/2012	Because sometimes people who want to educate themselves or use resources cannot afford to do it, so this is of great help, it also encourages literacy, if less books are available to the people, less people are going to read
7732	7/10/2012	safety is more important than library
7733	7/10/2012	I love the library! It is a fantastic resource and provides an amazing array of services. There are so few services that are as accessible to everyone. Literacy is so important to success and enjoyment in life.
7734	7/10/2012	Free current media for everyone. We all can have free access to all art and knowledge available.
7735	7/10/2012	Having water in my house it more important.
7736	7/10/2012	the best library is the internet
7737	7/10/2012	people must know how to read. without reading the rest of the world is closed to them

7738	7/10/2012	I don't want to buy all my books! I want access to a variety of books to try different things.
7739	7/10/2012	I'm retired and have time to avail myself of the library services that I did not use during my working years. I read extensively and make use of periodicals and music selections also.
7740	7/10/2012	Because I can't provide internet for job search for myself, I need the library to fill that nitch for me. I have been a big supporter of the library and love books....I will do what I can to advocate for you!
7741	7/10/2012	I use my branch, and (through online orders) the whole library system constantly and heavily. Access to library materials is extremely important to me for business and personal reasons. I would greatly prefer any cuts in public services to be made in the salaries of high-level public servants. Fat chance, I'm sure.
7742	7/10/2012	Because libraries are wonderful areas that can teach, provide entertaining, and even just a good place to take a break from the world. In a library everyone is equal, and in my opinion libraries should be held to a higher degree of reverence.
7743	7/10/2012	the library is an important resource for the elderly, and the needy, as well as for the general population. However, if I had to choose between the library and, for instance, police and firemen protection (both important public services), I would have to chose the latter.
7744	7/10/2012	Provides resources
7745	7/10/2012	the library is the only public service i use
7746	7/10/2012	Extremely important. I love to read and cannot afford to buy books (nor do I want to).
7747	7/10/2012	I read a lot and depend on my library as a source of reading material.
7748	7/10/2012	I teach in Hood River County. Their county library system was temporarily closed due to lack of funding. It was devastating to the community. I hated not being able to encourage students to use library resources or access Internet resources at the library. I guess I find all public services important, but access to information in the "Information Age" is essential to a well-functioning democracy.
7749	7/10/2012	I use the library to escape from my house, find new music, read new books and watch movies I haven't seen, I use the library for everything.
7750	7/10/2012	I am retired and prefer NOT to purchase more books. I am allll full up! I check out all books that I read from library. I also order many many movies from library which has an excellent collection; and i also use talking books.[] []
7751	7/10/2012	Some cuts in hours are acceptable although I think it is important not to cut hours that impact any one group of people disproportionately. For example, closing too often at 5 has disproportionate impact on students who use library to student and adults without computer access as home. Should be balanced with closures at other time, such as mornings.
7751	7/10/2012	I guess because it impacts my quality of life more that other public services. I realize the county is pinched and looking for ways to cut back expenses. Let the library continue to serve the many and various communities that they do now.

7752	7/10/2012	I use them much more often than any other local service.
7753	7/10/2012	Everyone should have easy access to reading, media and community based literacy services.
7754	7/10/2012	The Public Library and the Free Ride Zone are imperative to having a thriving downtown area which is imperative for a thriving Portland.
7755	7/10/2012	Libraries provide resources for people of all walks of life, but especially with low-incomes. In today's economy low-income families are increasing. Libraries provide services that create smarter young people and provide a safe haven for anyone looking for quiet and peace.
7756	7/10/2012	Libraries are the back bone of civilization. It is one of the few things, along with education, that I'm happy to spend my tax dollars on. In hard economic times it's the only place for some people to get internet access to apply for a job, and get access to other educational resources they couldn't afford.
7757	7/10/2012	I am a very frequent user and enjoy many aspects of the media that the library offers. In particular, I like and anticipate the sense of discovery that browsing awards. Juxtaposed are media that I would not either know about or seek out, and hence the discovery waiting to happen.
7758	7/10/2012	Information and entertainment should be shared and appreciated by all.
7759	7/10/2012	I see the library helping those in need, a community gathering place that crosses socio-economic boundaries, and a way to re-use rather than perpetuating consumerism.
7760	7/10/2012	Libraries are magical
7761	7/10/2012	I do not use any other local public service
7762	7/10/2012	Reading and education are not all that is important. But without them nothing else will be a success.
7763	7/10/2012	Because my kids always find help there with their homework, also we can find good materials to read in summer time.
7764	7/10/2012	I think all public services are of equal value. Time and energy needs to be spent cutting wasteful spending and excessive salaries. Streamline purchases in the county for all agencies and services so that you can take advantage or negotiate lower prices for large volume purchases. Including supplies for schools as well.
7765	7/10/2012	It's a huge resource of knowledge for all ages and ethnicities.
7766	7/10/2012	By using the library, I save money in the long run. I get to read an outrageous amount of books for the occasional late fee.
7767	7/10/2012	The library (and it's youth programs) was my lifeline in my early days of motherhood. I'm so very grateful for the library, the youth librarians, the materials, and the programs.
7768	7/10/2012	Helps me with curriculum development as a high school teacher and essential to all students.
7769	7/10/2012	Important, but not a necessity...when compared to other services.
7770	7/10/2012	Being broke, they give me access to books and media that I wouldn't be able to otherwise afford.
7771	7/10/2012	Because they are a luxury that was previously provided by charity, as opposed to a necessity like roads, law enforcement, the justice system, and first responders.

7772	7/10/2012	Libraries are like oxygen, without them the culture dies.
7773	7/10/2012	I believe that access to media is an important foundation for society. I know I use the library as a go to for many things (often printing and computers) but enjoy all the books, magazines and online subscriptions.
7774	7/10/2012	I could not begin to afford to buy all the books which I get from the library. These library books add a great deal of pleasure and interest to my life -- through books I experience much that would be outside my reach otherwise.
7775	7/10/2012	I grew up visiting my local library faithfully every three weeks, and I attribute much of my academic success and love of reading to these visits. I participated in my library's summer reading program every year, and volunteered at my library as a teenager. Now, I depend on the library for access to new reading material, and I think that everyone can benefit from using the many services provided by the Multnomah Country Library system.
7776	7/10/2012	Because they permit me to read books that I could not afford to buy. Provide additional help to children, seniors , job seekers, etc. A very pleasant place to wander and check out what's the latest.
7777	7/10/2012	I value the library up there with water, electricity, cell reception and internet access. It provides the cultural link for me; if I cease to have internet access in the future it will be an employment lifeline as well. Reading is essential for society and for someone to be able to make it in the world. []
7778	7/10/2012	I feel we were lied to at the last election and that by passing the measure the library would keep operating as it was. At no time did I see anything about having to cut hours BEFORE the election. I would be hard pressed to give you more money now.
7779	7/10/2012	next to streets (which are poorly maintained) I use the library as much as any other resource
7780	7/10/2012	We lose a lot without a viable library system. the amount of credible information at any library is of immense important to our democracy. It is a valuable way of disseminating information to everyone without special fees or extraordinary costs. Just think, you can walk into any library and pull a book off the shelf and read it. You then take that information out with you to disseminate to other people. Everyone benefits!
7781	7/10/2012	Personally, I use the library frequently. But more importantly, it is a resource that provides access to information, education, recreation and knowledge to everyone, particularly people who may not have access from their homes or who cannot afford to gain access by other means.
7782	7/10/2012	Basic services: water, sewer, police & fire protection are essential services. Computers and the Internet are available around the clock, but the library provides information for "free".
7783	7/10/2012	Literacy and education are extremely important to the well being of a community, especially impoverished community's. It is vitally important to public well being that public libraries flourish and grow.

7784	7/10/2012	To me, the public library is the great equalizer. Whether you are rich and especially if you are poor, the opportunity to educate yourself really depends on having public libraries. Literacy is important to a well-educated citizenry upon which a functioning democracy depends. [] In our family, reading is a joy beyond measure and the library shelves are stacked with treasures which enrich our lives. All people should have this opportunity.
7785	7/10/2012	Books and other media is really important to me but when dollars are short it may be necessary to reduce services.
7786	7/10/2012	Local libraries can provide and augment services to those who may not have access.
7787	7/10/2012	road, police, schools take priority
7788	7/10/2012	Books and learning are important to people at all ages.
7789	7/10/2012	I am a writer and researcher, and use the library system regularly as part of my job. I also use the libraries as a reader. Because I'm assuming safety services and services for those in need of immediate assistance are most important. But right after those things are libraries and education in my book.[]
7790	7/10/2012	[] Did you see what I did there?
7791	7/10/2012	Libraries benefit a large number of people from all economic levels.
7792	7/10/2012	Keeping an active mind is just as important as anything else.
7793	7/10/2012	I have used them for job search, computer use and checking out books. All have saved me money so I consider it the best use of my taxes.
7794	7/10/2012	Super important
7795	7/10/2012	Because I read a lot. Information is power.
7796	7/10/2012	I don't personally use the library alot. I don't have kids.
7797	7/10/2012	It's where good things happen. Rarely do I see any type of negative behavior.
7798	7/10/2012	The library saves me money. I have access to books, research, computers and media (in addition to the programs I don't typically use) without needing to purchase the books, etc. I am exposed to so much more than I could afford to otherwise. The main service the library should provide are books and other media that residents can check out and computers to use. The other programs are nice, but not essential because they target a small audience. Maintaining open days/hours is important.
7800	7/10/2012	This is a democratic society and equal access to information is critical to our society. ALL people should have access!
7801	7/10/2012	The library helps so many people on many different levels, for many different reasons. It has so many options of service to fit many unique needs. Its a place that I trust to have a consistant level of services. I have had different needs at different times in my life and the library has given me the opportunity to use it always. From letting my children find special books to read from toddler to adult hood. The library is priceless.

7802	7/10/2012	An educated populace is cornerstone to any constitutional republic (or democracy), and I find libraries a key player in providing the ever-growing body of information to its constituents. It's a joy to enter a place with so much information, you'll doubtless find a happy surprise. -need an informed voters[] -occasionally need a somewhat quiet/private zone to process information and meet with others[] -love to visit Central, even if I don't check anything out[]
7803	7/10/2012	- " with grandchildren who live in a much smaller town[] -enjoy reading for entertainment as well as information[] -like to check out videos, cds, and so on for info and entertainment[] -like to place holds on material[] -we have a wonderful system
7804	7/10/2012	I believe that education and access to information is central to a free society
7805	7/10/2012	I think it's so important to keep people - especially young children and teenagers - reading. In our current technological age, such a small amount of people still actually read books, it's terrible. I think it makes people a bit more connected where technology causes a social disconnect.
7806	7/10/2012	excellent resource and wish I had known to better utilize it earlier
7807	7/10/2012	Resources that are provided are integral. Spent a lot of time at the library growing up and spend a lot of time there now. Gives everyone access to information and education.
7808	7/10/2012	Amazing source of information. Easy to get books. I love to read.
7809	7/10/2012	Libraries rank just below police & fire services. If the community is uneducated, there is no future.
7810	7/10/2012	1) Because I am a life-long library user[] 2) Access to information is important to all not just those who can afford to buy books[] 3) Libraries build community[] 4) I can't imagine a life without a library nearby and open
7811	7/10/2012	libraries are the center of the community, I think. Without literacy and resources, i believe our culture will decline further. People need easy, free access to the services and resources our libraries provide.
7812	7/10/2012	Because I take my son to the library on a weekly basis. If the library is not available it will make it hard for him to get reading material. I want my son to be able to find good and readily available books that are age appropriate which we can usually find at our local library.
7813	7/10/2012	We love the library. From checking out books to movie's and TV programs. This is such a great resource for a family to have. My son will come to use the computer. My daughter volunteers for the Summer Reading Program.
7814	7/10/2012	Not only do I love reading - I have three children which also love to read and I am a teacher in the Gresham Barlow School District and like to encourage my students to also use the library as a reading resource.

7815	7/10/2012	I see a library as a place that helps to bring communities together. Without people knowing how to read we have nothing as a society, literally. It's vital to have the library as a place of information and a safe place for people to go ask questions and get help.
7816	7/10/2012	The library is the public service that I use most frequently.
7817	7/10/2012	Access to free information is more important than most things I can think of if a municipality is to have much hope for anything like democracy.
7818	7/10/2012	I think government services, police, fire, welfare, etc, cannot be done without, whereas society could function without the library system. (sorry !!)
7819	7/10/2012	Yes
7820	7/10/2012	books are knowledge, knowledge is power, power is enabling, people need to be enabled.
7821	7/10/2012	I use the library every week and am passionate about reading.
7822	7/10/2012	Have increased my ability to expand and maintain my knowledge tenfold.
7823	7/10/2012	I am in a low income family. Reading is very important to me. At times the local library has given me hope and a place to spend time with my son at no cost.
7824	7/10/2012	They aren't quite as important as police or firemen, but they are one of the things that a real city needs to have to be vibrant
7825	7/10/2012	Right behind police, fire and teachers.
7826	7/10/2012	I value the fact that so many other people agree with me that libraries are a huge part of what makes Metro Portland unique. I also think libraries and access to information are an important equalizing force for public education and the literacy of our society. But hunger issues and education seem more pressing to me right now. Our rate of food insecurity is disgraceful. Some children who come to our libraries go to school in classes with almost 40 other kids. I'm a bit reluctant to put library service ahead of education right now, even though I recognize that some of the factors hamstringing public education have been detrimental to library budgeting.
7827	7/10/2012	I don't have to buy as many books or magazines or newspapers, or rent movies, as I would were they not available at the library. So it saves me money (probably at least equal to the taxes I pay). The staff is wonderful, and it's a nice place to hang out, especially on a rainy day.
7828	7/10/2012	Libraries makes a much richer life for everyone.
7829	7/10/2012	access to books are crucial for people living in today's society
7830	7/10/2012	If we're comparing it to fire & police, it's not as important. I'm not sure what other public services might be included.
7831	7/10/2012	Because I enjoy reading and who can afford to buy new books every week. we should be encouraging children to read as well.
7832	7/10/2012	on a scale from 1-10 I put the library at 9
7833	7/10/2012	I believe that reading opens up a world of learning opportunity to those who might not otherwise have it, and the library provides access that removes barriers to that opportunity.

7834	7/10/2012	The library service is amazing and allows everyone access to current materials to learn, follow a passion, or stay current. It is very important for the health of our community.
7835	7/10/2012	Because of the information they provide.
7836	7/10/2012	They are repositories of knowledge that need to be available to everyone from all walks of life. The fact that so many libraries are having to cut hours/days is a national disgrace.
7837	7/10/2012	Accessible and free to everyone. Some of our most important intellectuals educated themselves at libraries when other forms of education were not accessible to them because of class. Great community resource. Community literacy is of paramount importance. I am a college professor of Lit, and am a single mom by choice of 2 1/2 year old twins who I am raising to be readers and to love books. They LOVE going to the library, and we were constants at Book Babies and Tiny Tots story times.
7838	7/10/2012	We use it all the time. Many other services we never use.
7839	7/10/2012	I'd only put a few ahead if it: police, fire, roads, sewer/water/power.
7840	7/10/2012	I is my main access to current news and information.
7841	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and writer and I need access to the wide variety of resources that I could not otherwise afford access too. In addition, there are many small kids in my family and life who regularly depend on the library for new books to read. I think that the libraries are very important to the community and for encouraging awareness, empathy and enabling individuals to reach their full potential.[]
7842	7/10/2012	[] But on a personal level, we hardly use the library because we tend to rely on bookstores, our school and the internet to provide the amenities that are available at the library.
7843	7/10/2012	Not as important as having paved roads, working street lights, etc.
7844	7/10/2012	I read a lot and need research material I cannot always find on line. Plus browsing the shelves has taken me places I never would gone otherwise
7845	7/10/2012	Because I personally use them the most.
7846	7/10/2012	When we start closing down libraries 1 day a week it will make it easier to close them down more and more days until libraries will no longer exist, which will be an awful thing.
7847	7/10/2012	there are so many great benefits from the library for everyone in the communtiy.
7848	7/10/2012	Education is very important, access to current technology is very important and access to sheer entertainment is somewhat important.
7849	7/10/2012	I've been a reader for decades. I enjoy a variety of books and materials that might not be affordable for me to enjoy if I had to buy them--not even e-books! I like being able to "shop" for books that I've seen mentioned on C-Span or other sources and place them on hold. I don't mind the wait. Even though time restraints keep me from availing myself of the other services provided, i.e. job searches, downloads, resource data, I'm comforted to know they are there.
7850	7/10/2012	Reading and books are my passion.

7851	7/10/2012	very important to me. a basic common good institution that provides services no other institution does.
7852	7/10/2012	Access to reading material that I otherwise would not be able to use!
7853	7/10/2012	i love the library because it gives me access to all kinds of book for entertainment and for education
7854	7/10/2012	great service that provides many different things for many different people. Help instill a love for life long learning.
7855	7/10/2012	Libraries promote the literacy of our citizens. They provide access to books for people of all socioeconomic backgrounds.
7856	7/10/2012	I don't need the library, but it's important to have a quiet, public place to meet and read.
7857	7/10/2012	There are so many important services throughout the city and I believe that with proper staffing and fiscal management that everything should run consistently as it has been.
7858	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power
7859	7/10/2012	they seem all the same
7860	7/10/2012	I rank fire and police are "Very important".
7861	7/10/2012	Reading is such an important skill to learn early on, and such an important part of scholarship and active curiosity for people of all ages. Libraries make reading accessible to everyone, as well as offering other important public services, particularly for the homeless. I love reading so much, and the library lets me read a huge selection of material without having to buy it. It is also important for research.
7862	7/10/2012	education & entertainment&social environment all in one. free!
7863	7/10/2012	Access to information and technology for all, free of charge, equalizes society.
7864	7/10/2012	I read a lot of books
7865	7/10/2012	The reputation of the library and the fact that it is so well used was one of the reasons I moved to Portland. My family uses the library frequently - my husband goes every week and brings books home for our 8 year old.
7866	7/10/2012	Reference materials for research projects.
7867	7/10/2012	I frequent other public servies more often than the library. I use the library primarily for work, and occasionally for personal leisure. Other public services-parks, etc.- are used for personal leisure.
7868	7/10/2012	To promote reading and borrowing books.
7869	7/10/2012	Knowing how to read and a life-long love of reading, learning form the basis for our democracy (being an informed citizen)
7870	7/10/2012	Besides all of the everyday things, like checking out books, printing, using the computers and databases that only the library has access to, the library is a symbol of interconnected community. Without it, there is nowhere for people to go and meet free of charge on a rainy day. Literacy is increasingly important in our increasingly technological society, where cell phones and tvs threaten to snuff out people joining together.

7871	7/10/2012	I feel that a community that doesn't have a library, doesn't have an easy way for people to gain knowledge. Encouraging people in the community to read and learn leads to a healthier and more creative and educated community.
7872	7/10/2012	Teach people to read and write who do not have access to school. Improve reading skills for all walks of life.
7873	7/10/2012	Community building, education
7874	7/10/2012	Being able to access all the activities the library offers is important because it is a centralized location in our town.
7875	7/10/2012	I feel that it is part of our freedom to have access to learning throughout life at no cost.
7876	7/10/2012	I am one of the lucky people who can buy books and trade them around with my friends. I would wish the same for everyone, but in lieu of that, I would hope that all people who love to read, or who are learning to read, could have access to books and programs that help them.
7877	7/10/2012	I recognize the significant importance of the services to my baby's social and mental development. We are a one income family, so we rely heavily on these services as a way to enrich our baby's life.
7878	7/10/2012	Public safety more important. Resources such as medical care, food stamps, etc more important.
7879	7/10/2012	A Public resource to learn, equal acces for rich and poor.
7880	7/10/2012	because right now I cannot afford to have internet services and I do not own a laptop computer to be able to use with wifi. A way for me to get books to read for free.
7881	7/10/2012	More important to have good public schools, police services, good transportation choices (good roads & streets, buses), etc.
7882	7/10/2012	I can access material I cannot afford to purchase, or material I only need rarely
7883	7/10/2012	I'm on a fixed income and having the books and DVDs available is a valued community resource.
7884	7/10/2012	They're a vital public resource second only to public schools and safety net services
7885	7/10/2012	Because anyone can go in and get a library card and use there resources
7886	7/10/2012	The library provides access to literacy, books, computers and therefore quality of life among the members of our community.
7887	7/10/2012	As a jobseeker, it is important to have access to resources that can help to employ me. As a student, it is important to have resources to allow my education to flourish. As a low-income person, it is important to be able to check out books CDs, DVDs, etc to enhance my livability since buying most of what I check out is not an option.
7888	7/10/2012	Provide me with reading materials for free that are easy to access and let me read new release books shortly after they become available, summer reading makes me excited to read and provides an activity for the whole family.
7889	7/10/2012	Because they create a sense of community where all people can meet.

7890	7/10/2012	Access to books and knowledge is essential for culture. That public libraries make all their resources available to everyone is, I feel, at the core of what our democratic model is supposed to be.
7891	7/10/2012	The library represents everything vital to culture. It is a history of what has happened and a place of learning for our children, who are the future. Without the library humanity would have no past nor any hope of an educated, literate future. On that same optimistic vein, the library is the great equalizer. When any person walks through its doors, their possibilities for intellectual adventure and knowledge become infinite, irrespective of what social station they hold outside. The only thing in the way of their complete enlightenment when inside a library is their very own self, and without public libraries only those with access to private (and therefore more than likely biased and limited) collections would have the opportunity to fully explore their interests. I never want to see a world without libraries.
7892	7/10/2012	Other people buy books at bookstores, cds at stores or rent movies, but I consider the public library a place to get those things for "free".
7893	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a safe place for people to pursue a number of different activities, whether it's learning about a new subject, reading for pleasure, learning computer skills or encouraging and promoting literacy.
7894	7/10/2012	People can access their own lvel of educational resource for whatever their specific needs are in their current situation.
7895	7/10/2012	they've always been in my life, from when i was a kid until now at age 40 with my own children - i couldn't imagine a good world without libraries... they're the last "free resource" around and i believe that to be really really important to us all.
7896	7/10/2012	I have lived in SF where libraries were constantly cut in hours and days open and materials seemed dated. Portland libraries are amazing with great hours, fab programs such as Lucky Day books, good movies available, staff who seem interested and informed.
7897	7/10/2012	VERY IMPORTANT
7898	7/10/2012	Traveling by book is a low price vacation with no credit card hang over. oops- see previous comment. ☹
7899	7/10/2012	Core values of healthy societies, including that education/information/knowledge plus community breeds synergistic positive change/growth, creativity.
7900	7/10/2012	They offer a place to relax, read, use computers. Look things up and learn. What will the children do without a library. One can only imagine.
7901	7/10/2012	School, the fire department, and the police are all things I feel are more important.
7902	7/10/2012	Libraries are a cornerstone of a literate and educated society. They're also essential to the democratization of information and technology (and the education to use it).
7903	7/10/2012	Because I love books, and I read A LOT. I also don't have enough money to buy my own books so I make do by getting them from the library

7904	7/10/2012	They provide a variety of services and is something I use constantly.
7905	7/10/2012	no more questions now that I know this is a set-up
7906	7/10/2012	the public library and fire department are 2 of the most valuable institutions our society has developed.
7907	7/10/2012	Food assistance programs and police/fire protection are examples of public services that are more important, but many people rely on the library for all their reading and learning materials. It is vital to keep these services within reach of those who do not have the means to acquire them elsewhere.
7908	7/10/2012	Libraries are the best place for people, regardless of age or income to get information, culture, and participate in the community. Second to public safety services like hospitals, police and schools, libraries are one of the most important public services.
7909	7/10/2012	Access to the materials and services the library offers is fundamental to intellectual life and citizenship in our community.
7910	7/10/2012	We use the library constantly to get information for school projects, to find books to read for pleasure, to supply our children with reading material that they will enjoy and will foster their growth, to gather information for trips or home improvement projects, to check out audiobooks for car trips, to access magazine and newspaper articles that would be otherwise unavailable to us, and to find the best web information utilizing the homework center and adult web-guides, among other things. Our kids grew up with library storytimes and programming, which has led to positive associations with reading and literacy. The people at the reference desk are a fantastic resource for both recreational reading and any informational question you can throw at them.
7911	7/10/2012	The more people read (rather than relying on cable talk programs) the better informed they are. Getting people used to reading and making decisions on what they have read will translate into a more educated and informed population. □ Another point: my mother is legally blind now but she listens to audiobooks voraciously. How small her world would be if she didn't have access to the wide variety and number of audiobooks!
7912	7/10/2012	The library provides a necessary service when it provides books to patrons (in paper, audio, or e-format). That is the traditional role of a library and one that is very important to Portland and any community. The rest of the "services" the library provides are unnecessary frills.
7913	7/10/2012	The library doesn't provide critical services (clean water, sewage treatment, health care services), but access to reading materials and knowledge is extremely important to me.
7914	7/10/2012	it is not just a source for information, but a place to build community
7915	7/10/2012	Libraries and schools support education. Education is the single most important endeavor that a community can invest in.
7916	7/10/2012	I look at the needs in our community rather than just my own. Relationships are formed with good staff, library guests etc. in our busy society people still want relationships interpersonal and with their community.

7917	7/10/2012	Although I do not use the library as much as I would like to, I appreciate knowing that it is there if I need it.
7918	7/10/2012	They provide the public with access to other public services such as cheap or free classes, help with taxes, and cultural activities. The library also provides the public with a free source of education through books, internet, and other written media. It is one of the most valuable resources available to the general public.
7919	7/10/2012	Access to information
7920	7/10/2012	Lively and engaged libraries are a boon to their communities in terms of ensuring free access to information and making the public aware of opportunities that otherwise do not get much fanfare.
7921	7/10/2012	I use the library to check out books for specific interests, but I have used the library in the past for job seeking, use of a pc when i haven't had one, and to have something fun to do while staying out of trouble while younger. i'd love for everyone to continue to be able to use the library for those things.
7922	7/10/2012	It is a service that can be replicated privately.
7923	7/10/2012	Without libraries, the general public would not have access to a plethora of information and resources. Having an educated public is crucial to democracy and without libraries I believe that the public would be less educated.
7924	7/10/2012	Free books are nice, but keeping the roads repaired the streets safe, schools open and the city functioning are more important.
7925	7/10/2012	The library allows people to become aware and educated without having to have extra income to do so.
7926	7/10/2012	It is not important to me personally, but it needs to be there for people who cannot afford to buy books or computer. It needs to be there, especially for students and older people. It is an important resource in our community. Since bookstores have closed all over town, we need a place where people can go to get books. The nearest new bookstore to me is at the Lloyd Center; and it takes me a half hour to get there, plus it costs money. The nearest used bookstore is about 15 minutes away. The library is less than five.
7927	7/10/2012	it seems to me that today with the Economy struggling and many people suffering shortage of funds that the library is more important than ever as a resource--for those without funds for computers; for anyone wanting to do research; for a source of entertainment through books and videos and music; Along with National Public Radio, it is one of our most vital resources.

7928	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time. The center of learning is part of what a library is all about -- it is a holding area of vast knowledge that helps every community better itself in so many ways. Students learn new ways of employing that knowledge learned from books borrowed from the library perhaps ... and win the Science Fair by finding a quicker way to help toward curing cancer, for example. I don't know if those boys used a library to figure out how to do this one step better or faster than the other methods, but it takes books and learning to do any of this. It takes putting together the "pieces" that are held in books to make the world a better place to live. We need our libraries like we need friends. They are there and are comforting like an old shoe. We will miss them dearly if they are ever not there! We NEED them to survive as a cultural center for great minds to coalesce toward ever greater expansions of thought ... to provide that spring board for ever greater endeavors, dreams, and actualities. -- J. Ann Roberts
7929	7/10/2012	I think it provides valuable informational and learning tools for all ages. But I also think it serves a very select clientele. I'm a fan of user fees to supplement budgets to make funding more fair. So I wouldn't be opposed to paying some sort of use fee so that those who use it the most pay a little more than those who don't use it at all. I feel the same way about the school systems. I pay over $150/month to support other people's children's education instead of repairing my home or paying my own bills. I resent having to subsidize services to high users, but still we all need to chip in for a minimal baseline.
7930	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. Education is the future. Community is the backbone.
7931	7/10/2012	A very nebulous question - compared to which other local public services? Not very when compared to fire/police.
7932	7/10/2012	Very important when compared to the arts.
7933	7/10/2012	I think they're relatively more important to me than 'somewhat important'
7934	7/10/2012	Because I use them frequently; they help me with my education, and make me an informed member of my community; and because I see the resource they are to children and parents, new immigrants, people looking for jobs...
7935	7/10/2012	I'd curl up and die if there wasn't a library. You have such a wonderful selection of books and everyone who works there is so helpful. I love going to the library.
7936	7/10/2012	It is a bridge to entire world I read a lot, and I like to have the feeling of a book in my hands. I also don't have a printer, so I use the one at the library for everything I need to have printed out. The library also provides services not provided anywhere else; some are provided but cost too much, some aren't provided at all.
7937	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power, whether you are homeless, without a job, on the SNAP program, elderly, or someone without the means to buy books,etc.
7938	7/10/2012	because I love to read but can't afford to buy books

7939	7/10/2012	Productive, Interesting, Cooperative, Peaceful communities--Public libraries make our communities, from the smallest to the largest, civilized. Without free and ready access to education, information, and recreation, people are less able to improve their personal situations, are less able to resolve differences, are less able to exist within and contribute to a healthy community. If you want to reduce crime and to make our community safer, you need to strengthen the public library.
7940	7/10/2012	Reading is so crucial to a society's well-being. An educated and well-informed citizenry is very important to me. Being able to check out the latest blockbuster and top-40 music, may not be as necessary, but where does one draw the line. Thank you for not doing video games.
7941	7/10/2012	Information and education drive our economy. Without the many resources the library provides, the middle and working class are put at a disadvantage in society.
7942	7/10/2012	The two main public services that I use are the library and the MAX. The library is WAY more important to me than the Max.
7943	7/10/2012	To me the library is the heart of the community... It's one of the few "free" resources available to everyone.
7944	7/10/2012	Because knowledge base, and access to knowledge, are the foundations for the possibility for class mobility. With continued disparity in access to information, we will be perpetuating poverty in our community.
7945	7/10/2012	Because I hardly ever use the library. Too many creepy people in there.
7946	7/10/2012	The lending of books is vital. The other services are unnecessary
7947	7/10/2012	a wonderful resource for continuing education without the economic burden of buying books
7948	7/10/2012	Bus service and fire and police are more important. [] [] You should list the services so we know what is at stake.
7949	7/10/2012	As a youth, unrestricted year-round free access to my neighborhood library (especially during empty summer days) directly influenced my path as a Lifetime Learner.
7950	7/10/2012	Knowledge is an important component of our daily lives. Books, audio and visual media as provided by our libraries should be free and available at least 6 days a week to the public. I love reading and the library is the perfect place to find information on new subjects. My grandchildren love to read and use the library every week.[] It would be a sad day in Multnomah County to have diminished public library services.

7951	7/10/2012	Some years ago a high-school age Korean girl stayed with us. She had borrowed some books from the library, but left for a visit to Korea without thinking to take the books back. The first thing we heard about this was a demand for payment of late fees and cost of the books from an out-of-state collection service! I paid it, but never took the money back after she returned and found the books, which we returned to the library, as I regarded the library's actions as highly unethical. I just decided not to use the library or support it again. The library did several other things in the same vein at that time, such as a mailing claiming they needed money for reasons later shown by the press to be false. That chief librarian is long gone, however, and I suppose I should not remain angry at the system forever, as other members of my family find it important to them.
7952	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and the library helps me do that.
7953	7/10/2012	books inform and instruct while entertaining
7954	7/10/2012	Providing public access to information, history and art is an essential part of a functioning society.
7955	7/10/2012	Because I read 200 books a year myself and another 200+ to my children and would never be able to afford that many.
7956	7/10/2012	I use it all the time. After schools, I think it is important.
7957	7/10/2012	I love to read! It affects my life daily
7958	7/10/2012	Because there are other services MORE, as well as LESS, important to Portland, obviously.
7959	7/10/2012	Grew up respecting and valuing books for education and leisure.
7960	7/10/2012	Important b/c I use library materials everyday. I save a great a great deal of money by borrowing library materials as opposed to purchasing or renting materials. I also want library materials readily available to anyone struggling to pair their bills. Children in particular are entitled to the educational and enrichment benefits that public libraries have to offer.
7961	7/10/2012	This is a very good question. I should research this and write an essay, of why libraries are important. They are like a safety net: If you can't afford the internet, there are several reasons. I've always liked going to them. And you can talk to a librarian if you have a question.
7962	7/10/2012	The public library is one of the last places in our crumbling democracy where everyone has an equal chance to learn. Anyone - rich or poor, black or white - can walk into their local library and learn job skills, learn a foreign language, borrow music, and plug into the by-now-indispensable resources afforded to us by the internet. I have discovered new Jamaican music, begun learning French and Japanese, improved my eating habits, and read some of the finest American fiction available -- all thanks to the Multnomah County Library. All for free!!! I can't say enough about our libraries. I hope they continue to grow, and I wish that other counties had access to the resources we have. I thank you deeply for your work. Keep pushing mercilessly for funding!
7963	7/10/2012	This is a basic community need, like water. Poor library system = dehydrated brains!
7964	7/10/2012	A library is necessary for an educated populace
7965	7/10/2012	knowledge, connection, discovery, growth

7966	7/10/2012	Libraries have always been a big part of my life - the access to books, the social interaction, the research, as well as a learning and fun environment. Growing up, I worked in libraries during the summer.
7967	7/10/2012	Because I want a service in my area that is easy to access and don't want to have to travel to get to another library when I have one within walking distance.
7968	7/10/2012	I have learned so much from the books I've borrowed from my local library. Buying all of those books would have been a huge expense.
7969	7/10/2012	Because the people that utilize the library do so out of financial necessity and that covers a wide base of the public. I wouldn't have near the access to books, movies and music without the library. In these low economic times, it is the place I term 'vacation'.
7970	7/10/2012	To me, libraries represent and express the right to equal access to information!
7971	7/10/2012	It's important for people to have free and easy access to books, computers, and other materials that allow for self-education, self-improvement, entertainment, and the development of various necessary life skills. Without libraries, education will become further limited to those with the money, and that's wrong.
7972	7/10/2012	Because we are homeschooling a young child, I believe the libraries are crucial. There is simply no way we, as an individual family, could afford the resources available to us through our library.
7973	7/10/2012	I think reading and learning are very important to growing a healthy society.
7974	7/10/2012	When I think of other local services, like infrastructure and public safety, it doesn't seem as important
7975	7/10/2012	They are an irreplaceable access to free information. Vital to the health of a society.
7976	7/10/2012	Create a rich society. Needed to help all access information equally.
7977	7/10/2012	The library is for Everyone and not just those who meet a certain criteria to receive social services.
7978	7/10/2012	I get access to materials that matter to me and that I could not afford to purchase. It is important to me that others get this access as well.
7979	7/10/2012	It is important to have free access to information. Being a book reader, I do not want to buy each book I want to read. It saves me money and allows me to access books I might not otherwise consider if I had to buy them
7980	7/10/2012	To have access to learning and intellectual material free of charge for all citizens.
7981	7/10/2012	a flourishing democracy needs a good library system. we have one. yay! but we don't have the money to do all we want. so we do the best we can. i.e. somewhat
7982	7/10/2012	Access to information is critical for a democracy to thrive! [] Because you can check out a book instead of buying it and there is summer reading.

7983	7/10/2012	Why? Because I'm interested in the world in which I live. Because libraries are still a haven of imagination, information and peace of mind -- not necessarily in that order. Libraries aren't just about getting the easiest information as quickly as you can, libraries engender thoughtful consideration, empathy, compassion, resourcefulness and creativity. Even in today's world of get-bad-information-yesterday, libraries are one of the only institutions about everyone can agree makes the world a better place.
7984	7/10/2012	Beyond general welfare and safety, what could be more important than having educated people? Libraries play a great part in making that possible, across socio-economic boundaries.
7985	7/10/2012	without literacy there is no possibility of creating and/or reinstating a democratic civilization.
7986	7/10/2012	It is nice, by impractical, to have free libraries. I'm not sure it's the best use of funds.
7987	7/10/2012	They give everyone a safe, fun learning environment where they can read and use the internet for free. They are great resources for help in school and many other places! I love the library!!!
7988	7/10/2012	We really use the library, we are great readers and it saves us lots of money to be able to check books out as opposed to having to buy them. Reading is our major source of entertainment
7989	7/10/2012	I have a computer and a bookstore nearby.
7990	7/10/2012	They are the pathway to knowledge and learning. They support all ages.
7991	7/10/2012	In this economy people can't afford to buy all the books they want to read. Also, program for shut ins and children are very important.
7992	7/10/2012	We use the library frequently.
7993	7/10/2012	My family uses the library all the time. My wife and I have two school age children who are voracious readers. We literally could not afford to purchase all the books we read in our house. We also appreciate the large selection of DVD's, especially the children's section and documentaries or foreign films not easily available otherwise.
7994	7/10/2012	Everyone needs access to information. Internet is a necessity and should be available to all. This brings neighborhoods together and allows a sense of equality and dignity to all, even those who have few resources.
7995	7/10/2012	because they are a most valuable source of learning and understanding to our citizens
7996	7/10/2012	Libraries give me access to a level of resources I would not be able to afford on my own, and provide a great draw for a community.
7997	7/10/2012	Because I love the library. I grew up spending a lot of my free time as a child at the library (Central) and as an adult though I certainly don't spend as much time physically in the library I still use the materials often, and utilize the story times as part of my job (nanny) as well as the materials-on average I have anywhere from 5-30 childrens books, cds, movies checked out along with my own movies and cds. I can't imagine not having the great library system we currently have and feel very fortunate that Portland has a history of wonderful library service.
7998	7/10/2012	Its good for my kids to have that conection and its no cost as long as they take care of their items wich teaches them responsibility

7999	7/10/2012	Library importance is trumped by the importance of safety, fire protection, schools and parks.
8000	7/10/2012	There is nothing more important to an evolved society and to freedom itself than a well-informed and educated public. Libraries are second only to schools to this end (arguably, libraries could be even more important).
8001	7/10/2012	I am a widow, live alone but need books to read and [] [] DVD,s to watch and meeting people
8002	7/10/2012	For many years, I have used the library system to order books for school papers and projects and to enjoy tv shows, films, and music that I love. I admire local libraries for providing such free services to the community, as well as for the programs they offer children. It is my hope that one day my nephew and my nieces will have a chance to enjoy and appreciate all that the library system has to offer in the future.
8003	7/10/2012	Not to me, but to the general public with less resources
8004	7/10/2012	Libraries are my most-used visible public resource. I say 'visible' because I'm sure there are other municipal resources that I use without knowing about it. (e.g. Does the county subsidize TriMet at all? If so, that'd be of equal importance as libraries.)
8005	7/10/2012	Reading is the pathway to academic success.
8006	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot for books and music for school, as well as for personal interest. I home school my children and use the library to get books for them also.
8007	7/10/2012	Much of the information available at the public library is also available at other venues.
8008	7/10/2012	What other services are you taking about? Compared to emergency rooms, they're not that important. Compared to basket weaving classes, they're very important.
8009	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly even though I could afford to buy the books I need, but there are many people who cannot afford to buy books and others who cannot afford personal computers, for whom the library is absolutely essential. I remember so clearly how as a child I loved the library and spent time looking for books I didn't know about but might be fascinating. Every child should have that possibility.
8010	7/10/2012	I value public support for broad availability of information for all, regardless of economic means, and the library's support of education and literacy.
8011	7/10/2012	.A city without libraries to nourish minds is like a city where bodies are fed only from freeze-dried foods[] In the libraries children are able to explore the world
8012	7/10/2012	For some people it is the only source of reading material. For children of low income families it provides a way for them to be able to read without posting a burden on their families
8013	7/10/2012	I have always been a frequent user of library services. I love that our library system is big enough to offer so many materials, and on top of that, to offer resources, informational sessions, presentations, exhibits, etc. It's a wonderful way to keep our community learning.

8014	7/10/2012	Libraries are an integral part of our community. They provide educational materials for those who need it, and encourage literacy among the citizens of Portland.
8015	7/10/2012	This is how my children learn to read! They like the feel of actual books, not more time on the computer, this helps them to access many varieties of books they otherwise might not have access to or choose by being able to browse for them on the library shelves. This helps fuel their desire to learn about so many different things!
8016	7/10/2012	Access to books, computers, and other resources shouldn't just be for folks who can afford to buy these items. Especially as more and more of us find ourselves in the position of not being able to do so.
8017	7/10/2012	Literature and information must be available to everyone so that all have the opportunity to reach their full potential.
8018	7/10/2012	I use almost zero other public services, but I always use the local library. When I moved to PDX, I got a library card before I even found my apartment...
8019	7/10/2012	I save a lot of money by not having to buy book and magazines. I can read newspapers and magazines to which I'd otherwise have no access, or limited access. The online newspaper access is very good. And, I like knowing that I can use the internet at the library if I loose service at home.
8020	7/10/2012	The library can be used by all people at all levels of socio economics. It allows people access to the internet if they don't have it at home, gives students a place to study and get materials, builds literacy in children and adults, it is just a resource that needs to be available to all people.
8021	7/10/2012	It is a place where knowledge and information can be assessed by anyone.
8022	7/10/2012	For me, library services are a convenience at this point in my life. I can afford a computer and to buy books and magazines. I use the library to try books out before buying them. However, I came from a family that did not have the money to buy books and magazines. Of course, computers did not exist at that time. When I was growing up, the library enabled me to discover topics I never would have known existed, to explore a broad range of subjects, and have a quiet place to study and do my homework without the chaos of home. The Eugene Public Library was a HUGE factor in developing my interest in reading and studying. Every child needs to have this option.
8023	7/10/2012	They make learning accessible to all residents, especially those who have financial, cultural or other barriers to accessing educational and leisure media. Also, they provide a refuge for the introverts among us in our extrovert-centric society. Libraries promote the value of introspection and informed
8024	7/10/2012	A library is the barometer of the community and is adaptable to the social needs of the community. Without the library, I would not be where I am today. I had a safe place to go as a youth because of the library. I have a job because of the library. I own a home because of the library. I shudder at what our world would be like if people who wanted to better their situation were not able to access quality information for minimal/no cost to them.

8025	7/10/2012	Because knowledge is power!
8026	7/10/2012	libraries are a critical service. They provide access to information and education, often to people who have no other access
8027	7/10/2012	Access to information is key to education for all.
8028	7/10/2012	Libraries are not the only source of knowledge anymore
8029	7/10/2012	Because of the education they provide
8030	7/10/2012	They enrich our community. A well read and educated community is a healthier one
8031	7/10/2012	Reading is so important and should be encouraged, especially for those that can't afford to buy books.
8032	7/10/2012	I use the library for almost all of the books I read. If I see a new book on Bas Bleu or Amazon, I will usually check it out from the library rather than purchasing it. I appreciate the library carrying such a wide variety of books and media.
8033	7/10/2012	The up-to-date information the library gives me access to helps make me an informed, engaged citizen. My life is greatly enriched by the resources the library makes available to me.
8034	7/10/2012	We need at least as much emphasis on Positives in our culture as on keeping harm at bay(police, fire, etc). It is one of the few public places that everyone can have access to and feel comfortable.
8035	7/10/2012	Not only do I use the library for my class (I'm a teacher) and personal use, my teenage son also frequents the library on his own, and that in itself means a lot to me.
8036	7/10/2012	as a society...the more we claim we don't need to learn...the more we digress into haughtiness resulting in poor relationships...and who wants a society full of poor relationships?
8037	7/10/2012	keep people engaged, create a sense of community, provide a place so people can access resources and information, a safe environment so people can learn and grow
8038	7/10/2012	Because they are a cornerstone of freedom of information and a mainstay of shared cultural values.
8039	7/10/2012	I have all the books I can read, and then some on my Kindle....I don't need videos, or music CDs.... Although I use my computer at home to do a lot of research I still think that it's important that I have access to books and magazines that I want to read. I occasionally buy books but I prefer using the library system to store my books and I like to know that they are there when I want them. My mother is 85 and prefers reading the large print books. It's great that I can pick these up for her at the library. She reads one or two books a week and this would not be possible without the library. ☐
8040	7/10/2012	These are personal reasons why I support the library. ☐ For societal reasons, I feel that it's very important that libraries be available for people who do not have their own computers or cannot afford to buy books.
8041	7/10/2012	I love to read & love that i can walk to my neighborhood lbrary

8042	7/10/2012	I have used and appreciated them all my life. I have lived places where there are none available and that is very sad. Our fabulous public library system is one of the features that make Portland one of the best places to live! Also I don't like to buy books but love to read, so being able to borrow is a wonderful thing!!!
8043	7/10/2012	It's a community hub
8044	7/10/2012	Access to books and media for me and resources for people without computer access or literacy materials in the home.
8045	7/10/2012	It is my entertainment and my source of information and education. It connects me to my culture and helps me feel a part of my community.
8046	7/10/2012	Information and resources available to all, esp. for those with limited access elsewhere or at home.
8047	7/10/2012	The library is one of the last few, free services available to the public. It goes hand and hand with our free schooling system and should not be sacrificed.
8048	7/10/2012	Many people would not have access to books, materials and other services that are available for all at the libraries.
8049	7/10/2012	I feel that local library services are very important because it keeps kids off the street doing who knows what. This is the nearest decent library from my house and I feel like it provides a good safe environment for people to relax and study.
8050	7/10/2012	Because public libraries are an essential part of a healthy society and economy, providing everyone equal access to information.
8051	7/10/2012	Free access to reading material, helpful staff, user friendly internet access, a place to be inspired.
8052	7/10/2012	After police, fire, electrical, and garbage.
8053	7/10/2012	Literacy, respect for human thought, and the exchange of ideas are among my fundamental values. The library fosters those elements of our culture as no other resource does.
8054	7/10/2012	Libraries are an essential part of a civilized world. The access to research materials for young and old is near and dear to my heart. I have taught myself so much through access to written materials. I'm a writer so it is also helpful to have access to research materials for my work. I also enjoy access to recreational reading and DVDs. Also, the access to the Internet is a lifesaver for those who cannot afford to have it at home, whether they be keeping in touch with family/friends, doing research, or looking for a job. There is no way I could afford to feed my reading and research habit if I had to purchase all the materials I use. It is even more essential for those who have less disposable income than I do.
8055	7/10/2012	I consider public safety and basic infrastructure services to be of paramount importance, with library and public welfare services following closely behind. I use Maslow's Hierarchy (or something like it) as my justification for this prioritization.
8056	7/10/2012	I rely on the resources of the library constantly. I could never afford to purchase all the books I read, nor would I want to own that much STUFF. Being able to borrow books and do research is such an important resource for me and my whole family!!!!

8057	7/10/2012	Special needs
8058	7/10/2012	Literature is my livelihood and my favorite pastime. I worry that reduced funding will only help foment post-literacy in our younger generations, limit the exposure older generations have to knowledge and social avenues, and dull our cultural sharp edges.
8059	7/10/2012	Libraries save us all money by providing books for free! They make information accessible, and everyone loves them.
8060	7/10/2012	Because the community needs to have free access to books, materials, story hour for kids, computers and literary cultural events.
8061	7/10/2012	We are both retired, and we both are heavy readers and heavy users of the magnificent Multnomah library system.
8062	7/10/2012	READING Opens the whole world; it gives us places to be in our image in action; it gives a safe place for kids to study; seniors to get together over some of the LUNCH and MUNCH series as well as classes; and other people as well who want a refuge for lunchtime and to see people they know and learn something....for kids to do homework; if they don't have any books or the right books at home or computer access; for people to get books, read magazines in a relaxed and safe place; get movies or music; for little kids to have a storybook hour and their parents to meet their friends at the libraries as well.
8063	7/10/2012	Libraries are important to me, but not at the expense of other public services. The needs of the young should outweigh the voting power of the old.
8064	7/10/2012	Are you asking why the library is important-not sure what you mean by "they". The library is important because books are expensive and we wouldn't have access to so many materials without the library. My son is four and an avid reader. He loves the "Magic Treehouse" series and he will go talk to the librarian about putting a new book on hold. When we come to pick it up he finds one of the librarians he knows and talks to then about the new book. We also go to a lot of the summer activities at the library. I also love that it is a community building and brings the neighborhood together.
8065	7/10/2012	information resources are important but there are alternative sources from the library. library staff provide effective service but are hindered by poor policies and management practices by administrators and branch managers.
8066	7/10/2012	I use the local library online almost daily for resource information, as well as in person weekly for information via books and magazines. It would be very difficult to get this information through commercial channels.
8067	7/10/2012	A library is the cornerstone of a neighborhood. It unites people from different ethnicities, religions and demographics in the common purpose of discovery.
8068	7/10/2012	Research and personal experience tells me that accessible libraries are key to self directed learning, self development, upward mobility and free fun, in short supply in these economic times.

8069	7/10/2012	Reading and research are the primary tools to be a well educated citizen of the city, state and the world.
8070	7/10/2012	I enjoy learning and having access to current materials.
8071	7/10/2012	Needed for information and to be up to date with relevant things in life.
8072	7/10/2012	Yes - the library is supported by tax monies, but even so, it is one of the few remaining "free" resources available to people of all ages and income levels.
8073	7/10/2012	Literacy is essential to democracy.
8074	7/10/2012	The library is one place all people can go, no matter what your income, language, reading ability and still find information and interests to support what ever your needs are. I went to the library the day before yesterday, there where at least 4 languages being spoken, all ages from babes to elder seniors, and no one cares what gender you are, how much $ you have or what you are wearing. Books bring people from all walks of life together. It is a place of peace and everyone can pretend they are brilliant!
8075	7/10/2012	I have been using the neighborhood and central public libraries and for over 60 years. When I was growing up I used to ride my bike to the Montavilla Library and check out books by my favorite author Jim Kjelgaard. What awesome books he wrote! I was given a copy of Irish Red as a present and that got me started. The library system is a great personal resource at many levels.
8076	7/10/2012	It depends how you define public services... But of all things provided for me in this city at no cost, the library, parks, and bicycle trails are the things I use that contribute to greater health, cultural vibrancy, and community-building within it. That's what I'm most interested in public services supporting.
8077	7/10/2012	knowledge is power.
8078	7/10/2012	A library is the free open door to the world for many.
8079	7/10/2012	Free public libraries are one of the fundamental building blocks of pluralistic democracy.
8080	7/10/2012	Use of a world of books and media.
8081	7/10/2012	having books available to everyone is very important. encourages learning and forward movement in our society. also preserves our history so it's available to those who are looking backward for research. [] [] libraries are very very important
8082	7/10/2012	Libraries create and sustain community. They are a force of equality in a city, state, and nation where disparity between people continues to grow. Everyone needs access to knowledge.
8083	7/10/2012	Some services like 911, police and fire stations are more important.
8084	7/10/2012	Education. Is there anything more important than education?!

8085	7/10/2012	In today's economy many people do not have access to the internet so job searching is difficult. The working poor and unemployed need access to this information. Also, reading is critical to the success of each student and getting them interested in books and other programs at an early age, and continuing to cater to their interests over the years, will aid in an involved society and caring community.
8086	7/10/2012	Free lifelong learning. Community-subsidized access to culture.
8087	7/10/2012	While infrustuctre and social programs are critical, libraries provide access to knowledge for all citizens. Knowledge and understanding are critical for effective partiipation as individual citizens. Libraries (when available andutilized) are an essential component of our democratic society.
8088	7/10/2012	This is a resource so that I can be well informed and educated.
8089	7/10/2012	Without education and access to information, a society is easily influenced by bad leadership.
8090	7/10/2012	Fire departments, police, water and sewer are all vital while the library services are more of an added benefit. We need libraries to help make our lives pleasant and interesting.
8091	7/10/2012	Because we are taxpayers and we are entitled to services such as library services.
8092	7/10/2012	I love books but can not buy every one I want to read and I am not ready for electronic books as I love to have one in my hand .
8093	7/10/2012	Reading and love of reading plus access (for anyone) to information and resources is key to a well educated and informed society
8094	7/10/2012	It's a great local public service which benefits all tax payers.
8095	7/10/2012	I use it regularly.
8096	7/10/2012	Because it is where I can access books, the internet and other educational materials which make me a better human being and help others to become better too.
8097	7/10/2012	Availability of media (books, music, DVDs, magazines and online materials) are vital part of being an active, aware adult in the community.
8098	7/10/2012	To help educate the public.
8099	7/10/2012	I see the services provided through libraries as an important part of today's society. Without such services, some people may not have access at all. That said, I do not place library services over critical public services such as emergency services.
8100	7/10/2012	I seek on a daily basis music, books, DVDs and other literature to comlete my search in life. I am retired and disable so this sanctuary is affordable and accessible. The government"sreatest treasure for its citizens; It crosses all boundaries of humanity.
8101	7/10/2012	Literacy is crucial for people to be able to subsist. Having access to books,computers and resources make it possible to step out of poverty, by taking away knowledge and access to technology from the public we increase the level of houselessness and unemployment.
8102	7/10/2012	Utmost. We use the library on a regular basis. It helps to make a love of reading for my children. I would be lost without it!
8103	7/10/2012	Right after fire, police, water & sewer, and good roads.

8104	7/10/2012	see answer to question 6 regarding literacy skills and information.
8105	7/10/2012	As citizens we need to get information from unbiased and unrestricted sources and libraries supply some of the richest forms of culture and the arts.
8106	7/10/2012	It helps the community grow and learn to be more responsible people with a broader view of the world and themselves.
8107	7/10/2012	I use my local libraries very often, not having them around is unimaginable.
8108	7/10/2012	the multnomah county library is the best library system I've ever used-- frequently brag about how awesome we have it in Portland! It levels the playing field, making culture available to everyone!
8109	7/10/2012	Free access to information is important for a healthy society.
8110	7/10/2012	Libraries are a service that is available to everyone. It is a service that helps people improve themselves and feel good about themselves. It helps folks become more educated and well rounded and balanced in their outlook of life. Gives people access to information.
8111	7/10/2012	For me personally, the library is a very nice thing, but I could get by without it. But I know people who are not as fortunate as I am who need the library, and whose lives would be much worse without it. It makes a big difference in people's lives.
8112	7/10/2012	because if I didn't have access to my library I wouldn't have any books to read
8113	7/10/2012	Information is vital, connections are made, and it's a place to gather for learning.
8114	7/10/2012	It here where we get to know some of the things we were not aware off. We learn more about the word here than anywhere else.
8115	7/10/2012	Because I grew up with a wonderful library which I attribute to my academic and professional success, I cannot imagine raising my children without some similar resource for their intellectual and personal growth.
8116	7/10/2012	Not only for info resource / research and literary reasons, butalso for the social aspect which adds to Portlands cultural liveability ambience.
8117	7/10/2012	Not enough info provided for #7. Which public services? Not as important as roads, safety, park maintenance, public transportation, etc.; but more than some other programs that don't have a wide scope of target market. Ex: I think larger programs that benifit more people are more valuable.
8118	7/10/2012	Access to reliable & current information and also to professional librarians that can help our citizens access the increasingly obtuse array of information resources available is critical to our community health.
8119	7/10/2012	It is my main source for entertainment. I get books and DVD's to enjoy.
8120	7/10/2012	Libraries are where I get my reading material and borrow videos and music cds.
8121	7/10/2012	I love reading, so I use the library often. But without other services like police and firemen, I wouldn't be able to relax and enjoy reading a book. I wouldn't consider the library to be a basic need, like public safety, but it is important.

8122	7/10/2012	I believe police and fire service is the most important but the library is where older people can get books, use computers, etc. And we need to train our young children the importance of books because they could become extinct.[] I feel the levy we just passed was not honest, by telling us the library was going to close on Mondays and limit hours. I feel many people would not have voted to pass the levy had they known this. I feel as if I were lied to.
8123	7/10/2012	they are a resource that has the power to enrich the lives of those in the community. they provide research material, educational tools, remind us the pleasure of reading, afford us the opportunity to share and consume more media that we might encounter on our own, build community, educate our public.....etc etc
8124	7/10/2012	I love books.
8125	7/10/2012	This is such a poorly written survey. Without listing what other services library funds are competing against, this question is impossible to answer. I love my library, but this survey is very poorly written.
8126	7/10/2012	They keep our population educated and connected. Help with integration and community building. They are absolutely essential.
8127	7/10/2012	Without libraries, we would be taking away yet another valuable service that helps educate our children. Funding for education is hit hard enough. If we also start looking to reduce funding for our libraries, we are only continuing the erosion of the educational process. I realize that I am biased because of my occupation as a teacher but I wasn't always a teacher. I spent 20 years at another career unrelated to teaching and I still felt the same way about libraries before becoming a teacher.
8128	7/10/2012	I'm a big reader, but my financial situation doesn't exactly support such a habit. The library does, and that's very dear to me. Sometimes I get my school textbooks through the ILL services when they are too expensive for me. I am taking a distance-learning graduate program, so there is no school bookstore or academic library I can go to. (PSU helps, but the central library is much more convenient for me.) When writing papers and such, I get most of my resources through MCL.

8129	7/10/2012	Because they are a tradition in our society that I think is valuable in spite of so many having access to computers at home, school, and work. They teach children respect for others because they are expected to be quiet and considerate of other peoples feelings. It is good for people to browse the shelves and to stumble across something they might not have if not given the chance to handle and flip through pages. Books vary as much as people do; some are better examples than others; still others encourage by showing pictures to inspire. Some folks may not have a quiet place to study or learn at home. Others look forward to the outing for other reasons - to escape into Wonderland or Fantasy. It makes a neighborhood a better neighborhood. It's safe. It doesn't have to provide everything to everybody. I think books should be a Libraries' primary objective and we should never loose sight of that by threatening to shorten days. Go ahead and cut services, but don't dare say it's a catastophy when these extras were introduced at an abundant time and now funding has seized. Haven't you ever had a cut in pay? Would you rather loose your job completely, or just some benefits. It kind of makes you appreciate what you have much more, and not take anything for granted. It also naturally makes one more creative if he still wants certain things or wants to help others that he cares about or sees a
8130	7/10/2012	Because access to the materials the library provides is important to our culture, as well as the continued education of the populace.
8131	7/10/2012	Because they help provide education and opportunities, and without those things, we don't really have much of anything.
8132	7/10/2012	They provide information to the public who might not otherwise have access. Communities with libraries are smarter and safer.
8133	7/10/2012	Obviously Fire, Police, Schools need to take a front row to our libraries.
8134	7/10/2012	I use the library more than other public services.
8135	7/10/2012	I love to read, but I believe services that deal with public safety such as fire and police are of higher importance.
8136	7/10/2012	Resource for all that is truly inclusive and important to the type of learning and culture I want to be a part of. Promotion of almost universally good attributes of learning, sharing, supporting and openness.
8137	7/10/2012	great free community resource available to everyone.
8138	7/10/2012	I love to read a book and not a kindle. I also like to watch DVD's.
8139	7/10/2012	I would not be able to afford to buy all the books and media I obtain from the library. Ever since I was a wee girl libraries have been a big part of my life. I love them! Whenever I have a late fee, I am happy to pay since they have given me so much (for free!!) over my lifetime.
8140	7/10/2012	Police and utilities are slightly higher
8141	7/10/2012	Access to intellectual materials is an aspect of the Free Speech Amendment to the USA Constitution. If the populace does not have the capability to educate itself, it falls into ignorance and rumour. In order to choose to have freedom, we must know each side of a debate, and our libraries provide the fodder for our curiosity to grow into opinion and promote action.
8142	7/10/2012	books are important
8143	7/10/2012	Basic infrastructure and education should take priority

8144	7/10/2012	We have always been big users of the Portland Library service, and feel that it has been an important part of the fabric of our family
8145	7/10/2012	Because they provide a major access to learning for every member of our local society.
8146	7/10/2012	Quality of life through knowledge, information and entertainment. Felt the same when I was a kid. Always loved books, they are a refuge.
8147	7/10/2012	I use the library for a combination of education, entertainment, and career resources. The extent of material I can find at the library is beyond anything I would be able to track down and afford on my own. When I was between homes and without internet and a printer, I would use the library's computers to look for housing and print off resumes.
8148	7/10/2012	Eliminate Ignorance.
8149	7/10/2012	I pay what I consider to be a considerable amount of money to the mult. co. libraries through taxes, and I use the library all the time so I feel like I am getting my money's worth, which is good. I use the library more than any other local public service as well. I'd hate to see the quality of the local library system start to slip, then I wouldn't feel that I was getting my money's worth.
8150	7/10/2012	Reading is a key to knowledge.
8151	7/10/2012	resources for school aged children, entertainment, computer access,
8152	7/10/2012	I enjoy checking out books and videos. I'm a taxpayer and that is where part of my money goes.
8153	7/10/2012	Freedom of information and a communal space for learning.
8154	7/10/2012	Other public services seem more important - particularly health care services.
8155	7/10/2012	I value knowledge, words, books, new experiences, media, etc that is available to all, not just elites.
8156	7/10/2012	I value having so much information, literature and media so readily accessible.
8157	7/10/2012	Alot of different things are utilized. Possibly people using the computers for access to other public services to see where they can volunteer or where they can get help.
8158	7/10/2012	Reading enriches my life and keeps me informed and my mind growing.
8160	7/10/2012	I feel the library is very important for my family with two young children. Access to books and information and programs that help them learn to love to read and love learning are key. In a world of limited resources, I'm not sure how to compare the importance of library funding to other things like police, fire fighters, public schools, parks and rec, etc...these things are all key to a livable, vibrant community.
8161	7/10/2012	Abreast with current events
8162	7/10/2012	The library is the equalizer. It encourages literacy, education, entertainment, and growth for all people in the community in an equitable way.

8163	7/10/2012	Becasue the library has become the community gathering place for connection with the broader world.
8164	7/10/2012	We use regularly to supplement education
8165	7/10/2012	I would not have survived childhood without the support of libraries. Today, the library is my primary source for Internet. It's almost impossible to conduct everyday life without access to Internet.
8166	7/10/2012	I order books for pick up at our local library
8167	7/10/2012	They are a positive influence on the future.
8168	7/10/2012	Provides important resources to community in numerous ways: Education, information, service, jobs, community connections, technology resources, resources for youth and elderly, and more... Where will the children of this generation truly learn about "books" as they should be. Going to the library, searching for just the right book, attending a program, learning how to use the card catalog, seeing a world of information that was here long before computers, I pads, etc.
8169	7/10/2012	Libraries provide unique resources and another vehicle for education. Education can help bring people out of poverty.
8170	7/10/2012	I personally don't use it much, but having the facilities is important to me. However, it doesn't compare to things like electricity, water, garbage, police, fire, medical...
8171	7/10/2012	The library is utilized beautifully in our city. Its use and services could be improved magnificently, still. We are a city of dreamers, and we will continue to dream big for our libraries, as they function to educate, broaden, connect, and expand our community. The library represents equal access to knowledge and learning. The reality is bigger, as people literally come to the library to see other people, learn together, take a load off, warm up, cool off, read and play with their children, and so on. There are so many people in need of this and more, we cannot afford to let the library branches slip.
8172	7/10/2012
8173	7/10/2012	The library is a hub for the commmunity--educationally, and socially.
8174	7/10/2012	School aged kids need a resource for book reports and other projects, just as we did as kids.
8175	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time
8176	7/10/2012	they fill a need for information
8177	7/10/2012	exreamly good source of reading material
8178	7/10/2012	Educated communities are healthy communities.
8179	7/10/2012	Other services such as police, fire-fighters, road maintenance, and schools are "very important" but the library is also pretty vital as well so I ranked it next highest to those, so I ranked it as "somewhat important".
8180	7/10/2012	It is very important to me. I lost my job three years ago and had to stop buying books and tapes.
8181	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading a good book.

8182	7/10/2012	The internet is replacing the reason for having libraries. Offering many other services to sustain the usefulness of the library is recognition that it is a limited time entity. Having a few well stocked libraries will always be important, but not having one in every community will be supplanted by the tablet and other intelligent devices capable of delivering all the books and information anyone could ever want.
8183	7/10/2012	As this recession continues, I use the library as a main source of entertainment. But also people must realize that an employed and educated Portland is tantamount to its success as a city in the future. This library educates people not only with books and media but with their programs as well. And given the fact that Oregon has no idea of the importance of funding education and funding jobs programs, they should at least fund the library so people can have a secondary source of educational programs for their children and a source of assistance in finding employment.
8184	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot and want this community resource to be maintained and available for kids coming up. Reading is foundational to success and self esteem. Buying books is not an option in these economic times. Libraries are a positive alternative to people of all ages in our community for learning throughout our entire lives. Some of my earliest memories are going to the public library with my mom and in turn taking my daughters to the library. My mom is 78 years old and moving to Portland. She spends a lot of her fixed income on books where she lives now. I am hoping to share our wonderful libraries here in Portland with her. I am a home owner in Multnomah county.
8185	7/10/2012	My family and many others I know use the services there all the time.
8186	7/10/2012	accessibility
8187	7/10/2012	Libraries offer so much to so many.
8188	7/10/2012	An educated citizenry is essential to democracy.
8189	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly to check out books, cds, dvds, etc. If I need internet access on the go, I can use it there. It's a safe place to stop in if I need to collect my thoughts.
8190	7/10/2012	because i said so.
8191	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot but I can't say it's more important than other public services.
8192	7/10/2012	To me libraries are right up there with clean water and fast emergency response. They are a safe place & given the drastic economic contrasts in our region, one of the few free, readily accessible ways for people to supplement their education & learn new skills
8193	7/10/2012	Equal access to information is critical
8194	7/10/2012	I have young children (9 month olds) - would love for them to love books and use public resources.
8195	7/10/2012	Because they provide a free service to people that otherwise would not have access to necessary materials. Libraries keep our communities strong and healthy!
8196	7/10/2012	We use it.....and so do difficult to reach family members we are disadvantaged.
8197	7/10/2012	Libraries are the source of publically available knowledge of all kinds for all people.

8198	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently. It is one of the few things I feel that I get for my tax money that applies to me
8199	7/10/2012	A library is the focus of public knowledge in a city/town. While the internet may provide lots of information, having the hard copy and resources a library provides is essential.
8200	7/10/2012	The library allows people to educate themselves for free. The library provides access to services (like internet) that people otherwise might not be able to afford. The library provides shelter and a safe quiet space for some of our more vulnerable citizens. The library is a community gathering space. Free books! What could be better?
8201	7/10/2012	education and knowledge are important to the community; reading is an encouraging activity to enhance people's lives and develop creativity and knowledge base for public and private decisions
8202	7/10/2012	They are a great resource that we use frequently.
8203	7/10/2012	The library is very important to keep going, but other local public services like road repair service or schools are more essential.
8204	7/10/2012	it is foundational for learning and keeping informed on topics that impact communities on a larger scale.
8205	7/10/2012	The Portland library has been a bastion of community culture for us since we moved here four years ago. Before that, our local libraries in Washington provided the same enclave for our needs.
8206	7/10/2012	Very important. The library is a place where low income people can access information that they otherwise would not have available.
8207	7/10/2012	I don't use it that much, but more than other local public services.
8208	7/10/2012	I go to the library nearly every day; it's something I can afford to do every day because it's free! That's pretty rare-- most things I want to do cost money and so I have to feel guilty about doing them or not do them as often, etc. Besides that, I love reading and books and feeling like I can order on hold nearly any book I find out about that I want to read is an amazing feeling. I could never afford to buy books I just want to read once, but the library provides... if I hear about a book on NPR or the Daily Show or something like that, it's a great feeling knowing that I can follow up on that interest and put it on hold and be reading it soon. It's also great that I can have access to JSTOR and other research stuff through MultCo because I am no longer in school and don't work in academia, and without the library I would feel very cut off from that world. Instead I feel like I've almost got the best of both worlds and can do work and research I feel is important without being beholden to academia or a job.
8209	7/10/2012	Reading makes a difference in society.
8210	7/10/2012	We love to read and value books. It's important to us that books are available to us and other people of our community. It's a great meeting place.
8211	7/10/2012	just are.
8212	7/10/2012	I read.

8213	7/10/2012	I use the library a great deal.
8214	7/10/2012	The library is important, but many public services are more important (eg. all county dept of human services and public safety are essential to the community).
8215	7/10/2012	I am a low-income senior who relies on the library for up to date reading and staying up with the national debate, I formerly worked as a bookseller but can no longer afford to buy books. Before that I was a teacher, books have always been in my life. Last fall I had cataract surgery (it went fine) I worried for two months that I wouldn't be able to read, now it's better than before! Category is not suit my need. They are important, but other services are also important and could be a safety problem. Lots of things are important public services. Mental Health care is a huge need. Food Banks are in terrible need. Some roads and bridges are in very bad shape. The libraries are very important to the learning population. Those in school and pre-school. Shut the local ones to 5-6 days, and leave Central open 7 days, if that saves money. People can plan ahead and work the schedule in. I was at the library yesterday and it opened at 11, not 10. It was 10:15. I was disappointed to not be able to get new books. I is not a tragedy. But consistency helps be able to make those trips work, when trying to save gas and organize trips thoughtfully.
8216	7/10/2012
8217	7/10/2012	I love information. I like free books. They are always a great community resource.
8218	7/10/2012	n/a
8219	7/10/2012	Use of services
8220	7/10/2012	Because a civic society should have a pool of educational resources to share.
8221	7/10/2012	knowledge is key
8222	7/10/2012	Accessible information - and it's free! As a resource that everyone in the community can access, the library is a very valuable asset. Not only can people check out materials, but for many, including the women in the shelter that I work at, that is how they access internet and computers for school, homework, employment searches, etc.
8223	7/10/2012
8224	7/10/2012	Allow all citizens to have incredible access to materials and information that they would either not have access to at all or would have to pay for on their own. I can't afford internet fees all the time and everything is done on computer these days, the library is the only way I can access services sometimes, I also can't afford to buy books or the gizmos to read them on so hard copies are my only way to continue to read
8225	7/10/2012
8226	7/10/2012	The library is the place where one finds resources to many different avenues to improve one's life
8227	7/10/2012	What else are we without education?
8228	7/10/2012	A free people need to read
8229	7/10/2012	Without libraries the gulf between rich and poor only grows larger. Libraries are more important than schools
8230	7/10/2012	I check out about 4 books a week. I am able to get new books, fiction and non-fiction, on the Lucky Day shelves and the New Books shelf. I also buy books at Powell's when I don't want to take pot luck.

8231	7/10/2012	I value education.
8232	7/10/2012	the story times for children are a rare, free entertainment for my daughter!
8233	7/10/2012	Over time the computer and other devices have made the library less important to my partner and me. We can't afford all these services anymore. It's an era of take backs for sure. I wish we could have the luxury of all branches being open, but I think the library should only have half the branches it has now. I know it's important for children to learn to read, but I think parents and other family members need to make that happen.
8234	7/10/2012	It is important to me to be able to have access to books that I do not own and want to read. I am part of a book group and often go to the library to get each month's book. It is also a good place for me to expose my daughter to books and everything wonderful about them.
8235	7/10/2012	very important
8236	7/10/2012	They encourage scholarship and provide valuable resources to the people in the community that may not have an alternative.
8237	7/10/2012	The idea of a tax-funded library system is much more easily justifiable than the idea of a tax funded transit system. Keep the libraries, but fund only the essential parts of them (upkeep and utilities, librarian salaries, and new material acquisitions).
8238	7/10/2012	N/A
8239	7/10/2012	Extremely.
8240	7/10/2012	Access to free information and entertainment
8241	7/10/2012	when I want to check on something the library has the best resources
8242	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader on a limited budget and approaching retirement which will limit it even further. I would be lost without my library!
8243	7/10/2012	The library is a great resource, especially for the underprivileged, which includes me.
8244	7/10/2012	They are AS important as other local public services. This answer should be an option for question 7,which it is not.
8245	7/10/2012	A big reason is that today, you almost NEED a computer to access many services and job opportunities. Libraries provide this for those without access. And of course, libraries' traditional role as a place for BOOKS is sorely needed in our fast-paced digital culture. Reading books can enhance critical thinking, and critical thinkers can build better and more functional communities. ¶ I think Multnomah County libraries do a great job of balancing these potentially discordant goals.
8246	7/10/2012	Libraries give the ability for finically disadvantaged people access to resources that they could not otherwise use.

8247	7/10/2012	Because they are the future, they build in a positive way in people's lives. Actually, for instance, I don't personally need activities and materials for learning English, but some do. If people can't access this opportunity, they will get frustrated and perhaps engage in negative activities. Then we will all suffer. The library isn't about short term solutions, but long term solutions, positive activities, education. We can't afford to let this resource be weakened, even for short term needs like safety. This is a resource that goes a long way to channel energy in positive directions.
8248	7/10/2012	Language and literacy are key to a functioning democracy.
8249	7/10/2012	Education and public safety are far more important in the best of times, and our economic conditions make it even more imperative to set priorities for tax increases, whether for operating or capital expenditures.
8250	7/10/2012	Because i feel like im connected to my community and the world using my library! plus it feels like christmas when i get to go pick up my holds! :)
8251	7/10/2012	Not only a source of information and entertainment, but also a neighborhood and community resource.
8252	7/10/2012	I love being able to check out books on a regular basis. I used it immensely as a teacher but continue to use it almost weekly for my own pleasure and learning. It also helps me save money by checking books out rather than purchasing them. [] I would police and fire protection above the library.
8253	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time. I don't know what we'd do with out it. We wouldn't have the variety of books available for my kids to read and I'm sure they would love reading as much as they do if we didn't. I also use the library for reading books and also for cooking, crafting, sewing. So many things!
8254	7/10/2012	Because they give me access to learning. As a child, I spent the summers learning by checking out books at the library and I continue to do that today. The fact that it is free encourages kids to actually go to the library and learn instead of other, less productive activities.
8255	7/10/2012	I have other options to securing books and others services
8256	7/10/2012	It is nice to have the library available from time to time. Lots of other resources to get books.
8257	7/10/2012	They indicate the value a community places on knowledge and education.
8258	7/10/2012	Some of the more specialized services, police, firefighters, and medical personal have an importance that cannot be replaced by the library. However, some of their knowledge can be obtained at the library and other information that can keep our socity living, growing and developing is available only at the library.
8259	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power and life long learning makes better community members. In this day and age, we have only limited places for civic engagement, which is a critical component of maintaining a functional democracy. We vote at our library and get informed there on the issues. Where else will we and our neighbors be able to do this?

8260	7/10/2012	Emergency services - fire, police, ambulance, while not as frequently used by myself are more important because when I have needed them they are vital. I appreciate and use the library much more than many of the social welfare programs and the excessive public transportation system so I rank it higher than those programs.
8261	7/10/2012	Libraries connect me with the world.
8262	7/10/2012	I read a lot and could not afford to buy the number of books I read.
8263	7/10/2012	Provides a place for people to go for free services/information that they may otherwise not have access to if they have to pay for the services.
8264	7/10/2012	Because they give access to computers, books, and other tools for everyone in the community, not just those who can buy them personally. They are the core of our cultural access, and EVERYONE needs to have access!
8265	7/10/2012	Public Library provides access to knowledge to me and everybody in the community regardless of age and income. It's the major sources for reading material for children, which helps boost their ability to read, write, listen and to promote their ability to learn and work in the society.
8266	7/10/2012	Portland already has lots of resources, and especially on the Internet. More books, even textbooks are going online, so libraries need to keep up with this trend, and choose to use resources wisely.
8267	7/10/2012	I can live with pot-holed roads, garbage collection only once a week, dimmer street lights, etc., as long as I have my reading materials. Books take you to another dimension no matter how troubled your life might be, no matter your environment. Without books, the smoothest streets in the city would mean nothing.
8268	7/10/2012	provides opportunity to large variety educational
8269	7/10/2012	local library services are of that level of importance to me because the library can be used as an excellent source to research education, hobbies, careers, volunteerism etc.
8270	7/10/2012	previous answer (no. 6?)
8271	7/10/2012	Free access to information is critical. Libraries educate the public - Portland needs educated citizens.
8272	7/10/2012	I need to print copies off a computer and I don't have a printer that works at home.
8273	7/10/2012	Literacy is key to success and education for all.
8274	7/10/2012	We need informed citizens
8275	7/10/2012	very important
8276	7/10/2012	I'm a compulsive reader!
8277	7/10/2012	Depends on what other local services you are thinking of.
8278	7/10/2012	We don't have a ton of money. We get nearly all of our reading material through the library - for our whole family. Two adults, two toddlers. We like the community aspect, classes, that all kinds of people can use the library. We like that the librarians will help us find whatever we are looking for - and that there is a community bulletin board, etc that seems to be a central place to post and seek information important to our community.

8279	7/10/2012	They provide a unique service in the community and offer resources that are not available anywhere else. The library enhances community and enables literacy.
8280	7/10/2012	I could use a different library, it would not be nearly as easy to access as the neighborhood one. But if push came to shove.
8281	7/10/2012	Free and affordable access to information via literature and media for all citizens independent of class and circumstance is a right and a necessity.
8282	7/10/2012	Education, language skill, access to reference materials is vital to being an informed citizen.
8283	7/10/2012	Because how are we going to pay for it? Multnomah County's taxes are way too high as is and you are driving out the very people who have the means of supporting public services by raising property taxes to support of all this stuff
8284	7/10/2012	The library is essential to making readers. It is the place that develops a love of books and a place to go for all readers. Free libraries are a core feature of a civilized society. Having said that, it is simply the books and the building that are core services for our society. My summer reading programs (sponsored by the library) were fairly simple affairs--a booklet for one to write down the titles read and gold stars applied at the end of the summer. I think that sticking to the core mission of allowing access to free print and electronic media at times convenient to the end users is your mandate.
8285	7/10/2012	Many people cannot afford any other form of information, entertainment and communication. The libraries are pivotal to any community for access to all of the above. Appreciation of the Arts sometimes can ONLY be afforded at the libraries.
8286	7/10/2012	You cannot survive without access to books.
8287	7/10/2012	Very important!!
8288	7/10/2012	Though public safety is rated higher such as police and fire, library and education is ranked second but is still very important
8289	7/10/2012	I utilize the library frequently to check out books for myself and my children. My children wouldn't have the same exposure to so many books if it were not for the library. I feel that the library supports literacy which impacts children's education and their future.
8290	7/10/2012	I think the libraries in Portland are a wonderful community resource. They have become gathering places for people, as well as providing educational resources.
8291	7/10/2012	It is a resource that the majority can and do use that do not use any other county services.
8292	7/10/2012	They provide a great number of free resources to people that would not necessarily have them otherwise
8293	7/10/2012	Access to information is critical, access to computers, and all of the library services are one of the best parts of the commons.
8294	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to reading materials and computers. With the economical hard times, people who can't afford to buy books and magazines must use libraries.
8295	7/10/2012	Local libraries contribute to the community through their programs.

8296	7/10/2012	Libraries are a part of the community's ability to learn, have culture, have togetherness. It is a place where any and all can come for knowledge and culture on equal footing. It's a crucial public service to the health and development of the community.
8297	7/10/2012	I used them when my daughter was young, and it was an invaluable resource to give her access to the amount, and range of books that I could never purchase for her. We use the library all the time. I take out books, CDs, and music. Portland libraries are lovely and they are places I go to when I have an hour to spare and want to relax and read a magazine or check out the new offerings. They are a big part of the quality of life of this city for me.
8298	7/10/2012	Widely used libraries are a sign of a healthy neighborhood. They provide access to a wide range of resources that otherwise might not be available to many people. They provide value-added programs for all age groups and enhance reading skills.
8299	7/10/2012	Libraries, a historically unique center of a community, have always offered great resources equally to all people, often material or services that would not be available as easily otherwise.
8300	7/10/2012	I use the library more than any other public service.
8301	7/10/2012	I believe in providing knowledge resources to those who don't have access to books or computers of their own.
8302	7/10/2012	The worse the economy gets, the more people need the library for resources of all kinds.
8303	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently
8304	7/10/2012	how else would I be knowledgeable and well-informed
8305	7/10/2012	I depend on the library a great deal as a source of materials to stimulate me, inform me, entertain me, and inspire me. It is a source of great wealth and enhancement to my life. This survey is one of the most unprofessional I have ever come across. If one is trying to obtain information from a sample, it needs to follow the rules of surveying/questionnaires.[]
8306	7/10/2012	[] About which public services are you comparing? Why aren't there choices? This question is dependent on which public services the respondent thinks of.
8307	7/10/2012	Fill a unique niche in providing reading materials, books, music, etc.
8308	7/10/2012	We actually use these services so apart from fire and ambulance type services we actually benefit from this type of program...
8309	7/10/2012	A democracy cannot survive without access to information
8310	7/10/2012	All children should be taught the importance of a good book and encouraged to utilize the library and its resources to as full of an extent as possible.
8311	7/10/2012	It is valuable to me mostly for entertainment purposes. We have a lot of books at home and the library books are great, but just extras. I would be really disappointed if they were suddenly not available, but it is not a critical issue. I also feel the library is mostly used by people who already like to read more than really doing much to help encourage non-readers or to teach people to read.

8312	7/10/2012	environmentally sound and community oriented business model. Sharing resources such as books makes a lot of sense seeing that most people only read a book about one time. I also think that it is important to have educational materials free for anyone willing to put the effort into reading it.
8314	7/10/2012	There are a lot of public resources (fire/police/schools) but the libraries and parks are the places where I feel most like a participant in a big public project (the project being the City of Portland). Our library is one of the great public meeting halls, and I love to see the different services for the different parts of our citizenry (i.e. books in Vietnamese, large-print books for old people, kids' books etc).¶ ¶ Also I love to read and watch movies, and you guys keep me from spending my last dollars at Powell's and Movie Madness.¶ ¶ Finally, I don't use the library as a job-hunting resource or as a center for my grandparents or my children, but I really appreciate that those community services are there for other people.
8315	7/10/2012	Because we all need to have access to opportunities to stimulate our minds
8316	7/10/2012	they provide a great space for community activities, act as an equalizer for people in portland that can't afford to buy books, internet access, etc. the multnomah county system is so easy to use, i am able to get access almost any books, music, movies that i am interested in.
8317	7/10/2012	It give access to educational resources for all
8318	7/10/2012	Books, reading, and literacy are of extremely high value to me.
8319	7/10/2012	-
8320	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly and have always valued it. I think it's important to keep educational resources open for everyone. The library also helps the environment by creating an eco-friendly system for books and other media to be reused. In addition it helps me save money by not acquiring books that I'll only read once.
8321	7/10/2012	Maintain a stimulated mind on a limited budget.
8322	7/10/2012	An educated citizenry is vital to the functioning of a democracy. Information is available on the internet, but it's too easy to be distracted by games, etc. And books from over the centuries might be available on-line, but that's not a "user-friendly" way to read, so we lose our past wisdom.

8323	7/10/2012	use of the library is as important as any municipal service. police and fire are just a step more important because of the emergency nature of the service.
8324	7/10/2012	Without libraries people would have no recourse for books and learning if they did not have money to purchase them else where. Having no income right now the library is the only place accessible to me.
8325	7/10/2012	I believe they are very important because children (ages 12&under) need something to do during there free time and with the library having so many activities available I believe these children will end up on the right track instead of turning to gangs and other things. The library has many resources to help many people of all ages.
8326	7/10/2012	Libraries are an educational tool not only for students, but for all ages. Other local public services do not serve an educational purpose.
8327	7/10/2012	The library at college is much more relevant, it is open when I need access, and there are no little kids running around or dominating the use of floor space and resources. More computers, movies, and equipment are available. I think parks and campgrounds are more important than libraries. The Public libraries seem more and more to be a babysitting service for kids rather than a resource for serious, quiet study and pursuit of information.
8328	7/10/2012	Library services I happily pay for, not only for whatever use I make of them but because I firmly believe that a large segment of county residents reap many benefits from them. It would be nice, however, to have hard data--qualitative and quantitative to support my view. The main library is almost crowded when I have been there in the last few years.
8329	7/10/2012	Libraries are the cradle of Civilization, and although quite recently the definitions have been distorted through the method of thinking, that "everything" is simply at our fingertips, what is actually at our fingertips has the ability to be vetted and distorted information.. Public Libraries simply need to be around, like staff at the emergency ward, regardless of how much money they drain, or how many folks choose to read physical books from decade to decade.. We place their importance relative to how much we want our Civilization to remain standing..
8330	7/10/2012	I am a huge supporter of libraries and the programs they offer but when weighed against other public programs such as schools and health clinics, I have to rank libraries a bit lower.
8331	7/10/2012	I use the library constantly. It is a source for public knowledge and self betterment, and a place where one can continue to learn and enjoy things beyond formal education. My three year old daughter loves story time. I love to read and to look at magazines and local periodicals, have access to music, etc.
8332	7/10/2012	just below public safety organizations. Police and Fire. Library's rank next with schools.
8333	7/10/2012	I'm a big reader. But...I also don't feel safe in Portland and therefore think the police are more important. And...fire services are important too.

8334	7/10/2012	Books and media are central to my life. Libraries are fundamental to our culture and must be strengthened to maintain a democratic society.
8335	7/10/2012	Because they give me access to the instruments by which I learn and live.
8336	7/10/2012	Easy and inexpensive access to materials related to music - scores, audio recordings, video recordings, reference books, academic material - is essential to my career as a freelance musician. The library provides this access.
8337	7/10/2012	With the current popularity of eReaders and internet use, we need out libraries more than ever for those who do not have access to books and research information. A large number of people cannot afford a Kindle or a Nook, many do not have internet access at home. Without the libraries, these folks would suffer.
8338	7/10/2012	Six days a week is plenty to be open, and we don't need programs for kids, seniors, etc. It's a library for Chrissakes. Lend books and materials, and leave other services for organizations better equipped and funded to do them. I notice that on question (you don't give the option to decrease the levy. This is fucking disingenuous to say the least. I got this far only to see that you are dishonest on your survey.
8339	7/10/2012	I most always look online these days to find what I would have gone to a library for in the past. More and more resources are going online and are easier and faster to access than by making a trip to the library.
8340	7/10/2012	All citizens should have access to information and education. Literacy is the foremost important tool in raising a good, caring, informed person, and the library promotes literacy. That is one of its primary public services.[] [] Literacy is tied to personal development, opportunity, and enlightenment.
8341	7/10/2012	They provide resources and fight ignorance in the community. Libraries also strengthen my sense of community.
8342	7/10/2012	What is more important than educating and inspiring the citizens of our communities and nation?
8343	7/10/2012	provides community. provides resources for those who can't afford. introduces positive literacy skills/education for little kids. helps to develop healthy reading habits & love of learning.
8344	7/10/2012	Health and safety comes first.
8345	7/10/2012	Because they provide reading support and instruction from the earliest of years. A motivated person can supplement their education so much at their local library. It, along with free education, is the greatest contribution to a thinking society we have.
8346	7/10/2012	I read. I am curious. I seek information.
8347	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently and my daughter uses it even more than I do. My wife uses it several times a year. We love having access to the books, DVDs and CDs. We love it when the library purchases the latest materials and makes them available to the public.

8348	7/10/2012	utmost importance. Without access to the library i would not have been able to find my current employment and may have been very well homeless. PLEASE KEEP THE LIBRARY OPEN. i am not the only person who depends on the library. It is a necessity in my life, not an option but a need. please take heed to the needs of the people and the education of the youth.
8349	7/10/2012	I would be happy to rank the services if I had a list.
8350	7/10/2012	THE LIBRARY IS THE BACKBONE OF EVERY COMMUNITY AND I LOVE HAVING ACCESS TO THE WORLD THROUGH OUR WONDERFUL LIBRARY SYSTEM.
8351	7/10/2012	Because most of the materials in the library are older and not up to date. Now one does not have to go to the library to read or conduct research. One can do that at home or in the office.
8352	7/10/2012	Because I believe reading is a staple for a happy, thinking society.
8353	7/10/2012	Vital services such and police and fire are of the upmost importance.....libraries are important for people that don't have the resources such as a computer to job search ect, or the money to purchase books in a store.
8354	7/10/2012	information, literature, knowledge are the foundation of a real civilization
8355	7/10/2012	Frequent access
8356	7/10/2012	Provides a service that is avaiable to all regardless of age or handicaps
8357	7/10/2012	Our local library is not only a place to obtain reading material and encourage our children to read and research, but it is a community hub -- a place where you bump into neighbors, where political issues are discussed, where kids raise funds for local groups.
8358	7/10/2012	People need access to media and resources for work, school, and personal fulfillment.
8359	7/10/2012	As an ESL teacher, I frequently send my students to library to check out books and use the computers. For most of them, the library is the only place where they can get free books, computer classes, and access to printers. Furthermore, the library connects them to community in a way that no other place does.
8360	7/10/2012	provides all community members with access to books, computers, etc. and act as central point in the neighborhood
8361	7/10/2012	A teacher once said to me "First you learn to read - then you read to learn"! To be an educated and well rounded society we must have easy access to reading, media and technology at all ages.
8362	7/10/2012	I am using the library more than ever and enjoying the dept of its resources.
8363	7/10/2012	Libraries offer all of us the chance to learn, grow, meet, and interact.

8364	7/10/2012	Our family uses our local library branch often because we all love to read and we've been enjoying the extensive selection of dvd's available to check out. We don't watch tv regularly so don't subscribe to cable programs; we have been able to access A&E productions and the whole range of BBC dramas not always broadcast in the U.S. Vibrant libraries create a vibrant community and vice versa. My daughter has participated in the summer reading program for years and likes connecting with other students her age through writing competitions sponsored by the library system. As a very young child, she also used to enjoy being with other small children and listening to stories read aloud. Both my husband and I turn to the library for professional research occasionally and appreciate that our community at large is willing to support such a strong library system. I wish there were a solution to the indigents that hang out at the Central branch - I know everyone has a right to access our libraries but some of these people smell really bad!
8365	7/10/2012	Everyone has access and there is a broad diversity in types of service.
8366	7/10/2012	Everyone can use library services
8367	7/10/2012	Because I am very poor and couldn't afford to pay for the services otherwise.
8368	7/10/2012	Public access to information and education is one of the most important public services for our community.
8369	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy new books, music, and DVDs consistently, so I rely on the library for my media consumption. As a nanny, I frequent the library's programs for children and the kids I care for love them--these programs, including the summer reading program, have inspired an invaluable love of reading in the kids.
8370	7/10/2012	Reading is part of daily life. I could not afford to read such varied materials as I do without the library.
8371	7/10/2012	Because I love to read! Libraries are key for democratic access to information and learning. They are one of the last great socialist pillars of community and equality.
8372	7/10/2012	The Hollywood branch serves a major need on my part, to include assistance from a friendly, savvy staff!
8373	7/10/2012	Because it provides a numbers of services to the full array of the population. We have so little left in terms of government funded social supports in this country. We need libraries to continue to support the intellectual growth of the community.
8374	7/10/2012	Having a library as a resource is highly important. The library is a system that enables everyone to have access to all types of information. It broadens the mind, feeds the soul. There is no other feeling in the world like walking into a library and having access to all areas of knowledge. Walking into and using a library one absorbs centuries of brilliant works for various authors and feeds one into endless possibilities for the future.
8375	7/10/2012	They are very important because I have a young child who is learning to love reading and exploring books. He is so excited to go to the library!

8376	7/10/2012	Our family uses the library at least weekly, and rely on it for low-to-no cost entertainment, education and enrichment for ages 3-38. It's always a fun outing for everyone, and without this resource, our family would be worse off. The decreased hours have already impacted our use, sadly.
8377	7/10/2012	I like having FREE access to books, DVD's, newspapers & magazines and also the free limited computer use.
8378	7/10/2012	Our country's literacy/educational status is abysmal for a developed nation. We need to do everything we can to make it easy for people of all income levels to access information. Local libraries are also a community-building asset. I think a sense of community and community pride is important in deterring crimes and other social issues.
8379	7/10/2012	Because of the community services they provide, especially in helping to keep our youth literate and have an appreciation for our spoken and written language.
8380	7/10/2012	I value self improvement and curiosity. The library is a great resource for a curious mind.
8381	7/10/2012	They are important for me personally to be able to access books at no cost. I read books for pleasure and study and as part of a book club. I also check out how to books to teach myself computer skills so I can be more marketable in the workplace. I believe that libraries are fundamental for an educated, equitable democracy!
8382	7/10/2012	Because of what they provide to EVERYONE.
8383	7/10/2012	It's very important to me because the library is a place in which I can simply walk in and get what I need in a very friendly environment. Not all public services put me at such a level of ease and comfort.
8384	7/10/2012	I think that reading is a vital part to life. It lets people learn about other parts of the world, as well as providing recreational activities for young kids and teenagers. It provides them with an activity to keep them entertained and help them through out their schooling.
8385	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and access the computer and use some of the other available materials. The library is a calm, quiet place and the staff and other patrons are friendly. It is its own community.
8386	7/10/2012	In a modern, civilized society, library services are critical to provide free access to books, computers, etc. for those that can't afford it. As the gap between those that have too much, and those that have less and less, grows, these services are all the more critical. An educated society is a strong one.
8387	7/10/2012	It is the only place where I can borrow books for myself and my children, obtain media and not have to pay for them and they are institutions of knowledge that I want my children to understand and appreciate.
8388	7/10/2012	They are not emergency services, but they are quality of life.
8389	7/10/2012	It's the heart of community. It has a tremendous impact on my children's interest in reading.
8390	7/10/2012	I've worked for the Los Angeles County library system. When they have closed or reduced hours and days it affects the community.

8391	7/10/2012	Public services serve their own individual clients or types of clients. Everyone can use the library. There is no qualifying standard.
8392	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge is vital to a community, particularly those who don't have other means of access.
8393	7/10/2012	Information, quiet place to study,
8394	7/10/2012	They provide educational materials for the community along with programs that enrich the minds of our young people.
8395	7/10/2012	I don't use the actual library building that much, but I know many people who do and the only way they can get books to read is through the library. They depend on the library almost exclusively for their books.
8396	7/10/2012	Knowledge and reading are two of my top priorities. The local library services are very important because: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Children can have access to the library and learn many things starting at a very short age. - If children and young people are accustomed to use the library, they will be good students and better-educated persons.
8397	7/10/2012	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Our country needs educated people, and education start using the library at a short age - The more education and knowledge you have, the more freedom you get - Library services contribute to improve our spiritual live by providing us a huge amount of art materials. - In the future, The United States of America should be the world leader in technology and economy, and we need to support any action that tends to accomplish those goals for the benefits of generations to come. Supporting the library is an important action.
8398	7/10/2012	Knowledge, and access to it, are vital.
8399	7/10/2012	Free access to reading materials and other programs is an essential aspect of a functioning city.
8400	7/10/2012	I believe access to knowledge and learning is a cornerstone of an enriching society.
8401	7/10/2012	availability of reading books to me, a retired person.
8402	7/10/2012	I use the library often.
8403	7/10/2012	Literacy--which libraries encourage in many ways--is necessary to ensure an aware population that will vote based on adequate critical thinking and information.
8404	7/10/2012	police, fire, streets and other basic services need to be first. Libraries are very important but basic needs must be met first.
8405	7/10/2012	A great resource for education, research, job search and enrichment/entertainment.
8406	7/10/2012	The library is a staple in any community--a place where fun and learning take place. They are abundant resources and are no less needed than our parks. They provide access to books and media material that might not otherwise be available.

8407	7/10/2012	The future of our democracy depends on educated, well read, free thinkers. I respect Portland Police, I love Portland Fire and water sewer etc....but libraries have to be there.
8408	7/10/2012	Library services are important to a well educated community. Unfortunately there are many other services, that are essential to health and safety.
8409	7/10/2012	I have been chronically-ill for 15 years. During the worst times of my illness, I used the library services to pull me out of a funk, teach me, entertain me, get me out of the house, be a link when I could not get out of the house, & in many ways, save my life.
8410	7/10/2012	we need an educated population and libraries are a part of that education
8411	7/10/2012	They are a source of information.
8412	7/10/2012	The resources they provide, especially as things get more and more expensive it is great to have a good efficient library so we can borrow new materials and have services for kids, seniors and job seekers.
8413	7/10/2012	like to read, keep people education, keeps them off the streets
8414	7/10/2012	As a teacher I use the library to collect resources on a regular basis. The materials provided by Multnomah County Library are far superior to the ones at the school where I teach.
8415	7/10/2012	its something i use at least once a week for various reasons. access to information is very important
8416	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a service people cannot do on their own.
8417	7/10/2012	Provide opportunities to those who may not have other means to fulfill that opportunity.
8418	7/10/2012	I feel that the library is useful to everyone. Even if I don't use it to the fullest extent that I can, I know many others who do use it for computer time, keep up on current events, and read books, watch movies, or listen to music. The library was the place I would go to study or peruse new books when I was a child, so it was very much part of the experiences of my youth through college years.
8419	7/10/2012	Very important resource when I've had projects or wanted to know about new hobbies or needed a computer to print to when my home computer wasn't working or check out CDs and DVDs or books to read
8420	7/10/2012	Library services are important because more people would come there often.
8421	7/10/2012	The foundation of a free and democratic society depends upon the free exchange of information and ideas, as well as community hubs for thinking learning debate support exploration and play.
8422	7/10/2012	The library provides innumerable resources for the community. We are so fortunate to live in such a literate city such as Portland with access to such a comprehensive library system. Growing up my Mom was not wealthy raising two children, but our weekly trips to the library were a defining tradition of my childhood. I can say with certainty that access to a great library system helped shape who I am today. Enrolled in the dual MD/PhD program at OHSU with an undergraduate degree in Chemical Engineering, the local (Eugene, OR) library gave me a great headstart and sparked my lifelong love of reading, learning and libraries.

8423	7/10/2012	Portland should be proud to have the most-used library system in the U.S.; it says a lot about the value we place on education and general self-improvement. I have two school-age children, and they love to go to the library with me, and they love to read. I am so grateful for the free resources available. As a prolific reader, I have discovered some of my favorite books on the "recommended" shelf. The library represents the bounty of culture we are so fortunate to enjoy; I can't imagine my life without it.
8424	7/10/2012	I've used libraries all my life, I'm 62. I can remember my mom taking me to children's reading and sharing programs. I've used libraries for meeting and study rooms and places of solitude. Libraries are community enhancements like parks. But as important as that is, it is still below police, fire, schools, water, sewer and other community essentials that vie for our tax dollars.
8425	7/10/2012	Libraries are a source of knowledge that is available to anyone who wants it. Many cannot afford to buy books, and many don't want to pay the money when they can go check them out for free. They also provide reading programs to children who need it, who may not have the support they need at home. They provide students a quiet place to do homework with access to the internet for research purposes. Libraries are such a good source of information and knowledge and we need that in our society. If libraries disappear, then our sources are TV and the internet, and most people don't know how to properly filter the information they receive from these sources.
8426	7/10/2012	I had to choose somewhat important because you have to put it into context even though I think libraries are very important. But other services are crucial too - schools, parks and recreation, roads, fire, police, health department, garbage, street cleaning - so even though I think libraries are very important, in the context of budget cuts and the economy, they are an area that can be streamlined too when other crucial services are being asked to streamline.
8427	7/10/2012	High intrinsic value
8428	7/10/2012	Information technology is getting set aside in the public schools. We need to be a literate society and not all of us have access to the resources we need to do so. Our library system provides access to all.
8429	7/10/2012	Reading and research materials need to be accessible to all regardless of someone's income. Libraries are a way of keeping people in touch with the world and other people. Reading is a very necessary skill and libraries help promote this in the community.
8430	7/10/2012	The library is not only a source of books, but of important information. I want my daughter to know how to access both information and services. The library gives me access to things I don't even know about! It's awesome! Also, my neighbors (and many others, I suspect) do not have access to a good computer, fax, copy machine, etc, and the library is an excellent source. They are looking for jobs and the library has been very helpful.

8431	7/10/2012	I like being able to use the local library...I do not have a problem working around the hours that are now available. The internet makes everything easy to obtain, even if there is a price. Higher taxes are also a price to pay and I'm not sure I'm willing to pay more taxes. We are already being taxed to death in Oregon.
8432	7/10/2012	I use online a lot but want to know I'm part of a literary, educated population that cares about access to knowledge and freedom of information. Libraries are places of discovery for children and people of all ages.
8433	7/10/2012	We are avid readers (4 of us) and would spend a fortune on books if we had to purchase every one that we read. We also like to come to the library for study, to change the environment (brain studies show this is good for greater retention). When it is very hot out (love the A.C.) the library is much cooler than our house and during the long dreary winters we like to go to the library to get out and mingle with people. We also use the meeting rooms from time to time.
8434	7/10/2012	Please see my answer to the previous question.
8435	7/10/2012	very important
8436	7/10/2012	this is the only place my kids can go for free that is safe and educational in the summer. without it, they are often stuck at home
8437	7/10/2012	Education is important.
8438	7/10/2012	I am a teacher: I could not do my job without the public library. I am also a person, and my quality of life would be damaged greatly without the public library.
8439	7/10/2012	The. Resources
8440	7/10/2012	The library provides a service and fills a need that no other local public services do-they are an important partner to education which needs the library support. they are important places for children and seniors (a safe and predictable place that encourages reading and learning and seeing neighbors),and they support an historic heritage at a time wher many bookstores are closing.
8441	7/10/2012	for me and in my own personal opinion, the use of books have a different impact in the education level and the knowledge of a reader compared to that of reading it through internet. the interest level and the focus level of a person reading a book and inside the library gives a uplifting spirit.
8442	7/10/2012	i use the library every week to find books about my interests.....the next page is not working correctly...!!

8443	7/10/2012	Access to books and media encourages people to learn, broaden their experience (albeit vicariously), and provides research material. Cannot definitively rank this without knowing which public services are referenced in this question, Would like to think that an inexpensive form of entertainment would be found at the library; I have observed that the working poor do not realize this--the payoff from reading is far greater than the payoff from television or movies, video games, and other online pastimes, which do not encourage human interaction. It seems to me that a function of the County is to encourage community investment in human capital, for example encouraging library use, but I have observed that the people who would benefit most do not see a value in the library offerings.
8444	7/10/2012	They offer a community center for everyone that's free and safe and lets you borrow free material.
8445	7/10/2012	Free programs and books and entertainment. My entire family (including the 4 year old and 18 month old) loves the library & our librarians.
8446	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the key to our society's security.
8447	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a service that would be unaffordable to many people of all ages. The service is critical.
8448	7/10/2012	Reading is essential. Books should be in the hands of every baby, every child. If we limit access, there is a huge trickling effect. Knowledge is power.
8449	7/10/2012	Only thing I rank above is Police/Fire services, and schools. Libraries are important to me personally because they are my primary connection to the community, and an important resource for providing enrichment to myself and my son. Aside from being a place to check out books, they provide a lot of tertiary services that are incredibly useful and rarely available anywhere else.
8450	7/10/2012	It helps people to continue growing by reading, using internet access and learning other skills.
8451	7/10/2012	Nice for the community as a whole, but not as important as Police, Fire, utilities, etc.
8452	7/10/2012	Able to entertain and educate myself with free materials. Seniors on fixed income need this service.
8453	7/10/2012	They are (like parks and public transit) an unmitigated, (small d) democratic, public good. I would not be where I am today, with a graduate degree and a good job, without the access to books and resources I had at the public library when I was a child. It's purely anecdotal, I realize, but for me the library helped propel me out of the poverty with which my family was stricken.
8454	7/10/2012	Using Maslow's hierarchy of needs, I'd have to say utilities and services that provide for our basic needs are the most important, like water, sewage, maintaining the roads, etc. But as soon as we get into our psychological, intellectual, and spiritual welfare as a community, I think our local library services are very important for that.
8455	7/10/2012	They can teach how to study by yourself. that is very important.
8456	7/10/2012	Required for a working democracy.
8457	7/10/2012	They provide an information, learning, and entertainment resource for my family and I. It is also a community gathering place which is free and welcoming.

8458	7/10/2012	an important source for information
8459	7/10/2012	They provide access for the community to resources and knowledge we might not otherwise attain.
8460	7/10/2012	Because it saves me money that I would have to spend to buy books or rent videos.
8461	7/10/2012	Having information available in a variety of forms helps to build a knowledgeable citizenry and being able to borrow, rather than buy, reduces the demand on natural resources.
8462	7/10/2012	As I stated earlier I see our basic freedom of speech closely connected to the freedom of access of any and all materials for the continued education of the population. It is all about exposure to information. Library services are also an economical issue for me, as I will not buy a book that I can check out from the library.
8463	7/10/2012	The library is a great place to learn, meet up with people, and enjoy life.
8464	7/10/2012	I use it frequently and as a senior it is a good place to go an read, relax
8465	7/10/2012	Manypeople can't afford the services provided or buy new books
8466	7/10/2012	Extremely important. Libraries let me access a wealth of different materials that I can't normally access. It is also extremely imperative for my job search. I don't own a printer and go to the library to use the computers and print out resumes and such.
8467	7/10/2012	I think people need to have access to the computers, the books and magazines.
8468	7/10/2012	I personally have access to information through personal computer, ability to purchase books, etc but believe a good public library is important for a civilized society to encourage a level playing field for all,
8469	7/10/2012	Access to information is increasingly important in our society. Without libraries, that access will be increasingly dependent on one's income level, thus widening the gap between rich and poor and making it harder for poor and middle class to improve their situation.
8470	7/10/2012	The library has a unique role in cultivating community based on the exchange of ideas. Free public libraries are critical for an equitable and inclusive community.
8471	7/10/2012	My husband and I rely on the library for all our reading material. We don't purchase books - we check them out from the library. We also rely on the library for dvds to enjoy at home, as well as music cds. The library is also a great source for specific research related to travel, knitting and sewing, gardening, cooking, fitness, political topics. [] [] The Hollywood library allows us to enjoy all these things and still manage to stay within our financial means.
8472	7/10/2012	The library is not only a resource for people but something so much more....one could say a spiritual element. Its not only the repository of human knowledge but in essence the idea of what it means to be human.
8473	7/10/2012	This is a poorly written statement w/ no comparison or naming of "other local public services. Am I to compare the library to a bus, or sewer system? Really folks.
8474	7/10/2012	I go to the Library every week! I love the library.

8475	7/10/2012	Equals the playing field to some degree for people of lower incomes.
8476	7/10/2012	School funding is more important, key social services as well
8477	7/10/2012	They provide access to a lot of material that would otherwise be A) very expensive, B) hard to find, as well as access to community programs that would otherwise not be doable for a lot of people. Schools and universities and learning among generations would be lacking without the resources the library provides!
8478	7/10/2012	Libraries are a resource for a broad spectrum of citizens, for the reasons listed above. As a resident of Multnomah County, I want my neighbors to have access to the resources the library offers. Reading is essential for children and of great importance to adults.
8479	7/10/2012	VERY Important. I do not know if I would have passed many of my PCC classes without the comfortable place to study.
8480	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge extremely important. Not everyone can afford or access books any other way.
8481	7/10/2012	The library provides me with an endless amount of entertainment! I check out books, books on CD, and DVDs. And I love having all those wonderful items at my fingertips!
8482	7/10/2012	My kids are both active readers and check a lot of material out from the library. Also, the Internet has replaced some of the core functionality of libraries but still only works well for research when people are already grounded in the basic concepts found at a library; and not everyone is as fortunate as I am in having constant access to the Internet, either.
8483	7/10/2012	In a democratic society all people need to have access to information in order to make informed decisions. Libraries provide access to information for those who cannot afford internet access or are more comfortable with print. Further, the staff needs to be allowed to work full time jobs to become good librarians since they now need to deal with information in many forms. With the vast amount of research tools available having someone to direct people to the information is essential. Access and teaching people the way to access information is very important in keeping democracy from becoming simply what the easiest available media sources want.
8484	7/10/2012	It seems that the vast majority of my state and local taxes go toward supporting the needs of 'others' with no direct benefit to me. The library is something that I can personally use and appreciate. "Local public services" means to me street lights, fire dept., police dept., street cleaning..... []
8485	7/10/2012	The library provides information, entertainment, help to find employment, research of all kinds. Maybe we take these for granted; that is dangerous.
8486	7/10/2012	Reading is good and should be encouraged, but virtue lies in balancing ALL public services and not making an idol about any one of them.

8487	7/10/2012	Because its someplace to go where its quiet and it provides a since of security while your there reading or teaching you kids about reading. Nothing more important for anyone to learn besides reading. Number 1#
8488	7/10/2012	free dissemination of information to all citizens.
8489	7/10/2012	They provide a low-cost tool for parents, students, and everyone else who needs to research, read, or learn.
8490	7/10/2012	I am an educator and grew up working class. Families who can't afford books and computers shouldn't be left behind, and everyone deserves access to information if they want it.
8491	7/10/2012	There are other public services such as police and fire that are the most important.
8492	7/10/2012	I like to read but can find material other ways.
8493	7/10/2012	A great resource for all people regardless of age
8494	7/10/2012	I use the library ALL the time, to get books, dvds, cds, magazines, newspapers and occasionally use the internet I am VERY disappointed that we can no longer take old magazines out. WHY NOT??
8495	7/10/2012	A library is a community resource that allows people who don't have a lot of money to access reading materials and internet service. It makes sense to have books, magazines and other media as a shared resource, rather than assuming each person will buy their own.
8496	7/10/2012	I have no other way to access the microfilm library at OSU to read those old, no longer published, newspapers. Those old newspapers are a very important source for discovering local history and local political events from our early days.
8497	7/10/2012	Our family of four has 6 library cards (2 of which are educator cards). My husband and I are teachers in the Portland Metro area. We are constantly using databases for research, recommended booklists for our Talented and Gifted Children who need to be constantly challenged, and putting holds daily on materials for teaching and for our two school aged children. We are avid readers and are constantly looking for other materials for pleasure. We can walk or bike to our local Belmont branch and it is a source of pleasure for our kids to browse the shelves there. The website is the best and we use it almost daily!
8498	7/10/2012	When I was in graduate school, I had access to many current articles that required paid subscriptions for access; after I graduated, further reading and developments were not as easily accessible. Libraries fill this gap in information. Staff is also incredibly well versed in research options and tools for information, and computers simply have not caught up to the level of human to human communication for suggestions in research materials or avenues.
8499	7/10/2012	Reading is one of my greatest pleasures. My eye sight is not very good so I make use off large print books that are only available in the library.
8500	7/10/2012	I use library materials everyday and I visit either online or the brick and mortar at least once a week.

		Speaking personally, I do not have disposable income at a level that would enable me to read the variety of books or see the educational and hard to find films that enrich my life tremendously. I simply would not be able to buy the number of books I read and DVDs I watch. Without a library, I would not be able to learn about the variety of things I love to "dip" into -- geography, history, biography, much less fiction, which I love. I have been an avid reader since age 3 (thank you, Dr. Seuss!) and am now in my fifties. I am not at poverty level by any means, but books are expensive!! []
8501	7/10/2012	If I, a lifelong reader with a Masters degree, am able to get as much enrichment and value from the library as I do, I certainly know that there are those less educated and with even less disposable income, particularly children and teens, who just would not be reading at all if the library were not available. A love of books has to be cultivated, and it can't be cultivated well (in my opinion) unless a very wide variety of books from different time periods and subjects is freely available for browsing and in-depth reading. [] []
		I also know that not everyone can pay for Internet use at home, and offering Internet access to the public is a very important service. We live in an incredible rich and diverse world, and the avenues to learning about it must be open to everyone, not become an elite privilege that only the well-off can access.
8502	7/10/2012	In brief: they are "opt-in." Public schooling, for those of us who cannot afford private schools, is not an option (mandatory) but is built around the average: students outside the Bell Curve (developmentally delayed or too smart for institutional school) fall short.[] []
		Libraries were how I and my wife educated ourselves outside of public school, by personal choice. This is ideal, and again, not mandatory: it's mainly for people and their children who fall outside "the norm."
8503	7/10/2012	it's one of the only public services we use
8504	7/10/2012	I appreciate the library probably more than any other public service. I really appreciate the vast inventory and feel so lucky to live in Multnomah county, despite the high property taxes!
8505	7/10/2012	Selfishly, it is the public service I use the most, and that is why it is most important to me.
8506	7/10/2012	Libraries make me feel connected. They offer the world, and they allow me to bring that world into my home. Yes, computers are wonderful, but they are not the same as libraries.
8507	7/10/2012	Because I rarely buy books and never buy movies. I depend on my library for all of my reading material as well as movies and some CD's.[] I also feel the library is very important to the community, from the young to the old. Everyone takes advantage of the services offered. I remember weekly trips to the library when I was a child and the thrill of taking books out.
8508	7/10/2012	Have relied on and benefited from library resources all my life
8509	7/10/2012	Important for literacy of community & thus to all citizens for an educated population.
8510	7/10/2012	I am a low income person who loves books and reading and dvds and watching. These materials often make life worth living.

8511	7/10/2012	Because they are available to most everyone; they promote knowledge (knowledge is power). There are many of us that need the computer as we don't have access otherwise.[] E-books for those who can't read as well in old age.[]
8512	7/10/2012	Children need reading programs in order to become literate.[] Seniors need to read to keep from getting alzheimers.[] Education through research and reading is very important at all age levels.
8513	7/10/2012	Libraries are important to me because I can obtain information from there and be able to reliably evaluate the source. I use wikipedia with gratitude, but if I really need to do in-depth research, give me a print source from a respected publisher. Accessibility to textbooks that are too expensive to rent or purchase (for continuing education or general knowledge). Accessibility to books that cannot be purchased easily or affordably. The online system of search/hold/pickup at local branch is dead simple, saves me gas or bus money, brings me a world of knowledge and "escape" practically right to my doorstep. I don't use the computers but I see tons of people in my local branch that do - which is fantastic for folks who don't have/can't afford a computer for communication or learning.
8514	7/10/2012
8515	7/10/2012	perhaps b/c i use the library so often. i was thrilled when i moved to portland, went in to the library, & was issued a card immediately. back home in indiana, the library card issue process felt like i was requesting a mortgage. The resources provided by well funded and staffed libraries fill a necessary gap in community services that aren't provided anywhere else, private or public. The various services are expansive and various and full a multitude of needs literacy, research services and resources, job and career educations and assistance, interlibrary loans for materials that are outside the budget of the library system, or are so rare as to be impractical for the library to have available locally, education resources on a multitude of levels, resources for business activities, children literacy activities, outreach for citizens who are unable to physically visit a branch, and a whole host of other resources. Where else can all these services be gathered and made available to the public? Libraries, by their very definition, are created and used by and for the people - a vital piece of community infrastructure. (And no, I don't work for the library or any other library system I'm just someone who sees how valuable their services are.)
8516	7/10/2012
8517	7/10/2012	Local libraries are not as important as police and fire protection and potable drinking water. However, local library taxpayer benefits vs taxpayer costs is a real bargain.
8518	7/10/2012	Access to information is critical.
8519	7/10/2012	Without books and reading material, human culture and civilization would die.
8520	7/10/2012	I love to read, and it's important to me that my children love reading, too. Nothing makes them more excited about reading than a trip to the library, where they can pick out any book they want and it doesn't cost us anything. I think it's important that books be a free community resource.
8521	7/10/2012	Because I like to read!

8522	7/10/2012	Another avenue for learning. Enhances the community not unlike a park
8523	7/10/2012	to stay in touch
8524	7/10/2012	I love to read.
8525	7/10/2012	Number 3 after Police and Fire Protection
8526	7/10/2012	An educated populace is our very best and most important resource.
8527	7/10/2012	Information is important to the full function of a citizen. Books and media are an important source of that information
8528	7/10/2012	Local libraries support literacy in our community. They give underprivileged families an opportunity to read and explore books.
8529	7/10/2012	Libraries figured significantly in my personal growth, as well as the intellectual growth of my children.
8530	7/10/2012	As an elementary teacher, I am constantly accessing the library to improve my classroom program. As a citizen, it seems to me that libraries are one of the last places of true community. As a lifelong learner, libraries supply me with material to inform and entertain me!
8531	7/10/2012	i cant afford to buy books and other media, so the library is invaluable to me. i am also very aware of how my friends and neighbors also rely on it.
8532	7/10/2012	Reading is a quest for knowledge
8533	7/10/2012	Highest value, along with public roads, utilities, bridges, health care.
8534	7/10/2012	I only use it when my computer breaks down.
8535	7/10/2012	Because I believe that do a good job of changing with the times - library to go, freegal, the hold system, online access to resources. All methods of distributing information with reduced labor and infrastructure costs. [] [] My interest is more in stable funding than the level of funding. I'm not sure why the library district should be more expensive than the full funding levy.
8536	7/10/2012	I use the library for research for my job quite a bit - without it, I could not do many of the things I need to do.
8537	7/10/2012	Free reading materials should be available to every person. Not everyone can afford to purchase books.
8538	7/10/2012	The library is a wonderful resource for our community.
8539	7/10/2012	They're apples and oranges, you can't get a book out of a park.
8540	7/10/2012	As a constant source of new material and information.
8541	7/10/2012	The mind matters, and access to quality information and for many people their only access to the internet is crucial.
8542	7/10/2012	We read all the time and the library saves us thousands of dollars a month in books and other media we don't have to buy.

8543	7/10/2012	I am a life-long reader and learner and value the resources of the library. The library is also important for its role in improving literacy and language skills. It serves as a community meeting place and basically is one of the most important hubs in my neighborhood.
8544	7/10/2012	Access to free learning! Media that both entertains & educates about all facets of life! Computers & printers that keep people connected & help projects come to fruition.
8545	7/10/2012	Libraries provide education, access to information, and cultural and social contentment. I could never buy the books and DVDs that I get from the library.
8546	7/10/2012	Because I think all citizens in the community need access to information and ideas found in books and via the internet without having to own books or computers. I think the openness to all is important.
8547	7/10/2012	Reading and learning are fundamental human rights. Their importance to every other aspect of our lives as individuals, as a community, and as US and world citizens is incalculable.
8548	7/10/2012	1. we use the library more often than any other discretionary public good (counting community centers and parks. and excluding schools, transportation infrastructure, etc.) 2. libraries support and encourage literacy at every stage of life, which we value deeply 3. libraries are still the greatest repositories of knowledge that we have, and so serve an indispensable pedagogical and cultural function
8549	7/10/2012	So I can get free books
8550	7/10/2012	It's more important to live within the means. If the budget only allows so much, people can adapt to use library on a limited basis.
8551	7/10/2012	I don't use the library that often, but that's because I have other resources available to me. I have a lot of clients (I'm a therapist) who don't have many resources, and they use the library extensively for computer access, job search, education, children's and seniors' programs, and entertainment.
8552	7/10/2012	I think the public safety and parks programs are most important. But I really value not having to buy as many books as am able to read with the library. When I have not had access to a computer, even 1 hr/day has been a life saver.
8553	7/10/2012	reference
8555	7/10/2012	To help fulfill an education void. Everyone should have access to tools to help them learn and grow.
8556	7/10/2012	Libraries are a resource for any person, regardless of their economic status.
8557	7/10/2012	While I don't have children I do believe in children's education programs in public libraries. They were a great impact on me and when I do have kids, I hope the programs are still around.

8558	7/10/2012	I'm lucky enough to have access to the internet at home which provides a lot of resources (even an additional connection to the library), but other people depend on libraries for these resources.
8559	7/10/2012	Libraries provide resource specialists to assist me when I need help finding, or more likely searching for specific information. They provide music, movies, books of all varieties, research materials and help in finding all of these things. and its FREE! That is a huge value.
8560	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy every book I want to read. I don't spend any time in the library; I simply go there to get books I've reserved on line and to return them. I don't need the library (or all of its branches) to be open every day.
8561	7/10/2012	I like the idea of having our tax money going to something that not only helps the community and me personally by providing us with a chance to loan books, CDs, DVDs, ebooks, etc., and also get help from the librarians about topics that I might be interested instead of buying books that I don't really want to own. It's also great to have a chance to see our youth having a place to go when they need a book. Livraries give them an opportunity to explore the world without physically leaving the state.
8562	7/10/2012	libraries are open to everyone regardless of what your economic status is.
8563	7/10/2012	I am a heavy user of books and media but I do not like to own "stuff" or waste resources. The concept of a library, which is a community sharing resources is fundamental to me. However, community infrastructure such as streets and safety do need to come first, or we don't have a community to share with.
8564	7/10/2012	Equal access to information is one of the requirements for functional democracy, and libraries provide that.
8565	7/10/2012	I use them to research for school, to print out assignments (as I do not have a printer at home), to check out books, and to participate in classes. Libraries are a big resource in many peoples' lives.
8566	7/10/2012	I think a solid library system conveys a sense of culture, literacy, and stability in and about a community. Not only does it serve the citizens, it is a marketing tool for a city. Who wants to live in a city without a library??
8567	7/10/2012	Education is the key to bettering your life.
8568	7/10/2012	Personally, I could not afford my own reading habits if I had to purchase books. From my observations, libraries have great value to others for computer access and programs. I believe all encouragement re reading and learning and research to be extremely important for individuals and communities. As it has been said, if you think education is expensive, try ignorance. We cannot afford more ignorance than already flourishes.

8569	7/10/2012	What a poorly designed survey! Are you asking if I would rather have a library than a fire department? Or a police department? Or have public roads fixed, or sewers cleaned? Which "local public services" exactly do you want to compare libraries to? This is a spurious question, and a distraction from the real issue which is how much money do the property owners of Multnomah County think they can afford to allocate to libraries in terms of the other public services that also need funding. This is NOT an "importance" question, and because it is not, it is impossible to answer. Libraries are important [period]. I care that there are library services in the world, not just for me, but for others.
8570	7/10/2012	I am retired and have little income.
8571	7/10/2012	People need a variety of ways to educate and better themselves.
8572	7/10/2012	My children have been attending story time since my oldest was 1 month old. We use the library to help my children learn to appreciate books. We have made most of our neighborhood friendships from the other moms that I met at the library, which has connected us to the community.
8573	7/10/2012	I don't believe they are quite as important as necessities like emergency services and infrastructure. But I do believe that the library is a key part of keeping the community intelligent and moving forward.
8574	7/10/2012	Being able to research things and find reputable sources (ie not blogs), is important to stay well informed of the world.
8575	7/10/2012	Supporting and encouraging an educated community is a critical part of public services.
8576	7/10/2012	Libraries help people learn. Librarians provide a level of service in learning that simply isn't available on the internet or conducted alone. Libraries are one of the best ways to get children excited about reading, whether through a library's wide selection of books, reading times, or friendly and knowledgeable staff. Libraries equal the playing field--allowing anyone, regardless of economic situation, the chance to learn and better themselves. Libraries provide a special venue where members of the community can gather and learn together.
8577	7/10/2012	Having access to a wide variety of information at the library is very important to me in order to learn and grow as a person. The wide variety of services available at the library make it a very important resource for people from all walks of life. I see the library as one of our great democratic institutions.

		Local library services are of critical importance to people of all economic levels. The availability of reading material helps keep our city literate. An illiterate person is an unemployed or underemployed person. That makes a stress on all other public services, health, food programs, energy, etc.[]
8578	7/10/2012	[] The research materials is also of critical importance to all people. They are needed for school, future schooling, employment just to name a few.[] [] I cannot think of one thing that is not important to me, and at a high level importance. It does seem, however, that staffing could be reconfigured and perhaps job descriptions adjusted.
8579	7/10/2012	Reading and books provide access to knowledge and the world.
8580	7/10/2012	I do not use the library as much as I would like to. Being a student in school makes it difficult for me to rent books from the library for the times that I need them. However I value the amount of information present in the Central Library and would like to expand my use of checking out books instead of buying used ones.
8581	7/10/2012	Without libraries I can't participate our democracy.
8582	7/10/2012	I love the library. I love to read and gain knowledge by reading. The results have enriched my life and continue to do so. If I had to live my life without a local library I would miss it so much!
8583	7/10/2012	i t c a n g i v e a q u i e t a r e a f o r m e a n d c h i l d r e n t o s t u d y a n d r e a d t h e b o o k s .
8584	7/10/2012	In a time of budget crisis the non essentials for safe survival should go before fire, police, and education.
8585	7/10/2012	It hits every need to make our community better: open and equal access, bootstrap opportunities for all income levels, education base...
8586	7/10/2012	Teachin literacy and importance of reading
8587	7/10/2012	i need the library because i am not rich and cannot afford to get educated institutionally or by any other means than reading books (and unpaid volunteer/internships). it is crucial to my well being.
8588	7/10/2012	Learning And " free" access to information all needed for a democracy to survive.
8589	7/10/2012	I would love to say very important because I do not use much of the other county services (health/social programs) but I would be selfish to put my need for books to be more important than someone's health care. Still libraries are important for all different types of people-- from seniors to small children. I believe our healthy library system in Multnomah county is what makes this a great place.
8590	7/10/2012	While the library servces are very important to me and to the community, I would not value them above police or fire or water or public transportation.

8591	7/10/2012	I like the access to ProQuest and ebooks and the physical book collection. In this day of the Internet, still not everything is available online as some think. Libraires provide access for free to us and that is important.
8592	7/10/2012	Access to books and music without having to purchase or pay for concerts make sure that everyone can learn and improve their quality of life via shared knowledge. This is of increasing importance in a society where people have less personal interaction and there are fewer "hands-on" learning opportunities.
8593	7/10/2012	Local libraries are vital to an informed citizenry, which in turn is vital to a liveable community. In addition to providing entertainment and learning options for those who otherwise may not be able to afford them, libraries can complement and enhance the services provided by other local public services. Citizens who are assisted by communiy health programs can visit a library to find books, journal articles, and internet resources related to their health issues. Citizens who receive unemployment benefits or other public assistance can visit a library to search for jobs, read trade publications to stay up on skills, and research new careers. Children who struggle in school can receive extra help and support from library staff, while the parents of those children can gain access to books that may help them help their child.
8594	7/10/2012	I do not understand compression--why not all taxes can be collected.Your closures and cutting back were a surprise to us after we had voted for the measure, based on good faith, because we have never even seen your budgets and expenditures. We need more information before we can answer the next questions about funding. I just tried to skip answering your next questions about prioritizing because I do not have enough information to answer and it would not let me proceed without answering. So now in order for you to see this message I have to basically lie on the next answers because I really do not know. This will also skew your statistics. Please be more forthright if you want funding in the future.

8596	7/10/2012	Most important to me, personally, because for 32 years I have been the volunteer Storylady at a Portland elementary school. The e-mail a librarian reference service is amazing. My annual themes have been greatly improved by the thoughtful, thorough responses I've received to all kinds of questions, and I know I can trust the research. And I'm able to reserve the new picture books by computer (and then grieve for the trees). When kids wonder something about a book or its author, the reference librarians can find contact information after I've given up. Kid know how important the library is to Storylady. Also, I feel safer knowing people in Portland have access to the services provided by our libraries. My son and daughter-in-law have been on a very tight budget, but the library has offered my granddaughter a wealth of enriching opportunities at no cost. And everyone is welcome.
8597	7/10/2012	They cost too much/ They need to get more volunteers instead of paying everyone that's there.
8598	7/10/2012	Access to unfettered and uncensored information is a cornerstone of our society. I'm thirsty for knowledge. I love learning about new interests that come to me & the library system is a beautiful way for me to get to know a lot about the world & the people in it. The books I find keep me sane in this crazy world. They each offer so much hope for my future as a maker.
8599	7/10/2012
8600	7/10/2012	Libraries are good places for youth to get plugged into civilization, job seekers to find information. I think they offer a lot to those who may not otherwise have access. They are important to kids and families with young kids. The internet service is excellent for recreational readers like myself. Although I would have as much access as I need without the library it is great to not have books piling up in my house, and great that they can be shared. Of all the "non-necessary" public services, I think libraries and parks are at the top of the list
8601	7/10/2012
8602	7/10/2012	I am a patron & although I don't use services for children or the elderly, those are terrific program that need to be continued. I'm always amazed by the wonderful services & staff at the library. This resource is essential for the entire community on many levels.
8603	7/10/2012	A government project that is free and beneficial to everyone is hard to find
8604	7/10/2012	I use them all the time!!
8605	7/10/2012	Because I use library materials on a daily basis in my personal and professional life.
8606	7/10/2012	I think public safety, police and fire safety come first. □ Schools and libraries are at about the same level of importance, and come next.
8607	7/10/2012	community builder, provide services to those who can't access them otherwise, broaden horizens
8608	7/10/2012	I use them regularly, highly value reading and can't afford to buy as many book as I read.
8609	7/10/2012	It is a good, reliable source for books and also a destination when our family needs an activity.
8610	7/10/2012	I have young kids and having access to many different kinds of books is invaluable. I also like that there are a number of Spanish childrens books.
8611	7/10/2012	I've lived all over the country and have used many library systems. I love that Multnomah County's actually has the books and media I'm looking for. I don't even mind paying my late fees, because I know they go for a good cause (and believe me, I rack up the late fees)

8612	7/10/2012	So I can encourage a love of reading in my kids and continue finding resources for my personal knowledge and enjoyment.
8613	7/10/2012	I rank them very highly because of their great educational possibilities, convenience, and community value, but not the highest because I feel that public health, police, and fire are more important.
8614	7/10/2012	Libraries have always been the place to retrieve information, summer reading...especially for school, however with the internet it is sad because kids now a days don't appreciate them.
8615	7/10/2012	Learning is fundamental
8616	7/10/2012	As a senior perso A N OPEN close byLIBRARY is very important
8617	7/10/2012	Libraries give people hope, a way to see and experience the world in a different way. More concretely, libraries educate, provide centralized resources to people in need of work and allow people to learn skills they need to function in the world. They are an important part of our democracy and a cornerstone of a healthy community.
8618	7/10/2012	The availability of free knowledge is an immensely important social factor. As a country, we go on and on about the American Dream and class mobility, but without libraries, the access to the kind of knowledge that fosters that could be hampered. Not everything that is published in books is conveniently available on the internet. The absence of the library would exacerbate the growing rift between those who can afford education and those who can't. Also, reading books is an excellent way to preserve mental health. Many people, myself included, can't afford to buy a book every time we want to read.
8619	7/10/2012	Books are now found online, I have more free internet access options outside of the library, I'm not in the target age range for library services.
8620	7/10/2012	they are the bedrock of civilization
8621	7/10/2012	I am a reader and the library is very important in my life
8622	7/10/2012	There are so many programs, or lack thereof, that it's tough to choose one most important cause.
8623	7/10/2012	Of course we need fire departments, police and those kinds of things. But more than anything people need a place to learn how to be those things
8624	7/10/2012	Having young children it is nice to have the book selection and programs available for entertainment and learning purposes. In times of economic hardship it is also very nice to borrow books/music instead of purchasing them.
8625	7/10/2012	Access to information that is of help to me.
8626	7/10/2012	library meets many needs for diverse populations.
8627	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great place for education for all people of all ages. It is important to have this resource available.
8628	7/10/2012	Books feed our mind, the minds of our children, and open us to the world and to our imaginations. They help create a tolerant and open-minded society.

8629	7/10/2012	Public libraries provide access to knowledge, internet for job seekers, and a place to be safe and learn. No society is able to function well without an educated populace; libraries are a great equalizer in terms of education and access to resources.
8630	7/10/2012	At the moment I am unemployed and using the library computers I am able to order medications online, and check doctors appointments. I am also able to check my e-mail accounts and do job searches through the Worksource website.
8631	7/10/2012	My escape from everyday living and the Library is a place to caught up on current events in a printed form,Music I can't seem to aford otherwise.A new Book By Clive Cussler, hot off the press with 21 days to read it.Or a download of something else.A magizine I never knew existed.
8632	7/10/2012	Libraries and librarians have made it possible for me to continue my education.[] Access to the research databases is invaluable, without them I would be forced[] to pay heavy online fees for some of those research articles.

		Free libraries are one of our most important national treasures. It levels the playing field between the rich and the poor, the educated and not so educated, and provides the invaluable opportunity to view current state of humanity and governmental affairs through access to our collective past.[]
		[]
		I think the biggest threat to our way of life is the erosion of our first amendment rights which is exceleating; yet, very few people take this threat seriously.[]
		[]
		Why? []
		[]
		Because the only "news" they get is via the local newspaper or TV. Both of which lull us to sleep with crime scenes, celebrity gossip or "down homey" feel good stories. []
		[]
8633	7/10/2012	That's nice and all, but newspapers used to be an avenue for political debate, holding politicians and community members accountable and raising alarm bells about national issues. []
		[]
		This is more frightening to me than "terrorists." []
		[]
		George Orwell's 1984 was supposedly fictional. If I hadn't read the book somewhere along the way, I wouldn't recognize that it was not fictional; it was an absolutely correct vision of what the future had in store for us, based on trends he clearly saw in his lifetime. []
		[]
		Our nation is at risk of being a nation of sheep that just go along with the crowd, down the road to our own enslavement to the narcotic of what is presently called "news." []
		[]
		That is why access to the truth must be protected. Libraries are the repositories of our collective knowledge. []

8634	7/10/2012	It's extremely important to keep an emphasis on our children and youth who may not have the opportunities available to purchase books. These children (and even babies) should continue to be our primary focus within the library.
8635	7/10/2012	Right now, I don't know how important that level is to us after you lied to us big time!
8636	7/10/2012	The library is one of the last public meeting spaces and I think an important part of the community
8637	7/10/2012	water, sewer and utilities come first. Then social services and then libraries.
8638	7/10/2012	They are important but certainly not as important as public safety or services to the aging and disabled.
8639	7/10/2012	Partly out of a personal commitment to libraries, but also because of a belief that information literacy is the most important leveler in the uneven society of the 21s century.

8640	7/10/2012	I appreciate the resource the library offers to me and others in the community. Personally, I find that I use Amazon, iTunes, and other Internet options more and more because they are more immediate and convenient than the library, but recognize this is not the case for all users and that the library is not just books and media.
8641	7/10/2012	Libraries are a place in the community of learning, togetherness, discussion, action. Reading changes lives, and having the library, a safe place of inspiration is key to the community.
8642	7/10/2012	Interest, Education. PC classes. A wonderful place to bring grandchildren.
8643	7/10/2012	I am a frequent library user, often more than once a week. I enjoy being able to stop by other branches when I am in another neighborhood. I enjoy the quiet and the small interactions with staff and other neighbors. Tri-met recently made cuts (& plans more) making it more difficult for me to get to the library and the library cutting back too makes me worry about accessibility. I also enjoy being able to reserve and renew materials online. I hope to make even more use of library services in the future including but not limited to computer classes and programs for seniors.
8644	7/10/2012	Libraries are very important to me.
8645	7/10/2012	A robust, well-patronized library is indicative of a well-informed and well-educated community.
8646	7/10/2012	We read library books every day and rely on a great library system.
8647	7/10/2012	I think that food, housing, education and medical care take priority over libraries.
8648	7/10/2012	They are very important, I use the electronic book program daily on my commute to and from work with my eReader. I love that the library allows me to check out electronic books for free.
8649	7/10/2012	My family and I are avid readers. We also check out movies and music. But I also think that education is the key to a better future for everyone and that libraries are an important factor in that.
8650	7/10/2012	I retired to Portland, and the main reason I chose to live here is the excellent library. This is why I came here. Number One priority for me as a retired person on limited income is LIBRARY.
8651	7/10/2012	Libraries are our great information equalizers - the only place people of all ages and backgrounds can find and freely use such a diversity of resources, along with the expert guidance of librarians.
8652	7/10/2012	Compared to fire and police, water and sewer, DHS, health care, etc., I cannot rank libraries at the highest level. Further, while I enjoy and value libraries, if they become only a place for internet connections, then the level of importance to me would substantially diminish.
8653	7/10/2012	Greatly improve the quality of life in our city environment. Libraries perform multiple functions in serving the entire community: being a safe place for children to be after-school, being a computer and internet resource for people without home access, providing enjoyment of books and media for free.
8654	7/10/2012	They're an invaluable resource for low income people. Having a quiet place to go and work is awesome, and internet access for poor people is too. Libraries do great things.
8655	7/10/2012	They are still a major source of knowledge.
8656	7/10/2012	Source of resources, education, community.

8657	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. Libraries are paramount to having a well-educated society. Education and knowledge should be available to all people, regardless of socioeconomic class. I am a working-class college student, and use the library to access books and resources for school. In addition, the library provides valuable services for people in need in the community. Our library is a resource that we must protect!
8658	7/10/2012	My parents are avid readers, and my dad was on the library board in my hometown, so I spent a lot of time at the library and reading growing up. I think my love of reading, and access to a diverse array of fantastic books, really helped me to succeed in college and in my career in communications and public relations.
8659	7/10/2012	The library is very important to me, especially in these trying economic times when it is hard for me to buy books. Although I know government services are short of funding because of these economic shortages, nevertheless, the problems in the economy make the library even more essential. The library more than pays for itself because it is an efficient way to share resources.
8660	7/10/2012	Library services increase sense of community, improve literacy, prevent isolation of seniors, improve educational capacity of at-risk youth, and help reduce unemployment. It would be difficult to overstate the number of lives that the library's services positively impact.
8661	7/10/2012	Public access to information is critical to a democracy
8662	7/10/2012	It makes all the networking I need to do possible... Thanks!
8663	7/10/2012	I think reading is vital to our educated citizenry.
8664	7/10/2012	There are probably other services that I would deem more important than library services, like fire and police; but I think it is important to have resources and books available for general public use.
8665	7/10/2012	Education, programs, books for all, a community gathering place.
8666	7/10/2012	education is a way out of poverty for some, and a way out of abusive or discriminatory behavior for others. education is at the root of a civilized society.[] america's education system is deteriorating. people/students need to be able to study on their own if the school system is failing them
8667	7/10/2012	Libraries provide the fundamental infrastructure for self improvement and learning. Without them, it becomes less equitable and incrementally more difficult to train for a job, find a job, and relax with low cost resources when the job day is over.
8668	7/10/2012	Libraries help connect people with the resources they need.
8669	7/10/2012	I have a child with reading difficulties, and having a children's librarian like Nina makes all the difference.

		reading and a love of books is fundamental! [] everything the libraries offer is amazing. families with no extra income have a chance to experience a puppet show, live music, a craft or an art show....[]
8670	7/10/2012	people without homes have a chance to read a newspaper and just get out of the cold/heat for a few hours (of course while reading a good book!) [] people can come and speak their language with people who speak the same language...or practice english or another language...[] the list is endless.
8671	7/10/2012	For many this is the only resource for information, education, job resources, and so many other important aspects in one's life. The libraries have always been valued and will continue to be so to all thinking people in the community.
8672	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time for research as I change careers. I have numerous books about my new career, as well as other general business books, and they have helped me learn an immense amount. The library provides free education, information, and inspiration to all. The library plays an integral part in my continued self-education.
8673	7/10/2012	if people can read, educate themselves through reading, afford to buy books the culture collapses over time. If we don't have funds to build a new bridge or highway, society may be inconvenienced, but it is not a disaster. How can people make good choices without materials?
8674	7/10/2012	Library services are vital to the Portland community.
8675	7/10/2012	Reading and availability of information to all is of critical importance to maintain an educated and productive society. Physical libraries--and books!--are very very important. I enjoy an e-reader now and again for certain times (and it's nice to see the library expanding their offering in that way) but physical libraries and physical books should forever remain and be supported. Babies aren't born with e-reading skills. They learn to love reading and are exposed to so many things through physical books and libraries. Supporting our library system is very important to me!
8676	7/10/2012	libraries help enlighten and educate. all people are welcome, regardless of income.
8677	7/10/2012	I spent most of my young life in libraries, they are universally enjoyed from the youngest to the oldest person and I don't believe funding should be cut from them. They are essential for lower income families who may not have access to computers or enough money to buy books. Libraries also provide so much more than books, they offer programs for every kind of person and if libraries were to disappear people would suffer as well.
8678	7/10/2012	We can live without libraries, but our quality of life would suffer.

8679	7/10/2012	I grew up with easy and plentiful books and I love them. The bookmobile came once a week, and I was there every week, seeking out new adventures. I had a library card at a very young age, and I used it. Children and adults should be encouraged in every way to explore their world through books and to challenge their imaginations. I question the need for computer access--it's all over the place anyway. I question the access to smut and porn--there is too much on TV already. Special programs in the libraries are unnecessary and undoubtedly costly. The funds should be used for the core competencies of the library.
8680	7/10/2012	Convenience and financial necessity - I could not pay for all the books that I read and listen too without going broke. I am usually reading 2 or more fiction or nonfiction books at any given time.
8681	7/10/2012	Because literacy and access to information is one of the best ways to ensure a true democracy.
8682	7/10/2012	We live on a limited budget so the library serves many different needs for us. Without the library we would not have access to any books or movies and many activities.
8683	7/10/2012	Literacy and awareness are key to a successful, harmonious community.
8684	7/10/2012	Having access to books, research and for some other people is very important
8685	7/10/2012	Reading is part of our everyday life - but not many people could afford to buy all the books that they read. The library provides a fantastic service to make sure that all members of a community have access to knowledge regardless of income level.
8686	7/10/2012	While library services are important, they are not more important than other things that will be on the ballot for funding this year.
8687	7/10/2012	I go to the Library to check-out books, conduct research, and sometimes to find a quiet place to work where resources I may need are at my fingertips. It is crucial that we maintain a source of information for the public other than the internet.
8688	7/10/2012	Access to free information is crucial to our society. Informed citizens are more active, more responsible, and more engaged. Libraries are filled with hope, ideas, and have saved many a life.
8689	7/10/2012	Safety first.....
8690	7/10/2012	I rated local library services as very important because they serve all ages and provide services for all ages--especially people who need access to computers to find employment.
8691	7/10/2012	Audio books to amuse/enlighten me in the automobile
8692	7/10/2012	Although it is something we take for granted, it is very important to have a resource available to people for educational and informational purposes.
8693	7/10/2012	literacy
8694	7/10/2012	Because they provide a positive, welcoming environment that brings people to a place that offers something for everyone at no cost. I think the last place that did that was the Ashwood post office. It is the best example of what a public service can and should be.

8695	7/10/2012	Freedom of information and the sharing of knowledge are at the roots of education in a free society. Mountains of positive change can be wrought from an educated and informed society. Libraries give everyone access to information and knowledge. If we wish to remain a free society then public libraries must stay open and well funded.
8696	7/10/2012	Research and leisure reading not available elsewhere, including online.
8697	7/10/2012	We use the library weekly.
8698	7/10/2012	I think library services are very valuable. Without them, many people wouldn't have access to books. I love library services because I'm able to take my toddler to storytime so she is exposed to books, songs and other children.
8699	7/10/2012	I use them.
8700	7/10/2012	Because access to knowledge is critical. The Internet will NEVER replace good books and other library services. Our Portland library system has been recognized as top-notch and deserves to stay that way.
8701	7/10/2012	libraries provide one to increasetheir knowledge
8702	7/10/2012	Because education is the key to success
8703	7/10/2012	i don't buy books, i use the library. do i use it as much as i use the roads? no. but it's still a very important part of my life.
8704	7/10/2012	Libraries are representative of freedom of information and the right to an education. Super important.
8705	7/10/2012	Provide education and access to information. Foundation of our social health!
8706	7/10/2012	They help people who can't afford it access to education, and learning. I think that it gives people help to help themselves. and it offers children a great place and introduction to all kinds of books and learning.
8707	7/10/2012	I read several books a week and get almost all of them from the library. My ability to learn from books would be severely crippled without a good public library, as I could never afford to buy that many books. I also nanny for several children and enjoy bringing them to story time and checking out books for them.
8708	7/10/2012	They enrich the community through education, intellectual stimulation, entertainment, recreation and community organizing through affordable means.
8709	7/10/2012	It is the only free public place that is available to everyone all year round.
8710	7/10/2012	They make the difference between living in a makeshift waystation and living in a real community.
8711	7/10/2012	Employment and health care have higher value than library services.
8712	7/10/2012	First, books are very import; they help people engage intellectually but can also be a source of relaxation. Second, reading is critical for members of our society, and programs that support reading are indispensable. Third, the library is an important community space. It functions as a place where people of different generations and backgrounds and classes can come together. Libraries are important pillars of communities.

8713	7/10/2012	Literacy is imperative for an educated public. While I can afford to subscribe to internet service and the newspaper and can afford to buy books, there are many who cannot. The library is invaluable for that population for access to resources and services. -I value libraries above all for the public good -- for how they're helping our larger society.[]
8714	7/10/2012	-On a more personal level, libraries help me raise my children, and help me stay current by keeping my life saturated with the circulatory currents of fiction, music, films, nonfiction. My life is enriched exponentially by having a library within walking distance that I can stop by once or twice a week and stay current with media in an economic fashion (i.e. free checkouts).
8715	7/10/2012	Families and communities come together to learn, meet people, connect, grown, and are encouraged to strive and acheive what seems to be aout of their reach.
8716	7/10/2012	All levels of society need free access to the information, knowledge, history, stories, and the diversity of the social interaction found at a local library. An ignorant populous leads to an easily manipulated and blinkered society. The ideas within the books of the fiction and non-fiction shelves of a library make us better policemen, firemen, doctors, nurses, human beings. LIBRARIES ARE VERY IMPORTANT.
8717	7/10/2012	Reading is delightful.
8718	7/10/2012	I use them more than any other service.
8719	7/10/2012	I like to read and cannot afford to purchase books whether new or online. It's important that the mind-expanding world of books is available for all.
8720	7/10/2012	Portland has invested a lot to allow people similar to me to enjoy visiting the library
8721	7/10/2012	They promote literacy and provide resources to all. Having libraries open as much as possible is important for the community.
8722	7/10/2012	Reading is one of my favorite pastimes. I also think it is essential, in order to have an effective Democracy, that citizens are as educated as possible. The more opportunities for education, in any form, the better.
8723	7/10/2012	It is important that all people have access to read books and get other help that they may need.
8724	7/10/2012	I like to read
8725	7/10/2012	There are a shrinking number of public places and institutions where people come together for exchange, from all walks of life. But I still feel that in a public library.
8726	7/10/2012	I've used the library all my life, can't imagine not having a library.
8727	7/10/2012	I think they should be open at seven days a week because I do alot of job searching at the library. Right now it is very inconvenient that they are closed on Mondays.
8728	7/10/2012	somewhat important
8729	7/10/2012	They are the first non - public safety function.
8730	7/10/2012	Certainly they rank behind critical emergency service, but ideally a library system can provide a crucial "third place" that actively fosters community-focused intellectual development.

8731	7/10/2012	It is a good place for people to learn and read. It is a great way to spend some time and be with other local people.
8732	7/10/2012	Because I can't afford to buy all the books I read and it can also be expensive for ink for a printer which I don't use much. I have the library right across the street from me and it helped me a lot that I was able to go over there and print out documents for 10 cents each while applying for a job which I ended up getting.
8733	7/10/2012	They are an essential resource for my and my children's educational development as well as access to the resources for job-seeking, classes, after school activities, safe quiet study area
8734	7/10/2012	Because information and availability of information are important in educating students and the community at large. Information and availability fight poverty, ignorance, and enhance the culture of the community.
8735	7/10/2012	because I'm literate and appreciate the multifaceted ways that libraries affect and help our community. A library is more important than another food shop, nameless realty store, another restaurant or gas station. It is a free way for people to enrich and improve themselves, paid by taxpayers. If I had to choose between police, firemen, garbagemen and libraries, I wouldn't choose to keep the library first. However, in comparison with other things such as leaf collection, removal and replacement of trees, waste of money on the $1.5 million rose festival building downtown, efforts to put in public toilets, libraries come out as a much better use of our resources. I love the library and always have
8736	7/10/2012	It appears to me that many who use the library would not have access to books or to a computer if the library were not available. Although I myself can afford to buy books and have my own computer, I certainly read more widely because I have access to the library.
8737	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time
8738	7/10/2012	We need to have access to books for everyone... this is right up there with parks, police and fire for me.
8739	7/10/2012	Access to cultural artifacts.
8740	7/10/2012	I think it is good to have a variety of books for children to get interested in, and I like that you can check them out for free at the library instead of having to buy them and then sell old ones that they are not interested in anymore.
8741	7/10/2012	As a father of two young children, I find it very important to make regular trips to the library for new books and media. I know that if I don't start taking them to the library now, they probably will not use one as an adult.
8742	7/10/2012	Not to many other local public services,the library has everything, especially with computer access
8743	7/10/2012	Provide everyone in our community with opportunities to learn and grow. I've been very impressed with our library and consider it a huge asset to the community and Portland as a whole.

8744	7/10/2012	Information freely accessed at the library whether through printed materials or other media help people decide where they stand on a multitude of issues. Prioritizing of issues impacts the decision as to which other public services should be supported by the community at large.
8745	7/10/2012	The library is a great equalizer. Yeah, I may not have internet or computer access at home, but I can walk to the library and check my emails or write a resume. I love the idea of everyone coming together to enrich their lives - there's so much to learn. I'm not very eloquent, but it's the library - the holder of the written word. What could be more important?
8746	7/10/2012	Because I use the library all the time.
8747	7/10/2012	As a senior I can get or reserve the books I want. I can not afford to buy them now that I am on a limited income. In the winter I read about 8 books every 3 weeks. What a joy to find the ones I want without having to buy them. Besides I love talking to the people at the library. They know which books I might like. How do they do that?
8748	7/10/2012	Because the library is accessible to all people of every economic level. It's the only place I know of where every form of entertainment is free to everyone. It offers a wide variety of services and materials that every single person has access to. Name another place where all that is available.
8749	7/10/2012	Because they service everyone and help people to better their lives. Encouraging children to read (and not watch video games) is important for our community. Having access to homework help online and databases helps our students when our schools cannot. They provide computer access and programs to help people in every situation. Librarians don't just help find a book, they provide information and resources to help people, no matter the question or need.
8750	7/10/2012	Democracy and community.
8751	7/10/2012	Education is the foundation of good citizenship, informed participation. We have built a strong resource and I value keeping it strong and available to all.
8752	7/10/2012	I think that library services are closely related to public education services, which is of highest priority to me as far as public services go. I think that kids need to grow up loving to read and learn. There is no replacement for the joy that I felt as a child reading books, and I know that some kids don't have good access to reading materials at home.
8753	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and use the library constantly!
8754	7/10/2012	books open up the world
8755	7/10/2012	It encourages my kids to read and I love being able to put books on hold and just stop by and pick them up!
8756	7/10/2012	my only internet access. also use for current books that i can't afford.
8757	7/10/2012	The public library is our cultural and educational center. It also serves as a safe place for adolescents to study.
8758	7/10/2012	Reading and being able to learn and read current information about our world and country are necessities for a democracy. Informed people make informed decisions. Unfortunately, libraries do not take precedence over fire and police services.

8759	7/10/2012	I've always loved visiting the library; it's like an intellectual candy store. I'm a heavy reader and would rather use the library than buy and accumulate books. Libraries are democratic, allowing everyone access regardless of their ability to pay.
8760	7/10/2012	Because I use the library at least as often as I ride the bus.
8761	7/10/2012	Because it is free and all we ever wanted to learn is at the library
8762	7/10/2012	Americans need to be awakened from their stupor of ignorance and stupidity. All the other public services are only in existence to deter change and keep everyone in line, so that the Portland business community can prosper. Make the red pill available to Portlanders, so they can drop out of the Matrix, and see the world as it really is.
8763	7/10/2012	The library is the foundation for academic growth and success. Literacy and the love of learning starts within those hollowed walls. I'm certain Portland Public School teachers and Oregonians as a whole appreciate literate, intelligent citizens. Our libraries are invaluable.
8764	7/10/2012	I'm not sure what I am comparing them against, frankly. I would rank them below passable roads, children having regular access to healthy food, and other basic needs. But libraries provide so many services to our community - supporting literacy, children's development, research projects, arts access, internet access, and so much more. I think they are an integral part of the success story of Portland, and if this resource is crippled (if services are limited or offered mostly when people are at work and cannot access them), I think we will all notice a drop in the quality of life in this city. The library system supports a wide range of needs in a variety of communities - while we might not notice the way we are impacted by this resource on a daily basis, the sheer level of support they offer to the populace in general is crucial. I don't believe that a person needs to regularly use the libraries to be positively impacted by them. They are part of our way of life here.
8765	7/10/2012	Books are necessary for learning.
8766	7/10/2012	it's part of our freedom of speech & right to educate & engage in discussions & dialogue.
8767	7/10/2012	Free access to education.
8768	7/10/2012	they are the only public service i use - other than trimet, but I use trimet less regularly than i visit the library
8769	7/10/2012	I love to read!!! Even though I don't currently have much of a personal need for the library, I do feel strongly that a good library system helps to create lifelong learners, to create community, and to support access to books to every person. I plan to have children and feel that a solid library system will be very important during those formative years, just as my local libraries were important to me as a child.
8770	7/10/2012
8771	7/10/2012	ALL of the public can use some form of the offerings of the library.
8772	7/10/2012	Local, free important activities for families to partake in. Great resource for people to use.
8773	7/10/2012	Serves all citizens, and this is a democracy.
8774	7/10/2012	Public safety, education, transportation, and health seem more important to me.
8775	7/10/2012	See comments provided for question 6

8776	7/10/2012	There needs to be a balance to people's lives. Public safety and street repairs are important also. But having free access to libraries gives those without other resources a safe place to spend time, learn, etc.
8777	7/10/2012	Access to information is critical to have a productive and educated society regardless of class, age, and race. It's also an essential focal point of a community.
8778	7/10/2012	education opportunities
8779	7/10/2012	While library services are important, there are more important public services that better help the community.
8780	7/10/2012	Libraries give all people equal access to printed materials and information, regardless of socioeconomic status.
8781	7/10/2012	this gives everyone access to books and media without having to buy them.
8782	7/10/2012	I don't use the majority of services available. I use it mostly to check out book and mainly for travel resources.
8783	7/10/2012	I have lived all over the U.S. and I have always sought out the local library before I've even gotten a new drivers' license.
8784	7/10/2012	We use the library on a daily basis, and it benefits every member of the family.
8785	7/10/2012	Police, fire, water, sewer, electricity, etc. are more important but of the services not related to keeping me alive, the library is top of the list.
8786	7/10/2012	Because the education of our populace is crucial to having an engaged democracy, an educated workforce, and a peaceful community. I say "somewhat" because I would say they are slightly less important than having adequate Fire services, public utilities, waste management and other essential services, but only slightly.
8787	7/10/2012	They are important to those who do not have the means to access books and information elsewhere but personally, if they weren't around, or had more limited hours, I would be fine. There is a whole world of information out there for the taking and I don't even need to leave my home. I also don't have to wait for 2 or 3 weeks for a title that I want to become available.
8788	7/10/2012	Because libraries encourage and make possible self education. A progressive society cannot exist without educated and free thinking citizens.
8789	7/10/2012	Police protective services are always # 1
8790	7/10/2012	They are very important to me because they are very personal to me. I have two young sons and the library plays an integral part in their childhood and I hope it continues to, just as it played an integral role in my childhood. Many other public services I either am not aware of (are there other services as amazing as the library?) or I apparently don't take advantage of them.

8791	7/10/2012	Reading, and the life of the mind, are paramount in the development of our children. Expanding children's knowledge, scope, and cultural senses, exposing them to wonderful art and humor, and introducing them to new worlds is an amazing responsibility. Libraries also encourage and provide access to ideas/news/information which one may not otherwise easily encounter . They allow every person access to the internet, great books, movies, music, and experiences regardless of income considerations.
8792	7/10/2012	If you think libraries are expensive, try illiteracy!
8793	7/10/2012	Because it's the service I use regularly
8794	7/10/2012	They better our lives with access to information, literature, music.
8795	7/10/2012	Educational programs for young children who are learning to read, are extremely important to foster a love of learning throughout their lifetime.
8796	7/10/2012	education for all, reading for all, quiet space for all
8797	7/10/2012	all public services are very important including the local libraries
8798	7/10/2012	The library stimulates the mind, heart and soul.
8799	7/10/2012	The better one's life and make education available to people of all socioeconomic classes.
8800	7/10/2012	Social engineering isn't a core function, and has no place in a library system. As well, library staff have been adamant in their refusal to implement filtering software on publicly-owned systems, arguing that access to porn is a basic right.
8801	7/10/2012	-self education[] -entertainment[] -place to vote[] -resource for projects[] -community[] -allows for informed, connected citizens
8802	7/10/2012	Library service is a quality of life issue, a social issue and an economic issue combined!
8803	7/10/2012	Since I moved to Portland, I have used the library more than any other public institution or service. Not considering reading for leisure, the library has given me access to books on personal finance, wedding planning, cooking/ canning, and home improvement. I have been able to put these books to use in my personal life, which has resulted in better personal financial management and saving money on food.
8804	7/10/2012	Because I think things like healthcare and childcare assistance, as well as food programs, abuse assistance and a number of other services take precedent for those in need, but the libraries are something we all pay for, that we can all use--and fostering a love of learning and cultivating an educated population are invaluable resources to the well being of our community as a whole.

8805	7/10/2012	They do more to encourage equality than any other public institution. Besides offering books, other materials, and expertise, libraries have become the de facto social safety net -- computers, bathrooms, a place to sit, a roof. They are where the unemployed, the underemployed, the stay-at-home parents, the homeless, and the children go. Besides schools -- and they usually discriminate on the basis of geography or money -- libraries are the institution that gives people the best chance to discover, achieve or reclaim their potential.
8806	7/10/2012	Literacy is a fundamental human skill, and I believe the library helps people to achieve it across many ages and social backgrounds. It can reach people that other services, like public schools, can't. More than that, the library houses knowledge and information for public use. In whatever form we might keep and consume information, the library is responsible for doing its important part in keeping access to that information and knowledge open to people who otherwise could not afford it.
8807	7/10/2012	I like and use the library but when compared to other public services like schools, roadways, water, public transportation, fire and police, street cleaning, etc I have to say not too important. I could live without it. Right now I am paying about $250 a year for the library and the proposals to fully fund and establish a district would substantially increase that. I can buy a lot of books for $250 to $330 a year. A lot of books. Again why so expensive. Why not look at other systems that are delivering library services for less and see if we can learn from those cities.
8808	7/10/2012	Books!
8809	7/10/2012	There are other services that are more important such as fire and police. The library is a lovely luxury.
8810	7/10/2012	Learning, entertainment
8811	7/10/2012	Although I am a faithful patron of the local library, other local public services (fire, police, schools) are more important.
8812	7/10/2012	My whole family (Me, wife, two kids 10 and 13) loves to read, and we'd do a whole lot less without the library system. I've read a ton of things I would never even consider buying because of the library; books on cooking, gardening, how-to stuff.
8813	7/10/2012	I use the library often enough that it is very important to me. In fact, I found my volunteer network, very important to me, through the library.
8814	7/10/2012	The library is such a great democratic resource, offering books, movies and video to Portlanders of all income levels. I am so grateful to have such a vibrant community library system.
8815	7/10/2012	I can access most information online and can get the other products (books, media) by paying for it.
8816	7/10/2012	I want easy access to current reading material without purchasing individual books.
8817	7/10/2012	See my previous comment about education being the most important thing we have.

8818	7/10/2012	Because of use, urgent for citizens in a democracy: to learn new technologies, to become and stay informed, to know the importance of literacy, to understand the importance of and enjoy community.
8819	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to important works of literature as well as the opportunity to continue to learn.
8820	7/10/2012	It is a service that is available to everyone--open and inviting for all. It has the potential to raise the level of awareness and participation in community issues for the people who use it. It is a great democratizing element in every neighborhood. The neighborhood branches can serve as an important community hub.
8821	7/10/2012	Books expand my mind - no other public service does that.
8822	7/10/2012	very important.
8823	7/10/2012	They represent the quality of our city and county.
8824	7/10/2012	values
8825	7/10/2012	I have always used other resources such as the computer labs at my school, eBooks, etc. There are so many accessible resources these days that printed books are kind of out dated.
8826	7/10/2012	The Library system is one of the very few Multnomah County services I value.
8827	7/10/2012	In town or out of town I always use library services wherever I am...I became addicted to reading as a kid and I still find the library a VERY important part of my life.
8828	7/10/2012	It allows a cross section of the population access to computer, books, CD's and DVD's that might not readily be available to them. With such horrid economic conditions that don't seem to be improving it's important to make sure people have libraries to go to where they have affordable access to various media. I've always used libraries where ever I lived and they've always been an important part of the community. Living here in Portland I've often bragged about how awesome are libraries are here. It would be sad to see them decimated due to lack of funding.
8829	7/10/2012	Personally, I am an avid reader, and there is no way I can possibly afford to purchase every single book that I wish to read. Beyond my own interests, freely and publicly accessible information is one of the paramount principles of an open society. The library system is a cornerstone to the survival of that principle.
8830	7/10/2012	They provide entertainment and knowledge.
8831	7/10/2012	Use the resources daily as a retired senior.
8832	7/10/2012	Kind of important.
8833	7/10/2012	Because it connects me to all kind of books, music and movies that I would not otherwise have access too.
8834	7/10/2012	I get more use out of the library than many other so-called public services.
8835	7/10/2012	We frequently use their services.
8836	7/10/2012	Access to vast collection of materials
8837	7/10/2012	Helps build community and provides access to important information

8838	7/10/2012	Because i can check out books for our son who is 8 for his school reading without having to buy books because we are on a budget.
8839	7/10/2012	Two reasons - First, libraries represent free access for everyone to information, knowledge, and entertainment, which is vital to maintain a democratic and free society. Second, they act as community centers and gathering places - both physically and symbolically.
8840	7/10/2012	It is a resource I use all the time.
8841	7/10/2012	Safety is always more important than luxuries.
8842	7/10/2012	The materials you can borrow would cost tons of money if you had to buy them, and couldn't borrow them.
8843	7/10/2012	A well-read society tends to be a more egalitarian society.
8844	7/10/2012	because we can have available books, community resouces any time. I place where we can go get information, we can read and attende others activities or events
8845	7/10/2012	The library is a place that my family goes to learn about all types of things--from taxes to study prep guides, religion to hobbies. We find the library to drastically improve the quality of our life!!
8846	7/10/2012	For instilling reading in our children, for that extra boost of education for our children, for reference material for adults, the pleasure of reading, using the computers for reference material and for job searches for those that do not or cannot afford computers.
8847	7/10/2012	Libraries represent the importance of literacy in our society. Books/ebooks open up an exciting world of adventure, stimulation, imagination, intellect, critical thinking, history, science, fantasy, and learning, etc.
8848	7/10/2012	While I admit that I use the sewer service (city rather than county) every day, the library is the only county service I use all the time. It makes a fundamental difference in my life as I am able to consume massive amounts of literature and media through the library's collection. I can neither afford to buy everything I want to look at, nor would I want to keep and store it myself.
8849	7/10/2012	Because the library enables individual and community improvements in every possible area
8850	7/10/2012	EDUCATION AND HOMELESSNESS AND FEEDING THE HUNGRY WOULD BE NUMBER 1 ON MY LIST OF PRIORITIES
8851	7/10/2012	because they are relatively inexpensive in comparison to services funded exclusively thru property taxes and other tax sources
8852	7/10/2012	I think that as a source of access to information they are vital for the well being of our community.
8853	7/10/2012	This is the one that I use frequently and that continues to surprise and delight me with its offerings. it enriches my life and educates my brain.
8854	7/10/2012	Entertainment, education, & general resources
8855	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for information and recreation
8856	7/10/2012	we use them all the time
8857	7/10/2012	it's all relative. Police and fire are critically important, libraries are very nice.

8858	7/10/2012	They aren't as important as letting my house burn down for lack of a fire department, but they are highly desirable.
8859	7/10/2012	I value strong public schools - with fully functioning school libraries - as very important
8860	7/10/2012	I can get value for the property tax that I pay...
8861	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to libraries. Books teach, provide an escape, and empower us.
8862	7/10/2012	I read more when I don't have to but the books.
8863	7/10/2012	Because I love books
8864	7/10/2012	literacy (after health, shelter and food) is essential to everyone living in our community to maintain health, safety and to be able to work
8865	7/10/2012	The library is an enormous source of information FREE to the community.
8866	7/10/2012	egalitarian access to information
8867	7/10/2012	Encouragement of reading and access to information should be available to everyone.
8868	7/10/2012	Libraries are part of the neighbourhood and are used frequently by a cross section of the population.
8869	7/10/2012	Library is accessible to all ethnicities, socio-economic levels. Place for children and adults.
8870	7/10/2012	As an educator for young children (ages 2 1/2 - 6) I utilize the library frequently to supplement books for my classroom. I feel our library system is a highly valuable resource for the community and myself personally.
8871	7/10/2012	I want my family to be able to be part of a great public system
8872	7/10/2012	We use them all the time
8873	7/10/2012	Information is knowledge. And we also need someplace to house those juvenile delinquents during the summer months and after school.
8874	7/10/2012	Positive, accessible, community focused literacy is critical to the enhancement of the community
8875	7/10/2012	They are very community oriented.
8876	7/10/2012	Libraries are important because education and literacy open a lot of doors for people and can solve a lot of this world's problems.
8877	7/10/2012	Nothing that you will learn in the course of your studies will be of the slightest possible use to you in after life—save only this—that if you work hard and intelligently you should be able to detect when a man is talking rot, and that, in my view, is the main, if not the sole, purpose of education. [] John Alexander Smith
8878	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and user of ILL. I am also currently a returning student and my library often provides extra material for research. Libraries provide the means for self-improvement.[] Cut libraries = cut the American Dream.[]
8879	7/10/2012	[] Libraries are as important in the information age as roads in the mid-20th century.[] Libraries can play a vital role in economic development.

8880	7/10/2012	Because they are a source of knowledge and a value resource to everyone.
8881	7/10/2012	As a child, my sister and mother took me to the Green Lake Library in Seattle regularly. As a parent and grandparent I see the wisdom of AVAILABILITY AND ACCESSIBILITY where libraries are concerned. As a student and graduate student , two BAs, BMusic, MLS, those degrees might not have been attained without library assistance.
8882	7/10/2012	Libraries go hand in hand with schools. These should be our priority over police, welfare and most everything else. If we put our money where our mouths are ("children are so precious!!") and actually be willing to pay for these all important services, then maybe we wouldn't need as much money for jails, police, welfare, homeless.
8883	7/10/2012	A free, publicly supported facility dedicated to the storage, dissemination, and propogation of knowledge and art is probably the greatest social advance in our species' history. Every citizen, regardless of age, class, race, gender, religion, ethics, politics, level of income or learning can access it at anytime. It's brilliant, and an achievement that we can all be proud of.
8884	7/10/2012	Books should always be accessible to everyone.
8885	7/10/2012	Without an educated, informed public, democracy cannot function. Libraries lower barriers to information... while also serving as centers for community activity.
8886	7/10/2012	I am able to read books that I wouldn't ordinarily buy.
8887	7/10/2012	Reading habit and fun time for kids
8888	7/10/2012	They are behind emergency services but quite important.
8889	7/10/2012	They provide literacy programs and job seeking resources. I feel that those things are ESSENTIAL for our communities to function well and for younger generations to be able to become successful citizens.
8890	7/10/2012	I depend on our library for many reasons. Books and films.[] I like the calm atmosphere and the diverse population of users.[] Young and old, diverse populations, quiet and calmness of the place.
8891	7/10/2012	The library is nearly always the ifirst place I go to find information, whether it is for an academic project, or how to write a business plan. When I want entertainment, the library comes through as well. I know that other public services are importnat, like keeping our roads usable, but this country needs people who can and do think and solve problems - something we get through libraries - before nearly everything else can get done.
8892	7/10/2012	As a retired citizen on a fixed income the library is the one place that bridges back to my youth where one could go seel information for little or no cost. My personal reading now includes mostly volumes that are not even found at Powell's. I like the library for a destination, a place to read and study and not have to buy something.
8893	7/10/2012	I believe that one of the most important factors in democracy is education for all and dedication of public funds to this end.

8894	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power! Our local libraries are a source of knowledge that is accessible to anyone who has a library card.
8895	7/10/2012	Isn't a public collection of books & media bound to have more breadth than anything a person could fit in his home, and isn't it a good thing to share these resources?
8896	7/10/2012	They are essential to where I choose to live. When considering moving to a locale I will always inquire as to the state and funding of the local libraries.
8897	7/10/2012	Limited financial resources to purchase reading material.
8898	7/10/2012	An educated citizenry is important to democracy.
8899	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the key to a healthy community.
8900	7/10/2012	Because the very idea of local, publicly-funded libraries lifts society from the mud.
8901	7/10/2012	Libraries offer books and other media to people who cannot otherwise access them. Libraries welcome everyone. Libraries are a place to go for everybody who needs a book - or just a quiet place, a place out of the weather, a bathroom, computer access, a safe place, a place to let a kid chill out for a while. They are a real, public, community space, and we don't have very many places like that. Libraries are a place to discover books you didn't know you wanted to read, a place to see other people reading for pleasure and education. I don't want to live in a community without a library.
8902	7/10/2012	reading is an important, books need to be available to all people at all times.
8903	7/10/2012	certainly not as important as medical or transportation or senior services. And computers have replaced the importance of libraries for research purposes. My biggest use of the library is for reading material. Buying everything I want to read is not financially viable so I borrow a lot from the library.
8904	7/10/2012	I believe learning is essential to personal development, and that we are unfortunately often learning only the things that are placed in front us daily. Education, and the access to it, provides opportunity for people to be successful, and be part of a supportive community.
8905	7/10/2012	I read every single day
8906	7/10/2012	basic social service that provides equal access to all regardless of age, education, social circumstance, or finances.
8907	7/10/2012	The library is the most diverse place in the city, and it is a place that serves all people equally without prejudice. It is important to keep this safe space accessible to everyone.
8908	7/10/2012	Libraries are community meeting places. Library services support education, community well being. The library was a highlight of my youth, I want that to be shared by all children.
8909	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important source of learning, and especially valuable for people with limited resources.
8910	7/10/2012	everything builds on education and discovery

8911	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge is one of the few ways America actually follows through on that whole "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" thing. People can be horribly disadvantaged by circumstances but they can always go to the library to work on improving themselves.
8912	7/10/2012	With our first daughter now 6 months old it was invaluable for pregnancy, breast-feeding, parenting books. We look forward to bringing her to the library on a regular basis as she gets older
8913	7/10/2012	I can not afford to buy books and I use the reference tools weekly for my business
8914	7/10/2012	Better than the post office and more convenient than the DMV. However, they are necessities.
8915	7/10/2012	I use the library to do so many important things. Without the library I would not be where I am today.
8916	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the foundation of intelligent decisions both in business and on a personal level.
8917	7/10/2012	It is critical for continuing education and an informed public. Libraries provide central gathering locations and a public indoor space.
8918	7/10/2012	I have worked with many families that do not have the resources to go out and buy books, or do not have access to computers or other materials for research in their homes. The library provides that for them.
8919	7/10/2012	The internet is available to all, not just the wealthy. I can still learn, study, and grow no matter how poor I am.
8920	7/10/2012	Because reading and knowledge are two of the most important things in our society. Especially for people who don't want to spend $15 on a book the library is an invaluable resource.
8921	7/10/2012	They give all ages the same chance for learning and entertainment no matter what their social economic level.
8922	7/10/2012	Because I have young kids who love coming to the library. It offers educational, fun, social things to do throughout the year.
8923	7/10/2012	There are so many other ways of obtaining these resources.
8924	7/10/2012	I would have said very important, but if I had to choose between having the library or having the water supply, the police, the fire department, or public transportation I would reluctantly have to sacrifice the library because the loss of any of the others would be even more devastating than the loss of library services.
8925	7/10/2012	Where ever I move, my first connection is signing up for the local library. It has served me when I did not have computer access. It's the place I can bring my voting ballot, and am free to walk in anytime for any book or media need. I learned to read and love the huge world of books as a kid when my mom took me to the library every week. I grew up to teach and parent, and the library or bookmobile was the most important resource for many of my students. I observe that it is even more important to low income students in this faster paced environment.
8926	7/10/2012	Our family uses the local library daily for almost all of our entertainment. It's great and we are proud supporters!
8927	7/10/2012	Available to all, poor or wealthy. Those that can read and be informed have better lives, make better decisions

8928	7/10/2012	Safety is the most important public service. Having a good library is important but there are other ways to get information today. The internet is cheap and easily accessible.
8929	7/10/2012	I have a two year old daughter who loves books. My husband and I are both avid readers and we want her to continue to experience libraries as exciting places where there is limitless potential for exploring the world through books. I hate the idea of libraries being 'idea stores', like Starbucks with magazines or Block busters with a few book cases. While I think it's excellent, and necessary to keep up with digital technologies, and give communities access to new technologies, I want libraries to be book focused places!
8930	7/10/2012	I don't want to live in a neighborhood where people, especially children, don't have access to a library!
8931	7/10/2012	I have a two year old and plan on spending a lot of time in the library over the next several years. As it is, we go to the library at least once a week for reading groups for kids his age. We also check out books regularly.
8932	7/10/2012	Because education, any support to education and literacy are very basic necessities for a country or a community to be civilized, mature and well-educated.
8933	7/10/2012	I have PC, buy used books at thrift stores and on line.
8934	7/10/2012	An informed society is a stronger society
8935	7/10/2012	The library has something for everyone and it's free. It a doorway to enrichment, but more than that, it can be a doorway to getting your basic needs met for job seekers, parents with limited literacy, and new Americans.
8936	7/10/2012	Libraries are an integral part of our local community. They provide access to services, resources and information for anyone in need, no questions asked. No private service exists that can claim to do the same. The quality of a community's library system says as much about what that community values as the quality of its schools or its parks.
8937	7/10/2012	Having access to free books is very important, because I love to read, but I don't have it in my budget to buy books. I also love that libraries provides a quiet place for learning about ANYTHING. Being a new Mom, I also look forward to my kids having access to free books and other media.
8938	7/10/2012	So that my children learn to love reading, how to treat a book, how to use a library, how to behave among books, how to interact with other children during story time and listen to the reader. So that they are exposed to different cultures, people, music, and art through your activities. So that my husband and I can attend workshops and community groups to discuss parenting. So that my children can read to a dog to help them overcome their incredible fear of dogs. If you offered a tattoo, I'd get one!

8939	7/10/2012	They provide access to resources that are unavailable to some people otherwise. There are no other alternative sources for people who do not have the expendable income for books, computers, or internet access. I also rely on the library to introduce me to new resources that I may not discover on my own.[] Limiting library services is a form of oppression and causes future division between various educational and socioeconomic levels within our communities.
8940	7/10/2012	This is the only free educational resource available to the entire public. Taking away the library takes away the ability for those who do not have access to gain it. Often times we think that in the digital age there is a great amount of resources that are "free" but the quality of information is not always there...it certainly is not academic or scholarly. [] [] We need public spaces for people to learn, gather, and be a community.
8941	7/10/2012	Reading and access to media is a very important part of my life.
8942	7/10/2012	I have always used them and continue to do so. they are even more important for people who cannot afford to buy books or do not have a computer.
8943	7/10/2012	I have kids who check out books for research for school.
8944	7/10/2012	For me, libraries are ranked just below education, public safety and poverty services.
8945	7/10/2012	Police, fire protection, water and sewer are more important
8946	7/10/2012	I read a great deal and could not afford to purchase all or most of the books I take out of the library.
8947	7/10/2012	It is how we manage to experience a variety of books to reading exciting in our family!
8948	7/10/2012	I think libraries are on par with other essential services like police and fire and schools. They are part of what makes a community.
8949	7/10/2012	Internet informational and retail sources provide comparable services
8950	7/10/2012	I'm luckily enough not to "need" the library e.g. I can afford to at least buy used books and other media.
8951	7/10/2012	It's a great resource for virtually any information needed; I've checked out books for home projects, repair, hobbies, and just for fun. More importantly, it's a great resource for those in the community that do not have many resources at home. I also support the educational programs to develop lifelong readers and to assist people with computer skills. The library is a place where everyone has an opportunity for self-growth.
8952	7/10/2012	Other local public services such as fire protection, safety, healthcare are certainly more important; but reading will always be important to further self-education.
8953	7/10/2012	life long learning, information access to all, free or low cost, a place to expose yourself to parts of the world that a person wouldn't contact in their daily life through the various media available - a sense of community

8954	7/10/2012	I think that roads being paved and taken care of, a good police presence, jails that are funded, and public transportation, water, gas/electricity that is affordable is more important to me than library services. From what I have heard, our library system is one of the best funded in the nation.
8955	7/10/2012	I use the library more than any other local public service.
8956	7/10/2012	Public services that ensure the safety and well-being of the citizen base are the highest priority (police/fire response, clean water, waste removal, etc.). Local library services contribute to the quality of life, but is not a primary concern like the other services mentioned. Library patrons can and should continue to adapt by accepting limited days/hours in light of challenges experienced. Therefore, library services are "somewhat important" to me.
8957	7/10/2012	Reading is a vital part of life and ALL individuals should have access to good books and media.
8958	7/10/2012	Libraries promote literacy, ¹ and are resources to all people ² across all categories.
8959	7/10/2012	Without the library, we limit who has access to information therefore allowing only the elite (those who can pay) to be highly literate.
8960	7/10/2012	I have two young children and seeing the state of Portland public schools I feel we are and will continue to enhance there education by using our libraries.
8961	7/10/2012	Reading for rest is much better then TV
8962	7/10/2012	It is a terrific resource for everyone.
8963	7/10/2012	The services are free and I am on a fixed income.
8964	7/10/2012	Literacy and the sense of community they provide are important to me. Most of us can't afford to pay for all the books we read so we need access to free loaners.
8965	7/10/2012	Nice to have access to any resource I'm interested in. Might have to wait awhile, but I always can get what I need, a great use of my tax dollars.
8966	7/10/2012	Obviously, police, fire and infrastructure are very important to the day to day operation of a community, but the library is the repository of the community's knowledge and education for both today and the future.
8967	7/10/2012	I think economic mobility is critical for a prosperous country. Education is a key tool to economic mobility and the library is a key component to education. I also think that educated people make better decisions and this is critical to the day-to-day operations of a democracy.
8968	7/10/2012	The library provides valuable information and online access to many people who otherwise would have none of these things. It is the most important social institution we have as a culture.
8969	7/10/2012	Because no one anticipates needing a cop or firefighter--and once one's kids are out of school, public schools take less precedence--but the tangible benefits of public libraries are readily apparent.

8970	7/10/2012	When my wife and I were deciding where in the country to relocate, one of the key factors that made us choose Portland was the quality of Multnomah County's library system. Maintaining the breadth, depth and quality of the library's collections and database subscriptions is a key contributor to the quality of life in Multnomah County. Similarly, it is important that the library's funding is adequate to meet the staffing needs for as many hours per day (and days per week) of operation as possible given patterns of usage and demand.
8971	7/10/2012	I love to read, watch good film, listen to good music. I like to live in a community that values these things. The library is a safe neutral space for all people in the community to mingle and meet.
8972	7/10/2012	Sometimes (not always) you have resources written by accredited sources that are hella better than the internet.
8973	7/10/2012	Supplying learning material to people who may not have the money to educate themselves is important to any society. It is in the same vein as protecting the people.
8974	7/10/2012	The library provides an engaging environment and resources to allow for learning that would otherwise not be identified and/or used by the public; this is important!
8975	7/10/2012	It's nice to have so many books to choose from without having to buy them.
8976	7/10/2012	Reading is essential to our health as a community.
8977	7/10/2012	Food, health and safety services have to come first.
8978	7/10/2012	The library is very important, but perhaps not as important as police, fire, public schools, the health department, etc.
8979	7/10/2012	I like the library and use it often, but Portland also has suffering schools, streets, and parks. Libraries are important but not the most important compared to things like schools.
8980	7/10/2012	I rank library services highly--they are necessary for social mobility and for having an educated citizenry. They also help create or reinforce community. However, if I had to do without a public service, I would sacrifice libraries before, say, police, firefighters, or waste removal.
8981	7/10/2012	I use them relatively frequently. My choices for how frequently I visit the library were only weekly or monthly; in reality, I probably visit the library 2-3 times per month, and use the databases from outside the library 4-5 times per month.
8982	7/10/2012	Our libraries help bridge economic differences by being widely available and containing educational and social resources not always accessible to all.
8983	7/10/2012	Very important are absolutely necessary services. Somewhat important are highly beneficial services but not absolutely necessary
8984	7/10/2012	They would not be more important than schools, protection of children and elderly, but certainly a critical resource in our community. It is hard to put them above public safety particularly police on the street.
8985	7/10/2012	The library is a wonderful resource for the community for education, jobs, and support.
8986	7/10/2012	Police, fire, and city water might rank above library.
8987	7/10/2012	reading is fundamental. It's not a luxury, it's a necessity to guarantee the future of this planet

8988	7/10/2012	high-ish
8989	7/10/2012	Access to information is extremely important for a democratic society. Libraries are a place where people learn, grow, connect and access resources that are ordinarily not free.
8990	7/10/2012	reading and learning is everything... it's about community, about life now and about our future as a healthy society. i can't imagine a world without libraries.
8991	7/10/2012	I rely on the library system a lot to get information and view resources at no extra cost to myself.
8992	7/10/2012	They're great places for education. I find that schools and emergency management are a bit more important, but libraries are very important overall.
8993	7/10/2012	It allows us all access, really radical idea there.
8994	7/10/2012	Because no matter what happens, the only way to change things is to be educated. Without the extremely broad resources of the library, people's views will be much more limited. Most other services wouldn't be needed if people were fully educated.
8995	7/10/2012	Reading and access to books is our most valuable resource.
8996	7/10/2012	Access to informative and valuable materials and information at no cost. Open to most everyone who wants to avail themselves of this institution.
8997	7/10/2012	A library is a shared resource to a community - we all pay into it through property taxes and should reap the benefits - access to a clean and quiet area for learning.
8998	7/10/2012	Since I was a child, I have always loved the library and all of the classes, available books and materials it had to offer. From growing up in a lower income situation, it was imperative to learning and entertainment to have free access to the library, we could not always afford to buy new books or movies, and the library has always provided that. Since I have grown and had a child, my child has gotten over reading anxiety with the "Reading to the Dogs" program, and loves his trips to the library as well.
8999	7/10/2012	Being retired, we read books a lot and we do not wish to buy books any longer to increase our book collection. Use the library for travel research for planning trips.
9000	7/10/2012	I'm an avid book reader and think that libraries are essential for public knowledge and culture.
9001	7/10/2012	The library is very important for books and media resources, and for ALL OTHER SERVICES THEY ARE NOT AT ALL IMPORTANT.
9002	7/10/2012	I use them.
9003	7/10/2012	I almost never buy a book, because the library always has what I need. And, I am a voracious reader and researcher.
9004	7/10/2012	An essential public resource
9005	7/10/2012	I love to read and it can good for my budget if I don't have to buy every book that I read. It's also great for finding books for research and reference materials that may be out of print or unavailable. I would be disappointed if libraries weren't available to me for things like that.
9006	7/10/2012	I love reading, as does my family, and our budget won't allow us - nor do we find it necessary - to purchase books brand new.

9007	7/10/2012	Literacy is a keystone of our society and access to free reading and media sources is essential for every member of the community.
9008	7/10/2012	Education improves everyone lives.
9009	7/10/2012	free access to information to all is very important to me and to a free and equal society
9010	7/10/2012	Libraries contribute to our whole society in a positive way - by promoting learning.
9011	7/10/2012	For my entire family, books, audio books, and DVD's are our primary form of relaxation and recreation. Also important in staying current in various areas of information.
9012	7/10/2012	Some services are, hate to say it, more basic than library access. Things such as safety, clean water and air precede (or underlie) the "luxury" of the library and all that it offers. (Mild apologies here, perhaps.)
9013	7/10/2012	It enables people to read books if they can not afford to buy them and it provides important information for young people and unemployed and those that do not have a home computer.
9014	7/10/2012	We have no TV. The Library is our primary education and entertainment. I am still going to school at the age of 70, so I depend on your research material and text books.
9015	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and appreciate the ability to borrow books on a variety of subjects, some I may not explore due to the cost of buying a book I'll read once. I also think it is important to encourage children to read, which encourages their interest in learning and developing more critical thinking skills. They can explore more options when easy access to reading materials is available.
9016	7/10/2012	We need to give everyone access to knowledge. A knowledgeable/educated public makes for a well-run society.
9017	7/10/2012	Libraries are important to families who can no longer afford outside interests or hobbies due to the what seems like a failing economy. At the library they can check out books to read or movies to watch in a time where they cannot afford to buy books or rent movies.
9018	7/10/2012	Poorly constructed question. [] "They", as in the "other" services not expressly stated above?[] The library "as a public service" is a privilege not a right as such, it represents the intellectual creative potential of the community. [] Other "public services" are part the security of the community. These services could be fire, police, and other human services, all of which protect property and sustain human life. Where in, the library protects the collections of social, cultural, and imaginative knowledge which the community can access to move beyond human necessity.
9019	7/10/2012	I love reading and I am happy to pay extra taxes to fund libraries because borrowing books from the library saves me a lot of money every year.
9020	7/10/2012	Important to the community, especially. My kids use it quite a bit.
9021	7/10/2012	I read a lot!

9022	7/10/2012	They aren't survival level (gas, water, roads, phone, etc) but the library forms the core of most neighborhoods and is vital to the happiness of a city.
9023	7/10/2012	Access to materials I couldn't afford to buy all of. Helps me with educating my children and supporting my local business.
9024	7/10/2012	The library system is part of the lifeblood of this town full of readers and writers.
9025	7/10/2012	Encourages personal development.
9026	7/10/2012	The more we read the better our choices in life
9027	7/10/2012	Knowledge (being informed) is critical to our democracy. Libraries facilitate self learning and discovery.
9028	7/10/2012	I think it is important that everyone in the public has a place where he or she can access information, no matter what his or her circumstance.
9029	7/10/2012	Literacy and community are very important for people of all ages and income level.
9030	7/10/2012	The library is my family's #1 source of information about the world. We check out books, use librarians for research, check out DVDs, read the magazines and newspapers, use the computers and internet access, check out electronic books, use the interlibrary loan system, download music from the free service provided via the library, participate in summer reading, participate in Everybody Reads, attend lectures and kids' programs. Also my son volunteers, which provides him a structured entree into working (showing up on time, wearing a uniform (shirt), punching in and out, serving customers). There is no public community center in our neighborhood, so my son depends on the library as his "hang out" place and to meet his friends.
9031	7/10/2012	In my opinion the library is second most important after k-12 schools, then parks and rec. These services make for smart, healthy kids and communities that make Portland great. Now and in the future.
9032	7/10/2012	See my response to question 6. I think it's important for everyone to have free and convenient access to valuable resources and services that can improve and enhance their lives. This benefits the entire community.
9033	7/10/2012	It is wonderful to have access to current books, magazines and DVDs on every subject you can think of! To me, this is a fuel that encourages creativity and births ideas which each of us use to contribute to our community.
9034	7/10/2012	I am a public school teacher. The library is where we send our students to grow their love of books and to explore the world. As an adult, it is great to have access to books on many topics to peruse without having to own them.
9035	7/10/2012	Education is the most important tool one can receive and with the library one can receive it for free.
9036	7/10/2012	Education is extremely important to us and vital to a healthy, informed community. We strongly believe there should be library access for all segments of the population.
9037	7/10/2012	My Grandchildren, my family and I all love to read

9038	7/10/2012	The libraries are an essential bridge between patrons and needed services and information; without the libraries, area residents will be unable to access other local public services.
9039	7/10/2012	I am a senior and buying books is a financial hardship. So the library is able to lend me the books I wish to read. THANK YOU SO VERY MUCH!!!!
9040	7/10/2012	I go there all the time. I read constantly, and watch videos a lot. The feature "Your Lucky Day" has opened a whole new world for me; now I read mostly non-fiction. YLD has introduced me to books I would not have known existed, in fields I didn't know about. I use the hold feature a lot; often have all 15 hold spaces on my account filled. [] I am a low-income senior. I could never afford to buy all these books.
9041	7/10/2012	The library is free, and everyone uses it. By that I mean people from all walks of life. I live in a diverse but increasingly gentrified area of Portland. However, when I walk into the North Portland Library, I always see folks from all races, ages, and ethnicities. The library also is heavily used by children. When my daughter was born, we were sent a free board book, book coupons, and a library card form. The library works with local daycares and sends boxes of books regularly. These and other programs are important to promote literacy in our City's young people. The library is also ecc friendly! When I check out a book from the library instead of buying it, I am saving paper!
9042	7/10/2012	We homeschool our children, so we use the library a lot.
9043	7/10/2012	I use books for such a short period of time, I couldn't afford to buy everything I'd like to read.
9044	7/10/2012	Supports the intellectual life of the community.
9045	7/10/2012	Because other institutions (i.e. schools) are more imporstant.
9046	7/10/2012	because we love to read. we don't watch t.v. so we get our entertainment at night through reading
9047	7/10/2012	I read and get dvd's on a regular basis, and Mult. Cnty Library is a great resource for those activities.
9048	7/10/2012	Poorly written question.
9049	7/10/2012	Libraries provide equal access to information
9050	7/10/2012	I think that other public services such as public transportation and police are of primary importance.[] however in this economic climate recreation should be important.
9051	7/10/2012	Unfortunately, I don't think libraries play as vital a role anymore due to the vast availability of electronic reading material. Although I do believe libraries play an important role as far as a sense of community and teaching children lessons in taking care of other peoples things, sharing and finding material on their own. It is also just a wonderful space dedicated to reading and learning which I value in our society.
9052	7/10/2012	Provides a resource that is not available on an individual basis to the general population.
9053	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power.

9054	7/10/2012	It's a service I actually use.
9055	7/10/2012	An informed society is a society that works better for all. Libraries help keep people informed not just in terms of "information," but also in terms of literary works, children's books (which help form young people who want to know more and read more and learn more about their world). When I was a boy in a low income family that did not have a lot of books, I used the public and school libraries on a regular basis. I cannot imagine how much I would have missed out on had I not had access to the old Woodstock branch (at about 45th Avenue and Woodstock Boulevard, a few blocks from the location it has been for decades). I used it much more than I did the small school library.
9056	7/10/2012	I use the library quite often and even volunteer there. I am an avid reader and check out books regularly. In addition, the libraries act as a great community center, a place where neighborhoods come together. I would never choose to live in a neighborhood that didn't have a library close by.
9057	7/10/2012	My family uses the library every week.
9058	7/10/2012	Enable learning
9059	7/10/2012	Open access to books opens access to minds
9060	7/10/2012	I don't buy media as I don't like accumulating stuff. Libraries make sense. The hold system is a godsend; I regularly brag to non-Oregonians about how lucky I am to live in this county.
9061	7/10/2012	Libraries help promote a literate society, essential to a functional democracy.
9062	7/10/2012	I use the library fairly frequently. When I was in college it was a major source of information. I still use it as a low cost way to gain knowledge.
9063	7/10/2012	As much as I love the Library, Firefighting and Policing are more important
9064	7/10/2012	Public owned information, socialization.
9065	7/10/2012	1) good libraries are a central factor to strong connected communities. People feel connected to where they live and the people that frequent similar places as them. 2) Get people off their computers and out associating
9066	7/10/2012	Because we could not afford to buy ANY media with our level of income.
9067	7/10/2012	I use the library to get books. I am unable to work currently due to a medical issue and the library is my favorite place. The library is very close to my house and I am able to walk there to retrieve my hold items and can read several books a week. I could never afford to read as much while I am recovering from my illness if the library was not here.
9068	7/10/2012	They're a place the community can meet, either intentionally or accidentally. They provide important resources to the community and, through internet access, some of those resources are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
9069	7/10/2012	It is a source of practically free education and resources for things like internet access which in some cases is the only way people can look for a job.

9070	7/10/2012	When I think of library use, I especially think of the advantages for children in the educational aspects. It's a vital resource for all age groups.
9071	7/10/2012	I love to read and as a retired senior I get 95% of my books from the library. Saves money and trees.
9072	7/10/2012	It's a vital part of education to our young, and extended social piece to some adults due to their lives. Besides I love books.
9073	7/10/2012	I see the library as a community staple and as a place to even go to find out about local public services
9074	7/10/2012	A vibrant library is a place for all residents, regardless of income, to explore the world of ideas and to gather information to improve their lives and communities. It's a key to a free, educated society. - Serve as community gathering and information points[] - Promote literacy[] - Promote education[]
9075	7/10/2012	- Promote culture (through meetings with writers, artists, etc.)[] - Offer resources (such as for job seekers)[] - Offer classes (for people of all ages, languages and backgrounds)[] - Serve as a source of my native news (I'm originally from Poland and reading scans of newspapers in my mother tongue is priceless!)
9076	7/10/2012	I think public safety and other programs are important, but the library is a good long-term investment in our future. It supports the most disadvantaged in our society, and it is an organization that leverages it's budget to accomplish great things. Also, Multnomah County Public Library is a leader both in Oregon and around the country. Our support of the library creates yet one more reason people decide to relocate to our city.
9077	7/10/2012	I love the availability of resources
9078	7/10/2012	We need to have libraries available and open, the threat of them going away is too great.
9079	7/10/2012	I have begun to read a little on line via library checkout and kindle buying
9080	7/10/2012	It benefits the education system.
9081	7/10/2012	Not necessarily to me, but to others who make such heavy use of the library in person.
9082	7/10/2012	Libraries are the only access many people have to books, computers, and other materials, especially people who can least afford to buy books or own a computer. Libraries are one of the ways that we create an equal society for everyone no matter their economic status, language skills, race, religion, or anything else. Libraries are essential to the on-going, life-long learning that is important in every person's life. They help create well-informed and educated citizens.
9083	7/10/2012	education for everyone, endless resources for all.
9084	7/10/2012	Access to libraries opens almost all doors to people who have an interest to explore.
9085	7/10/2012	So many services are being cut for people who are the most at-risk. Libraries rank equally with other services that benefit our at- risk population.

9086	7/10/2012	Both my son (age 9) and I enjoy reading and are regular readers, and being able to check out books rather than buy books (though I do that sometimes as well) means we can support our reading habit without spending a lot of the household income on buying books.
9087	7/10/2012	Most of what I need I can get on the internet. Tough to use most branches when they aren't open during hours I can get there & I have learned to not use at all as a result.
9088	7/10/2012	Make knowledge available to all who wish to find it
9089	7/10/2012	Libraries have been my "third space" for much of my life- not home, not work, but that other place that people need to go to. Also, I have a good job but my income is low so I need to use as many non-paying resources as I can to fulfill my media needs and hobbies.
9090	7/10/2012	The community has free access to helping services, books, Internet which makes the community a safer place for children and fosters growth and learning.
9091	7/10/2012	In so many ways: access to materials and community enrichment.
9092	7/10/2012	Literacy is invaluable. All people should have access to books and programs that foster good literacy skills.
9093	7/10/2012	Information is power
9094	7/10/2012	something all can use equally
9095	7/10/2012	Serve the whole community and those with limited resources
9096	7/10/2012	I have had a library card since I was 3 years old....a part of my being & a life line for all of those that use it for their knowledge in a zillions additional arenas.
9097	7/10/2012	Food and shelter are most important.
9098	7/10/2012	I think the library is our most valuable public service. I am a avid reader...but I could not afford to purchase books if I didn't have the library, however I believe many citizens who use the library could not afford to purchase books. in addition having the computers available is absolutely necessary for many job seekers and students.
9099	7/10/2012	Because everyone needs access to books, computers and reliable sources of information, especially if we want an informed and electorate.
9100	7/10/2012	They are extremely important. However, there are other public services that are essential.. I depend on the library for materials; the physical books, Overdrive Media for listening to books on my iPod, etc. I rarely buy books at the bookstore, instead I rely on the library for pleasure reading and research reading. If library services were cut making them less available or completely unavailable, the amount of reading I would be able to do would be significantly hindered. I rely on the library to provide materials that my budget would otherwise limit or not allow.
9101	7/10/2012	Access to information is key to a well-educated society.
9102	7/10/2012	My kids and I are "bookaholics" and value the library immensely, but you cannot compare their importance to police, fire, etc.
9103	7/10/2012
9104	7/10/2012	Through the internet, I receive 90% of national and international news.

9105	7/10/2012	Look at how busy they are. The staff at any library I visit are extremely kind, helpful and patient. I borrow books, audiobooks, maps, do research and use the computers. I remember the days when I could go out my front door to the bookmobile and check out books in our neighborhood. They have always been an important part of my life.
9106	7/10/2012	They are less important than, say, a fire department, but they are essential in cultivating intellectual curiosity in young people especially and are an important resource for the community, particularly the lower-income people who can't afford internet service or buying a lot of books. Cutting library funding would hurt these vulnerable populations who rely on the library for school and job searches the most. ¶ ¶ I use the library mostly to read for pleasure, allowing me to broaden my literary horizons and take a break from the internet-saturated culture we live in. I think it would be a shame if it were to become harder for the average person in our community to access books. Books make us human! Books contain the wisdom we should have learned from our ancestors. Books make up some of the greatest works of the greatest artists and intellectuals who have ever lived.
9107	7/10/2012	The library is a hugely useful resource! Reading and having access to books and ideas is vital to stimulate minds and encourage learning in a community. ¶ For students, it often gives them so many more resources than their school or home may provide: books they might not be able to find elsewhere, internet access, a place for studying, catching up on homework, doing research, in addition to whatever student programs the local library offers. For young children sometimes libraries are their first introduction to books and story time. I think it's very important that children are exposed to those types of activities to stimulate the mind at an early age. Also, all the libraries I've been to have a children's story time at least once a week and that gives kids a place to learn and be entertained when maybe their parents are not able to do that for them.¶ For the grown-up folks it is still an excellent resource for finding reading material in print when other options are out of their price range, or otherwise unachievable. For people without internet access, it is hugely important. The internet supplies so much knowledge, communication, and entertainment. Often times the only way to apply to jobs is online, and if one does not have internet access at home, this can be a great setback. Libraries also provide a place for communities to come together. If one is curious what events and happenings are going on in their neighborhood, they can stop by their local library and check out the community boards, chat with the librarians, etc. ¶
9108	7/10/2012	They are important to me because a good library is key to preserving and passing on our culture. On the other hand, the library is not an immediate survival necessity like water and sewer system, paved roads and the police and fire departments.
9109	7/10/2012	Reading has been very important in my life
9110	7/10/2012	The library is incredibly important to me. My family, and others, cannot afford and choose to not spend our limited resources to buy books, movies, music, etc. I think that free public access to these things is very important for a continually educated, globally-minded, and cultured society.

9111	7/10/2012	I love libraries and reading. I think it is important to carry this love on to our children. It is hard now with internet and game systems to get children to read a book.
9112	7/10/2012	they aid education
9113	7/10/2012	importance of literacy, as well as library access for all people in our community
9114	7/10/2012	Aside from providing materials that i use to educate and learn, i also use as a entertainment venue (order dvds) because i no longer choose to pay for cable. i also very much like the sense of community and humanaity that librarreis provide.
9115	7/10/2012	Frequent, regular use.
9116	7/10/2012	This is the most important resources because it contains information, history, and skilled individuals to help others know how to use this information. With the decline of libraries, we will see the decline of educated, informed populations. Consider those who cannot afford the paper, or the internet, or to buy books. This is critical. Because if I don't have several books near by me I will wither. I like libraries because I can browse the shelves and find books that I would never know existed. Sometime I end up not reading them as they are not as good as I thought they'd be. Other times its to the contrary. If I have to buy on my Kindle I want to make sure i really want the book, and that it is not easily available from MY library!
9117	7/10/2012
9118	7/10/2012	Books and films connect us to community and to a wider world. Libraries level the playing field for access to important cultural materials and events. I am a writer and my work is available in libraries and I have been paid to read at libraries. Libraries provide important community resources for everyone, which boosts the entire city. When I was a child, my two working parents picked us up at the local library after school one day a week when they were not able to watch us. The librarian was very patient and kind to us, and frequently selected books especially for us. Libraries have always been a safe place to me as a national and international migrant worker, giving me a place to be warm and dry, communicate with faraway loved ones and locate resources. The library is the public service I use the most.
9120	7/10/2012	The library is a resource that is open to all income levels, education levels, and ages. Food, clothing, housing, and other such securities need to come first, but having access to free materials that can open and free the mind is invaluable to the financially-challenged. Library materials can bring enough information and fun into a financially-strapped household to help people feel they are interacting with the world on the same level as their better-off neighbors.

9121	7/10/2012	Public services are supposed to provide for basic needs - we're pooling our monies (i.e., taxes) to invest in these basic needs. Education is a basic need. Access to the internet (for some) is a basic need for those who can't afford to do it on their own. Portland/Multnomah county seems to forget this sometimes. Having lived in larger cities (Chicago, LA and NYC) and then moving here, it confuses me sometimes to see the choices local officials make when prioritizing what are "basic needs"...
9122	7/10/2012	I love to read. Reference material is available on the net, so is not needed as much.
9123	7/10/2012	I use the library as a source for knowledge. We as a society need to have the libraries for many diverse reasons and the children need to be shown the advantages of being a library member, if not by their parents then by someone else. With the schools withdrawing ESL from the schoolrooms the importance of the opportunities that the library offers the children becomes more important than before.
9124	7/10/2012	A good public library is a vital part of free society. A little tricky question.[]
9125	7/10/2012	Not as important as police and fire and mental health and schools. All these services compete with libraries as do bridges, etc.
9126	7/10/2012	Alternatives are few.
9127	7/10/2012	They provide resources, knowledge, services, and entertainment to anyone who wants it.
9128	7/10/2012	Access to information to all regardless of income is important to me. Having a place for kids to go, be safe and learn so they stay out of trouble is important to me and our whole community.
9129	7/10/2012	I use the library at least once a week to pick up books. My wife is a schoolteacher and depends on the library for its resources. I am always impressed by how well the Mult Co library system is run and the capable staff on hand. I would not hesitate to pay more in taxes to see the library be open seven days a week.
9130	7/10/2012	I'm old and the library provides so much information and entertainment that doesn't cost an arm and a leg.
9131	7/10/2012	An informed citizenry/public is necessary for democracy
9132	7/10/2012	Personally, I use the service frequently. As a community resource, I believe the access to books and other media is immensely valuable.
9133	7/10/2012	Library services are more utilized by our household than any other public service.
9134	7/10/2012	Teach your kids to read, and they'll be okay eventually, whatever happens.
9135	7/10/2012	Where would residents go without the public library? If funding shifts from library services, perhaps eliminating a few libraries is in order...or reducing services to only a few libraries. It is convenient to have libraries close in our neighborhoods for children as well as adults. However, if low budget does not make this possible, we can take public transportation to other close libraries for certain services...although that would be very cumbersome.

9136	7/10/2012	In my mind "the public library" has been a place that has existed in America for all my adult life. So has land line telephones. Are they useful? Not anymore. Maybe just as a small office to put in 20-30 free computers with one tech to help people log in who forgot their passwords. Public schools have libraries. What's the point of renting out free books & tapes when you can get them on a computer?
9137	7/10/2012	Make knowledge available to all regardless of income and opportunity.
9138	7/10/2012	after public transportation, maybe number 2
9139	7/10/2012	It keeps our neighborhood healthy.
9140	7/10/2012	Because everyone should have access to books and knowledge
9141	7/10/2012	Critical for access to information.
9142	7/10/2012	Access to books and online resources is crucial to providing opportunities to those with limited income. In today's world, online access is an absolute necessity for anyone who wants to do well in school or find a new job.
9143	7/10/2012	since I'm retired now I save money by using library instead of going to book stores or ordering movies/music from iTunes
9144	7/10/2012	As a retired person, I cannot afford to buy books so use of the library is critical for me. I check out about 50 or 60 books and other media a year and losing that service would be devastating.
9145	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for all kinds of material--books for pleasure and knowledge; films for entertainment; music for enrichment; and many other resources necessary to be an intelligent citizen and civilized man.
9146	7/10/2012	Even with the tons of information on the web I still want a tangible book, or resource. Sometimes the web has too much information and it hard to sort through. I can go to a library, and SOMEONE can direct me to what I need.
9147	7/10/2012	I come from a family that has always valued and appreciated reading, and public access to books
9148	7/10/2012	The public services provided for safety and health will always come first, so I wouldn't rate libraries as "Very Important" as compared to police and fire. However, I think that libraries are key to advancement of a community. Access to information is separating the low from the middle classes. For example, most job searching requires internet access. The library helps those who cannot afford internet at home to apply to the same jobs as those who can.
9149	7/10/2012	For me personally, the library is just a convenient, cost-effective way to read books without having to purchase them and to preview music CDs to see if I want to purchase them. However, I recognize the benefit of the library to the community - for many low income job-seekers, it's the library provides their online access that allows them to apply for jobs; for many seniors, access to library programs is a lifeline to keeping them connected to the community, for lower income students, it provides computer access to do research and homework, etc., etc. Is the library more important than police and fire services, no, but I would put it up there in importance with schools.

9150	7/10/2012	They provide a place for community to congregate. Children after school, adults, ESL. Mult library system is the best - so much more than other locations from what I gather talking to people across the state and in neighboring states. We really are fortunate to have this service. Community- it plays a key role as a place where county residents can gather and interact.[] [] Literacy- [] []
9151	7/10/2012	Information- it's easy it forget that without the library many people would be cut off, not just from the world of books but also from the internet.[] [] Civics- It's a place where you get to interact with your government without being in trouble or paying a bill. I think that interaction is important for government and people to have some kind of positive personal interface.
9152	7/10/2012	They are part of overall community education and information systems critical to the long term social and economic health of the area.
9153	7/10/2012	Because I use them frequently and the resources help me with school
9154	7/10/2012	Books are the key to learning. Information at the library is free, and there has to be support for that.
9155	7/10/2012	I use them every day. EVERY day. They help me with my professional life (the research opportunities are brilliant) and with my personal enrichment.
9156	7/10/2012	to support the community, education and a chance to do research on learning process
9157	7/10/2012	We rely on our library to give us access to books and information, and to teach our two children that reading is fun and important.
9158	7/10/2012	I buy my own books and use the internet for research
9159	7/10/2012	Access to books and other media is access to information, to culture, to skills and to the world. Libraries ARE civilization!
9160	7/10/2012	It is an open to all way to encourage knowledge. It provides shared space where people across cultures and economic groups interact. It may be the only public service that does that. It encourages exploration and curiosity which are crucial to a healthy society.
9161	7/10/2012	Very important but not as important as public education and police
9162	7/10/2012	I dont like to buy books-and cant really afford to anyway. I get new books to read and that is one of my favorite hobbies. Education is most important and libraries avail this for me(a senior) and my grandchildren(2)
9163	7/10/2012	I can't afford to pay for books and I don't have a fancy e-book reader!
9164	7/10/2012	Nourish the life of the mind! Libraries are essential (and essentially) democratic institutions - give all citizens equal access to information (and entertainment). Library staff can help you find just about any publication or information.

9165	7/10/2012	I am retired and appreciate being able to read books and rent TV and movies without paying extra for them. Also it is better use of resources for us all to share these materials instead of each of us buying them individually.
9166	7/10/2012	I depend on the library not just for entertainment, education, and reference for myself, but for my work as well. I am a speech pathologist who works with a preschool special education program. My work depends heavily on the library's Early Childhood Resource program. My work depends heavily on the Raising a Reader program. Many of my families depend on the library for free/low-cost materials, for story-times, for children's program, for English programs, for computer education programs. Many of my families have few or no other options for literacy materials for their children, outside of school.
9167	7/10/2012	They are a source of education on all levels. They open eyes to the world and encourage the use of imagination. They are a vitally important resource for people of all ages.
9168	7/10/2012	Education is power!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
9169	7/10/2012	Local libraries represent a part of the USA that is good and, unfortunately, fading away. Libraries are like artifacts from our past that should be preserved. They seem to stand in opposition to this new era of engineered obsolescence and intense greed. I like institutionalized sharing. I like the spread of ideas.
9170	7/10/2012	Educational opportunities for children.
9171	7/10/2012	They serve every kind of person and provide real value for your money.
9172	7/10/2012	My local library provides services that make my day to day life a little bit easier
9173	7/10/2012	Police, fire, utilities come first but the library system is not far behind.
9174	7/10/2012	I am a recent college graduate who is trying to continue to educate himself, and without the public library I would not have access to the materials I need to do so.
9175	7/10/2012	free access to printed matter, information and computers for all-[] for most of us, this is still a hard-copy world.
9176	7/10/2012	Smart people are more employable, less bigoted, and less likely to end up in jail which costs me money.
9177	7/10/2012	because I check out a lot of books
9178	7/10/2012	They are the only public service I use.
9179	7/10/2012	Equalizer. Even those with low income have access to all books and movies for "free".
9180	7/10/2012	Other public services such as the Fire Dept. and Police Dept. rate higher. []
9181	7/10/2012	Education is high on my list, however, and libraries continue to help boost literacy. I enjoy reading and learning-even at my "senior age".
9182	7/10/2012	At a time when governmental institutions are crumbling from neglect and lack of sustainable revenue, when a growing number of people don't trust the traditional institutions of government, religion, and society, the importance of libraries -- which people still do trust -- grows ever more important.

9183	7/10/2012	they are that level because police fire and infrastructure maintainance are all i really put above them.
9184	7/10/2012	I read a book from the library every day of my life even when we travel. I look forward to my evening read and during the day when possible. I do not watch TV except for OPB Sunday nights. I use them a lot for pleasure reading and research. [] Police and Fire are more important but not by much.[]
9185	7/10/2012	[] Why don't you do away with marginally junctional check out machines that are fast wearing out and go back to paid staff that have to be on hand anyway. Not a wise choice of spending. As a home educator for many years and as my children are now in public education, it is extremely important to me. With budget cuts as they are across the board, teachers rely on students to supply their own books for reading and I have had to purchase books when I cannot get them at the library or when a book from the library is unavailable in a timely manner. I am an avid reader myself and read for pleasure but also rely on books many times for projects such as gardening, painting, and a whole host of subjects. My husband built our backyard deck and our porch railings from books at the library. He also fixes our cars from books he's checked out of the library. I've gotten many books for my children that have supplemented them for school and for fun.
9186	7/10/2012
9187	7/10/2012	Police, fire,basic government services must be performed. Libraires come after that.....
9188	7/10/2012	The library is one of the greatest--if not the greatest--resources that we have for people to help themselves become more independent, self-sufficient, better informed, and better connected to the local community.
9189	7/10/2012	I love to read but cannot afford to buy books. i am a substitute teacher during the school year and a sun school teacher during the summer- i take out A LOT of books.
9190	7/10/2012	Libraries are community gathering spots as well as resouce stations for information of all kinds
9191	7/10/2012	Libraries are good for the community- they offer community members resources to educate themselves and others, use computers to help find jobs and an educated community is a healthy community.
9192	7/10/2012	Never stop learning
9193	7/10/2012	everyone should have access to many sources of information whether or not they take advantage I use the library nearly every day, along with my young daughter. We have a very low income and are unable to purchase books, movies, or cable television. The library is our number one resource for entertainment. It is also hugely important for the education of our daughter. My husband is a student and uses the library as a study location, and resource for study materials.
9194	7/10/2012
9195	7/10/2012	Access to information is crucial to a democratic society.
9196	7/10/2012	The library serves as my primary - and in some instances sole - source for entertainment media (books, music CDs, and DVDs)
9197	7/10/2012	It is my main source for reading and listening materials.

9199	7/10/2012	Though I use library services often, I understand there are other services government supplies, i.e. fire & police protection, utilities, maintenance of infra-structure, that are even more necessary to the functioning of the community. However, the availability of media resources is vital to the community and therefore places libraries at the somewhat important level.
9200	7/10/2012	Ensuring access to cultural resources, information, and library services should be available to everyone in the community regardless of income because educated and informed people contribute more to society and lead richer lives. Also, it is a rare gathering place for all the diverse elements of the community. A vibrant well funded library system offers access, social connection and opportunity to all.
9201	7/10/2012	As a teacher, I like to see children in the library reading or being read to. It is such a good foundation for their reading/learning development. Older children can participate in the summer reading program, use the computers, meet with peers to work on group projects for school, etc. I count the close proximity to the library from my home as one of the "pluses" of our neighborhood!
9202	7/10/2012	Libraries help balance the inequities in society. The knowledge shared through library services supports informed democracy. Libraries build community by providing common ground for diverse people to relate with one another. .
9203	7/10/2012	It's Money spent where the tax payer's intended it to be spent.
9204	7/10/2012	I think that a strong library and strong parks department are Portland's most valuable public services, in part because by giving people excellent resources and places to go we naturally reduce pressure on other public services like dealing with crime and health (by giving people places and activities to go to for fun and exercise). The libraries and the parks build the minds and bodies of our public, they also define how our we interact as a functional community. People value Portland, it is attractive and a desirable place to live, in no small part because of our values, we value our community and that is shown by a strong library and extra curricular system.
9205	7/10/2012	Because if else lose these services I will no longer be able to take my grandchildren.to the library for children's programs & to help teach them. I do not have access to a computer at all except for at the Libraries
9206	7/10/2012	The library is one of the only public services I use on a regular basis. It is a place to get information, programming, and computer access.
9207	7/10/2012	Because of the resources libraries provide to less well-off community members.
9208	7/10/2012	reading is the best way to prevent poverty

9209	7/10/2012	I think reading and self-educating are incredibly important qualities for all humans. I teach my children to pick up a book and go to a librarian and ask a question. Libraries help us help each other and ourselves.
9210	7/10/2012	Book lending and job resources
9211	7/10/2012	It's where we can get books and movies for free.
9212	7/10/2012	All the services provided by the library are important, especially when they are the only public service offering a particular service.
9213	7/10/2012	We've got a son going into 2nd grade and having a local library is great for continuing his reading education.
9214	7/10/2012	Because public education of quality is the most important thing.
9215	7/10/2012	I,m a reader I live in Gresham. Safety is the number one public issue here. We are mostly lower income here. There is so much we need. Libraries are nice to have, but low on the need scale. I know Portland loves the library, and it always approves its funding, but the increase tax hurts us here.
9216	7/10/2012	Library resources enable me and fellow members of the community to consistently and inexpensively access materials for the purposes of education and entertainment.
9217	7/10/2012	They are important to me becuae my family loves to read, watch educaitional DVDs and listen to books on CD. Without these services it would be very difficult to gain access to all of these materials. They also provide wonderful activities for my children.
9218	7/10/2012	I am a teacher and a parent and I use the library for my students and my daughter
9219	7/10/2012	Personally--because I love to read. But also because we're a democracy: our political system can't work unless we're well informed. Libraries are key to this, especially in this difficult economic climate. People who aren't well off and can't afford to buy books or newspapers or computers need libraries to be well-informed about political issues--and also in order to have access to books, music, etc. that simply bring pleasure, or nourish the human spirit.[]
9220	7/10/2012	Libraries also provide a space where people can gather, something that seems to be getting more and more rare in our fractured society. Their role in facilitating community is crucial.
9221	7/10/2012	i love books, my kids love books.
9222	7/10/2012	They are free to everyone
9223	7/10/2012	I utilize the library regularly and and I find it the most important public service I regularly utilize.
9224	7/10/2012	I would put them at the top (very important), but realistically, police and fire are the only ones at that highest level (sorry). Library funding should be right there in the #2 spot, however, for making a livable community (along with parks dept.)

9225	7/10/2012	the library is a great resource that i use very regularly. [] economics[] convenience[] variety
9226	7/10/2012	11 on a 10 point scale
9227	7/10/2012	Right up there with police and fire protection.l
9228	7/10/2012	Because they are a pathway to the world - to learning. Everyone has an opportunity to learn about anything - for free!
9229	7/10/2012	Don't use it much but would like it open when I do Even though I use the library quite often, I think I could still get all the value I currently get even if there were some cutbacks (like reduced hours). I do a lot of on-line library catalog searching and downloading of e-books so I can arrange trips to the library for the hours that it is open. It doesn't have to be open all the time to be a fantastic and valuable service. [] []
9230	7/10/2012	I believe that in terms of relative importance with other public services, the library is a wonderful service but not as important as other things that we need as a society (e.g. Education, Police/Fire, Public Transportation, Public Works)
9231	7/10/2012	I think an excellent library system and an efficient and affordable mass transit system are the backbone of a community as they provide services that benefit people regardless of their age, income, and life situation. Libraries are a community resource, a foundation for learning and essentially for getting kids excited about education, books and being exposed to different members of the community.[] []
9232	7/10/2012	My family went to our public library once a month, it was a ritual that taught me to love books, to love my freedom to choose what I wanted to learn about, to explore and it taught be responsibility (return the books on time, take care of a public resource).
9233	7/10/2012	I am an educator and an avid learner.
9234	7/10/2012	Reading is Fundamental....motivate people to read, so they get better at everything else.
9235	7/10/2012	There are more essential services. It's an important public resource, especially for folks who don't have access to these types of resources at home.
9236	7/10/2012	Without access to computers, books, etc., those less fortunate are at risk of falling through the cracks in a modern world that is based on computer/internet technologies.
9237	7/10/2012	Emergency services are more important, but library is a close second.
9238	7/10/2012	i use the library. and it is easy to use. I can't think of any other public service that i use on a regular basis.
9239	7/10/2012	I think of them as community centers, providing some basic needs for underserved populations in our community.

9240	7/10/2012	I work in a school library and when books are not available at our school, I encouraged the students to go to the county library. I also have two teenagers who often need the resources found at the county library.
9241	7/10/2012	Because we use it as an essential part of our family's entertainment and education. It's one of the few civic ideas from earlier days in our country's history that still has relevance to our modern society and it's a real national asset.
9242	7/10/2012	There's no other service like the library. And the US library system is phenomenal in comparison to library services in other countries (esp. Latin America). The library, for me, is the greatest resource (even better than the US Postal Service or the Department of Human Services--i.e. foodstamps, TANF, unemployment insurance, etc.) available to Americans today. It's an effective, efficient & much valued service available to all living here (with valid ID :)
9243	7/10/2012	Everyone can benefit from the library's services. It's an incredible resource.
9244	7/10/2012	They keep the population literate and empowered
9245	7/10/2012	please see #6. It's kind of like the "teaching to fish" vs. "give a fish" analogy. Books, reading, up-to-date available technologies for all ages... it's a trickle-up effect. Excuse the mixed metaphors.
9246	7/10/2012	They are a low cost way to provide personal education and cultural enrichment for the entire population.
9247	7/10/2012	I believe in supporting our public institutions. Libraries provide equal access to materials and the opportunity to learn regardless of income level or neighborhood. We happen to be middle class, however, books are not in our tight budget My son checks out 5-6 books at a time, and I always have one. We wouldn't have the opportunity to read so voraciously were it not for our incredible library system.
		I am a freelance writer, I choose and sometimes am forced to live a frugal life. I can easily spend 6 hours at a time writing, which is not as productive if I stay home and is money frittered away on coffee shops adds up. I like to feel that I am welcomed to stay in a place for so long without being obligated to buy something. [] []
9248	7/10/2012	Also, every time the library has something I want to read I feel so privileged to have a system where I can borrow it for free. This is of immeasurable use as I teach myself how to write. Staying in the library for such long hours sometimes three times a week, I see how many other people make use of it on a daily basis. From the high school students pouring in to do homework or use the internet after 3pm, to that elderly man I see come in every day to read a newspaper. I can tell that libraries are not just valuable to me as a resource and a place to simply be, but for others in the community as well for a variety of reasons.
9249	7/10/2012	Since librarians suppose to give me a better reference or resource more than my private resource.[] Other peoples' eyes or concept is usually helpful

9250	7/10/2012	I'm a senior citizen and have relied on public libraries for countless reasons, since my youth. Even though information offered in our public libraries is available online, I still think that people of all ages love to see and touch real books, to have a place to use the multiple resources with librarians to help, to bring children and seniors in for wonderful programs, including help looking for jobs, and more.
9251	7/10/2012	Other local services often have immediate emotional appeal for their support. Local library services are as vital to an intelligent public as the public schools--and they serve ALL ages directly.
9252	7/10/2012	Local library services fill the community need of people of the Kenton neighborhood to have a cultural center within walking distance of their homes.
9253	7/10/2012	I don't expect a library with county paid employees to be like a Starbuck's, to offer computer classes, to cater to babies and toddlers, or to have special reading programs. The library is not a school, nor should it be a public entertainment center. I'd like to see the focus of our Library be books!
9254	7/10/2012	In some sense, there is nothing more important than the mental world and access to ideas. The public services that allow people to have basic needs met are probably a bigger priority, as they sustain life and make it possible for people to be in the proper mental space to read in the first place.
9255	7/10/2012	Free access of important resources for the entire community.
9256	7/10/2012	because they are free and community-minded
9257	7/10/2012	access to information, learning programs
9258	7/10/2012	Because without them, people like myself probably wouldn't read nearly as much.
9259	7/10/2012	I'm there every week and I care about what happens to the library. It's a vital service to our community, and to downgrade services and offerings when it's the most used library in the nation with the largest customer base, would be a shame. It makes Portland look bad when we can't fully support our library.
9260	7/10/2012	I don't use public services much at the library or other places but know it is an important resource for the poor.
9261	7/10/2012	Libraries equally enable residents of all income levels to enjoy even the most recent print and media sources.
9262	7/10/2012	access to books is something that should be available to everyone no matter what their income...also job search info is great for those don't have other resources
9263	7/10/2012	I think library access is very important to many people for a variety of different reasons. I have used public libraries throughout my life for different needs.
9264	7/10/2012	When compared to fire, transportation safety and police the library falls lower. It also probably falls lower than family medical services. The library is very important to me though.

9265	7/10/2012	I read, and listen to audio books. I like the availability and the fact that if the library has it, I don't have to purchase it to enjoy it.
9266	7/10/2012	They are very important to me because I love checking books out from the library, instead of buying them. I also find them important because I use the library as a teacher to check out book sets and books for my teaching. I encourage all of my students to get library cards so that they can have access to books and all of the great offerings at the library. Many of my students come from very diverse and also low-income families, and the library is even more important to them!
9267	7/10/2012	My wife uses the library to checkout books.[] Most of what I read is available for the kindle.
9268	7/10/2012	I use it all the time[] reading material for all ages including picture books- is a fundamental educational a recreational tool
9269	7/10/2012	I rarely need anything the library offers.
9270	7/10/2012	Reading allows people to expand their knowledge, whether for personal enjoyment or for professional growth. This, I think, is an important component of a healthy community.
9271	7/10/2012	Childhood programming, especially birth to 3, is developmentally a boost for language development. It would cost a fortune to buy all the materials you can check out at the library for free! Computer access for those that otherwise would not be able to use computers is invaluable!
9272	7/10/2012	I believe that access to education and current knowledge should be funded by our tax dollars, but much of this knowledge is now online and can be shared by using less resources.
9273	7/10/2012	Having information--news, internet, books and research materials available to everyone is kind of fundamental to democracy. Libraries can help make us better citizens, better people. Some of my best childhood memories come from the library--story times, and all the wonderful worlds I got to explore by reading books from the library.
9274	7/10/2012	I am able to read books I can't afford to purchase, and listen to CD's before I decide to add a copy to my collection of CD's. Also, being able to view DVD's saves money & time as opposed to going to a store to rent a copy.
9275	7/10/2012	other local public services' include fire & police.[] Your questions are to vague.[] I am a single adult woman. I don't use the library to it's fullest extent, It think it's important for kids to have the library.
9276	7/10/2012	Access to books, community, media, connection to the neighborhood - so many!
9277	7/10/2012	Fire and safety are most important. Then water and library
9278	7/10/2012	It doesn't cost me money to use the library, and literacy/story times are important to me for my children.
9279	7/10/2012	Literacy and Education should be a priority. Free resources promotes equity.
9280	7/10/2012	I'm an educator and believe in the role libraries play for all citizens.

9281	7/10/2012	Because learning is a priority for me and my family, and the library provides many resources to support learning.
9282	7/10/2012	They are a better service than anything else Portland provides for residents. Seriously.
9283	7/10/2012	To be a thinking being in a complex world, everyone needs access to knowledge. For the citizenry to make correct decisions in the voting booth, knowledge must be spread; it's an essential part of democracy. Libraries make America strong. Libraries unite us with the thinking people of the planet.
9284	7/10/2012	Knowledge is housed in the library.
9285	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the basic foundation of a civilization and ignorance is the downfall of a free democracy. Independent knowledge is vital.
9286	7/10/2012	I feel that although money only goes so far in this economy the poorest will once again be underserved if the libraries ar diminished in scope. So I do feel that police and fire are important as well. The library is a part of what makes living in the city have a quality or a perk that can be shared by all.
9287	7/10/2012	I speak English, I am an AMERICAN By birth, I pay my tax to help me and others to live in a good way, I pay plenty, The MISMANAGEMENT OF THE MONEY COLLECTED IS THE PROBLEM, Can you see how easy it is to fund the study of yoyo spin, that is for a serviceable project.
9288	7/10/2012	The should rate just after police & fire protection and public schools
9289	7/10/2012	Provides equal access to information. So important to all communities!
9290	7/10/2012	I have always loved the library. Always find it a place to find what I want. Would be devastated if they were cut out of the American way.
9291	7/10/2012	I have a small child and while we own at least a ton of books and read all the time having access to more, and unexpected stories and picture books is huge.
9292	7/10/2012	Access to information and literacy education are two foundations of a democratic society.
9293	7/10/2012	For services that the county is legally responsible for providing, I would rank public safety, transportation and public health ahead of libraries.
9294	7/10/2012	Because without the ability to read and have access to the books man would repeat old mistakes
9295	7/10/2012	I love the library and frequently check out books. I couldn't afford to buy all the books I read.
9296	7/10/2012	For people who cannot afford continuing ed, or computers, books and the help libraries give to us, they are important for all ages. They are a place to gather information for people who do not have all those things available to them otherwise. Families with larger incomes can drive further to get to a library or have the computers and technoloy at their hands.
9297	7/10/2012	They serve many purposes for my family and the community not only through checking out books but their programs offered. The education resources that the library offers are diverse, widely offered and used making it an in valuable to people.
9298	7/10/2012	I believe that a robust library system is indicative of a healthy city.
9299	7/10/2012	They are the one community resource that every person in our family uses on a weekly basis. It is a place of community within our neighborhood.

9300	7/10/2012	Because it provides free access to information and knowledge for everyone. That's important for a healthy society.
9301	7/10/2012	access to information, education and resources can lead to great changes in society. Knowing that anyone can seek and learn information can lead to policy change, innovation and a stronger community.
9302	7/10/2012	The library allows my family free and seemingly endless access to books and programs. It would be hard to overstate how much we value and appreciate Multnomah County Libraries.
9303	7/10/2012	Because of the diverse people and needs that they serve and because I feel that access to information is vitally important for the health of the community.
9304	7/10/2012	The library affects everyone to some degree.
9305	7/10/2012	Retired librarian and big-time reader.
9306	7/10/2012	after critical services like infrastructure the library provides a resource for ALL to access learning, records, news, entertainment, etc. Provides services to ALL ages and types of people.
9307	7/10/2012	it is a place for the community to seek research, educate themselves, utilize classes for children and job research.
9308	7/10/2012	Knowledge should be free.
9309	7/10/2012	Access to information. The library as community center is important to me. The ability for all people to use resources.
9310	7/10/2012	Fire, police, and other emergency services are more important to me.
9311	7/10/2012	reading for young and old either for entertainment or learning or just so you can find what you need through reaserch . reading is good fot the soul
9312	7/10/2012	Libraries are a central place where relationships and interactions can be genuine, as they are not based on mere commercial advantage or mere electronic use - but on acquiring information & knowledge in a way that is healthful, useful, and fun. [] [] They are also a critical resource for obtaining information which comes out at an ever faster pace.
9313	7/10/2012	Library has a lot of resources to educate and inform the public. It improves the quality of our life.
9314	7/10/2012	important - kids need to lern to read and it should be available to all people regardless of financial status
9315	7/10/2012	Because it's a level's they playing field and gives everyone access to information and technology.
9316	7/10/2012	A library is a key component of an educated and free society.
9317	7/10/2012	Libraries are the backbone of civilization, a place to learn, discover, and explore. It is the other half where our collective imagination resides.
9318	7/10/2012	I believe our young people need access to books that they can not afford. Likewise senior citizens need access for economic reasons, and for keeping alert, active, well informed.
9319	7/10/2012	As a mother and a student I see the value in access to books and other media.
9320	7/10/2012	I love the library!

9321	7/10/2012	We use the library frequently (at least once per week), especially access to reading and video materials.
9322	7/10/2012	because libraries provide access to knowledge and information which are crucial to development of a strong public sphere.
9323	7/10/2012	to get book
9324	7/10/2012	Police and fire come first as very important. Support for the poor and disabled come before libraries but then libraries also offer support for that population too.
9325	7/10/2012	I am a consistent user of library services, more than most other governmental services. I sympathize with other governmental services, though, and might chose those as a higher priority even though I don't personally use them.
9326	7/10/2012	I use the library so much! It's an amazing research resource (both the books and the online resources like Sanborn maps and online databases) that I rarely buy books (the library has most of what I want to read) and I don't need cable (the library is my netflix).
9327	7/10/2012	Ambulance, Fire, Police, and roads are the most important. After that comes libraries, parks, and other forms of entertainment. So it is nice to have libraries, but not vital.
9328	7/10/2012	I have been a bookworm all my life. Reading provides insights, information, and entertainment. Library access is essential to support education and an informed society.
9329	7/10/2012	I value the concept of literacy and being informed. The public library promotes those values;which is why they are so important to me.
9330	7/10/2012	Folks looking for work use the library as a resource. Often homeless use the libray to rest. It is a place for older persons to go and rest and also rest and maybe learn something new.. Read the paper.. Money spent on the library than paying the salary of many of the politicians we have in this state and nation wide..
9331	7/10/2012	When a population is illiterate &/or undereducated, everything else suffers: personal health and welfare at the top of the list, which then also drives up health care costs and drives down quality of life throughout the community. □ Other than roads and safety, libraries & schools are the most important funding for any community.
9332	7/10/2012	The general public is too 'uneducated', too ignorant, and our political society shows the results.
9333	7/10/2012	Safety and public education come first, but access to reading material is an essential element for a healthy community. Not everyone can afford to buy books and we need people to continue to be lifelong learners.

9334	7/10/2012	Libraries provide an important source of education to many under-served members of our community - to our children, our elderly and those who cannot afford $50 per month for internet at home. As reading and literacy rates continue to tumble, we need to expand these services, not reduce them. Yes, this takes funding. My personal opinion is that other services are less important than the Public Schools and Public Libraries. I am not necessarily saying taxes should be raised (because they are already high); but sufficient funding should be allocated to the Public Libraries and to PPS.
9335	7/10/2012	I am not a frequent user of the library. I pick up items at a convenient location (along my shopping route) not near my home. I do not have children.
9336	7/10/2012	I think libraries support equality to the access to information and education ever more important for us to thrive as a society. They reinforce the importance and power of literacy and of storytelling -- in a variety of media -- and serve as a storehouse of knowledge from which anyone can draw. Through them we can learn about current as well as historic events. When successful, they can be a source of tremendous civic pride.
9337	7/10/2012	Very important
9338	7/10/2012	I am someone who knows what the value of being able to read and having a place to go read. Having access to material that I might not otherwise due to economical situation.
9339	7/10/2012	We use the library weekly to help educate our family, especially our 4.5 year old daughter who is a voracious reader
9340	7/10/2012	Not a health and safety issue.
9341	7/10/2012	very
9342	7/10/2012	Makes lifelong education possible for ALL.
9343	7/10/2012	Because I don't have room to buy every book I want to read, and I know a lot of people who don't have money to pay for books and movies and their own computers.
9344	7/10/2012	learning is the most expensive thing we do. the library gives people a chance to change their situations and change other public services.
9345	7/10/2012	Library service is certainly important, but if you are comparing it to fresh water access or functional roads or power lines then obviously those are more important.[] []
9346	7/10/2012	So, who's writing these questions?!?! I think they need to rethink this survey to make more relevant. Because the library is a part of the community and contributes to the connections people in the community make to each other. Also, the resources for the folks who might not have access to a computer or the internet at home is extremely important. These days you need computer access to find a job, and if you can't get it at the library where will you go?
9347	7/10/2012	Because I read a great deal and can't get to the library on certain days or times. My schedule fluctuates. I also provide books for home bound seniors..

9348	7/10/2012	My whole family reads a ton and the library has been a tremendous resource for us. It's so nice to be able to read a book without having to buy it and in many cases we use the library to "try before we buy." We are considering homeschooling and I think the library will be a tremendous resource for that purpose. The library has also made such a huge impact in the revitalization of the Kenton business district.
9349	7/10/2012	Library services contribute to the community and the general good by providing resources to those who would otherwise not have access, educating and providing programs for young people, and acting as a locus of interaction for community members.
9350	7/10/2012	Literacy is the key to an informed and functioning society. The first thing you do when you want to subdue a population is to control the flow of information to keep people dumb. An uninformed society is wide open to tyranny. Libraries are egalitarian, universally useful and a source of joy and happiness to many. Up with literacy!
9351	7/10/2012	I love books, my children love books. If books go away, reading may still exist. But in my opinion, our brains, intelligence and human interaction will suffer greatly at the hands of Kindle and other modern electronic "aids" Human interaction is already becoming a scarce commodity. For myself this is the central threat to my use and love of the library. But I speak for seniors, shut-ins, unemployed people who need to use the library for job search and also homeless folk who need to feel connected, respected and intelligent by being able to enter a building and use it's offerings.
9352	7/10/2012	I believe our libraries provide some of the basic building blocks of a strong community. Free access to information in all forms, especially in a digital age-access to computers, is a hurdle for many and it can make all the difference between finding a job, being able to vote, or so many other essential services. I can't think of anything more important than that.
9353	7/10/2012	They are a huge part of our life, and of the lives of many families.
9354	7/10/2012	I value the ability to share books with the community, rather than just buying books for myself and keeping them for myself. It seems silly to me to buy a book I want to read, read it once and then just keep it on the shelf where it just collects dust and takes up space. That's not to say I don't enjoy owning books, but for the most part I prefer to borrow them from the library and share them with the community at large. I also love the opportunity to go to storytimes and connect with other parents, watch my children fall in love with reading, and make friends. It may seem like there are a lot of opportunities out there to do this in other environments, but not like there is at the library. ¶ I also volunteer with Library outreach at a senior center I see how much this service means to the seniors who would otherwise be unable to visit the library.
9355	7/10/2012	The loss of public space in cities and towns across America is well documented. The library affords access to shared community space as well as information and services, including access to electronic media and the internet, to many people who would not otherwise have the means to access these things on their own. It is a safe place for kids to go and a place where elders can gather. It is an invaluable resource for students as well.

9356	7/10/2012	Libraries are about self-enrichment and self-enrichment is the future of our world.
9357	7/10/2012	Access to educational materials and communication tools. Gathering place for local community.
9358	7/10/2012	Police and fire services are more important, as are road maintenance and safety.
9359	7/10/2012	can't be as important as fire or police or road construction, but they involve the entire community
9360	7/10/2012	Libraries offer books and media, but they are also a community-building resource.
9361	7/10/2012	Along with the internet, the library allows me to research my favorite subjects without spending a lot of money.
9362	7/10/2012	My family and I have enjoyed the various services provided by the library at various times in our life. When my kids were toddlers we loved the story times, plays, etc. Now that my kids are older we love the resources, the great book selections, books on tape and computers, When my husband was starting up his business we utilized the various resource tools you had to offer. The library plays a vital role in my families life.
9363	7/10/2012	They provide a cornerstone, if you will, to the community. They are one of the few free gathering places, and the simple benefit of providing access to BOOKS is without measure. Having simply that access opens whole worlds.
9364	7/10/2012	FREE information, media and help . . . The best type of entertainment! Public schools close at 3:30 pm so I always encourage students to go there in the evenings and on weekends.
9365	7/10/2012	They provide easy access to books, and other materials without the need to drive down to the main branch, and deal with traffic and parking. Kids need local libraries as a place to experience books and learning in a small, positive environment, I don't think they get that from the main branch, it's geared more for adults, and there are a lot of messed up people that use it as a place to hang out.
9366	7/10/2012	Because they help people of all ages, from young children to kids in school to adults to seniors. They keep us all connected.
9367	7/10/2012	Books, and access to books and information is very important but there are many other essential services as in access to medical care, police and fire protection, water/sewer - et cetera. It does not diminish the importance of books but all things, many things, seem essential to life.
9368	7/10/2012	I love to read!! As a person who has worked at service, retail and low-level clerical jobs for most of my life, the library system is extremely important, since it grants access to a lot of materials I would never be able to afford to purchase. I am also doing research for a book currently. Since I'm not attending a university currently, the Multnomah County library system is really indispensable. Thanks for being such a great library!!
9369	7/10/2012	Because I know the huge needs in Multnomah County that are not met nearly adequately right now. I believe greater efforts to alleviate homelessness, improve education, improve medical care for the needy are all far more important than libraries. Whether there are other public services that are not as important as library services, probably, but I really don't know.

9370	7/10/2012	I love going to the library! I love the atmosphere, staff, books, kids, and sense of community there!
9371	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the base of most aspects of life.
9372	7/10/2012	They offer so many people the resources they need to be educated, successful, and well-rounded and are a huge benefit to communities.
9373	7/10/2012	Because access to books / media is a right for all of our community.
9374	7/10/2012	depends on the other services such as food and shelter, survival services. in terms of the future and current feelings of well being which do matter, the library is paramount.
9375	7/10/2012	Access to books regardless of income is necessary in a civilized society. It is impossible to store or buy all I would like to read.
9376	7/10/2012	See my previous comments it is my second home.
9377	7/10/2012	Without public libraries, people in our city will lose access to knowledge, specifically books, computers (the internet), literary programs, children's programs, senior programs, and resources that encourage people to read, learn, and grow.
9378	7/10/2012	The book lending services are vital to me.
9379	7/10/2012	Gives you access to books you'll never be able to buy.
9380	7/10/2012	I've always loved reading, and I desire to share that love with my children
9381	7/10/2012	Public access to information for a thriving, intellectually stimulated populace
9382	7/10/2012	Libraries are very important to me as this is how many in our city are able to access information and learning that they would not otherwise be able to obtain
9383	7/10/2012	I believe that everyone should have equal and affordable access to education and that local libraries help to bridge that divide
9384	7/10/2012	Libraries are of critical importance to democratic institutions.
9385	7/10/2012	I use the library every single week. I check out approximately 5-6 books at a time and libraries are my haven! I have introduced my children to the importance of books, reading, computers and how much fun it is to be educated and involved.
9386	7/10/2012	things like fire, police, roads, feeding people, and health care for the poor and elderly are the most important. Libraries rank high, but not as high as the foregoing.
9387	7/10/2012	Not as important as services for mental health, healthcare, homelessness,etc. but important to the overall community.
9388	7/10/2012	Libraries serve so many functions for so many people. For people who don't have home computers/wifi, they are their only connection to the information and services on the internet--vital if those people are also job-hunting. I use my library to borrow books and other media so I don't have to buy books. Students need libraries for research projects. Democracy needs libraries because information should be FREE!

9389	7/10/2012	I'm not sure what other comparable local public services are. I first thought of transportation and museums which i use more frequently, but I also pay for membership and or tickets so I'm not sure those are public services in the same way. I guess, the IDEA of libraries is more important to me than the reality of libraries. I like knowing that I have that resource when I want it.
9390	7/10/2012	libraries help to educate people
9391	7/10/2012	Libraries are repositories of our culture and an educational (and socializing) resource for the community, including new non-Anglo residents
9392	7/10/2012	Our use of library services is typically higher when school breaks occur.
9393	7/10/2012	Public literacy, open access to resources one might not be able to afford individually. Community gathering places and most of all, libraries give us all a sense of hope. The act of reading is not just fundamental, a wide variety of materials to read is also enlightening. The library opens minds and provides opportunities that are otherwise restricted. I check out books from the library on many subjects that I would not have the personal resources to purchase individually.
9394	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power!
9395	7/10/2012	The library is more important than the police. The Fire Department is only important because we don't want to repeat what happened at Alexandria.
9396	7/10/2012	Having access to library resources has been valuable to our family's learning as well as to our relationships in general. Books are a very important family connection!
9397	7/10/2012	The library is very important to me. Others may argue tho, that since libraries do not provide critical services: food, shelter, medical that the library does not fall into the absolutely necessary category. I feel that the library provides a great service to the community, especially to the poor and disadvantaged parts of our population, with its free and unrestricted access to information of all kinds. An informed society is critically necessary to the community.
9398	7/10/2012	Libraries are the lifeblood of an educated society! I have lived in countries without significant public library systems of any kind and as a result very few people of lesser means can choose reading as a hobby.
9399	7/10/2012	because I read a lot, and enjoy watching DVDs
9400	7/10/2012	shared literacy raises up all of society.
9401	7/10/2012	My child has had a wonderful experience with our library in California and in Oregon. I would hope that other families hav this same experience.
9402	7/10/2012	Too much paper, little attention to moving into the electronic age.
9403	7/10/2012	As parents of young children, the library has been instrumental to our children's reading. We use it almost daily to access materials for their use. Our son has become a voracious reader and checks out and then returns hundreds of books per year.
9404	7/10/2012	Without libraries, I would not be able to read as many books as I do currently. I know they also establish a sense of community - each library has its own classes and services.

9405	7/10/2012	I utilize the library and certainly support it and reading in general, but in these times local library services have unfortunately dropped some in my mind with respect to necessity and priority.
9406	7/10/2012	Because they are such an important community resource. We enjoy visiting our local branch at least once a week. I think it is important to teach my children the value of their local library and to encourage their literacy through constant access to different types of books.
9407	7/10/2012	They can be used for education for the poor and those with a lesser level of income. It makes books, magazines, and other printed material available to all.
9408	7/10/2012	The ability to render human innovation in permanent form is the bedrock of our cultural growth, and few things could be more important.
9409	7/10/2012	We can all learn into our 90's if we can think and read.[] So important for knowledge.
9410	7/10/2012	Because the library is the one place that I have always gone to read, get books to read, have access to book experts, libraries offer access to rare and out-of-print material, you can participate in library events, you can meet people there who want to be there for a reason, you can just read for the sake of reading. And lastly it is just a stress reducer, it is the one place that isn't bombarded with technology and with the buzz of everything that is going on in the world. It's a place that I can go to to relax and get things done.
9411	7/10/2012	I think reading and access to materials to read are extremely important. (We also enjoy all the public parks. I would put the two on equal levels of importance.) I want to help my child become someone who loves reading as much as his father and I do.
9412	7/10/2012	if the library were a place where you could check out books, etc, i would rate it a 1. [] when it turns into a community center with all sorts of marginally related programs, i have to lower[] its importance significantly.
9413	7/10/2012	Children and families - they depend on library services especially lower income. Many cannot afford internet and without the library system they would not have access.
9414	7/10/2012	Libraries are of the utmost importance because they act as a great resource where for many people there is not another.
9415	7/10/2012	My family and I use the library at least every week to check out books and DVD's. I rarely buy books or DVD's b/c I can depend on the library to have most of the current books/dvds. However, I have to admit that I was very annoyed that the library cut their hours right after having voted on the levy in May. It was kind of a slap in the face. Why didn't the library just ask for more in the May levy to avoid the cuts in staff and hours? Portlanders love their libraries and would have voted for it the first time around. It's bad PR to cut staff/hours immediately after passing a levy and then possibly asking for more money. Maybe the library isn't as well managed as I thought....
9416	7/10/2012	Below the need for policemen and firemen, equal to public transportation, above getting frequent garbage pick up.
9417	7/10/2012	Free Knowledge

9418	7/10/2012	The library offers many resources for all citizens, and is cost-free to users.
9419	7/10/2012	I think they are very important, but not as important as things like Fire Stations or Police Officers.
9420	7/10/2012	I use the Library frequently. Am impressed with professionalism of staff. Great to go on-line to request book and have it "On-Hold"
9421	7/10/2012	In this economy, many people (myself included) cannot afford to buy books and music even secondhand. The library is a lifesaver in that regard.
9422	7/10/2012	I have my 8 year old kid and I love to go there too
9423	7/10/2012	I read a great deal but cannot afford to buy every book that interests me.
9424	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and I thirst for knowledge. I am a voracious reader - at least a book a day. The library is my biggest resource for books. [] []
9425	7/10/2012	Also, the library was a safe haven for me when I was an abused child. No one ever beat me in the library. Rather, I found a better world. Through the library I learned to be a good human being, a good parent, a good cook, a good housekeeper, a good employee, a good writer, a good traveler - in short, almost everything I learned, I learned from a book. For me, the library is the starting place of most of the goodness in my life.
9426	7/10/2012	It's important to be an informed citizen in order for our democracy to endure.
9427	7/10/2012	I think they are relevant to a much broader portion of our population than most public services.
9428	7/10/2012	I use them all the time. Low income people need them as well.
9429	7/10/2012	I think the library is a great service for learning. A quiet place to study and find all the information you may need on anything at any age. All are welcomed, and the programs are great. Some children only have the library for a place to study and learn, and they may not have a computer at home. Schools are relying alot on the internet these day for homework, what are the kids without internet or computers supposed to do without the library?
9430	7/10/2012	An uneducated populus is worthless.
9431	7/10/2012	It should be beneath health, safety, and education.
9432	7/10/2012	Because everyone should have free access to knowledge and art
9433	7/10/2012	I think one of Portland's founding fathers (Daniel Skidmore) said it very well, "Good citizens are the riches of a city." It is the libraries that make us all the richer!!!
9434	7/10/2012	LEARNING & EDUCATION KEEPS THE RESIDENTS FOCUSED ON THE FUTURE, TAKE THAT AWAY WHAT DO YOU HAVE ?????
9435	7/10/2012	A highly educated public is the key to improving the lives of those in Multnomah County, and our library system is key towards providing that education. Also, it provides inexpensive education for those in economic disadvantageous situations.
9436	7/10/2012	These services are of the utmost importance.
9437	7/10/2012	free access to the literacy we all desrved
9438	7/10/2012	Utmost

9439	7/10/2012	I read a lot and can't afford to buy many books. Having a place where I can borrow reading material is very important to me
9440	7/10/2012	Obviously, safety services are most important, but I'd rank libraries above parks and other recreational services.
9441	7/10/2012	Frequency of use
9442	7/10/2012	I wouldn't want to do without police and fire fighters!
9443	7/10/2012	As noted earlier, we don't have a local library. We can either go to Central Library, battling traffic and paying for parking (or pay to ride MAX) or drive some distance to another branch. The only convenience we have from the Library is on-line access. We buy our books.
9444	7/10/2012	I've never been in the Central Library because the travel from far-off East County is so horrendously difficult. I hate to think how differently-abled people who live in Gresham or in any other neighborhood could manage without the local library. The manifold branch library services are vital.
9445	7/10/2012	Especially now that I have kids, they are extremely important to me. Reading and all that goes along with it is essential. Libraries are like mothers--essential, welcoming, and there when you need them.
9446	7/10/2012	I am a low income, disabled reader and lifetime learner. While other public services may keep me alive, libraries feed my soul and give quality of life
9447	7/10/2012	Library services are important entirely apart from other public services. It is not necessary to judge them comparatively.
9448	7/10/2012	Because it offers connectedness within the community. Offers help in learning, social services, and promotes a sense of cooperation.
9449	7/10/2012	They level the playing field, give access to computers and information to all levels of economic status. they are an important community gathering place. children connected to libraries early, learn so many skills and a love of reading and learning these days so many people have to use the library to have access to a computer
9450	7/10/2012	Because I use the library so that I don't have to spend money on things like books and multimedia - things I will use and then no longer wish to use. Libradora make more sense than a bookstore.
9451	7/10/2012	I am a recent college graduate and, luckily, have a job with benefits. However, I cannot afford to buy all of the books that I want to read or maintain an internet connection at my apartment. I don't own/watch TV and I devour books. Without the library, I wouldn't be able to read freely, broadly, and deeply. I also wouldn't be able to check my personal email. I can't imagine life without a library, and I'm sure others, especially those with limited access to resources, can't either.

		Libraries serve multiple functions. They provide:[] -access to books and other media[] -additional education, including providing resources for further research and self-driven learning (discovery)[] -internet access and computer teaching/assistance[] -a community hub/meeting place[] [] In today's society, libraries remain the one bastion of knowledge.[] Want to use a laptop or read a book at Starbucks? You're expected to pay. Want to look at books in a bookstore? You're expect to buy something. A barista won't help children find resources to learn science on the internet, or teach people how to use a computer to find work. A bookstore employee doesn't care about furthering a person's education. They're there to sell products, end of story.[] Librarians actually care about helping people find the information they need and making sure they are supported throughout the process.[] [] The internet seems to provide a solution to these problems, but in this era of smartphones, free wifi, and seemingly ubiquitous broadband internet access we forget that the majority of people either simply do not have access to these resources or do not know how to utilize them effectively.[] Computer skills are effectively mandatory knowledge for surviving in today's world. There are many families where children have computer skills but parents do not, which leaves them at a huge disadvantage when it comes to helping their kids succeed as well as helping themselves.[] [] Libraries provide not only a repository of knowledge but also guidance on how to discover and use that knowledge. They're just as important as schools, and in many cases serve as de facto schools in areas where education is inadequate.[] []
9452	7/10/2012
9453	7/10/2012	I have fond memories of going to my local library, browsing books, and reading for hours. I owe my love of science Good lord, what if I had to buy all the books I read and music I listen to? I'd be in the poorhouse! Well, I'm almost in the poorhouse anyway, so that would really be a problem!!
9454	7/10/2012	Reading helps to develop & educate people.
9455	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and I like real books
9456	7/10/2012	Because they provide access to media and computer time for those who don't otherwise have them.
9457	7/10/2012	I WISH I HAD MY OWN LIBRARY WITH UNLIMITED ACCESS TO THE WORLD.
9458	7/10/2012	An important democratic institution.
9459	7/10/2012	Access to information provides for life long learners and an educated work force and voting pool.

9460	7/10/2012	An educated public is extremely important and access to educational materials for myself is paramount to a good life. I come from an academic background and simply love access to information.
9461	7/10/2012	Police and fire services come first--then intellectual stimulation that keeps our spirits soaring.
9462	7/10/2012	Somewhat important
9463	7/10/2012	I read 25-50 library books/yr
9464	7/10/2012	Library services used for information. They are so central to the lives of so many people. Books should be available to everyone, free of charge. If they are not, we have given up something critical. Access to free books, and thus free education, is something that still makes this country great.
9465	7/10/2012	They help create the literacy that is vital to our society and create a sense of community that builds strong neighborhoods.
9466	7/10/2012	Knowledge and access to it is critical to societal success
9467	7/10/2012	it's a casual place for people to learn and interact outside of school and jobs
9468	7/10/2012	The written and spoken word is at the foundation of educating the public of all ages and broadening perspective.
9469	7/10/2012	Positive space for community interaction. I utilize the resource fully! - books, CD's DVD's, audio books.....I couldn't afford to buy everything I check out....AND I believe this is an important part of recycling!
9470	7/10/2012	without a library our youth cannot access the resources that are so valuable to their education
9471	7/10/2012	It's a public service which I feel like I can get my full use out of. Where say a public service like the police department one doesn't really see the value day to day until one must call on for some need and for most of my life that need has never arose. I know having police around lowers crime, but if that crime isn't happening to me at that moment I don't really notice the value of a quality police force. Whereas most days of the week I can enter a library and find tangible value which can enrich my life.
9472	7/10/2012
9473	7/10/2012	Very important as it is a place to gather information and educate our youth.
9474	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books that I want to read.
9475	7/10/2012	Because it provides access to information that I cannot get anywhere else. It puts literacy as a priority.
9476	7/10/2012	because the libraries are an important source for research materials
9477	7/10/2012	Public safety, infrastructure and education remain as "basic" -- library services are second to that. However, even the "must do" need to be done more efficiently and effectively.
9478	7/10/2012	that's where you gain your knowledge outside of a classroom and you can research things there such as automotive manuals or find an author that writes books you like
9479	7/10/2012	I utilize them more than any other services around.

9480	7/10/2012	Literacy is the key for our young generation's success, and therefore our nations's success. Next, the programs offered to community members such as internet access, job seeking help, and access for older or impaired people betters their lives and therefore the community. Last, it's a place for family enjoyment while learning.
9481	7/10/2012	It's my son's favorite place in the entire city and he's only 3. I'd hate for that love to be limited.
9482	7/10/2012	The library is such a good resource and safe, educational, inspiring place to be. Growing up they were a huge part of my life and to this day I depend on the library to find books for school research, check out new music I am interested in, and to be there when I just want to wander through the shelves and see what catches my eye.
9483	7/10/2012	In order for children to love books and not be illiterate, I think that free book services need to be available. I also think that parents who don't speak English need the library services in order to learn English or find job assistance. It's a free place for people to use the Internet. It's a safe, drug-free place for people to hang out. It's air-conditioned. It allows me to check out books that take me away to a faraway, make-believe land.
9484	7/10/2012	Certainly not as important as public safety, but libraries are an excellent way to be a life-long learner.
9485	7/10/2012	I am 83 yrs of age and I have been An AVID Reader since the age of 5 yrs.
9486	7/10/2012	It's a community center for families, a cultural anchor point for kids, a safe place of exploration beyond the home. It's a point of sanity, it sets the expectation that people are smart and remain curious. The multimedia resources are becoming more important to the libraries relevancy it seems, staying current in the main stream.
9487	7/10/2012	Why wouldn't they be "that level of importance" to everyone?
9488	7/10/2012	By using the library, I can save money and invest it back into the economy
9489	7/10/2012	There are some critical public services which must take priority for public safety and welfare. Libraries are second to these.
9490	7/10/2012	I constantly utilize various library servicex.
9491	7/10/2012	We are raising our granddaughter - entering 5th grade - and need all the resources that are available. □ I also belong to a book club, and I try to check out books whenever available.
9492	7/10/2012	Police and Fire first, schools second, libraries third.
9493	7/10/2012	I use the library more than any other public service.
9494	7/10/2012	i don't benefit from many "local public services" except for the library.
9495	7/10/2012	I get almost all my books and books on cd there.
9496	7/10/2012	Knowledge and learning access are powerful and important community tools for improvement, safety, and togetherness.
9497	7/10/2012	local public services ? Fire, Police, Medical, would come before going to the library.

9498	7/10/2012	In addition to having access to books and movies (at no cost other than what I pay in taxes) I feel that the library is very important in helping young children develop reading skills as well as a love of reading. Sadly, I know that there are many families who can't afford to buy their children books so the library is a critical resource for them as well as the entire community.
9499	7/10/2012	In this age of digital reading devices and on line everything, it is easy to overlook the importance of providing a rich environment of reading and other enlightenment material to people who cannot afford to use the electronic media. Libraries are a place to learn, research and to think and to be in touch with wherever a browsing eye can take them. Libraries need to coordinate with all other public services.....they are extremely important as a tool to calm and to change through learning and literature.
9500	7/10/2012	Education is always the first step to solving any problems. The library system provides a valuable service that should be placed above all other services in my opinion. The reason I believe funding is being cut is because you can't place a monetary value on the systems benefits, it's hard to quantify its use to the public. I will always support any initiative to maintain and even expand its services.
9501	7/10/2012	Because reading and social interaction during story times and other programs offered stimulates the brain for all. If we do not allow people to educate themselves in this way, then how can we expect society as a whole to remain as educated as it has been thus far?
9502	7/10/2012	Because that's where I go to find out about all the other services.
9503	7/10/2012	I have always loved reading and libraries. They are an extension of our education system, both for children and adults. They are a central part of keeping us all informed and mentally active.
9504	7/10/2012	Reading is so relevant to all ages. Small children need to be read to, elementary school age children need to sharpen their skills, teens and young adults need to research school work and find enjoyable reading too. I watched as my Father listened to audio books when he was older as a form of entertainment during a time where reading a book was impossible for him. This is just a resource we can not do without.
9505	7/10/2012	Providing people with the opportunity to educate themselves is an immeasurably important component of our social fabric. If the County fails to provide libraries, then access to such opportunities will end for many people. While some households have multiple computers or devices with constant access to the internet, most households still do not have a budget for a computer with internet access, and even among households with computers, sharing among multiple members of the family further limits access. Books and other materials available through the library system are a vital way for citizens to improve their literacy skills and to learn any number of important things. Libraries promote sustainability through shared resources. Illiteracy and low literacy is a growing problem because educational opportunities are not given proper priority.
9506	7/10/2012	It is a huge community resource for learning and community gathering.

9507	7/10/2012	Great community resource where we can utilize beneficial resources and also see our neighbors and local librarians.
9508	7/10/2012	All citizens have access to information and reading for pleasure. They also have access to the internet regardless of ability to pay for it. The library is a public meeting place giving people a sense of community.
9509	7/10/2012	I have almost completely stopped buying books as an economy measure. I am a reader. I also pick up cookbooks and knitting books addressing other hobbies.
9510	7/10/2012	The library is a wonderful way to get people to read and they also provide services and programs for kids, families and seniors.
9511	7/10/2012	Multnomah county deals with those at most need in our community and services to the poor and those in need of mental health and other services and those are very important
9512	7/10/2012	I love to read. It's important that everyone have the opportunity to become more educated.
9513	7/10/2012	public access to resources
9514	7/10/2012	I can do without borrowing books, but not without fire, police, water and sewer services. Please note, the more "special programs" the library devotes its resources to, the less important it becomes to me, in absolute terms, and relative to other public services.
9515	7/10/2012	It is our main source of entertainment - books, movies, magazine. It's also a nice getaway for an hour or two, the library also provides a sense of community.
9516	7/10/2012	As hours and services are diminished, people become discouraged about finding their library needs being met. Reading is critical for the health of our community. Access to free books and media is of ultimate importance.
9517	7/10/2012	A well educated citizenry is what makes a great community. Librarys are open to all, no matter economic or educational level, and with that edcuation, the citizens can make the best choices for other public services.
9518	7/10/2012	I have always been an avid library patron and I would like to ensure that my daughter has the opportunity to be one as well - if she so desires. I also think access to internet is important for people who cannot afford to have it at home. So much information and connection to the world at large cannot happen without the internet.
9519	7/10/2012	Libraries are a wonderful asset of the community--I read so many more books and get so many ideas that I wouldn't have had access to otherwise. It's so smart to pool our community resources for these materials, rather than individuals each buying their own books. And the libraries themselves are a sanctuary to just relax, read, get on the computer, or whatever else.

9520	7/10/2012	My child succeeds in school due to help from the library. I discover what computer options to purchase with research done in the library. I come from a poor agricultural town. I dreamed of success in the big city (and found it!) thanks to my library currying and feeding my dreams of life outside the mountains. I have done small repairs successfully without having to pay for them (and robbing my meager savings) because I could read how it was done at the library. My library builds confidence and supports me.
9521	7/10/2012	Library services are positive, proactive, hopeful and forward looking, whereas many other public services seem to me to be reactive to problems. The library feels like a cornerstone of society, and is thus very important, but I selected 'somewhat important' because if forced to choose I would have to rank fire and emergency services, water supply and waste management, and health care higher than library services, which are about tied with public transportation, in my opinion.
9522	7/10/2012	The library provides access to resources and information. An educated society is a healthier society.
9523	7/10/2012	Information is the basis for decision-making today...plus, I LOVE to read!
9524	7/10/2012	I regularly use my library and think it is a valuable resource in the community. However, it isn't the highest on the level of importance as far as community services are concerned. I think well funded education is the highest.
9525	7/10/2012	cause i need a quiet place to go study and a place to find resources for my college papers. I don't live near the school i attend.
9526	7/10/2012	I love libraries. My 24 year old son who has developmental disability thinks library is a second home
9527	7/10/2012	As a way to gain fellowship, no cost reading materials, and access to computers and media without expense.
9528	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a source of knowledge and education that is central the advancement and preservation of our culture and society. They provide a meeting place for educational events and discussion groups. They provide access to informational resources and technologies that some people cannot afford independently. They are one of few services that can be utilized by all, even those who are less fortunate or do not contribute to the tax base.
9529	7/10/2012	Since retirement, I don't buy new books and rely on the library more and more. I also donate old books to the library for it to sell.
9530	7/10/2012	I consider library services to be a basic service, fulfilling a basic need for the entire population. I think they are especially important in today's economy. They provide equal access to resources that enhance peoples lives in many ways -- recreationally, educationally and economically.
9531	7/10/2012	Education, books and knowledge are important and they should remain available to everyone.
9532	7/10/2012	I am a senior and spend a lot of time at home and reading

9533	7/10/2012	To me, libraries are one of the few public places that provide education, cultural opportunities and truly serve the whole community. Not too many countries have the libraries (programs, services, helpful people!) that the US has. We are lucky to have this library system in Portland.
9534	7/10/2012	Library services are that important to me because they give people of all ages the chance to expand their knowledge of many different subjects no matter what income level they are at. Libraries are also a safe place for people of all ages to study, read, interact with others, get involved with the community, etc. even on rainy days.
9535	7/10/2012	Access to various media for me, continued access to books and other media for children. I often use computer access for ordering books and renewing media.
9536	7/10/2012	I love books and have chosen to relinquish much of my personal library because the Public Library offers what I need.
9537	7/10/2012	Long waiting lists for the popular books, I usually just give up and purchase what I want. My friends have library cards at several libraries and shop around for e-book availability. So far, you haven't had any e-books I've looked for. So, I don't use the library much myself. It's nice that you provide other services such as movies and computer access, but I wish providing books for readers was given more of a funding priority.
9538	7/10/2012	An excellent library system encourages literacy. Literacy is the best antidote to ignorance.
9539	7/10/2012	because they are free, therefore accessible to everyone
9540	7/10/2012	public service
9541	7/10/2012	Utmost.
9542	7/10/2012	could never afford to buy all the books that my family wants to read
9543	7/10/2012	Books and learning are very important. This is a resource I like a lot.
9544	7/10/2012	Because I use the library.
9545	7/10/2012	It's really the only public service that I use on a weekly/monthly basis
9546	7/10/2012	Because I can't afford to buy books and music to share with my daughter, and I depend on the library system to provide a fun, free place for us to hang out.
9547	7/10/2012	Buying books is expensive. Having access without the expense is important for all citizens. Education is very important to society.
9548	7/10/2012	I want my daughter to grow up in a world where she can go to the library any day of the week and get something to read.
9549	7/10/2012	I think reading is fundamental to a civil society. Our libraries play a huge role in supporting education and providing access to information for all ages and particularly, for lower income persons.
9550	7/10/2012	They should be that important to anyone impoverished of moderate intelligence. It gives me access to the mental stimulation and resources that only those who can afford new books every week, expensive classes, and computers/internet

9551	7/10/2012	Education/Information is the key to all things in life. The local library provides both. It's important that everyone, regardless of their status in life, have access to books/library services to gain both for a multitude of reasons, the most important being to further one's education and to broaden one's views.
9552	7/10/2012	Everyone deserves to learn, no matter age or income bracket. Without the library, the knowledge base swings to the side of the population who can afford to pay for education, further widening the gap between rich and poor. Not a good scene.
9553	7/10/2012	Access to books and knowledge can help society grow. Without that growth, society stagnates, and starts to think that knowledge is bad.
9554	7/10/2012	I love the library and am an avid reader but they are not as important as firepersons but more important than tree services
9555	7/10/2012	Transportation is #1. If people can not move throughout the city, they can't conduct their lives or business.
9556	7/10/2012	My mother is home bound (96), I am a full-time caregiver to her. The library brings the world to us.[] The library keeps the past alive, explains the present world, stimulates our imaginations and is much more efficient than drugs. Please let the library system grow into the future.
9557	7/10/2012	Important for education
9558	7/10/2012	Provide not just access to books and other media but also to the Internet, which is increasingly important and can be prohibitively expensive.
9559	7/10/2012	1. Community[] 2. Book resource--public service for education
9560	7/10/2012	I love connecting with the community and using free resources makes me feel like a part of an actual community rather than just a consumer living within.
9561	7/10/2012	I need to keep up on business books. When I see a book mentioned in Success Magazine or Fast Company Magazine I can usually reserve it at the library.
9562	7/10/2012	Access to information is what enables the modern world.
9563	7/10/2012	It's part of why I live in this community. I don't want to live where there are no public libraries!
9564	7/10/2012	I personally use it as my pleasure (i enjoy reading) and for the development of my business (books on how-to, etc)
9565	7/10/2012	books will do you more good in times of no money than money will do you in times of no books.[] It is a method of advancement in life, the books. the knowledge, the resources.
9566	7/10/2012	Very important, but so are roads, medical & food & utility services.
9567	7/10/2012	The library is one of the few places in a community where folks of all walks of life may come and learn (together). A safe place to learn can lead to a more literate, educated populace, and that is key to a democratic society.
9568	7/10/2012	I don't use any other public services.
9569	7/10/2012	I use the library.

9570	7/10/2012	Libraries provide education and a non religious space for community members to meet and have shared experiences.
9571	7/10/2012	I don't like the way this question is worded. Comparing to an undefined category like other local public services is impossible and the spread between very important and somewhat important is too wide. Like important is how I feel the library is but it is not very important compared to feeding and housing
9572	7/10/2012	Other than the safety-oriented services, there can be no other public service more important to the community than providing access to information of all kinds to all people.
9573	7/10/2012	Because its a safe place to take my children to read, learn & not be scared of something bad happening to them.
9574	7/10/2012	Our daughter has depended on internet, copy and lending services as do many young people on a limited budget. I've participated in the young readers summer programs with our grandchildren and some of the events offered for children. We order books, CD's and tapes online and pick them up at our branch. We walk our voting ballots to our branch along with our friends and neighbors. Our Library is a part of our lives, a very important part.
9575	7/10/2012	I think they are very important behind emergency services and public transportation
9576	7/10/2012	It is part of the community as a learning and gathering spot.
9577	7/10/2012	very important .. resource for education and information ..always up to date in its resources to the community
9578	7/10/2012	Community feeling, socialization, learning, exposure to ideas/art/etc.
9579	7/10/2012	it's a nice to have, not a must have. in my opinion something that we could cut back on.
9580	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader, and without free books provided by the library, would not be able to afford to read as much as I do. And, with a young son who is growing up to be a reader as well, I appreciate the opportunity to expose him to different books and stories.
9581	7/10/2012	Saves me lots of money and time, providing me with unlimited reading material I would never have if I had to pay for it
9582	7/10/2012	We need an educated and informed populace.
9583	7/10/2012	I care about the library, but I care about it more for others than myself. I don't go terribly often.
9584	7/10/2012	This is very important to me. I don't have money in my budget to buy books. I get all my books and music from the library lending system
9585	7/10/2012	everybody uses it and a place where you can have some peace and quiet
9586	7/10/2012	what other public services? i don't see others unless there is an emergency
9587	7/10/2012	knowledge is power.
9588	7/10/2012	Public libraries are a high point of our society. More things in this world should be patterned on the library system.

9589	7/10/2012	the library is a way for people of all demographics to access all kinds of information and programs that will help in any part of their life. I see it as a starting point for nearly anything you want to do or learn. It is also a fundamental community meeting place and safe space for people to spend time.
9590	7/10/2012	Libraries offer support for all endeavors in the community - business, cultural, civic, personal enrichment, entertainment, etc., etc. Adding to our knowledge base is inherently good.
9591	7/10/2012	Everything else is being privatized. Community services need to be available to the public. Though I don't go to the library much, if I had time to read for pleasure, or if I didn't have a computer, or if I had children, I would be there all the time, or at least weekly.
9592	7/10/2012	This is where I prepare for school many times. When looking for job information, this is where I go. Without internet access at home it is one of the few places to get free internet access.
9593	7/10/2012	The local public services that my family USES the most are the library and Portland Parks & Rec; however, I consider these recreational services. I consider public services having to do with safety (police, fire, etc) and basic needs more important.
9594	7/10/2012	Criminal justice, courts, bridge maintenance and social services are much more important to me than library services in a priority ranking. Libraries are very nice and certainly add to the quality of life.¶ I have been a patron of Multnomah County Libraries for almost 60 years, beginning with the Knott Street branch, now Title Wave Bookstore. When growing up I was a regular at the former Hollywood Branch, spending many hours of many days there. I consider the funds spent on the new Hollywood Library a huge waste of money, although improvements to the elegant central library probably warranted the special funding. ¶ In my opinion, library services should vie for funding with all other county services as determined by established budget processes; in no way should a library district be created.
9595	7/10/2012	an educated society is a healthy society. Also, it's important that everyone, regardless of income, have access to learning materials and internet access.
9596	7/10/2012	Access to books and learning materials is essential for families in the community.
9597	7/10/2012	We rely on the library a lot. That's the primary way I get books for my kids as well as my husband and myself. I can't afford to go to a bookstore and buy a new book every time I want to read something. I've also used it a lot to read books related to my counseling practice.
9598	7/10/2012	The education of a community and access to academic and news resources is critical to the growth and maintenance and progress of a city and its people.
9599	7/10/2012	The library represents the community and is a place to build a strong and vibrant well educated citizenry.
9600	7/10/2012	Reading and individual literacy are of very high importance to me. Many individuals can't afford to buy their own books or to have a home computer with Internet access. I teach and the local library is necessary for my students to use outside school hours.

9601	7/10/2012	I'd need more info on what they are being compared to. Are you talking food stamps or just dippy little programs I likely don't know about? This is not nearly enough information for me to choose a ranking.
9602	7/10/2012	I'm an English teacher, an avid reader, and a parent of two small children who lives near the Belmont library. I love to have access to the books for both myself and my children, and part of the experience of becoming a reader is access to a fully funded, fully stocked, and fully staffed library. I don't know what I would do without our neighborhood library, and I can't imagine raising my children without access to the books and services it provides.
9603	7/10/2012	free public access to information, literature, reading resource is a basic service that government should provide and assure - in fact, it should provide this type of service in lower income areas of the community with even more resource support than in more affluent areas.
9604	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer. Information is important and libraries do a great job of sharing it. Libraries serve ALL PEOPLE--there is a reason why they are called public libraries.
9605	7/10/2012	I think that helping educate the public (through reading and library programs) can help prevent the need for many of the other local public services.
9606	7/10/2012	It is my background from living near NYC and the fact that we had so many books and a library where I could always go to get books. We were not rich enough to buy books, but we always had enough from the library.
9607	7/10/2012	Only police, fire, transportation and other necessities are more important. I am retired and read a lot--both fiction and non-fiction. I can't afford to buy all the books I read. Without the library, I would read less and have poorer choices. Even the few books I have bought recently are ones that I read and wanted for reference--cookbooks, health topics, etc.
9608	7/10/2012	Libraries make materials available to all regardless of ethnicity, religion or income level. Education is important as a value across the country. An educated poverty class is better than an uneducated one, and with that comes a reduction in crime. Some religions might restrict types of books available to followers so libraries give those followers and their kids a more liberal choice of reading materials which in turn helps undo their brainwashing.
9609	7/10/2012	It is rare for a librarian to shoot somebody. The services improve peoples ability to improve thier life, so fewer people require other assistance or turn to criminal behavior. A knowledgble population make better social and political decisions.

		Each member of my Family accesses the library each week. The resources are integral in the learning of my children - especially as school finds are cut and school librarians are done away with. [] [] The early childhood programs has given my son a strong appreciation for reading and storytelling and his vocabulary has grown considerably. [] []
9610	7/10/2012	With tight economic times we rely heavily on the library for our families entertainment, with literature, media and events offered at our local branch.[] [] As a therapist - the library is a great professional resource. Clients can check out recommended reading materials and my adolescent clients often make their first healthu social connections at library sponsored activities - like the Belmont branch's manga book group.
9611	7/10/2012	books and materials are expensive and it is wonderful to be able to browse and try out new things without breaking the bank.
9612	7/10/2012	I can also buy books cheaply on half.com.
9613	7/10/2012	N/A
9614	7/10/2012	One of the baseline things that need to be protected
9615	7/10/2012	I read a lot and love to be able to get books that are in the area that I like.
9616	7/10/2012	Education is important.
9617	7/10/2012	police and fire should come first
9618	7/10/2012	I recently moved here and am not sure of what these libraries offer.
9619	7/10/2012	Because there are too many un/under educated people out there void of even a basic understanding of the world.
9620	7/10/2012	because they provide access to information and education that can be reached at any learning level and in an individual's own best way of learning. they are also a great access point for community building.
9621	7/10/2012	it's one of the building blocks for this nation
9622	7/10/2012	Have always seen libraries as vital resources to all in our community.
9623	7/10/2012	We read a lot. Pre-k picture book selection impressive.
9624	7/10/2012	Because reading is part of my every day life and I want it to be part of my childrens' too. It also brings a sense of community.
9625	7/10/2012	I cannot afford to purchase all the books that I choose to read in a month and without the library I would not be able to read like I do. They provide resources that I would otherwise not have.
9626	7/10/2012	We all need access to the services it offers.
9627	7/10/2012	As a teacher, my students who regularly visit their local library are academically more prepared.
9628	7/10/2012	I can afford to purchase books if I need to but our children need education and other basic services

9629	7/10/2012	Since retirement I use the library extensively for books and DVDs. I love to go there. It gives me a sense of community. If you can teach a kid to love reading, they are set for life.
9630	7/10/2012	Very important.
9631	7/10/2012	There can be no justice without literacy. Libraries are a fundamental building block of literacy.
9632	7/10/2012	This is one of the best places for true community interaction and involvement. I love that the local library provides an indoor space for learning and access to resources for people of all ages and backgrounds. I also love that my tax dollars support a service I utilize and benefit from directly, while also allowing others to benefit. Libraries reduce consumption and encourage sharing and accountability while reducing the focus on consumerism and owning "things."
9633	7/10/2012	A literate, informed public is essential for a healthy society. Public libraries allow for ALL people to have access to knowledge and information and are most valued by the most vulnerable amongst us.
9634	7/10/2012	Not as vital as water, sewer, fire, etc. But damn important.
9635	7/10/2012	Libraries are an integral part of the community because they support all people through an honest, non discriminatory foundation in order to build a stronger community and grow intergenerational relationships.
9636	7/10/2012	Access to books, media and ebooks.
9637	7/10/2012	Libraries are important because it keeps books alive and it's a safe environment for people to go to. Libraries are a great way to re-discover stories, authors, music, and most important imagination. Libraries provide an essential service for people who don't have money to buy books, CD's, DVD's or have access to the internet.[] [] We need our local libraries.
9638	7/10/2012	The y have been my source foe multi- media since I was old enough to walk. I am now eighty-years old. My mother used her library into her nineties!
9639	7/10/2012	They are a voluntarily-involved contributor to a communit'es' cohesion and a cost-effect expense that encourages intellegence-development and informed social dialogue.
9640	7/10/2012	I am not going to suggest that we cut funding for schools or for homeless youth in favor of the library, but I'd say we should remember that the library serves all parts of our communities. The services the library offers, from books, to internet services, to language and homework help, and a warm place to hang out, are services that help our entire community and help lots of folks to be able to find additional resources. It is conduit to other things - literacy, greater excitement for learning, finding resources for jobs, housing, et cetera.
9641	7/10/2012	I would be lost without a library. I can't afford to buy books epeciallysince I read a lot & I can get any kind I want from the library. I can also get movies, music. I don't use any of the other local services so of course I think the library is at the top of my list.
9642	7/10/2012	They make the whole world available to everyone.

9643	7/10/2012	Critical to the community
9644	7/10/2012	Because they provide equal access to information for all citizens regardless of income level.
9645	7/10/2012	Where else can I get so many amazing books in such a nice environment? It's really too good to be true.
9646	7/10/2012	The library is an incredibly important resource to citizens like myself, who are on a very limited budget.
9647	7/10/2012	very important, right up there with electricity and water :-)
9648	7/10/2012	No one else does it.
9649	7/10/2012	For literacy, education, and civil society (being informed about what is going on in our communities, state, country and world.)
9650	7/10/2012	The library is a needed service; something that provides people enjoyment, assistance, information and a safe place to express themselves. Without a library system some people would be unable to access needed information, resources or have a safe place to express themselves.
9651	7/10/2012	free and open access to knowledge
9652	7/10/2012	Open access to information/beauty is key to a democratic society.
9653	7/10/2012	The library is the hub of our community and neighborhood. Provides access to books and materials to those who can't afford to purchase.
9654	7/10/2012	education is key and without libraries, people lose an important source of learning and teaching tools.
9655	7/10/2012	Because libraries provide the availability for affordable self education and betterment. Libraries are also a greener alternative to purchasing books, reducing paper and ewaste.
9656	7/10/2012	Libraries are part of being informed and educated and I cannot afford to buy all the books I want to read. Reading on the internet does not replace books.
9657	7/10/2012	libraries reflect the values of a city, a civilization
9658	7/10/2012	I think that they can offer a number of important services for community members. I just think that the community either doesn't think of the library or decides not to use it (making use of those resources).
9659	7/10/2012	I use this service! I've never used any other.
9660	7/10/2012	I want my children to benefit from all the programs I was lucky to have been exposed to.

9662	7/10/2012	Although I do not visit the library as much as I did when I was a child and had more time to read, a library is an affordable way for avid readers, researchers, and the general public to have access to art, ideas, history, innovation, and more. I wish there was a book-by-mail service available. One of the things that curtails my use of the library is finding time to make trips to and from the facility. Could library books be made available for loan in retail locations, in some sort of partnership with the retailers? Just a thought.
9663	7/10/2012	Right now, our schools are trying to pay for themselves thru yet another bond proposal. I notice a disturbing trend of not only schools going this route, but also for: public transportation, the arts, education, and other equally important public services that benefit all of us (including large businesses). Without ALL of our public services being properly, and adequately funded, then our way of life, shall continue to erode. I refuse to prioritize one group over another. Why would I do that, when I believe that there is a way we can provide sufficiently for one another. A true leader, does not sacrifice one, for the other, EVER! What sort of message are we sending to constituents and the community, if we compromise our morals?
9664	7/10/2012	Because libraries bring together a sense of community. They install a love of knowledge and reading among children and adults alike.
9665	7/10/2012	they offer resources to people who would not have access to them elsewhere such as internet access, programs for children and families, etc
9666	7/10/2012	I'm retired and the libraries provide a source of entertainment and knowledge.
9667	7/10/2012	Reading and research are important in order to have a well informed population.
9668	7/10/2012	There is something for everyone at the library. They can serve as a community information center and support other local public services.
9669	7/10/2012	Services isn't super well defined, but if it includes things like basic infrastructure that the county provides, I would put it below those things.
9670	7/10/2012	reading is key to staying informed, current, entertained... regardless of the delivery system - public libraries bring that service to all members of the community regardless of SES or mobility or age.
9671	7/10/2012	Because lots of information people can search online, free.
9672	7/10/2012	Obviously things that are a matter of life and death (health clinics/food pantries/mental health outreach) are more important. But, libraries come in a close second. Without public libraries, only families who actively promote reading, research, knowledge in general in their own homes can impart these values to their children. Libraries are an incredible resource.
9673	7/10/2012	fabulous resource for our community. the library brings people together..... so very helpful on so many levels. all people young and old benefit from our library....
9674	7/10/2012	They are important because of the availability and distribution of books, magazines, and online media. I have a full-time job and some of these things, I would not have access to. I can only imagine what it would be like if I was not able to use the internet or read certain books. I see the library as a resource to better oneself; a resource that everyone should be able to enjoy.

9675	7/10/2012	I see libraries as one of the precious few sources of information that are available to everyone. I may be financially secure enough to buy my own computer and afford high speed internet, but plenty of people can't, and they have as much right to the internet as I do. Books, magazines, and the internet let people connect across otherwise insurmountable boundaries, and the library gives everyone access to those things.
9676	7/10/2012	very important
9677	7/10/2012	I use them regularly. It is a way to reduce spending and consumption for me...buying fewer books and movies myself.
9678	7/10/2012	Books, reading and learning a of primary importance tommy husband and me.
9679	7/10/2012	some people may not have access to the internet at home and internet is a big means of getting information about many things
9680	7/10/2012	I do not have the resources to buy reading materials for myself or children and it is important to read.
9681	7/10/2012	Literacy available to all and especially important are various program for children and job seekers
9682	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a vital community service--they enable people to access resources they would have otherwise no ability to find and use. Libraries are also the depositories of our shared cultural history. A city, county, town or country without a library is void of equitable education, social service, and shared heritage. They are as important as any local public service, if not the most important.
9683	7/10/2012	If it weren't for our amazing public library, I wouldn't be able to read nearly as many books- can't afford them right now! The library is also a godsend for stocking hard-to-find documentaries, how-to books on subjects I want to find out more about without committing to purchasing the books yet, and I love listening to new music and watching new films. The library is a primary source of education, entertainment, and exploration for me!
9684	7/10/2012	Education and access to information affects quality of life more than any other resource. From good knowledge and learning come good decision making and opportunities.
9685	7/10/2012	Important
9686	7/10/2012	I use the library every week to check out books and other materials. I don't use the other programs but it is very important to me and my family that the strength of the wide catalogue be maintained. Also the library is one of the few indoor places people can go and not be expected to spend money.
9687	7/10/2012	schools, fire, police, safety, health services,e tc. then library~ they can be a hub of community with out reach, info. to programming, help with information gathering, SUPPORTING LITERACY DEVELOPMENT!!!
9688	7/10/2012	I want to live in a literate society where everyone has access to cultural material.

9689	7/10/2012	Public libraries are: educational centers for all members of our community; a safe haven for young people to go to especially if their home environment is chaotic or unsafe or dangerous; a gathering place for parents and children where they can access activities; a social venue for isolated seniors; a place to "rent" free movies, dvds and cds!!! To provide resources for my family to increase our knowledge and awareness various topics available that we otherwise wouldn't be able to afford to provide for our family.[]
9690	7/10/2012	[] We love the idea of community sharing and the library is at the center of that. There is absolutely no need to go and purchase a book that I may only read once. Sharing that same book with the entire community is ideal and just makes sense.
9691	7/10/2012	The library is an information center that is all accessible and remain so. Being a newcomer to Portland, I know the importance of resource information and the tools the library provides.
9692	7/10/2012	We need to encourage people to read. It should be a nationwide priority.
9693	7/10/2012	Access to reading material that I may not want to purchase but do want to have available.[] As a teacher, referring parents and children to use the resources.
9694	7/10/2012	I would not consider the library as important as public safety, but it's definitely important.
9695	7/10/2012	Books and reading is basis of all civilizations
9696	7/10/2012	great resource
9697	7/10/2012	services providing food and shelter are most important. followed by public transportation then libraries
9698	7/10/2012	Free access to information is important to the health of our communities.
9699	7/10/2012	I do a great deal of research, reading, and writing. I have come to rely upon the materials that the library system has available.
9700	7/10/2012	Pull backs on things like Emergency Services -- and the like -- clearly outweigh other services in this area.
9701	7/10/2012	They are so many resources available in a library that middle and lower income folks are not going to be able to access anywhere else if we lose the library/ continue limiting access (cutting hours of operation). But, you should really know this already, right?
9702	7/10/2012	Libraries are right on par with good educational systems and fair legal systems. They are one of the few tools we have to gain knowledge and access to information.
9703	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time.
9704	7/10/2012	I think that it is extremely important for people to have free access to information, both factual and cultural. My family also frequently rents movies to watch together.

9705	7/10/2012	Reading is fundamental! That's a dumb cheeseball slogan from my youth, but it rings true. I don't think enough people read, especially in print anymore, and as libraries foster and promote such reading, they are essential to an educated citizenry. At this point, too, they function as access points to the Internet and resources that many low-income people cannot afford to have at home. Both of these roles are critical in maintaining our city's workforce and intellectual integrity. I, however, work in public health and I can't say that I believe libraries are more important than providing access to medical care, promoting prevention of disease and infection, and prioritizing housing and job security for Portland. I love the library and would be devastated if it closed. But without healthcare and a place to live, I'd be much worse off.
9706	7/10/2012	Free Knowledge resources are critical to helping people with education which leads to getting jobs and lower crime rates.
9707	7/10/2012	I couldn't keep up on my reading/media viewing without it due to my financial bracket.
9708	7/10/2012	Police and fire would come first but libraries are still high on my list.
9709	7/10/2012	More important than parking authorities. Less important the emergency services.
9710	7/10/2012	Free access to information and knowledge.
9711	7/10/2012	because they are a service I actively use.
9712	7/10/2012	I could buy the books if I had to.
9713	7/10/2012	As above
9714	7/10/2012	well police and fire protection come before library service I believe.
9715	7/10/2012	I'll be honest - I'm a 20-something who lives in an apartment. I don't really need many other public services, but I like to read and am always short on cash.
9716	7/10/2012	The library is a neat place for people to go - but the money needs to go to other services like emergency services first. A library can essentially be online for most people - then you could have smaller buildings/staff for fun things like book reading for little ones and computer stations for people who don't have them at home.
9717	7/10/2012	Libraries serve a variety of needs in the community that aren't met by other agencies. They're formative for kids, a lifeline for the un- and under-employed, and a resource for every facet of society.
9718	7/10/2012	when I need information and / or media or computer tools a library is nice to have around
9719	7/10/2012	Nice to have, not critical or worth a tax increase for. Myself and colleagues/friends moving more towards digital media in all forms and that importance is decreasing as that happens.
9720	7/10/2012	The library is my primary source of books, music, and film.
9721	7/10/2012	While I don't feel the libraries are as important as emergency services, I hold them in a higher regard than parks and recreation. Their are a plethora of parks through out the city that require constant maintenance which I feel could be reduced into a more manageable, less costly system.
9722	7/10/2012	Libraries are an extension of education and an important means of access to information. Without education of its citizens and a free flow of information a society cannot and will not survive.

9723	7/10/2012	I believe in continual self-education, and that becomes almost impossible without access to libraries, especially in such a difficult economic climate. Instead of using the recession as an excuse to cut library services, it should be used as a reason to bolster them: people simply cannot afford many other avenues of self-education that may have been more feasible before the economy tanked. Obviously, everyone needs all of the public services on which we have become reliant: clean water, affordable energy, etc. But I will give up food for my body long before I will give up food for my soul. And the library offers me that soul food I could not get any other way.
9724	7/10/2012	Because I cannot think of any others that I use personally.
9725	7/10/2012	Provides a resource that's not available via the net
9726	7/10/2012	Reading is fundamental! A well-read community is a prosperous community.
9727	7/10/2012	it is a fundamental right that our citizens have free access to education
9728	7/10/2012	It allows time and space for our toddler to learn and grow in many many diff ways
9729	7/10/2012	They provide me with resources I need for personal fulfillment intellectually.
9730	7/10/2012	High importance.
9731	7/10/2012	It provides many more opportunities for me to learn, as a post-grad adult, then my income would otherwise allow.
9732	7/10/2012	Libraries are a valuable resource for every one in the community, regardless of income or social status
9733	7/10/2012	Library services rank below fire and public safety (including road maintenance) but are probably the most used public services our family uses in Portland.
9734	7/10/2012	It's a great resource that I'd hate to be without
9735	7/10/2012	It is a community gathering point for any and all. It is free.
9736	7/10/2012	Even though I may not use the library to it full potential, I think it's essential for the people who do. It provides access and services to people that would otherwise not be able to afford them. I also think libraries keep communities healthy and engaged.
9737	7/10/2012	Education and access for all
9738	7/10/2012	Well you see, it's just a lot more fun to read a book than to study my sewer bill... [] Libraries provide an extremely cost effective source of entertainment and self-education.
9739	7/10/2012	I would be devastated if local libraries were forced to close. I grew up learning to read from books loaned by my library (in New York). Libraries provide their communities with FREE resources, and in this treacherous economy, these resources are desperately needed. Closing down libraries would be a profound statement on our government's position on the advancing polarization of classes. Libraries are one of the few remaining ways in which the poor can learn to enrich their spirits. The wealth of knowledge libraries provide is invaluable to our communities' welfare. Within their walls, everyone is offered equal opportunity for growth and advancement.

9740	7/10/2012	I have had experiences in the library that remain with me today that included all of my senses in learning. I believe that is important for making the connection of getting what you are learning stick. □ □ I still remember the feel smell and sounds of the library that I used growing up and the lessons are attached to those experiences.
9741	7/10/2012	because they help me stay in touch
9742	7/10/2012	For entertainment and fulfillment
9743	7/10/2012	Without libraries we would move to another country.
9744	7/10/2012	I cannot imagine life without books.
9745	7/10/2012	To me personally, not much. But to the health of the community - essential.
9746	7/10/2012	I am a word junkie. I use the web site to access the OED online nearly every day. I could not live without this resource.
9747	7/10/2012	Libraries raised me as I was growing up. Libraries were a safe place, free of ignorance and hate. They expanded my mind and made it possible for me to be successful, today. They informed and entertained, kept me sane during tough times. I will turn to them again the next time I am unemployed. While progress is affecting the traditional function and role of the library, I think they are still crucial for any community, just as a community center that offers physical activities is.
9748	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot~ not just for entertainment (reading materials) but also because I do not have internet access at home. Also, as someone who lives alone, it is a social outlet for me, a place where I get a sense of community.
9749	7/10/2012	As someone once said the two great inventions of man are the library and the bicycle...
9750	7/10/2012	Access to information for all members of the community is critical to continue.
9751	7/10/2012	Libraries are what provide access to books for children and families who do not have books in their homes. Reading, and having access to a wide range of information and media are what develop literacy, and knowledge about the world, and this is impossible without access to books and the informational resources that libraries provide.
9752	7/10/2012	We use the library several times a month. It's a wonderful way to foster good reading habits and a life-long love of books. Public school ranks higher, and Portland Parks and Rec are high on our list too.
9753	7/10/2012	It would be a huge expense to me to buy all the materials I borrow from the library. I can try out other genre without having to buy them.
9754	7/10/2012	They provide educational and cultural material to everyone in the community that might not have an opportunity/access to from any other source.

9755	7/10/2012	I love reading and having access to the ability to educate myself. I can't afford to buy all the books, music, movies, media I'm interested in. I love having access to all sorts of information in one place. I also believe this resource should be available for everyone, especially those with few financial means. [] the last question asks me to determine when it would be best to propose the levy. I have no idea - whenever it is more likely for it to pass!
9756	7/10/2012	Reading leads to knowledge, education, and an expanded view of our community and the world. People need a place to go to educate themselves and their family, especially when the cost of traditional education is so high. My friend wrote a song titled, "the library- the original free school"... Also free internet access and cheap printing is important, especially for those seeking jobs.
9757	7/10/2012	We live in an information age. Free or low-cost access to information resources is key to an active, engaged citizenry.
9758	7/10/2012	Local government, really all levels of government, have become too stretched. This has left traditional central services competing with more "glamorous" initiatives. Libraries provide a valuable societal function in that they provide access to information to those that cannot otherwise afford such access. They also provide opportunities to encourage reading for children of all economic classes. This is critical to a democracy.
9759	7/10/2012	As a retired person with restricted resources since 2008, I depend on my library [] to stay current with books, music and films. I'd be lost without you guys.
9760	7/10/2012	Provide a good resource for information for all ages and a place for learning and enrichment
9761	7/10/2012	Utmost
9762	7/10/2012	Safety comes first
9763	7/10/2012	Free books to read! Friendly, helpful staff! a community gathering place!
9764	7/10/2012	Without educated citizens society is nothing.
9765	7/10/2012	Full disclosure: I'm a librarian myself!
9766	7/10/2012	I believe a good library system is important to a thriving community
9767	7/10/2012	Portland needs a strong library system to support the growing interests of it's inhabitants.
9768	7/10/2012	literacy programs and access to education is a NEED!
9769	7/10/2012	Access to education, culture, etc. No, not free, but important in the big picture.
9770	7/10/2012	Public services in all realms are important. Police, fire, education, etc. seem to be lacking in public support. It concerns me.
9771	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power! Libraries provide resources and materials that benefit everyone, especially individuals with low income. They establish a sense of community.

9772	7/10/2012	I enjoy the library, but it doesn't meet basic needs that other local public services do (like sewer, water, electricity, fire, police, etc.) I think the question above is flawed (it would have been helpful to know what I am "comparing" the library to...) and this follow up question is redundant. Heck, why didn't you just ask "what do you like about the library? Why did you vote for the levy? In your own words, what is most important to you about the library?"
9773	7/10/2012	Books are learning, wonderful escapes and an endless source of knowledge. Libraries are important because there is no discrimination against income level or class level ~ every one is equal in the library, and therefore every one has the access to reading and research materials. This equality is the very foundation of what America is supposed to mean, and sadly is found very few other places than in our public libraries.¶ Our neighborhood library supports and develops community, it is a place my children get excited about going to. We visit weekly, if not several times a week.
9774	7/10/2012	Libraries help us define our culture. They impart knowledge; teach social justice and offer a respite for the woes of the world. No other public service can make that claim. Without libraries, we would soon be a third world country!
9775	7/10/2012	I am a social worker that works with foster youth in the community. As a social worker, I myself am also very poor. Both the kids I work with and myself use the library very often, sometimes daily, to have a safe place that is free and offers a variety of resources such as internet access, movies, music, books for entertainment, and books for learning and improving our lives. Without the library, the other option for these kids would be to walk around the mall. It just doesn't compare and does nothing to keep the kids out of trouble and motivated to continue improving their lives.
9776	7/10/2012	The need for access to the outside world. World communities are becoming a interconnected. So there is a greater sense of influencing actions and reactions is very real!
9777	7/10/2012	Grew up going to the library. It became a haven forme for the rest of my life. It has always answered all my questions. It became a place of acceptance, learning, exploration, escape. As a senior person now, the library is still my number one choice for learning, comfort, and a equaility among all the other patrons. The programs the library has for all ages and needs makes one feel safe and secure in these trouble times, and that it is free for all our use.. the general public.The public can depend and trust on the library system,when so many other parts of our government and society is no longer dependable or trustworthy.The importance of the library is paramount, without the library it I truly believe the public would not have the resources it needs (even with technology) to have one place where all can be equal without undue outside infulence that is free to use for one and all.

9778	7/10/2012	libraries are an incredible, free resource for entertainment, education, lifelong literacy learning, internet access, research, and public space. plus, some of our branches occupy historic buildings and keep them open to the public and relevant to the community. Whether you are looking to check out a book or movie, type a letter or use the internet, attend a meeting, take classes, or simply get out of the rain for a while, the library is equally open to all.
9779	7/10/2012	On a scale of 1-10, a 7
9780	7/10/2012	I can't think of another local, public service I rely on more outside of trash collection and postal mail delivery
9781	7/10/2012	We have been struck by the bad economy and use the library for all of our book access.
9782	7/10/2012	Well, since I'm a school librarian, the importance of literacy and fair access is a very high priority in my life, personally and professionally. Libraries are the mark of a civilized society.
9783	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power! Literacy fosters life long learning and I want my kids to be successful. Plus, being a reader always gives you something interesting to talk about with others.
9784	7/10/2012	Libraries provide the resources for an educated electorate and a cultured community.
9785	7/10/2012	"Books constitute capital. A library book lasts as long as a house, for hundreds of years. It is not, then, an article of mere consumption but fairly of capital, and often in the case of professional men, setting out in life, it is their only capital." ~Thomas Jefferson
9786	7/10/2012	It's important to have this local source for the taxpayer.....more so than worrying about a new homeless shelter that is Eco-friendly. Taxpayers should be able to have their children go there after school for resource & quiet.
9787	7/10/2012	For myself, I simply love to read. Libraries are also a source of community for many people, and a place of abundance for people who are struggling - books, dvds, classes, kids programs, wifi, computers.
9788	7/10/2012	My family and I love to read books so it is really well used by my family.
9789	7/10/2012	The Library is the only public service we access that actually furthers our knowledge, education and opportunity in life.
9790	7/10/2012	It gives everyone opportunity to read and use the computer, regardless of socioeconomic status.
9791	7/10/2012	It provides free entertainment and education
9792	7/10/2012	Very Important. Although I don't go very often, I realize the importance of books and reading for development and growth of individuals. They are very important also because they play a part in the right to an education.
9793	7/10/2012	Libraries are of central importance to all other public services.
9794	7/10/2012	Resource for books, videos etc.
9795	7/10/2012	I think it is important to have books available to read free of charge. Being able to check out music and movies is great perk but the books are the important part for me. I would like to add that the library should acquire more current test prep books.

9796	7/10/2012	Reading a book is a very interactive and tangible experience. Smelling the pages, feeling the binding, watching out for paper cuts, weighing the book; this is missed in electronic media. Don't get me wrong, I don't shun electronic media. I am an avid owner of Apple products, however, I have never been able to get in the habit of reading an ebook. The act of physically turning a page is inherently rewarding and tantalizing. You can look at the book and see how far you've come and what excitement still awaits. When all the pages are condensed into a single screen in front of you, I believe that this minimalist format disengages the reader from the characters, the momentum of the plot, and, ultimately, from the intentions of the author. I read for pleasure, education, and transport into another life/time/place. Being caught up in a book's story is my goal when choosing a book. Therefore, why would I opt for the alternative, that which removes all essence of a book being a book?! □ In addition, unfettered access to information and knowledge is a right that all human beings should have. As libraries garner educational resources and provide educational/support programs with the public in mind, it makes sense that these establishments stick around for the long haul. Education has been shown to decrease poverty and crime in communities, therefore it is important to me that funding for public libraries are not cut. It is important to me that people
9797	7/10/2012	I love the library, the ability to check out various media, read magazines and use the digital check out system.
9798	7/10/2012	Libraries stand for the importance we place on a well-informed citizenry.
9799	7/10/2012	Library isn't as important as infrastructure but it is a great public resource. I like the computer, books, quiet area, community gathering, its of very big importance to me.
9800	7/10/2012	The libraries provide many resources and will always be a main part of American culture.
9801	7/10/2012	I don't go to many parks, mostly we are homebodies, and we like to read.
9802	7/10/2012	Important.
9803	7/10/2012	We keep a steady flow of books, recorded stories and music coming through our house, materials we would not buy or want to own, but certainly valuable to have access to!
9804	7/10/2012	very important. A library is a place of learning. Being a senior citizen, it provides a needed source of intellectual stimulation on a consistent basis.
9805	7/10/2012	knowledge = power.
9806	7/10/2012	I LOVE READING SO MUCH! But I also tend to not have that much spending money, so a library is really important 'cause I don't have enough money to buy all the books I want to read.
9807	7/10/2012	The more people read and stay informed, the better we are as a community.
9808	7/10/2012	The library allows equal, free access to information and internet-based communication as well as educational services and safe activities/spaces for youth, impoverished individuals, and the elderly. Nothing can be more important to the welfare of a free, democratic nation than well-informed citizens.

9809	7/10/2012	Libraries are more than books, they give people access to vital services such as resume workshops, computer skills, job seeking services. They also encourage kids to read and show them that reading can be fun and exciting. I also love that there are services offered in other languages besides English and Spanish, I feel that the ability to offer services in other languages such as Russian make the library a vital part of the community because they serve as a place where everyone can learn, be served and feel connected to the community they live in.
9810	7/10/2012	I'm lucky to be able to buy reading and other media materials, but strongly support libraries for their ability to provide so many services to such a diverse population. We must have access to literature and information.
9811	7/10/2012	A community must have access a wealth of information in order to thrive: to have new ideas, to understand our history, to have meaningful discourse, and just to enjoy being here.
9812	7/10/2012	Because people need another place to go to learn.
9813	7/10/2012	Saves me money...gives me more reading pleasure.
9814	7/10/2012	I tried to click on the # appropriate from 1-6 and it did not follow my commands so there may be something wrong with the format. It kept putting the numbers in sequential order 1-6 vice the number 1 or 2. It's the only decent place to get a piece of mind, relax, learn, unwind, dream...and all its spendor is available to poor people too!
9815	7/10/2012	Everybody needs to read, no matter what else they do. The library offers a great and inexpensive way to entertain anyone who chooses to take advantage of their programs and multitude of books.
9816	7/10/2012	The library keeps me informed about the world I live in. It's how I learn about history, art, politics, culture. It's how I make myself a better citizen. My life is better, and my city is better, because of the library.
9817	7/10/2012	Reading is the gateway to so much: self discovery, learning on any subject, aesthetic and artistic enjoyment , communicating with all of humanity, regardless of original language or culture, or even epoch of living. What could we know without books, except what is in our immediate environment, and thoughts that arise in our own limited minds? Not all people can afford to build their own private library. It is imperative to make the printed word available to all, regardless of personal wealth orcircumstance.
9818	7/10/2012	A well educated community is a productive one. Reading is the key to being a success no matter what the endeavor. If a person can read and understand what the are reading, they can do anything.
9819	7/10/2012	The library improves the lives of people who choose to make good decisions.

9820	7/10/2012	I'm disabled, unable to work and partially-housebound (I'm not a recipient of homebound services, though). The library is a godsend for me, allowing me access to interesting things to read and listen to that liven up the days when I'm too unwell to leave the house. I understand the library's value in providing storytimes and sessions for children to foster a love of reading, services like computer access and training for the unemployed and at-risk cohorts, and resources for the community. Many of us would be much worse off without it, and I'm delighted that it has maintained the high level of service it has (new books & materials, service provision, etc) despite these tough economic times. I would hate for Multnomah to lose this vital resource and community hub, as so many other places in the country have - once a library is gone or seriously damaged by sale of inventory, etc, it seems very difficult for the community to restore it.
9821	7/10/2012	Education and having exposure to thought-provoking ideas is extremely important.
9822	7/10/2012	everyone i know uses the library regularly
9823	7/10/2012	it is a binding agent for local people to interact with their neighbors in a open and honest setting free from any and all other obligations
9824	7/10/2012	Libraries and Schools are what I care most about.
9825	7/10/2012	reading is one of my favorite things
9826	7/10/2012	I've had and used a library card for 60 years
9827	7/10/2012	Low cost educational/entertainment source.
9828	7/10/2012	Literacy should be important to everyone! Also, without the library system I would not have been able to find a job when I first moved to Portland in 2004. I utilized the computer system daily.
9829	7/10/2012	all of the public needs access to books and other media for improving themselves
9830	7/10/2012	It is vital to a healthy community for everyone to have access to information. More and more the computer access at the library is vital for people seeking information, services, and employment
9831	7/10/2012	need good streets for riding my bike and driving my car. need police to watch over the neighborhood.
9832	7/10/2012	They are a vital resource to many
9833	7/10/2012	I am a teacher and use the library regularly to check out materials for students and myself, tutoring, and resources for my classroom. I also encourage my students to use the library to help with their reading skills.
9834	7/10/2012	I think libraries still provide access to people who would not otherwise have access. In this internet age, reading is becoming more and more important and library programs like the summer reading program, get kids hooked in to reading. Libraries provide low income people access to books and movies and internet service. They provide wonderful meeting spaces for community building. Over the years, I've gotten to know the librarians at my local branch and know that I can depend on them for great advice no matter what the question.

9835	7/10/2012	I have used the Multnomah Co Library system since I was a child, and as a senior, I am still using it. It was a great place to take our kids to let them check out their own bedtime story books. My mother is still using the library and she is considered legally blind. She checks out the talking books. The local library services are important because they provide for the entire community.
9836	7/10/2012	I really like to read and can't afford to buy all of the books I want. I also prefer to check out books I think I'll only read once.
9837	7/10/2012	We read every day and we visit the library several days a week. Every member of our family uses library material EVERY day.
9838	7/10/2012	Reading is important and should be available to people
9839	7/10/2012	I read a lot & like 'free' books from library, though I haven't used it much as usual in past year because of limited copies of current popular books.
9840	7/10/2012	I strive to be well informed and well read.
9841	7/10/2012	they provide services that are only available at cost other places, some services are only available through a library. An informed citizenry is absolutely critical for our nation. Libraries are a prime source of information availability.
9842	7/10/2012	Literacy and civic engagement a crucial in a democracy.
9843	7/10/2012	it mwwts my needs
9844	7/10/2012	Having access to books and other media is of the most utmost importance.
9845	7/10/2012	To make research,e-mail ,
9846	7/10/2012	I am a constant reader. Since my budget won't even support a thrift shop book habit (even if thrift shops carried the books I want to read) I rely on the library system to support my habit. I've been using the Multnomah County Library system for five decades.
9847	7/10/2012	Computer access. Book and magazine access.
9848	7/10/2012	we only use to library for books to read.
9849	7/10/2012	It's my resource to information, research, entertainment and learning. The library is where our family go to on a regular basis to gain knowledge.
9850	7/10/2012	We visit our local library all the time -- to get novels, cookbooks, home improvement books, movies and books on tape for long car trips. Library resources save our family thousands of dollars a year -- and give us access to tons of great information. Plus the library is a wonderful, quiet place to spend time and run into neighbors. I have been hanging out at the library since I was a kid and want it to be a big part of my kids' lives as well.
9851	7/10/2012	I am committing to checking books out of the library rather than buying them.
9852	7/10/2012	I utilize the library a great deal. I love to read and have tried to teach my grandchildren the importance of reading.
9853	7/10/2012	I like borrowing books from the library rather than buying them. As a home owner in the Belmont area, it's nice to know my property taxes are going to fund my reading. I also like the idea of reusing the books rather than them sitting on my shelf after I read them once.

9854	7/10/2012	they provide bathrooms, meeting spaces, shelter from the elements (at least during the day) as well as entertainment, education, and information.
9855	7/10/2012	I love our library system - I use it on a regular basis!
9856	7/10/2012	All people should have access to our public library and because I believe this so firmly it is why it is very important to me.
9857	7/10/2012	Because people can't afford to buy books. Also, a lot of people can't afford to own a computer.
9858	7/10/2012	It is one of the few public services that I actually use.
9859	7/10/2012	Safety first
9860	7/10/2012	The library provides daily services across broad categories of individuals in the community. Our county library system is one of the jewels of this area, and it adds immensely to our quality of life.
9861	7/10/2012	They bring literacy and educational resources to EVERYONE in the community. I am a teacher - students, particularly low income students, need access to books and other vital library services.
9862	7/10/2012	Families need a safe place to share stories and access other materials. Libraries are the perfect place for positive community events and gatherings.
9863	7/10/2012	They provide early learning and educational experiences that can help keep kids in school and successful. They provide access to technology and information for those who don't have access otherwise.
9864	7/10/2012	they rank one below the first priority of government, safety (i.e., police and fire) and basic infrastructure (i.e., roads, water, etc.). Library services are still very important in my mind as are some other services like education, other social programs but if I have to prioritize these are a 2nd tier.
9865	7/10/2012	Having a public library in one's community allows people to learn more about whatever they want or need to learn more about. This helps all of society. Without access to books, media, music, children's programs, a sense of the community is lost. A connection to things bigger than oneself is lost. Kids get bored without a book to read. Adults feel hopeless without a computer to use. Mom's feel less connected when they can't go for storytime at the library. It is a staple of local public service and it should be treated with the highest importance in all of our communities.
9866	7/10/2012	"Local public services" is vague. The library is very important to me, but not more than power and water. A few examples in this question may help folks to provide clearer data.
9867	7/10/2012	One of my strongest and fondest childhood memories is of my small town library...I spent many hours there from the time I was five until I graduated. Access to books opens new worlds, offers education and possibilities. However, the other services that are under-funded and need to be addressed are law enforcement and assistance for the elderly.
9868	7/10/2012	Access to free materials for low income
9869	7/10/2012	Can't put libraries above Police and fire.

9870	7/10/2012	County and City taxes are out of control. Union negotiations have given away the farm. More taxes are never enough . Stop spending now before those that pay can no longer pay. I am retired and on a fixed income. Why can't Mult. County, the library, schools, and the City of Portland do the same?
9871	7/10/2012	I love the lib and think it provides an excellent resource to our community
9872	7/10/2012	Education is very important. I can't imagine my kids without a book
9873	7/10/2012	access to library materials and services is like life-blood
9874	7/10/2012	Because must have a literate and well read society with access to modern communication as well as books. equal importance with schools!
9875	7/10/2012	I use the library almost exclusively for my reading material and encourage friends and family do do the same. It would not be as possible if the library had more restricted hours.
9876	7/10/2012	We depend on the library for nearly all of our reading material as well as entertainment in the form of DVD's.
9877	7/10/2012	I use mass transit so have a lot of time for reading. I have a Kindle but find that using the library hard-copy books is my preferred method. I read library books constantly.
9878	7/10/2012	I have many options for entertainment and don't NEED the library, however, it IS a part of my entertainment spectrum o choices.
9879	7/10/2012	They provide access to materials (book, resources) for those who are unable to do so for whatever reason.
9880	7/10/2012	Because we use the library several times per week. We borrow many books and research new boos regularly.
9881	7/10/2012	My family uses the library almost daily, especially in the summer. We use it for computer access/wi-fi services that we can not currently afford at home. My oldest daughter is also very involved in the summer reading program as a volunteer and enjoys it very much.
9882	7/10/2012	Because they provide access to knowledge without discrimination to age, race, social class, or economic status. They provide a safe place for kids to learn and get help when their parents are working. They encourage literacy.
9883	7/10/2012	I use this service frequently, but that does not mean that it is that important compared with other services such as public safety, social services, and infrastructure like roads, water and sewers. It is a luxury to have a great library system like we have. We could live with a less rich library system.
9884	7/10/2012	Because the library is a source of knowledge. Knowledge is power. We want an educated society.
9885	7/10/2012	They are of high importance to me because this is where I get most of the books I read. And without books I wouldn't be as smart as i am now.

9886	7/10/2012	I would rank the library behind fire and police, but the wonderful library system is a great part of what makes Portland special. I have lived in many other cities, but almost never used the library. The libraries here are easy to use and have wonderful programs for all ages! The reference librarians are excellent. □ For some people the libraries provide the only computer access they have.
9887	7/10/2012	I'm a students and most of the research paper I wrote require me to get at least 1 or 2 books from a library which I used to go to is my local library and I think it's quite important for a lot of students as well.
9888	7/10/2012	Because librarians don't care about anything except people being respectful of each other and helping people meet their goals at the library. They are egalitarian, organized, expansive and peaceful places to be and function the way I would like all places of public use and service to. All other social programs involve rhetoric, policing, backdoor policies and otherwise a bunch of "stuff" I neither want nor need. I have met a lot of careerist social workers, a lot of disrespectful police etc, etc, but when I have something I need to accomplish, I walk out of the library every single time having met my goals there, and often, more.
9889	7/10/2012	Because they hold the future of our children.
9890	7/10/2012	They provide access to information, entertainment and training within a community setting. These services are individually available elsewhere, but not to everyone all in one place as they are in a library. My opinion is influenced by a lifetime of affection for my neighborhood libraries over the years and appreciation of the access they have always offered me to reading and the warmth of a community gathering place.
9891	7/10/2012	Because they provide a great deal of services that I couldn't get elsewhere without great time and expense. Books and other materials of course, but also puppet shows and train days for my kids.
9892	7/10/2012	Education, knowledge access to all
9893	7/10/2012	our family uses the library several times a week and we see first hand what a great resource it is for the community.
9894	7/10/2012	I am a public school teacher and the materials at the library support my teaching, especially science and social studies!
9895	7/10/2012	Even though I'm not a heavy user of the library, I know it's of great importance for many people in the communities they are located in. For many it's a place where they can come and feel a sense of community.
9896	7/10/2012	I think public libraries are essential to provide the opportunity for education to all.
9897	7/10/2012	Other services are more important such as police and fire
9898	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and have been using a public library where ever I have lived since I was 3 or 4 years old (I am now 65)
9899	7/10/2012	Education most of all. It's a very important part of our community that everyone should have easy access too.

9900	7/10/2012	because I have a child of 6 yrs old who is just learning to read and we visit the library constantly for books, movies, and events
9901	7/10/2012	because early education and services from libraries for young readers help them stay in school longer and keep them out of the costlier criminal justice system. In times of economic downturn they are crucial for indigent folks to apply for jobs on line and to work on their resumes etc.
9902	7/10/2012	Libraries are, and have been, the single most important source of knowledge and information since our country was founded. To lose them would be to lose a very critical part of our American heritage.
9903	7/10/2012	There are obviously more important things out there. Police, Fire, Medical. Road conditions. Traffic problems. [] Just as obvious though, there are things funded that are ridiculous. The above budgets are bloated with un-necessary items such as street beautification projects. Truly unbelievable pension revenues. ETC.
9904	7/10/2012	Libraries support ongoing education and community involvement. They keep us smart and support healthy communities.
9905	7/10/2012	Not everyone has the ability to buy books, media or computer access. The library accounts for those people. It provides a safe place for children in stressful homes to come study or just take refuge for a few hours! It helps to educate and bring the community together. Without library and school funding...how will there be equality in this democracy? The voices of everyone will not be heard without these institutions!
9906	7/10/2012	They promote literacy at all ages. They are free to all.
9907	7/10/2012	We use the library several times a week. It is a huge part of our lives and am so grateful for the library. It is one of my top 5 favorite places to go! I love the online catalog and the ability to put on hold items.
9908	7/10/2012	This is an important part of my son's education and personal development.
9909	7/10/2012	I need to read I love to read I love to do research (with books and materials) on my chosen topics[] I need to access the library online also
9910	7/10/2012	I think libraries are an essential and fundamental part of our culture and education system. They have become less important to me on a personal, practical level, as I grow older, but they are vital for children, in my opinion.
9911	7/10/2012	An educated population is key to success in the region.
9912	7/10/2012	I can get the same thing I can get at the library, and more, at home, immediately, to say nothing about gas costs.
9913	7/10/2012	They provide information and knowledge to all income levels. It is a neutral place for all people to get affordable access to current information and technology.

9914	7/10/2012	Because its very important for families to have options for free educational resources and reading materials
9915	7/10/2012	i don't have a big budget for new media. not to mention it is wasteful to buy a book and just read it once and have it sit on a shelf or whatever. libraries are incubators of democracy -- they provide free and equal access to information citizens need to participate in society.
9916	7/10/2012	They are a center for inspiration and action in our communities. They help me meet neighbors that have children my kids ages and they teach our kids to love books, reading, research and all the joys they bring.
9917	7/10/2012	Because the library is a friendly, accesible, knowledgable, great place to receive public services. They make their services widely known and easy to access, working their hardest just so that you can attain whatever goals you may possess. Their numerous locations ensure that no matter where you live you going to the library isn't an obstacle.
9918	7/10/2012	Exceptional professional library staff who all deserve raises. Astounding circulation of valuable books and media. Organized, strong, overall system. Life long learning opportunities for everyone using the library, no matter a persons economic reality.
9919	7/10/2012	The library is a constant source of information and knowledge. I can always go in a find an old book/author or a new book/author and learn something new. The only big downside I see these days are many books I would love to read are only available on Kindle.
9920	7/10/2012	I am a stay at home mom on Monday and Tuesday and work the rest of the week. I really enjoyed Peter's Monday Toddler class at Gresham Library. My daughter was making friends there and it was a great way for me to get out of the house. While we were there, we'd check out books and audiobooks. Now the library isn't even open on Monday. I would listen to the audio books on my way to work but now I can only get them during very random hours when the library is open.

9921 7/10/2012	I use the library all the time for fun, entertainment and learning. Some years back, the library literally taught me all I needed to know to get a good job. I am a computer programmer who makes a decent income, recently bought a house, patronizes local businesses and pays taxes. I learned to program and administer computers thanks to the excellent technical book section on the second floor of the Central Library. College only taught me English literature. The library could have done that too...[] [] Of course, the police, mental health services, road crews, etc. are vitally important, but the library is the place where everyone in the country actually gets something for their tax dollars. I see people of many different ethnic and socio-economic backgrounds, reading, using the computers (no doubt searching and applying for jobs if they don't have computers at home), getting help from the reference librarians (I once overheard someone asking for information on cancer for a loved one)... the list goes on. At the local Woodstock library, I see it all. It's a place where kids can hang out after school, where people with mental challenges can get out of their group homes for a day trip (and those kids don't have much money for other activities), recent immigrants can find reading material in their own languages, and mother's can check out stacks of books for their kids building a lifelong love of reading.[] [] Really, the library does just about everything except make me a sandwich... ;-)
9922 7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy every book I'd like to read, can't afford a new PC, I like movies but can't afford that either. The artist group is a meet up of wonderful people and the meeting room provides a place for us to meet; we are 'starving artist' after all!! [] I've been looking for employment after being laid off, being able to use the computers is HUGE!! A lot of people I know can only access their email or contact with the rest of the US because of library access.
9923 7/10/2012	People need to be informed...and TV is not a good place to get information. We need access to a wide spectrum of books and periodicals, as well as internet access...which many can't afford.
9924 7/10/2012	They elevate the quality of life for myself, my children, my neighbors, our entire society. We remain a terribly undereducated country. Of course ignorance leads to despair, violence and degeneration of our society.
9925 7/10/2012	I think that everyone should be able to read and get books for free if they cannot afford them. It's good for the community.
9926 7/10/2012	Affordable access to current media and physical books is important to me. Ebooks and online media are not the same.
9927 7/10/2012	My family uses lots of services at the library. As a community, the library brings people together, and strengthens communities.
9928 7/10/2012	My family is low income. We use our library to check out books for things we need to research, entertainment, socialization for our children, and use of materials such as dvd and cd. It has made a huge difference for my family.
9929 7/10/2012	Because I value education and literacy

9930	7/10/2012	I love to read! Going to the library gives me access to thousands upon thousands of books.
9931	7/10/2012	They are an amazing outing for our kids. They learn to LOVE books. For my kids, going to the library is as much fun as going to the playground.
9932	7/10/2012	Because, people who do not have the money to provide themselves with the resources the library offers, need a place to get those resources. And reading is fundamental.
9933	7/10/2012	HAving access to books is extremely important for everyone of all ages. A book opens up new worlds, and provides information. □ Compared with other public services? I don't believe it is on the same level as fire and police. Two different things.
9934	7/10/2012	The library is open and free for all to use - a welcoming place for all. Helps make a neighborhood. Can use it regardless of financial status.
9935	7/10/2012	Because I like checking books out instead of having to purchase them
9936	7/10/2012	free access to all with little or no cost. Best value our city offers.
9937	7/10/2012	I believe that the local library serves as a community center of sorts for many--the elderly, some low income individuals, families with children--and provides a valuable resource for many.
9938	7/10/2012	Not everyone can afford to buy books and other reference material and knowledge is very important. It lifts those in poverty out of poverty.
9939	7/10/2012	My whole family consists of big readers. I feel that literacy is at the heart of civilization.
9940	7/10/2012	Fire and police services address life-threatening situations, so they naturally would come first. The public library should come next.
9941	7/10/2012	I use books extensively for my job and personal life.
9942	7/10/2012	The free sharing of information and resources is vital to us as a community.
9943	7/10/2012	we are a family that reads a lot and I have a young daughter who is changing quickly...the luxury of freely choosing books that suit her interests and her reading level without worrying about the cost is a joy and also a vital part of learning...the library is also one if the few places where we can go for free to feel part of our community...a gathering place where people are sharing a common interest in a respectful and comfortable environment that is open to all...this is a rare and very valuable component of a healthy neighborhood.
9944	7/10/2012	To help build a society that offers equal access to knowledge. To create a place in each neighborhood where everyone can meet and connect with their community.
9945	7/10/2012	Education is the key to academic & economic success. People who do not have access to educational resources due to economic disparity in society will never be able to rise above their current status. Having a public library allows people of lower economic status access to information that they would not otherwise be able to obtain. The spirit of America is that if you work hard & educate yourself, you can achieve success. Limiting access to educate oneself due to economic means is a clear violation of the American spirit.

9946	7/10/2012	Our library is valuable resource. We cannot allow our fellow citizens to become disenfranchised because they don't have access to computers or books. We need our library's open and stocked w/ the latest materials.
9947	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge, resources and leisure.
9948	7/10/2012	Our library system is one of the best. Besides the roads/Tri-Met and utilities I pay for probably my most used city service.
9949	7/10/2012	They are one of the most frequently utilized government programs for those who don't qualify for entitlement programs.
9950	7/10/2012	I find the library to be a crucial part of the city, accessible to everyone.
9951	7/10/2012	The library is a well-used and vital part of the community. Not certain what other services to which it is being compared.
9952	7/10/2012	Libraries are the most important tool for life-long education.[] Next question (#9) "Looking forward to the future" is redundant.
9953	7/10/2012	If it is a choice between fire and police protection and libraries, I'm going to have to choose protection first. Libraries, though, are an important priority, though.
9954	7/10/2012	They are most important to me because I believe we all learn and grow when we read.
9955	7/10/2012	As an East County resident,our social services needs continue to increase dramatically due to the demographics of the residents. Police, fire, and other services take precedence.
9956	7/10/2012	It's important for low income people to have access to materials and resources, but in these tough times basic services like police, fire and maintaining infrastructure education and social services are more of a priority.
9957	7/10/2012	They are fundamental for our children. They don't discriminate and everyone is welcome
9958	7/10/2012	I think the library is an important resource, especially for lower income neighborhoods where people may not have access to internet and computers.
9959	7/10/2012	A literate and informed citizenry is essential in a democracy. Libraries contribute greatly to this. Also, they provide resources for low income citizens to search for jobs and use internet and print resources
9960	7/10/2012	An educated public is the very heart of Democracy. I would only put Public schools above the libraries. Without access to information and a culture of learning, the rest of the public services are mote.
9961	7/10/2012	Between my son and I, we read at least a book a day. I couldn't afford to buy books to feed that need, and the school libraries are sadly deficient.

9962	7/10/2012	I love the library and strongly support it. If I was forced to pick between having a library and having a police force though, I would have to go with the latter, so I'm saying "somewhat" important only in the sense that I don't believe it is the #1 community priority. But it is a huge community resource, and hopefully the decision will never be that black or white. And it's more important to me to have a great library open six days a week than a mediocre library open seven days a week. The reality is times are hard. Not everything can be optimally funded unfortunately.
9963	7/10/2012	They are essential to our health as a city. They contribute to the education of our population, our sense of community, our economy & our cultural vibrance. They do this across all barriers in our diverse population providing services to all classes, races, etc. in a completely unique way.
9964	7/10/2012	Libraries are important b/c they serve the entire population and everyone can benefit from the services they provide. They are a place where the community can come together. They are especially important for young parents who need a free ways of connecting to other parents and having a place they can get out of the house and take their children. Libraries are a place to feel welcomed. Libraries however are not a basic needs like SNAP, WIC, TANF, Polic & Fire, Housing and so chose somewhat over very important.
9965	7/10/2012	We always have multiple items checked out of the library. I save hundreds (if not thousands) of dollars a year by using the library instead of buying books, videos, and t.v. shows or going to a movie theater. Using the library also furthers my environmental values, because I don't have to consume more stuff, and the library is close enough for me to walk or bike there. Furthermore, I am researching a book on a technical subject, and the interlibrary loan system allows me to access materials I couldn't otherwise get. It also allows me to preview expensive materials I am considering buying. Finally, I have very limited time to sit down and read a book, so being able to listen to audiobooks gives me access to a much broader range of information than I would have otherwise. In fact, the library is the public service I use the most (other than the roads).
9966	7/10/2012	The libraries help help build a democratic sense of community, and help level the playing field in this American culture of greed and "to each his own". Public libraries are second only to public schools in promoting citizenship in a democracy. It is one of the few places left in public life that integrates the entire diversity of the population.[] [] Given the drop out rate in Portland high schools, our libraries are on the front lines of the battle against ignorance and fear.[] [] What other public institution says to ALL of us, "you are welcome here."?
9967	7/10/2012	The library provides more social services than any body else
9968	7/10/2012	Community in supporting itself contributes to the sustainability of other communities.

9969	7/10/2012	I use the library constantly. Over the past 4 years that I've lived in Portland, I have read more books and listened to more music than ever would have been possible if I'd had to buy all of those books and CD's. I'm extremely pleased with how well-run and well-stocked our library system is. It's a big point of civic pride for me, and I often tell out-of-town friends and relatives that it's one of the best things about Portland. Further, I think its importance is reflected in nationwide studies, which consistently rank Portland as one of the most literate cities in the country. This literacy contributes to Portland's high degree of civic engagement.
9970	7/10/2012	The services at the library are relied upon heavily and in tough economic times these services are invaluable in fostering literacy, continued learning and self sufficiency. The resource has value well beyond the dollars spent in keeping our community alive and well.
9971	7/10/2012	In our present-day American society, a healthy, well-funded, efficient, and heavily utilized library system like Portland's is the single most accessible, multidimensional, and enriching democratic resource available to people of any class, creed, or ethnicity. A good library -- and Portland's is one of the best -- is perhaps our last true portal to individual and intellectual freedom, social advancement, strength of community, and sociopolitical hope in this nation.
9972	7/10/2012	Well is important because many people don't have the money to buy a book, we can rent it for free public library witch is great.
9973	7/10/2012	public school, public safety and such are much more important for all citizens. not everyone uses the library (our family does, so i ranked it somewhat important
9974	7/10/2012	They are an essential literacy and information resource for people of all ages, and particularly for lower-income people with less access to books and computers.
9975	7/10/2012	I would say libraries and public park funding are the most important. I couldn't really operate without either. Even when I'm very busy, I read/visit a park at least once a week.
9976	7/10/2012	It really depends upon the situation and need. I would say the library ranks pretty high.
9977	7/10/2012	My primary source of new reading material, as well as movie and DVDs.
9978	7/10/2012	I feel that it gives all people the needed access to important information, such as books and media.[] It allows us to also be apart of our community.
9979	7/10/2012	I think health care is more important
9980	7/10/2012	The library is an equalizer -- it provides opportunities for all citizens not just those that can afford books, computers or magazine subscriptions.
9981	7/10/2012	Out of all of the public services (unless you consider road maintenance), I use the library the most. It has served me well in terms of being an invaluable resource to turn to when doing research, reading for fun, and expanding my mind in general. Of course libraries are important! I wouldn't want to live in a city that did not place high importance on libraries and the availability to the wealth of knowledge for its people.
9982	7/10/2012	Educational resource

9983	7/10/2012	As a lifelong bibliophile, and especially in this time of crazily expanding technology and growing isolation, I believe that books, and learning, and the the rich environment that libraries and librarians create are even more important now.
9984	7/10/2012	They are a valuable resource to our community. As of now, since we have a baby, we find book babies to a lot of fun and an integral part of our babies development and socialization. As she grows, we plan to attend age appropriate programs at our library.
9985	7/10/2012	For my children to learn to enjoy reading, for myself to have access to current materials, computers, and library services. I can't imagine life without our local library.
9986	7/10/2012	excessive demand from other public service.....taxpayer burnout !
9987	7/10/2012	Internet
9988	7/10/2012	The library users I am familiar with praise the libaray as their place to "pirate media" -- using the system to gain free access to books, music, movies that they otherwise would have to pay retail for (and avoid paying sales taxes on these items as well). I don't know if this should be a top government priority in this day and age. Being practical, there are many other higher priority needs for the limited public dollars available -- public education, senior services, welfare-to-work programs, family services, small business services -- helping people who truly need help. I think the current reductions are wise and probably need to go even deeper to get to a point where the expense of operating libraries equals the value. The large expense of operating "brick and mortar" locations to house materials that are becoming readily available online is not in the best public interest.
9989	7/10/2012	I believe that it is very important for everyone to have access to books, regardless of income level, race, ethnicity, etc.
9990	7/10/2012	They are a means to a better end.
9991	7/10/2012	I can't imagine life without the experience of reading; and I could never afford to buy all the books I read/cd's I listen to; plus, I would never get the breadth of resources I get from the library from a commercial institution.
9992	7/10/2012	because we use it weekly.[] use it for reseaech and new materials
9993	7/10/2012	I enjoy having access to books, but do not use the other services. If the library were to cease to be a service, I would have to adjust to buying rather than borrowing books, but it would not noticeably change my lifestyle.
9994	7/10/2012	Access to information for all, regardless of SES. An important part of a healthy society.
9995	7/10/2012	The library is an independent entity which supplements other education sources for those of any age. While our population is being given poorer educational options than before I think the library and its resources are more important than they used to be.
9996	7/10/2012	Police, fire, water, trash, transportation are all basic services. Library, although good, is not a basic service.

9997	7/10/2012	The library serves all members of the community. It has filled in many holes created by cutbacks in other services. It even serves as a place for people with no where to go. And the staff is polite and kind.
9998	7/10/2012	it is such a great resource for every stage of learner. and, without it, i think people would be greatly inhibited, both monetarily and practically, from furthering their learning, whether that is on an academic or personal level. Speaking from a strictly personal perspective, I have a very long commute. I rely on the library to provide audiobooks, which are exceedingly expensive, in order not to waste my commute time. ¶ ¶
9999	7/10/2012	Speaking from a community perspective, I find the library an indispensable resource. We live in an information society during an era of austerity. Without the library, people from all income levels--especially the poor and underprivileged--would lose access to information. I do not wish to live in a society that strives for ignorance. Hence, the library is indispensable.
10000	7/10/2012	I am from a low income house hold and can't afford to spend the money that it would cost me to find what I get out of the library system.
10001	7/10/2012	I think that social services that deal with matters of health and housing are the most important.
10002	7/10/2012	Next to primary services such as fire and police protection, education comes first on my list of necessary public services. I consider libraries to be a part of the educational services of the community. One that continues on throughout a lifetime.
10003	7/10/2012	If we are living in the information age, then having open and free libraries keeps those who can't afford technologies or gain access to certain information themselves from being second class citizens.
10004	7/10/2012	Libraries are the gateway to knowledge for many.
10005	7/10/2012	The library is the public service I use most, rely on most. I recently relocated to Portland in part because there was the kind of library system I need.
10006	7/10/2012	living on a budget, and the library helps me find the resources I need so I don't have to buy them.
10007	7/10/2012	The library is an excellent resource for education, literacy, and programs that are available for everyone. I feel that is is critical that the public have a place for all of these things.
10008	7/10/2012	I lived a block from the local library in the town I grew up in and was there about 4 days a week. Reading for pleasure and education is a huge part of my life and access to books as a kid started me on that path. I want future generations to have the same opportunity to discover the amazing world of the written word that I had.
10009	7/10/2012	Libraries are a focal point of life-long education.
10010	7/10/2012	Am a book lover. I read dozens of books every month. The Central Library and your library system in¶ general is exceptionally good,
10011	7/10/2012	Because I don't use any other public services but I really like the library.

10012	7/10/2012	Health and safety would be first
10013	7/10/2012	literacy for all is fundamental to a culture's health and local libraries are one of the best ways to support this
10014	7/10/2012	my family and I use the library often - for pleasure, research, how-to, and the knowledge of staff there
10015	7/10/2012	Access to information is increasingly central to our technological society. Libraries provide equal access to information for all citizens.
10016	7/10/2012	Love of knowledge through reading. Have a young child learning how to read and develop a love for books.
10017	7/10/2012	Free and convenient access to knowledge and information are essential for an engaged, democratic society. The costs per person of making these resources available are minuscule in comparison to the benefits.
10018	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy books. I can't afford to take classes. If I want to read a book, or learn a new skill, I rely on the library for that. If I ever got to the point where I couldn't afford the pay for internet in my home, or my computer broke, I would rely on the library for internet access: something that is absolutely critical to me as I am trying to build my own business. For these reasons and more, for all that they do for our community with the same things I mentioned as well as enriching our lives with classes and resources for people of all walks of life.
10019	7/10/2012	Because reading a book is one of the simplest, most enjoyable forms of entertainment and many low income people can not afford to purchase books or movies or music CD's. The library allows access to all who can apply for a card. It doesn't discriminate based on economic level, social class, race, creed, or sexual orientation. How many institutions in our society are like this??? Very few!
10020	7/10/2012	If you do not allow access to information, you have an uninformed society which leads to the downfall of our democracy as we know it. Many people who use the library do not have access to computers, current newspapers and periodicals as well as fiction and nonfiction. The library is where everyone can go to learn things. Where will these people go if access is limited?
10021	7/10/2012	I have been to libraries nearly weekly all my life. It continues to be exciting to me to be able to walk in and find books for free on any subject I might wish! Libraries also provide opportunity for those who may not be able to afford books to have a place to read or to check them out.
10022	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and have many interests that make how-to books/manuals a valuable resource. I also use the library for career related research, and a source for other information, for instance guide books for local hiking trails or rock climbs or mountain biking areas. Also, I have used the library for internet access, while in the process of moving or while switching internet providers.
10023	7/10/2012	The library is a huge source of information, education, and entertainment for us.
10024	7/10/2012	I use it frequently.

10025	7/10/2012	Difficult to get books/documentary films I need for school or that I am interested in
10026	7/10/2012	The need is great, mainly for low income, seniors and students to study, read and use computers
10027	7/10/2012	Reading and access to information are the keys to everything.
10028	7/10/2012	"There are many little ways to enlarge your child's world. Love of books is the best of all." ~ Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis
10029	7/10/2012	Provides educational material to those whom might otherwise not have them.
10030	7/10/2012	They are part of our communities' ongoing education. Without this resource we will quickly loose touch with our humanity.
10031	7/10/2012	The library builds community in a way the other local public services (by which I guess you mean Water; Parks; Development Commission, etc.?) do not and probably can not.
10032	7/10/2012	I'm a writer and researcher, and very appreciative of how it works for me.
10033	7/10/2012	Funding education, funding children's programs, funding for the homeless and food deprived.
10034	7/10/2012	Learning and entertainment from reading and having materials acessable.
10035	7/10/2012	Fire deparment and other life saving groups are first, wic and food stamps, then schools and libraries, public parks and rec, the police, and musems and the arts are last.
10036	7/10/2012	Central family, friend and community hub home.
10037	7/10/2012	Libraries are where our common resources are pooled to make it possible for us to share reading material, use computers away from home, find access skilled assistance in researching/locating materials, they are where a local n'hood can gather informally and naturally without commercial consumption. It is nice to be able to look at a book, in hand, to evaluate what it contains. An online review just doesn't provide that degree of reality.
10038	7/10/2012	A good library enables continued education and a high quality of life.
10039	7/10/2012	I like to read and learn.
10040	7/10/2012	An educated citiznery is the core of democracy.
10041	7/10/2012	They are important, but other public services may be of more importance.
10042	7/10/2012	Our schools suck-library and PP&R programs close the gap created by over crowded classrooms, homeless need places to look for jobs go pee, senior need a cool safe space, job hunting computer skills
10043	7/10/2012	New, good books are usually available upon request in a week or 2. Cost of books to the consumer is prohibitive.[] [] Professional librarians know how to research a topic that cannot always be done by search engines.
10044	7/10/2012	I have two young daughters, and we love books and visiting the library.
10045	7/10/2012	Do not own a computer.
10046	7/10/2012	Literacy of prime importance if our society is going to thrive: children and adults need access to reading materials

10047	7/10/2012	provides access and knowledgeable staff for the public for both research and computer use. It is convenient to be able to put books and movies on hold. It is not the utmost important. Community mental health programs are just as important and severely lacking in resources.[]
10048	7/10/2012	[] This survey is seriously slanted. I would not call our current library structure "limited". We have been spoiled. It seems like we can recalibrate the hours a little bit and maintain 7 days a week. I love to read and I love free access. There isn't the risk of buying a book and then not finding it interesting. If I'm not interested I just take it back. It leaves me free to be more experimental in my choices. I think that access should be available to all people. Going to the library as a child with my mom and taking out a stack of new books is one of my best memories. It was very exciting. [] []
10049	7/10/2012	The library is an important community hub - a place where all kinds of people go in and out and have an opportunity to interact and be exposed to information in a socially neutral yet uplifted environment. I think having the common ground of the library makes us a better city and a better society. I am proud of the quality of Portland's libraries.[] [] There are a lot of people who depend on the computers for internet access, which is something everyone has grown to need, yet isn't affordable for many people. In this age of increasing income disparities the library is a move towards greater equality of opportunity.
10050	7/10/2012	After paying taxes, you are able to read books at no cost to you. Some people can not afford to buy a lot of books. I think it's the perfect place for children and adults to use the library services.
10051	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge, literature, art and media that enables me to do my job well and be a well-rounded and well-informed person
10052	7/10/2012	It makes access to books much easier and that is important for people who can't buy books all the time. No other public system has that.
10053	7/10/2012	I use the library for reference material for life projects. Often when I find a good book that really speaks to my cause I will be inspired to purchase it. I can use the library to educate myself, screen my purchases, and I hope, in the future, help develop a small business.
10054	7/10/2012	EDUCATE THE MASSES ----- Portland has one of the best-----
10055	7/10/2012	police and fire rank higher
10056	7/10/2012	A good library is an access to the world. entertainment, education and knowledge.
10057	7/10/2012	Nothing can replace reading, its another avenue of educating people, are we really that vain to cut our own throats?

10058	7/10/2012	We are a family of two adults and two school-aged children. We are all avid readers and visit our library at least weekly, particularly during the summer when school is out. The library is very important to us because we cannot afford to buy books. That said, however, we are also a middle class family absolutely feeling the pressure of the recession and cannot support additional tax measures to fund the library. We also DO NOT support the move to separate the library funding from the current funding system with the county. The county, like all of us, has to live within its means. If public safety and other mandated services must be funded first, then do so, and still leave library money within the budget. Figure it out like the rest of us. Enough is enough.
10060	7/10/2012	The library greatly enriches my life and that of all who use it. Judging from the number of people using the computers at my local branch, the library is not only enriching for some but actually fulfilling an important service that some may not be able to access without the library. The library system is one of the most democratic in our society and helps level the playing field, at least a bit, for everyone.
10061	7/10/2012	They are the most visible and enjoyable to me. I am at the library every week and reserve books on-line. I am so proud our library is able to keep current, especially with non-fiction materials. The second most important service to me is parks and recreation. I think I take the police, fire stations, county clinics and other services for granted, but I'm happy to have adequate public safety and health as well.
10062	7/10/2012	Libraries help to even the playing field for young, aging, and/or struggling sectors of our community.
10063	7/10/2012	Libraries are the foundation of our democracy. They are fundamental to an educated electorate.
10064	7/10/2012	Being 75 and an avid reader of hand held books and magazines my whole life the library is vital. With near deafness and diminishing vision I am frightened. Soon, my wife and I will be moving into an assisted living center and desire a delivery component. I have lived in multiple cities. The Multomah County is the best.
10065	7/10/2012	Cultural and educational enrichment=strong community, strong economy
10066	7/10/2012	Libraries are a place for and free speech, which is threatened daily by our fascist overlords
10067	7/10/2012	I go there a lot
10068	7/10/2012	most precious resource in county.
10069	7/10/2012	A community resource providing an unduplicated service. I can see the benefit from my tax dollar on every visit.
10070	7/10/2012	Other than the roads, it is the local public service I use the most.

10071	7/10/2012	Families who can't afford to buy books or pay for programs always have access to the library. Reading is fundamental to success in our society. VERY IMPORTANT
10072	7/10/2012
10073	7/10/2012	I adore our libraries and all the very helpful people that work there They aren't as important as infrastructure of health services, but they are still important as they are important to public education
10074	7/10/2012	I am an educated individual and not everyone can afford to gain knowledge the way I have. The libraries are important because they level the playing field and allow ANYONE to learn. There is nothing more important than that!
10075	7/10/2012	I use my library often and enjoy the services it provides. Although it would be difficult to consider it alongside police services and sewage, it is certainly very important to me.
10076	7/10/2012	I go to the library a lot to get media, I like that there is so much available to me, the library is a necessary part of life.
10077	7/10/2012	We rely on the library for a wide variety of material. Our son reads voraciously and is able to examine/develop new interests through the range of eBooks available. We also use the library for our own media needs and are often in line for recent releases. Also, it is an important location where I can go to work.
10078	7/10/2012	Books are educational and in a time when jobs are scarce, it's important to have access to free books.
10079	7/10/2012	Libraries do an important service for the community but for me personally, it allows me to check out books and media to enjoy while I am unable to find a job and therefore have no income. It provides a huge service for me. Libraries are also great places to just go and relax and read. Simple. This is a country ostensibly based on notions of self-reliance and the individual's capacity to better him/herself. There is no resource more important to those civic virtues than a public library system that operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
10080	7/10/2012
		Give a man a fish, feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish. . . .Etc.
		The public library is where people go to learn how to fish.
10081	7/10/2012	The library is an important source for information, research, entertainment, education and knowledge in general. It lifts my view of humanity to go into our libraries and see them full of people.
10082	7/10/2012	I get a whole hour a day to get a job and find a place to live. So that could be why my life is ruined, I DON'T KNOW!

10083	7/10/2012	Library services (as are most public services) are critical to prevent the gap between the rich and poor from growing. These public services act as a safety net for those who need it most. Libraries help citizens become knowledgeable, independent, and encourage civic behavior through the sharing of knowledge and experiences.
10084	7/10/2012	public libraries = the mark of civilization
10085	7/10/2012	The library offers an incredible selection of media and books in a way that is not cost-prohibitive. It is also an amazing source of community. Finally, it offers programs to people from all ages and backgrounds that are both fun and educational.
10086	7/10/2012	Library's being an integral part of ones community sends a message that learning, reading and convening around local, national, and international issues is an important civic duty. That a public space exists for this type of shared interaction is also important. Please see answers above. The threats related to illiteracy and media-dominated consciousness are greater than the risk of fire. The Multnomah County Library system enables the other systems of social net and community support to be effective. Libraries help empower people by accessing knowledge, cultural resources, and catalyze community intelligence. [] [] Please note I don't know where to put this, but I really appreciate the large print books. [] [] For this survey, it would have been better to have a progress indicator.
10088	7/10/2012	In the list of things that create a society, a culture and enrich people lives, libraries are just below food and shelter. The Internet and electronic books cannot replace the need for a repository of information and learning that is only a part of what a library holds. Entertainment, education, community planning and services, a safe environment and even social connections can all be found in a library. There is no greater testament to the need of such a place, such an iconic societal need, as to the fact that every culture, every country, has had since their respective foundings, a library. The wealth and health of a culture can be measured by the health of the local library.
10089	7/10/2012	It is unhealthy not to read books.
10090	7/10/2012	somewhat
10091	7/10/2012	They are the perfect example of why we pay taxes - we all chip in and don't each have to buy and replicate all these books.
10092	7/10/2012	I depend on them for reading material and recorded book.
10093	7/10/2012	I don't have money to buy movies and books, but I can check them out whenever I need to. The more access I have to the library (open 7 days a week), the more resources I feel like I have.
10094	7/10/2012	It's the greatest American system for many reasons. People could never individual have access to all the material. It saves resources - many share a book, less books, less trees cut down. It shows by joining together and sharing we can achieve so much more. It's taking a long time but hopefully now other types of libraries will grow - tool libraries, etc.

10095	7/10/2012	Because they allow my family access to books and movies that we would not otherwise be able to access. We visit the library weekly and it is an important part of our lives -- we love reading and the libraries add greatly to the quality of our lives.
10096	7/10/2012	I feel it is the most important of what I consider to be "secondary level" needs. I feel programs like police, fire dept., education, and public works are of equal importance. I believe the library is the most important of the next tier of public services.
10097	7/10/2012	I can no longer afford to buy the books, newspapers, magazines, etc. to keep myself well informed.. I rely almost completely on the library to furnish myself with these materials.
10098	7/10/2012	Well, unlike most of the police and politicians, the library actually has value. Sure, there are other local services, such as maintenance of roads, public schools, and some aspects of government that are as important or, I hate to say it, maybe more so than the library. But without the ongoing education the library offers to children, the economically disadvantaged and others on the fringe of society, how can we expect to have a citizenry educated enough to make use of the mechanisms it generates? Plus, I just think that books, movies and music are the best aspects of humanity, and without them, I wouldn't hold out much hope for us as a species. Great art gives life meaning.
10099	7/10/2012	Libraries help to make people life-long learners. [] []
10100	7/10/2012	Ignorance is rampant, libraries are an important antidote. greedy people with hidden agendas have taken everything away from our children, our society is heading out of control. The library is the one of the last few public places where people can choose to surround themselves with like-minded people looking to better themselves. Libraries are assets to our communities and especially our children. Libraries give opportunity.
10101	7/10/2012	They open countless, unforeseen and priceless doors and services. They are one of the few places people can pick up a book vs. reading online or relying on a kindle - irreplaceable. The plethora and quality of materials available is astounding. It remains one of the truly democratic institutions around - equal access for everyone. I relied on the library much during my 13-month search for employment. Without it, I am truly not sure what I would have done.
10102	7/10/2012	I don't like this question because many citizens won't think of the variety of local public services they receive. [] [] Very important: Public safety (police, fire); infrastructure (roads, sewers, drainage); land development (permitting, land use planning). [] [] Most other local services, such as libraries and parks, all also important but a lower priority.

10103	7/10/2012	Because free and uncensored public access to information and entertainment are essential for any democratic society to stay healthy. Without libraries we would be in trouble. I am a writer which makes them even more important to me personally because they are an invaluable tool for my writing career.
10104	7/10/2012	The library has something essential for everyone. I play piano in a quintet and couldn't possibly afford music scores (which have to be ordered, sight unseen, from elsewhere since there is no longer a decent sheet music store in Portland). Many of my waking hours are devoted to reading. I go to the library with a reading list in hand. Even so, with the ever-evolving Multnomah County Library collection, I frequently find material that challenges my perspective and deepens my understanding of the world.
10105	7/10/2012	I "lived" in the library as a child and it helped me so much. I wonder if there are little things the library could do to save money without cutting staff or direct services... like buying less movies and cd's, limiting holds, charging a fee if holds aren't picked up, etc.
10106	7/10/2012	We need the library not simply for learning and educating but as the "ultimate communication tool" because in spite of what the internet does for world communication, the library is still a major place for people to access the internet. Besides all of that, the library is "THE" best all around entertainment in society today.
10107	7/10/2012	I use the library only for checking items out, so access to these items would be important for me only. I have had many friends & family who have used programs and they have talked about how much they have appreciated having these programs available. I may also want or need to use these programs in the future, but at this time I don't need to.
10108	7/10/2012	quality of life, and access for kids to learn
10109	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading. Knowledge is power. Allowing the community to access information freely is very important for the preservation of society.
10110	7/10/2012	I read a lot
10111	7/10/2012	Up there with trash, power, and water.
10112	7/10/2012	Local government should work first and foremost on public safety, public health, and infrastructure. Libraries are in the second tier of necessity. With the advent of many free resources online, some library roles are definitely changing and maybe not as necessary.
10113	7/10/2012	Education and equal access to resources like the internet for everyone is only going to strengthen everyone. We must level the playing field in order for all of us to do well, and for our city to remain healthy.
10114	7/10/2012	We use the library constantly. Right now, our family has almost 100 books checked out. In our day-to-day lives, the library is very important. Also, I strongly believe in the value of reading in our society.

10115	7/10/2012	They aren't very important to me personally but they provide a valuable resource to the community as a whole.
10116	7/10/2012	we're fortunate to have good library services and so I rely on them as do others. Our libraries enrich our community and make up in some part how badly we neglect our schools
10117	7/10/2012	I dont watch tv. Books at present are my only source of entertainment
10118	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and watch movies, and I can't afford too many books and movies.
10119	7/10/2012	For a democracy to work, we must be literate.
10120	7/10/2012	Our libraries are similar our local community centers--it's a place where everyone can gather in a safe, well-intentioned environment. Public gathering spaces are important for the health of our communities. A clean, well-stocked library with attentive staff is one that gets used. And when well-intentioned people gather together, great things happen. The sum is greater than the whole of its parts.
10121	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time. I can't afford to buy the books I get to read at out library.
10122	7/10/2012	Reading is good for our society We need family/children with limited funds or transportation to have access to books/computers/reference materials.
10123	7/10/2012	I feel that libraries provide access to books and learning to the young and the old, and provide a great community spirit.[] having access to books and media, and not having to buy books, encourages reading for all!
10124	7/10/2012	Because Reading Is Fundamental,a central building block for our children's future.
10125	7/10/2012	We use the library a lot
10126	7/10/2012	Public libraries level the playing field by providing equal access to everyone regardless of their socio-economic status. In addition, a library that's done right also provides free services that enable it's patrons to more fully participate in their community - i.e. English classes, job seeking services, homework & tutoring services, etc.
10127	7/10/2012	Our future adults, seniors and all students need a stable library system, no matter how poor or homeless they are or become. Libraries represents hope, education and knowledge.
10128	7/10/2012	People need free access to reading materials and other forms of media. Children need a place where reading is encouraged without having to purchase something. When I was applying for jobs I would have been lost if I didn't have the printer and copy services. The book hold service also allows me to join a wait for recent titles.
10129	7/10/2012	I find them helpful as a resource to read and not buy books, especially in this economy. I have used the job class to get ideas and connect, it is a rare awesome services that is free and is high quality. I enjoy the social aspect, joined a local book group. The employees are amazingly smart and helpful.

10130	7/10/2012	I grew up using the Multnomah Co. library system frequently and extensively. It's difficult for me to imagine our community without library services. I think it's a tremendous resource for people of all socio-economic backgrounds, ages and reading levels. It would be untenable to lose the libraries. For me, the public library has always represented a sort of treasure trove. I don't like to sit and read in the library itself (unless it's on the floor) but I love checking out as many books as I can carry, taking them home and reading them. I also love the audiobooks. I discovered, as a would-be teacher, that students who are read to statistically do better with reading and grammar as they get older. I was read to at first, but when my parents stopped, I wanted to continue. So, I listened to the audiobook collection in the library. I love the wide range of books, and the community the library offers.
10131	7/10/2012	Also, the library has been a place where I can scope out what books might be good for students, what books I might enjoy, and what books are new out there in terms of Knitting, cooking, and fantasy/fiction. probably the most interesting of the book programs is the book-bag idea. teachers actually do this in kindergartens and preschools in order to help the students read more. it's impressive that the library has these book bags, so that teachers can ask their students to check out a book bag, rather than having to assemble the bag themselves. I also appreciate the user-friendly online use. When away from Portland for college, I enjoy looking up what books I want to read, renewing them, and entering my library number without breaking a sweat.
10132	7/10/2012	The U.S. claims to grow a society built on opportunity and innovation. But society is threatened by increased illiteracy and incompetence. Our society has an underlying culture that values celebrities and material wealth over effective educated leaders. Libraries are a key component to the strong education system the U.S. needs to remain healthy and relevant.
10133	7/10/2012	The library obviously ranks below police and fire. I use my library and appreciate it. But it is not essential to life. Public schools, road repair and other items are more important, if one were to think about it. This question is rather "loaded." I think libraries are a key public service. Just like parks and public spaces provide a setting for outdoor recreation, Libraries provide a setting for intellectual recreation. The point of the Library is make books and other sources easily accessible to the public. []
10134	7/10/2012	Outdoor recreation can take place without parks but with a much higher barrier to entry. So too with learning. Anyone can buy books, but the cost will prohibit a large section of the public from reading the book. Libraries are important to providing community that is enjoyable to live in.[] [] In my opinion, infrastructure and utilities, and law enforcement are more important than Libraries. That is why I selected "Somewhat important".
10135	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power and an educated community is better for me than an ignorant one any day of the week.
10136	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a very important service by offering free knowledge and resources. As a student, access to a public library is something I rely on.
10137	7/10/2012	Having access to free reading i

10138	7/10/2012	Because the contribute to the kind of society I want to live in, a cultured, educated, and well-read community. The library is an integral part of the community; a tangible place where we meet, gather, and pool our resources.
10139	7/10/2012	In this economy with jobs being threatened, it is nice to have access to free services that otherwise people would not have access to.
10140	7/10/2012	We have always used the library, probably more than any other public service.
10141	7/10/2012	I think School, Fire and Police come before the Library, but I love the library.
10142	7/10/2012	because education is key to thriving communities and society, and the library helps provide that
10143	7/10/2012	If I had grown up without a modern, accessible library, I would not be the man I am today. I value the library as a source of materials, as I read for pleasure and check out books for research/business on a regular basis, but I feel very strongly that they are hubs of community gathering. I think libraries provide many things to many people throughout their lifetimes, and are a gathering spot in the same way that public parks or local coffeeshops are.
10144	7/10/2012
10145	7/10/2012	Libraries help bind communities together. They are also critical to those without resources. Personally I feel that cuts to the library system are cuts to the most vulnerable, children, the elderly and the poor.
10146	7/10/2012	access to books that I would not be able to afford to buy
10147	7/10/2012	Libraries are very important to me, because they provide entertainment, education, and fuel for the imaginations of our entire community from the very young to the very old. Everyone, regardless of their income, should have access to books.
10148	7/10/2012	I use the library personally and professionally on a weekly basis. Having access to materials (books, cds, and movies) and services (like computer access and printing) enhances my life.
10149	7/10/2012	Knowledge is something that can never be taken away from you. Knowledge is power. Knowledge is gained through many sources of media that can be found in the Library.
10150	7/10/2012	Libraries and the knowledge they make available to all are essential to a civilized society. Book stores and the internet cannot replace the library's curated collections, professional staff, and open access.
10151	7/10/2012	The making of any great society has as one of it's cornerstones comprised of schools and library's. Period!
10152	7/10/2012	As a Portland Public School teacher, I know how important it is for children to have access to books that they self select and that are age appropriate. This is especially important for children that cannot afford to go out and purchase books on a regular basis.
10153	7/10/2012	I believe libraries offer opportunities for self education and equal access to information that is absolutely essential to a vibrant, democratic community.
10154	7/10/2012	I feel literacy is the most important component of society, and libraries provide access to that for everyone.

10155	7/10/2012	I would refer back to my previous answer on #6. Information is freedom, and I believe we are losing more freedoms as time passes. Knowledge is crucial, and the ability to search for it. People have less financial freedoms and educational institutions need support since monies are being taken from them...so, I think that libraries have a huge importance in inspiring all learners--young to life-long.[] I would also LOVE to see a volunteer program for ESL/ENL students to have the opportunity internships in the library so they could 1st-hand observe how important libraries are to learning. This would also be great for high school students to help engage them in the communities in positive ways, maybe ultimately even giving presentations in the high school setting and providing input for programs.
10156	7/10/2012	they are the public service that we as a family use the most. As a teacher, I count on the library to help me expand the availability of books for my students and to keep them engaged during the summer months.
10157	7/10/2012	It's awesome to have a free resource to learn and provide community services like the cultural passes.
10158	7/10/2012	As someone who does not make a lot of money I rely on the library for goods and services that other people take for granted.
10159	7/10/2012	High-quality public library = informed citizenry = working democracy (and working economy)
10160	7/10/2012	I can't image no library. We go 3x/wk and I can't see that changing
10161	7/10/2012	An informed populace is vital to the success of our region.
10162	7/10/2012	It's important, just not the most important service the county provides.
10163	7/10/2012	I have been a library user my entire life...as a student it was the only place to get information etc. Literacy is essential and the library offers an equalizer for those who cannot have computers or books at their disposal due to money etc. It is also a community hub and our society sadly lacks in community gathering places other than church.
10164	7/10/2012	they're democratic--they open opportunities for everyone; I love the idea that my tax dollars support free reading for anyone who wants to read, and so many other services.
10165	7/10/2012	Because I depend on them for resource materials and to be able to access their computers for my personall use!
10166	7/10/2012	Book stores aren't a public service, but I'd have to put more of my hard-earned dollars to buying books if I didn't have the incredible library resources available in my world. [] I particularly love using the online site to put books on hold and to renew them.
10167	7/10/2012	Literacy is the cornerstone of our society.
10168	7/10/2012	The library is a great source of information that should be available to the public as a whole. The ability to learn, educate and grow on an individual level is important and that is what the library provides. Also, I really enjoy its' media selection. My friends are always jealous when I get the new season of "insert awesome show name here" and get to keep the DVDs for three weeks!

10169	7/10/2012	They are not so much at that level for me but I feel they are important to the broader population and to others with financial circumstances that do not allow them to just purchase the books they want, have internet and all the other services provided. I feel it is important to our community.
10170	7/10/2012	I am also a big supporter of our Portland Parks and Rec system. That along with the library system are means for people from all over the city, of different backgrounds, to have equal access to the same materials and offerings. These spaces are meeting places, social outlets, and learning hubs that are vital for a thriving community.
10171	7/10/2012	All people, no matter what age, need to have access to learning tools. Libraries are one of the most important facets in any society to maintain a well informed population. This ultimately helps in making choices and decisions about all areas of life. I believe in the power of libraries.
10172	7/10/2012	Because I am a college educated middle-aged adult who uses the library for strictly 'entertainment' purposes. Whether it be reading a novel, researching what plants to put in my garden or listening to music.
10173	7/10/2012	It's the one government resource my taxes pay for that I directly access and use.
10174	7/10/2012	I honestly don't use the library much at all.
10175	7/10/2012	I've been using libraries since I first learned how to read. The first book I ever checked out was called "Andy and the Circus". The fact that I remember the name of the book says how important reading and the library is to me. Don't know what I'd do without having a local library to depend on.
10176	7/10/2012	Education is power
10177	7/10/2012	Education is power. Especially for children and those needed assistance to find jobs.
10178	7/10/2012	As a senior citizen, I value the help I get in obtaining materials.
10179	7/10/2012	books are accessible - at retirement I could no longer afford to buy books
10180	7/10/2012	The aid in research is vital to getting through college.
10181	7/10/2012	A great way for us to use a variety of media without incurring purchase cost or cluttering our home. Also a symbolic gathering place, a good example for our kids, and a visual reminder for whole society of the good of reading.
10182	7/10/2012	Access to quality information is essential for quality of life.
10183	7/10/2012	I like to read and a culture of learning
10184	7/10/2012	I couldn't afford to buy all of the books and media that I want to use, and the childrens programs are a big part of my family's life.
10185	7/10/2012	I am not certain what is meant by other public services. I do use the library 2-3 times a month, predominantly through the internet. The only other public service that I would access more is the post office - and I'm not sure if USPS is a public service.

10186	7/10/2012	I'm an avid reader, but my budget doesn't include the cost of books. The library provides a way for me to read classics and current fiction, mysteries and nonfiction, and many more things.[] Plus the library provides so many opportunities to children and their parents that help them grow, learn and mature together. This extra educational boost is very important to a healthy society, in my opinion.[] I wouldn't want to do without the fire, police, social services, and other municipal departments . . . we are so fortunate to have them. But after those basics, the library is my personal favorite and very important to me.
10187	7/10/2012	I value libraries, literacy, and education highly, and libraries contribute to the overall quality of life in the communities in which they reside.
10188	7/10/2012	We need to promote education in the community and libraries are a major source of self education for the community. An educated community leads to a more ordered society which has the benefit of cost savings needs in other areas such as prisons and law enforcement.
10189	7/10/2012	Very important. If people aren't given access to public libraries they may end up becoming money wasting, self serving bureaucrats. Libraries and schools should be on top of everyone;s list. NOT crack houses and bike lanes.
10190	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time. Especially in the summer. Love your summer reading program for kids!
10191	7/10/2012	A literate, educated society is essential for maintaining a representative government, committed to fostering a fair socio economic society.
10192	7/10/2012	I don't have time to expound on this. They're of enormous importance to me, not only for giving me access to knowledge and information I couldn't afford, even if I knew how to find what I need. More importantly, most libraries (public, school, etc) are essential for the population to learn and to illuminate issues or areas of interest or whatever. They are fundamental to maintaining a well-educated, well-informed public. And that is important for all sorts of reasons, but I believe that Thomas Jefferson said it best--I think in one of the Federalist papers--in order to retain the democracy we have (or mostly had), we absolutely have to have an educated public. And lord knows, even in the best of times, the schools don't do this and can't, and it's absurd to think that learning and informing one's self ends with a diploma or degree, but MUST continue all of one's life for a meaningful life. The library is the central locus for this.
10193	7/10/2012	They are of high importance to me personally because I utilize reading material for school projects, and as an up-and-coming high school senior, school papers, as well as a place to study.[] [] My family uses services such as job searching and my younger siblings utilize the library for checking out varous reading materials.
10194	7/10/2012	The internet has made huge amounts of information easily accessible for free, from the comfort of my own home.

10195	7/10/2012	Access to learning!
10196	7/10/2012	BecauseLibraries provide essential services.
10197	7/10/2012	because free educational community programs serve people that need them most as well as providing access to book, computers, and media for children and adults who would otherwise not have access. The children oriented summer reading and activities are also amazing.
10198	7/10/2012	reading accessibility for a variety of material open to all
10199	7/10/2012	Equal access to information for everyone is critical. Reading services for the young and access to the internet for the poor are essential.
10200	7/10/2012	It helps to foster a love of reading and a love of learning for young children.
10201	7/10/2012	I use them, but I am a teacher and recommend them constantly!
10202	7/10/2012	The library is an important public service because it connects a community, encourages reading, and for me (as a soon to be mom) provides a great place to take children.
10203	7/10/2012	Growing up I counted on having free access to books, media, research materials at the library and can't even imagine having those services curtailed. The materials and all the other library programs that serve people of all age groups and walks of life are vital to the community.
10204	7/10/2012	Public education is failing many of our students, our consumer driven economy is putting an unrealistic price on many forms of media (books, movies, magazines, internet service and computers) we need a place where the self-motivated, cash poor and time-rich can go and share the community's resources. Education and access to it makes for a saner, safer and healthier society.
10205	7/10/2012	For books and dvds for my personal use. I also like to know that if I, personally, want to order a book which is not available in he Multnomsh system it can be ordered from other systems, schools. etc.[] [] I also like the present library services to remain for my adult children, but most particularly, for my grandchildren.
10206	7/10/2012	Certain public services (schools, medical clinics, social services, public transit, etc.) are indispensable. I would rank libraries, like parks and community centers, right below that as important.
10207	7/10/2012	They are a great resource, used by a wide diversity of people for multiple purposes.
10208	7/10/2012	Because I can't afford to buy books that I am interested in and that would even be a waste since I'll only read most of them once. Also with the large homeless and jobless population you are the only free access to job seeking and resource seeking around.
10209	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge and culture is a crucial reason we live in a community.
10210	7/10/2012	I believe strongly that everyone should read and learn throughout life. Providing the materials for these pursuit for free is an invaluable community asset.
10211	7/10/2012	Increase people's knowledge, especially low income people who can't afford to buy books.....

10212	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge regardless of income level is what keeps Portland an educated community.
10213	7/10/2012	We use them and appreciate it, but of course fire and police would be more important
10214	7/10/2012	Libraries and reading are very important. However, I can't really put them on the same level as, say, making sure we have firefighters and police. That is the only reason I ranked Library services as "somewhat" rather than "very" important.
10215	7/10/2012	I grew up with the Multnomah library system, have learned much, and continue to do so with library resources.
10216	7/10/2012	Our public libraries are a cornerstone of our democracy/
10217	7/10/2012	The library represents more than just a book/media repository -- as a cultural institution it serves so many people in the community from such diverse backgrounds. Personally, I'd be devastated if I didn't continue to have access to the library system.
10218	7/10/2012	Provides pertinent resources for people in an easily accessible forum for people who may not otherwise have access to those resources. Provides a safe community space and encourages learning.
10219	7/10/2012	I use them. I pay for them as a homeowner. Libraries provide all members of a community the unrestricted, free access to information, regardless of socioeconomic status or educational or developmental level. Information is powerful: an engine of our society.
10220	7/10/2012	I believe that libraries are as important as schools. When funding is lost for both schools and libraries, then we, as a society, must build more prisons. Libraries represent freedom.
10221	7/10/2012	Library services are one of the services I use most in the community. I frequent the library, and rely on it for professional maintenance and personal development.
10222	7/10/2012	I love reading. If you know how to search, you can often find the truth at the library. An enlightened citizenry is the only way to have a democracy. Libraries provide important programs to the community (reading promotion, toddler and senior services, computer education, etc.) and provide a sense of community (which we seem to be losing with all our electronic devices). Libraries are open to the entire public.
10223	7/10/2012	Other than streets and sidewalks, I use the library more than any other amenity offered by the city.
10224	7/10/2012	See my last answer! :-) Yes, security, roads, police & fire are all "necessities" (along with food and a roof over our heads) but our society needs uncensored access to information, education and ideas too.
10225	7/10/2012	we rely on it for all of our books - i don't know what we'd do w/o it
10226	7/10/2012	I would say the library is the local public service I use most (after water and trash services).
10227	7/10/2012	e-books and such make it easier to read books without having to go to library
10228	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly. I could not afford to buy the selection of books for myself and my children that I check out. The programs for toddlers are fun and educational.
10229	7/10/2012	Because I use the library for so many things! I wish more people would realize what a great resource the library is and take advantage of it more!

10230	7/10/2012	I love to read and I love knowing that I can just ride my bike up to the library if I need something to do.
10231	7/10/2012	As a pre-school teacher, it's extremely important to have programs for children, especially for those who do not have reading in the home or access to books.
10232	7/10/2012	We use them a lot
10233	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader. The library affords my family to check out books and movies at no cost. I also used the employment resources when I was looking for a job. It was very helpful.
10234	7/10/2012	library is community's indoor living room remaining - other media - is tainted... such as TV news..etc[] but the truth resides in the stacks.....[]
10235	7/10/2012	[] we need to support THINKING... it will be all that is left..... soon
10236	7/10/2012	A strong library system serves as an anchor to the community. It allows everyone access to books and literacy. It promotes cultural awareness and diversity. And it provides a place for children to develop a love for book.
10237	7/10/2012	Because we don't buy many things, and we don't watch tv, so having access to a large variety of books, CDs, DVDs, magazines, etc. is very very important to us. Also, we find ILL a very valuable resource.
10238	7/10/2012	becasue fire and policy and roads are critical. Library is not critical, but important for a society.
10239	7/10/2012	If we are comparing the Library to Police and Fire, it's not as important. If we are comparing it to covering the reservoirs, building more MAX lines and painting bike paths on every street, it's very important.
10240	7/10/2012	The library is very important in my opinion but I think that police, fire and emergency services would have to be the top on the list. I'm not sure what other public services you are referring to, it would be nice if you had a list so I knew. The library is an extremely important service to have available and I am thankful to have it as a free resource for myself and my two kids.
10241	7/10/2012	Lack of education is, in my opinion, a major barrier to people improving their financial well-being. Undereducated parents who do not realize the value of something they do not have, and who do not support their own children's education are perpetuating that cycle of ignorance. Public libraries can be a huge part of the solution, especially since public school libraries are being cut.
10242	7/10/2012	My interests are served by a well-maintained and accessible library
10243	7/10/2012	People who have access to knowledge make happier, better informed citizens.

10244	7/10/2012	Libraries are such an important part of a community. They provide educational and cultural resources through their programs and materials to many who might not be able to gain or afford access to them otherwise. Because of this, they serve a higher importance because they give our community a chance to learn, entertain, and grow through literature, films and music. Libraries better our people, no matter what their age, without discrimination or judgement, and I can't think of anything that's as essential a service as that.
10245	7/10/2012	I have the money to buy the books I need/want but I know that others do not and I want to live in a community where reading is available to everyone.
10246	7/10/2012	The library is the cornerstone of any democratic society.
10247	7/10/2012	I like to use books from the library to keep my skills and business knowledge updated. It is a very good resource to develop new ideas as well.
10248	7/10/2012	Due to our finances, we rely on the library for almost all of our family entertainment.
10249	7/10/2012	important
10250	7/10/2012	The library helped instill in me a love of reading and natural curiosity at a very young age. I want that for the young people of our community especially, but really for anyone.
10251	7/10/2012	There is nothing that can awaken a child's imagination and keep adult minds active & learning like books and thought-provoking media. Having this available through our library system is a treasure worth preserving a thousand times over.
10252	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader. Having a local library that is easily accessible is of day-to-day significance to me.
10253	7/10/2012	Because the library provides essential informational services to the public.
10254	7/10/2012	I use the library so I don't have to pay money for books. If my sewer money can go to bike paths and I don't ride a bike, I think some money can go to keep the libraries intact.
10255	7/10/2012	The library provides access to high quality resources, materials and education that the people who need it most would not be able to access without the library system. It improves the quality of life for citizens across age, education and economic spectrums. Our library system, in particular, is well-planned and executed with a deep, rich array of services and materials.
10256	7/10/2012	Keep providing less service for more money that should work well!
10257	7/10/2012	Libraries are a primary window into the world of thought and culture and information.
10258	7/10/2012	They are what makes Portland a really good place to live. Excellent libraries and excellent public transportation add immensely to the quality of life in Portland
10259	7/10/2012	Because they make media and services available to EVERYONE in a community; because they create community' because it seems to me that a thriving library system indicates healthy engagement in language, the arts, culture...things that bring beauty and thoughtfulness to our lives

10260	7/10/2012	I love books, it's as simple as that. I got my first library card when I was 7 years old and I cannot begin to estimate how many books I've read since then. My family has always been in the lower middle class-ish area, money wise, so I never got to buy things that I wanted: books. The library was a way for me to be surrounded by things that I wanted without having to strain my parents' pockets too much.
10261	7/10/2012	Education is the most important to me, with libraries helping support education. Libraries are open to everyone and used by all walks of life for learning, entertainment, and connection to the local community.
10262	7/10/2012	We read a lot as do our three children. We borrow DVD's and books on CD regularly. We see neighbors there and can catch up. It is a main focus of our community.
10263	7/10/2012	The Multnomah library system has been the most efficient and most rewarding of any library system I have encountered in the United States and abroad. It offers a wealth of printed information and library events that should be admired and supported by government planners. To decimated such a gem would be an atrocity.
10264	7/10/2012	An educated citizenry is essential to our collective happiness.
10265	7/10/2012	Information is important to life; reference staff that help with finding and evaluating information enhance the usefulness of information. While I don't personally need youth and job services, being retired, they are important for those who need them. As a retired person I have minimal budget for books and want to continue being able to get them through the library and interlibrary loan.
10266	7/10/2012	I am retired and read or listen to books and magazines and watch films more now that I am retired. It refreshes, teaches and stimulates my learning.
10267	7/10/2012	My Amazon Prime membership lets me borrow a lot of books on demand with out a wait list and is available at all hours from the comfort of a quiet setting. I would love to browse the library instead of a website, however between all the noise and cranky/unavailable staff I am going to stick to paying 80.00 a year to check out all the books I want through Amazon.
10268	7/10/2012	I'm retired now and read approximately a book a day. I would not be financially able to spend that much on book-buying
10269	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for the majority of my reading materials. I feel a lifelong attachment to the library and it holds a great deal of importance for me. I see it as a comfortable and dependable place to go and so far it has always been there for me. Even if I cannot find what I want on the day I go I always seem to find something that satisfies me enough to take home and I feel good when I leave. I already miss not having the library open on Monday and when I pass it by on that day I feel a certain sadness and sense of loss. I truly hope that it will be open again every day of the week.
10270	7/10/2012	Not as important as police, fire, EMS, water, sanitation, mass transit, etc. (critical public services). BUT libraries are essential to the education & cultural needs of our communities.
10271	7/10/2012	it is where I go to gather important information about my world, about myself. knowledge is power and our library provide the path to that conscious power.

10272	7/10/2012	The library has always been a special place for me. I have learned alot with the aid of libraries and I am trying to pass that on to my children. I have Mondays off with my boys and for my oldest sons entire life that has been a special trip every Monday. we are both very sad that our Monday library trip is no longer an option.
10273	7/10/2012	quite high. I think community with access to the library has higher intelligence and education.
10274	7/10/2012	other ways to get information not requiring library usage
10275	7/10/2012	Even in the digital age, physical repositories of knowledge are crucial. Bits and bytes are wonderful, but when the power goes out, you'll need a book.
10276	7/10/2012	Education is the key to knowledge.
10277	7/10/2012	I think they provide a very valuable service, but they're often very unappreciated in that way.
10278	7/10/2012	Think social services more important.
10279	7/10/2012	Equal and free Access to information is essential to a free and democratic society.
10280	7/10/2012	The most broad community oriented service provided.
10281	7/10/2012	public libraries are a vital community resource.
10282	7/10/2012	They should be a lower priority than Public Safety
10283	7/10/2012	Books and information need to be available, but not as passively available as the current library system makes them.
10284	7/10/2012	It's the service I use the most and the local library branch was high among the reasons we chose to buy a house in our neighborhood.
10285	7/10/2012	The library is free and provides people (me) with a way to educate myself and my classroom, and to entertain myself and my classroom. As a teacher, my budget is small and I use the library more than any other public service.
10286	7/10/2012	I read a lot both for entertainment and for resourceful information. I cannot afford to buy all these books. I highly value the library and believe it is one of the most important community resources that we can have. It provides a place for people to get information, books, learn to read, be encouraged to read, use the computer, and so on.
10287	7/10/2012	Very. I use the library for a number of services.
10288	7/10/2012	Because the libraries are so important to my whole family.
10289	7/10/2012	Currently, I am fortunate not to need to utilize most of the services provided by the library but I have been in a situation when I needed to use those services. It helped me overcome a hurdle so that I can continue to be a part of the working community. With the current economic situation, more people are in need of these services. In addition, most public services target one particular population (seniors, children, unemployed), while the library targets and serves multiple populations.¶ Besides these services, the library provides a sense of community, pride, and environmentally friendly and economical alternative to reading a ton of books and researching new domains.

10290	7/10/2012	Libraries to me represent a community's commitment to equalization. We all have access to the goods.
10291	7/10/2012	For my own education and for the continuing education of the whole community at large. All ages are included. Enabling young readers to read and comprehend is the most valuable service the library provides. (my age is 64)[] An educated society is the the highest ideal.
10292	7/10/2012	I think most of our public services just like library service is very important, however, our local government and elected officials don't really have to care because usually the public themselves tend to just ignor everything so it seems like the public doesn't even care. I think everyone should care about this, it's just geting folks to pay attention and realize what they are about to lose and what damage it will have to a community with the loss of any public services. They provide services to EVERYONE, regardless of income, residence location, race/creed/etc.[] [] I lived in Medford when their beautiful, new public library closed due to lack of funding. Some of the reasons given by the local politicians (the ones in power) for not funding it were amazing. I remember reading the quote of one of the County Commissioners who said he did not have a library card / had never had a library card. To me, that told his level of understanding. I believe he is also the one who said that teens could find anything they needed via computer. I remember at one of the demonstrations at the County Court House, a young woman (probably 16) had a picture of a computer monitor, with the words across it - "this will not fit in my backpack".[] [] I could go on and on about this - I don't know how to properly express the "level of importance".
10293	7/10/2012
10294	7/10/2012	"Public Services", hmmm, that's pretty general. Although I believe that there is great value in our library system and utilize the library regularly, in comparison to say police/fire services, the library is naturally going to receive a lower ranking. I see it as a matter of need /necessity versus a want. In practice, libraries are a critical part of the American Dream. Many people in our society grow up in famlies who don't have a lot of education or can't afford computers. Libraries are a place where everyone, even people who are impoverished or homeless, can go to learn and get the information they need to improve their lives. Libraries are so important because they contribute so much to the potential for everyone to have an opportunity to succeed in life, regardless of who their parents are and how much money they have.
10295	7/10/2012
10296	7/10/2012	they are an available access to education and information that anyone can use. i think people think of them as a right and don't imagine they could fail. the internet isn't everything.
10297	7/10/2012	The library is a resource I use when I have a need.
10298	7/10/2012	I'm a reader and need my books!
10299	7/10/2012	They are a resource for the community to continually improve their minds and broaden their horizens

10300	7/10/2012	other services are vital such as police and fire, water, sewer, electricity
10301	7/10/2012	I especially love the library for my teen son.
10302	7/10/2012	There are many things more important, and with the internet, and e-books, most things can be found online at home or work.
10303	7/10/2012	Where else can one get a college education for $1.65 in late fees?
10304	7/10/2012	I believe in public education, and the library is an extension of this service to all people. I believe the library provides resources that bridge socio-economic differences. I also believe that libraries foster good community spaces, which is vital to a good city.
10305	7/10/2012	Reading is crucial to knowledge, both for adults and children.
10306	7/10/2012	Libraries are central to any society. I cherish the freedom I have to read what I want regardless of whether or not I can afford to buy books.
10307	7/10/2012	like the arts, they provide depth and breadth to the community
10308	7/10/2012	This is a difficult question, because you haven't told us what other local public services we're comparing the library to. Since I highly value the library, I've ranked it high.
10309	7/10/2012	Because they are free and open to everyone, all people have access to the resources the libraries provide. I feel we have an excellent library system and it means that as a family, parent, and individual we are excited about reading and library events and have ready access to those things.
10310	7/10/2012	Literacy is the key to a better future. It's the way we're going to get things done, make them better, and have educated and worldly people. A place to support that in every community is key, and having it be free and open 7 days a week is crucial.
10311	7/10/2012	I think libraries are great community centers for people to meet, learn, get access to SO much information and material, discover something new, and just have a quiet place to sit.
10312	7/10/2012	I am a student and I often do my own independent research which utilizes my public library.
10313	7/10/2012	Because the library is about testing out subjects, borrowing books and seeing if you enjoy the topic, knowledge for everyone (not just those with extra cash), and also about helping people develop and practice fundamental skills for being able to keep up with the world, especially reading and analyzing. Being able to think and to gain knowledge through reading helps us realize our full potential as humans and, together, as a society.
10314	7/10/2012	Not only to be available for checking out books for pleasure, but a place for students to study, research, use computers. Also a huge community resource for children beginning to read to become acquainted with books and the whole new world they can be exposed to by reading.
10315	7/10/2012	Because reading and books and magazines open the readers eyes to a world beyond their neighborhood. Reading improves speech, language, spelling and of course, knowledge.
10316	7/10/2012	they provide access as well as an outlet for public use
10317	7/10/2012	I don't use the local library services but want the public to be able to depend upon them, especially helping children to read and providing services for young families.

10318	7/10/2012	Education and knowledge are the basis of a successful community. Libraries have played and should continue to play a large part in the education of our citizens. They are places where people can go to find current and historical information; discover new music and literature or get help with seeking employment. This is important not only for individuals for the state and nation as it lifts up a population of people and helps to provide them with skills to succeed in challenging economic times. Libraries provide an important resource that is available and accessible to every age group, which is rare!
10319	7/10/2012	I would say that Portland Parks and Recreation and the library are equally the two most important public services. They are just what we utilize the most. We don't have the money to buy gobs of new books, CD's and movies. I also feel that it is extremely wasteful to buy something that will only be used maybe once or a few times. I like sharing. I think there should be lending libraries for everything!
10320	7/10/2012	The Multnomah County Library Association had many succesful years without the County takeover. Those who have the intelligence, will and means will continue to support our libraries. The need for human services for the poor is so great that it trumps the need for public libraries. Nevertheless, before reducing library services or increasing property taxes I believe a fee- for-service system should be implemented.
10321	7/10/2012	The library is my primary source of reading material and new ideas.
10322	7/10/2012	Somewhat important. I often buy used books locally
10323	7/10/2012	Because they are vital to a instilling a lifelong love of reading in my child, and to providing access to low-income/disadvantage to information and programs that can help educate them.
10324	7/10/2012	They provide education for the young and old at no or little cost. There's no other service out there that gives so much for so little. Our healthcare industry is a joke, our educational one is almost as bad, but the libraries offer a safe, comfortable place for people of all financial levels to go, learn, and have fun. This is vital. Take it away and there's virtually no support for education left.
10325	7/10/2012	Access to books for my children and myself. Meeting/gathering place for entire community. A place to go for those that need it
10326	7/10/2012	The library is a part of the daily life of me, my family, and the whole neighborhood.
10327	7/10/2012	All have access and it is a safe place for most people
10328	7/10/2012	Basic safety, public education and healthcare have to come before.
10329	7/10/2012	there is no equivalent "free" source of uncensored/unfiltered knowledge.
10330	7/10/2012	The quality of the public libraries are an indication of the overall quality of the city.
10331	7/10/2012	Because it is a very "real," tangible service that I utilize on a very regular basis. Whenever we are looking for a new place to live, we try to stay within walking distance of a library! The books I check out would not be accessible to me otherwise (prohibitively expensive to buy).

10332	7/10/2012	The library is one of the only local services that I choose to use on a regular basis. It is very important for me to have such a valuable resource available in our communities, and how great is it that it doesn't cost anything to use!
10333	7/10/2012	Because they are open to the public in order for them to education themselves. Very important. I don't want to buy books. I enjoy the freedom to explore the grat variety of books available. If I check out a book and find I am not engaged, don't like the writing style or whatever, I don't feel compelled to slog through it. I think I try more, different authors, styles, etc because I primarily read library books.[]
10334	7/10/2012	[] I also appreciate the magazines databases when I am researching a trip or a major purchase.
10335	7/10/2012	Its a place for people who can't afford to purchase material to go and utilize it.
10336	7/10/2012	An educated public is vital to our democracy and quality of life. We must have access to resources.
10337	7/10/2012	Because an informed citizenry is essential to successful democracy. Also, because I really love to read!
10338	7/10/2012	Source of continuing education.
10339	7/10/2012	Books are too expensive to buy. And no matter how big e readers are, there are and always will be people who like real books. And i am a very strong advocate for reading. Would that I were eloquent enough to answer that question on my own...[]
10340	7/10/2012	Oh here's an idea: I'll look for an inspiring quote about the importance of literacy in a book![] Ha ha, sweet irony. Personally, I could not afford to purchase all the reading and listening materials I use. As a former teacher, I used my teacher card to support curriculum planning. I took my students (Headstart Pre K) to the library regularly and had the librarian come monthly to class so that the kids and their families would develop a familiarity with the building and staff and rich services becasue I want educated familes no matter what their income. We all need access to information and not just what cables and comercial network dish out for the community to be healthy.
10341	7/10/2012
10342	7/10/2012	See my previous comment.
10343	7/10/2012	I think right under safety like with police/crime/drug/child workers that the library and education come next!
10344	7/10/2012	Social mobility is important to the future success of our society. We need to ensure that any any motivated person has access to the information and educational tools they need to be successful. Libraries are a key resource, and public libraries ensure that resource as available to everyone in our community.

10346	7/10/2012	Growing up my mother told me that her mother denied her schooling because of cultural reasons. But my mother had an idea. In her early teens, she defied the culture and sneaked out to a Buddhist temple to learn how to read and write Cambodian - as well as French. When asked by her mother, she said she needed to take food to the monks. ☐ ☐ So when I was about 8, she told me to study hard because education is important to one's intellectual growth and how one interacts with others around her. It's important for a society. One can spend her knowledge and it will never run out of it. It's so nice to see parents take their children to the library.
10347	7/10/2012	It really depends upon the other public services to which the library is being compared, i.e. police, fire, schools, etc... I am a middle-class male with a wife and two daughters. We have multiple laptops at our house that we take to coffee shops and so forth. I feel that library is essential to those that do not have access to the internet at home or elsewhere but now the importance of the library isn't so much about its importance to me specifically but more because of the role it plays in a society in which I want to live. So this brings up the question - who is the library for? If it is primarily for those that lack access to the services that most others have then that seems to lead to one set of answers/decisions but if the library is seen as being for someone like me - someone who already has access to basic information (and recreational) resources - then the answers/decisions seem to shift. I don't know what the library's mission statement is, but perhaps that will clarify who the library's audience is in 2012.
10348	7/10/2012	They are Free, the great equalizer in this unequal society of ours. They are everyone's right.
10349	7/10/2012	They are a resource that I use constantly.
10350	7/10/2012	I have kids, education and library materials are useful
10351	7/10/2012	they the best source of information and knowledge.
10352	7/10/2012	They are a mainstay of accessible public knowledge.
10353	7/10/2012	i use them most often
10354	7/10/2012	children
10355	7/10/2012	They are a service that all families can utilize if aware of them and educated on how to use them effectively.
10356	7/10/2012	We homeschool and we use the library as our primary resource. Also, since we are avid readers, we are heavy users for checking out books.

10357	7/10/2012	The library has been critical to my life since I was a small child: it gave me a place to escape to, a place to learn, a place to practice independence. Today, it is the public resource I rely on most, and mostly for the same reasons.
10358	7/10/2012	It is nice to have library but not must have. Same services can be obtained from other sources.
10359	7/10/2012	The computers, e/books, programs help enrich and educate. It's one of the best uses of my tax dollars because I can enjoy it rather than hope it gets used on roads, schools, etc.
10360	7/10/2012	they are not a requirement, in my opinion, from a list of public services (i.e. fire, police, water, sewer, etc), but they do help bolster the communities livability and provide resources for people that do not have the same information access that my family has.
10361	7/10/2012	I refer people to the library daily
10362	7/10/2012	Libraries are a treasure and a pleasure that cannot be replaced by anything else.
10363	7/10/2012	I love the library and what it gives to the community I would be so sad if we ever lost this valuable service it has given our whole family a great love of books
10364	7/10/2012	Educational access to all. Although free to those who utilize. Not free to homeowners.
10365	7/10/2012	I have better than average income, so I can buy books when I want and I have plenty of access to internet, etc. but if I didn't have this level of income I would be using the library a whole lot more, probably on a weekly basis. Aside from emergency services, this is the most important local public service for education, entertainment, self improvement, etc.
10366	7/10/2012	We believe that reading is very important for our children. Getting a new book or other media from the library keeps reading interesting for them.
10367	7/10/2012	Knowledge / information / learning is critical to our community's future.
10368	7/10/2012	Please see previous explanation.
10369	7/10/2012	All my life I have depended on using the library. The concept of making media available to the populace is an important part of a democracy, an important part of an informed and thoughtful public. It's one of the best parts of civilization.
10370	7/10/2012	Libraries are very important, but there are other things that take higher priority
10371	7/10/2012	Having materials and computers available for all members
10372	7/10/2012	As a teacher, I know that libraries are an essential place for young teens and others to have access to quiet, controlled study environments. Increasing programming for younger school aged children also helps support these older students and parents in accessing this space.
10373	7/10/2012	I learned to use the public library as a child. The service is invaluable.
10374	7/10/2012	I have access to a computer which provides access to information, however, many don't, so the need for the public library is critical. Plus I strongly believe in giving everyone the opportunity to read, learn, and improve themselves.

10375	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for quality of life for my family, and for the opportunity to learn and move up in the world. I have taught myself to sew, play piano, bake, garden, run my own business, stay in shape, and so much more, all through reading books from the library. Toddler storytime is the highlight of my daughter's week. It is the only thing she gets to go to, because it is free. We have never bought her books, but her little shelf is always stocked with library books, and she is becoming an avid reader with a huge vocabulary. The library is an absolutely essential public service, because it is an equalizer. Educating oneself is a powerful way to change one's situation, and it's something that should always be available. It is hope.
10376	7/10/2012	Libraries provide free educational and entertainment value to the largest group of society. The greatest number of people benefit from the availability of reading materials, computer usage, free literature, music and personal help in navigating the world that books bring to our eyes and brains. It's the cheapest source of entertainment and education in society, and available to every single person wishing to take part in its existence. The library is also a temporary safe haven for individuals seeking to escape difficult and sometimes dangerous homes or relationships. It is a great place for teens and young adults to spend some quiet reflective time immersed in a good book, the internet or doing homework, instead of becoming involved in idle and destructive activities, such as gangs or shoplifting or teek pregnancies. Idle hands are the Devil's playground, as the saying goes. It's also a great way to spend an afternoon without spending money.
10377	7/10/2012	Right now, the library is the most important service that I personally get from the county. However, I also believe that improved public transportation, access to health care, and public schools are very important to the community.
10378	7/10/2012	Libraries provide resources for all residents to access at no cost. They offer an alternative to television or video games for children and young adults to expand their minds through reading; as well as programs where people within the community are invited to participate
10379	7/10/2012	I use the library constantly to look for books I've read about. Checking books out of the library improves my ability to read more widely, to review books/authors I'm not familiar with, compare books by various authors on the same subject and to explore newly published books. I would feel bereft without the library.
10380	7/10/2012	I think that public services such as police and firemen are more important than libraries, so they're not of the most importance, but still somewhat important in comparison to police and firemen.
10381	7/10/2012	Very high
10382	7/10/2012	We wouldn't have access to all those materials if they weren't available through the library.
10383	7/10/2012	These are a great resource bringing together people from various income levels and socio-economic classes.
10384	7/10/2012	The library is a free system that anyone with a card can easily access. And it's very easy to obtain a card.
10385	7/10/2012	high

10386	7/10/2012	I am retired and have time to read. I could not afford the books. My grandchildren love to read, and have a great source of books available also.
10387	7/10/2012	I read a lot and I can no longer afford to buy books
10388	7/10/2012	The library is a community gathering space. It allows anybody from any walk of life to read and to learn. Story times have been so important to my family. Free books keep us reading! Being able to go to the library helps me instill the values of community, resourcefulness, and curiosity in my children.
10389	7/10/2012	Reading and literacy are fundamental to a democracy.
10390	7/10/2012	I enjoy, and value the local library system, but if it comes between libraries and parks, I'm going to pick parks every time because I utilize those services more. That is assuming that emergency services are in their own bracket of importance, and not on the same level as "optional" services.
10391	7/10/2012	sharing of knowledge in a community environment
10392	7/10/2012	Libraries! So very important for people who need access to computers, job programs, story hours, etc. You serve the people who need it most.
10393	7/10/2012	Because I've used the County Library all my life. It allowed me to have books to read when I was in grade school and high school -- in a family with limited income. It was a place for me to study when in high school. I went to college elsewhere, but in my adult life I regularly use the library for books, movies, research, etc. I think it is an important community institution.
10394	7/10/2012	People should always have a place they can go to, free of charge, to get information about the world they live in and access to the literature that defines it.
10395	7/10/2012	There are other services, such as social services (SNAP and housing assistance) that to me, seem more important.
10396	7/10/2012	They are an investment in maintaining access to education, information--a way for everyone in the community, no matter their level of resources--and staying connected. They guarantee that everyone can use them to have better, richer lives, find jobs, and learn and enrich themselves.
10397	7/10/2012	It would be helpful if you included list of what you mean when you say "other local public services"? I'm left guessing. So, libraries are slightly less important than the services that sustain life...like water quality or decent roads...and as important or more important than other services.
10398	7/10/2012	I am a teacher and I believe in life-long learning and the value of reading a variety of literature. It is the measure of a community.
10399	7/10/2012	I am an Artist, I cannot afford to buy all the art books I would like. I do lots of visual/ historical research, and rely on the library to have books I need for my research. I also really enjoy checking out audiobooks to listen to while I work.
10400	7/10/2012	Libraries and parks are for the enjoyment of all, bike lanes are only important to select few loud mouths!! [] I am an avid biker, but libraries and parks should still come first.

10401	7/10/2012	They allow me to access materials that I could not get otherwise.[] Provides services that are done in groups, like intercambio.[] []
10402	7/10/2012	If one were really, really, wealthy, then anything one wants is available. Libraries provide access to critical learning materials, a safe place to study and learn about the world. They contribute to our sense of community.
10403	7/10/2012	"Reading" is an open door to the bright future and many other great things. Our family's raising a kindergartener with an emphasis on reading. We want him to grow up with the love for reading and books. Compared to libraries in most countries, especially those in Asian countries, I have repeatedly told people and praised how great our libraries are; the convenience of searching for/checking out and renewing materials/books, the library web site, the wonderful and variety of selections of books/materials, the library hours, the friendly staff, etc. We absolutely love our local library! Please keep up the great work and never get discouraged by any budget cut. Our community needs and appreciates you!
10404	7/10/2012	It is one of the public services that I am constantly benefiting from.
10405	7/10/2012	I think a library is important to a community and you trust it to always be there (even with limited hours).
10406	7/10/2012	With the abundance of electronic information and books available 24/7 over the Internet, libraries have become totally irrelevant. Why not close down all libraries and save the money?
10407	7/10/2012	A well informed public is the corner stone of a good democracy.
10408	7/10/2012	Access to written material. Belief in the support of literacy for all.
10409	7/10/2012	It's convenient for me
10410	7/10/2012	I think libraries offer an important service to our community and that access to reading materials is incredibly important to society as a whole.
10411	7/10/2012	It is pretty important. I use the library to help supplement to our homeschool curriculum. It helps me to be able to have plenty of material without breaking my budget.
10412	7/10/2012	I have and extensive personal library and internet access. But I can't buy every book I want to read. So for me, the library is a resource, in a sense a luxury beyond what I can get on my own. Many others are not as fortunate and need the many services that it provides.
10413	7/10/2012	Leisure and education is the basis of our culture.
10414	7/10/2012	Libraries provide the public with free resources that a lot of people wouldn't have otherwise. Libraries encourage reading and expanding knowledge at all ages.
10415	7/10/2012	We love our libraries in Multnomah County. We depend on them and count on them to provide the information and resources we need every day.
10416	7/10/2012	Our library system provides part of the backbone of our community.
10417	7/10/2012	The library is a resource that a lot of people in the community use and rely on

10418	7/10/2012	multi function use, they provide computer access for job seekers etc, and a cheap hobby for older folks and kids.
10419	7/10/2012	They provide a hub of community.
10420	7/10/2012	we (family) used it most
10421	7/10/2012	We enjoy using the library. However, I think it's even more important for families who struggle financially. Everyone should have access to books!
10422	7/10/2012	Because it directly influences the community as a whole. The more resources there are for educating everyone whether it's formally in a classroom or informally with self education by reading and researching causes the whole community to grow.
10423	7/10/2012	Not as important as Police, Fire, City Services and Schools.
10424	7/10/2012	because, as I already mentioned, libraries promote learning. They are extreemly important.
10425	7/10/2012	Reading is a gateway for me to the world. As I'm on a limited disability income, I can't travel much any more. Actually, I only travel when my friend gives me buddy passes on Southwest. So I must "travel" via books. Totally important!
10426	7/10/2012	The library is a resource we use several times a week. I plan on homeschooling my kids and I know that it will be indispensible for me to be able to check out materials to help teach them. The library provides so many materials to people; internet access, copier, books, magazines, dvds, workout videos (that saves me a lot of money on gym membership :) programs for kids, teens, and adults, it is just a vital part of our community and is a public service that should not diminish, but increase in services.
10427	7/10/2012	We can't afford to buy new books for our kids, ages 9 and 11, who need a wide variety of reading matter.
10428	7/10/2012	I began using the public library when I was a young girl (more than 60 years ago). I went once a week, checked out 7 books, and returned them the next week for another 7! I have been a lifelong library user. As I said on the previous page, I believe that public libraries are second only to public schools in their importance in the life of a community. They provide a wealth of services to people of all ages. They are a treasure that should be treated as such!
10429	7/10/2012	The library assists me with schoolwork at PSU by allowing me to check out books that I would otherwise need to wait to receive through Summit or Inter-Library Loan. It is a source of entertainment with books, DVDs and music. Although I do not need to use many other library services, internet access, English language learning and children and youth are invaluable to those who need them.
10430	7/10/2012	One of our most valuable community resources! Access to information and knowledge is crucial to a society's success. Plus, all of the additional services the library provides are some of the easiest and most comfortable social services for people in need to access.
10431	7/10/2012	We can't keep paying for this level of service. Schools have cut back, jobs cut completely so the libraries could do fine with less buildings and personnel.

10432	7/10/2012	It might be the only place to go for some people and I am not necessarily talking about homeless people - just regular people falling on tough times and could not afford the internet at home. Besides it is the Pacific NW and it rains a lot here. I spend a lot of time in the library when I had no other place to go. They will always have my support!
10433	7/10/2012	They can in a well-run system, provide access to a wealth of ideas and information. Unfortunately, we now babysit and attract the worst of community.
10434	7/10/2012	Reading, and access to books cross many boundaries. It expands knowledge and fosters equality.
10435	7/10/2012	They are just under emergency services and low-income assistance in my mind.
10436	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to books Less waste if we share books and resources
10437	7/10/2012	One of the few democratic institutions left
10438	7/10/2012	I'm really bad at returning things on time, so I usually end up buying things instead. But if I were better at that, I'd used the library for more than the occasional hard to find book or magazine.
10439	7/10/2012	Important sources of information and recreational reading We are intense readers and have great mental capacity. ☐
10440	7/10/2012	If we could not read, listen and see all the information in the Multnomah County Library and use the research material through the Inter Library Loan we would be lost.
10441	7/10/2012	It's a great resource to stay abreast of current music and books. I've saved thousands of dollars by using the library.
10442	7/10/2012	Book choices, electronic books
10443	7/10/2012	balance
10444	7/10/2012	Because I value books, feeling them and knowing that paper still exists.
10445	7/10/2012	the library is the great equalizer. i dont have internet access at my home. i need to be able to depend on the library for that. i can rely on the library to be quiet and appropriate for studying/looking for jobs/getting projects done. you cant rely on stupid coffee shops for that. the library is also a great source to get entertainment, ie music and films. i cant afford to get a membership at some video store or even online (wouldnt work anyway because I dont have home internet access). the ability to check out films at the library is great since its free.
10446	7/10/2012	My primary usage is the digital library; online downloading of books
10447	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for reading material, as I am on a fixed income. I can get the latest reading material without having to purchase it.
10448	7/10/2012	the library is for everyone and should be available as much as possible; as a place for information it is crucial that we all have access to this for our society to move forward; information should be for everyone on an equal basis
10449	7/10/2012	Well it is more essential that I have fire and police protection, roads that are paved, but I'd place it above some County education services.

10450	7/10/2012	They provide access to knowledge and information to anyone who is interested, regardless of socio-economic status.
10451	7/10/2012	only becaUSE OF THIS PERSISTANT UGLY ECONOMY other public service gain more importance
10452	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently when I am in Portland. I spend the summer in Vermont.
10453	7/10/2012	I'm a baby boomer, so grew up using libraries, thus recognize their importance, even in this electronic age; it's a shame to see them close in areas.
10454	7/10/2012	Not to me, personally, except as part of the comment. But to engage kids and steer them from trouble, the library is a wonderful start. The same with those of us who do research, as ILL services are also important.
10455	7/10/2012	They are a crucial part of a community. It is a place where people can gain information, meet new people, do activities, etc. Just because we have access to the internet, doesn't mean that libraries are something that people should just on a back shelf (pun wholeheartedly intended).
10456	7/10/2012	In this community, I'd vote to remove most public funding for everything since the decisions made about how the money is spent seems to be out of line with taking care of the primary needs first. I keep hearing, "Oh, we need more money for..." when the community is wasting money on things like bike paths. Choose people: infrastructure maintenance, literacy, or pet projects. That's how I'd prioritize it. What I see is: pet projects, literacy, infrastructure neglect.[] [] PS: That's why I'm out of here, voting republican, and encouraging my congress people to pass laws that restrict how much money the city and county can get from state funding.
10457	7/10/2012	The access to information and resources is the foundation upon which our society is built.
10458	7/10/2012	I love to read and I believe having a space that supports and fosters a community of readers and thinkers is important. Also, libraries are so important to their local communities because of their programs, but also because of the safe space they provide--for people to pause in and reflect or for people to utilize resources effectively.
10459	7/10/2012	As I stated earlier, having a library card is one of the few equalizers possible, and one of the greatest privileges. To deny this access due to lack of funding or other threats breaks my heart.
10460	7/10/2012	When our corporate masters price most of us out of all the e-garbage, we'll need somewhere to consult and cultivate knowledge.
10461	7/10/2012	The problem all services are important, the libraries allow students and others to do research for school and personal learning. Cheeking out books helps student to improve their reading which helps in all areas of life. The more reading one can have the more diverse they will be and better to cope with the problems that arise.
10462	7/10/2012	Almost none. It's great that one can check out a book and take it home to read. Other than that, the services are either redundant to privately offered services, or, of such minimal value that one wonders what could have prompted that offering.

10463	7/10/2012	For the reasons stated in question six.
10465	7/10/2012	I know that many people, friends and family included, utilize the library weekly for a variety of things. The library gives everyone free access to books, programs, and information to better one's self. It is also a place of community and education. I changed my answer from "very important" because I would consider the public school system "very important" over local library, especially because they are in constant financial pain.
10466	7/10/2012	I am still amazed that the people who came here on the Oregon Trail took so few years to start the first free lending library. There was such a sense then of creating future community. It gives us all hope and pride to think that we too are the kind of people who build for ourselves and for those who will come after us.
10467	7/10/2012	Education, promote and support diverse needs, creativity, accessible for all
10468	7/10/2012	Information age - information is critical to people for managing their lives, jobs, future. Important for diverse community - equalize power differences.
10469	7/10/2012	I highly value books and literacy. They're an essential part of culture and teach ways of interacting and thinking that school doesn't.
10470	7/10/2012	not too important
10471	7/10/2012	I cannot emphasize enough how important local library services are to me and my family. We go to the library weekly and use it for many things.
10472	7/10/2012	Public safety, schools, roads, parks, social services more important.
10473	7/10/2012	I use them for personal use as well as for my students (I'm a teacher).
10474	7/10/2012	Other public services that affect the immediate safety of the community would rank higher (police, sewage control, fire fighters, etc)
10475	7/10/2012	Our library system plays a fundamental role in my life as a local high school student
10476	7/10/2012	It's great and necessary for kids and low income families. It's necessary for our society. I enjoyed going as a child and my little one does also. Reading and knowledge is fundamental in creating a democratic society.
10477	7/10/2012	Book and material needs to be available to people who do not have the money to purchase items.
10478	7/10/2012	I rely on my local library for almost all of my reading material now that I am divorced unemployed and over 62.

10479	7/10/2012	I use the library quite often to check out books to read for pleasure. When my children were young, I took them to the library. Libraries are not as important as medical care but they are very important for most people in the community as a resource, a place to go and a place to learn.
10480	7/10/2012	Libraries are the foundation of a well-informed community. They provide essential, accessible information that is not just reserved for those who are fortunate enough to have a college education.
10481	7/10/2012	I use them daily and they along with schools are the foundations of a just and civil society
10482	7/10/2012	what is civilization without libraries?
10483	7/10/2012	provides young children/ adults access to information. Our world depends so much on communication and availability of information, resources. The library provides these things in a peaceful, safe environment.[] We must teach our children to appreciate the value of real books that they can hold in their hands and appreciate.
10484	7/10/2012	well-read population
10485	7/10/2012	One reason is my son is an avid and fast reader. Each time I check out books I am always thankful that this branch is close by and has good hours. It is very important for our quality of life.
10486	7/10/2012	Libraries are available to everyone, regardless of status and income. The services they provide are beneficial to individual users and the communities which they serve. Libraries act as a hub for information, community resources and entertainment. I also am enthusiastic about the library's expanding offerings of ebooks and other electronic offerings.
10487	7/10/2012	I can buy a book and support local book stores and local authors.. Most people in the libraries seem to be abusing the computers.. If they are truly job seekers, great! However, most computers in the libraries are not monitored as much as they should be. Certain people don't understand the library is a privilege..
10488	7/10/2012	Libraries give access to knowledge, ability, leisure, creativity, learning, and possibilities for all whom have such access to them, they are a thriving hub in equality minded communities.
10489	7/10/2012	We have a young daughter and use the library frequently. We love the library and depend on it for part of our daughter's education. She is home schooled.
10490	7/10/2012	They are very important to me because everyone should have access to information to better educate themselves to be more productive members of society (even if that productivity only involves sharing what has been learned).
10491	7/10/2012	Increases the knowledge of the general public
10492	7/10/2012	Education (schools) are number one and then libraries
10493	7/10/2012	We love reading, literacy and using our libraries
10494	7/10/2012	Libraries are essential centers of learning. They also provide technology and literacy resources for those who do not have them.
10495	7/10/2012	I think we utilize the library more than any other local public service.

10496	7/10/2012	It's a service I use regularly. I don't call the police or fire department everyday, and I don't use very many other county or public services (except for Trimet)
10497	7/10/2012	Provides access to books, educational materials, and programs for those who can't afford to have access otherwise.
10498	7/10/2012	So many people use the libraries for school and work they wouldnt be successful without the library. Also, children NEED books, they NEED to learn how to read and they NEED places where they can go to get the resources necessary to lead a healthy, successful life and future.
10499	7/10/2012	Multnomah County has one of the best library systems in the country. Library services promote literacy and community involvement. Most people would not have access to such a wide variety of books, music, film and other media without our library system. My children especially have benefitted from the large selection of childrens' books because there is no way we could afford to buy all of the books we've borrowed over the years. As a musician, I am especially impressed by the large selection of sheet music at the Central Library.
10500	7/10/2012	The library is an essential community asset.
10501	7/10/2012	the library is a source of knowledge for the young, a sanctuary for the homeless and elderly and a necessary foundation for society as a whole.
10502	7/10/2012	To link community... Connectiveness and involvement of citizens w/ in neighborhoods is vital; and libraries are an essential feature of that in addition to their ongoing edification and life long learning...children through seniors David Taylor
10503	7/10/2012	Libraries are fundamental to our democracy and having an informed citizenry. They are places where all can receive services and a great equalizer in communities where other activities are only available to affluent households.
10504	7/10/2012	Libraries provide valuable services to all patrons and help to level the playing field for all members of the community. They are gathering places in our community, central to the lives of young children.
10505	7/10/2012	The library is the hub of many community activities. Reading is extremely important to myself and my family, but I have also greatly benefitted from library programs like Book Babies. In fact, many of the parent friends I have were made through that program. Social connection is integral to the public health of our community; libraries are integral to social connection.
10506	7/10/2012	access to reading for all economic levels
10507	7/10/2012	Information is power and empowerment
10508	7/10/2012	Clean water and sanitation, public safety, public schools should all come before.
10509	7/10/2012	Our libraries are one of the main sources of learning. When we want to learn something new, we have the libraries to go and find our answers. Everyone needs to be encouraged to use our libraries. A town without a library is sadly lacking

10510	7/10/2012	An educated populous is best for us all. [] Not everyone can afford books and computers. The libraries level the playing field
10511	7/10/2012	Libraries, to me, are the embodiment of education, enrichment, and knowledge—and as they are free to the public, all people have equal access to self-improvement through these means.
10512	7/10/2012	Other things...More money for schools. Police. Firefighters. Arts. Staying in my house. School bond costs me $400. Arts $400. Library $400 first year. Wages are down half for my work. Increase gas,water elec. Times are bad you can not increase my tax 30% I WILL NOT BE ABLE TO PAY AND THESE THINGS WILL NOT GET THE MONEY. Then you can increase my taxes again and again you will not get the money. Inflation is less then one percent and my takes will go up 30% The board has missmanaged in good times they spent all the money. They want to live like these are good times. NO NO
10513	7/10/2012	I have going to the library for 74 years!!! Reading has always been a huge part of our family life.[] Taking my children and then grandchildren to check out library books is what helped widen their perception of a larger world of people, places and things..[] [] As a senior, I would be "lost" without a place to take out the books I can no longer afford.[] [] When I enter a library and see the variety of people there, it gives me hope for the future of our children and our world.
10514	7/10/2012	we read a lot
10515	7/10/2012	I support the libraries, but I don't use them much.
10516	7/10/2012	They are the most important, because they are the service I use the most out of all other public services, by far. I love the library, and there's no other public space in which I feel more at home, peaceful and comfortable than my local library.
10517	7/10/2012	free access to books is very important to an educated, healthy, and prosperous city
10518	7/10/2012	I think it is vital to have a public place where information can be accessed for free by all. Since information and media is so important in our world (and economy), libraries have an important role to place in ensuring that a wide range of high quality media is available to those with low incomes.
10519	7/10/2012	I will gladly pay for library services in principle and in fact. As our education system continues to erode, our libraries continue to be the egalitarian access point for information for all people regardless of social status or demographics. [] [] The internet presence of the library is extremely important as well. e-books and podcasts are our bridge to the future.
10520	7/10/2012	I support the library and am glad to see the system is popular in Portland.

10521	7/10/2012	I don't think that they are as important as necessary public services, such as police, fire, or schools, but think they are of great importance as community places and to provide services for the community, especially lower income people and families, that they might not otherwise be able to have.
10522	7/10/2012	freedom of education
10523	7/10/2012	I think a well informed and educated public is of enormous community importance.
10524	7/10/2012	I use the library probably more than any other public resource. Unless you count roads or sidewalks.
10525	7/10/2012	I rarely, if ever, use the library. My experience is that it is a haven for drug-addled youth and street-punks to use the bathroom. It starts the young of our culutre on a very bad path, that they have a right to "free" music, videos, internet use, and even books. These aren't free. I have to pay for them.
10526	7/10/2012	Libraries are the pillar of a civil and informed society. Without libraries, you begin a slippery slope og ingnorance that leads to negative impacts to our regional economy, to health equity and civic engagement. As a Multnomah County resident, our library system is what I'm most proud of and it is known nationally as a leading and innovative library system. We should cherish it, not threaten it.
10527	7/10/2012	The library system is a place for anyone and everyone to access free information at anytime. A free library system is one of the backbones of our society and one of the things that helped build this country. Libraries are just as important to our communities as police, fire and emergency services!!!
10528	7/10/2012	I like streets and police and parks, too.
10529	7/10/2012	Great resource for the community
10530	7/10/2012	I feel strong libraries make for fairness in a community and allow equal access to information and culture.
10531	7/10/2012	i want excellent programs for my child--teaching him to read and value of getting together in a group and learning together
10532	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the most important asset to any community.
10533	7/10/2012	I have been increasing my business with books I have been reading from the library.
10534	7/10/2012	Because I use it. But I believe cutbacks have to be made.
10535	7/10/2012	I have other options - others don't. As compared to clothing and food, though, this is not as important
10536	7/10/2012	Having worked with lower income kids and jobseekers, it's their only access to some key services, increasingly computer access.[] []
10537	7/10/2012	I also really appreciate the technology updates (netflix-style Hold service, borrowable e-[] audiobooks) When you have a computer you don't need the library.

10538	7/10/2012	I read a lot and it is sometimes my only source of entertainment. I read very quickly and cannot literally afford to buy all of the books that I am able to read in a 3 week time period - especially because I am unemployed.
10539	7/10/2012	education, including libraries, is foundation for a community and society
10540	7/10/2012	We have been using the library more often since our personal finances have been deduced. We no longer purchase books, music, or movies. We love using the library! It is worth every tax cent we pay and more!
10541	7/10/2012	I like to read.
10542	7/10/2012	If I need something school related that I don't have at home, such as printing or copying, it makes it convenient to go to the library.
10543	7/10/2012	Because I grew up using the library and want my son to be able to experience the same.
10544	7/10/2012	Libraries should work in conjunction with other social services, including schools and community resource centers. They should be used to augment the other offerings by providing education, communication and entertainment opprotunities for those with limited options.
10545	7/10/2012	The public library is a functional community center, bringing together people of diverse ages and backgrounds to learn, research, and work together. In an increasingly internet-dependent world, it is often the only place to access the interne for free, making it a necessary resource for students and job-seekers.
10546	7/10/2012	Mid level at best. Fire, Police, Good Schools, sewer, garbage, safe streets (repaired) all come above it.
10547	7/10/2012	I'm a teacher - the library is extremely helpful in providing supplemental materials in my classroom. I often checkout 40+ books supporting the theme I am teaching. I also used the library to find books for my personal reading. I almost always have several books checked out.
10548	7/10/2012	I ranked this right behind what I consider the "life services," ie, fire, police. We need to offer library services to each of our students with the hope they take advantage of the opportunity.
10549	7/10/2012	Besides "Utilities" and maybe cable/internet, the Library is the one local public service I use more than any other. Not that I want Police and Fire to be downgraded, but luckily for me, I rarely need those compared to some good books and Lovecraft biographies.
10550	7/10/2012	Because books and libraries are important.
10551	7/10/2012	For the furtherence of knowledge
10552	7/10/2012	The restricted hours most days makes the library inaccessible for me as a convenience. I do appreciate the available postal delivery option, but that can get expensive. The library cannot possibly stock all the books I am interested in, but I believe it would serve the community more if the library focused on being a research center versus investing in simply popular novels and items of very little archival import.

10553	7/10/2012	A bookmobile that served my San Diego neighborhood when I was in grade school enamored me of books--just as it does for children now. My education was enriched and greatly expanded by library use through my college years and throughout adulthood--as it was for many people. Library services are available to all income levels, as well as all intellectual levels. I cannot imagine a free society with a negligible library system.[] Concerning the levy referred to later in this questionnaire: I would like to see the levy voted on in 2012. However, to best assure passage you need to lay a lot of groundwork with the public. That may mean waiting until 2014.
10554	7/10/2012	Learning is the key to a free society. Schools can try to train, however a love for reading sometimes needs to be an individual exploration and thirst for knoweldge. Without a multitude of free information to choose from and the ability to utilize it, the journey can never begin. Library services are the most important public service besides water and sewer that can be provided.
10555	7/10/2012	BOOOOOOOKS!
10556	7/10/2012	access to free reading material
10557	7/10/2012	My family's access to the world, education, instilling a love of reading in my children, socializing, community.
10558	7/10/2012	I put police and fire above library services
10559	7/10/2012	I am a lifetime bibliophile who believes that everyone should have access to free reading materials
10560	7/10/2012	It is the public service I use most.
10561	7/10/2012	Literacy is one of the most important services a community can provide to its citizenry.
10562	7/10/2012	I check out sheet music all the time, and it's the only affordable way to get access to a huge amount of repertoire.
10563	7/10/2012	Use them all the time. Saves me lots of money. Provides necessary services to create an educated populous regardless of income levels.
10564	7/10/2012	Not as important now that I download most of my books because of the convenience.
10565	7/10/2012	So we can educated politicians not to use phrases like "looking forward to the future."
10566	7/10/2012	It is a resource for all members of the community. It is well used and needs to be maintained at the highest level possible.
10567	7/10/2012	This is not a "need" but very nice to have----there are many things that are a "need"
10568	7/10/2012	Comparing libraries to fire and police is a tough one. Parks and recreational facilities address another aspect of citizen needs. Libraries are certainly as important as our public education systems.
10569	7/10/2012	Books = Education and perspective[] Perspective and education = opportunity

10570	7/10/2012	They provide equal opportunity to access information. Public libraries are crucial for anyone trying to bootstrap their way into a decent life in this country.
10571	7/10/2012	When compared to public schools and emergency services the library is less of a priority, but it is still a very important resource and should be adequately funded.
10572	7/10/2012	Libraries are central to community involvement and education. Libraries empower us and house programs that better the community.
10573	7/10/2012	I'm an avid reader.
10574	7/10/2012	Education and access to information aids personal growth and development, which in turn strengthens society.
10575	7/10/2012	Books in general are important and when you can walk through a space and pull out a book that you were not even looking for, it can be magical. It opens new worlds and possibilities up to everyone. Also, as a resource, I find that I can as quickly find what I need by looking at the library as I can if doing a search online. Knowledgeable staff also helps in acquiring resource information or locations of material.
10576	7/10/2012	If you can't read, no other services will help you much! The library is a community space for people to learn, gather and grow. It's a place where young and old, rich and poor go to all do the same thing - enrich their lives. Free access to computers is so important for people seeking employment or to do homework.
10577	7/10/2012	Because without the library I wouldn't be able to enrich my child's life with a consistent rotation of books. As well as when I was a teacher I used the library more consistently for the classroom and was an excellent resource.
10578	7/10/2012	They bring knowledge to all the public who seek it. They provide refuge to types that have no or few alternative choices. They allow our family to read and see into areas that would otherwise be either unattainable or very difficult to find
10579	7/10/2012	Libraries are for everyone--if you can't afford to buy a newspaper subscription, pay for internet or buy books, you can do all of these things at a library. Libraries are as important as public housing, public transit, food stamps, green space and other programs benefiting society.
10580	7/10/2012	Education is key to so many other things; it's where everyone starts off.
10581	7/10/2012	Do you even ask when so many other things are more important? i.e. fire and police protection, housing, shelter, food, infrastructure, or even, for that matter, public transportation.
10582	7/10/2012	We can get much help from a library than any other local public service place.
10583	7/10/2012	I read
10584	7/10/2012	an extremely important public service, literacy is hugely important for our community
10585	7/10/2012	Strong libraries will supplement a good school system and help those in need with computer access, getting jobs, etc.
10586	7/10/2012	I'm a lifelong learner and use it regularly
10587	7/10/2012	Important part of maintaining community.

10588	7/10/2012	Because they provide access to information and resources to everyone.
10589	7/10/2012	because the public school system is a joke. As a former nanny, I used to go to the library almost every day during the summer where the kids were encouraged to read, and actually read more than they did during the school year. Local Library services also encourage kids to go together with their families so it encourages family reading, which the public school system doesn't.
10590	7/10/2012	we use the library alot.....can not imagine a life without it.....we don't buy books or rent movies....we use the library.....its almost like electric and water to us...it is essential
10591	7/10/2012	In my life, the library is just after ambulance and police protection.
10592	7/10/2012	Libraries bring to reality some of our best ideals, such as equal access to knowledge, and that learning tools should be available to all. Libraries offer the closest thing that we have to a publicly-supported continuing education program. Knowledge = Power. Also, Portland is well-known as a literate and literary city. Our library system is one reason for that accolade. Also, I love books.
10593	7/10/2012	Because, I use the library frequently and I highly value reading and education.
10594	7/10/2012	Because they provide a wide range of services, and accessibility to search engines, and staff help in using the many services available.
10595	7/10/2012	What other service can provide something that everyone, no matter what socio-economic, age, race, heritage, regards as valuable and enriching? Libraries bring joy along with knowledge.
10596	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time - it's much more sustainable to borrow materials than buy them, and it teaches kids about borrowing. But, the big issue is the library as a resource for so many kids and families. With school districts cutting more and more, the library helps fill a gap for kids - a safe place to learn about books and reading. My kids adore the summer reading program, and the program helps keep up their interest when school is out. Our family is lucky enough to have basic needs met, but we see such a diverse array of people at the library, and it's obvious that many are there for services such as computer access and job searching.
10597	7/10/2012	While not as important, ultimately, as education, public safety and public health, libraries are a vital free resource in every community.
10598	7/10/2012	Libraries are a gate way to early education. Without education and resources to education we cant provide for the success of our future and the future of our children.
10599	7/10/2012	I could not live, or at least be happy living, anywhere that did not have a good library. I am a reader, a music lover and a learner. I usually have 10-15 books and other media borrowed at any given time. I could never afford such a wealth of resources. I also attend library programs and have been exposed to ideas and heard authors and other speakers thanks to libraries. For free. For everyone. ☐ ☐ And, although I no longer have children at home, I have personal experience of how libraries support education. Good libraries are critical to students!
10600	7/10/2012	I enjoy the library and depend it on as a research resource.

10601	7/10/2012	With limited resources our government agencies need to focus on funding essential services (police, fire, etc.) and infrastructure (water, sewer, roads, etc.) before other services. Home owners are already struggling with taxes and fees. Other agencies should cut back even if it means reduced services. Library services should be reduced to five 8hr. days a week if necessary to keep within existing funding levels.
10602	7/10/2012	I read.
10603	7/10/2012	We love to read, and love to encourage our kids to read. It is a great place to discover new authors, books and subjects. It builds a great neighborhood community.
10604	7/10/2012	I read a ton and would be lost without the library.
10605	7/10/2012	Libraries are the windows to reading, which open the mind to new thoughts and ideas.
10606	7/10/2012	Because literacy and cultivating a love of learning is the foundation upon which a healthy and functional society is built.
10607	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time, and it is of incredible monetary and emotional value to me Free access to knowledge, entertainment, and resources is extremely important during this time of economic instability.[]
10608	7/10/2012	[] We love our libraries in Portland, and for good reason. We support them because they support us at all ages in so many ways.
10609	7/10/2012	we are on a very low fixed income. the library gives us access to books we want to read.
10610	7/10/2012	I read far more books than I can afford to buy. Many families don't have computer access or access to media to help with work or job finding.[]
10611	7/10/2012	I feel that engaging young children in books and reading is one of the best ways to encourage growth and academic success.
10612	7/10/2012	An educated populace has better employment opportunities and less crime. Everyone needs access to libraries, regardless of socio-economic background, to ensure an educated populace.
10613	7/10/2012	Many people can't afford to buy books, movies, magazines, etc. The library is also a place for many students to study who cannot do so at home. The library is fundamental to an intelligent, well informed public.
10614	7/10/2012	Libraries are important to all people of all ages for a variety of reasons. They are one of the most important resources for our community. It is no accident that Portlanders have some of the most used libraries in the country.
10615	7/10/2012	Access to information matters AND librarians are on of the few resources that anyone can trust to seek out for supportive information.
10616	7/10/2012	Personal growth.
10617	7/10/2012	In general, educated people make better decisions and are better citizens.

10618	7/10/2012	Libraries serve everyone -- rich and poor, young and old -- and a society that does not support their libraries does a huge disservice to their members. It is often the only place where people can gain access to the internet, and in times of economic hardship they provide books, magazines, movies and music to people who have had to streamline their budgets.
10619	7/10/2012	Because I was taken to the library when I was 2 or 3 years old and have been a patron wherever I've live for most of my 64 years. It is my home away from home. The first thing I do in any new community I live in, is get a library card.
10620	7/10/2012	They're not as important as medical services, however, they serve a vital role to the community. I like libraries because they provide me with free access to books, movies, & music.
10621	7/10/2012	Provides access to resources that can better our lives from jobs opportunities to entertainment.
10622	7/10/2012	Literacy and learning
10623	7/10/2012	They provide learning materials that just aren't available otherwise.
10624	7/10/2012	As a immigrant of 2007, local libraries are much useful, computer access, trimet schedule, and so on to start up new life.
10625	7/10/2012	I go to library mainly to have immediate access to books.
10626	7/10/2012	Public libraries are rock-bottom basic. If you can get free information and self education - even a homeless person can gather some tools to move forward.
10627	7/10/2012	As a retired person I can't afford to buy things at the level I did when working and the library affords me the opportunity to access new books as well as history and reference material. I love to read and can still get around on my own but there have to be many seniors or home-bound folks that could use the delivery service. Increasing the level of funding to $1.22 per $1000 would cost me about an additional $50 to $60 per year - not much by my estimation to keep a service we can all take advantage of.
10628	7/10/2012	It is the best deal in town for anybody's money. You can't buy a great library and a great library. serves a great community. My nephew is from Panama and loves using the library. Where else can foreign students and families feel comfortable enough to want to come for learning? Only at the library can so many needs be met at one time so quickly. We have depended on you for nearly forty years, don't let us down now.
10629	7/10/2012	I am a single guy, no kids, law-obiding citizen. I don't get a lot for my tax dollar, but the library is one public service that I use.
10630	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. They are an equalizer, giving access to those who otherwise would not have it.
10631	7/10/2012	Because they are free, educational, healthy, family-oriented and easily accessible in all weather!
10632	7/10/2012	Free public libraries of high quality are one of our countries greatest democratic contributions.
10633	7/10/2012	Resource for everyone, from young to old, no matter what economic bracket.
10634	7/10/2012	The ability to have somewhere where I can read, learn, and study as well as having somewhere to spend some free time is quite important to me.

10635	7/10/2012	I like to check out music CDS and it gives kids a place to learn & grow intellectually. Also, it helps keep kids out of trouble.
10636	7/10/2012	Build community, provide equal access to information and services. Value reading and learning.
10637	7/10/2012	For me, the public library system is second in importance to Trimet....both suffering and offering less to our community.
10638	7/10/2012	Great system, promotes continued literacy of populace of Multnomah County through varied programs.
10639	7/10/2012	Libraries give everyone in society a chance to better themselves. Even if you have no money there is a chance to get ahead by learning, keeping computer skills up to date, finding jobs. It is a positive public service.
10640	7/10/2012	everything we do involves reading. The library is an vital piece of that system, especially to the children
10641	7/10/2012	Without the freedom of accessing information, we lose our other freedoms.
10642	7/10/2012	Libraries reinforce community, as well as provide opportunities and a safe environment for everyone to learn, regardless of age, race or socio-economic background.
10643	7/10/2012	They help me with completing my homework, finding a job, and having a safe place to go.
10644	7/10/2012	I can access books, I can't often buy them. I appreciate that I can put books and videos on Hold to pick up at a later time.
10645	7/10/2012	Free educational materials to the poor
10646	7/10/2012	Having access to a safe, clean environment where you can get educated, entertained and socialize is what makes a city great.
10647	7/10/2012	I personally could live without them, but I care about the masses. You just can't do everything.
10648	7/10/2012	It's our kids' evolution, country progressing.
10649	7/10/2012	It's crucial for all citizens to have access to information and it's an important supplement to our educational system.
10650	7/10/2012	Books and other materials are very important to me. I can't afford to buy them. Even if I could, that would be wasteful.
10651	7/10/2012	Library is good but not as important as having police, firefighters, good roads, and the like.
10652	7/10/2012	The library is an important tool to continue life-long learning
10653	7/10/2012	I believe they help level the playing field for people that are underrepresented and/or don't have the same opportunities as most people.
10654	7/10/2012	It's a library. They're awesome.
10655	7/10/2012	Accessing up-to-date publications at low cost
10656	7/10/2012	These are places where community happens. People meet, people learn, people discuss. They are foundations of our society.
10657	7/10/2012	Internet

10658	7/10/2012	access if you don't have a computer, job search, books. I love libraries
10659	7/10/2012	The library is an excellent service that serves to represent and edify a community while holding it together.
10660	7/10/2012	Because I believe the library provides equal opportunities for information that many people may not have without access to a library. Also, I prefer to check out books rather than buy them to save money.
10661	7/10/2012	I am a voracious reader and could never afford to buy all the books I read. I love having access to a wide variety of books, music and movies that I may not want to own, or they can help me decide I do want to buy them.
10662	7/10/2012	I don't use the library as often as I have in the past but it's important.
10663	7/10/2012	my husband and i love to read. We have school aged children learning to read and loving it. they are learning in 2 languages (spanish and english) and the spanish resources are especially important to us.
10664	7/10/2012	"other local public services" is a pretty broad range
10665	7/10/2012	It's so important for kids to have access to libraries
10666	7/10/2012	Because without education you cannot make the decisions on other issues.
10667	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy the material I check out.
10668	7/10/2012	I have lived in Portland for 10 years and I knew a lot of people that used the library system but it just seemed like it would be such a bother so I still bought all of my books and paid for netflix or videorama for dvds. With the economic downturn I cancelled my netflix subscription and didn't want to spend my limited fun money at Powell's so I went into Kenton library. I was amazed by the variety. The library has everything I could possibly want. Now my husband has a library card too!
10669	7/10/2012	I love to read, and all my life (so far) I have made use of the library wherever we are. I read so fast that my husband says I'd better use the library or we would go broke!
10670	7/10/2012	I love the books, the electronic resources (language classes, etc.), interlibrary loan, the references at Central (because not everything is online). It is one of the reasons I live in Portland.
10671	7/10/2012	it's the public resource I use the most
10672	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power and the ability to access it through the various media and programs offered through the libraries is priceless, as is public education and public safety.
10673	7/10/2012	OPENS MY WORLD IN ALL WAYS. FUN & THROUGH EDUCATION.
10674	7/10/2012	Use audio books daily. Without access to them, I would be unable to read. Because of eyesight difficulties, I rarely visit local library and depend on L2Go daily.
10675	7/10/2012	Source of knowledge and inspiration
10676	7/10/2012	Libraries educate the community of all ages, races and economic status.
10677	7/10/2012	Free access to books (electronic etc.) that I would not read otherwise. Very important to have free access for people who do not have computers at home. FREE to everyone in the community.

10678	7/10/2012	The library provides access to information, materials and services to everyone in the community especially those with out the means to do so otherwise. The library promotes the importance of learning, critical thinking, exploration, personal growth and community.
10679	7/10/2012	Access to information can enable other opportunities for self motivated individuals.
10680	7/10/2012	I consider schools more important.
10681	7/10/2012	If we have to cut back for a little bit on the libraries to spend more on basic services in the community then thats an understandable sacccrafice. I would support sales tax increases if that was an option to help the library.
10682	7/10/2012	Our family places very high importance on reading and library research. And, frankly, as schools cut more and more from what they provide students we look to ensure our kids aren't negatively impacted by that. The resources our library offers helps fill that gap. Freedom of information
10683	7/10/2012	The future, our schools are already taking huge cuts. Libraries are a keystone in public education which is having to do more with less every year. What is the message we send to young people when we start closing libraries and then schools?
10684	7/10/2012	Debatably I get the most direct return on my tax dollars from the library system. Now, one could argue of course that the $350+/- that goes straight to PFD retirement pensions is well worth it when my house catches on fire. However seeing how those PFD staff I'm paying for are, y'know, retired and not going to go anywhere near my burning house, the argument is a little thin. Same with all the school bonds, holy cow, that stuff's not cheap, but I guess keeping the little monsters from roaming the streets is worth all that property tax.
10685	7/10/2012	While libraries are not as important as emergency police or fire protection, they offer opportunities for residents to improve their knowledge, education, and occupational advancement. These are improvements to their educational & occupational status, & this (hopefully) results in improvements in their lifestyle & earning power. This not only benefits themselves, it also benefits their families and their communities.
10686	7/10/2012	direct access to knowledge. Need easy access to books and learning to improve your community.
10687	7/10/2012	they are a community resource for EVERYONE
10688	7/10/2012	I use this public service the most.
10689	7/10/2012	Resources for living
10690	7/10/2012	One of the most visible local services we have.
10691	7/10/2012	What other local services are you talking about. Poor Question.
10692	7/10/2012	nice to have but not as important as police & fire depts for example
10693	7/10/2012	Libraries are the thoroughfare for every aspect of life

10694	7/10/2012	it's a great community resource - I can expand my knowledge in an area I might not otherwise if I had to pay for a book. if I have a home repair issue, or want to know how to do something, I can check out a book.
10695	7/10/2012	Public libraries provide an impartial place for members of the community to frequent, without boundaries. Individuals have access to educational information at no individual charge.
10696	7/10/2012	I don't have television. Don't want it. I rely on the library for all kinds of books and movies.
10697	7/10/2012	They provide a safe, clean place for all in the community to come together and explore the past, present and future.
10698	7/10/2012	Medium for me, but high for others that have limited income and access to books/music/computers/etc...
10699	7/10/2012	I really enjoy having the ability to obtain books at the library for school research purposes as well as for pleasure. These services are also of great import to preschool and school aged children who may not have opportunities to obtain reading materials if the library was not available. This also pertains to the elderly, who may not have the means to obtain books as a means of enjoyment if the library was not available, due to their lack of funds and their being home bound.
10700	7/10/2012	I read constantly for information and entertainment. I don't have a TV, don't get a daily newspaper and rarely go to movies. To buy all or even a portion of the books I read would be way too expensive. Also, it would be very wasteful of resources; paper, ink, etc. I have treasured libraries for over 7 decades
10701	7/10/2012	Libraries, and the access to knowledge they provide, are vital to maintaining a democracy.
10702	7/10/2012	Free open source materials and information are key to an enlightened society.
10703	7/10/2012	I use the library to continue educating myself, entertaining myself, and expanding my cultural awareness. I don't sense that having significant restrictions on any of those things is something that would serve our communities well.
10704	7/10/2012	I am philosophically and emotionally attached to libraries. As a child I participated in summer reading programs, as a teen we hung out at the library and saw friends this was all in the state to our south more 45 years ago.[] [] To be honest my love do reading continues however I use my Kindle, my IPAD and my iPhone as the tools of reading
10705	7/10/2012	Not as important as garbage, water, sewage, but still somewhat important. It is also important to note that most other local public services charge a fee per usage, whereas the library does not charge for many of its services.
10706	7/10/2012	4 all people! Other services important 2.

10707	7/10/2012	We like the library. We volunteer at the library. We value having a world of books so readily available. But question 7 seems ridiculously vague. Library or police? Library or fire? Library or development planning? Library or fall leaf pickup? Library or tree inspections. There are certainly public services that are more important than the library.
10708	7/10/2012	Good reading skills are fundamental for a successful life, and reading for pleasure is a healthy, inexpensive form of entertainment. I don't have children, am not a senior, I have internet access at home and I am a native English speaker. So while only the ability to check out books (which I do, frequently) is directly important to ME, I can appreciate that other library functions are important to society as a whole, and have always voted for library levies in the past. On the other hand, public services such as water, sewer and garbage/recycling pickup are fundamental to basic human health and with prices going up for many of these essential services while (like in so many households) our income is stagnant and stretched very close to the breaking point, I am not inclined to vote for yet another library levy.
10709	7/10/2012	As I senior I prefer to read books from the Library rather than on my computer. In the Troutdale area we have a lot of low-income families and the kids don't have access to electronic devices to learn to read.[] The new Troutdale Library is very efficient and the staff is very welcoming; unlike other libraries in the area. [] They always have the latest books and you don't have to wait months to get them. Also there is lots of parking so that is not an issue there.
10710	7/10/2012	They provide a convenient environmentally concious way for me to get access to a fairly wide selection of books.
10711	7/10/2012	very important. asset to our community and to myself. I use the library on a regular basis and it holds both a useful and sentimental value
10712	7/10/2012	I don't use most of the others directly, and I can't afford to buy all the books that I read.
10713	7/10/2012	not too important
10714	7/10/2012	Not sure what other public servies are being referred to but in my opinion schools and public transport should come above library
10715	7/10/2012	They are a place where people can gather information, keep contact in the community, enjoy life-long learning.
10716	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power.[] Libraries offer this to the people.
10717	7/10/2012	The idea of a local library is unique in the world. To have an open access, public library is a gift to the community and the neighborhood. It is one more aspect that can pull a community together, like parks and other public spaces. We need to get to a place where we all care about community and neighborhood.

10718	7/10/2012	It is critical for an informed and educated people. Access to information (especially for the lower income levels) is a cornerstone to a civilized democracy.
10719	7/10/2012	My kids love to read and the love being there.
10720	7/10/2012	a community library enhances learning and the arts that no other organization can.
10721	7/10/2012	We live in a time where knowledge and information are key to success and good quality of life.
10722	7/10/2012	The Library makes media available to everyone. Provides places for all ages to learn. Need to keep local branches so that the library resources are easily accessible.
10723	7/10/2012	It gives families choices at a reasonable price(free). I love to read and would rather check out a book from the library than download one to my tablet as you pay a lot extra for those downloads and I already fund the library with my taxes. I just like coming in to the library and being able to look at the books, do research and it is so quiet.
10724	7/10/2012
10725	7/10/2012	give me the change vire all resoure an puble information. I consider libraries to be an integral part of civil services. However, since everything is taking cuts, I recognize that libraries must take cuts proportional to those affecting other services. They are phenomenally important, but not more important than every other service.
10726	7/10/2012
10727	7/10/2012	Libraries are not only a place of knowledge, but of community building and development. The very fact that they are often easy to access and easily recognized by all in the community makes them integral to the community.
10728	7/10/2012	Library services provide assistance to those who need it most -- seniors, ESL, low income, students, families, and are offered at all of the library branches throughout the city. Some other public services are only offered out of one building or in more limited locations.The library provides access to print and online materials that help educate or low income students that may not have these at home.
10729	7/10/2012	The library is a vital resource for information, knowledge, education, research, and sense of community. I became a reader and scholar at my local library, with the help of our librarians. We need all of the ranked services, but as I have no children, that was ranked lower for me, though I hope higher for the community.
10730	7/10/2012	Encouraging our kids to read. Convenience/proximity to home. Reduced costs of driving and purchase of books or rental of video
10731	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to information that would, in many cases, be inaccessible. Whether through computer access to the internet for people who don't have it, reading material for people who can't afford to buy it, or just helping foster an interest in education, self-improvement, and learning, libraries still fill a vital role in our increasingly technological society and actually help make sure that people are not left behind in our march towards "progress."
10732	7/10/2012	My kids love going to the library and we love the events in the Summer.
10733	7/10/2012	Library is the best!
10734	7/10/2012	Freedom to grow and gain knowledge in all areas anyone wants

10735	7/10/2012	access to common resource
10736	7/10/2012	I use it frequently as i cannot afford and do not want to buy all books that I read.
10737	7/10/2012	Libraries are important because they become a community hub. Information and knowledge gets shared and it opens opportunities for all people. With the increase use of computers, it is too easy for people to never interact with others. The library is a wonderful place for people to connect and become better people.
10738	7/10/2012	Basic services are most important: roads, water/sewer, garbage collection.
10739	7/10/2012	Because they provide a place where everyone can go to learn despite one's financial situation.
10740	7/10/2012	The library is an essential resource for an educated community, and also helps to equalize societal disparities.
10741	7/10/2012	Granted, emergency food and basic services are very important - but (fortunately!), those do not apply to me or my family. We DO use the library very often.
10742	7/10/2012	I use the library at least weekly for myself and my children. We can't afford to buy new books very often, but we love to read, so the library is a very important resource. My children also look forward to participating in the summer reading program. The kids also get a kick out of renting movies from the library.
10743	7/10/2012	Very very important. I believe that they give people an option to choose books and learning rather than drugs and other harmful substances. Libraries save lives.
10744	7/10/2012	Without libraries offering educational materials our country's intelligence level will hit bottom.
10745	7/10/2012	Libraries are integral to promoting and supporting community education. Besides programs for children and young adults, libraries offer a lot of adults the chance to participate in re-education programs, and job searching.
10746	7/10/2012	I love the easy, equal access to books and media. It saves me money and makes me feel part of a community.
10747	7/10/2012	We go to the library multiple times/week. Between my husband and I, we generally have 20+ item on hold at a time. We cannot afford (and would not want) to purchase every item we get from the library. And we don't mind paying taxes to support it. We always vote to approve all library funding questions on the ballot, though of course, many people do/can not. But it is imperative the library use its funding wisely. The cuts in services subsequent to the levy continuation approval feels like a betrayal. The library should be more proactive - why not ask the Oregonian to do a story on the cuts and why they occurred?
10748	7/10/2012	Knowledge is freedom and freely available knowledge is a bulwark against tyranny.
10749	7/10/2012	Everyone in my family loves to read. We also enjoy getting DVDs from the library.
10750	7/10/2012	Libraries level the playing field for providing access to information and serving as a critical point of community.

10751	7/10/2012	I use my local libraries frequently. It is a place to obtain books and other materials that I have heard about and I can obtain materials usually fairly quickly. Even if my local branch does not have what I'm looking for, usually I can get it forwarded to my branch from elsewhere in the system.
10752	7/10/2012	The libraries go hand in hand with education. Education/libraries are important for all levels & ages of patrons.
10753	7/10/2012	They are a resource for information and the give access to materials that are unavailable or beyond my means to purchase. They are a resource for young and old, employed and seeking employment and for those without a computer, they are the only game in town.
10754	7/10/2012	Libraries reflect the population that they support. A great, well educated community needs a well run library to facilitate its literacy. A literate community is usually a safe, thriving community. I've just moved from Ohio and am saddened to learn that the economy has had a negative effect on libraries, arts programming in the public schools and funding for parks. I do hope that this turns around.
10755	7/10/2012	If people can't or don't read, independently, privately, and curiously, they are deprived of a wealth of human experience. Such a lack of information leads to idiocies such as douching with cola in order to prevent pregnancy, or, more terribly, fascism and mass slaughter. I believe in free access to knowledge the way people who only read one book tend to believe in god.
10756	7/10/2012	Near the top after safety/infrastructure stuff/ Highest period. To me there is nothing more important that our local public services provide. More libraries is more education, a safe place to be, just being there teaches respect for and awareness of others, sharing responsibility for the care of a communal resource and the inspiration to imagine something else is possible. Fewer police officers are needed if children grow up in an environment that teaches collective responsibility and accountability. For Example. Public schools and the arts are immediately under this for me, but I can't think of a public service which is more valuable to the ENTIRE community, every day, than the library.
10757	7/10/2012
10758	7/10/2012	It is so important to have novels and movies available as well as all of the reference materials.
10759	7/10/2012	Because other public services are only available to certain people, or at certain points in our lives. The library is for everyone.
10760	7/10/2012	It's a helpful resource that allows me to learn and and have access to materials I can't otherwise access or afford
10761	7/10/2012	The library gives me access to materials that I don't have to go out and buy. Multnomah County library system is great... appropriate email notifications and the ability to place holds on books and pick them up at a specific location.
10762	7/10/2012	Improved quality of life with access to wide range of books and internet requesting/reminders.
10763	7/10/2012	Because information is power.
10764	7/10/2012	The entire community uses the Library

10765	7/10/2012	My family and I read a lot and we don't have a TV, so it is one of our only sources of entertainment.
10766	7/10/2012	They are the county service that I always use.
10767	7/10/2012	Powell's doesn't always have what I want Don't have to buy DVDs
10768	7/10/2012	The library system ties the other services together: education meets arts meets community health meets child and senior services.
10769	7/10/2012	I am an educator and have access to resources at my school. As a result I rarely visit my public library. However, public library services are extremely important because they facilitate equitable access to resources for lower-income families. This supports young people's education and their journey toward college and career readiness.
10770	7/10/2012	The library is the resource and starting point often for accessing all other resources. I don't have internet service at home so it is very important to have the libraries available.
10771	7/10/2012	I love to read and watch movies, but would rather wait for what I want to become available than go pay for it on that specific day. I can request shows I want to watch months in advance, then check my spot in line to see how many other things I can watch in the meantime. It's a great resource.
10772	7/10/2012	I love to read but make very little money. The library allows me to be able to check out all the books I want for free, which is so wonderful. I haven't utilized other library resources, but I have several friends who are unemployed who have used job resources through the library. As a young child, summer reading programs got me excited about reading and encouraged me to excel in it. Education is very important and services (such as the library) that encourage people to learn need to be given higher priority in the funding process.
10773	7/10/2012	Literacy and information are essential for successful lives. It's that simple. Access to these things should be public and simple. Library resources are critical for so many populations, for so many different reasons. A community that devalues its libraries is making a statement that it devalues knowledge, awareness, literacy, and assistance. I don't want to live in a community like that. PLEASE TAX ME SO LIBRARIES CAN FUNCTION!
10774	7/10/2012	I have always been an avid reader and library patron, and I want to be able to continue to pass along that love of reading and libraries to my children and, eventually, their children. Reading opens doors to new worlds and encourages development of creative imagination.
10775	7/10/2012	Libraries provide information and resources for learning and self education, this is extremely important for a modern society.
10776	7/10/2012	What a library has to offer the public is a very important service, in my opinion.
10777	7/10/2012	The library has always been, in my experience a de facto community center in addition to being a place to borrow materials.
10778	7/10/2012	I am a strong supporter of literacy and information skills. I am a school library media specialist and my, and many others, jobs have been cut due to lack of funding.

10779	7/10/2012	education is fundamental in an advanced society. along with communication, and community outreach and resourcing.
10780	7/10/2012	Because I believe an educated public is critical to a healthy democracy. We must encourage everyone to read, to discuss ideas, to engage in art and literature. Access to books should not be restricted to those who can afford to shop at Powell's. Public libraries are part of public education and help children get started as well as seniors to continue to stay alert.
10781	7/10/2012	Libraries are extremely important to me.
10782	7/10/2012	Libraries are the great equalizers. They give everyone a fair shot at success.
10783	7/10/2012	Education, accessibility for low income earners, cultural viability.
10784	7/10/2012	The library is one service I would most miss if were to go away. It is the most actively used service. While others are important I do not notice them in my daily life as much as my use of the library.
10785	7/10/2012	The library provides educational materials for all of our citizens ...
10786	7/10/2012	The local library services are very important to me because I believe in educating children and young teens through books, not video games or computers. As my children grow up into young adults, I will be introducing them to the library and getting them involved with books and reading.
10787	7/10/2012	I think other services such as police, fire, services to those most vulnerable are more important.
10788	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to books. I use the elibrary multiple times a week.
10789	7/10/2012	Although I don't access my library very often, as I am usually working and have access to digital books, I feel strongly that the library is the cornerstone of our community!!!
10790	7/10/2012	I ranked the importance of library services very important, because everyone, especially children, should have access to reading materials.
10791	7/10/2012	libraries and parks are two of the ways that we get services out of the county for the property taxes we pay into the system. We are also big readers in our house:)
10792	7/10/2012	It provides most of my educational and entertainment media. I couldn't possibly afford to rent or buy the equivalent.
10793	7/10/2012	I bring my daughter to story time every week, and we check out books every time we go. Our family does not have a lot of money, so it's extremely important that we have access to free, educational story hours. We want her to be prepared for school, and using the library helps us get her ready without spending a lot of money.
10794	7/10/2012	I have been utilizing libraries my entire life, since the 1930s. and owe everything I have ever achieved ultimately to them.
10795	7/10/2012	The library is a valuable resource. People of all walks of life can reserve and read books to keep current and educate themselves as to what is happening in our world. Computer services are there for people who cannot afford computers The library is also a warm, positive place for people to visit.

10796	7/10/2012	People need to read and expand their minds. Toddlers and children need exposure to book. Computer availability to people who can't afford one. Free materials to read/ check out for seniors ad underprivileged. Resources for school kids in research etc.
10797	7/10/2012	The library has resources that I cannot afford privately, e.g., a subscription to Consumer Reports.
10798	7/10/2012	Education They greatly improve my family's daily lives. My husband, children, and I check out books for personal use weekly. The kids check out books and seek the advice of librarians on their choices for fun and school. Both kids are part of the teen council, which gives them a real sense of purpose and a place in their community. The Portland library system is a huge resource for us.
10799	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader. I often check out a book at the library and read it before I buy a copy. I am a senior citizen, and in the future, will use the library even more.
10800	7/10/2012	Very useful in supplementing our children's diminishing public school education. []
10801	7/10/2012	They love to read and it is a top family priority to keep it that way.
10802	7/10/2012	The only greater priority for me beyond the library system is the public school system, but I recognize that they are both interrelated.
10803	7/10/2012	Any decent society needs to have education and entertainment resources available to the poorest in our community.
10804	7/10/2012	In terms of services in which counties are involved, they are right behind basic needs of shelter and health support, and before the criminal justice system. My father was a public library director and I was raised believing that public access to books/knowledge/information is an essential aspect of equal rights, giving people the means to learn and pursue their potential.
10805	7/10/2012	Everyone will use the library several times in a year. Very few ever use most other public services....
10806	7/10/2012	Because I use the library and cannot afford to buy all the resources that it provides.
10807	7/10/2012	Somewhat important.
10808	7/10/2012	Reading, education, equal access to these services for all.
10809	7/10/2012	I think it's obvious why access to books is important to society.
10810	7/10/2012	I have 10 children!
10811	7/10/2012	Because I access them
10812	7/10/2012	Very high. I love the library.
10813	7/10/2012	because of the educational information available.
10814	7/10/2012	Because they are free and accessible to EVERYONE.
10815	7/10/2012	They provide my family with reading materials and other services that we otherwise would not have, or could not afford.
10816	7/10/2012	Very high. I use the library a lot and enjoy visiting it often.

10817	7/10/2012	libraries are one of the few pure public systems active in our society, free and easy to use, a center for education and awareness and non-censorship - all values that need to remain a central value in keeping America the country it is and should be; this type of program is what makes our country great
10818	7/10/2012	I feel they are that level of importance to the community. A place for people to be and be educated and entertained. However, I would choose public safety/health over libraries if I had to.
10819	7/10/2012	Although it helps educate a local population, ultimately librarians are sources of entertainment. Things such as police, fire, medical, school, and roads are much more important to maintaining and improving the overall well-being of a community.
10820	7/10/2012	I read daily - it's a part of who I am and has been for as long as I can remember. Getting my own library card as a small child was a monumental event that signaled to me I was truly part of a larger community. I have very fond memories of going to Central library as a child for story hour and I think it helped shape me into an engaged and active citizen.
10821	7/10/2012	Reading, education, positive activities, and a sense of community help keep neighborhoods safe, keep people health, and promotes a positive lifestyle.
10822	7/10/2012	Libraries provide critical support for all citizens, giving them easy access to books, magazines, computers/internet, and programming that they may not be able to receive elsewhere.
10823	7/10/2012	I have enough disposable income to mitigate a weaker library system.
10824	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the foundation of any strong civilization that hopes, not only to survive, but to grow and mature.
10825	7/10/2012	Helping to build the education level of our citizens.[] Open horizons to subject of interest world wide.
10826	7/10/2012	Transit, fire, garbage/recycling, water, power, and police are collectively number one. Libraries are next in line, side by side with parks.
10827	7/10/2012	We use it and depend on t to facilitate in exploration and discovery of things and our inquiries!
10828	7/10/2012	The library gives EVERYone access to books, computers, movies, music and literacy programs- regardless of individual or family resources. What is there to fill in if that is not available? Libraries provide access to information, learning and culture.[] []
10829	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a safe haven for children, seniors, the homeless.[] [] Libraries provide essential services (ESL, literacy, job searching) for people of limited means or access to these services.[] [] Libraries are one of the cornerstones of civil society.

10830	7/10/2012	This is a difficult economic climate. The library provides quality services/programs, entertainment, and great customer service at a ridiculously reasonable cost. I can see that the library uses it's budget in a way that serves all sectors of the public to the best of it's ability without the scandal and mismanagement that is so prevalent in other public services departments/bureaus. It's a public service the people can trust.
10831	7/10/2012	The library serves multiples functions for multiple users at no cost (though not really). Services are important but see previous notes.
10832	7/10/2012	Being on disability and struggling to find employment it gives me something to keep me occupied, and resources to help me get back into the swing of working. I also benefit from the ways others benefit (if jobseekers find jobs, they spend more, improve the economy, increase tax revenue...)
10833	7/10/2012	The library provides critical services to families, students, seniors, and many others. They enrich the quality of life within our community. They complement and support our school districts by providing additional resources and programs for students.
10834	7/10/2012	besides potholes, it's one of the most tangible services I get from the city for paying taxes!
10835	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books I enjoy reading.
10836	7/10/2012	The library is a place where people come to learn, grow, and come together in ways that contribute to the health and well being of the individual and our society.
10837	7/10/2012	Not as important for me, but very important to the community.
10838	7/10/2012	Without equal access to library a society crumbles.
10839	7/10/2012	It's vital that all citizens have access to information and community.
10840	7/10/2012	pls define local public services. Police and fire are top priority.
10841	7/10/2012	access to books for the kids is essential... i've got two and they read far too many to buy. also love being able to put books on-hold and not have to purchase.
10842	7/10/2012	It is part of what makes the United States of America the greatest country in the world. Free access to information and further learning!
10843	7/10/2012	Because they are an equalizing force enabling a wide swath of the population the ability to access information and opportunities.
10844	7/10/2012	It is extremely important to promote literacy and literacy based activities in an accessible way that is free to the users.
10845	7/10/2012	Hugely important personally - my family uses the library constantly. In addition I think it is a critical source of community, and a way to support healthy behavior in young and all community members thus improving our overall community for all.
10846	7/10/2012	The educational and recreational resources they provide (wide range of reading materials, resources for research, etc.) There is no way we could afford to purchase the number of books we read, even at used prices.
10847	7/10/2012	Rely on the library resources extensively for Russian language children's books

10848	7/10/2012	I cannot emphasize how important a role library services play in Portland and in my life. From book browsing to research opportunities, the immense sheet music collection, to programs and venues for cultural and educational functions, the library is vitally integral part of the community.
10849	7/10/2012	The allow my family to read without the extra expense of buying a book. It is an important part of being environmentally friendly by having many people reuse books over and over.
10850	7/10/2012	I read a lot of books. Including a lot of non fiction resources, which are very expensive to buy. Libraries are also great community centers. The loss of communal space and places where people can gather and interact for free with their neighbors is a huge threat to portland and society at large.
10851	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time -- have been doing so all my life. Starting going to story hour as a child back East and have been a library volunteer in several cities where I've lived. I am a voracious reader and could not afford to buy all the books I read. And I just love the staff at Hillsdale library -- so friendly!
10852	7/10/2012	The library is, and has always been, my sanctuary. It's where I go to learn everything I'm interested in, for free. It is brilliant.
10853	7/10/2012	In this economy priorities of those in need and those that keep us same must come first.
10854	7/10/2012	Library services may not be essential to me personally, I have access to a variety of ways to read and enjoy printed material but as a community member I realize there are so many people for whom the library is the only or most accessible source of books, movies, magazines, information, homework and other educational help. So from that standpoint for the enrichment and education of my community Library services are vital.
10855	7/10/2012	Public libraries are equalizers. There are many people who can not afford to buy the materials loaned in the library. Many can not afford personal computers and internet service. Also, the library offers activities for children, job seekers, non English speakers, book dicussions, classes for basic computer use, activites for seniors, etc.
10856	7/10/2012	High
10857	7/10/2012	The library is an established institution which holds such a diverse group of people together with no need for religous, political, gender, or age restriction. Available learning is something accessible to all with immediate assistance to the poor. I have supported this organization all my life. Now that I am aging, cutting back on purchasing material things, the library seems less accessible. But I worry more for the youth of today.

		Well, fire, safety and education matter a lot, as without those, it's difficult to imagine libraries being a place people can and will attend.[]
		[]
		But it would be nice to see libraries become a hub of America's free continuing education system. Can libraries turn into a place where people can teach each other informally about technology and other skills that matter in young adult and adult life? Could you be a place where people have access to learn things that will make them more successful in life?[]
		[]
10858	7/10/2012	Can we use libraries to help people without much access to formal education, by providing access to informal education? Beyond just the books and other materials?[]
		[]
		Like a place to hold Meetup sessions geared to helping us get smarter, wiser, more useful to the world around us?[]
		[]
		That would be pretty important...
10859	7/10/2012	We are lucky enough to live in a functioning city. But many children, parents and adults are not. Without a safe and encouraging space to go, lives and opportunity are dead. Libraries are very important when you have nowhere else to go.
10860	7/10/2012	Public safety, food, public schools and basic health service are needed for life;[] Library services are an enrichment for human existence, actually a part of the school[] system.
10861	7/10/2012	It's a tangible benefit.
10862	7/10/2012	I enjoy being able to learn different skills with the help of materials borrowed from the library.
10863	7/10/2012	My family enjoys them and puts them to use. Also feel they have found a great way to offer services with the funding they receive.
10864	7/10/2012	Because it is public access to knowledge and resources at little to no cost.
10865	7/10/2012	Not as important as basic infrastructure/police services, but still vital to upward mobility and the long-term economy.
10866	7/10/2012	an educated populace is crucial to democracy in the US
10867	7/10/2012	I use the services for my classroom and my 7 year old daughter.
10868	7/10/2012	It's great to have a place that facilitates reading, learning and provides community information/ resources.
10869	7/10/2012	My life has revolved around what I learned at the library.
10870	7/10/2012	libraries make knowledge, and even more important, the internet, to people. there is no public internet that is free other than at the library. also books, and movies, life enriching things, should be accessible to all. libraries are more valuable to people with less disposable income, and those people just get screwed up and down. libraries are great!.

10871	7/10/2012	Literacy and access to computers make people employable and therefore more likely to be able to become contributing members of society.
10872	7/10/2012	I think reading and having access to books is of paramount importance to our community and to our nation. A lack of access to free books and educational opportunities would put this country and our children into further jeopardy and continue a downward cycle of poverty/lack of education.
10873	7/10/2012	I use the library often to find and reserve books.
10874	7/10/2012	I love the library. I usually find buying books a waste.
10875	7/10/2012	Without the resources offered by public libraries, as a society we become more and more reliant on highly subjective internet sources for information.
10876	7/10/2012	Library puts primary access to the fundamental building blocks of education out there with a low threshold for a diverse group of local residents to enjoy and make use of!
10877	7/10/2012	It is so important to me that my children grow up to be Readers. People who love to read. We can't afford to buy new books all the time, so the library gives us access to all the books they can imagine reading. And the story times show them that other kids and people (i.e. Jane at Belmont!) are excited about reading, too. AND the Summer Reading Program is such a great incentive for them to read daily. I don't know about "compared to other local public services", really, but I do value the library very highly.
10878	7/10/2012	A major resource that I am unable to complete on my own.
10879	7/10/2012	Per previous question about threats to libraries - libraries function as an access point for public information for all members of society, which is a fundamental function of a free society. It is important that free public access to information be preserved.
10880	7/10/2012	It's helped me tremendously to educate myself, family and local community. I've been able to give back to the local community based on what I've learned from borrowed materials.
10881	7/10/2012	The library builds community, is environmentally friendly (sharing resources rather than every family owning every book/magazine), important in a bad economy. My children are avid readers, and I love it that the library feeds their love of reading.
10882	7/10/2012	Because they support the intellectual health of the community.
10883	7/10/2012	VERY NECESSARY FOR THE POOR, THE "LEAST OF THESE" IF MONIES ARE NOT ABUSED AS THEY HAVE BEEN. [] IN your next question you force people to LIE. NONE OF THE CHOICES ARE GOOD! AND YOU DO NOT ALLOW A "0" or a Skip to move on. YOU REQUIRE A LIE!
10884	7/10/2012	I have enjoyed/needed to read books since I was a small child. If you read books on Kindle, Nook, etc, you must pay for them and the media companies not only track what you read, but how you read at a very detailed level. Our libraries ensure privacy of our reading materials and habits and that is very important. The alternative is frightening.

10885	7/10/2012	I rely on the services of the library to search on the Internet, for personal growth, reading & learning. It's a essential resource like water is for our big green trees. It also helps me with my budget as I cannot afford internet at home & would not be able to purchase all the great books I read.
10886	7/10/2012	I feel having access to literature and free information is paramount to the future of our society as a whole. Also, I love to read!
10887	7/10/2012	See Zadie Smith's recent New York Book Review article. Also, my dad is a librarian and I grew up in a library.
10888	7/10/2012	We are a family of lifelong learners, and could never afford in a million years to buy all the books we read from the library.
10889	7/10/2012	I read. I grew up with the library as an important part of my education and want the same resource available for my kids.
10890	7/10/2012	Every person should have access to literature as well as all the other important services libraries provide people (job help, tutoring, computer access, a place to be off the street).
10891	7/10/2012	The library is a "luxary", whereas police, fire, and schools are must haves.
10892	7/10/2012	I appreciate the availability of vast amounts of materials for my use and enjoyment. It's great that there's a place where income level doesn't affect one's ability to utilize wonderful services.
10893	7/10/2012	I love knowing that the library is available to me should I need it. When I was unemployed and didn't have internet access, that is where I spent a lot of time looking for jobs and responding to emails, etc. Also, having books and media at my fingertips is great. It's a community booster, and overall a great resource.
10894	7/10/2012	More important than bike lanes, less important than ambulances. Somewhere around the importance of public transportation.
10895	7/10/2012	Access to information and resources fosters education and independence which I value highly.
10896	7/10/2012	For a free society they are a source of information and culture that cannot be found anywhere else.
10897	7/10/2012	Knowledge is a powerful tool and improves our lives.
10898	7/10/2012	Because the library is a place for everyone.[] Research and reading is so fun, a safe productive place to hang out and learn.
10899	7/10/2012	Literacy and easy/free access to reading materials is the foundation of a strong democracy. It fits up with food, shelter, safety, health, and education. In pure cost-effectiveness they provide the clearest value in terms of advancing community health:[]
10900	7/10/2012	- place and programs to tie a community together[] - providing resources for citizens to improve themselves and thus the community
10901	7/10/2012	They are a free resource for the user, therefore including all demographics.
10902	7/10/2012	Well, they're less important than emergency services and things that feed and house people. Other than that? Literacy/education/reading can be the single bullet for any child to grow up to a better life than they had when they were young.

10903	7/10/2012	Without opportunities for people to educate themselves it would make it even harder to run the rest of the services.
10904	7/10/2012	The ability to freely rent books is wonderful and, while the programs for the young, the elderly, and small scale entrepreneurs are not utilized by myself, those programs are of great use to others.
10905	7/10/2012	It's where I cast my vote, and find things out at the neighborhood level.. Also, lower income people have a chance to access information and resources that might not be available otherwise, and I feel this is a very important factor in our society.
10906	7/10/2012	Most people in our community visit the library events and get together like a big family. The library has also made it possible for me to gain different books that I'm actually interested in, unlike my school library. I've seen a lot of people mingle, work, and help younger kids get through their days of difficulty.
10907	7/10/2012	We love to read but could not read as much if we were confined to our personal library and limited budget for buying books. The library opens the door to reading books that are worth reading once but not owning forever. We would have a very limited picture of the world if not for the library.
10908	7/10/2012	The library plays a role in our family life on almost a daily basis. Whether it be reading materials that we have checked out from the library, watching movies, listening to music, or attending a story time. The library is our "free" entertainment stop, and we appreciate & value it so much.
10909	7/10/2012	I can afford to get content via internet and electronic media..however, there will always be a segment of the population that seeks the access to information via a library due to a variety of reasons, including financial.
		I prefer to check out books from the library than buy them. I collect records, not books and prefer to borrow and return, rather than stack them up and liquidate at Powells. The savings allows more record shop trips!! []
10910	7/10/2012	For me, it's fun to find out about a new book on NPR or some other source, put it in my queue and pick it up when it comes in. I can put it in queue at 2AM if I suddenly think of it, and not forget.[] [] I rarely print anything, so the library printer comes in handy. It's a bargain at ten cents per page, and I think I wouldn't mind paying a quarter (consider keeping the price to one coin, rather than just a low price, if you have to increase), but that might be a problem for students who print papers.
10911	7/10/2012	Many people's only access to books and computers is their local libraries.
10912	7/10/2012	Libraries within our communities levels the playing field so that all people, no matter the income, can have access to learning.
10913	7/10/2012	You don't have to have to books to survive, but you do need a roof over your head. These are tough economic times, things that are unnecessary go by the wayside. Something has to give, the library is one of them.
10914	7/10/2012	Access to books and information are paramount to a successful society that values education.

10915	7/10/2012	less important than first responders, schools, critical services. more important than most other things
10916	7/10/2012	Access to information is a major foundation of democracy
10917	7/10/2012	I'm not going to rank the library compared to other desirable services. it's enough to know the library is important.
10918	7/10/2012	Education across all age and ethnic groups
10919	7/10/2012	Especially for seniors and young families - access to programs and generally for borrowing books.
10920	7/10/2012	Reading is fundamental.
10921	7/10/2012	Not critical, but I would definitely miss it if it was gone.
10922	7/10/2012	Makes my quality of life better. Makes me enjoy my community.
10923	7/10/2012	Public safety (police and fire) are more important.
10924	7/10/2012	Free education for those who seek it is democracy.
10925	7/10/2012	I am always amazed that I can find almost any title I'm interested in at our library, reserve it online, and go pick it up. We are so lucky!!
10926	7/10/2012	somewhere between very and somewhat
10927	7/10/2012	The internet can supply most if not all needs.
10928	7/10/2012	I highly value access to information, community connection, and opportunities for self-improvement.
10929	7/10/2012	Because public safety has to come first.
10930	7/10/2012	We are a homeschooling family, so we rely on the library for curriculum and educational materials throughout the year
10931	7/10/2012	they serve multi cultural people for many important functions.
10932	7/10/2012	My standard of living would decrease if I had to go without parks, city services, and transportation. I could live without the public library even though I think it's valuable to the community.
10933	7/10/2012	Because we use them so often and reading is my primary source of recreation. It is also very important to me that my children learn to love to read and a big part of that is our weekly trips to the library and all the wonderful books they discover. We would feel the loss personally if the neighborhood library closed.
10934	7/10/2012	I have always been a library user since I was a kid. Books are expensive and it is great to read them w/o having to buy them. The library has great research sources that I cannot afford on my own. It is a great place to find old films and contemporary tv programs I missed. I love the library.
10935	7/10/2012	Keeping them open and clean and vibrant is essential. Cutting back some right now may also be essential.
10936	7/10/2012	It's really one of the services I use. I know others are going to be more used soon.

10937	7/10/2012	Very important. I've used them to update my computer skills, look for a job, and they are my primary source of reading material and entertainment. The community programs they've offered have allowed me to volunteer for Summer Reading for students, and to participate in book groups. I've enjoyed these, learned much, and met wonderful people. Great resource for expanding community contacts and awareness of issues.
10938	7/10/2012	I'm broke, without the library I would have trouble doing both school and work.
10939	7/10/2012	Public education and libraries are the backbone of democracy. The rich and powerful seek (mostly subconsciously) to prevent America becoming a just, equitable, and democratic society. Eliminating equal-access to information is an important tactic in the class-war they currently wage.
10940	7/10/2012	I check out up to 20 books a month for my kids and myself.
10941	7/10/2012	Because they allow access to computers, etc that the poor can't always afford and it is a good overall community asset.
10942	7/10/2012	Information access is key to citizenship and productivity, and libraries are a key information node.
10943	7/10/2012	Because I have loved libraries and books since I was very young.
10944	7/10/2012	Access of knowledge and community meeting place where you don't have to spend money to be in.
10945	7/10/2012	I think the library is a great resource, but food/water/shelter comes first.
10946	7/10/2012	Because they are currently very, very well run! Efficient, accessible, local.
10947	7/10/2012	Borrowing materials is the environmental choice as well as the economic choice. Libraries are community hubs; I almost always see someone I know when I go there. Libraries are free entertainment. Libraries are essential to kids, broke people, job seekers, people who need a cool place on a hot day, or a warm place on a cold day.
10948	7/10/2012	Despite readily available electronic media, books are essential for maintaining a literate population. More literacy means better democracy and a better, fairer society. One of the things that makes me most proud of Portland is that we are a city of readers. Our library makes this happen.
10949	7/10/2012	Libraries provide needed and affordable access to informational/educational/entertainment materials and programs.
10950	7/10/2012	They serve as a source of information and education to those who are unable to get it otherwise.
10951	7/10/2012	Not everyone had access to information that is supplied thru the library. Makes a safe place for community members to use these resources.
10952	7/10/2012	They are not essential like health care or education I read a lot of books, the library has books
10953	7/10/2012	a special place for kids to learn to read and learn to love to read. I also see many seniors and less privileged people in the library, reading and using computers.
10954	7/10/2012	Public access to information, learning and supplementation of education is vitally important to our communities for those who seek these services

		The library is one of the parts of our community that people trust. It is a functional part of the community and is integral in most communities. Communities can take pride in their community and see more instant gratification in supporting the library. ¶
10955	7/10/2012	The library provides a positive view of a government run when there is so much distrust and frustration with other departments. It is a way to show our students and children positive parts of the community, in addition to the many resources it provides our youth. The library helps close the achievement gap or class gap by providing resources to families who may not be able to afford them.
10956	7/10/2012	Provide a much needed service
10957	7/10/2012	I am able to purchase books at Powels, borrow from friends or go online for reading and research material.
10958	7/10/2012	Democracy relies on an informed public, and people who don't learn to love to read are more susceptible to manipulation. Most families can't afford to buy books to encourage and sustain a love of reading.
10959	7/10/2012	Libraries are a resource for everyone that we can all use without needing to make appointments. You don't even have to have a library card to use the library. A lot of people don't have computers or printers at home, and you can also check out books that you would otherwise have to buy for school. It's also a place where all types of people interact with each other--everyone uses the library.
10960	7/10/2012	The ability to access knowledge and information at all levels of the socioeconomic scale helps to keep a democracy healthy.
10961	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot for reading and research. A vital library is key to children's learning and development as well as ongoing community engagement and lifelong education.
10962	7/10/2012	As our population ages and the first group of the "Baby Boomers (65-67) are now retiring, their needs must be addressed. And seeing that this demographic were/are avid readers, I would assume municipal services such as those offered by the library as well as community colleges, language classes, seminars on points of interest such as the newly ratified healthcare program(s) will be a valuable asset to those who are becoming less mobile and turning to the core area of the city for entertainment, dining, and cultural events. (see: Pearl District).
10963	7/10/2012	Not knowing this question would follow, I think I touched on this in question 6 already, but-- to my mind, it is one of the primary hubs for involving people in a sense of community in the publicly funded realm. If the library loses its standing among public services, all other public services risk a blow to their esteem as well, simply because the library provides a place for people within the community to learn about and get involved in all of those public services, and to notice and interact with others from the community that they might not otherwise relate with.

10964	7/10/2012	I think they rank right below the safety and education services. We need access to all forms of published materials no matter what our income or education. Freedom of speech and communication.
10965	7/10/2012	Teaches Children that you don't need to purchase every book you read.
10966	7/10/2012	Free education resource
10967	7/10/2012	The library has been my refuge, my freedom, my education, and my entertainment since I learned how to read. The thought of not having this resource accessible to kids who are like me is just devastating. This is a key public resource, as vital as water or public transportation, and it should be honored and supported like the precious thing it is.
10968	7/10/2012	I rely on the library a lot for books for myself and my family.
10969	7/10/2012	The library is essential as an accessible repository for accurate information, as well as a community center. The library promotes education, an investment that has far-reaching positive effects, and demonstrates our priorities for this by being freely accessible.
10970	7/10/2012	Libraries are a welcoming place where people of all income levels have access to knowledge. That is what makes a community strong!
10971	7/10/2012	It was an integral part of my own upbringing. I love the library and want others to all have similar positive experiences.
10972	7/10/2012	It is important to have a free place for me to go with the children, to be able to check out books and have materials available in our home on a regular basis. To have a place where they can learn to read and access information.
10973	7/10/2012	When we give up on reading and learning we are finished.
10974	7/10/2012	What do you mean by local public services? Having clean water, fire fighters and public safety are all important. The library is also extremely important. Its accessible and has services for everyone. Its programs provide enhancing experiences that can also make our community healthier.
10975	7/10/2012	Literacy is a requirement for being an informed citizen and I want that for my child.
10976	7/10/2012	I use the library constantly. My husband and I read all the time. We reserve books online and pick them up at our local branch.
10977	7/10/2012	The library is just short of a necessary service. It does not protect public safety nor generate a vital service (ie: utilities, public roadway, etc), but it represents a component of culture that is used by and should be made available to all.
10978	7/10/2012	Being both employed and unemployed, the library has been very important for me. Providing a treat of different things to read with I'm employed. Providing internet access to job search and something to do that resembles a routine when I'm unemployed and just a general better environment than the unemployment office.
10979	7/10/2012	Because the library is a great service that many people don't take advantage of. They have many valuable resources for the community. Computers, media, community meetings, child development. It is a great service that should keep its funding to stay open to serve the community.

10980	7/10/2012	Police, fire departments, and programs supporting the basic physiological needs of people are the most important. Having a local library allows access to information and in some cases entertainment. So long as people are fed, housed, and are sufficiently supported such that they can work, libraries will be high on the list.
10981	7/10/2012	To me it's a very valuable resource where I get my reading and listening material. I think it is important to the community for many reasons....education, entertainment, etc. I only listed it as somewhat because I would have to rank Fire dept and Police etc more critical.
10982	7/10/2012	The library's services bolster social and educational equity in the community, and help people become lifelong learners.
10983	7/10/2012	I is not essential, but is a nice amenity.[] [] Staffing levels should be reduced but hours should be extended - there are more people working there than needed.
10984	7/10/2012	We use the library for everything from research to entertainment. If we had to pay directly for all the materials and information we get from the library we would simply have to cut out much of it. I also believe in the power of shared resources. It's very important to me that our community have a strong and accessible library system.
10985	7/10/2012	The library is a place for everyone regardless of our place in society. We all have access to literature, papers, magazines, movies, and more that we might not be able to afford. Mult. Co, deserves praise for our great library system and we should be doing all we can to keep it strong.
10986	7/10/2012	Libraries give people access to books, dvd's and other materials that help promote learning and literacy. Building early literacy skills in children is one of the best things you can do for their futures. I think that lower-income people, especially, benefit from libraries because they are not able to just go out and purchase books whenever they want. I can't buy my daughter new books every month, but we can visit the library and have a great deal of fun choosing books to check out. If I find that she does really love a particular book, I can purchase that book instead of wasting money on books she will only read once or twice.
10987	7/10/2012	I think it sets a cultural standard, that literacy, learning, and thinking are important aspects of American life, not just tv, work, and the pursuit of money.
10988	7/10/2012	When I pay my taxes, I feel the library is the most I enjoy in return, Yes I believe in other services and will vote to pay for education. I want americans to be aware and have choices, and access can make our system better and work. thanks
10989	7/10/2012	I am only an occasional user. However, I think libraries provide vital services to communities, and think that they probably provide vital services to other community members.
10990	7/10/2012	Current level of service is just fine with me.
10991	7/10/2012	Access to the written word is paramount in our democratic society.
10992	7/10/2012	I love to read and am a teacher.

10993	7/10/2012	I don't rely on them for internet service or young children/senior citizen services. I basically use it to check out materials.
10994	7/10/2012	Education is important to me. I believe education is crucial to success in our society.
10995	7/10/2012	Public libraries and public transportation are the two most important public services to me.
10996	7/10/2012	Access to information and reading materials for all is necessary for an educated and prosperous society.
10997	7/10/2012	It's a free place all people, regardless of income, have access to reading materials, enrichment options, and computer usage.
10998	7/10/2012	I believe libraries fulfill a need in our community that is not filled by any other institution public or private.
10999	7/10/2012	The library is a central part of my families life. Reading is essential for us. We could not afford to buy all the books we read. I think it is essential for the health and happiness of our cimmunity.
11000	7/10/2012	I don't utilize the library much.
11001	7/10/2012	Public access to knowledge assures the continuation of freedom for all persons.
11002	7/10/2012	Because I think schools and parks are very important and libraries fall under that.
11003	7/10/2012	I read a lot, and I use the internet a lot. I like being able to order books to read online and then being able to easily pick them up and return them at my local branch.
11004	7/10/2012	I've recently been homeless. The library provides respite from the weather, computers to look for, resources, work and/or housing, and free entertainment in the way of reading materials.
11005	7/10/2012	It provides people of any income level a chance to educate and entertain themselves. It provides vital services to poor people.
11006	7/10/2012	Access to the great library system is one of the things that makes Multnomah County special. I have lived in other states with library systems that can't compare. I appreciate access to materials I wouldn't normally be able to afford. This is especially important for those who have been affected by the economy. I appreciate that these resources are available to those who need them.
11007	7/10/2012	I feel that library services are helpful for everyone in the community and I use them often. The library improves my life and I very much appreciate it. To me this is on par with parks and rec services, and not as important as services directed to needier populations in the community.
11008	7/10/2012	We have one of the best systems in the country I think. To have access to the number and kind of books and other resources is very important to me. Not having a access would be a hardship for me and I feel every community should have access especially for those who are low income and poor. Without it the education system suffers even more.
11009	7/10/2012	I read a lot, but have very little money. I can't afford to buy all the books I want. Furthermore, I often read books that are somewhat obscure--nonfiction mostly and older fiction--that can be found in a large library system but that would be much harder to find in a bookstore. Finally, reading is one of the ways that I have continued my education after college, and I think it is one of the most important aspects of educating children, young adults, and, well, everyone.

11010	7/10/2012	People deserve free access to the information they are seeking, and they need to know that the resources they want are available to them.
11011	7/10/2012	Obviously police and fire are a higher priority but library comes right after. Information is critical; not everything is on the Internet; much that is on the Internet is not authenticated, is not permanently retained, is not correct (is often downright wrong), is misleading, is outdated, etc. The library goes hand-in-hand with public education; they have made this country what it is today. For many people the library is the only centralized location where new technology is combined with traditional knowledge resources. The library is a user-friendly environment that supports learning, teaching, and research.
11012	7/10/2012	somewhat
11013	7/10/2012	As a retiree on fixed income, the other services that might be available for the younger populace are probably less important to me. Not being too familiar with services available to the older generation I can't comment.
11014	7/10/2012	Because my family and I hardly ever use them. All the information I need about everything from home improvement to building a supersonic jet in my backyard is on the internet. I believe library's are becoming less and less necessary as digital technology gets better.
11015	7/10/2012	Not only do they offer a free opportunity for self growth and development. But it was essential for me while I was in college. I needed a quiet place to study that offered internet and wasn't going to break the bank or a already broke college student. We are already cutting back so much on education and our schools-why take away the opportunity to self educate?
11016	7/10/2012	Education is the cornerstone of democracy: everyone should have equal access to information and educational materials for free. This is what our libraries provide. When we lose our libraries, we have lost our democracy.
11017	7/10/2012	They are a community resource that brings people in the community together.
11018	7/10/2012	Because reading/education elevates us all. We would all do better as a society if people turned off the tv and opened a book.
11019	7/10/2012	Free access to information is essential, and it's not all on the Internet for free!!
11020	7/10/2012	The Library has no value to me. Close them all. Fund the schools. Help the homeless.
11021	7/10/2012	They provide essential programs and access to materials that hopefully boost the overall workforce and economy; when people are educated (including seeking out new ideas and teaching themselves), we all benefit.
11022	7/10/2012	Borrowing books rather than always buying them is hugely important during this economic recession.
11023	7/10/2012	Libraries give access to information and help with education and it empowers people who might not normally have that resource.

11024	7/10/2012	It's the service I use most often. I go to the library far more often than I call the police or fire department. Also it is a place where one can educate themselves. People who cannot afford the time or the cost of school can still do a fair job of educating themselves by reading.
11025	7/10/2012	They serve everyone. They are a resource beyond what the schools can provide. Wasn't it Mark Twain who said, " If you think education is important, try ignorance"?
11026	7/10/2012	We are family of readers and the library gives us access to a variety of books that we could never afford to buy. We also get music, books-on-tape, DVDs, and peruse periodicals. The library and our positive experiences with the library has been instrumental and essential in insuring my son is a reader of varied literature.
11027	7/10/2012	It is important for me to have a library nearby where I can pick up books that I checkout online. I work with low income individuals who may not have access to the internet etc. I know that it is very important for them to have access to the library for checking out books and job seeking resources.
11028	7/10/2012	Firefighters and police officers are, of course, very important to a large community like this one. But I think for community cohesiveness and for the general education and wellness of the community, a library is the best source.
11029	7/10/2012	I rank police and fire first, but then libraries tied with good public transportation, and tied for third parks and schools. They are all important.
11030	7/10/2012	Not as important as water, power and heat, but very close.
11031	7/10/2012	It is a wonderful place to interact with the community and provides resources that you do not find elsewhere.
11032	7/10/2012	So many reasons. More affordable way to make sure you keep your reading up (compared to buying books), it is the only access some have to a computer, a place for mothers to take their kids to a class, it is a quiet place for kids to do home work, elders get a reason to go out, etc
11033	7/10/2012	I am retired and look forward to read the latest materials. Never had time to read an actual book when working. Having the library keeps me informed and up to date, a real luxury.
11034	7/10/2012	They provide services (access to books and other materials, programs, internet access, etc.) that many people would not have access to otherwise. They're also meeting place for the community.
11035	7/10/2012	Libraries are valuable extensions to the education system. They provide information access to all in the community. They provide affordable entertainment for children and their families. Reading is an adventure and a life enhancing skill. Having free access to books, films, computers, a place to study and grow are invaluable services provided to all in the community who partake.

11036	7/10/2012	I believe that libraries are very important in so many ways. They provide self-education opportunities. They have resources that can be shared by so many who might not otherwise be able to afford them. They work for folks from babies to seniors. I could go on and on but suffice it to say that the library is important to our society in more ways than most people think about. Having discovered the public library in my hometown in 4th grade was a life-changing experience for me. And at 60+, it still stretches and changes me and all for the better.[]
		[] I only mourn the fact that school districts are disinvesting in trained library teachers in so many of our schools. It is a great loss for the children of those schools.
		Having an available source of reference materials is an integral part of a lifelong education system. Our education levels in America are declining partly because we do not build sufficient reading skills in our youth and thereby instill a desire instill a desire to continue to read both as a recreation and to learn about the world around us. []
		[] Our nation is rapidly declining in the level of technical skills in our youth while the technical and industrial needs demand workers with those higher technical skills. The library systems are a necessary source to maintain the availability of technical and reference materials for everyone in a community as well as providing the ongoing resource of novels, historical books, children's books, and how-to guides at a level which few would ever have in a private library.[]
		[] With acknowledgement of the declining availability of printed books due to the rise of the electronic books and the availability of reference information on the internet, there will always be a demand for reference books which can display illustrated guides for crafts and hobbies.
11038	7/10/2012	We use the library resources heavily.
11039	7/10/2012	The library is a wonderful place to continue to develop as a person in every way.
11040	7/10/2012	They are a resource available to everyone in the community, at all income and education levels. They are very important for children who are just learning to read, and also to older kids as a healthy way to stay busy and stay educated.
11041	7/10/2012	I use it more than anything else.
11042	7/10/2012	Those at a young age exposed to reading and encouraged to read I believe are better adults.
11043	7/10/2012	Education is the most important investment a community can make.
11044	7/10/2012	I use the library multiple times per week. I can't imagine life without the libraries. They are my only source to get reading material and I can't afford to buy from Powell's every time I want to read a book. They are one of our communities most important public resources and they do so much good for the people of Portland. I'd vote for any increase in levy and funding for all libraries. I'd even donate my own money to the cause.
11045	7/10/2012	Availability, when I need the library I want its resources.

11046	7/10/2012	Very important
11047	7/10/2012	There are probably a large number of services that are very important to small numbers of people.[] But services such as public safety, education, etc. are more important.[] The library provided educational access for those less well-off.[] But it also provides free services to those who can readily afford them.
11048	7/10/2012	I use the library to find books and online materials that I would not otherwise be able to access without considerable cost.
11049	7/10/2012	I love reading and learning new things but I am on a limited budget so I don't buy new books/materials.
11050	7/10/2012	Not sure what "other public services" includes, but the library is a very important part of my life. I read a lot and enjoy having the library 4 blocks away. And such a beautiful library (Central)!
11051	7/10/2012	Electronics can become lost. Hard copies are around longer.
11052	7/10/2012	I love to read and feel that it is much more sustainable to borrow books than to own them. I love that I can reserve my wish list and pick up books in my neighborhood. I love the community feel of my local branch.
11053	7/10/2012	WE use and depend on our local libraries every week. My son goes through books so quickly, we can't buy him new ones all the time, the library is perfect.
11054	7/10/2012	Libraries were critical for my success in life.
11055	7/10/2012	Access to information.
11056	7/10/2012	I'd rank it thrid after fire and police. It is as important as other social services.
11057	7/10/2012	Public services in general are very important to the 99%. Playing one service off another only benefits the wealthy who are only too willing to let all public services die on the vine.
11058	7/10/2012	it's a place to get educated, informed, seek employment online, and get books all the time-- since they are expensive to buy. It's one of my most valued resources.
11059	7/10/2012	Libraries offer a diverse, cost-effective source of information and culture to the community.
11060	7/10/2012	My kids have grown up going to the library weekly for 4 years now. They look forward to story time and checking out new materials as well as the summer reading program. They have benefited greatly from the library. Their reading and learning abilities have grown so much more than if the library was not available to them. It has also been important for our family to meet other families in the community that care about education. My husband and I benefit from checking out materials for free since our family, like most others, has a limited income and could not otherwise have access to these materials.
11061	7/10/2012	I cannot afford to purchase new books all the time. Also the library helps me save time when i check out materials that i would otherwise spend valuable time trying to track down myself.
11062	7/10/2012	I am a reader and I want others to read, too, especially young people. Reading is essential to a civilized, informed citizenry.

11063	7/10/2012	educates our community, connects our community
11064	7/10/2012	Knowledge should be as important as safety (police and fire) and electricity, and is a little less important than clean water.
11065	7/10/2012	It is a huge money saver for me. I really enjoy books (cookbooks, hiking/travel guides, novels, non-fiction, etc.) and without a public library I would be forced to either spend money on books, or reduce my exposure to books (which is no ideal).
11066	7/10/2012	It is a form of education and the passing of values and knowledge from one generation to the next. An appreciation for the pursuit of knowledge and reading is a fundamental building block for any society. How can the next generation be prepared for leadership in government, business, education, arts without the skill to read and love of learning??
11067	7/10/2012	People of all ages need to continue to be educated and to increase their literacy skills, otherwise this country will grow increasingly dysfunctional. Without the services libraries provide, people's problem-solving and critical thinking skills will deteriorate. Children will not be able to expect much of a future and will not be able to contribute much to society.
11068	7/10/2012	While the library doesn't meet a basic human need (such as food/shelter), I believe it's definitely vital to a healthy community.
11069	7/10/2012	Income and mobility issues impact significant segments of the population.
11070	7/10/2012	I grieve for families and individuals who cannot provide for themselves the resources that libraries provide. On the other hand, property tax rates are burdensome.
11071	7/10/2012	City and county officials are increasing taxes and utility fees, only to spend part of my money on their high cost pet projects (e.g., Sustainability Center). Support for library and Zoo funding and Metro move way down on the list.
11072	7/10/2012	They are a critical resource for any community
11073	7/10/2012	For my children and myself, especially with e-book check-outs, this is how we keep our minds sharp and imaginations peaked. For others, it's a place to job search, read with kids, catch up on periodicals. It's critical to our culture and allows information access to all.
11074	7/10/2012	I check out many books and videos a year.
11075	7/10/2012	sense of community and resources for others
11076	7/10/2012	n/a
11077	7/10/2012	I directly use them most frequently, and free access to knowledge and learning is very important to me.
11078	7/10/2012	I have 2 kids and we read a lot got to story hour and participate in summer reading and to think that they might miss out on that due to lessened library services is really awful.
11079	7/10/2012	I used the local library on a nearly daily basis. I cannot afford to buy books and dvds and music cds, so I check them out from the library. It is a cool place (literally b/c of a/c) place to rest and read and search the internet on ho days and it is a hub of information about he local and city of Portland communities.

11080	7/10/2012	Libraries are the great equalizer. Everyone has access.
11081	7/10/2012	I am an educator and I highly value literacy, which is a chief aim of libraries, whether it be reading, computer literacy, or cultural literacy.
11082	7/10/2012	The library to me is a community sanctuary as well as an unlimited resource of information and opportunity. As a child it was crucial to my everyday education and for filling the long summer months. As an adult it is a practical and affordable resource which offers me so much.
11083	7/10/2012	Because I am in college and I need the ability to do research using books and other media instead of relying solely on the internet.
11084	7/10/2012	access to information is paramount to informed citizenry in a democracy
11085	7/10/2012	Libraries are vital. They are as important as the schools, fire and police departments.
11086	7/10/2012	To maintain our way of life, free access to information is vital. Libraries historically have provided information without censorship which allows information to flow to people in an unbiased manner. In countries where libraries are not free and information is censored life is very different. We must support free access to information for all citizens.
11087	7/10/2012	They are extremely valuable in educating children and providing information, resources, and entertainment to lower and middle income households. I read about a book a day. ☐ ☐
11088	7/10/2012	Though I am over 65 and have no children at home, I observe the important services the libraries provide families with children. ☐ ☐ Prior to retirement, I was/am very aware of how necessary it is for the disadvantaged to have access to reading material and the internet.
11089	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and rely heavily on the library when doing research for school. Without the library it is hard to use databases to find academic articles and research papers. The library not only helps students grow as researchers but it starts helping children grow through reading groups and parent-child activities. It would be harder for people to be as successful in their academic pursuits if the library had drastically less hours or had to give up resources.
11090	7/10/2012	Local library services are the one resource that provides a safe learning environment for all members of each branches community. This includes undocumented members, at-risk youth and elders who are otherwise told they are "too old" to learn new things or to preserve their capacities. Our public school system is important but not as fundamentally accessible. Higher education excludes many, including transient folk who receive great benefits from open library hours.
11091	7/10/2012	The public library provides access for ALL people and has means for the advancement of ALL people, whether it be learning to read, helping a person be proficient in a new language, encouraging community, a place for homeless to move toward having a roof over their heads again or keeping people up to date on current events and arts.

11092	7/10/2012	Again, odd question. I'm not sure what we're weighing against. I'd like people fed first and living in a safe environment. After the essentials, libraries are pretty important. Along with a good parks system, which we're also lucky to have.
11093	7/10/2012	The library provides so many resources for free that helps users improve their lives in many ways: social, literacy, economic, homework help, research support, etc.
11094	7/10/2012	There are many services being offered that a redundant or could be obtained elsewhere.
11095	7/10/2012	Libraries empower people.
11096	7/10/2012	They are an important but not as necessary as programs that ensure low income families have housing and shelter. However, for me libraries are very important and only second to other more basic needs since literacy is so important in our society.
11097	7/10/2012	They are more valuable to me than other public services. They enrich my life more than my girlfriend.
11098	7/10/2012	Libraries are becoming somewhat obsolete. Internet is the new information resource, and much more efficient.
11099	7/10/2012	as a resource, libraries can and should affect everyone in the community
11100	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all of the books I read.
11101	7/10/2012	Education
11102	7/10/2012	Extremely. high
11103	7/10/2012	They allow accessibility to knowledge and provide community.
11104	7/10/2012	Educated citizens seeking to learn more...what a democracy is about. Opportunities for self-improvement that lead to improved work and life skills that benefit us all. We are new to Portland and have been singularly impressed with the level of services and resources available and we had lived in a far larger city with a superior library system.
11105	7/10/2012	my hobby is reading and i can't afford to buy all the books that i would like to read
11106	7/10/2012	We need to prevent literacy from declining further. Trash, water, police, fire dept., all those are represented by strong unions, contracts, and lobbyists and they will always get funded adequately. The library system is defenseless.
11107	7/10/2012	We use the library a lot. My children read library books for pleasure, and I use them to supplement our homeschool.
11108	7/10/2012	While not as important as clean water, fixing the roads and providing high quality education, the library is an important resource for life-long learning.
11109	7/10/2012	Access to ideas is power and happiness.
11110	7/10/2012	The library is an invaluable resource not only for books and other media, but also for community building and enrichment.
11111	7/10/2012	Books are the best way to educate ourselves and remain strong citizens.
11112	7/10/2012	As a writing teacher, a children's writer, a reader, and a person working toward personal growth, our library is imperative to my life.

11113	7/10/2012	I rely on my local library for my entire supply of reading and listening materials. I listen to recorded books at demon speed and I would never be able to afford to buy them if they were not available through the library system.
11114	7/10/2012	No other sych resource for knowledge and education free to public
11115	7/10/2012	because I can go in - walk around and in that walking can see books, materials, whatever that capture my vision.....and thence my mind as I pick up something to glance at and thence read or such..... Internet is great and search engines..... but the real thing cannot be BEAT!
11116	7/10/2012	It's good to have access to a variety of materials. My son is almost 5 and learning to read. I want to have access to books and programs to give him many different things to read and study.
11117	7/10/2012	The public library is the single best resource for citizens to access information and educational materials.
11118	7/10/2012	I refuse to rank! Police and fire are necessities as are libraries, schools, good roads.
11119	7/10/2012	libraries are an important source of information, cultural enrichment and community building centers
11120	7/10/2012	Because of the wide range of people who are served and the equally wide range of services provided.
11121	7/10/2012	Why you ask? Have we lost sight of the importance education and knowledge?
11122	7/10/2012	Education and knowledge empower us and future generations.
11123	7/10/2012	They give everyone (young, old, poor, rich) access to information.
11124	7/10/2012	I think you should have given some examples of local public services to make this question more statistically significant.
11125	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge
11126	7/10/2012	Libraries are the heart of the community.
11127	7/10/2012	I work in a school and access the library regularly during the school year for curriculum planning, etc. When my own children were younger, it was a weekly routine to go to the library and check out books, etc. Literacy is very important to the community.
11128	7/10/2012	I use the library primarily for books and media. This is becoming most digitized in our modern age. The library is becoming less important of a resource.
11129	7/10/2012	We use the library every week--for personal use, education, and as a gathering place.
11130	7/10/2012	public services for health and medical is more important than free book borrowing
11131	7/10/2012	Important for their resources and cheap way of consuming books. Also important for teach my kids the value of community supported (and free in their eyes) resources.
11132	7/10/2012	For people who cannot afford education it is a great place to learn. For people who cannot afford computers and need to look for work.
11133	7/10/2012	self-development, personal growth, continuing education are very important to me
11134	7/10/2012	I don't often have the spare money to buy the books I want to learn from or sometimes have no value in keeping a book once it's been read, so being able to borrow them for a period makes a difference for me.

11135	7/10/2012	Libraries should be open on a daily basis, with regular hours, so that people in the community can count on having a quiet place to work and to read. Especially in lower income communities, libraries are essential to the health of our neighborhoods.
11136	7/10/2012	Libraries are a center for knowledge - freely given and available to everyone. Local public services are constrained by external factors, but the library should try to be as accessible as possible. Therefore, its services are imperative and should be as wide-reaching as possible.
11137	7/10/2012	I am a senior without a car. My library is easy to get to. I might not otherwise use it. Also, the access to digital media is important to me.
11138	7/10/2012	It is a gathering place to learn and enjoy the printed word. They get books for you that are on the waiting list.
11139	7/10/2012	My daughter and I are on a very fixed budget and can no longer afford to buy books or magazines, so we use the library frequently. Also, I rely on the library computers when mine is down, which is frequently because I cannot afford to have it repaired.
11140	7/10/2012	They are valuable to me because they allow me to read w/o having to purchase books, which helps my business.
11141	7/10/2012	Most homes no longer have a library and this provides a common resource. A literate, well-informed populace is not easily governed or duped; that is a good thing. New information leads to change; adaptability is the hallmark of evolution. Libraries are a place for education and self-help. Libraries are the only place people of all ages and backgrounds can find and freely use such a diversity of resources, along with the expert guidance of librarians. Libraries are unique in that they offer lifelong learning - and welcome everyone from preschool age to well beyond retirement age. Libraries are part of the solution when a community is struggling economically. From free access to books and online resources for families to library business centers that help support entrepreneurship and retraining, libraries support lifelong learning. Many libraries nationwide design and offer programs tailored to meet local community economic needs, providing residents with guidance (including sessions with career advisers), training and workshops in resume writing and interviewing, job-search resources, and connections with outside agencies that offer training and job placement. (I copied this from the internet because I knew someone had said it better than I could.)
11142	7/10/2012
11143	7/10/2012	I read at 3 books a month...all from the library. Our only source of TV is DVD's from the library and most importantly, my daughter and I attend two story times a week there. It is a part of our weekly routine and so important to my daughters socialization and early literacy.

11144	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time. I often 'test drive' books and music before purchase. Other than water, sewer, electricity, gas and roads, I use the library the most of any public service. I log in probably 2-5 days a week, put things on hold, and go to a physical location once a week. (I need evening or weekend hours to pick up books, so it limits my visit days.) I have used your meeting rooms for groups, and enjoy the Everybody Reads program. I've caught up on TV seasons (Downton Abbey), It is a big source of entertainment for me. I have basic cable and internet, but don't get Netflix, etc. I was just calculating what my "Library Club" fee will be - $1.22 on $219K is about $23/month. Plus about $60/yr in fines is still less than $30/month for a ton of entertainment. Well worth the cost.[] I don't know what to advise on the 2012 vs 2014 ballot measure. I will vote for it either time, so I will say 2014. It might pass better in 2014 when the economy has more chance to get rolling. There will always be other measures on the ballot (kids, fire station, art, whatever), it's more whether they're popular measures. You should promote the library as an entertainment package that is cheaper than other things. Also, I wish there was a way for EVERYONE to pay, not just property owners. There's a lot of renters that use the service. A little on everyone's shoulders is better than relying on property owners all the time.
11145	7/10/2012	1) EMS, police, fire[] 2) Public schools[] 3) Libraries[] 4) Social services[] 5) Parks
11146	7/10/2012	Just as important as the other public services
11147	7/10/2012	It is the one service I use.
11148	7/10/2012	I use them all the time. I like to read.
11149	7/10/2012	Because i need it!
11150	7/10/2012	Information for all is very important.
11151	7/10/2012	I'm always interested in new books. I can afford to buy what I need, but many other people can't and therefore depend on the library.
11152	7/10/2012	The library is one of the main civic institutions I feel support for.
11153	7/10/2012	There are some services that are more critical to well being and safety but this falls close behind for recreation and education.
11154	7/10/2012	The library is very, very important to me.
11155	7/10/2012	Education is the path to prosperity.
11156	7/10/2012	I use the library more than any other public service.
11157	7/10/2012	Democracy can't function without an informed electorate. Society is built on knowledge and the libraries are essential in accessing that information.
11158	7/10/2012	I've never lived in a town where the library seemed so accessible. When reading novels for enjoyment, I prefer to check them out from the library and not put that expense into purchasing the books. I'm a student and find that resource very valuable.

11159	7/10/2012	Local libraries provide key services to the community, but they are not life and death services (in a literal sense). Fire, police and paramedics are more important. I would say that public schools are also more important because they play a larger role in people's lives. However, libraries are still very valuable.
11160	7/10/2012	I believe them to be a great source for information & available services. Also a convenient place to deliver my voting ballots
11161	7/10/2012	The library is probably the public service I access most regularly, so personally it is very important to me to maintain library service. I think the contribution our library system makes to the quality of life in Portland and to an educated, informed and engaged citizenry cannot be overstated.
11162	7/10/2012	I love all the options & resources available to me and my family. I can find most answers to what i need within the library walls. I know many people need the online/computer resources, I love that babies and kids have programs to engage them in reading from an early age, i like that i don't have to buy the latest book or movie or even go to the theater (which with young kids we don't get to) with books and DVD rentals. I am glad there are online books to keep current with the Kindle/Nook folks - I prefer the old fashioned paper book - but am glad to see our library being competitive with new mediums out there...
11163	7/10/2012	Children need a place to go where they can learn and be able to have a variety of story books to choose from. Many books are not cheap for kids or adults. I've grown up utilizing libraries from school work, research to entertainment especially when I don't have the extra money to go and spend on books/resources needed for a short time.
11164	7/10/2012	Society depends on informed and educated citizens.
11165	7/10/2012	Having a literate and informed public keeps a city vital. As bookstores and newspapers have gone out of business it is necessary to have a place the public can access information that is attended by informed, resourceful personnel. Those who do not remember the past are condemned to repeat it. Libraries are repositories of that past, insurance that the future will be met by literate citizens. Libraries are the key to the world of the imagination, and when people can imagine big things they can make their community a more exciting and vital place to live.
11166	7/10/2012	They provide access to books and information regardless of the social and economic status of the user, and supplement the formal education system as another source of education and productive entertainment.
11167	7/10/2012	There is so much that they offer in access to information and tools.
11168	7/10/2012	I love books and love to read. If I had to buy all of the books I read it would be very expensive.
11169	7/10/2012	Because of my frequency of use.
11170	7/10/2012	I cannot imagine doing without the library. My spouse and I are voracious readers, and the Library saves us literally hundreds of dollars a year.
11171	7/10/2012	other local public services such as public transportation, are used a lot more frequently and hence more important overall to my life (especially since i have no other mode of transportation)

11172	7/10/2012	pretty boring otherwise
11173	7/10/2012	Enables learning and education...if I am knowledgeable and enlightened, I'll understand both sides of the issues and concerns and be able to voice my opinion and vote with confidence. This in turn will allow me to become more aware of other local public services and the challenges they face.
11174	7/10/2012	reading is important for all ages & groups
11175	7/10/2012	Extraordinarily. Libraries have been intrinsic part of my life since I was old enough to be taken to the library.
11176	7/10/2012	They are a very important resource for books, media, computer, etc. for children and their parents through seniors.
11177	7/10/2012	I have lived in several developing countries without libraries, and I can not tell you how dearly they were missed. I have two young sons who are voracious readers - without the library, I could not afford to keep them in books. Also, my oldest son is part of the teen council -- Sellwood does an astounding job of supporting this age group. He has volunteered for two summers in a row now, and is very proud of his role in our libraries, as are his parents.
11178	7/10/2012	they are important educationally and entertainily. Also voting
11179	7/10/2012	Provides free access to reading and media material for those who cannot afford it. Students who cannot afford to buy books can access current material to improve literacy.
11180	7/10/2012	The library provides lots of needed services to people and generally makes Portland better.
11181	7/10/2012	For children, youth and adults to have a source of reliable reference material.
11182	7/10/2012	I do not have a computer at home
11183	7/10/2012	Access to books and new media is the great equalizer--have always gone to libraries. Successful adults often mention going to libraries as children as important.
11184	7/10/2012	Libraries empower us to educate ourselves.
11185	7/10/2012	I believe books can make a huge difference in peoples' lives--especially the people who might not be able to afford to buy them. Access to information and exposure to literature are critical to the health of our culture.
11186	7/10/2012	I consider library services as an essential service.
11187	7/10/2012	it is a huge part of being human and bettering one self or experiencing different things, adventures, cultures, religions, times in our history. the library gives us all the oppertunity to learn what it is we find most interesting. at our own pace and in our own time, it allows us to live deeper and fuller lives. to learn and experience what we otherwise would never have the chance to.
11188	7/10/2012	Education is the most important thing out there. For children than can not afford to buy new books, this may be their source of reading materials.
11189	7/10/2012	I have a child and I save huge amounts of money by getting library materials rather than buying books, dvd's, cd's all brand new at the store.
11190	7/10/2012	I see school libraries diminishing and relying on the public libraries. Unfortunately, the public libraries must pick up this slack.

11191	7/10/2012	My personal environment is very "safe" - from crime, toxic environment, health-wise, etc. so I am blessed to be able to say resources for maintaining the mind and spirit are equally important and should be equally preserved. Because literacy is vital for the growth and health of a community. A person capable of reading can learn nearly anything. []
11192	7/10/2012	Internet is not a fully viable source for information. Not only is it often skewed or complex, but there is still a large sector of the community that cannot afford the luxury of Internet or other media entertainment. Books can reach a whole family. Having grown up in poverty, the library was our familie's single source for recreation (out side of free tv- but lets face it, public television is not generally edifying)[] Because of the public library I am now a college graduate and thriving- working in our community to better its function for both myself and upcoming generations.
11193	7/10/2012	I consider the library as my personal library and almost never buy my own books. Why would I? I have the pleasure of checking out just about any book title I want and when I can't find it, the library staff are extremely helpful in finding a copy for me. If I'm interested in a craft, I can check out a book. Interested in a certain cookbook...check it out. I might purchase such a book after I've tried it out. [] [] I use the Internet to find the answers to many of my questions, but I also know that I can rely on the reference librarian to give me the correct answer. [] [] I love Everybody Reads, the book clubs, everything offered by the library even if I don't personally use it.
11194	7/10/2012	It's a community service that I never really took advantage of when I was employed full time. Now that I am retired it has become a major resource in my life and my local community.
11195	7/10/2012	Especially in the area I live in, families don't have the resources to provide the services offered by the library for their own families. Computers, books, etc. I think the future of our country depends on having these resources available for underserved families to be given a fair shake in the world.
11196	7/10/2012	They are repositories and distributors of who we and why we are what we are. They are real, not remote, and by so connect the past with the present and provide the steps to the future. They are gathering places for sober discussions and offer services not found elsewhere including the education system. They represent a tradition of many centuries and with new technologies provide access to the world around us. I grew up using a public library system, Washoe County (Reno) and everywhere I have lived including Hungary, Turkey, Russia, and the United Kingdom have always found a library.
11197	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great resource for my kids and have been key in their development as readers. They teach kids to be responsible for their own learning. I enjoy having the library available as a resource for myself and to set an example as a reader

11198	7/10/2012	They are a shared community resource that promote education and the acquisition on knowledge that benefits everyone. They help create productive members of our society.
11199	7/10/2012	Libraries provide unlimited resources for research, education, recreation, homework help and internet access for free. The school libraries are barely staffed and have inadequate funding to provide the necessary tools for students to do their homework. I believe libraries are necessary to the vitality and livelihood of a community along with parks and strong public schools.
11200	7/10/2012	I use the library almost everyday. I do feel the library needs to envision a new future to incorporate a new system that enables us as a community to understand the value of having the library space, time and resources to keep the library alive.
11201	7/10/2012	I take out many books each month. I cannot imagine not having access to a library.
11202	7/10/2012	Not just me, kids especially
11203	7/10/2012	Books are important
11204	7/10/2012	literacy is important
11205	7/10/2012	As a teacher, I use the library all the time. As a reader and writer, I use the library all the time. I can't imagine living without the library.
11206	7/10/2012	If it weren't for the library, my kids and I would not have access to so many books. We can't afford to buy all the books they want to read. I love the audiobooks on my drive and always have one checked out.
11207	7/10/2012	Falls under the realm of free education and free access to information, which I think are critical civil rights.
11208	7/10/2012	As important as roads and mental health services
11209	7/10/2012	gotta rank libraries below police, fire, water
11210	7/10/2012	We always need a Library in our lives
11211	7/10/2012	Libraries help stimulate the mind and are a great source of culture for people of all income levels
11212	7/10/2012	Like real books-easier to read vs. a small electronic screen.
11213	7/10/2012	top priority. i spend a lot of time there with my child and acquaintances.
11214	7/10/2012	I was a voracious reader as a child, and keeping me in books would have bankrupted my parents if they'd had to purchase them. I would go to the library, come home with 15 books, and read them all before they were due. I want kids who are growing up now to be able to go to a library, browse, and be able to take home as many books as they want to read.
11215	7/10/2012	Library services provide my four children, who are all avid readers, a weekly experience gathering new books that support their interests.
11216	7/10/2012	Not very important
11217	7/10/2012	I love our libraries as they have been run for the last 7 years I've been a part of the community of Portland. I feel that access to information and education is the foundation of a democratic society. We CANNOT allow this resource to become less than it is; it should only be allowed to grow stronger.

11218	7/10/2012	This is how many people educate themselves and provides a great form of recreation, all at an affordable cost so that it doesn't matter what income level you are at, you can enjoy these benefits. An accessible library is one of the foundations of an educated, well rounded community.
11219	7/10/2012	I love to read, but I can't afford to buy every book I'd like. Many people are in the same boat. Reading is an essential part of an informed electorate. The electorate is uninformed enough as it is. Take away libraries, and it only gets worse.
11220	7/10/2012	Use the library for all of my reading and electronic media. It saves a tremendous amount of money because we don't have to purchase books.
11221	7/10/2012	Because the library is a big part of my life, there is so much knowledge and resources there
11222	7/10/2012	The educated masses make better decisions.
11223	7/10/2012	The library is the rock on which democracy is constructed. Without libraries, only the wealthy will have access to the past and the future will belong to them.
11224	7/10/2012	Having a good library system is essential to allowing people in lower socio-economic groups to compete and have access to knowledge and services.
11225	7/10/2012	Lower in importance than "basic" services - fire, police, ambulance, transportation, etc.
11226	7/10/2012	This saves us hundreds of dollars a year for childrens books we would have to buy, if not for the library.
11227	7/10/2012	They seem to be utilized by a large economic and social swath of the city of Portland. Always very busy. Obviously a necessity.
11228	7/10/2012	I listen to library audio books seven days a week. Because I'm under-employed, I could not afford to buy audio books. So I'm deeply grateful for free access. Due to my disability, interacting with people socially, attending arts and cultural events, and other common activities are extremely difficult for me. Through reading, I have constant interaction with the authors and stories and learn about a whole host of things I would never know about otherwise. I am learning constantly, and the sound of the narrators' voices gives me a very satisfying feeling, almost as if I had been in a conversation with them. It fills a social void and makes me feel connected.
11229	7/10/2012	Libraries are where I learned and began to read! I think its an important aspect of our community because it instilled a desire to learn and feeds the imagination!
11230	7/10/2012	A well informed, intellectually stimulated community benefits everyone in ways too numerous to list here.
11231	7/10/2012	Free information and the proliferation of books and knowledge keep us performing as informed citizens. It's foundation stuff.
11232	7/10/2012	Simply, the more you read, the more you know. A thriving library system seems critical to a thriving and civilized city, not theoretically but in fact. I am proud of our city when I see lines ten and more deep, patrons of all stripes waiting for the library branch doors to open. It's an indicator of need, and of service provided.

11233	7/10/2012	As a senior, I find that I have many interests that were not addressed in my formal education (through to Ph.D.) I love all the resources, and i am learning to use the online materials more. I use CD's for books often; I don't see the PBS series' like I used to so don't use the DVD's very much. My husband needs large print, my grandchildren like the graphic novels, and the physical plant at Midland is well kept and comfortable.
11234	7/10/2012	It is a resource that our tax dollars pay for and should be available to all to use.
11235	7/10/2012	Police and fire protection are most important, second schools. I am disappointed in the Mult Co. library system because greater emphasis is placed on computers than books. The shelves are half empty. Secondly, I am very upset that my tax money is being used by perverts to view pornography. I will never vote for a library levy as long as that is taking place.
11236	7/10/2012	Because of all they provide to the public.
11237	7/10/2012	Reading and learning are just so important. There is a wealth of knowledge for free at your finger tips. Ask yourself this, Do you know anyone that is well off that does'nt have a library card? I don't.
11238	7/10/2012	Not only do i use the library resources extensively, they are critical for a democratic, well-educated public. But I'm not happy with the funding situation, it seems like I pay an awful lot but the library is always in crisis???
11239	7/10/2012	A neighborhood library is a community center and essential to civilized life.
11240	7/10/2012	What do you mean by other local public services? Police, fire department, farmers markets, streets & roads, utilities, etc.?
11241	7/10/2012	I see our libraries as an important asset to the other local public services we have in our community. Again, access to classes, computers and materials are crucial to educate our community members and ensure access to resources that feed our minds. Reading and positive programs are linked to better education and decrease in crime. Libraries do so much more for our community and we need to protect this valuable resource!
11242	7/10/2012	Interlibrary loan is very important to me. reading is my main past time.
11243	7/10/2012	I guess when you think about all the other public services that exist including law enforcement, emergency health care, public education, libraries are pretty low on the list. However, of the services that are not life-threatening if eliminated, libraries are one of the most important. Right up there with state parks and way above any city-wide fairs/festivals.
11244	7/10/2012	Access to the written word should be available to everyone.
11245	7/10/2012	Access to reading and research materials is key to self-education
11246	7/10/2012	research and availability of resources are critical for our lives
11247	7/10/2012	Because reading and access to information is essential not just for my personal enjoyment but also to ensure an informed public citizenry regardless of economic status.
11248	7/10/2012	Major source of reading material, as well as video material and music CD's.
11249	7/10/2012	My entire family benefits from access to our public library for reading materials, other media, and programs.

11250	7/10/2012	Not necessarily to me, but my use of the library changes depending on work situation and location. but i had a great relationship with the ashland library and it was horrible when the jackson libraries closed to 6 months. So while currently i don't need the computer and job searching services, some day I might need it again. And i know others do. Also, I participated in reading programs when I was younger and that has made me the reader I am today, I want those programs to continue for others.
11251	7/10/2012	Reading is the building block to life
11252	7/10/2012	Libraries are accessible to absolutely everyone, provide a variety of information to anyone using them, and books are a treasure.
11253	7/10/2012	it is good to be able to borrow, not buy, books
11254	7/10/2012	My wife and I read a lot and check out movies on a regular basis.
11255	7/10/2012	Very important. We may not always use it, but it a service for others to gain invaluable information. You can't put a price on what it does for our community and culture. We read a lot and can't afford to buy enough books to feed our reading habit. Reading is such an important skill, and so is the research that we sometimes have to do to find the books we're interested in. Going to the library is a wonderful experience for my child.
11256	7/10/2012	high level of literacy is central to the function of government/society. i also consider it environmentally important that materials are loaned and shared rather than purchased.
11257	7/10/2012	freely available information is critical to survival in this world.
11258	7/10/2012
11259	7/10/2012	Because students can use the library as a resource for their school projects and education is important.
11260	7/10/2012	In Portland it seems like our roads, sidewalks, sewers, utilities are all a mess that have gone so far down hill that we'll never be able to catch up on. We seem to have plenty of money to spend on wealthy high profile neighborhoods like the Pearl and Southwaterfront, while the lower income ones get neglected. It would be sad to see our public libraries go that direction, too.
11261	7/10/2012	The library is a hub of resources. Being able to check out books is huge! Reading time and activities for children is awesome! DVDS, music, etc. Being able to access these items for free is a huge benefit.
11262	7/10/2012	I think when ranking a society in its place in the world you have to look at access to books and the internet - currently MCL grants fantastic free (at point of use) access for all of its residents and I am proud to pay for that through taxes
11263	7/10/2012	I would rather have emergency.services over a library.
11264	7/10/2012	Libraries are a fundamental park of educating my children and myself. Aside from being a hub of literacy, they are also a public gathering place where I feel comfortable, inspired, safe, and happy with my kids or by myself. What do we have as a society if we don't have solid libraries.
11265	7/10/2012	Reading is the first requirement for contributing to one's community and libraries have historically been a critical place to practice this skill.

11266	7/10/2012	Incredible wealth of resources for knowledge and entertainment.
11267	7/10/2012	i'm thinking of fire, police, public schools as being of higher importance
11268	7/10/2012	for me, I can not afford to buy book, movies. Reading is what I do dailey
11269	7/10/2012	Too many homeless denigrating the institution.
11270	7/10/2012	Libraries are the knowledge commons; And especially for many; being able to ask for assistance in finding and locating material and information is important; Access to the library helps people realize that that there is more search than just "googling" for information. [] [] Libraries provide meeting spaces, classes on how to utilize the overwhelming information web that is now available , and individualized reference services in many different ways.
11271	7/10/2012	Having books of every subject, nature, source, and quality at our fingertips is one of the greatest educational tools we have. It fosters a love of reading and learning that is still unsurpassed in today's society.
11272	7/10/2012	Our community has many low income families who would not have the funds to get the materials that the library provides. I believe the library is an irreplaceable part of our community.
11273	7/10/2012	The library allows me the ability to experience literature without having to spend a ton of money on new books every month. With the library, I have access to many different varieties and types of reading materials, music, and movies that I would not otherwise be interested in because I wouldn't have the money in my budget to purchase them.
11274	7/10/2012	Not only is the library an important service in and of itself, but it also provides resources to find other essential and useful public services through free Internet access, classes, tutoring etc. that people would otherwise not know about. It's also important for a community to have a meeting place that's not tied to consumer interests.
11275	7/10/2012	Very important. I use it constantly.
11276	7/10/2012	I value schools more than libraries.
11277	7/10/2012	They are less important than water/sewer service, garbage pickup and electricity, but they are very important.
11278	7/10/2012	A literate, educated population is vital to a democracy.
11279	7/10/2012	I use them intensively to improve my quality of life. Only public safety trumps that.
11280	7/10/2012	I depend on the library to borrow books and movies.
11281	7/10/2012	It is just apart of our marvelous culture. Enriches lives. Food for the soul.
11282	7/10/2012	It serves the whole community and gives resources to those who don't have the means
11283	7/10/2012	I always vote for levies regarding funding for libraries. They are important for information, turning in taxes and ballots, literacy, computer access for all. In short the democratization of the entire nation
11284	7/10/2012	discovering unknown books
11285	7/10/2012	Libraries are the foundations of hope in a community. They offer a place for acquiring and sharing knowledge. To me libraries are up there in importance right after health and human services.

11286	7/10/2012	Libraries teach people how to use resources on their own with little assistance and teaches kids that reading/education is the one thing that nobody can take away from you.
11287	7/10/2012	My health and safety would not be adversely affected by library closure. I can't say the same thing about sewer, water, police, or fire protection. Lack of library service would certainly be an inconvenience and extra expense, but it wouldn't harm me personally.
11288	7/10/2012	It is the one venue where people who can't afford to buy books in this economy and can't afford a computer to come to use the materials for free. Having a library with it's available resources is a significant help to my Education.
11289	7/10/2012	Its a free public service, paid for by taxpayers.
11290	7/10/2012	Personally. I could afford to pay for all the materials I use, but I feel libraries are important community resources.
11291	7/10/2012	So many people from different economic levels have access.Also, it is a good place for kids to hang out after school
11292	7/10/2012	They are the backbone of education in all areas. Without these resources, our nation would slowly desinigratee in educational and cultural expertise.
11293	7/10/2012	People need to know how to read and the libraries foster that through their programs.
11294	7/10/2012	Life without libraries would be unthinkable.
11295	7/10/2012	Low income folks can find help at other institutions.
11296	7/10/2012	As a writer, editor and avid reader of fiction and nonfiction, I am someone who depends on a huge stream of materials that I get from the library. I was able to check out Adobe InDesign instruction guides to help me to complete a freelance job assignment. This is how I pay my rent. As a chef/entrepreneur who also runs a private supperclub venture, I rely upon reading lots of cookbooks that I get through the library, including the $750 Modernist Cuisine volumes and basically thousands of dollars worth of cookbooks that I would otherwise have no access to. The library plays a key part of my vocational life-it has helped me to secure freelance and catering assignments. The library also supports my quality of life; I do not have a large income to purchase many books, that variety and availability of new fiction and nonfiction is something that I am so grateful for and I use this resource on a constant basis.
11297	7/10/2012	I feel the library is an important part of the community. It gives the poor access to information.
11298	7/10/2012	It is hard to compare libraries to emergency services. Libraries are nice to have but compared to police, schools and transportation they are not an essential service.
11299	7/10/2012	I use the library primarily to check out travel material before buying the books I find most helpful but my neighborhood needs it for every age group for both computer use and written material. As it happens, I'm writing this on a Tuesday, the day after the libraries were closed. I went to Midland branch earlier and the parking lot was full, there was a line of people waiting to use the computers and every section of the place was being used. Obviously, the place is essential for the community.

11300	7/10/2012	See comment 6 re: the dead-beat rich's system of divide & conquer. For the last decade PPS has relied on Multicolib to be the libraries & librarians for all of their students, Tri-Met has taken up the roll of school buses/transportation, Ptld Parks & Rec maintains the school parks. Now all of these systems are failing from lack of support. Which one is most important? Dah, they are all important and all interdependent. Do you want to breathe, eat, or continue to pump blood through your body? I know that I want, that to live I need all of these things.
11301	7/10/2012	Providing free access to literature should be a right.
11302	7/10/2012	Libraries rule!
11303	7/10/2012	Because without an informed public we cannot truly have a democracy.
11304	7/10/2012
11305	7/10/2012	We are a homeschooling family and use the library to augment our educational resources. We are a reading family and always have books on hand. We explore questions we have about life through the library's resources.
11306	7/10/2012	Besides basic necessities, I put the library at the top of my list.
11307	7/10/2012	Access to a public library is nearly as important as our public school systems.
11308	7/10/2012	I am a teacher, and I think literacy and access to reading is crucial for academic development and literacy.
11309	7/10/2012	the only thing more important is public safety and health/education services. I rank libraries with parks and community space that makes my life more than livable. They serve people with little or no income and are accessible despite race, class, religion, ability or orientation.
11310	7/10/2012	provide opportunities for learning; open the door to books/reading for youth; provide mental and emotional learning for adults and seniors
11311	7/10/2012	All local public services are important. They are valuable resources for those with otherwise limited or no access.
11312	7/10/2012	A foundation that we rely on to maintain a society that can responsibly evolve with changing times.
11313	7/10/2012	I am lucky enough that I interact with the library more then any other public agency except the water bureau.
11314	7/10/2012	So many people are either out of work and looking for work or are on a very fixed income. The library is free entertainment and education for all, in one place.
11315	7/10/2012	Quality reading materials must be available to those who can't afford to purchase books.
11316	7/10/2012	community. literacy. access. equality. education.
11317	7/10/2012	Knowledge and entertainment are valuable for every day living.
11318	7/10/2012	After police, fire, and utility departments, I consider libraries important for our children's education and resources for everyone.
11319	7/10/2012	I use the library at least three time a week
11320	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the basis for a successful democracy

11321	7/10/2012	For low-income people, the library is a resource for medical information, home remedies, first aid, and other health-related information. The library takes us out of our comfort zone to learn new, valuable things that can sometimes inspire us to attend college to learn more, and thereby have more to contribute to society. Libraries can be surrogate mothers, fathers, and friends when people are not available, or simply fail you. Libraries and their services are nearly as important as police, fire, and emergency medical aid--a library is an ambulance for the mind.
11322	7/10/2012	As a Senior Citizen I use the library often and rely on it heavily. It is one of the most important things in my life since i have had to redudce costs. Also, having been hit by a brutal economy (real estate etc) I am interested in saving money whenever I can. This is the best deal out there. I cannot afford to buy books anymore . I LOVE THE LIBRARY! Another thing with the rainy and cloudy weather of Portand YOU NEED A TOP NOTCH LIBRARY since people read a lot more than in places like California. IT IS ESSENTIAL WITH THIS TYPE OF CLIMATE TO HAVE GOOD LIBRARIES.
11323	7/10/2012	I have alternatives to access resources offered by the library, but I realize not everyone does.
11324	7/10/2012	Literacy (in all its complex and varied modern forms) and education are crucial requirements for informed civil discourse and the maintenance of civilized culture in general. I think that one good library in a community is worth ten sports arenas. We should encourage the cultivation of intelligence and personal betterment over mindless and disposable entertainment, and that is precisely what libraries stand for.
11325	7/10/2012	because it's closeby and i have a child. if i didn't have children and the library were not within walking distance, it would be less important. access is a big factor for me, along with having a safe place for my child to go to now and then.
11326	7/10/2012	continuing education and enjoyment for our family and others
11327	7/10/2012	everyone needs media and reading is necessary in a civilized world
11328	7/10/2012	They provide a free service to all community members regardless of income. Many people who use the library can not get the services the library provides through other means.
11329	7/10/2012	I think it is a critical resource for learning for myself and the community.
11330	7/10/2012	Libraries are a hugely important resources for adults and children alike, for information, entertainment, and community building.
11331	7/10/2012	I am a retiree and the library provides much of my entertainment and connection.
11332	7/10/2012	I can check out many books to read, and read to my small children. Books are expensive and if I were not able to checl them out at the library, I would not be able to read as much material...for myself and my kids.
11333	7/10/2012	they are very important, but they don't hit the level of health, welfare & safety
11334	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of the very basic foundations of our society. People have the right to free access to literature and information. I cannot think of anything more critical, besides hospitals and police/fire services.

11335	7/10/2012	We need to promote readers, from age 1
11336	7/10/2012	not that relevant anymore...
11337	7/10/2012	b
11338	7/10/2012	very high. it's a community gathering place for people of all ages and backgrounds
11339	7/10/2012	Visiting the library is the favorite thing my grandchildren like to do with their Nana.
11340	7/10/2012	General capital maintenance of streets and parks is more important and public safety is a high priority to protect property values
11341	7/10/2012	A library helps to educate a society. Libraries and schools work hand in hand.
11342	7/10/2012	Safety issues first, fire police, water department, etc
11343	7/10/2012	My kids have access to reading material for free, something I couldn't afford myself. Libraries provide information and resources to everyone, no matter socioeconomic status, etc. It's important to have access.
11344	7/10/2012	Libraries are the pathway to education, dreams and growth for all of us.
11345	7/10/2012	My husband and I are both teachers and we use the library constantly for teaching resources. We have three children, and we use the library weekly for books to read aloud and to read on our own. The public library system is one of the most amazing legacies of the U.S. In tough economic times, being able to borrow rather than buy books is essential.
11346	7/10/2012	They contribute to the overall quality of life. Libraries also give less fortunate people an avenue for self-improvement, which has long-term benefits to society.
11347	7/10/2012	Having a library in the area allows access to reading and learning. It's very important to adults and children.
11348	7/10/2012	I feel that infrastructure and other services related to health and safety deserve more weight. I also think schools need more money first, since they are the primary source of education for our children.
11349	7/10/2012	Libraries provide services for people that they would not receive otherwise. Resources and reference books, a place to explore new worlds, computer help, programs for children to be involved in and grow... We need to keep these services alive and well!
11350	7/10/2012	because we are all in this city, this county, this community, this society together and a good library system is a great equalizer and opportunity for a "step up" if used effectively and with purpose.
11351	7/10/2012	Libraries are important, yes, but other "services" like health resources, paved roads, fire and police are essential. They need to be funded first.
11352	7/10/2012	An informed and articulate populace is possible because of freely available reading (and viewing) material. Without that, democratic society erodes . . . and other public services with it.
11353	7/10/2012	If you don't have access to books, you don't have access to education. If we are uneducated, we are doomed as a society.
11354	7/10/2012	Very important

11355	7/10/2012	I can not imagine life with libraries. I can't be the only person who would be utterly lost without them. More people use the library than ride buses or go to ball games and NO ONE appreciates it!
11356	7/10/2012	Quality education is perhaps the most important factor in the well being of our city, and without good libraries that cannot happen.
11357	7/10/2012	Because in a time when we're in a depression(the only difference between then and now, is now were afraid to say it) and library services offer free travel through books, increase literacy, offer a safe environment and offer a system that truly works. Library systems are extremely important and stands for keeping and restoring faith in community offerings and communities as a whole. With times as rough as they are right now, the library is the sanity of those that can't buy coffee every morning, can't afford daycare, can't afford a computer to get their homework done ,regardless of age, class, gender, sexual identity, culture, religion, ethnicity and everything else that makes us human.
11358	7/10/2012	Libraries sort of level the playing field a little bit: providing internet access to people who can't afford it at home, providing access to books to those who can't afford to buy them. Reading books has been so important in my life, and often times I just can't afford to go out and buy every book I would want to read. I haven't taken advantage of many of the other programs listed on the previous screen (programs for kids, elders, job-seekers, language-learners, etc) but those things seem incredibly valuable.[] [] At first I chose somewhat important thinking of police and fire and education, etc as being above that, but I would say that library services are a part of education, and education is the most important thing for the community.
11359	7/10/2012	While there will always be a need for public services - police, fire, medical, etc. - diminishing the role of the library in a community might just increase that need, whereas a community where everyone has access to information will be healthier and less likely to need increased public services. sorry sentence is so clumsy - don't have time to be brief!
11360	7/10/2012	Reading is power. Knowledge is power. The better informed, aware and educated our community is, the more every other aspect of our community will benefit. Hopefully.
11361	7/10/2012	I use it way more than most other public services that I can think of.
11362	7/10/2012	community, knowledge sharing, research, making education accesible to all.
11363	7/10/2012	Libraries are key to a community's literacy rate, which is critical to our economy. Making books available to children in particular is critical to our city's future.
11364	7/10/2012	medium, I can survive without it, others cannot
11365	7/10/2012	Access to literacy is critical for a just and democratic society.
11366	7/10/2012	with limited budget at home, I can't afford to buy all the books. It's nice to check out books from the library for free.

11367	7/10/2012	Access to books=access to knowledge.
11368	7/10/2012	An informed citizenry is the backbone of democracy. Only libraries consistently provide unbiased and in-depth information to all.
11369	7/10/2012	Libraries expand our range of knowledge, entertainment, information, and community togetherness in much more than the overt services they provide.
11370	7/10/2012	I use the library for a variety of reasons. Most services are a single use.
11371	7/10/2012	Libraries are our last stand for literacy, self-improvement, and free access to information. The web is wonderful but simply does not provide the breadth, depth, or free access that libraries can provide.
11372	7/10/2012	Community connectiveness, current awareness, popular literature/media, building skills for those without computers.
11373	7/10/2012	Libraries are central to growing equitable communities, informed citizens, and healthy neighborhoods. The library symbolizes all of these things, and I believe they are essential in our community.
11374	7/10/2012	Books have always been an important part of my life. I have seen how reading and books have changed lives, particularly for young readers.
11375	7/10/2012	Information is of critical importance.
11376	7/10/2012	It is a low cost option for learning, books, computers, available to everyone
11377	7/10/2012	It is important to have the availability of a library and all its services to the community as a strong resource for residents, students and all ages. This helps to fulfill reading and research needs.
11378	7/10/2012	A mind is a terrible thing to waste and when libraries aren't available, we will lose another generation of our youth. Not to mention that Books and other media should be a community concern, just as the police, fire department, hospitals. etc.
11379	7/10/2012	Because it is a free self education, and it is part of our community, people are more connected to the world, the knowledge and to others.
11380	7/10/2012	It provides access to knowledge and resources to populations that are lower on the socioeconomic spectrum, it provides a center for positive community-building, and it grants every individual access to lifelong learning.
11381	7/10/2012	Hands on books are easier for me to understand than computer screens. (I don't know why but I retain the information better.)
11382	7/10/2012	I've been an avid reader since I was a child. Public libraries give me access to books, which educate and entertain me, as well as making me a more rounded person.
11383	7/10/2012	I feel connected to contemporary literature. I would not be able to afford to be so otherwise.
11384	7/10/2012	Very important

11386	7/10/2012	Access to information is vital, especially for those at lower income levels, who might not be able to afford books and computers. As long as library resources are available, if you can read you can teach yourself anything. Services that provide food or housing or health care are critical, and serve an immediate need, but at the library we can find information about maintaining our health and homes, managing our finances, and cooking on a budget. My child has autism, and while community services help to address our needs, they all direct me to the library as well with ideas for books that might be of use. Other public services work better and more efficiently when used with the library.
11387	7/10/2012	They provide equal access- and community
11388	7/10/2012	Because of how often I utilize the library, which is very helpful
11389	7/10/2012	Community health comes first.
11390	7/10/2012	They provide education and support for middle and lower income people.
11391	7/10/2012	critical free service
11392	7/10/2012	A thriving local library is a reflection of the kind of society we have.
11393	7/10/2012	It is essential that we have updated and various access public access to information without threat. All ages need a safe place to go to access information and knowledge.
11394	7/10/2012	Extremely high, we use our library books and media everyday we rely on going to the library weekly and at multiple hours.
11395	7/10/2012	They are a great resource. I like to read, but I don't want to have a lot of "stuff," so being able to borrow books and DVDs is a great way to be low impact.
11396	7/10/2012	Without libraries we effectively dumb down our democratic access to literary resources. People cannot fully participate in a democracy without access to books. Period.
11397	7/10/2012	This is a poorly worded question. I'm not sure what you want to know here
11398	7/10/2012	It is important to have access to books and internet for all, however, if it came down a choice between fire fighters and library (i.e. you can have one or the other and not partial of both), I would go with fire fighters.

11399	7/10/2012	I'm an elementary school teacher who utilizes the book collections to enrich my students' classroom experience.
11400	7/10/2012	Books in the home promote reading in children, which leads to better performance in school, which produces a productive, educated populace. I have been a patron of the library since I was 5 years old and do not see an end in sight. That is what a good library system does: produces life-long readers and learners.
11401	7/10/2012	I have used the libraries all of my life- I can always depend on the library- it is an institution that makes me feel privileged proud to be a part of our American society. If you want to learn something, the library is second only to school.
11402	7/10/2012	We depend on the resources for homework and school projects (books, computer, internet, printer, etc).
11403	7/10/2012	Cornerstone of an informed citizenry. Essential to democracy. Equal access to knowledge.
11405	7/10/2012	Continuous education and free knowledge is essential. If you don't have that you don't have any structure in a society. People have the right to learn and grow as individuals to help their larger community. Also, it is important to give individuals resources to read books that they might not otherwise be able to afford - even if the primary focus is recreational reading.
11406	7/10/2012	Libraries are crucial. Not every American can afford books, computers, Internet, research support, etc.[] [] We owe it to our youths to supply them all equally with the intellectual raw materials to prepare for our nation's future.
11407	7/10/2012	I don't have the money or time to buy new books. I use the library for reference books. I often check out multiple books on a topic, find the best book, then purchase that book for my personal use. I also love that small children of all classes have access to books!!!
11408	7/10/2012	They provide books that I use for reference for my business and provide books and music CDs for my son's education.
11409	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer in our country. Everyone has access to the materials they need.
11410	7/10/2012	My mom was a librarian & I worked at my college library. It is so incredibly important to have this free resource for anyone & getting information about anything. Real info not someone's opinion on the internet.
11411	7/10/2012	question #7 is not legitimately worded; all local services (road maintenance, garbage & recycling collection, schools, etc.) are very important ...

11412	7/10/2012	I am tempted to say that there are more areas of greater importance such as food, shelter, and health but one of the best way to ensure both is providing the public with knowledge which the library does very well.
11413	7/10/2012	I read alot and use the library resources for books as well as music and movies. Before I had internet in my home I would bring my laptop down and use the library's wi-fi. I believe in access to these resources for everyone as well as public meetings rooms etc.
11414	7/10/2012	Hard to say. It's an institution. It's important. If it changes I will adjust.
11415	7/10/2012	Unrestricted access to information and books, music and materials of all types is important for a just, equitable and democratic society. The public library allows us to freely access these materials without the inhibiting burden of personally purchasing each item so even the poorest citizens can pursue intellectual freedom.
11416	7/10/2012	Libraries provide educational and life enrichment opportunities that help us to become informed, well-rounded people. Libraries are one of the last havens for affordable entertainment accessible to everyone regardless of socio-economic level. Books are where we go to learn and dream about people we may become and places we hope to see, and things we hope to understand. Or just to escape from daily drudgery. Call me cheesy but, libraries are the gateways to other lives and other places. A sane society needs those gateways.
11417	7/10/2012	I need help with research. I know that many people who don't have access to a computer or to internet at home depend on being able to use a computer at the library.
11418	7/10/2012	Social responsibility, personal and community financial success, self image, entrepreneurship, and dreaming of a better future starts with literacy and evolves through continued reading. ALL problems can be solved through reading and educating oneself. Removing or reducing public library services is easily linked to less income to our city, region, country, as well as higher crime rate. The library provides all socioeconomic classes equal opportunity to improve. Our library plants the seeds that eventually, if not immediately, benefit all other publicly funded services. It is a terrible miss in logic to deny the payback literacy and education the library provides.
11419	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. Those who are willfully uninformed or misinformed can be easily manipulated. And personally, I could never afford to buy, even used, all the books I read from the library. Libraries help reduce systemic inequalities of opportunity.
11420	7/10/2012	All of my life, I have gone to the library and used its resources on a regular basis, especially for checking out books, CDs, and movies and doing research. The library has greatly enriched my life and has been one of the few resources that I have used so regularly.
11421	7/10/2012	One of the last bastions of equal opportunity in this country!
11422	7/10/2012	education, inspiring future readers; giving me access to materials that I can't afford to buy on my own

11423	7/10/2012	With schools having little to no money for new books, children need to have another way to access books.
11424	7/10/2012	There are more important things at this point with the economic situation what it is.
11425	7/10/2012	The library serves as a community center for people to get together, get information, and use computers. I know many of the families in North Portland (where I live and work) don't have internet or computers at home. I know many of the families use the libraries as indoor spaces during the rainy/cold season as an extension of their own homes.
11426	7/10/2012	I am a heavy user and I value the service.
11427	7/10/2012	I believe that libraries are right behind police and fire services when it comes to importance. They provide everyone with access to educational and enriching media.
11428	7/10/2012	I am in school so I can access my library on campus for a lot of the materials I look for, and so much is available on the Internet now, that the public library isn't my first stop for media anymore. However, I think it is an important service for those out of school (my parents use it much more frequently than I do), and the community events are a wonderful idea even if I haven't taken advantage of them.
11429	7/10/2012	Because libraries are storehouses of information and knowledge that help empower people to make meaningful and educated decisions with regards to their livelihood and community involvement.
11430	7/10/2012	I grew up loving books and libraries. Everyone needs access to books, periodicals, and other sources of information. The library is one of the few remaining community linchpins open to everyone regardless of their ability to pay.
11431	7/10/2012	They empower people to be lifelong learners, to pursue in depth knowledge of issues and events.
11432	7/10/2012	The library is a priceless resource for information, for networking, for children of all ages and background but especially for the lower to middle class citizen, please do not take away what little we have left that is secure.
11433	7/10/2012	I only put them at "somewhat" important because fire and law enforcement are most important. We can do without libraries to live in society but would we want to? Or, should we have to? No, of course not!
11434	7/10/2012	A good Library system is a quality-of-life issue. It's very important.
11435	7/10/2012	Without literacy our society would crumble. Libraries are a basic source for improving literacy, especially among children.
11436	7/10/2012	It brings knowledge to people who can't afford to buy books, computers and magazines. It is a wise use of public funding because many community members can SHARE these resources.[] [] An educated society improves our quality of life. Libraries are for the common good of all.

11437	7/10/2012	For me a library is not only a place to get books or use a computer it is community building block. As a senior there are few places that I go on my own. A library helps be to keep my mind active, provides opportunities to feel connected to other people so I don't feel as alone. It is an emotional lifesaver.
11438	7/10/2012	Libraries provide important resources for the community to self-educate and to promote early literacy in children. Without them those without the means to provide these resources for themselves and their children would be further disadvantaged. That's why libraries started in this country; so that all citizens could educate themselves and participate fully in our democracy.
11439	7/10/2012	Equity: everyone should have access to the library, books and knowledge in general regardless of their socio-economic status.
11440	7/10/2012	Libraries are critical community resources because they provide endless educational and cultural learning opportunities.
11441	7/10/2012	Because I have two young children and I would go broke if I had to buy them the same number of books we check out from the library. I check out 50-100 books a month.
11442	7/10/2012	Free access to materials I'd otherwise have to pay for.
11443	7/10/2012	Very, very important
11444	7/10/2012	I use library for 80% of my entertainment media
11445	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time so it would affect me quite a bit if it wasn't available. However, I realize that there are other public services that are more crucial.
11446	7/10/2012	we make constant use of the materials in the library
11447	7/10/2012	for my own education, enjoyment and intellectual stimulation and also for the betterment of my fellow citizens and surrounding community. The library raises the entire community's intellectual stimulation and education.
11448	7/10/2012	I think of libraries as a great equalizer. Access to information is hugely empowering, and literacy is the basis of our democratic society. Equal access to books and other media without regard to income is one of the few counter-balances to the increasing inequality of our society.
11449	7/10/2012	Supports education even when school is not in session, and for audiences not served by schools.
11450	7/10/2012	As a teacher of 35 years, I understand that reading is FUNDAMENTAL for everyone, beginning at childhood and ending at death. How well a student does in school is directly related to how much reading he/she does; how well informed a citizen is about public issues is the same. And for seniors, reading keeps those little gray cells active and healthy, fighting off dementia, senility and senior moments.
11451	7/10/2012	For the reasons stated in question six.
11452	7/10/2012	very used friendly...am retired...ned books to read, esp. new ones on popular list...old ones to catch up...staff very helpful and knowledgable...
11453	7/10/2012	They are right near the top.... as important as police, fire & teachers.

11454	7/10/2012	We rely on the library to supplement our education of ourselves and our children. The library is one of our primary sources of entertainment.
11455	7/10/2012	We live in an information age, and the library is the best place to get information!
11456	7/10/2012	In order for children to be successful in life, they must read, read, read! Once a love of reading is instilled, it will carry throughout their lives, and help them be successful. I am a perfect example of this. I have been reading since age 3, and I always have a book nearby. My love of reading has helped me excel in college, and will ultimately help me through nursing school, which I am starting this year.
11457	7/10/2012	A good Democracy is based on an informed electorate. The freedom of information and the ability to access it, provides knowledge and knowledge is power to every individual in whatever avenue the individual pursues.
11458	7/10/2012	I love reading with my son, but can't afford to buy new books every few weeks when he gets bored with them. Having the library allows me to expose him to reading and keep him wanting to experience new books with me and my husband.
11459	7/10/2012	Depends on what you're comparing them to. Fire fighters are critical occasionally, but are like paying for insurance - you hope you won't need them, but are willing to pay regardless. And are we differentiating between the various flavors of "local"?
11460	7/10/2012	When I need library services it is important to me to have the services available.
11461	7/10/2012	The wealth of knowledge cannot be found anywhere else but at your local library.
11462	7/10/2012	It's unfair to ask questions that are like apples and oranges. I can tell you why I think the library is important but I don't see any correlation in relating that to what I think of Health Dept or justice, etc. [] [] If you are thinking of where to spend the dollars then ask that question.
11463	7/10/2012	I am a mom and an elementary school teacher so between those two things I check out hundreds of books. The library supports my teaching and my son loves the, "big clock library!"
11464	7/10/2012	Libraries provide the fundamental building block along with our public school system for the regeneration of our society.
11465	7/10/2012	Because library services are about improving peoples lives which strengthens our community and make broad participation possible - they have nothing to do with regulating people (like most City/County services) and everything to do with empowering people
11466	7/10/2012	Libraries are a service provided to the community that improve quality of life. As someone who takes advantage of this service, this is important, but not as critical as certain emergency or social services.

11468	7/10/2012	Yep, fire and police are always needed. The library is THE reference choice trying to come up with an answer of where the best material is available that you are looking for. They have a very broad minded group of people there. SOMEBODY knows something helpful, it may not be the first person you ask but there always seems to be somebody on staff that they will refer you to.
11469	7/10/2012	I use both Multnomah County and Vancouver libraries usually four times a week. (Vancouver is better all around). I use books as reference for what I am developing and cannot get the same quality of information on-line that I can get in printed material (unless the printed material is on-line). Borrowing from other libraries is great in that it allows me to obtain materials that are seldom available anywhere but for a research group or institution. I feel this saves a tremendous amount of funds because each library group doesn't have to have every book or publication to be "complete", therefore more information can be available in total and its usage increased.
11470	7/10/2012	The individual young or old have the opportunity to expand access to a variety of resources. It is not just books. It consists of interacting with people. Events and classes are frequent. ☐ Magazines, DVD's, CD's-music or not, online resources, and downloaded material are available.☐ Government is vital, but this resource is accessible to anyone.☐ Having the library open 7 days a week with some later hours is important. (These reduced hours have affected my use of the computer. My computer is not working now. I may have my smartphone, but there are times I must use a real computer and print.) I understand there are tablets that can be used. Study rooms are most useful whether a student or not.
11471	7/10/2012	The services provided are services that I can otherwise obtain either by purchasing the books or music or magazines, or by obtaining the information online. Other services are more necessary for my daily life and cannot be obtained elsewhere
11472	7/10/2012	Pretty important
11473	7/10/2012	knowledge is power; education, enlightenment
11474	7/10/2012	If I get killed in a fire or shot dead for my pocket change being able to read for free isn't going to be very useful.
11475	7/10/2012	Resources for my children
11476	7/10/2012	I believe in libraries. I have the means to buy books but many don't. Libraries are responsible for educating the population along with schools.
11477	7/10/2012	School books and helping me study and do research
11478	7/10/2012	the library is more important than ever because we live in the information age, and it is the one place anyone can go to get information for free!
11479	7/10/2012	Resources for those who don't have them books and computers.
11480	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge and resources on an equitable basis.
11481	7/10/2012	libraries assist with education and provide resources to a lot of people.

11482	7/10/2012	it's just nice to know there is a quiet place to go to concentrate, plan, study. and it's such an amazing resource- i love books, even though the internet seems to provide endless information, I trust professionally published information much more than open-source internet information that anyone can put out there.
11483	7/10/2012	fire, safety, schools come first
11484	7/10/2012	I feel like the health of all other public services stems from a good public library system.
11485	7/10/2012	There are services that are more important competing for funds.
11486	7/10/2012	Because not many people including myself look that deep into the matter.
11487	7/10/2012	Because student's use the library to study, people who don't have internet access in this day & age use the library. It's a very resourceful place of information. There are not very many free programs for kids and parents and the programs the library offers are wonderful, it is a great way for parents to teach their children the importance of reading at a very young age as well as get people involved in their communities. Having a place to use a computer and have internet access is really important for people to be able to search for employment.
11488	7/10/2012	I cannot afford to buy books. The library provides me with access to books which I cannot afford.
11489	7/10/2012	What other local public services are you referring to?? Electricity, gas, police, firemen, public schools? It's nowhere near as important as any of those. Libraries are wonderful, but they are a luxury.
11490	7/10/2012	They signify and offer information to any who seek it. Their the only truly "available to everyone" public service.
11491	7/10/2012	Because libraries provide free access to information for all people. Libraries are our greatest equalizer.
11492	7/10/2012	Information, current reading materials, a resource dedicated for "READING".
11493	7/10/2012	for the imparting of knowledge.
11494	7/10/2012	Libraries provide necessary materials and resources to people of all income levels. Without them, many children and adults would not have books to read. They also provide computer access, which is becoming even more important every year, since many jobs and resources cannot be accessed without a computer.
11495	7/10/2012	This is the only means for many people to access information, either print or digital.
11496	7/10/2012	They are a nice thing to have, but I would rank most other public services higher in importance.
11497	7/10/2012	As I grow older and start to enter retirement I use the library more and more.
11498	7/10/2012	I have a 16-month-old and a second baby on the way, and I believe its VERY important to inspire young children to read, and to love and cherish books. I want to be able to teach my children how to go to the library to find books they want to read.
11499	7/10/2012	I use the library more weekly or monthly vs. daily.
11500	7/10/2012	I use the local library more than any other public service, except transit.
11501	7/10/2012

11502	7/10/2012	they are an equal opportunity service; anyone from any economic class can easily use the library. Education and learning are so important to allow people to achieve their best, especially with public schools in decay and the still sluggish economy affecting job seekers.
11503	7/10/2012	like schools, libraries are paramount to our community life. they provide a place for anyone to be warm, dry and have access to information.
11504	7/10/2012	Information is valuable and libraries provide access at no cost to everyone. What other service does that?
11505	7/10/2012	Libraries--free access to information and technologies for everyone--are a cornerstone of an informed, literate citizenry. Libraries facilitate an open and democratic society.
11506	7/10/2012	a sense of community, stability in the community centered at the library, in addition to amazing access to anything I want to read, all free (after I've gladly paid my taxes), equal access for everyone in the community, excellent experience for children learning to read, learning to love reading
11507	7/10/2012	Libraries save me money, help me stay informed and entertained, and help me do my job. Keep libraries funded!
11508	7/10/2012	I'd rank library services below health and safety - but they are incredibly important for learning across all ages, providing access to computers, voting pamphlet access and drop-off venues, etc etc etc - everyone should have access to a library and feel welcomed there.
11509	7/10/2012	I'm pursuing my MLIS degree, for one reason. Also, libraries, like public schools, serve to educate their community. Without libraries, only those who can pay for knowledge have access to it. In a democracy, where people need to be educated on what they vote upon, libraries are crucial
11510	7/10/2012	When I am researching a subject or wanting to read a book, I can find it at the library most of the time.
11511	7/10/2012	I can think of other public services such as healthcare and public transportation that are more important. That's it to say education and libraries aren't important, they are just less in comparison
11512	7/10/2012	Because safety services come first, I guess. Next are libraries which I see as a part of our educational system to include anyone, regardless of income.
11513	7/10/2012	IF effectively used, it can be a center around which community can be built. With some sensible guidance, children can perhaps be persuaded to see the library as an alternative place to "hang".
11514	7/10/2012	I relied on them to get my Social Security Data verified and authorized.
11515	7/10/2012	Libraries are fundamental to an educated, democratic, healthy society.
11516	7/10/2012	I worked hard to provide for my family and raise responsible children and we spent many hours at libraries. If it weren't for being able to get books and have access to the library programs, my children may have been on the streets with others.
11517	7/10/2012	Without adequate funding the branches would severely cut back hours or close. Either would be disasterous for many people who need the access.
11518	7/10/2012	society less free without.

11519	7/10/2012	Because there are other ways to acquire information now other than having to visit the library.
11520	7/10/2012	One of the main reasons that I live in Multnomah County is the library system. It is the thing that the county does best.
11521	7/10/2012	I cannot afford an electronic reader or buying a book that I will read only once.
11522	7/10/2012	The library and the librarians provide us with information about and access to books/media that we may not have known about or would not have been able to read. There are books that are important for us that we cannot afford to buy or just want to read. They are a great reliable resource for finding information. They encourage children to read with the programs that they offer and are building a generation of literate citizens who will have the capability to be involved in their community.
11524	7/10/2012	Because the library reaches so many people and meets many different needs. It offers parents a place to bring their children early on to instill the value of literacy and reading. It offers easy computer access to people who might otherwise not have access. Most importantly, library services are essential to maintaining a local community--a safe and educational meeting place for Portland's citizens.
11525	7/10/2012	If it wasn't for the bus system for example I would be able to get to the library that I most use. They go hand in hand. And I wish if the bus fares were cheaper than they are. Even that, I am barely able to afford.
11526	7/10/2012	It is necessary for a community to have access to current materials, resources, and programs to stimulate learning and provide direction for self-help.
11527	7/10/2012	Because of the open access to educational and entertainment materials.
11528	7/10/2012	I don't consider literacy and education a privilege. We visit the library at least weekly for books for our preschooler and myself. Purchasing books at the rate we read would not be affordable in even the most robust of economies. Daily reading has always been apart of my life and I expect to pass that passion on to my daughter.
11529	7/10/2012	Libraries are the reason I'm an interested reader today. We didn't have many books in my home growing up. The library was free, open and a place that I could adventure to mostly on my own as a young person. I want young people today to have that opportunity.
11530	7/10/2012	I'm a bookworm and it's great to be able to get books to read without having to spend tons of money buying them. I also love having foreign language materials to learn with during my free time. They've been a huge help for a Middle Eastern Studies major.

11531	7/10/2012	The library is a safe haven for so many people from all walks of life, a place where young and old alike can stretch their minds and learn how to be critical thinkers. The old saying, "reading is fundamental" is so true. Without well educated people, who will there be to provide all of those other public services?
11532	7/10/2012	Question 7 is confusing - what "other local public services" are you referring to? Police? Schools? Sewage management? All of them? And no matter what your answer is to that, I am not sure what you are trying to measure. Would declaring that Libraries are more important to me than Sewers working right be useful to you? I think a better line of questioning would be clearer re: what the average tax payer would be willing to do to weigh in on how funds are spent.
11533	7/10/2012	Nothing improves a community more than accessibly (free) education and opportunity for everyone.
11534	7/10/2012	Portland's great libraries are a major part of our city's identity. Portlanders are known to be well-read, and take pride in that aspect of our identity. Every time I commute to work on the MAX light rail I see someone reading a book stamped "MULTNOMAH COUNTY LIBRARY". The resources that our library system provides are a major part of maintaining a well-educated and culturally-literate populace.
11535	7/10/2012	Can't answer #7 without identifying the local public services you refer to. Survival trumps libraries, but as an information source and a possible link to services in a community, a library could be a hub.
11536	7/10/2012	It's free, it's accessible and it attracts all ages
11537	7/10/2012	That's what we use.
11538	7/10/2012	I think the availability of books is crucial to an informed society.
11539	7/10/2012	Because I use them extensively
11540	7/10/2012	Knowledge repository for society that is equitably accessible. Locus of community.
11541	7/10/2012	Because I read.
11542	7/10/2012	I don't at this time have a need for other public services
11543	7/10/2012	a library is non-discriminating, open to everyone. As I said previously, it is because libraries fulfill their mission while many other public services do not. Parks also fulfill their mission, as do fire departments. Sadly, the courts, schools, police, and city bureaucracies all share a spot on the list of ineffective public services.
11544	7/10/2012	I primarily use the online.
11546	7/10/2012	Because if you can't afford to purchase a book at least one can go to the library and rent it for a period of time.
11547	7/10/2012	They are not as crucial as timely emergency fire and medical services and such, but they are very important in providing all members of the community access to quality educational and self-improvement materials - it is a very basic right.
11548	7/10/2012	fun place to feel connected to community; free access to entertainment and education (DVDs and books)

11549	7/10/2012	fire, police, and roads rank above well above libraries - I believe that the libraries could be open less and on a rotating schedule - so that there is some library is open each day but not all of them,
11550	7/10/2012	Having a high quality public library system is an important part of the quality of life we have here.
11551	7/10/2012	Because of the way the library can and does meet the needs of so many people
11552	7/10/2012	information access! everyone should read more to use their imagination
11553	7/10/2012	it's not a service I or my family use. most times what we need is the internet and the computers designated for this are all in use, or the time frame is not enough for my child doing a school project.
11554	7/10/2012	If in "local public services" you include social services, then feeding and housing people and keeping them safe have to come ahead of libraries, but libraries are important.
11555	7/10/2012	Our libraries are fundamental to quality of life, educational opportunity (especially where schools are also underfunded!), and community life.
11556	7/10/2012	Libraries are for everyone. Access to information to all people in our community ensures personal growth, educational opportunities, culture, and history is open to all without financial or transportation barriers.
11557	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and I love books. Other public services are as important especially police and fire for our safety, but the library is what makes us citizens of the world. It allows us to read and explore other places and learn about other cultures all while we stay here in Multnomah County.
11558	7/10/2012	Having access to libraries as a child was essential in fostering my love of literature & reading. Access to a variety of engaging books & materials is irreplaceable for children in all communities.
11559	7/10/2012	I use my library only slightly more often than I use sidewalks and roads (and I'm on my bike every day). I trust them more than I trust the police. Most importantly, a properly-funded library has the opportunity to serve a diverse community with myriad needs.
11560	7/10/2012	I can't say a library is more important than police and fire protection, or unemployment services, or social services - even though I'd like to...
11561	7/10/2012	Everything is free! If I am patient and willing to occasionally wait on a hold list, I can read any book I want, listen to any CD or audiobook I want, and watch any DVD I want - all for free. I have no need to fill up my already-crowded home by buying these things. I'm not the type of person who re-reads books, either - there are so many wonderful new things coming out every day! I love that my tax dollars make these materials available to me and to other Portlanders. Also, while most "public services" are useful, the library is useful and FUN!
11562	7/10/2012	I believe that libraries are necessary for children and low-income individuals who can benefit from the resources that they have to offer. It's a way for the people to educate themselves and socially interact with others that seek the same things.
11563	7/10/2012	I love to read and I love seeing children love to read. A world of knowledge is open to everyone regardless of income level of family, etc.

11564	7/10/2012	I read every day. Being able to go online and place holds on books that I hear about is such a wonderful convenience. I have a chronic illness that is very painful, so having easy access to my library is critical.
11565	7/10/2012	Our library system enables and sustains a quality of life I hold dear and am raising my children to value. They are being shaped and nurtured through the library's resources---resources I could never afford to pay for on my own.
11566	7/10/2012	Because local libraries are a center for information, education and escape, dream (fiction). I would qualify their services vital for a community.
11567	7/10/2012	I use the library more than any other service offered in this community. It's the great equalizer offering value regardless of age, genders, race, income, sexual orientation, physical ability, etc. My quality of life and that of my community is enriched by our library system.
11568	7/10/2012	they are important resources for all aspects of my life.
11569	7/10/2012	medium
11570	7/10/2012	The only way we grow as a society is to be educated, and to be educated you need access to reliable information.
11571	7/10/2012	I check out books and movies that I would not otherwise purchase or rent
11572	7/10/2012	What is Life without READING Good Books ????
11573	7/10/2012	I use the library more than most other services (unless we're including roads...).
11574	7/10/2012	My family uses the library for books and sometimes DVDs and have since the 1960s. My daughter and I have both volunteered at our local branch, Midland.
11575	7/10/2012	Because I use them ALL THE TIME.
11576	7/10/2012	Provides books I wAnt to read.
11577	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to a library and its resources!
11578	7/10/2012	They provide access to materials for people that otherwise would not have them.
11579	7/10/2012	i highly value reading and learning in general for myself and everyone in the community. free public library services encourages and facilitates learning partly by being readily available and free.
11580	7/10/2012	Books enrich lives in a way that nothing else can. They entertain, inform and educate. A life without access to books is a shadow of what it could be.
11581	7/10/2012	My family and friends use the library ALL THE TIME. I'm there a couple of times a week, checking out books, audiobooks, music, movies. My kids love the summer reading program. It's a wonderful resource for everyone.
11582	7/10/2012	Libraries connect us in so many ways - they provide us with tools and resources - particularly for those folks who may not have certain resources and access.
11583	7/10/2012	Without a listing of other public servies, it would be hard to give an exact ranking. I believe I would put it just below the basic necessities (water, sewer, trash, schools). A well-funded library system is vital.
11584	7/10/2012	Because there are alternative services I prefer and I don't like high taxes.

11585	7/10/2012	Because they contribute to literacy and a sense of community. They are essential for a democratic republic to actually exist. The replacement of respectful, caring, rational, factual public discussion of national, statewide and local issues with lies, ad hominem attacks, incitements of prejudices, trash-talking and immature insults stops us from solving our serious problems and re-asserts an ugly, violent, all war all the time world which most people are ready to replace with the peaceful world we have cultivated within ourselves. Are you too lazy to do your emotional homework and get rid of that beast within?
11586	7/10/2012
11587	7/10/2012	Beleive that everyone should have free access to books.
11588	7/10/2012	We LOVE our library!
11589	7/10/2012	For the sense of community.
11590	7/10/2012	Access to information for folks that can't afford it. Our libraries are a cultural resource for the entire community.
11591	7/10/2012	Crucial. I can't afford to buy books and don't have a television. I read over 100 books a year, all checked out from the library. Also very important is being able to place a hold and have a book delivered to my local branch.
11592	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader. I may buy 10 books a year, but I use hundreds from the library each year. I also love the online resources such as audio books, music and language tutors.
11593	7/10/2012	The local library serves as an instrumental tool for educating the community
11594	7/10/2012	I think it is important for everyone to have access to knowledge regardless of their income.
11595	7/10/2012	I love the library and I love the idea of the library as a publicly funded collection of literature and knowledge that is available to everyone.
11596	7/10/2012	Even though I have not been using the library a great deal lately, I am extremely aware of how critically important library services are to others (e.g. Counseling clients). Also, I have a brand new grandchild and am looking forward to using the library a great deal w/ him. Libraries have been important to me my entire life.
11597	7/10/2012	An educated, well informed citizenry is essential for a better community, one that is nicer to live in.
11598	7/10/2012	a well informed public is the mainstay of a democratic society
11599	7/10/2012	We use this as one of our primary means of entertainment for ourselves and the children. It's a very easy way to access reading material and community programs for no cost. When you are on a tight budget it is a life saver and it keeps us connected to our community.
11600	7/10/2012	Because they provide a significant educational resource for citizens to remain informed at a time when such opportunities are scarce.
11601	7/10/2012	An essential element of a neighborhood or town.
11602	7/10/2012	I am a school librarian & use MCL to preview purchases, research, even to help catalogue. I also borrow & resend research titles that our school cannot afford or that may be too recondite for general use.
11603	7/10/2012	If you can read you can do or learn to do anything.

11604	7/10/2012	Police, fire, basic infrastructure, and the public school system are more important. The library system is more important than all other public services that occur to me right now.
11605	7/10/2012	It is the community resource my family uses the most. My children will grow up with our neighborhood being a big part of their lives.
11606	7/10/2012	They provide equal access to information and learning opportunities.
11607	7/10/2012	because the library give people that can't normally gain access to other materials can with the library
11608	7/10/2012	I believe libraries are the most important resource in any community. I do not vote for most taxes/levies, but I always do for the library, and I always will. The acquisition of and access to knowledge is what makes us civilized, I think.
11609	7/10/2012	The library provides a service to me that I am not able to get at home - for example, internet connection & printing ability. That's personal to me - it's about the only local public service I use besides the bus!
11610	7/10/2012	If we are comparing access to libraries to trash pick up, recycling, street cleaning, etc., libraries are less important than vital services that ensure safety, public health, etc.
11611	7/10/2012	Specifically to me, libraries are important because they offer access to expensive scholarly books and periodicals. Otherwise, libraries are important for keeping culture alive and accessible to all.
11612	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to information for EVERYONE. I have been using public libraries for a long time and have found them to be essential to my life. I rely on libraries for information, help with research, entertainment - in short, they broaden my world. The library resources are not enough, though, without competent, user-friendly staff to help the community user to navigate the system.
11613	7/10/2012	To help build a more eductated electorate
11614	7/10/2012	It is a free service which provides me with countless hours of enjoyment through participation in programs and book reading. I DO NOT USE THE COMPUTER for pleasure reading and rarely for research. I love books. I love their feel. I love their smell. I enhance my personal library with copies of library books I've borrowed and wish to reread The library is simply part of my varied and lovely life; in fact, my present home was selected in small part because of it's proximity to the Hollywood branch.
11615	7/10/2012	The MCL nurtures our community, Access to such a fine array of programs for all people is essential.[] [] It is a haven people turn to when they don't have other resources.
11616	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of the few services that benefit everyone rather than smaller subsets of our population. They also represent a positive, growth oriented service vs. addressing a social, personal, or cultural need or deficiency.
11617	7/10/2012	Because ignorance is this wealthy society is unacceptable. Cost and who pays for it is irrelevant.

11618	7/10/2012	Creates a sense of community and serves as a resource for research and ongoing career development.
11619	7/10/2012	Very high.
11620	7/10/2012	It's important that information and literature is accessible to all.
11621	7/10/2012	This is a tangible service that builds community, learning, and education
11622	7/10/2012	Because they make it so that not only people who can afford books can read books.
11623	7/10/2012	As important as books and library services are, they do not deliver direct care or assistance to those with immediate needs.
11624	7/10/2012	Personally, they are at a very high level of importance, because I don't make use of many other local public services, but I understand that those services are vital to other people and probably outrank the library for them.
11625	7/10/2012	It's great to have that resource in your neighborhood.
11626	7/10/2012	There are those who still love to read; a lifetime passion for many. Bookstores and online stores are too expensive for most people; especially young parents with children and seniors.
11627	7/10/2012	Just below critical services.
11628	7/10/2012	Library offers free access to books and information. Comes along with a sense of community and shared learning/enjoyment that one does not find on the internet.
11629	7/10/2012	The library is a place for free learning, I place the library with other education (K-12), right under Public Health and Safety (clean water, police, fire and rescue) on my list of priorities for public services.
11630	7/10/2012	Most economic way to keep informed via use of media.
11631	7/10/2012	I am a retired senior and I read daily. I checkout books, audio books and read newspapers there. It is a place for me to go and relax and read periodicals. I can't buy every book I want and so I depend on the library.
11632	7/10/2012	They're somewhat important to me because I want the resource to be there especially for kids that perhaps cannot afford to buy the books, ebooks, internet access, etc. I personally don't use the physical library buildings very much anymore, but still appreciate being able to check out books online that I cannot afford or want to explore before investing in.
11633	7/10/2012	I love to read and I appreciate the wide selection the libraries offer. It's sustainable not to have to buy the books, allows you to try different types of books and authors.
11634	7/10/2012	Self improvement it possible for the poor namely myself
11635	7/10/2012	I'm not sure what's included with other local public services. there is such a range. Some are perhaps more important than libraries, especially if they involve health, welfare, and safety. However, libraries are very important in helping young people to learn to read, providing access to books for the elderly, and providing internet access and other resources for people who don't have computers.

11636	7/10/2012	I've been a library attendee all my life (I'm 51 now). I have always loved to read and feel it's critical for communities to provide children with books and places to read them. I also participated in a program to help look for work over 25 years ago, and learned some important information about myself then.
11637	7/10/2012	My daughter and I are students and we need access to books, research tools, etc.
11638	7/10/2012	Libraries are a community meeting place and center, a way to help educate society, an invaluable resource for those not able to afford reading material/education/access to internet/job seekers.
11639	7/10/2012	Less important then police, fire, medical and education services, but still essential for any community.
11640	7/10/2012	My first thought was that libraries were the most important public service to me, personally--for my own life. But then I realized that they are not as important as the things I take for granted, such as roads and clean water. So other than that basic survival stuff, the library is the most important. It gives people from all backgrounds and economic status and situations (etc etc etc) equal access to so much information, entertainment, and knowledge.
11641	7/10/2012	I am one of those adults who loved to read as a child. I grew up on a farm in Iowa and eagerly awaited the days the local bookmobile visited my nearby town of 26 people. As an adult, I consider literacy as essential as food and shelter. I've seen the effects on one's life from growing up illiterate or losing their reading skills due to brain injury. The library is a window to the world for many people.
11642	7/10/2012	Offering library services is vital to the mental health of a community and promotes civic discourse.
11643	7/10/2012	I think the library is a fundamental civic institution.
11644	7/10/2012	Books should always be accessible for free.
11645	7/10/2012	They represent an intersection between education, economy and community- which gives them the potential to serve a higher purpose and impact a broad range of people.
11646	7/10/2012	Because I value the service libraries provide for my neighborhood.
11647	7/10/2012	I would say very important, however, I am not education to know what other local public services exist in totality. Community services are all important. Having options for growth and bring people together should be priority.
11648	7/10/2012	reduce expense of purchasing books and other materials.
11649	7/10/2012	This is an opportunity for all people to be informed.
11650	7/10/2012	The library is the only source that provides what they provide.
11651	7/10/2012	As prices increase and salaries and government services decrease, places and service like the library will be more important than ever, the difference between 1 person buying a book or paying for internet service vs. 20 or 100 people sharing the same book or computer terminal. Yes, we pay taxes but that saves us all money in the long term.
11652	7/10/2012	to stop the dumbing down of society
11653	7/10/2012	I think keeping well maintained parks and park programing is of equal importance.

11654	7/10/2012	Reading is important! One gains knowledge (which is power), has the opportunity to experience new worlds, etc. Also, computer access for those who don't have a computer is vital in this day and age. Also, getting young kids involved in reading will benefit them greatly in the future.
11655	7/10/2012	People who have access to books are more literate. Those who are more literate may contribute and give back to society more.
11656	7/10/2012	I use the library for a litany of things: checking out new reading material, music, and movies; classes and workshops; computers; photocopying; research.
11657	7/10/2012	They aren't life sustaining but improve the quality of life
11658	7/10/2012	While I don't use our local library all that often, I consider it extremely important. A more tolerant, better educated populace matters to me a great deal and I think local libraries play an important role in that.
11659	7/10/2012	We use the library on almost a daily basis. It is our first line of defense against suppression of free speech and our "go to" for information.
11660	7/10/2012	People that do not have access to computers, books, periodicals would be left without a place to get these resources. Helping people improve makes for a better society.
11661	7/10/2012	Library books and media are one of my primary sources of entertainment. The library has been my favorite place since was 5 years old - almost 60 years ago. Now my grandchildren are enjoying the story times and books at the Multnomah County Library.
11662	7/10/2012	I appreciate having so many books at my children's disposal. I like that the fact that we can borrow certain books for a little while and then give it back for someone else to use. It is a great way to explore different topics and areas of the world without completely overwhelming my house. As a avid reader myself, I like the fact that I can encourage my children's love of reading through the library.
11663	7/10/2012	If necessary, I do have the private resources to purchase some portion of what I borrow from the library, so it's not at the highest level.[] [] However, I enjoy the library's resources (and even the Central Library itself), and I do go there every 2-3 weeks to check out resources. It's part of my life.
11664	7/10/2012	They increase the social value and self-reliance of the neighborhood. Democracy and freedom are directly proportional to the availability and diversity of literature to the public, which the library provides.
11665	7/10/2012	It's a great service.

11667	7/10/2012	Because of my need for internet access and also my new desire to learn about my heritage
11668	7/10/2012	Professionally, if I could not access all our library offers, my career would be severely hampered. But more than that, I know that Portland has more immigrant families, more kids living in poverty, more adults seeking jobs, an aging senior population--and ALL of those folks depend on the library, in different ways. Cutting library services is short-term savings with great long-term detriment, probably unmeasurable but certain to have deep effects on education and employment across the community for years to come.
11669	7/10/2012	We are an unschooling family that places a lot of importance in self-directed learning. The library is essential to our ability to continue our learning as a family. Our visits are a primary part of our week.
11670	7/10/2012	Libraries are community anchors.
11671	7/10/2012	utility and roads--way more important. I can always get reading material somewhere else. i only have so much money which i can spend and still afford to live in oregon. funding of library is a luxury not an requirement to live.
11672	7/10/2012	I love them and think they encourage me and my kids to read!
11673	7/10/2012	Very.
11674	7/10/2012	place for study, learning and enjoyment
11675	7/10/2012	DEFCON ZERO
11676	7/10/2012	Literacy and access to free learning materials trickles down to all other levels of society.
11677	7/10/2012	access to books for all incomes
11678	7/10/2012	knowledge is important
11679	7/10/2012	Great way to stay connected to community and access to books and media.
11680	7/10/2012	Need for information
11681	7/10/2012	Libraries give everyone access to important materials that generally make life better. I learned to read through my local library and I always participated in summer reading programs. The library was always a safe, comforting place for me to go as a child.
11682	7/10/2012	I don't know.

11683	7/10/2012	I wouldn't place them above police and fire, but they are important, especially for those with limited abilities to buy all their own books, CDs, & DVDs.
11684	7/10/2012	First, it would depend on the other public services you're talking about. It's really important to me because I love to read and listen to books on CD. There is no way I could afford to read as much or listen as much as I do if I had to purchase everything. I always did the summer reading programs as a kid and attended the different activities offered.
11685	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. Resources are empowering. While it is more and more common to do most things online, I and many others do not have access or financial ability to have online capabilities all the time or at all. I need the library for the resource and community.
11686	7/10/2012	While I don't use the library much at this time in my life, there have been many times (childhood, unemployment, etc) where my local library was extremely important to me. I wouldn't want others to be deprived of such a valuable resource.
11687	7/10/2012	it allows people who need access to information, knowledge and resources to obtain them for free. i consider it my #1 priority in local public services.
11688	7/10/2012	Access to information and education should not be reserved for those lucky enough to be able to afford it.
11689	7/10/2012	The library is the only government funded entity I've named in my will. That says it all.
11690	7/10/2012	For access to general information, free entertainment media (and somewhat rare, e.g. foreign films, documentaries, etc.), and for a sense of community.
11691	7/10/2012	Libraries are basic to a functional democracy. I like democracy.
11692	7/10/2012	I'm out of bookshelf space at home so having a way to borrow books has become more critical for me.
11693	7/10/2012	Most important to me are infrastructure maintenance, followed by safety, then libraries.
11694	7/10/2012	I get books I need to read for English at the library, and I get other interesting books there as well.
11695	7/10/2012	Culturally enriching.
11696	7/10/2012	Police and fire first, utilities second, libraries third.
11697	7/10/2012	They are a community asset that helps us access information we need to be good citizens, use leisure productively, and raise our children to be creative and curious.
11698	7/10/2012	They are available to all. Almost everyone is aware of what the libraries offer so it's also a wonderful way to distribute information about additional community offerings.
11699	7/10/2012	Library services are essential!
11700	7/10/2012	Again, it would be more important to me if it didn't seem to serve as a day shelter for young panhandlers, vagrants and people whom I believe to be a health hazard. Eliminate being able to bring in large backpacks and duffle bags. And please, no smoking on the stairs leading up to the Central Library. The entire block should be no smoking.
11701	7/10/2012	Filling a pot hole helps your car ---- keeping your library open changes lives.

11702	7/10/2012	I use the library occasionally for myself. I consider access to information a basic necessity in a fair society.
11703	7/10/2012	I grew up in a library family. We didn't have much money and the library was free, plus it encouraged great reading habits. Our family always went together to the library. I've been a lifelong reader for 35+ years. And my mom is a librarian.
11704	7/10/2012	I think there are other services that provide more basic, immediate needs, but libraries are necessary as a centralized, assisted knowledge and reference center. Basically, the library itself is just a collection of books, easily matched by websites. The librarians are your true resource, assisting, suggesting, and teaching people.
11705	7/10/2012	The library provides an unending resource for all. It is a gathering place. It can open s to so many different areas of learning, understanding and growth that I can't say enough about it. A library was my first destination when I had access to a bike. The first summer I was there every day. So much so that the librarians "let" me shelve books, a distinct privilege! I was allowed access to what was referred to as the junior high room two years earlier than most. That was where I developed a love of historical fiction that continues.
11706	7/10/2012	Knowledge & education, such as is available throught the many library services, is the basis of community well-being and the basis for the most informed & wise choices in all other areas of community & civic life.
11707	7/10/2012	I require research materials for my work as a graphic designer to help inform, educate and generate ideas. Can't rely solely on the internet where I the source material is not always clearly cited or known. There is also something incredibly inspiring about the tactile quality of books. Also, saves money. It's not always necessary or desired to purchase books.
11708	7/10/2012	Libraries are a collective resource for so much information. My library was my initial conduit to my introduction when I first moved here. I could ask the questions I had and be directed to more specific resources.

11709	7/10/2012	I believe all people, regardless of income level, should have access to information and the exchange of ideas. The library enables everyone in the community to do this. My own income is limited, so I am picky about what printed material I purchase. I love being able to explore a wide range of genres and ideas through the library and then purchase those that truly connect with me. In addition, I have often found I can access materials of interest through the library that are simply not available through commercial avenues such as mainstream booksellers or mainstream video outlets. As a teacher, I value the educational resources the library provides, encouraging young readers to maintain their skills over the summer. I teach at a Title I school and many of my students would not have access to reading material at their level if it weren't for the library. Many of my students also do not have access to online resources at home, and, in working with their families, I am acutely aware of the digital divide that can present obstacles to low-income job-seekers. Often, the library is the resource that helps them overcome these obstacles. ¶ ¶ As a writer, I have found the library's online research tools to be invaluable assets, providing access to much more in-depth materials than a simple Google search, and without the hidden profit-driven controls that some online searches involve. I have a number of friends with physical limitations and transportation limitations who make extensive use of the library's homebound delivery services. As a professional actor and an audio producer, my husband often uses the library to find video and audio resources for projects he is working on.¶
11710	7/10/2012	It is a great resource for the community. A way for individuals to access materials that would be more expensive with out this service. A sign of health and education for the community. That being said I am positive that there are more creative ways to fund the library. For example: cutting some paid staff and making use of volunteers, cutting salaries at the top of the scale, charging for shipping costs of materials, increasing late fees, cutting the things that are "extras"...
11711	7/10/2012	Because I have found an advantage to using them as an alternative to always using coffeeshops. When researching, language learning, or diving into some work I need to focus on....pastries, music, too much coffee, and socializing are distracting. I used to bury myself in bowels of PSU library when had to focus on something to get done. Anywhere else - home, friends places, parks, cafes - I can get distracted by pleasant other things to do. Libraries are a pool of information - the surroundings encourage you to focus on your learning. ¶ And the people are so helpful for whatever I want - when job hunting, there's no pressure to buy books there's just encouragemnt to get something done. It's subliminal. If we all pay for the libraries ourselves - it's our taxes, and we want them like we want parks for fun outdoors and good roads for safe travel for our cars - why can't we have save, data-stocked, study, meeting, learning and community centers called libraries?
11712	7/10/2012	I check a lot of books out at the library and this is a large part of my entertainment.
11713	7/10/2012	Libraries are the keepers of our culture.
11714	7/10/2012	Love keeping current with books and videos. Love downloading audible books.
11715	7/10/2012	Reading is the basis of being a successful member of society--without it, it's awfully hard. At their core, this is the mission of the libraries, and the access is free and equitable to all who seek it out.

11716	7/10/2012	open access to books for everyone
11717	7/10/2012	While the library is essential for building stronger communities and encouraging literacy, other public services meet more basic and immediate needs (food, clothing, shelter).
11718	7/10/2012	Because I believe valuing reading and education are essential and carry no price tag too high.
11719	7/10/2012	Access to materials for low income families is crucial. Community gathering places not focused on alcohol or athletics is crucial.
11720	7/10/2012	I am a stay at home mom and I depend upon the library as part of my weekly routine.
11721	7/10/2012	Because people can get ALL kinds of information at the library.
11722	7/10/2012	access to informtion for all people no matter their circumstances
11723	7/10/2012	An informed citizenry is the cornerstone of democracy AND knowledge is power.
11724	7/10/2012	They are something that I use very often. They enrich the lives of all the users. How can a community not support the collection and distribution of knowledge?
11725	7/10/2012	I'm a reader, libraries have always been an important part of my life. They are community centers, sources of knowledge, information, new ideas. I love all the work MCL does to reach out to youth, job-seekers, seniors, etc.
11726	7/10/2012	I have lived all over the world and this is perhaps the top library system that i have ever encountered.[] The access to media from books to recordings to films is unsurpassed and..as i become ever more conscious of dwindling resources(paper, etc.) i try to buy fewer and fewer books but..still love to read almost more then anything else and so...the ability to access so much from my local library is a treasure that is beyond words.
11727	7/10/2012	It's extremely difficult to compare e.g. police or fire services with the public service a library provides. However, I believe that education is the key to regional (and national) prosperity, and libraries continue to provide resources to people in our community from all walks of life, all incomes and education levels, to help them be good citizens and active participants in civic life.
11728	7/10/2012	Libraries are access to information, equally available to all. Without them, ignorance spreads, and people who need information are left without it.
11729	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power, if you do not have that at your fingertips where do you go from there?
11730	7/10/2012	Anything that encourages learning and exposure to new and different ideas is a valuable resource.
11731	7/10/2012	Easy access, easy to use, easy to get information if needing other public services, etc.
11732	7/10/2012	Provide access to all variety of knowledge to people who might not be able to get it otherwise
11733	7/10/2012	Because knowledge should always be accessible to everyone.
11734	7/10/2012	It is a vital resource of information, entertainment and ideas for an individual on a limited income. I am happy to pay the tax to keep it open.
11735	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently. It is where I go for entertainment and information. Of the public services ,after roads, it is the one I use most often. In the past thirty years I have used Police twice Emergency Services three times, but I am at the library at least twice every week.

11736	7/10/2012	Our family can access seemingly unlimited educational resources without paying more than we already do in taxes, which is a bargain!
11737	7/10/2012	It provides access to books and videos that we would not otherwise be able to read and see. My children are opened to other worlds, etc, with their library access.
11738	7/10/2012	N/A
11739	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time to learn about a wide variety of things and improve my quality of life. One of my core beliefs is that it improves sustainable living to have collectively owned resources like books so that everyone has access, the general public is more well-informed, and there is no need for everyone to own all the books they read.
11740	7/10/2012	Like I wrote before, the library is a wonderful tool for the community. However, because of our economic situation, certain programs are more vital than others right now.
11741	7/10/2012	Everyone having access to materials and services that allow us to participate in educating ourselves and our families is extremely important to keeping us engaged with our culture and each other. There's so much information out there, and it makes sense that there are some central locations in our community that we can access that information without having to pay a lot of money. I think it's so important that there's a system of sharing in place. We all don't need to have in our possession at home all of these books, materials, etc. Nor would we be able to. But sharing and having access to them makes a lot of sense.¶ I also think it's vital that we care for each other by sharing in this way, not all people can afford to have a computer at home, or some people don't have a home and they need a place to connect to the world, both in person and online. It is crucial to me that those who would otherwise not be connected have a safe and free place to do so. ¶ Libraries to me are a piece of the heart of a community, they are places where everyone is welcome and has access to information and tools. We need them to thrive and we need them not just surviving as entities, but thriving.
11742	7/10/2012	libraries need to again become a community institution instead of a place for books. i see that becoming a reality at the Midland branch, however, there are many social / public services which will always remain at the forefront of importance (police, fire, medical) which must not be cut in order to provide local library services.
11743	7/10/2012	As I stated I use the library on a monthly bases. I love the convenience of being able to put books on hold and be notified by mail. I don't know how it could be more convenient. The library has so much to offer it astounds me that everyone dosen't have some use for it. I think they do but just haven't figured it out!
11744	7/10/2012	I have two small children and they need the experience of a library. Let them hold a book in their hands, instead of a computer or a gameboy and what not.
11745	7/10/2012	They drive economic growth
11746	7/10/2012	Not life and death or safety
11747	7/10/2012	I read a lot and appreciate the level of service the library offers.

11748	7/10/2012	It's important that the community has a venue to learn and read and explore.
11749	7/10/2012	I read constantly and love my local library.
11750	7/10/2012	Intellectual growth of the community
11751	7/10/2012	Important resource for people in need, also a great way to encourage reading for children. I enjoy and take advantage of it, but I wouldn't call it a "necessity" - however if I were lower income or otherwise in need, I'd be even more grateful that libraries are here.
11752	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a sanctuary for all residents regardless of income & educational level.
11753	7/10/2012	They provide something for everyone. Reading is incredibly important and having librarians with knowledge to direct people in what they need to know, is priceless. Libraries are a resource that may not be fully utilized, but should be.
11754	7/10/2012	Well, libraries aren't strictly a necessity (utilities, safety, transportation, etc.). But they offer a place for everyone in a community. They offer unlimited knowledge and resources. Their number one goal isn't profit or pushing any sort of agenda. They exist solely to inform, support, and give opportunities to those who need them.
11755	7/10/2012	They give ready access to books and CDs
11756	7/10/2012	I constantly rely on the library to stay up to date for work, for research, and to improve my language skills. My child attends the programs for young people. I often use the library as a place to work and get my work done. I am constantly needing to check out and return books. Much of my information and media is from the library.
11757	7/10/2012	My family and I have access to knowledge, learning, exploration and encouraging curiosity with the library available to us .
11758	7/10/2012	It is a bogus question. Too general, what other services specifically?
11759	7/10/2012	The Internet provides information and resources I used to go to the library to get.
11760	7/10/2012	Could live without the library. Would not want to live without police, fire, transportation, sewer and utility services.
11761	7/10/2012	They are a vital resource for low income and homeless to use the tools for self sufficiency.
11762	7/10/2012	i use the library system to access culture of all kinds--print, film, music, news, and internet information. the presence of free assistance to job seekers, seniors, children, adolescents, and new community members is vital to a successful community.
11763	7/10/2012	Because I read!!!
11764	7/10/2012	it allows me to have resources such as books, movies, music that i can enjoy without having to spend a whole lot of money
11765	7/10/2012	The access to resources that one is not able to afford such as books, magazines, newspapers, computer access, etc. is a way for people to improve themselves and their opportunities.
11766	7/10/2012	Libraries act as the center of cultural exchange, self improvement and access to vital information for our neighborhoods. They are the lynchpin that hold our communities together.

11767	7/10/2012	Because it is the only institution left that is truly free to everyone regardless of whatever. And it ties the community. And it is the most environmentally friendly of all institutions by the fact that it RE-USE materials (books, DVDs, etc.) over and over again.
11768	7/10/2012	Without a literate, informed citizenry, our entire community's quality of life deteriorates. Public, free libraries are a primary source for staying informed, expanding our awareness, increasing our literacy and education.
11769	7/10/2012	They are quite important to us, but we happen to not be in need of many other public services.
11770	7/10/2012	That's where I get 95% of my reading material. I like being able to find and request materials I want to read. When my internet is down or computer not working and I get internet access.
11771	7/10/2012	They provide access to print resources that are otherwise not accessible unless through purchase which isn't always feasible on my student budget. I also have enjoyed participating in some of the community events sponsored by the library. I took my Little Sis in to get her library card and she was able to check out several reading books, a couple movies and listening CDs. It's such a wonderful community resource!
11772	7/10/2012	See my previous comment. The library gives me not only the joy I get from reading but the ability to learn about new things that affect both my own and my family's everyday living. I have checked out books on gardening/herbs, health issues, making non-toxic beauty products, dancing, fitness, parenting and more. Recreationally, personally and professionally I have grown because of the access the library provides to get these materials free of charge.
11773	7/10/2012	Multnomah county library system provides many important services that help the members of our community and goes hand in hand with other services the county and state provide for it's citizens. People who need access to the internet for job related searches can use the library. Citizenship classes, summer reading programs, and so many more services that help provide resources and programs that otherwise we as a community would not have access to.
11774	7/10/2012	Libraries are of greatest importance for children's books. Otherwise, I do not see the library as critical. Adults lending is more complicated because of the holds and short periods books can be kept for popular books. I use it only for the children.
11775	7/10/2012	With school funding suffering we at least need to have this resource available!
11776	7/10/2012	It's a public service that is open and accessible to the public, which provides education, entertainment, and community. You can walk in and get the same books and services if you're poor or wealthy, no matter what you look like. This is why I say that a social service like this uplifts all of society - if you give opportunities both for advancement and enjoyment to the lowest common denominator of society, you lift the whole of society.
11777	7/10/2012	it is an invaluable resource, particularly in lower income neighborhoods.
11778	7/10/2012	Community connections, the beauty of the library
11779	7/10/2012	It is a great opportunity for under-privileged individuals to get information and resources inaccessible by them otherwise.

11780	7/10/2012	An educated populace is vital to our nation's well-being.
11781	7/10/2012	I use this important service frequently.
11782	7/10/2012	I use these frequently. I seem them as vitally important to a community for adults and children.
11783	7/10/2012	I value library services and what a library represents. Education and literacy and ridiculously important.
11784	7/10/2012	I only use the library "in person" so local services are important.
11785	7/10/2012	Educational resources are undervalued in our society. We should be doing anything and everything to encourage and make available educational resources to our youth.
11786	7/10/2012	Literacy, education, knowledge, access = better society in general.
11787	7/10/2012	Not vital to the sustainability of society, but important as an access point for education and growth.
11788	7/10/2012	I read alot, and get DVD's from the library. It saves me so much money to be able to get books and DVDs from there.
11789	7/10/2012	Because they're not that good. If you want to see a good library, go to Ames, Iowa. Those guys run a good library. The libraries here are pretty disappointing.
11790	7/10/2012	"civilization"
11791	7/10/2012	Personally, because my family cannot afford to own ALL the books that we want to read. Being able to check them out from the library means we can indulge our literary habits without breaking our budget. We are also a homeschooling family, and the library is a valuable resource for teaching my children.[] [] On a more broad level, I think it's tremendously important for people who might not otherwise be able to have access to the Internet and the programs the library provides.
11792	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer, and have an important role to play in allowing everyone an opportunity to access information. From books to the Internet I think it's very important to continue this service.
11793	7/10/2012	Reading, literacy, a community meeting place - I would be lost without a library.
11794	7/10/2012	Public libraries are democratic; everyone has the same access to information and gateway to knowledge, regardless of socioeconomic status, race, educational attainment, or disability. They support lifelong learning, and allow us to discover so much about our world.
11795	7/10/2012	I use them the most.
11796	7/10/2012	provide services not readily available outside of the public domain
11797	7/10/2012	I use the library for research, access to books and mutimedia materials, reference materials, access to DVDs and music CDs, access to language lessons, access to computers and the internet, job search resources, geneology resources, and much more

11798	7/10/2012	Public safety has to come first (police, maintenance to roads and sidewalks, 911, etc.) because while most people do not need the resources all the time, it is critical for them to be available when you do need them. The library is a close second though because it can be used all the time by ALL people - it is very important to help support the MIND of ALL people, as well as the public safety of these same people.
11799	7/10/2012	As I mentioned before, my husband has been without work for a few months. The Library provides us the opportunity to read, learn, etc. at rates we can really afford.
11800	7/10/2012	I feel that our libraries serve an important civic function. The library keeps everyone informed without trying to push an agenda. It also inspires children to learn. With school libraries being unfunded and very poorly supplied, the public libraries also fill that role.
11801	7/10/2012	The library has great resources, open to everyone. I'm constantly amazed by how involved the Mult Co libraries are in the community.
11802	7/10/2012	I think it would be horrible to not have a library, but I don't need it to be open every day. I don't really have any library emergencies.
11803	7/10/2012	People with limited resources like not having Internet or ability to buy or rent books and movies as well as shut ins would grow even more isolated and uninformed.
11804	7/10/2012	Libraries play a unique role. They have an impact across the community, equalize access to material and support education.
11805	7/10/2012	I'm not sure what other public services we are comparing libraries to, but I believe libraries are a vital resource for parents with young children and for lower-income families to promote reading and literacy.
11806	7/10/2012	access to information on all subjects is key to supporting an educated society, and keeping people empowered to improve their lives, this country and the world.
11807	7/10/2012	I depend on the library for information and media due to my income. Books and DVDs enhance the quality of my life as a senior citizen. Allows my budget and income to balance. Prior to this, I had never used a library the way I benefit as I do now. I realize that libraries are very important for learning and for democracy.
11808	7/10/2012	I think that literacy, love of learning, and access to information are invaluable to a free society
11809	7/10/2012	Books and libraries transform lives, and they also can assist people in escaping poverty.

11810	7/10/2012	Well, perhaps just now, because of Ray Bradbury's death (and his Fahrenheit 451 in particular) , I am thinking about how people do not have the wherewithal to afford books, even paperback books.. how awful would it be if we were to lose our libraries.. where would I BE without the years of Library experience from those early years in Palo Alto when I was just a small child to here, in retirement some 64 years later, in Portland, Oregon.. the Library has carried me out of myself on long journeys solo and on any number of occasions.. I own a Kindle now.. but I am SO familiar with the SMELL of the library, the ambiance of the long shelves stacked with books, containing GOD knows what? Grab one off the shelf and see for yourself. And dear Rupert Brooke's The Old Vicarage always makes me think of my Library in Palo Alto.[] [] Say, is there Beauty yet to find? [] And Certainty? and Quiet kind? [] Deep meadows yet, for to forget [] The lies, and truths, and pain?... oh! yet [] Stands the Church clock at ten to three? [] And is there honey still for tea?[] [] Thank you --all you Libraries-- for firing up my imagination and expanding my horizons.
11811	7/10/2012	because i take advantage of the premises: using children's reading hours when i nanny for friends, checking out materials and using the online databases.
11812	7/10/2012	reading is a stress relief
11813	7/10/2012	I can get the services elsewhere
11814	7/10/2012	The allow access to many forms of media to those who cannot afford to purchase them
11815	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power
11816	7/10/2012	Because everyone should have access to the services libraries supply.
11817	7/10/2012	This is the most important use of my tax dollars.
11818	7/10/2012	Libraries are a center of learning and community.
11819	7/10/2012	They are a free source of an endless amount of entertainment and education.
11820	7/10/2012	provide equal access to education which is fundamental first step to equity
11821	7/10/2012	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Because I think that books are important.[] 2. because libraries are a calm place in the maelstrom that is our society.
11822	7/10/2012	Because many people are not lucky enough to have the resources to purchase their own reading and educational materials. By supplying these to the public for free, the library system allows every citizen the opportunity to educate themselves. While not everyone takes advantage of this, full access to educational materials is a necessary prerequisite for our citizens to have a shot at educating themselves.
11823	7/10/2012	Free access to information by all citizens is essential in an open and democratic society.

11824	7/10/2012	very important to have available resources for all ages and levels of proficiency
11825	7/10/2012	Education is the key for solving many of our problems in the US.
11826	7/10/2012	I use the library services reguarly and as a social worker I work with clients that really need the services provided by the library.
11827	7/10/2012	gives everyone access to information. I am retired and cannot afford to buy books whoever I want.
11828	7/10/2012	The library is important to me on a personal level. In a challenging economy, I use the library more as it is difficult to afford books and media. I also know many families that use the library for it's many services.
11829	7/10/2012	The library is the place where everyone goes to make their life better: to learn how to use computers, to write resumes, to figure out how to pay a bill when they don't have a computer themselves, to find books to read, to find movies to watch, to find music to listen to, to learn about the community through programming, to learn other languages.
11830	7/10/2012	The library enables me to read books- I almost never buy books because I can't afford them. Books provide me with education as well as entertainment. As I start a family, they will play a major role in the education (and entertainment) of my children as well.
11831	7/10/2012	Help me with lesuire time which will refresh my daily lives
11832	7/10/2012	Public libraries provide oppourtunities for all people, regardless of socio-economic status, to access and increase their knowledge and skills.
11833	7/10/2012	In the larger view, the first and most important services would be fire and police for safety and also public and private transportation including roads, health service and any other service that would be directed to the health and well being of the population. These items must be served before that of a library.
11834	7/10/2012	The community comes together at the library. The community shares at the library. Knowledge and literacy are the building blocks of culture, community and civilization.
11835	7/10/2012	I love books, read constantly and I cannot afford to buy books.

		question #7 is worded strangely and could be interpreted many ways from both the respondent and the researcher. I rank local library services as very important to the community overall, especially for more vulnerable populations in need of extra services free of charge. In this way the public library system is priceless. [] []
11836	7/10/2012	Of course, other public services such as EMS, recycling and environmental services are also important to the city. [] [] I hold library services to be imperative to building life skills. Other city services help us support our way of living. Therefore, the type of public services matters- some help to operationalize people, while others operationalize how the city functions. Without the people, however, there is no city. And I would much rather live in a city that places high importance on supporting a broad range of populations.
11837	7/10/2012	I am a reader.[] I would not have obtained my GED, or graduated from college.[] I would not have been able to support myself, and my children.[] I would not have been able to purchase a home, and pay property taxes.[] and[] I would have a much less knowledgable and enjoyable existence without the ability to access the Mult Co library system,
11838	7/10/2012	Libraries are custodians of information, which should be readily available to all. Mind, I'm not suggesting that library services are more important than other public services; there are others that more directly and demonstrably improve health and well-being. Still, libraries provide a key service not easily duplicated in the private sector.
11839	7/10/2012	Libraries are centers of knowledge and discovery. They represent what's best about a society and a community---a free place to pursue one's own interests and happiness. Libraries are fundamental to American life.
11840	7/10/2012	I see people utilizing the libraries that would not otherwise have access to books, magazines, intranet, etc.
11841	7/10/2012	My wife and I each have about a book a week habit. When we have kids, we plan to raise readers. That's a lot of books to be buying if we have to go through Amazon or Powells for every one.
11842	7/10/2012	We are steadfast users of the library and consider it a vital resource to the community.
11843	7/10/2012	Because I am a reading tutor and an avid reader and writer and I use the library almost every day!
11844	7/10/2012	Libraries ensure that all people have access to books - to knowledge. This is part of our human rights!

11845	7/10/2012	I have an English degree and was raised by an English professor. I grew up around books and consider them the key to my own humanity. When I move to a new place the first thing I do is get a library card.
11846	7/10/2012	It's not life or death but is a fantastic thing to have access to so much material I otherwise would not.
11847	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power, our libraries are immensely important in society
11848	7/10/2012	I really appreciate the luxuries offered by libraries and believe they are important resources to people who otherwise lack resources. They are important community centers.
11849	7/10/2012	Freedom and free-flow of information is important for all people, a library can provide this better than any other facility.
11850	7/10/2012	communities cannot thrive without a vibrant, lively library system
11851	7/10/2012	I love to read and I think that libraries provide a source of good reading material to people who otherwise might not have access.
11852	7/10/2012	Because it allows people to pursue reading and education free of charge
11853	7/10/2012	can listen to CDs in the car while driving and not have to buy them. Give them back to the library for the next person to also enjoy. My favorites are Shakespeare and current novels, poetry, classic books and biographies. The library is an incredible public service I value very highly and how it's done here in PDX.
11854	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader- probably read at least 4 or 5 books a week. I frequently use the hold system and have books brought to my local branch. Reading is the most important thing in my life. Being able to access so many books and research materials is wonderful and necessary.
11855	7/10/2012	Because learning to read and developing a passion for reading are keys to success in school, the job market and life. Furthermore, access to books and other forms of media is crucial for the public to have the opportunity to stay informed and local, state, national and international issues. Additionally, people who do not have access to a computer or internet at home should have a place where they can stay connected, look for work, etc.
11856	7/10/2012	reading/new ideas/change/recreation/democratic access to info and ideas/democracy
11857	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time--always have books checked out and on hold. My grandchildren also are very heavy library users. I love the online search and hold facility and the notification when my books are available or due.
11858	7/10/2012	They supply a friendly environment to read and reading means a lot to me.
11859	7/10/2012	Wife and I are both big readers
11860	7/10/2012	Below food and shelter, but above everything else.
11861	7/10/2012	I have access to materials from other sources, but I know many do not and yet there are other public services that also are under fire and that I feel are important.
11862	7/10/2012	I don't use the services that often, but it is important to me that they are there, as a function of community. That they can help encourage new readers and sustain them as they grow. And in this consumer-driven society, the lending-sharing (rather than owning) is something to be fostered.

11863	7/10/2012	Local utilities, public safety, etc. outrank the library. But after those, it's the library. Access to knowledge and information are vital for a community.
11864	7/10/2012	Free access to books is needed in order to prevent an increase in the division of classes in this country.
11865	7/10/2012	They provide access to real learning environments, especially for families with few resources.
11866	7/10/2012	I don't use any other public services
11867	7/10/2012	I don't buy books, magazines, and newspapers anymore. However, I still use them regularly. Having libraries is the green way to go. It's also a great resource for numerous topics and fields of interest.
11868	7/10/2012	One must have perspective. I think good libraries--with easy access and hours--are critical to the overall social health of the area. Yet they must be viewed along with other needs such as health and safety, education, public transportation. That is why we will support an additional levy that supports the County Library.
11869	7/10/2012	Libraries ensure that all people have access to vital information and media. That the government, income restrictions, etc. do not hinder the public distribution and availability of media to the masses.
11870	7/10/2012	Free and frequent access to high quality libraries is second only to quality public schools for the endurance of an enlightened democratic country.
11871	7/10/2012	libraries are an essential part of sustaining healthy communities
11872	7/10/2012	My quality of life is enhanced by being able to find a good book to read (audio & ebooks) despite living on the road.
11873	7/10/2012	Digital age makes much of the library services obsolete. Community colleges and other public agencies offer similar programs. If we were starting over, libraries would be free internet stations with digital literacy instruction and not much else....the times they are a-changing. I think that knowledge stands in defiance of the ignorance that is ruining our communities. And because libraries provide access for all citizens to knowledge, it gives everyone the opportunity to join in that fight in their own personal and/or intrapersonal way. I know most people would rank food, shelter and healthcare above libraries, but i think it should be on the same level.
11874	7/10/2012	I love to curl up with a good book--physical, if possible!
11875	7/10/2012	i regularly use the library resources and would be inconvenienced if they were further stifled
11876	7/10/2012	The libraries are a great source of books, music, cinema and other cultural components. The libraries are a community's biggest treasures. Too easily they are taken for granted. We must insure their future at all costs. Our priorities are getting badly skewed.
11877	7/10/2012
11878	7/10/2012	As highly as I value the library for my personal use and for its public service programs, it's difficult to support food stamps or mental health services being cut. This is why the library should have its own funding district.
11879	7/10/2012	Accessible to everyone.

11880	7/10/2012	because there is no substitute
11881	7/10/2012	Who else would provide the service?
11882	7/10/2012	Because of the access to books and the ease of obtaining it
11883	7/10/2012	because I use them usually 3-4 times a week.
11884	7/10/2012	only emergency services rank higher for me
11885	7/10/2012	The library is really the only public service I use, and I use it very regularly. It is incredibly important to me.
11886	7/10/2012	I use this local public service more than any other.
11887	7/10/2012	Because library is a refuge for all people. Doesn't matter if your a kid learning to read, a college student, stay at home or working mom who needs a fantasy to escape into, unemployed/retired looking to fill time and keep brain active and/or look for work/volunteer opportunities.
11888	7/10/2012	Access to information
11889	7/10/2012	I am on a fixed income, and I depend on my library for the latest books to read on CD.
11890	7/10/2012	Reading to my child is extremely important to his development and our time together. I couldn't afford to keep buying books. And the convenience of borrowing a book and returning it at the doorstep is important.
11891	7/10/2012	As an adult I use the library more for pleasure, as a child it's important to promote reading and as a teenager or college student the resources are critical.
11892	7/10/2012	An informed populace is a productive populace. Without information and education, there is no progress, no community, no harmony
11893	7/10/2012	I spent many hours at libraries as a child. It was a safe place to do homework, learn about things my family didn't or couldn't teach me, and make new friends through books. Throughout my life, libraries have always been a safe haven for me. First thing I do when I move to a new city is get a library card.
11894	7/10/2012	The library is a community center, a place to share ideas, a resource that is even for all, regardless of income, education, etc.
11895	7/10/2012	I use the library at least four days a week...makes me feel connected to all things social and worldly
11896	7/10/2012	Learning and actual books are still an important part of our world.
11897	7/10/2012	The library is the church of education.
11898	7/10/2012	Libraries offer educational materials for free. You don't need to pay for college tuition to learn something. You can do so by opening a book.
11899	7/10/2012	They contribute to creating an educated citizenry.
11900	7/10/2012	Libraries are educational, from the filing system to getting the information into your hands. It is a safe place to go to, relax and learn.
11901	7/10/2012	I rely on the library to keep me informed and entertained. I like the community it provides.

11902	7/10/2012	I love the convenience of reserving books on line. I don't like to buy a lot of books, I prefer to "reuse" by borrowing from the library. My kids love to go there, and we have done storytimes in the past. I like borrowing DVD's and CD's too.
11903	7/10/2012	I just remember as a child utilizing the library so much, especially in the summer. It's where I developed a love of reading because my mother and myself were able to check out so many books, books we certainly couldn't have afforded to buy. Becoming an avid reader at such a young age has definitely assisted me in adulthood, especially in terms of reading comprehension. I'm amazed at the low level of reading comprehension among my peers. At work we all receive the same memo or e-mail and so often people misread it and mistakes happen.
11904	7/10/2012	I read for pleasure. I like learning. For my job, I need up-to-date reference materials that I can only get through the library.
11905	7/10/2012	Measures should be taken to provide access to educational materials and resources to those who can not necessarily afford it otherwise. A well funded library has a positive impact on the local, state and national level.
11906	7/10/2012	The essentials like transportation, clean water and comprehensive garbage/recycling are most important to providing a good life. But right up there is the availability of books/literacy/education for all, regardless of income. The library provides that, and so much more. When I was newly divorced, and bearing an incredible financial burden, not mention loneliness, I spent hours and hours in the Central Library, it was a very real refuge for me and gave me solace, education, entertainment all within walking distance. Everyone should have access to that.
11907	7/10/2012	local public services may cost money and may require mobility and other restrictions to some people, so having the information in a place like a library is good.
11908	7/10/2012	I'm a reader, I think the library is an important community center. I love that when I stop at the Midland library on my way home from work, I see a hundred little pieces of SE Portland - my students participating in library programs, finding books with their families, using the computers, or sitting on the floor next to the shelves, captivated by an interesting book. It isn't just kids, but also their parents, neighbors and the rest of the community, a buzzing hive of activity, coming together at the hub of the library. I've lived in parts of the country without as strong of a library system and the community suffers - while everyone may come to Wal-Mart, they're not interacting and engaging with each other and the world, merely passing one another in the aisles or competing for the last xbox.
11909	7/10/2012	Reading and learning are life long activities & good habits to learn. Learning to read early helps children in all aspects of life, reading keeps adolescents out of trouble, reading is an excellent way for adults to learn new skills, and it keeps seniors involved in the community.
11910	7/10/2012	Free access to information is an essential part of 'liberty for all', which is who Americans want to be.

11911	7/10/2012	The flow of information to the public is crucial to a free public. That we put our values on basics of reading, communications, the arts, to all sections that make up the public, whether, young, old, handicapped, overworked, underpaid, fat and sassy, the library brings the new, the fresh, the old, the valued, the heratic, etc. that feeds and supports a civilization to reach its potential. I dont think that you can say one public service over the other. A free society supports all. If we make any less important than another we do ourselves a disservice.
11912	7/10/2012	Libraries allow everyone to find their own path up the social ladder.[] Put differently,[] Libraries allow people to find themselves.
11913	7/10/2012	There are few public services that are truly available to everyone, virtually equally (exceptions exist for those without transportation to a library or who always work during library hours, although online resources and ebooks are closing that gap for some people). Access to a local library and the wealth of resources therein is invaluable for personal development and well-being as well as for helping people fulfill their basis needs, e.g. finding housing, learning about legal rights, finding employment, etc. [] [] Also, as a child, the library was always a place of wonderment, exploration and possibility. Really, it still is. I believe consistent access to a public library has enriched my own life tremendously.
11914	7/10/2012	I check out books from the library frequently. Most of my adult learning comes from library access.
11915	7/10/2012	It's the public service I enjoy most.
11916	7/10/2012	We have a young child who greatly benefits from access to books and the library is an important part of her learning.
11917	7/10/2012	Books and access to movies
11918	7/10/2012	So that people can be LITERATE and INFORMED.
11919	7/10/2012	I want to be able to use my library when I need a book or resource
11920	7/10/2012	Because I love to read.
11921	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and I like being able to go to the library for reference books and other research needs, as needed, as well as checking out books.
11922	7/10/2012	I believe access to books is extremely important—for kids to learn literacy and a love of books, and for adults to have access to a body of knowledge that would be hard to afford otherwise. I also think the ability for everyone, regardless of income, to have access to things like Internet use and other media is an important service.
11923	7/10/2012	Because we learn something everytime we access them, and the civic benefits outweigh our individual gain.
11924	7/10/2012	i think it levels the learning playing ground and esp with schools degrading, i like children finding the library a safe and smart option

		This is a very difficult question without examples given of public services. Unless you're truly asking for what my perception of what public services are, but then that might be asked in a better way to get accurate data.
11925	7/10/2012	In fact, I question how this questionnaire was developed.
		Libraries are important to me because there needs to be a space for those who seek knowledge that is truly non discriminatory if our society is going to continue to develop.
11926	7/10/2012	I feel libraries are especially important for young and school-age children. The benefits of learning and/or improving their reading/computer skills is very important.
11927	7/10/2012	Access to things I can't or won't purchase.
11928	7/10/2012	Because buying books are expensive and it makes so i can read more
11929	7/10/2012	The library is a tremendous resource for my craft work, so I picked somewhat important because I don't know how else I would get this information, but did not click very important because this information is not necessary to support my basic survival needs.
11930	7/10/2012	Because there is no any controls to access to mature and or inappropriate media and web sites to youth and to adults when in a public space accessible to youth eyes and ears. I will never support the library system with these practices in place.
11931	7/10/2012	It's vital that people who need it have access to information and to a good workspace for research, job searching, homework, etc.
11932	7/10/2012	Because there must be some balance between offered services.
11933	7/10/2012	I would pretty much never read a book because I can't afford the extravagance of buying them (at least not very often). It would bring my numbers down from reading several books a month to several a year. Or I'd have to buy one of those stupid Kindle things which I will probably then immediately drop in a puddle of water.
11934	7/10/2012	Libraries are a hub of information access, spanning every type of need or interest. They are open to anyone of any age, income, etc. Extremely valuable for our local community and culture.
11935	7/10/2012	access to books and media promotes education and learning and ultimately benefits all of society through awareness and understanding
11936	7/10/2012	Libraries provide services to individuals who don't have the financial means to go elsewhere. Libraries are vital for a healthy community. They are community gathering places.
11937	7/10/2012	I'm a college student, and I can use public library books for school work. Also, I don't have the money to buy many books for recreational reading, so the library saves me a lot of money.
11938	7/10/2012	Everyone needs resources to be educated or more educated.enjoying materials is educating us.people need to be able yo have access.
11939	7/10/2012	Read free books, well, pd for with our tax money. Computer access for those who dont have.

11940	7/10/2012	We make frequent use of the library for books and other materials, and they are a valuable resource to the rest of the community, for the same reason.
11941	7/10/2012	It gives me and my family free access to any information we want and need. That helps us to continually grow and live in a well educated society. It also gives us options and availability to change our jobs, hobbies, entertainment, and living situations.
11942	7/10/2012	Emergency services, fire, police, schools etc are certainly important. But libraries are resources for everybody. the degree that libraries are utilized and supported are a good measure of the civility and education of the community. (and by education I don't mean percentage of advanced degrees per capita, or equivalent.) I mean people developing their own intellect and interests.
11943	7/10/2012	You all have heard the quote, "A house without books is like a room without windows" by Horace Mann. More than likely, you know the answer to this question better than I. A community without a library is a most disturbing thought. If this were to occur, I can only surmise we are headed the way of Easter Island.
11944	7/10/2012	As a teacher, I wouldn't be able to run my classroom without the services provided by the library. I love you guys!
11945	7/10/2012	Define "local public service".
11946	7/10/2012	An educate and informed public is an important part of our democracy. Additionally, I have a personal interest in great literature, books on foreign cultures, and scientific resources.
11947	7/10/2012	I would rank Very important the absolute essentials: public safety and infrastructure. The library is next. We use the library frequently. We home-school and the library is invaluable too us. The books, videos, online resources and ebooks are a fantastic resource that we honestly appreciate. That is why we voted to renew the levy.
11948	7/10/2012	I read for work research, to educate myself generally, and for pleasure. I can't afford to buy most of the books I read, so I borrow them from the library. When I was a child, I used the library as an important part of my education and to read for pleasure. When I had children at home, they educated themselves using the library. If we want educated, informed citizens, they must be literate, and how can they be literate without libraries?
11949	7/10/2012	it is a place for knowledge, for community, for entertainment. I cannot wait till i cant take my child there!
11950	7/10/2012	As a person of limited financial resources and as a person who found a refuge in books, I would be personally bereft without excellent library service and resources. As a citizen I regard excellent library service as essential to a democracy as it levels the playing fields..
11951	7/10/2012	over valued
11952	7/10/2012	Great Instrument of knowledge and Entertainment.
11953	7/10/2012	It's public knowledge, it's important for everyone to have access to culture and knowledge for free.
11954	7/10/2012	who wants to be ignorant?
11955	7/10/2012	Some people haven't got books or Computers.

11956	7/10/2012	Because books are the gateway to other lives and transcendent ideas.
11957	7/10/2012	I'm a writer and reader... I love books!
11958	7/10/2012	They provide so many resources on so many different levels.
11959	7/10/2012	My son and I check out hundreds of book and movies from the library. I feel as though my son's excitement about reading and learning is greatly due to the library system. I'm poor too so I can't buy books but being able to check out books to read allows me to pursue new interests.
11960	7/10/2012	I use the library as much if not more than other county services.
11961	7/10/2012	The public library is important to me because of the services it provides to me and other members in my community - it wouldn't feel like a neighborhood without a library.
11962	7/10/2012	Very
11963	7/10/2012	We can live with potholes but not with ignorance.
11964	7/10/2012	Education is how people better themselves and it affects not just their present but also their future
11965	7/10/2012	Everybody is included. All children have access to great books and videos. Wonderful services
11966	7/10/2012	pleasure, intellectual stimulation, lifelong learning
11967	7/10/2012	Libraries promote maintain literacy and access to information which is crucial for a high functioning society.
11968	7/10/2012	I love to read, watch movies and listen to new music. The library allows me to do this within my budget.
11969	7/10/2012	I would have said "important" if that was an option. I feel like the library is a hub for activities and information within a community.
11970	7/10/2012	They are the only resource for middle class and poor people. Most of us cannot afford personal assistants and lawyers for daily issues, so we need a source for costly information on a daily basis. Libraries are also a source for education for both youngsters and adults, which most of us cannot afford.
11971	7/10/2012	I get a lot of value from the library. It's one of the most important returns I receive from my tax dollars.
11972	7/10/2012	Libraries offer access to educational and community resources that help give access to all people to educational materials, prevent isolation, create social uplift, and encourage neighborhood community contact.
11973	7/10/2012	Police and fire protection is more important than having a book to read
11974	7/10/2012	Availability of resources to those who need them the most, and are least able to find them elsewhere. Libraries seem to offer more 'bang for the buck' than other public services.
11975	7/10/2012	they are an irreplaceable resource for teaching
11976	7/10/2012	Libraries bring all strata of our community together regardless of economic and social differences. Through their programs and advocacy, they encourage literacy, especially amongst kids and young adults. As a public store house for ideas and literature and as a shared space to discuss many of these ideas, libraries are one of the pillars of a democracy.

11977	7/10/2012	When I was younger I spent all of my time reading at the library. Libraries are educational, fun, and energizing-they provide services to the young and old. They help with job training and learning new computer skills which are vital in a depressed economy where many people cannot afford the luxury of taking classes. I could list them all but I am at work.
11978	7/10/2012	Libraries provide equal access to all, regardless of income. They help overcome the "digital divide", greatly enhance early childhood literacy, provide community meeting rooms, assist the jobless, provide computer instruction, services to the homebound, and serve as a lifelong facilitator of independent learning.
11979	7/10/2012	I value free access to information and also for the expertise of research librarians in assisting library users.
11980	7/10/2012	The library provides access to resources I don't have and wouldn't be able to afford on my own. These resources expand my world, stimulate imagination and motivation, and remind me that there are always options to explore. □ Whenever I go to the library, I can see how many people from so many different backgrounds find solace, quiet, inspiration, enrichment, sense of community from the place and available resources.
11981	7/10/2012	Use frequently -- generally 3x a week. It's so convenient and awesome.
11982	7/10/2012	Libraries are places for community gathering and learning.
11983	7/10/2012	I have been an avid reader my entire life. It is through reading and utilizing library services that I continue to educate myself as a person and keep track of what's happening in the world.
11984	7/10/2012	Because when you have no money, no cable, no car....you can still look forward to reading a good book.
11985	7/10/2012	They provide resources and enjoyment. They help keep costs down through checking out materials.
11986	7/10/2012	I use them!
11987	7/10/2012	Because, it is a good source of knowledge.
11988	7/10/2012	They are a central community resource providing residents with access to knowledge and information which is essential in a free healthy society
11989	7/10/2012	Has there been a better invention than the library?
11990	7/10/2012	The library is something that I use.
11991	7/10/2012	Library allows me to enable reading addiction
11992	7/10/2012	I need to read! I do not want to buy books, even used. I want to read the reviews each Sunday and then place a book I want to read on hold.
11993	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer, and bring opportunities that are accessible to everyone, regardless of race, ability, language, age, etc.
11994	7/10/2012	Police and Fire departments are more important, as they are life-saving services, but the library is pretty darned important too!

11995	7/10/2012	new release dvd movies and other media provide my family with a lot of entertainment, saving us a lot of money. However we make a point to use it, knowing that our property taxes pay a whole lot into it.
11996	7/10/2012	Fire, police, and emergency services are much more important, but access to books and learning materials change peoples lives and are also important. Without that access, some will make poor choices and get into trouble. Or, they just won't learn as much and won't be as successful.
11997	7/10/2012	The library, in my opinion, is the heart of the literate community. It provides reading material at a depth and breadth that would be impossible to read on "Google" and more affordable than buying books on a particular subject.
11998	7/10/2012	I used the library in Gresham when it was first built. Now, when I go in, a lot of the signage is in Spanish. Everything seems grimy, and the bathrooms are downright scary. No way would I take a child or senior citizen to the library. Frankly, I'd be worried about their safety.
11999	7/10/2012	Because there should always be a place where the community can gather and take part in educational services. The library promotes life long learning.
12000	7/10/2012	My family uses the library intensely. We also believe that access to media and knowledge for all is key to a healthy civilization.
12001	7/10/2012	Because they are foundational to supporting education and job growth - both of which make communities vital and sustainable.
12002	7/10/2012	safety issues are first: police, fire etc Schools are 2nd librairies are essential, but a little bit of a luxury
12003	7/10/2012	We use the library every week to check out books and films.
12004	7/10/2012	people rely on libraries for information and enjoyment with no cost to them
12005	7/10/2012	They are very important they are a great resource for everyone, job seekers, students, school age children toddlers. People who otherwise would not have any access to books or computers
12006	7/10/2012	It's where we all go no matter what age to learn and better educate ourselves. Making for a better community.
12007	7/10/2012	Libraries serve as a community resource center, that bind all people together.
12008	7/10/2012	Everyone should have free access to information. We should be able to educate ourselves on the topics which are important to us without money being required. Libraries are one of the ways to maintain an educated public and are of utmost importance.
12009	7/10/2012	Life long learning is important for every human being no matter the income or education level. The library provides the means to continue to learn at all age levels.
12010	7/10/2012	I think transportation is my top public service, but the library has helped me obtain books that I would not normally purchase and provided me with some serious resources for studying for standardized tests that would have cost me a lot of money.

12011	7/10/2012	I utilize the library system regularly. It is one of my favorite aspects of Portland that I have grown to love after two years of living here. Moving from a small town with a tiny library has provided the reference I need to fully appreciate the Multnomah County Library system. Visiting Belmont has become part of my routine.
12012	7/10/2012	I love to read. I had that love instilled in me by a wonderful librarian, Dorothy Haffner, who drove the bookmobile to my school, Skyline, back in the 1950s. She helped us to learn to love books and to get the most out of them. I feel very fortunate to have had the Multnomah County Library available to me for my entire life. It has always been something that I could count on. Other services have come and gone. but the library always has been there for us.
12013	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the only valuable truth. Books carry that with ink on pages.
12014	7/10/2012	Libraries promote knowledge and learning. It is so sad that our society doesn't rate this as one of the most valuable services. Where are our priorities? It will be a terrible day when our children don't know what a library is.
12015	7/10/2012	Basic needs such as healthcare, education and safety take priority but libraries are close behind since without universal access to knowledge we may as well give up now...
12016	7/10/2012	Low cost access to new books, music and the internet.
12017	7/10/2012	I am single with no children but it is important to provide services to those with special needs like school children and elderly in order for the community to thrive, improve and have a positive outlook. As a home owner, I use the library to research home improvement projects like roofing, sustainable living, gardening, energy efficiency, etc.
12018	7/10/2012	Well, we have two kids, one 9 one 11, the library provides them with materials that educate, flex and distract their minds, all three. Their access to written material, if borne solely out of our daily budget, would never reach the levels of consumption and edification they do now. We could not possibly afford that. Frankly, the schools are far too slow, and our kids would not be able to reach out for their potential without access to the library.
12019	7/10/2012	Libraries open worlds to all citizens, especially young people. They demonstrate that knowledge and learning are there to be had for ALL people, not just the privileged. They are, in many ways, the last bastion of true democracy.
12020	7/10/2012	Reading is so important for everyone. Books are expensive to purchase and there is no reason to buy to read and have sit on a shelf. The opportunity to read a wide variety of materials should be available to everyone, not just those who can afford to purchase.
12021	7/10/2012	Libraries provide enormous educational opportunities that for many are more desirable and appropriate than a formal classroom setting and possibly less expensive.
12022	7/10/2012	Libraries provide space to work, knowledge, opportunity to explore, respite for street people.... Libraries are among the first places I go when I visit a city, and I judge a city based on it's library. I feel that if a library is well funded, well staffed, stocked with lots of books and resources, learning programs, concerts... then it's obvious that the city cares for itself.

12023	7/10/2012	Library is first, and then Parks. Schools are important, but a library can give everyone an unlimited education for "free". I don't use cable tv, but check out History Channel videos and other DVD's from the library. I use Freegal. The money save on entertainment alone is worth several hundred dollars a year.
12024	7/10/2012	Because I value the services libraries offer. What other answer could I give? Ok who wrote this silly survey?
12025	7/10/2012	Taking children to the library regularly creates an environment where reading and learning is part of their life. It is not work, such as school homework. It is fun and it is the routine. They can choose the books themselves. They can read about topics that interest them. At school, the books and study topics are decided by the adults. It is hard to develop love for reading just from school experience. That happens at home and libraries can play a big part in this.
12026	7/10/2012	The programs that support children's learning (and love of learning) are the most important to me. I see a lot of diversity in the children and families attending the Capitol Hill storytime sessions. For a lot of these young children, this is one of the only enrichment activities their parents can afford for them to participate in. For others, this is there only exposure to English language. For others, the library provides greater variety in reading materials than they would otherwise have access to at home. As a parent, I view the children's librarians as an invaluable resource when trying to gauge the appropriateness of different books for my child's ever expanding literacy skills. I learn a lot from them regarding what books are likely to be preferred, how to read/ interact with my child so that she gets the most out of a book, and general awareness of literacy development. Literacy and education are keys to unlocking the potential in children and helping them to overcome the obstacles in their lives. I see library services as a key investment in education, especially for the most vulnerable.
12027	7/10/2012	I don't go to the library at all anymore. I just use the free music and free e-book services. I think if you wanted to save money just get everybody a free I-pod and E-reader at a discount. You could do this by buying in such a big bulk there would have to be a huge wholesale discount. charge them say 50 bucks a piece or less and everyone saves money. No librarians which is a costly human resource, and no waiting for books to come in (Which can take forever,) you then could just download instantly. Done deal. And no impatient overly judgmental librarians, that cost too much, and won't even stamp your books anymore, I mean that is the height of laziness. I have been told by said librarians," it will cause them to get a repetitive injury like tendinitis, or carpal tunnel syndrome. Puleeze, I work as a Package Handler at FEDEX , I say "Get over yourself!!!!!" I mean it save some money fire the people who won't do thier jobs, get us some electronics instead.
12028	7/10/2012	My family enjoys reading a lot so the local library provides a way for us to read books at no cost.
12029	7/10/2012	One of the few "free" resources available for folks who are unemployed or have tight budgets.
12030	7/10/2012	I use the library to teach my child as well as myself. It is the only place I get media and my child and I wouldn't read books if it weren't for our local library.

12031	7/10/2012	Because I move so much it makes no sense to own all the books I like to read. I think also they are important resources for children and the elderly.
12032	7/10/2012		1
12033	7/10/2012	IT is vital to our community, and equal access for all learners and information seekers.
12034	7/10/2012	Rely on library for written resources and for computer access when home system malfunctioning
12035	7/10/2012	A literate and educated public is necessary in order to make informed voting decisions
12036	7/10/2012	I would put safety first, education second only to public safety, and libraries are in my education category.
12037	7/10/2012	I believe that libraries are fundamental to helping me raise my child and produce a productive citizen. Reading and literacy, both of which are supported by the library through not only the supply of books but also through their programs are crucial to education and democracy.
12038	7/10/2012	I use the library for information and entertainment.
12039	7/10/2012	Source of continuing education and recreation
12040	7/10/2012	We use very few other local services. Parks would be the only thing we would pick before libraries if we had to choose only one.
12041	7/10/2012	Books are very very important to me. My life would be completely different without books. I love them and I want anyone who wants to read to be able to do that, even if they can't afford to buy them. Libraries are sometimes the only way people can get access to books.
12042	7/10/2012	Fundamental and basic need for access to education and educational materials will lower crime, poverty and increase awareness.
12043	7/10/2012	A literate citizenry is key to a successful, effective democracy. Libraries are an important pillar of that in our community.
12044	7/10/2012	It is the only public service that I consistently use. I also think it's important for school-aged children.
12045	7/10/2012	For my family, they are very important. However, the cuts in health and human services, corrections and education have been equally painful as the loss of library hours on Monday. Unfortunately, we are in an economic crisis and unable to fund public services at an adequate level. I hope this changes in the near future.
12046	7/10/2012	Libraries give the general population access to books, computers, music, etc. By nature, they encourage learning and are an important cornerstone of society.
12047	7/10/2012	The library offers community, culture and access to literature, art and music for all.
12048	7/10/2012	Obviously, infrastructure, fire and police, garbage, water and such are some of our community most important resources. But a well-rounded, culturally sound and diverse community needs wonderful libraries!
12049	7/10/2012	this is the one service that everyone can use. and, in Multnomah County, many DO use. it is a source of great pride.. the library's success and reputation, clean good buildings. great collections. etc.

12050	7/10/2012	Extremely important at the moment, because I do not have a computer at home and can't access social networks at work. I also love to read and enjoy having access to free DVD's. Good times!
12051	7/10/2012	Was in Lake Oswego prior to moving to Raleigh Hills. Loved the guest authors program there (once a month on a Tues. eve) and music (once a month on a Tues. eve.) Wished there was more in Hillsdale library like that.
12052	7/10/2012	Reading is important. I feel people who read tend to be more informed and participate more in their community.
12053	7/10/2012	The major reason for the library, for me, is to check out books and stories on CD or download stories.[] [] It would be hard to put police and fire services higher than the library in importance to the community.
12054	7/10/2012	Everyone needs access to books for pleasure reading and enjoyment, supporting children's education, and for personal research. Libraries help promote literacy and an educated society.
12055	7/10/2012	I am a writer. Without the library system I would not have been able to develop in my profession or have the access to research that is vital to good writing. I have become a patron of the library in order to give back to the community and support the outstanding staff that I have encountered over the years.
12056	7/10/2012	An educated public is important! Access to books shouldn't be dependent upon income
12057	7/10/2012	I really enjoy the library but it is not a necessity. I rarely vote yes on tax measures but do vote yes on library measures. After the library measure passed with over an 80% in May, in July the Belmont Branch is closing one more day a week. What happened to that money?
12058	7/10/2012	My whole family can enjoy most of things that library can provide.
12059	7/10/2012	there is nowhere else one can go to be so enriched, and it is available in the same capacity to all users equally.
12060	7/10/2012	I really do not know how much such programs are utilized. I use the library for checking out books and other media.
12061	7/10/2012	I love to read and feel that public libraries are necessary to develop and nurture that love in young people.
12062	7/10/2012	When I was unemployed and didn't have internet access, I could walk to my local library and use the computers to find job postings, submit applications, and print my resume. The library does more than provide education through books.
12063	7/10/2012	The community without access to books, resources, and cultural diversity is one that will forget its roots very quickly. I don't think the library is the most important, but it is a part of the cultural foundation upon which our society has been built. It is one of the last remaining symbols of the Commonwealth, providing opportunities for learning to anyone who is willing.

12064	7/10/2012	Because offering access to a computer, internet, printer, resources are important for citizens who are looking for work. The library is crucial for children as well.
12065	7/10/2012	schools and care of our homeless children are far more important than the library and the average person is running out of money for more taxes and fees.
12066	7/10/2012	Libraries are a keystone for a functioning society. They provide access to information and entertainment. They provide the information for people to improve themselves and their situations.
12067	7/10/2012	Hub of culture and learning accessible to all. Elitists and the privileged are stripped bare at the doors.
12068	7/10/2012	Libraries raise the bottom line for culture in a community. With access to learning for everyone, even those among the lowest economic tier are able to improve themselves, participate in society, and enrich their lives.
12069	7/10/2012	People depend on libraries for so many things. For me, my computer went on the blink so I have to either use the computer at the library which is very close or I have to use the computer at work which I am only there 3 days a week. I have huge medical bills and purchasing a computer is low on my list.
12070	7/10/2012	We have 2 school age children that get new books from the library each week. Being able to access a wide variety of books for free has increased their desire to read. I used to buy books more often and it was hit/miss in terms of what the kids liked. Buying books is expensive and the kids subsequently felt they had to read the books we bought due to the cost; that actually made them want to read less, since it felt forced. We are big fans of the library these days -- thank you!!
12071	7/10/2012	The library is the keeper of our cultural heritage, core of our hope for an informed and educated electorate, the can insure equitable access to education and information in our society.
12072	7/10/2012	Because I believe that a curious person never really gets old. I never want to stop learning, and the library offers me these opportunities for growth. I believe it is a crime to lock library doors, keeping all that knowledge inside and shutting people outside.
12073	7/10/2012	I grew up going the the library because of my late mother. We went to a wonderful Carnegie library in the mid-west. My mother obtained a masters degree in library science at a late age and always frequented the library system wherever she lived. I was raised with the notion that the library was a haven, a place of learning and free resources and should be available for everyone as much as possible, no matter their socio-economic circumstance. Because libraries can help level the playing field in life. Whether for the seniors who sat in the reading room to be with their friends and read the periodicals, or the children listening to story tellers, the busy office worker who loves their mysteries or books on tapes or the teens who had their eyes open about the world through reading about experiences of others, the library is a place that feeds the imagination and can help in so many practical ways. I am also a big fan of Ray Bradbury who was also a great lover of libraries.
12074	7/10/2012	If we don't have educated people we won't have people who have jobs and can pay taxes. As it is now, a small number of people pay for a large number who contribute nothing

12075	7/10/2012	Libraries are important, but if a choice is forced upon me, not as important as having streets that are open and safe to move along or having fire and police available to respond to a personal emergency.
12076	7/10/2012	Please see response to #6 regarding role of libraries to even playing field between wealthy and poor and to enrich lives by encouraging young and old to read books.
12077	7/10/2012	I love books and libraries and librarians. The library is the literary heart of Portland
12078	7/10/2012	Books are my source of information and entertainment.
12079	7/10/2012	Because the library provides knowledge. Knowledge is an essential.
12080	7/10/2012	knowledge is power. poor people need acces to knowledge and information
12081	7/10/2012	The internet has made libraries less and less important each day.
12082	7/10/2012	Serves all segments of population and provides valuable resource
12083	7/10/2012	information, internet access, and education as well as entertainment should be available to everyone, regardless of income. the public library is the only public service that provides that.
12084	7/10/2012	Because I believe that education is essential and the library is an amazing resource for people to access learning and knowledge for free! And it brings the community together.
12085	7/10/2012	i could go without cops and homeless shelters. i could go without child protective serves. i could go without mass transit. but dont take my books!
12086	7/10/2012	A third place next to home and work, with all that implies.
12087	7/10/2012	The library is a great source of information and training and inspiration for all.
12089	7/10/2012	freedom and sharing of information is key to a progressive participatory society.
12090	7/10/2012	Because the library has resources unavailable anywhere else. It is user friendly.
12091	7/10/2012	Libraries provide education, recreation, connection with ideas, and connection with others in the community. They are a meeting place, as well as a resource for kids to learn or get help with homework, a way for homebound residents and kids at daycare to get materials...they are part of the glue of society.
12092	7/10/2012	Educating our communities and providing education-related resources are our only way to improve other issues our communities and country are facing.
12093	7/10/2012	I value easy access to a great variety of books, magazines, other media.

12094	7/10/2012	For me personally the library is important for my learning new things, and being able to research areas of interest. □ □ For me as a citizen, it is important that my community has access to a wide spectrum of media, no matter what the financial resources of its members are. The libraries are important in sustaining an informed democracy.
12095	7/10/2012	I use research services and Interlibrary loan for my research work. Reading books is also my major form of self-education and entertainment. I don't watch TV.
12096	7/10/2012	it is important to me that our citizenry have access to library resources, be it books, research materials, computers for those who can't afford them. Also, I think it is important that children learn to use a library, reading, learning in a non-materialistic way. Borrowing materials is sustainable!
12097	7/10/2012	Libraries are still extremely important. However, when compared to all other local services, I can see why it would be placed on the backburner; things like the homelessness, school and education programs, and other things would take priority. This isn't to say the library should shut down, rather that a library being open would have a different effect than say, a free clinic being open.
12098	7/10/2012	I like physical books more than ebooks. Libraries save me a lot of book money.
12099	7/10/2012	It's important to have an educated and well informed public.
12100	7/10/2012	Because we need to keep people reading and to encourage our young readers to engage with words.
12101	7/10/2012	Not sure what you mean by public services, so if you mean police, fire, road maintenance, and that sort of thing, the library ranks below them, but I think libraries are important. One of the great things for us having an office downtown is that it's close to the river, transit and the library.
12102	7/10/2012	In the words of Andrew Carnegie, "There is not such a cradle of democracy on earth as the Free Public Library, this republic of letters, where neither rank, office, nor wealth receives the slightest consideration."
12103	7/10/2012	Because libraries level the playing field - everyone can access library resources and services to better themselves and to enrich their lives. They are an important part of our education system and civic life. They help people feel connected to their communities. Libraries are also a thoroughly positive government service. Unlike police, fire, and waste management, libraries, like parks, are government meant to enrich your life, not protect or manage it.
12104	7/10/2012	Most public safety and k-8 education would rank higher, but little if anything else would rank higher.
12105	7/10/2012	I can't imagine not having the library!

12107	7/10/2012	A community that has access to information can stay viable. Emphasize important of reading and eduction.[]
12108	7/10/2012	Available to all.[] Create a sense of community
12109	7/10/2012	The library is like a community center in many aspects.
12110	7/10/2012	They allow access to knowledge for everyone regardless of income
12111	7/10/2012	They provide resorses and reading materials for my foster kids. My foster daughter loves the read to the dogs program. It helps build her self esteem.
12112	7/10/2012	Important
12113	7/10/2012	I read a lot but cannot afford to buy books. I also use the libraries computers.
12114	7/10/2012	I would have to assume fire depts and police are other public svces and therefore would be more important
12115	7/10/2012	I answered as well as I could given how vague Question #7 was.
12116	7/10/2012	The amount of money my family and community save by having access to such a complete collection.
12117	7/10/2012	Reading maketh a full man.
12118	7/10/2012	I use these whereas I don't use other services.
12119	7/10/2012	They aren't important compared to the police and fire department, but they are very important relative to other cultural parts of the city.
12120	7/10/2012	access to information is incredibly important, and libraries are key in providing this, especially to low income patrons.
12121	7/10/2012	The library is available to everyone. It is of use for people who do not have computer access, a source of reading materials that you may not want to purchase, and the downloadable music is wonderful.
12122	7/10/2012	The library gives everyone access to information & supports intellectual freedom and personal privacy. Access to computers & the training to use them are essential services that are severely underfunded.

12123	7/10/2012	I love the library. Books are expensive to buy, especially kids books. I can provide my kids with tons of different types of books and constantly get them new selections without spending any money. My kids love going to the library and knowing they can take home anything they find. We like having all the kids music and kid-friendly TV shows and movies. I like being able to put my favorite kids and adult books on hold and knowing they will come eventually - it's like Christmas every time I find something waiting on the shelf for me. But mostly think libraries are important because they provide kids and families a means to read, learn to read, use the computer, be read to, have a safe place to spend time after school, etc. Our local library is filled with kids after school gets out - how cool that kids want to come to the library!
12124	7/10/2012	Libraries are vital to the health of our community, allowing folks, regardless of ability or income, access to an empowering network of information and knowledge.
12125	7/10/2012	The library remains a vital source for information, knowledge and entertainment, especially for those with limited resources.
12126	7/10/2012	The library enriches our lives. Life would be much less interesting and pleasant without our books and other library resources. Our library in many way fulfills fundamental human needs.
12127	7/10/2012	I have used public libraries since I was 7, and was fortunate to have started out with the great NYC library system. I worked for years in public and academic libraries as an information specialist, library asst and reference asst. I no longer buy books, cds, or dvds as my job earnings are so low during this recession/depression in the US economy. I can, at least, continue to learn and grow with the help of the public library's great resources including ILL. Keep out libraries strong! They are one of the great achievements of the American people.
12128	7/10/2012	Libraries support civic culture by being a gathering place, and a resource of learning and information available to all.
12129	7/10/2012	Libraries provide resources useful to all ages and classes. [] [] One resource in particular is computer/internet access. When having access to computers and the internet it critical for getting a job, keeping up with health records and more, it's so valuable that that service is available to all. [] [] Libraries also encourage learning, open mindedness, community and more. I can't think of a lot of other public services that meet such a broad range of needs and people.

		"Knowledge sets us free, art sets us free. A great library is freedom... [] That joy must not be sold. It must not be 'privatised,' made into another privilege for the privileged. A public library is a public trust. [] And that freedom must not be compromised. It must be available to all who need it, and that's everyone, when they need it, and that's always." []
12130	7/10/2012
12131	7/10/2012	—Ursula K. LeGuin, "My Libraries," The Wave in the Mind , pp. 22-23 I don't know. Libraries have always been important in my life/
12132	7/10/2012	I use library for information, entertainment, and as a elderly person it helps keep my mind active. It's my main source of entertainment---reading---and I can no longer afford to buy books.
12133	7/10/2012	A world without Books is unfathomable. They are our past, present, and future. They feed the mind & the Soul.
12134	7/10/2012	My family uses the books and media provided by the library on a daily basis.
12135	7/10/2012	Because I love to learn and be able to access good information and books without having to purchase things. There aren't a lot of other public services to compare it to. Public transportation can be replace by bike for me, and the SMILE station is a good meeting place but not as open as the Library.
12136	7/10/2012	If need be, I have the resources to build my own specific library, but would be hard-pressed to replace police and fire protection.
12137	7/10/2012	It depends upon what you mean by "other local public services." Water? Electricity? Garbage[] collection? There is no comparison between the library and other local services. Becasue in what has become a corosively market driven society knowledge is increasinly being locked up available only to those with wealth. The price of quality literature and science and scientific journals is prohibitive. Even OHSU's BICC (aka Library) cannot afford to subscribe to many good medical science journals because Science Direct / Elsevier charges exorbitant rates for subscriptions. []
12138	7/10/2012	But increasinly much of what Mult. Co. Library does is not only socially worthless of pernicious because it A) undermines the social mission of public libraries and because it B) contributes to dumbering down of society through an increasingly low quality collection. [] In addition, the management and board are incompetent and should have been replaced in toto years ago. Management is also dishonest in my experience.
12139	7/10/2012	encourage literacy and further education
12140	7/10/2012	because this is where I get alot of resouces for my family

12141	7/10/2012	Because I use them all the time!
12142	7/10/2012	I believe that education is an essential need, like food, safety and housing. This is the only service that I pay high taxes for which I actually use ! []
12143	7/10/2012	Education [] community [] support healthy communities
12144	7/10/2012	A literate, thoughtful society is our greatest hope for health, peace, and prosperity. I have a school aged daughter who gets the majority of her reading material there. She sees friends there and enjoys finding new things. She loves the children's librarian who she met as an infant, and who takes an interest in all the kids in the area and has come to local schools to read to the kids. Our branch is an important part of our neighborhood.
12146	7/10/2012	free public meeting place, free access to materials; most everything else is private and for-profit
12147	7/10/2012	education is so very important and reading plays a key role in learning. access to limitless educational opportunities is essential to the success of our youth.
12148	7/10/2012	My husband uses the library frequently, and I use it with some regularity. Not as often as daily utilities, roads, etc. or as important as emergency services.
12149	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time for movies, books and music. I believe libraries are a valuable service and an excellent community hub.
12150	7/10/2012	Because the library is the one service that we use consistently.
12151	7/10/2012	Besides schools and roads, it is the service we use most.
12152	7/10/2012	I think the library is important, but if I had to choose between fire, police, and emergency services, schools and working roads, I would be sad, but I would choose those over the library.
12153	7/10/2012	Libraries provide an important community resource - free access to information, learning, etc.
12154	7/10/2012	I use them. I appreciate them. They are essential to any neighborhood.
12155	7/10/2012	I don't use it often
12156	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot for leisure reading and for occasional research. Even though I do not use the other programs, they seem valuable to improving the community at large and I support making them available to others.
12157	7/10/2012	The library is a necessity for me. Since I am no longer in school, I don't have access to the University library system, necessarily. I use our system for leisure and professional research.
12158	7/10/2012	A centralized, more or less free opportunity for all folks to learn and share knowledge!
12159	7/10/2012	Because the library offers a variety of programs for the community. There's something for everyone at the library, whether it be a book to read, computers to use for jobseekers, programs for anyone from ages 1-100, etc.
12160	7/10/2012	They provide so much needed stimulation, entertainment, learning, community, resource and safe indoor space to use for free!

12161	7/10/2012	Educated communities are correlated with number of libraries. The least libraries the more non educated communities; it is like styles of living, and so in the USA it should be a choice.
12162	7/10/2012	It is a place for the community to come together in different facets, a public place as a source of knowledge and resources
12163	7/10/2012	We have more critical areas that require our limited resources
12164	7/10/2012	community needs trusted public source of programs and information
12165	7/10/2012	The library provides books, cds, dvds, programs to many in our community who cannot afford these basic pleasures of reading, music, and entertainment. The library provides an outlet for these individuals, and even many who can afford these pleasures, but choose to reuse instead of running out and buying something new.
12166	7/10/2012	Because we find resources using media and electronics. We are not willing to continue to pay increasing taxes to fund it. The library should be looking at how to stay relevant.
12167	7/10/2012	I feel we need to help kids especially and libraries are one of the best ways to do it. Also, help people find work again. Libraries can help people help themselves and feel good about themselves.
12168	7/10/2012	I love having a resource to learn up on short-need topics. I don't need to own a bathroom remodeling book, or travel book about Brazil, but I would love to have one on hand while the topic is relevant. The programs offered by the library are largely unnecessary for me, but I'm glad they are there and hope they still will be when I have kids and get old.
12169	7/10/2012	Because libraries, like public education, are at the foundation of having a literate society capable of participating in a democracy.
12170	7/10/2012	With our two kids approaching school age, school quality and funding is our highest concern. Libraries would be a close second, however, as they complement schools and may in some cases have to serve as backstops to the loss of school libraries and librarians.
12171	7/10/2012	Because access to information and learning services should be available to all and that library allows for that.
12172	7/10/2012	Free public access to information from libraries is a basic right, not a privilege. Enhancing literacy and access to common cultural resources is key to community.
12173	7/10/2012	I value the library because it's important for my kids, but I don't personally use them.
12174	7/10/2012	Libraries are a source of knowledge like schools.
12175	7/10/2012	I would say public health and infrastructural maintenance, and emergency response are more important in their effects on the population as a whole, but in the second tier of public services, the services provided by the local library, providing access to information, knowledge, enjoyment and community networks, are essential to a rich and thriving community.

12176	7/10/2012	Library services are an information gateway for both fact and fiction. Much of the information is available from other sources, however, at additional user cost. Information resources are not as important as security services such as police and fire protection, but should be available to form and informed society.
12177	7/10/2012	Roads and youth recreation are important too. Libraries are up there with education as very important.
12178	7/10/2012	The library is one of the few public services I use on a regular basis.
12179	7/10/2012	I love the library. It meets the needs of all people regardless of social or economic resources.
12180	7/10/2012	Information and knowledge are the key to all quality products & services, and the library provides free access to it.
12181	7/10/2012	I think it's about access to information. More than any other public service, it serves as a hub for creating smarter, more informed communities---it is mostly non-discriminating (could be more books in different languages)--serving people of all ages, cultures, and abilities. It provides tools for people to move and connect better in their daily lives--computer access, cultural resources, community education etc. Many other services provide the safety net for communities to function i.e. fire/police...these are important, but a library provides a more nuanced service...it creates community connections.
12182	7/10/2012	This question is at the crux of what makes a city "livable". It is inappropriate to compare the importance of any one public service against another...whether I prefer having access to a library or that the trash on our city streets is picked up by the city/county (which is not done in Portland)? Not fair - the definition of "a livable city" is one that is able to provide it's citizens all services at a level that protects, maintains and improves residents' lives. All public services are "Very Important".
12183	7/10/2012	I grew up going to Libraries and although I may not go as much any more they are still incredibly important to who I am and how I hope to raise my children.
12184	7/10/2012	Only source for learning
12185	7/10/2012	I place a high value on books especially in this day and age where they seem to be disappearing and feel that I am indebted to our library systems.
12186	7/10/2012	The library and literacy is the citadel of democracy and diverse thought.
12187	7/10/2012	My girls are all avid readers, it is important - I do not have the money for new books - reading is essential to our youth! also see how the library systems helps seniors - and job seekers and those who can not afford internet - it is true, we would be lost without our library.
12188	7/10/2012	Because it is a the fundamental site of the fulfillment of the american dream. Anyone can come, for free, and access educational services. The library is how I studied for the GREs last year, how I began to learn spanish to find a job, and before that, how I originally learned to read. It is a quintessential american institution. Long live the library!

12189	7/10/2012	100% of the books I read come from the library, and reading is one of my greatest hobbies. Having a small local branch also builds community.
12190	7/10/2012	I read & listen to books on tape regularly. And use the library to find new novels, to research and to make decisions in my life
12191	7/10/2012	as an avid reader i rely on the library to keep me in material....i like having a kindle, but the books i want to read aren't always available in that medium.
12192	7/10/2012	I vote for and pay all levies that support the library so I have access to the newest published books and movies which saves me money...
12193	7/10/2012	Libraries bring communities together to learn and grow as a whole.
12194	7/10/2012	they provide education and feed the mind and soul, which i value as much as other municipal services (sanitation, safety, community)
12195	7/10/2012	It is one of the few resources that encourages community and offers something for everyone and the betterment of everyone who chooses to seek it.
12196	7/10/2012	I utilize the library all the time.
12197	7/10/2012	I think the library is important to have. Although, I do not use it frequently I like having the option to get a book before a vacation or use it for reference materials. I also think it provides an important service to our community.
12198	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a vital role in the education of our community. They are not, however, a life sustaining agency similar to fire, police, TriMet.
12199	7/10/2012	I think the spectrum is too broad for me to say "very important" although I treasure and make use of the library a lot. I would pay more in property taxes to preserve what I get today. But it's not as important as police and fire (of course, the library also doesn't routinely kill its patrons [that I know of]).
12200	7/10/2012	An educated city with access to materials will move us forward. I like programs available to those who need/seek them out, even if I don't use any of the programs. I think other public services also empower the city, such as parks, but the library system is a key component.
12201	7/10/2012	Books and having a gathering place for the community enrich all members of that community. The love of reading cannot be replaced-it is a conduit to further imagination, knowledge and self-discovery. I have always loved going to the library, since childhood. It was a much-needed escape from an uncertain world.
12202	7/10/2012	My greatest concern are child and seniors. Children should be able to receive/access what the library is offering in a school setting whereas seniors oftentimes have no where to turn. [] Library services are important but with so many services/programs being cut it doesn't rank as a very high priority although it is important.
12203	7/10/2012	Because can find a wide of information
12204	7/10/2012	They foster a sense of community.[] They are available to all regardless of income.

12205	7/10/2012	Library access is key in providing education experiences for people of all ages. I consider a good education paramount for everyone, especially under-privileged families.
12206	7/10/2012	give free access to all to the same information. If not for libraries, who would provide computer access for people who need it, who would provide books for people who are house bound and cannot afford to buy new books? It is also a great place to meet the community around same interests
12207	7/10/2012	It's a big part of living a complete and well examined life. In a society as ostensibly developed as we like to think we are it's hard to rank library services against law enforcement, fire fighters and infrastructure. WE NEED ALL OF THEM
12208	7/10/2012	Access to information builds education and awareness to make better citizens
12209	7/10/2012	library services are access to education and knowledge I love the library but in all honesty it's not a life or death resource. Fire, police, a municipal water supply, parks and recreation are all more critical.[] []
12210	7/10/2012	Why is the library reading to young children? Their parents should be doing that. It's not the library's job to be a surrogate parent. And programs for seniors? I'm 57 and I know a seniors who use library resources for one reason: they're CHEAP. And these are people with money. But they'd rather use library internet and borrow books because they are cheap. I realize this doesn't apply to all seniors, but you might be surprised how many are tightwads using these resources to save a dime.
12211	7/10/2012	I cannot stress enough the importance of libraries! They allow those of us who can't afford to buy every new book or textbook to keep ourselves both educated and entertained and provide many important services!
12212	7/10/2012	I like the resources provided for me, and for all the other people I see there.
12213	7/10/2012	I use the library VERY often, for research, pleasure reading, and quick internet access. I frequently reserve books online, which is TOTALLY wonderful.
12214	7/10/2012	Because they provide access to art, literature, education, and technology to all Portland residents regardless of their ability to pay.
12215	7/10/2012	Schools, Police, Fire Department, Well maintained streets, water and electrical systems are more important to me but I do value the library.
12216	7/10/2012	As a learning tool for individuals of ALL ages, I think it's hard to quantify the value of libraries... however as a tool for research, study, and learning, it's an important resource to keep available to everyone. As so many are relying on digital information, I think think books & library browsing/interaction remains very valuable.
12217	7/10/2012	I grow up with book reading and searching. my best hubby is library .

12218	7/10/2012	Having a local library says a lot about a neighborhood and the community and citizens at large. Communities that don't support the library probably won't support other public services and then pretty soon you have a community that is in trouble. Troubled communities and cities don't attract businesses and employers and that makes for a city that will spiral into despair. Those of us that went to school before the internet used the library exclusively for research. Technology has made it easier (or perhaps has made us lazier) to bypass the library, however there is still much value in going to a place that is filled with books and being able to peruse the shelves to find that one book.
12219	7/10/2012	I homeschool my kids, and I rely heavily on library books for their curriculum. Library is very important in improving quality of living and enrich anyone's life.[]
12220	7/10/2012	However, some other organizations that focus on health, sanitation, and social services, education and security are more foundational to maintaining society.
12221	7/10/2012	the library is a place one knows will stimulate their mind and imagination. Sometimes its purposeful as in researching a topic other times it is random seeing the cover of a book on the lucky day shelf. It is also the fact that a library reflects a community saying we value knowledge & learning and helping people achieve that.
12222	7/10/2012	They provide a valuable service to all Multnomah County residents, regardless of income or whether they have a computer of their own.
12223	7/10/2012	to gain knowledege is to gain wisdom, understanding, and power
12224	7/10/2012	Water, electricity and food is needed for human survival.
12225	7/10/2012	They are needed services
12226	7/10/2012	I love reading and the library, but also think it is not a necessity like public services for school, police, fire, roads, infrastructure.
12227	7/10/2012	Library services contribute greatly to the quality of life here in Portland.
12228	7/10/2012	Obviously, fire and police services would come first.
12229	7/10/2012	not even so much to me because i have other resources, but it is important to me that our society has resources for learning. Ignorance is my biggest fear.
12230	7/10/2012	Because knowledge is power.
12231	7/10/2012	access to all books and entertainment
12232	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot and it is important to my quality of life.
12233	7/10/2012	Need access to information.
12234	7/10/2012	Well a society that can't read is impossible to govern.
12235	7/10/2012	I am a lower income working poor class and rely on the library as a source of entertainment for books, dvds and free events.
12236	7/10/2012	The library offers a great variety of services. Computer access for those that can't afford their own, reading programs to introduce kids to the importance of reading.
12237	7/10/2012	Research materials and books to read so I don't have to buy them

12238	7/10/2012	because I rely on the resources and materials made available to me for free so that I may educate my children to become fluent readers and found early literacy skills
12239	7/10/2012	Due to a chaotic childhood, the library was always a sanctuary to me. It is the one of the first things I find when I move to a new place and still gives me comfort.
12240	7/10/2012	one of the truly democratic services provided by government
12241	7/10/2012	The library can provide resources when some other local services are downgraded. It's vitally important that library services such as internet access are available to disadvantaged members of our communities.
12242	7/10/2012	Love having access to media. Love knowing I can expand my horizons just by dropping in.
12243	7/10/2012	it's important for all people to have access to literature and a community space in which to engage with services such as storytime for children, english language assistance, and computer access.
12244	7/10/2012	Reading is a well for continued levels of knowledge gaining throughout our entire lives, and one that we can control. Many other social programs are of much less importance than library services, and should be earmarked for reductions if needed.
12245	7/10/2012	I'm retired and have more time to read and do research than working individuals. Also, the library system lets me search for material in my home - very nice.
12246	7/10/2012	People need to eat and have shelter more than they need to read, but libraries are vital to the health and well-being of a community.
12247	7/10/2012	I rank libraries below police and fire but equal to schools.
12248	7/10/2012	I love having the freedom to access books, audio books, movies, and CDs for my own personal study and leisure. It inspires me to read more and to share books with my boyfriend's kid who I normally would not buy things for, so I can share in my joy of reading with him. I feel like I am part of a better community because of the opportunities the library offers. I am proud to live in Portland and brag about our incredible online rental system to newcomers.
12249	7/10/2012	Access to movies books, internets , workshops and classes.
12250	7/10/2012	Education and opportunity are critical to a vibrant metro area.
12251	7/10/2012	Because I think they increase our youth's level of literacy, which is critical to maintain and vibrant and thriving economy and community into the future. It is a resource, which also helps people find jobs and stay connected to the internet. I could not afford to purchase a book every time I want to read one, so the library provides me a way to do this.
12252	7/10/2012	I love the fact that I can easily get books, movies, music, and more without having to burden that cost on my own. Sharing the cost allows us to share the wealth!
12253	7/10/2012	It is something I use constantly and encourage and take my grandchildren. I think the library is so important for young people to get involved in using. It is a wonderful resource.
12254	7/10/2012	Libraries are gateways to a wider world. They expose people to different ways of thinking and different cultures. They offer resources for living like learning the internet, help for small businesses and places for families to gather and learn something new.

12255	7/10/2012	Although I do not use many of the services, I believe in them. An educated, literate public is vital for the health of our city, state, nation.
12256	7/10/2012	When I was younger and didnt have much money I used the library constantly to check out books and movies. I love the library and I think its a great support service for people with low income.
12257	7/10/2012	Maria at the Gregory Heights branch is a wonderful youth educator. We love going to her story times and meeting other families.
12258	7/10/2012	Libraries provide tools and resources for every type of success in life.
12259	7/10/2012	They give people the opportunity to experience new ideas, explore great minds and experience great art. A library is a unique and valuable resource. The library represents so much. []
12260	7/10/2012	At the base level, it's a safe place to be.[] From there, it holds the potential to enrich lives through opening up a new interest, feeding the imagination or staying up to date on current events. I personally don't take public transportation and I feel relatively safe in the city so the buses and police/fire services don't seem as important to me as access to information does. I plan on going back to school in the fall to further my career and I plan on using the Multnomah County Library a great deal. []
12261	7/10/2012	[] I guess the only other public service that I can think of that I think is more important than the library is the garbage and recycling. I suppose power is up there too but I think we could get by with candle light. I just wouldn't want a bunch of garbage everywhere.
12262	7/10/2012	I have been a library user all my life, second only to breathing.
12263	7/10/2012	Libraries and mass transit are the last bastions of community--shared resources available to all, regardless of income level, socioeconomic status, etc.
12264	7/10/2012	Ability to do research
12265	7/10/2012	Extremely important- along worth education, public safety, and public health
12266	7/10/2012	Socially levels the playing field.
12267	7/10/2012	one of the services that I can actually use.
12268	7/10/2012	Access to information and reading material should be a basic service along with pubic safety and schools.
12269	7/10/2012	while I am an avid user of my Kindle, often there are new books that I have seen reviewed that I check out. I appreciate the fact that Multnomah libraries are very current ordering new books.
12270	7/10/2012	I use the library to get books for my early childhood special education classroom that my work and I could not afford otherwise.
12271	7/10/2012	Literacy, information access is key to keeping us from becoming a fascist country as opposed to a democrcy.
12272	7/10/2012	Productivity and going forward with life and life issues.

12273	7/10/2012	This is an impossible question. Compared to public safety and trash removal, quite low. Compared to discretionary spending, quite high.
12274	7/10/2012	??
12275	7/10/2012	I use the library to check out books frequently. It saves money and paper. I think your library has an excellent selection and have been really impressed with services overall.
12276	7/10/2012	Children benefit from library services, particularly in the summertime. I don't have kids but I remember as a child receiving many benefits.
12277	7/10/2012	provides entertainment and an information resource
12278	7/10/2012	I use the Library as much as I do the local roads...
12279	7/10/2012	Very much so. Reading is the most impactful thing a person can do for themselves and bleeds to every other aspect of their lives.
12280	7/10/2012	I personally have had a love of libraries since I was young, but I feel like they overlap with areas such as schools and employment offices in some of the services they offer. I would like to see more interaction with these areas, to reduce overlap or find efficiencies.
12281	7/10/2012	That's a very vague question. Having public schools and healthcare are more important to me than libraries. But I do like having the library system in place.
12282	7/10/2012	On a scale of 1-10 - #1 as most important? After food and water and sewage- LIBRARIES are Most important!
12283	7/10/2012	I like the services that the library offers, and more importantly it makes the world of books available to people who could not otherwise afford to purchase them.
12284	7/10/2012	On a city-wide and societal level, it's extremely important to provide an accessible resource for media that is open to all people and all ages.
12285	7/10/2012	I like to read, but don't always make the time to do so. I believe that health care, as a public service, is more important than the library.
12286	7/10/2012	It is so important for the community to have access to books and learning opportunities. It is vital for children to be exposed to books!
12287	7/10/2012	I think it helps teach children that there are resources available to them
12288	7/10/2012	Very- I drive long distances for work and rely on materials to help keep me awake and able to tolerate the long hours.
12289	7/10/2012	I'm a voracious reader!
12290	7/10/2012	I believe that reading is so important, especially for children. For some kids, the library is the only access they have for books and computers. I believe that libraries are a vital part of our community.
12291	7/10/2012	Because the library by its nature and comprehensive services responds to so many vital needs of its diverse patrons, especially patrons who are less financially successful.

12292	7/10/2012	I wouldn't give up the fire department or anything if it was one or the other, but it ranks very high up on my list. Giving people without the means access information and resources they might not otherwise be able to is very important, as well as enriching the community as a whole. We want smart informed citizens, or at least we should want that.
12293	7/10/2012	I mostly use the library to get books for my toddler son. He LOVES books, and the library enables me to always have a variety of books for him to supplement what we own. This is key to making him into a lifelong reader.
12294	7/10/2012	Libraries are a cornerstone of a healthy democracy in terms of providing access to knowledge. Also, they are an integral part of a healthy community - as a gathering space and a place to learn about community resources for those in need of assistance.
12295	7/10/2012	I use them, reading is important
12296	7/10/2012	I am a senior citizen on a limited income. I am also an avid reader and rely on the books and other media that I can borrow freely from the library. Without the library my access to current books, movies etc. would be severely limited. These are my personal reasons. I am also firmly committed to the need to provide access to books, dvds, music and computers to the general public who might otherwise not have these available to them, whatever their circumstances. Without our libraries, those of us without ample means would be deprived of a major cultural and practical resource.
12297	7/10/2012	Because it is important to teach kids to read AND comprehend what they are reading too. Otherwise, we end up with way too many citizens who can only work menial or fast food jobs, #7 is tough to answer when don't know what "other local public services" are. Police? Fire? [] []
12298	7/10/2012	The library offers asstes and skill building important to our culture, education and job attainment and retention. [] [] I believe many do not realize the great positive impact local libraries have on individuals and communities. Libraries touch all education and economic levels - amazing.
12299	7/10/2012	I believe in a socialized community.
12300	7/10/2012	Because this is one of the services that I actually enjoy and choose to use
12301	7/10/2012	more important than police and fire.
12302	7/10/2012	They give me access to books that I cannot afford to buy.
12303	7/10/2012	This is a community resource tied to education and accessibility for all.
12304	7/10/2012	Because I use it weekly, unlike, say county health services.
12305	7/10/2012	Because we use the services frequently
12306	7/10/2012	libraries are at the core of community education, in my opinion

12307	7/10/2012	They provide a safety net for underfunded public education both for children and adults. They provide safe space for kids to gather and enjoy themselves in a productive way. They encourage a culture of literacy and critical thinking in an age when these things are in short supply.
12308	7/10/2012	I love having new books for my children to read, access to reference materials I'd otherwise not be able to buy, and it plays an important role in the community for education for those less fortunate than me.
12309	7/10/2012	Its education.
12310	7/10/2012	Libraries are the arteries by which ideas are disseminated into our community. They are a free resource by which anyone can educate themselves and better their environment.
12311	7/10/2012	Reading is very important in life for everyone, young or old.
12312	7/10/2012	As adults, we use the library often. As a child, I used it ALL THE TIME. Kids should still have the opportunity to read!
12313	7/10/2012	Police and fire top importance. Library After those
12314	7/10/2012	Because reading is important. Being part of a borrowing community is important. Getting out of my house is important.
12315	7/10/2012	Adore reading. Gateway to the world.
12316	7/10/2012	Many people use them all the time and access to knowledge is critical for all people, regardless of their socioeconomic standing.
12317	7/10/2012	it is important to make books available to people, especially children.
12318	7/10/2012	I use mainly for occasional borrowing of books and media. Last time I wanted to borrow a book, there was a 100 person waiting list...
12319	7/10/2012	Our libraries are right at the top along with schools, police, fire, senior citizen outreach etc. Each of these public services are necessary to have a healthy community.
12320	7/10/2012	Education is essential for human progress. Libraries are necessary to provide books and other media to people who cannot afford to buy such items. Reading opens minds; provides information, expands and develops critical thinking skills, promotes understanding, helps people face their issues, etc.
12321	7/10/2012	Having access to "free" books is invaluable. Especially in the past, I haven't always had the money to go out and purchase books, but I've found and read so many at the library. This is a service that my family and I use almost every day. Our county is fortunate in having a wonderful library, well stocked with reading materials, computers, and helpful staff. It helps students, English learners, the homeless, and people with limited means to achieve the things they may aspire to. To me, the library is just as important as schools and the police department.
12322	7/10/2012
12323	7/10/2012	Information needs to be available for ALL of our community members
12324	7/10/2012	They're a free place to stay occupied
12325	7/10/2012	I have always been a supporter of the local library. I feel it is beneficial to all ages, and provides services and opportunities not available elsewhere.

12326	7/10/2012	Libraries provide safe, neutral meeting grounds for all community members. They allow access to people that would not have the financial stability to purchase reading materials and other resources. I find that libraries are particularly important because our public school system is not well funded and thus declining in the quality of education provided to children; libraries help to counteract some of this negative impact. Our libraries provide many of us with material and resources that we would not be able to accumulate on our own or would not know how to access, such as small business programs.
12327	7/10/2012	The help every group in our community from children to seniors to job seekers. I see so much potential in using our library to help people have free access to resources to improve their lives and the lives of their children.
12328	7/10/2012	An educated populace is required for a healthy democracy, and libraries help support literacy and critical thinking.
12329	7/10/2012	I believe that everyone should have access to the written word, as I believe everyone should have the right to a basic public education and health care.
12330	7/10/2012	I love to read and it's a brilliant way to read all the books I can without having to buy them.
12331	7/10/2012	Well, someone absolutely has to answer 911 and make sure the reservoir doesn't get poisoned, but libraries are incredibly important. They are not a place to balance the budget. They are a cornerstone of an educated society, and I believe that the people of Portland will rise up to protect them, in the face of any shortfall in funding. Those of us who have done well for ourselves have an obligation to pass the resources for success to those who are still striving to achieve. We know this is not free, but a cost of a just society.
12332	7/10/2012	We get most of our books, CD's, and DVD's from our library. It saves us hundreds of dollars a year.
12333	7/10/2012	You might as well ask me why imagination is important to me. I am constantly looking for good information, as well as "good reads", to feed that curiosity. I believe bookstores benefit from having libraries around- the more people read, the more they want to read. I believe that a good public library system is a huge equalizer- the same services are available to all, regardless of income. It is an enormous factor in "quality of life" for a town.
12334	7/10/2012	Libraries used to be very important to me - so much so that I attended several meetings regarding the new Troutdale library and where to locate it. After seeing that process and how community input was totally disregarded I have lost my enthusiasm for supporting the libraries.
12335	7/10/2012	There are lots of budget cuts right now and I think the library is useful, but to me, it's not imperative.
12336	7/10/2012	During times of unemployment the library is a way to still access books, music and films that I love
12337	7/10/2012	I am not fully aware of all the services provided by the library, but I am under the impression they are under-utilized as free and efficient sources of help/expertise/education.
12338	7/10/2012	I use the internet for information and download newer books to our Kindle.
12339	7/10/2012	It's where we go for community, to get information, to educate our children, and it's free.
12340	7/10/2012	It is the service I use the most

12341	7/10/2012	Because this is the first level of learning for our children and myself.
12342	7/10/2012	I have the means to get books and information elsewhere, but the library is vital for a large portion of the population who do not have the resources available that I do.
12343	7/10/2012	Knowledge and entertainment!
12344	7/10/2012	Reading is critical to education.
12345	7/10/2012	Without the library, I (and my son) would have very limited access to the materials and programs that are currently available through the library.
12346	7/10/2012	Reading is an essential part of my life. The library offers free resources to all people.
12347	7/10/2012	they provide a variety of services to all age levels
12348	7/10/2012	I use the library weekly. I check hundreds of books out for myself and my children, and my husband does as well. Literacy and access to materials are extremely important to our society .
12349	7/10/2012	Crucial part of the community and establishing early literacy
12350	7/10/2012	The primary responsibility of local public services are public safety (law enforcement), emergency services (fire & medical), roads, and ensuring delivery of utilities. The library is a great asset to our community, but is not at the same level of importance as the previously mentioned services.
12351	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and also utilize the web site constantly. I have found the reference librarians to be invaluable.
12352	7/10/2012	There may be other public services that are more important like police, fire and emergency services, but libraries are right up there in importance. They support education within the entire community and provide this support to the entire community without regard to ability to pay.
12353	7/10/2012	I use it CONSTANTLY. And its important in times of economic crisis to have libraries that are open to the public.
12354	7/10/2012	No one will die if the Library isn't open.
12355	7/10/2012	Personally, although I use the library, I do not NEED the library. However, there are many friends and neighbors who use it for internet access, education and entertainment. I think our libraries are critical for keeping our citizens informed and our children educated. I also appreciate it as a ballot drop location.
12356	7/10/2012	They provide information and access to technology that is an important equalizer.
12357	7/10/2012	It's important to a community for Libraries to provide the information they do. People who don't have access to the internet can go there and look up all sorts of information, search for jobs, etc. It's important to have an informed populace. The more knowledge people have the better off society will be.

12358	7/10/2012	Libraries are a huge community resource, allowing people, regardless of income, to have access to books and DVDs, newspapers, magazines, etc not to mention basic internet opportunity not easily available otherwise. With the current library technology, People can choose to be self sufficient and be satisfied or can ask for expert help researching complicated issues. Libraries are the great equalizer. There is nothing else that fulfills so many functions for such a wide variety of people, and so consistently.
12359	7/10/2012	Because literacy and access to information are essential for a successful community
12360	7/10/2012	I believe library services are somewhat important when compared to other public services, such as, schools and public health and transportation services.
12361	7/10/2012	As a well educated person, our excellent local libraries with their books, etc., as well as the excellent reference librarians and Interlibrary Loan service are as important to me as air and water.
12362	7/10/2012	Education is as important as food. the libraries are an incredible resource. an educated public is one that can take care of itself without looking to politicians to take care of them.
12363	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a variety of resources that every civilized society should have, primarily access to books of all types, periodicals, and other materials that can be used in research and entertainment. The services provided by a library can't be provided by a private company because private companies are run for a profit which a Public Library, by definition, cannot be.
12364	7/10/2012	Anything that encourages the public to read and/or be informed about anything is a plus.
12365	7/10/2012	They are a huge way to be educated, entertained, and to save money on books, CD's and magazines especially during an economic downturn.
12366	7/10/2012	Well. I believe schools, police and fire are more important that library but I don't mean that libraries aren't important or of value to the community.
12367	7/10/2012	Libraries offer a wealth of information, resources, art and music that would be unaffordable and inaccessible to the individual. They are a constant source of new and old information and the things that promote life in a free society.
12368	7/10/2012	because reading is an important part of civilization. without the resources provided by a local library I feel our youth aren't getting a fair chance to succeed
12369	7/10/2012	I like the idea of being able to explore new areas. My kids are involved with volunteering at the library and it's given them a chance to get younger kids interested and excited about reading. That has been very satisfying for them to pass on. The libraries create a civilized community space, and that is something we benefit from but is less common

12370	7/10/2012	Library services are important, but not critical. I believe, in this economic climate, that we should settle for good enough -- not to be one of the best systems in the nation. When financial times are better we can expand hours and services. Realistically, branches could be open 5 days per week. Closed days could be based on whichever days are typically slowest at that particular branch. And stagger closed days to have a nearby branch open on days the neighboring branch is closed. Ex: Hillsdale is closed Monday & Wednesday. Capitol Hill is closed Tuesday, Sunday.[] [] Or consider 6 days per week operation with reduced afternoon hours... possibly 1P or 1:30P to 7:30P.
12371	7/10/2012	Libraries are the backbone of a community
12372	7/10/2012	it provides free educational resources for my children
12373	7/10/2012	Libraries are critical social, public resources. But there is also competition from the many vital services provided by the county, city, and MPO.
12374	7/10/2012	Book for our kids (6 and 8)
12375	7/10/2012	Why wouldn't they be? What's better than the library?
12376	7/10/2012	I can download books now.
12377	7/10/2012	Our libraries connect us to the world , and to our community.
12378	7/10/2012	I used libraries all the time, but recently use LO library more often due to more books availability
12379	7/10/2012	My husband is unemployed. It takes a computer to look for work. We can't afford a computer or the internet at home - you do the math
12380	7/10/2012	More information is available electronically, thus there is a need to cut back on people/staff services/costs. It's just economics.
12381	7/10/2012	People cannot be expected to make informed decisions unless access to information is provided, viz the library.
12382	7/10/2012	We value the library and all of my family checks books out weekly from there. We are avid readers and wouldn't be able to buy all the books if we didn't have them available to use through the library.
12383	7/10/2012	easy access to important information and culture to the public
12384	7/10/2012	When I had to make a major move and leave all my books behind and get a job at the age of 54, the library became my "life support" and sanctuary. Every day I give thanks for the wonderful library system that is in place here.
12385	7/10/2012	I am a stay at home of 3 kids (ages 3, 3 and 6). We go daily, especially in the winter. We can't afford OMSI or the children's museum or the zoo except rarely. ANd having it in walking distance makes it accessible. Love it.
12386	7/10/2012	Access to educational sources is most important.
12387	7/10/2012	I don't quite get the wording of this statement. All libraries are important as part of a community.

12388	7/10/2012	Free and open access to uncensored information is a key factor in a free society.[] I like to read and can't afford to buy enough books to keep up!
12389	7/10/2012	Libraries are open to all and provide services and programs not offered elsewhere. Libraries promote literacy and democracy. Libraries provide Internet access to people who cannot connect anywhere else. Libraries are community gathering places. I use libraries more than any other publicly funded service.
12390	7/10/2012	Because the library hepls me very much.
12391	7/10/2012	Free access to books and other ed. materials is one of the things that makes this a great country. Equal access for all is an important tenent for new citizens and people of all ages, education levels and socio/economic standing. I love our libraries !!
12392	7/10/2012	The one service I seek out. Other services form the background in my life - security, maintenance, livability, etc.
12393	7/10/2012	The above question depends on which public services you're talking about. I do love the library though.
12394	7/10/2012	Only public education and public safety would rank higher
12395	7/10/2012	Because access to books, computers, internet, and other community resources strengthen our community, and add to quality of life.
12396	7/10/2012	I feel like the library can build community, utilizing shared resources. Also, reading = knowledge. Adults and children alike need to learn and remember this.
12397	7/10/2012	Being home bound the library keeps me busy with things to do. I can't imagine a world without public libraries. I don't think we can have a functioning democracy without them. They provide services that no other institution is capable of providing. They allow children to learn to love books without assuming that they need to spend money to enjoy them. They are one of the last bulwarks against commercial hegemony we have left.
12398	7/10/2012	Connecting community. Access to information. Provide materials for personal education as well as leisure. Dissemination of useful free information (e.g. maps, newspapers, flyers).
12399	7/10/2012	I am a library worker in the greater Portland area, and I know the level of importance the library has for me to access books and information. For others, I've seen how the library can be the only inlet of information for people, whether because it's the only place they can get the internet, the news, job help, or afford supplementary educational resources for their children. Libraries provide an important and safe space for many groups of people, and the American Library Association's dedication to an unbiased and free flow of information to the public.
12400	7/10/2012
12401	7/10/2012	Because I truly believe that freedom begins with equal access to information. Without that, a person can never really be truly free.
12402	7/10/2012	If we don't promote library programs and reading, we'd be a community of people who only get information from Facebook. It's a crucial source of public education and information which can't be easily manipulated by media.

12403	7/10/2012	I primarily use the library for checking out materials, if this service was not available, my life would not be totally ruined, but I would be sad that I no longer had access to such a vast collection of materials, and I would read less as I would not be able to afford purchasing all the books and music that I currently get from the library.
12404	7/10/2012	Because libraries are not just for entertainment, and not just for kids or retired folks. They are for the information needs of all of us as well.
12405	7/10/2012	stand as the exponent of free and unhindered exchange of ideas
12406	7/10/2012	With the horrible graduation numbers from our high schools--we need to make library services available to the young to foster better learning standards.
12407	7/10/2012	I believe that access to information and books should be a right in our society. For only the wealthy and educated to have access to these materials would be a crime. Poor and middle class people can not go out and buy every book about every subject they are interested in. To have access to a library is to have the keys to learn about an unlimited amount of subjects that may interest you.
12408	7/10/2012	Local libraries increase literacy among disadvantaged people
12409	7/10/2012	Highest in importance, even above public transportation. Education is both important and expensive. Many people can only get their education through free library materials. Also, free internet access at the library is becoming a necessity, since not everyone can afford to have a computer and internet access, and more and more information is becoming available only online (even food nutrient content).
12410	7/10/2012	Libraries are equalizers - they help all of have access to information and entertainment. In these days where the internet is used for so much, it is a lifeline for those who don't have internet access any other way.
12411	7/10/2012	RIF
12412	7/10/2012	It is a good common ground for people to be connected to a community and be aware of services.
12413	7/10/2012	i love to read and write. also, they are part of the fabric we call community
12414	7/10/2012	I really count on the library, and am there every week. Libraries level the playing field by making books and other materials available to everyone, regardless of income.
12415	7/10/2012	While I enjoy the lending services provided, they are not essential to me.
12416	7/10/2012	WE USE THE BOOKS FOR READING AND RESEARCH- WOULD OTHERWISE NOT BE ABLE TO AFFORD READING
12417	7/10/2012	I lost my job in 2008 and the library was my source of computer access for a while. Now I am a student and enjoy reading books I can't afford to buy.
12418	7/10/2012	Being able to educate myself, hear new music, and find out about community programming at no cost is crucial to me, as a low-income individual.
12419	7/10/2012	I know I have had many school projects that I wouldn't have complete without library resources to help me.
12420	7/10/2012	Important for feeding the mind, but it does put food on the table, so I can't say it is most important.

12421	7/10/2012	My mother read to me as a child and as soon as I could read myself I started visiting the library and reading books as fast as I could. They are a treasure and provide untold knowledge, entertainment, and tremendous benefits to every community.
12422	7/10/2012	Library services form the cornerstone of a lot of other services, [] 1. Using library facilities to get jobs: if people can get jobs, they are less likely to be homeless, needy and engage in criminal activity. The most vulnerable are most likely to need it at the library[] 2. If people have access to reading and media, they are less likely to have mental health problems[] 3. If people have access to information, they are able to make better decisions about other problems
12423	7/10/2012	i like books and music. the best way to get rid of ignorance is to travel, the next best to read.
12424	7/10/2012	Our society will fall apart without equal and "free" access to information and education to everyone, no matter what status in society or whether you can afford books, movies, a computer, etc., or not. Without libraries we will greatly reduce people's ability to move upward in life, i.e., we will have less people able to pursue the "American Dream." Please don't let our libraries disappear!
12425	7/10/2012	I don;t use it that often
12426	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading and also feel that libraries allow all types of people to have access to reading and other activities offered by the library
12427	7/10/2012	Of any services that the county provides, I use and appreciate the local library services the most and the most often.
12428	7/10/2012	i like books
12429	7/10/2012	It provides an information source to the public that has a diverse array of sources and types.
12430	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important resource to a broad range of people in the community - reading and literacy are very important.
12431	7/10/2012	Education materials available to all.
12432	7/10/2012	My parents read to us and I started reading at a young age. Reading opens up so many avenues of exploration. I'm glad that they provide computers for those who cannot afford to buy them; what else would they do if libraries were not providing that service. They are a huge personal resource for me if I am researching something. Yes, the internet has a lot of good info, but it does not have everything.
12433	7/10/2012	It is important to have a place for people to go to get the resources they need to learn more. The library has so many resources to do that and is a very important part of our every day lives to have a place to get the resources needed to accomplish that.

12434	7/10/2012	It is a resource open to all people, regardless of their culture, religion, age, or social status to enrich themselves and come together with others to obtain information and materials to learn and grow, free of the restraints of organized education and/or religions or other community groups with set doctrine. With the lack of importance placed on arts and music in the schools, it provides a great source for parents to expose their children and on the other end of the spectrum, for elderly on fixed incomes and perhaps living isolated lives due to life changes, it provides a neutral space for them as well. It is a resource that allows people to make their own choices on what they wish to read, watch, enjoy - free of censorship.
12435	7/10/2012	I have interviewed literary authors for more than twenty years on KBOO and have appeared at Powell's with a collection of interviews. There is no more important mission for a society(after the basics are met) than a literate and liberally read populace. It is the foundation of our democratic, catholic household(lower case intended).
12436	7/10/2012	The library is a service that supports so many other public services I'm very concerned about the ripple effect to our community if library services are further reduced. The amount of work the library has done to support job seekers during the recession alone has been invaluable; people who would not be able to navigate the online job application process on their own are applying for and landing jobs. That's good for our community. The second important support service that I worry about losing is the library's work on literacy. Multnomah County's high school graduation rates are embarrassingly low. Literacy at a young age is one the easiest ways to ensure future academic success. These are building block fundamentals we cannot afford to lose!
12437	7/10/2012	Question 7 is unclear - both with respect to what other local public services mean, and what relative importance means. Essential survival services provided by police, fire, utilities are more important than libraries. Libraries are as important as public schools. Libraries are more important than, say, tourist services.
12438	7/10/2012	Making reading accessible to all, especially in this down-turned economy (when not everybody can afford to buy books, etc.).
12439	7/10/2012	b/c it gives all people access to books they may o/w not have. gets kids reading and interested
12440	7/10/2012	I love books & music. The library's a great place to go.
12441	7/10/2012	I love the library and think it is one of our most important services, giving access to reading.
12442	7/10/2012	because they are necessary for people who dont have normal access to computers or other research material
12443	7/10/2012	Limited funding, needs to be spread around
12444	7/10/2012	If we give up on literacy, our whole civilization falls apart!
12445	7/10/2012	It gives me free access to resources I would not be able to afford otherwise. Free internet, job hunt resources, computers, books, etc.
12446	7/10/2012	I place the highest priority on education. i feel the library plays a roles in this, but public schools are primary.

12447	7/10/2012	not crucial to live like water ,electricity,heat,telephone
12448	7/10/2012	I need the police and fire services in an emergency. I simply don't need a physical library any more.
12449	7/10/2012	I read a lot and it's hard to shoplift because all the bookstores are closed.
12450	7/10/2012	they are filled with knowlefge Libraries can provide a special place for communities to gather, share knowledge and learn as well as find some quiet time to read and research in beautiful and clean spaces. The experience is completely unique in that it's always free and available seven days a week.
12451	7/10/2012	There's a network of public services required for any body politic of which library services are terribly important, but not the sum total required.
12452	7/10/2012	It's a nice thing to have books to read, but I would not sacrifice it for police/fire.
12453	7/10/2012	Access to these materials is vital for learning.
12454	7/10/2012	I would say it is right below public transportation. Public libraries are an essential part of any vibrant city.
12455	7/10/2012	Because they provide me with information that isn't so easily obtainable elsewhere, or is expensive.
12456	7/10/2012	I read constantly
12457	7/10/2012	luckily i have never had to take advantage of services offered by te fire and police departments. the library is the main public service my family uses after the schools. with the downturn of the economy we use it more and more frequently.
12458	7/10/2012	Comes after fire, police, water and sewer, and public transpo.
12459	7/10/2012	Very important
12460	7/10/2012	Libraries are a pillar of any city in that they provide open access, for those who seek it, to a means of educating oneself and to a knowledge that empowers one to be able to explore a variety of opportunities.
12461	7/10/2012	I need INFORMATION and seek KNOWLEDGE for both personal and professional growth. Also ENTERTAINMENT in the form of CDs and DVDs. Also MCL helped me learn Tagalog through a circulating 6-CD set.
12462	7/10/2012	There is never a reason to not value the ability to read and learn and research beyond the electronic media.
12463	7/10/2012	The library provides a focus in our community for interaction across cultural lines, which is incredibly important to helping our children, and indeed all of us, maintain and build community. Without this interaction divisions in community will grow and people without book and computer resources at home will be pushed more and more to the margins.
12464	7/10/2012	Reading is central to our lives. That we can take books home for "free " so to speak is an amazing service to the community.
12465	7/10/2012

		It's my source of new ideas, how to do projects, and entertainment (books on tape for in my car use), dvd's.
12466	7/10/2012	 "Compared with other local public services"--what are you talking about, please be more specific. Libraries are more important than filling potholes but less important than the fire department.
12467	7/10/2012	The library is the best resource for LEARNING. The library staff is invaluable.
12468	7/10/2012	 They can help us grow.   I do not have children; however, I think it is imparative children have a place to go to learn to read, study and have access to information. I also think that the services provided to "shut-in" residents is important to keep them active mentally and "involved" in the world around them. After Police and Fire Services, I would rate my library third on the list of importance!
12469	7/10/2012
12470	7/10/2012	 I am a writer and I cannot afford subscriptions to the research databases that I'm able to access via the library. These resources have been invaluable and I only just recently stumbled upon them by chance while visiting the multco site a few years ago. Resources like this and the interlibrary loan system should be publicized better so that more people can take advantage of them. If they aren't used consistently, the powers that be might choose to shut them down due to lacl of interest.   Local libraries foster a strong sense of community and provide access to ideas, learning, and thinking to all in the community. Every single person in the community can have a Library Card and can use the services any time they like. The return on the investment is incredible.
12471	7/10/2012
12472	7/10/2012	Libraries seve as community centers and are central in a democracy do access to technology and printed material.
12473	7/10/2012	Education is so important and libraries can play a critical role in this.
12474	7/10/2012	They are crucial to community.
12475	7/10/2012	Public safety would be #1 for me, but libraries rank right up there.
12476	7/10/2012	To a 1 - 10, I choose an 8
12477	7/10/2012	Reading is almost a lost medium. Reading is important for children and adults.
12478	7/10/2012	MOST INFORMATION IS AVAILABLE ON LINE
12479	7/10/2012	Safe community gathering spot, family friendly, accessible to all, free
12480	7/10/2012	Fire and police are essential. Water service is essential. The library is not.
12481	7/10/2012	I value literacy, education, and enjoy reading very much.
12482	7/10/2012	I have two school-aged kids and am an avid reader myself. Access to books and information is very important to our family.
12483	7/10/2012	We use the services all the time. I believe access to information is one of the most important qualities of our democratic society.
12484	7/10/2012	Public services are varied and important. But books save lives.
12485	7/10/2012	hope

12486	7/10/2012	Libraries are necessary for people without the resources to afford the luxury of buying books, having internet access, attending community classes or for profit programs for their children. Also I really like books and want other people to treasure print media as well.
12487	7/10/2012	Access to computers for those who don't have them (critical to jobseekers, school applicants, those needing government assistance, etc.), open access to knowledge and entertainment.
12488	7/10/2012	In addition to lending books, our libraries offer programs to children, job seekers, and the elderly. People without home computers rely on the library for so many diverse reasons. Children who learn to read will grow to be better, more educated adults, and the programs offered to seniors help enmesh them within their community.
12489	7/10/2012	They provide a place for people to receive knowledge, entertainment, a place to study, and a sense of community all for little to no direct cost (besides those who pay taxes). Many people can't afford to buy new or used books all the time or to buy a computer. The library provides equal access to all.
12490	7/10/2012	See earlier comments.
12491	7/10/2012	I like the location.
12492	7/10/2012	I no longer purchase books for economic reasons. I love the "It's your lucky Day" cart along with the fact that I can request a book and be notified when it is available. I have learned of new authors and subject because of the excellent display of new materials. I also do not have cable and frequently check out CS's and DVD's.
12493	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge and job-seeking resources is vital for a very significant portion of the population.
12494	7/10/2012	Along with arts and culture, our libraries feed the minds of our children and encourage learning throughout ones lifetime. They also create equal opportunity for all minds.
12495	7/10/2012	I'm an educator and researcher - I use the library's resources for projects, and would otherwise have to pay for the books, media, etc. out of my very small company budget. That's my priority--that and having access to novels and movies and books on tape for free. But I'm convinced that reading forms the foundation for children's success--and many parents haven't got the financial resources to buy books. Libraries fill that need.
12496	7/10/2012	Because they promote literacy in our society, especially to the disadvantaged.
12497	7/10/2012	Information is power. I try to get my books through the library rather than purchasing them as I don't have much money I know many others are in similar situations. Also, it provides a community space and, in the hot weather, provides a safe place to cool down or (in the rainy season) a place to be warm and dry. Through the library I have access to more media services than I do on my own. Presently I am a PSU student so I make much use of the PSU library. When I cease being a student I will be returning to the Public library again.

12498	7/10/2012	They are an information and knowledge equalizer. □ They promote a culture where being informed is valued and achievable.□ They promote community by providing a shared space and resource.
12499	7/10/2012	It's extremely important for people of all ages, cultures, and needs to have access to the information and technical services that only a public library can provide.
12500	7/10/2012	I love reading and it's important to me to have access to more material than just those texts I own personally. Also I think it's hugely important to provide this resource free to the public, or people wouldn't read as much as they do
12501	7/10/2012	The first thing I do when I move to a new town/city is get a library card (and I move around a lot!). I never buy books or CDs, and rely on my local library to provide me with all the books I could ever want to read. I am at my library on Woodstock St at least 3-4 days a week returning materials, checking out new materials or using the computers. I believe EVERYONE should have access to books, magazines, newspapers and computers and local libraries are the BEST way to provide that service. I can't imagine a world where there aren't libraries and where people have to go bookless because of it. I will do whatever is needed to keep my local libraries open and operating at as full service (7 days/wk) as possible. My life would not be as enriched or as full without the books I check out and the librarians who encourage me to try new authors and new subject material. The best part of my year last year was when I learned that can now check out books electronically on my kindle! I have never read more than I do now that I can download book after book whenever I want! Thank you for providing this service and I hope you are able to restore our libraries back to full service very soon!
12502	7/10/2012	Everyone must have access to information if we're to have a free, democratic society. I think of libraries as a basic public service. You can't have a city without it.
12503	7/10/2012	Libraries serve our area as cultural hotspots for all our citizens. □ Knowledge is Power!
12504	7/10/2012	Is it enough to house a wide selection of material if it is under utilized? To what extent is it a cities' or counties' responsibility to make such material available? Is it a critical component of a desirable or culturally rich community? Do people read? What do your numbers tell you? I remember reading somewhere that we have one of the highest utilization stats of any city our size or bigger. Is that true? We should communicate that out. It is clear that you guys need more money.
12505	7/10/2012	It's very easy for me to afford access to the Internet any time that I choose, thus I have access to knowledge and information any time I want. That is a luxury that I am very lucky to have, but it should be an essential part of everyone's life. Again, knowledge is power and we should all have access to it. Library services help to even the playing field by allowing all of us access to the Internet, expensive databases and books we could otherwise afford. I feel very passionately that not just the wealthy should have access to such things and I think libraries help to bridge the gap.

12506	7/10/2012	Reading is my primary form of entertainment. I get up in the morning and read until breakfast, then during breakfast (and all other meals.) I don't allow myself the luxury of more reading until late afternoon when it's time to stop and relax. I don't need to own books if I can get them at the library, but if there were no library I would buy them at thrift stores, used book stores, and garage sales, or, as a last resort, from Amazon.
12507	7/10/2012	Safe streets, Quick Fire & health issue response, Local Transportation options, reduced government waste & local debt, Effective schools, Reduced PERS expenditures..... Library
12508	7/10/2012	No city can thrive without free access to information and books. It's what makes us a civilization!
12509	7/10/2012	I am a researcher by trade, so access to books and other media and the Inter Library Loan services are essential to my career.
12510	7/10/2012	I love to read and inspire my 5 year-old nephew to love books, I get several of them for him every month
12511	7/10/2012	very important to me. I use library services quite a bit
12512	7/10/2012	Because education and reading are extremely important to me.
12513	7/10/2012	My son is seven years old and reading is very important to him and to me.
12514	7/10/2012	very high because many people don't have personal access to books or technology
12515	7/10/2012	Libraries services, along with public transportation, create livable, educated communities.
12516	7/10/2012	although i don't use the libraries to their fullest potential, i think they're a vital part of the community and invaluable resource to many others.
12517	7/10/2012	Because I cannot afford to buy books
12518	7/10/2012	Information and educational materials must be available to everyone, especially the disenfranchised, for a functioning society to exist.
12519	7/10/2012	They represent access to education and supports to all individuals in our society, regardless of income.
12520	7/10/2012	Not to me, but to my community. Happy community = happy environment to live in.
12521	7/10/2012	libraries open so many doors... we couldn't possibly afford to purchase all the books we want to read...
12522	7/10/2012	NEED/WANT A SAFE PLACE TO GO TO FIND WONDERFUL BOOKS TO READ. I AM AN "EXTREME READER" AND WOULD REALLY LIKE TO BE ABLE TO CONTINUE TO ACCESS THIS WONDERFUL PROGRAM
12523	7/10/2012	I use the library for research. It's just as important to me as the Internet, i.e., VERY important
12524	7/10/2012	Because I enjoy reading and think that we should place a high value on reading.
12525	7/10/2012	Libraries serve all members of the community, and in different ways. Libraries are part of having a well-educated population, they encourage children to read and learn, provide computers to those who do not have them at home, and my kids say "they're fun!"
12526	7/10/2012	Library system helps make Portland what it is.

12527	7/10/2012	Some services (healthcare for example) I would rate higher but I think the library is important because having access to media for learning is crucial.
12528	7/10/2012	As a teacher and a book-lover, I value greatly both the ability for myself to read current literature, and also the access that others have to programs that support literacy.
12529	7/10/2012	We check out a lot of books and movies, but are starting to use ebooks more and don't like the library ebook system.
12530	7/10/2012	I get nearly all of my media from there. With a young child it would be very costly for me to buy as many books for him as he wants to read.
12531	7/10/2012	Because I care more about safety
12532	7/10/2012	Libraries are the biggest bang for my buck. I like to read and sometimes need computer access I couldn't get elsewhere.
12533	7/10/2012	They provide access to knowledge.
12534	7/10/2012	Across the board the libraries help with information access for all
12535	7/10/2012	I consider public transit to be of more importance
12536	7/10/2012	Because when I am not working or unable to work and/or not be able to afford to pay for my computer at home I will need a library to go to for help.
12537	7/10/2012	Gresham library are second only to police and fire protection. As a senior I can order current books without direct cost, research questions are answered timely and competantly.
12538	7/10/2012	Adequate funding to public schools is most important.
12539	7/10/2012	Because I cannot always afford to buy every book/magazine/access to research and data that I need and/or want. I was unemployed for quite a while and I needed to use the internet for job searching and applications and to keep in touch and not be so isolated after having to give up my personal internet service. Without libraries children cannot hope to develop a lifetime love of reading/knowledge and we all lose out when that happens.
12540	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge, art, and literature for all should always be a high priority.
12541	7/10/2012	While I would rate fire and police services higher than library services, I think a good public library system is an important "quality of life" service. It is an indicator of a civilized society; it recognizes the importance of all the patrons, no matter of age or socio-economic status and it serves all according to their needs.
12542	7/10/2012	I am a college student who works part-time, I don't have money to spend on CDs and books all of the time. The library allows me the privilege to read as much as I want and listen to as much current (or even older) music that I want without emptying my wallet. I'm extremely grateful to them and the convenience of entertainment they bring to me and I'm sure many others in our city!!
12543	7/10/2012	At it's best, a library is a reflection of a community's level of connectedness and commitment to literacy and education.
12544	7/10/2012	We use our library for all our entertainment rentals instead of cable, and my kids love to go and get new books.

12545	7/10/2012	They connect us to the rest of the world. Heck, the rest of the universe, if you read Stephen Hawking or Neil deGrasse Tyson. If you can read, you can learn. If you can read, you can relate to others. If you can read, your options expand. Reading and problem-solving go together.
12546	7/10/2012	Public libraries are an extremely important component of healthy communities. They help facilitate the free flow of information, provide important tools and resources and are hubs for neighborhood activity. When I first moved to Portland 4 years ago the local library was an invaluable resource to me. I used library computers to find a job, and going there regularly gave me a sense of the neighborhood I was in and the people living around me. Whenever I've moved to a new city or town the public library is always the first place I go.
12547	7/10/2012	A democracy needs an educated populace. It needs to encourage and support education for everyone. Libraries are a visible sign of a society that values learning for all. Every time someone in my family is going to start a new project, travel to a new place, spend a lot of money on something, the first thing they do is go to the library.
12548	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important service for our community that covers a large population of students, access for seniors, reading materials for and masses of information for everyone. Parents can introduce reading to toddlers and fun activities. Most people cannot afford to have a library, many books or computers at home. Borrowing is a concept that works for those who want it to work and need it to work. Obviously health and safety must take a higher priority but books and information can help to keep a community mentally healthy and have overall healthy benefits. The better educated the less crime in our communities.
12549	7/10/2012	Books (and music and film) should be available to all.
12550	7/10/2012	I think that Library services can be helpful to everyone and can also be a good tool for learning
12551	7/10/2012	free reading material for all
12552	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time, education and access is important.
12553	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and my main access to books is through the library. I think free access to books is a very important public service.
12554	7/10/2012	Our libraries and the systems surrounding them are amazing - we have one of the best county library systems.
12555	7/10/2012	It is one of hte most critical services in the community -- right up there with aid to the poor. Library is a great community center, and resource for those who need it. Currently our son uses the central library as his school library.[]
12556	7/10/2012	[] Continuing to add new ways to access the data is great. Additionally new ways to market these data sources would be great as well.
12557	7/10/2012	Selfishly, they are the primary local service that I use. Thinking community-wise, they enrich the lives of all community member of all ages and education levels. They are a universal benefit.

12558	7/10/2012	Although I don't use the library that frequently now, I think they are an important community resource that get books to people of all ages, abilities, and incomes. They level the playing field and provide a safe place for children and adults.
12559	7/10/2012	We are bibliophiles on a fixed income. Our lives would be badly diminished if we didn't have access to the wide variety of literature we can borrow from the library.
12560	7/10/2012	I love to read and treasure the library resources. But I'd like to have my street paved and police/fire when required.
12561	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge and learning resources is the foundation of democracy.
12562	7/10/2012	Important source of reference materials, technology and entertainment.
12563	7/10/2012	Because I have money, I can buy what the library offers, without driving, parking, putting up with smokers outside, and dealing with noisy kids and adults.
12564	7/10/2012	Hard to compare the library to police and fire....
12565	7/10/2012	I use the library to check out childrens books for my Head Start classroom because our program can't afford new books and I personally can afford to buy that many childrens books. The library places an important role in the literacy development of my preschool students.
12566	7/10/2012	Lending libraries are the foundation of western civilization and even in the information age we need a central place to go and have access to books and other materials to borrow.
12567	7/10/2012	Not sure what you are asking here but I usually don't go to a library to browse for a book. I request it online and then go to the library and pick it up after it has been found at either the Gresham library or found at another library and sent for pick up.
12568	7/10/2012	Access to free education/printed material is essential to any successful community
12569	7/10/2012	I am a writer, a teacher and a lover of the arts: poetry, music, film, fiction. Without the library, I would not have access to materials that support and enrich one of the most important parts of my personal fulfillment and health.
12570	7/10/2012	Libraries are societies life blood. They are places where all people can come and learn regardless of age or culture or financial status.
12571	7/10/2012	I love to read, and can't afford to go buys books every week.
12572	7/10/2012	Reading is so important. My child LOVES the library. He gets so excited when we get to go. He doesn't get this excited for anything else. I think that reading opens the doors to countless opportunities.
12573	7/10/2012	They are important to me, but not quite as important as having my garbage disposed of.
12574	7/10/2012	The only thing of greater importance to me is transportation and healthcare. The library is a community focal point and a ladder to a higher standard of living and quality of life.
12575	7/10/2012	The library is a huge resource for our book loving family. No library, no books...
12576	7/10/2012	I find police, fire, urban infrastructure, schools and transportation are somewhat higher priority. That said, I also want my community to have a strong library system.

12577	7/10/2012	Local libraries provide important services for all of our family members, no matter what age. They instill a love of reading and learning. They build critical thinkers which are necessary for a well-functioning, democratic society.
12578	7/10/2012	I think it is a resource on so many levels for so many different people.
12579	7/10/2012	Free access to information is critical for almost any decision you can make (personal, political, etc). People without that access are relegated immediately to a second class citizenry.
12580	7/10/2012	The library gives access to EVERYONE, there is the ability to access any resources needed , I often use the Central library as well and see a lot of our city's homeless able to access the computers and other resources and I think that is very important to our community that nobody be disadvantaged by income and housing status.
12581	7/10/2012	Libraries provide so many self help services to those in need. Aside from that, we love to read!
12582	7/10/2012	Library services help create a community that values literacy and knowledge. This is central to a strong community.
12583	7/10/2012	Reading and reading programs are critical to our society. Access for all to good literature, music, news and internet services as well as reading programs are all extremely important to our society and cultural advancement.
12584	7/10/2012	i am a huge reader & curious about many things. if it weren't for the library i couldn't afford nor have the time to read as much or about as many subjects as i do. there's also something very reassuring & solid about the library always being there & being available that nothing else in my life really provides. i like seeing all the other people using/enjoying what the library has to offer. also provides a sense of history being in a carnegie building.
12585	7/10/2012	I use them every week and the locality is key.
12586	7/10/2012	Reading and educating oneself is key to improved living and a social conscious.
12587	7/10/2012	Even in this day of Internet access libraries remain a vital resource for our neighbors and our communities. I rely on the library for books, audio books, DVDs, and community events.
12588	7/10/2012	Physically accessible. Financially helps as I am on limited income, so borrowing books, services is such a help.
12589	7/10/2012	My Child loves to read, as does the rest of our family. And, would prefer to turn a page than turn on a computer. Books always work and never need recharging. However useful and entertaining a library can be, it is however not as essential as schools, transportation, refuse removal, and helping people in need.
12590	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy the amount of books that I read. I enjoy having a book in hand instead of reading one online.
12591	7/10/2012	Library provides free access to many different types of information to anyone who walks through the doors.
12592	7/10/2012	Because libraries foster learning for all ages.

12593	7/10/2012	An educated society should be desired by every person for the benefits of good candidates for public offices to make the best decisions for our city/state/country, good doctors to treat us when we are ill, good teachers to educate our children, and an overall better quality of life. If libraries are taken away, those who are not surrounded by well-educated people or of a privileged background would have a difficult time accessing the materials or services required to educate themselves in order to move up into a higher socioeconomic class.[] I say "somewhat important" because I place services such as firefighters/law enforcement/ prison system into the "very important" category.
12594	7/10/2012	i really value the library. However, other services (water, police, etc.) are essential.
12595	7/10/2012	We are a homeschooling family, so naturally, we rely on the catalog to flesh out and make tangible the lessons we teach at home. But in this context, the greatest value comes by virtue of the lessons to our children that knowledge and information ought to be freely available universally, and that it is our civic duty to ensure the library can continue to fulfill its promise of community literacy.
12596	7/10/2012	I don't use the library a lot, but they are central to a vibrant community.
12597	7/10/2012	I am a single mother with very limited income. We go the library for fun and entertainment. I also do not have the internet at home or computer access. I have to go to the library or school for that.
12598	7/10/2012	access to info without spending
12599	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge is very important to me.
12600	7/10/2012	Very important to me.
12601	7/10/2012	These are the most accessible of shared community resources for educating all of our communities, at every age.
12602	7/10/2012	It is how our children have developed into readers. It has accompanied the learning as much as their schooling. It has made them curious and love to learn. You bet, it's important
12603	7/10/2012	I don't use them, but I see how much other people use them, and understand their importance to them.
12604	7/10/2012	Access to information should be free, libraries should be a place of public gathering and knowledge
12605	7/10/2012	Public safety and road maintenance are important, and the libraries are right behind them in priority.
12606	7/10/2012	Community centers and libraries provide gathering centers for the community and are the hub of the neighbourhood. They are a great resource and it would be awful to lose them.
12607	7/10/2012	Literacy and culture are of paramount importance for a free, evolved society.
12608	7/10/2012	They provide an important source for content that is not otherwise available to the public.
12609	7/10/2012	We need to continue to support our community through education and opportunities to learn.
12610	7/10/2012	A public library with access for all is vital to a democratic society.
12611	7/10/2012	Read above
12612	7/10/2012	Fire fighters and public schools trump the library.
12613	7/10/2012	Should be focused on being a library not social services department

12614	7/10/2012	I am a pediatric speech-language pathologist who understands the importance of early literacy programming. I also worry that this is the only resource for books for our underprivileged families. Finally, the library is a public service that I use often bc I am currently living on a stipend and it is a free source of entertainment and escape. I'd like everyone to have the opportunity to escape into a book whenever they choose.
12615	7/10/2012	I use this service weekly, I don't even do my trash weekly. I use it the most because I love what they have to offer. Free is a great price.
12616	7/10/2012	Education and knowledge are necessary, but not sufficient, to maintaining the dream of equality of opportunity for all, which in turn is essential for the financial health of the country.
12617	7/10/2012	Very high.
12618	7/10/2012	Because access to books, other media and computer access for many is vital to the health of a city.
12619	7/10/2012	I grew up in a poor family who encouraged me to read a lot and to spend as much time as I wanted st the local library. Some of my most memorable childhood moments were the countless hours spent at a library after school. Having unlimited access to great books and having a place to be when my parents couldn't always be home to watch over me is a priceless advantage that any kid will appreciate growing up. I've grown up reading so many books that it has improved my language skills and my ability to communicate in writing.
12620	7/10/2012	Because the library is about making information available to everyone who needs it and I think that's vitally important to our survival as a society.
12621	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the foundation of everything that happens in our society. Libraries make knowledge freely available to the populace, to ALL citizens. Many local public services are of course important, but I rank libraries among our most important resources.
12622	7/10/2012	The arts and reading are very important to me and should be of importance to any progressive city such as Portland. To be vibrant, cities need more than just basic public services.
12623	7/10/2012	Because reading, and access to reading materials, is the key to so many things and a library is (or should be) a safe environment for people of all ages and all walks of life can to find books for pleasure, for information, for education, for inspiration, for comfort.
12624	7/10/2012	This is a bias question, purposely set that way I suspect. Tell me what other public services you want me to compare with and I'll give you Assn answer.
12625	7/10/2012	Essentially free access to knowledge & information from every corner of the planet and available to all members of our society regardless of their resources or station in life.
12626	7/10/2012	I am a heavy library user. I use the library for entertainment and for learning. The library makes it free and easy for me to enrich my life.
12627	7/10/2012	I have school age children who love to read at and check out books and othe materials from the library

12628	7/10/2012	Our family utilizes the library resources often. Going into a library and gathering books invokes wonderful memories that I want to pass along to my kids. I want them to have the love of reading that I do. Libraries build a sense of community and are a safe place people can go to seek peace and quiet.
12629	7/10/2012	Libraries are among "nice to have" features of a wealthy city. Security (police/fire), public health (sewers, safe water), steady electricity, honest government, passable roads are all more important than free public libraries.
12630	7/10/2012	To me having a library available is as important as having utilities, that is water and electricity, in my home. I don't expect the library to meet every media need that I have nor to meet the needs of everyone else. However, I do think that it is very important to have library supplies and resources that meet the needs that people do have most of the time. To have a library and its materials available is more important to me than how many hours it is open. Most of the time I (and I imagine most others, too) can work around what hours the library is open.
12631	7/10/2012	Education and access to information form the foundation of a functional society. It does not matter how well funded the police department is or how well paved the roads are if knowledge is a privileged resource. Unless all people have the ability to obtain useful information regardless of socioeconomic status, the people are not free. Books open the door to the world.
12632	7/10/2012	Now more than ever we need critical thinkers. All prejudice is based in ignorance.
12633	7/10/2012	Free and open access to information is a cornerstone of American democracy. Without libraries, access to books and other media would be stratified based on other factors, such as socioeconomic level. Libraries maintain our society and our ideals.
12634	7/10/2012	I believe libraries are a community resource that assists all people, young and old, with education, community spirit, a gathering place, recreation and equipment for job seeking and much more. Although I believe libraries are very important, I also believe we have other public services that are also very important. I want them all and I believe with better money management we could have more public services and not tax the citizens so much they can't meet other necessary family expenses.

12635	7/10/2012	My wife and I do not make a lot of money, but one of our highest values is learning. Thanks to the Multnomah County Library, we have been able to share that passion with our daughter. I estimate she has been to the Belmont branch between 400-500 times in the past five years, checking out everything from Sesame Street DVDs when she was younger, to the Hunger Games trilogy that all her classmates are reading. This represents a tremendous gift to our society, and is something that we should be (and are) proud of as a culture. As much as I'd love to, I can't afford to go to the Portland Art Museum anytime I want, or to see the latest productions at Imago Theater. Thanks to to the library, though, my mind will always be nourished, and it's wonderful to know that my daughter's will, as well.
12636	7/10/2012	promotion of literacy
12637	7/10/2012	Not
12638	7/10/2012	My daughter is learning to love the library, and it is important to me to have a place that she can find real books.
12639	7/10/2012	well, they aren't as important as police, fire, sewer, garbage, etc. But they are the most important "non-essential" public service to me
12640	7/10/2012	It's a great way to try out new authors, hobbies, exercise classes, cooking styles etc without breaking the bank.
12641	7/10/2012	I use the library on a regular basis. I think that the role of the library is important.
12642	7/10/2012	I think books are important, but so are homeless shelters.
12643	7/10/2012	My kids enjoy books and the use of the facility
12644	7/10/2012	Provide a valuable learning place and a place of safety.
12645	7/10/2012	access to knowledge is an important item to me
12646	7/10/2012	it supplies a needed service to the community however, other human services need to be continued
12647	7/10/2012	somewhat important
12648	7/10/2012	I use the materials for teaching and to purchase the same materials would be impossible for me.[] My son is learning to read + I could never afford to buy the amount of books he reads from the Library.
12649	7/10/2012	I think that if we're talking Maslow's hierarchy of needs, there are other public programs that deserve funding before the library -- but that doesn't mean it isn't important to the county and our future as a whole.
12650	7/10/2012	As the mug says "Read to Live". In addition to leisure reading, the library supports my hobbies of travel and language study.
12651	7/10/2012	Because they are a catalyst for personal and professional growth and a valuable public space.
12652	7/10/2012	Reading is important. Having services available to those who might not otherwise have those services is important. If someone doesn't have a computer, they can go to the library. If someone doesn't have money to buy books, they can borrow books and other media from the library.

12653	7/10/2012	I am a lifelong reader and as a recent college graduate, I am now dependent on the Multnomah County library system to fill the personal and educational void left by college graduation. As such, I hope to see a large variety of resources as befitting a major urban library system. In addition, I recall the influence that a healthy public library system had on my youth. Library resources and educational programs helped set me on my educational path, and I would like other children to have the same opportunities I had.
12654	7/10/2012	Libraries epitomize the "open space of democracy". At Pacific City, the library became more important than the community building for open organizing around projects.
12655	7/10/2012	When I was new to Portland and looking for work 10 years ago, the free internet access, printing ability, and kind assistance at the Lake Oswego branch was invaluable. I don't know what I would have done otherwise. Spent hours there perfecting my resume...I think this is the most valuable thing we can offer in the community to people looking for work and to enrich themselves.
12656	7/10/2012	I use it and rely on it. It is one of my most used public services.
12657	7/10/2012	More important than sidewalks or streetlights, less important than medical and emergency personnel - but not much less.
12658	7/10/2012	The library has always been extremely important to me, whether it's for recreational purposes, educational research or employment resources. I have always depended on the library to assist me in finding housing, doing my taxes, looking for jobs, updating my resume and cover letter, researching for a paper, or finding the next great novel to get lost in.
12659	7/10/2012	i consider very important to a life necessity, i.e. school funding, so extra funding for libraries would come next
12660	7/10/2012	I use the library heavily for recreational reading and to obtain journal articles that are important to my business. I grew up reading, was a regular visitor at several branches of the NY Public Library, and prefer reading to other relaxing activities. I do not watch TV; gave that up about 15 years ago.
12661	7/10/2012	In this economy, with so many people out of work, welfare, education and medical services, clinics and necessities come first. A library is a nice luxury but unless they can provide for immediate needs their place in this economy becomes a rather nice luxury, but still a luxury.
12662	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot, and think it's very important that it stays open at least 6 days a week.
12663	7/10/2012	I like to read, but do not like the cost of books. The library allows me to stay educated without the expense (except what comes out of my taxes).
12664	7/10/2012	Because they are somewhat important when compared to other un-named services.
12665	7/10/2012	Easy to get to
12666	7/10/2012	Personally, I value libraries above any other community service. Books open windows of imagination, understanding, and knowledge. I try to instill a love of reading in my own children, and a good local library helps me to achieve that. I want my kids to see that our community values literacy so that they will, too.

12667	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and learn, and with the economy the way it is, I cannot afford to go to a bookstore every time I need something new.[] Furthermore, I believe that libraries serve additional, if not more important functions: 1.) It is some person's only means of searching for and gaining employment. 2.) Children need the libraries, for their own enjoyment, growth, and learning. [] Without libraries, there is no doubt in my mind, that the crime rate would escalate dramatically.
12668	7/10/2012	I believe that there is a direct correlation between literacy and education and the quality of the community, as well as its economic success. Libraries are essential.
12669	7/10/2012	#1 reason - Librarians. Librarians rival a Google search any day of the week. I still prefer a hardcopy to a glowing screen. As a father I appreciate the quick access to a wealth of children's materials, and to the little reading nook to share story time with other families - it creates community! The library has served as a meeting place for our family and our neighbors to enjoy children's programs together.
12670	7/10/2012	As a child, I was brought to the library once a week, and as a student, they are a critical research source. I don't know how students in the literary arts would function otherwise. And it is financially impossible to purchase every book I'd like to read for the first time, especially in the current economy. Furthermore, libraries are one of elderly people's few hobbies in many cases.
12671	7/10/2012	Very[] I can't think of living in a place where there is no public library. Nor could my children or grandchildren!
12672	7/10/2012	The local branch is geographically convenient although there are two others nearby (not as nice physically).[] The local branch gives me access to the entire collection of the Multnomah County Library system.[] The local branch provides a nice reading room and browsing atmosphere.[] All local branches serve the people in their locality. The central branch does not serve all the people in City center nor in the city as a whole, except as a central repository (and possibly as an office for professional staff with advanced expertise).
12673	7/10/2012	Education is important and so is widely available access to information and literature.
12674	7/10/2012	Everyone should know the joy of reading, and what better place to get books than our local libraries.
12675	7/10/2012	Very important
12676	7/10/2012	The library has always been a big part of my life. It's wonderful to be able to have access to so many books!
12677	7/10/2012	Reading is good for the brain and good for the soul. Having educated members of society makes it better for everyone.

12678	7/10/2012	We do not have a lot of money to spend and the library is the place for us to get new books, movies, and music. We go weekly and take advantage of the free programs for kids, including storytimes, summer reading and other one time events. We read a lot and the library allows us to access any book we need or want- it is such an amazing service.
12679	7/10/2012	I love to read books and watch movies from the library. I wouldn't have enough money to purchase those books on my own. It is also a great community meeting place.
12680	7/10/2012	There's no other place where I can borrow so many good adventures in literature for myself and my students. I'd never have enough money to do it myself.
12681	7/10/2012	Because I use them regularly, versus other services, like police and fire stations, which I've never used (but I'm glad they're available if ever I should need them)!
12682	7/10/2012	I rate police, fire and libraries as the top local services provided.
12683	7/10/2012	Reading is vital to our future success as a city, a state, and as a country. As we are cutting budgets for schooling I look at libraries as a backup or alternative for people wanting to expand their knowledge base.
12684	7/10/2012	I am a learner and libraries are essential to learners.
12685	7/10/2012	Our family are, and always have been, readers. We are now retired and do not buy many books. Therefore, we depend on our library for reading material.
12686	7/10/2012	Free and public access to educational/learning materials and resources is an important value of mine.
12687	7/10/2012	Of the highest level. BUT I do not agree that all branches and need to be open 7 days a week. I do believe that CENTRAL SHOULD be.
12688	7/10/2012	Simply put, I am a reader!
12689	7/10/2012	A literate, well-informed community makes better decisions.
12690	7/10/2012	You can define wealth as "access to resources." The library provides resources to those who are in the most need of it and who otherwise would not have it. If you struggle to put food on the table, you're probably not buying books and periodicals. We live in the Information Age, and if our population has no access to that information, then they are disenfranchised.
12691	7/10/2012	It's the single greatest access to free knowledge that the government provides. It doesn't matter if you made $2M, or $2 last year, you have free access to a vast store of knowledge in print and online.
12692	7/10/2012	I use the library, but we own a nice home, so I pay huge amounts in property taxes. The last election, I was led to believe that voting for the library levy would maintain services. Right after the election where the levy passed, you immediately cut the library hours. ☹ ☹ How am I supposed to trust you, especially when it comes time to vote for you or additional levies in the future?

12693	7/10/2012	Library is an important service but other things like parks, bike ways, law enforcement, and many others are equally or more important.
12694	7/10/2012	I use library services to maintain my ongoing education as a responsible citizen in a democratic republic. Beyond that, as a small business owner the library system was invaluable in helping me get my biz off the ground. Continues to be invaluable for research, resources,etc. did I mention my business creates local jobs and stimulates the economy?
12695	7/10/2012	It holds significance in my past and childhood, and forms a sense of community.
12696	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the coin of the realm in the USA. With internet research dominating, access to information has become rarefied and economically stratified. It is important to preserve access to information for those from all socioeconomic statuses. It is a basis for social mobility.
12697	7/10/2012	Because libraries help the whole community in a multitude of different ways.
12698	7/10/2012	Personally the library gives me access to services I can't afford. It is a source of a vast amount of information. The library helps equalize the income gap--those who aren't wealthy have access to services that are essential to create a successful life: access to books, internet, help with language and homework for all levels of education. I just can't imagine a world without good libraries for Portlanders!
12699	7/10/2012	well, safety (Fire, Police and hospitals) just seem more vital...but libraries would be at the top of the next level, along with parks and other open spaces
12700	7/10/2012	Because education, community, and access to information and resources are key to a thriving community.
12701	7/10/2012	Libraries are great community melting pots - they're a resource that most everyone uses, regardless of income, race or political beliefs. They inspire children to learn, enable people to expand their horizons and provide computer resources to those who don't have them at home.
12702	7/10/2012	Libraries functioned very prominently in my childhood. They should be maintained and well-funded so that everyone had access to media regardless of income.
12703	7/10/2012	I don't understand the question. What other public services am I to compare?
12704	7/10/2012	you ever spend any time in a library? look around. these people are not drunks, prostitutes, dopers - they are trying to better themselves.
12705	7/10/2012	Everything begins with reading. A child can go to the library and take home 20 books. If they enjoy them great! If they don't it's no money lost and you have a child who is encouraged to read and find books that interest them. For lower income families, this is especially important. If you can't read, you are unable to do some of the most basic tasks in life: job applications, reading the newspaper and staying informed, etc.

12706	7/10/2012	Because they touch so many people -- theoretically everyone -- and provide tools for individual, family and community improvement. They are engines for growth for an entire community, growth in responsibility, connectivity, and maturity. Without downplaying any of the other services upon which people rely, this is most important to me because we live increasingly in a knowledge-based society. The library system creates access to that knowledge well beyond the reach of most people left to their own resources. It also connects people who go to the library for any one of the many programs offered, not to mention the usual process of checking out materials.
12707	7/10/2012	They provide access to information for everyone in the community.
12708	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a central location for learning and sharing, a valuable resource to help a community to improve themselves and build better lives.
12709	7/10/2012	The services that public libraries make available to everyone provide some protection from corporate control of mass media, government, universities, and other institutions designed to serve the public.
12710	7/10/2012	none really. But of course I don't live there anymore, In reality, it is nice to have and makes sure that people have a important service that can be accessed by a few that need it.
12711	7/10/2012	I read constantly and could not afford to do so without the library. The public library has an amazing collection of books and I so appreciate the ease of reserving and checking them out.
12712	7/10/2012	Free access to materials for all
12713	7/10/2012	not sure.
12714	7/10/2012	The library is just about the only place to get reliable health/medical information.
12715	7/10/2012	The opportunity to explore the world through borrowed books. My kids' reading.
12716	7/10/2012	I love the library. It's my favorite public service & the one that brings a smile to my face. But even so, I have to say that police, fire, and public schools are more important overall.
12717	7/10/2012	Many resources available at the library that cannot be found or accessed elsewhere.
12718	7/10/2012	Personally, I use the library a lot. Libraries are also essential for encouraging literacy in our society.
12719	7/10/2012	A free and accessible library is a prime component of an educated, well-informed, and civilized society.
12720	7/10/2012	I don't rely on the library daily, but I rely on the streets and roads... that said- I always vote for library funding and do my best to support the libraries as often as I can. I don't feel like I use my libraries enough! I also don't feel like like-minded people use the libraries enough either. If they knew what a great resource it was, they would use and support it! I do my best to spread the word, but I only know so many people.
12721	7/10/2012	Other public services deal with more serious matters like health housing education etc
12722	7/10/2012	Compared with police, fire, water and sewer, roads, libraries are relatively less important. That said, I still believe they are an important resource for many and particularly for those of limited means.
12723	7/10/2012	Top five.

12724	7/10/2012	Sometimes, it's the only place I can do research for a novel I am writing. Besides, as a mother of three on a low income the library is the only place the kids can sit someplace and read a book without being thrown out after a certain amount of time. Kids love to go to the libraries and browse books they aren't sure they'll like, but get a chance to test them out.
12725	7/10/2012	I believe that knowledge and learning are very important to me. Just ask any parent, they will tell you how important it is for their children to read.
12726	7/10/2012	It services a broad spectrum of the population
12727	7/10/2012	I love to read and I want my children to love to read as well. Also, reusing books saves money, paper, and resources! Plus reading is a huge predictor of who will be in jail when they get older...all children should have access to books so they can learn to love to read!
12728	7/10/2012	Knowledge is the foundation on which everything rests.
12729	7/10/2012	Being a senior citizen, I don't want to buy books anymore. I love the library because I can find almost anything I need, especially current materials. The online factor is very important, too, for customer convenience and for the library as an agency being up to date with technology.
12730	7/10/2012	An educated populace is required for democracy to function and for the work force. I had a library two blocks away from my house when I was growing up and used it often since we did not have money to buy books then.
12731	7/10/2012	If needed I would find other ways to help support my child's development. I do think the Library is a great resource but I'am not willing to pay any more for that resource.
12732	7/10/2012	Library services have become more important having children as they require entertainment and we have less funds.
12733	7/10/2012	A public that can,t read is easily mislead.
12734	7/10/2012	We use the library constantly and love that we're able to get nearly whatever we want by transferring it to our branch as well as downloading off the online sources
12735	7/10/2012	Libraries are something I use on a regular basis. While other county services (for example, drug and alcohol treatment programs) are important they are not something I use directly.
12736	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to books and magazines that normally may be difficult to find, and also provide computer access to those who do not have it at home.
12737	7/10/2012	I like my local library to be open out of convenience, but if Sellwood or Holgate or Belmont were open when Woodstock is closed, that could work. We have such a great system in this county with being able to return and pick up books in other branches that we have built in flexibility. Even if I used public transportation, one of those branches is as easy to access as is Woodstock.
12738	7/10/2012	Access to a public place (government supported) that encourages learning and research, and that allows young and old alike to borrow books free of charge, is a standard for our fair democracy.
12739	7/10/2012	Reading and literacy is critical to civil society and people's ability to access information and knowledge.

12740	7/10/2012	I am a big reader/researcher. I access my primary library in Washington County on a weekly basis. I have probably seventy books checked out at any one time (I have a family of six people, and for ease keep all items on my card), with a hold queue of about 20-30 additional titles. So the collection is important to me, libraries are not important to me as a place. I would be fine with ordering my books online and going to a warehouse to pick them up. I almost never browse.
12741	7/10/2012	The library provides access to books, media and opportunities which are invaluable to myself and the community.
12742	7/10/2012	Yes
12743	7/10/2012	The library is an important resource for the community and should provide the resources needed for people to access what they need.
12744	7/10/2012	Heavy user, reader, movies.
12745	7/10/2012	Free access to a wide variety of resources
12746	7/10/2012	It's a basic need for many who can't get it any other way. Access to information is a basic human right.
12747	7/10/2012	One of the most important ways that people can gain equal access to information. Libraries are essential to a democratic society.
12748	7/10/2012	I love the library, but I think it is more of a convenience for me than a really necessary or important service. That said, I think it is far more important for others who do not have the same resources that I do.
12749	7/10/2012	helps level the playing field for people who can't afford to buy books / internet access / etc.
12750	7/10/2012	I read a lot.
12751	7/10/2012	Its a good way to access resources but I don't need them on a daily basis like other public services (water, garbage, trash, transportation)
12752	7/10/2012	The library gives everyone in my neighborhood somewhere to go and hang out that isn't a bar. Books are expensive and it helps me save money while remaining a well-read Portland citizen.
12753	7/10/2012	Access to media (internet, etc) for those who would otherwise not be able to get it.
12754	7/10/2012	a community gathering spot, encouraging reading and learning, providing resources for people without computers is imperative, borrowing books instead of purchasing is good for the environment and pocketbook.
12755	7/10/2012	I also think that public education and transportation are very important.
12756	7/10/2012	The highest. Libraries shape every aspect of our community.
12757	7/10/2012	I love to read and can't afford to buy books.
12758	7/10/2012	social services are a priority
12759	7/10/2012	Brings the community together, provides an abundance of resources not available elsewhere.
12760	7/10/2012	It is paramount that citizens know how to read, research, use their resources and knowledge. And continue to do so throughout their lifespan from baby to senior.

12761	7/10/2012	With the whole world glued to iPhones it is important to offer appealing, well-organized alternatives to stimulate the mind and imagination.
12762	7/10/2012	I use wifi, printers, and rent books and movies.
12763	7/10/2012	I use the online services which is very important to me. I'm childfree but feel like its money well spent to offer library services to children who maybe can't afford to purchase books.
12764	7/10/2012	having books and other resources available
12765	7/10/2012	Being able to share ideas will help our ability to generate new ideas.
12766	7/10/2012	Convenient access to current materials; research ability; I like using the on line system a lot.
12767	7/10/2012	public services covers alot of territory - police, fire? They are all Very Important.
12768	7/10/2012	Libraries are a resource my family uses regularly. Having school-age kids who rely on the books for homework and reading development makes it an important resource.
12769	7/10/2012	Education and access to information is the foundation of a healthy community, and healthy population. I personally sense that there is an attack on education and a desire for the population to go backwards rather than forwards in terms of ending ignorance.
12770	7/10/2012	Access to information is paramount in our society-- it is a basic liberty that should be afforded to everyone, regardless of economic status. Libraries fill this need by providing computer and internet access to people who do not have personal computers; supplementing children's learning and literacy; and supplying an endless supply of books, magazines, and information to all residents - for free. I rely heavily on my local libraries for my professional work as well as my own personal growth and development (i.e. reading for pleasure.)
12771	7/10/2012	Knowledge, community gathering places, access to information and how to us it, books and reading. These are all crucial to healthy communities.
12772	7/10/2012	Access to free knowledge is about the most important thing I can think of. It provides the opportunity for success and growth indiscriminately.
12773	7/10/2012	Libraries are probably the most accessible public service. This gives it prominent importance as a service. However the ease of getting information and entertainment online is taking over.
12774	7/10/2012	When I was growing up (in MI) I remember going to the library, especially in summer to check out books to read. My library is part of how my imagination grew stronger, and part of my earliest learning of sharing, and community.
12775	7/10/2012	I make regular use of the library, and it's a great resource for everyone in the community.
12776	7/10/2012	Mainly because I see how privatization and budget cuts adversely effects those who need it the most. As a Pearl Disttict resident, I see that Central Downtown, Old Town, Pearl and NW have the fewest resources. I think there is an assumption that the need is lesser in these areas, but this is simply not true. We have no public pool. Trimet is reducing services, even in heavily used urban routes. As a progressive, I believe we need to spend and invest in these resources- and of course education and healthcare. It's hard for me to pick and choose. All are vital, as I see it.
12777	7/10/2012	Less important than the police or fire fighters... More important than the whole ancient tree thing.

12778	7/10/2012	free, for all ages and economic background.
12779	7/10/2012	We have four avid readers in our house, and we can't afford to buy enough books to keep up with everyone. □ The library saves us hundreds every month, compared to the cost of having to purchase reading material.
12780	7/10/2012	Library services are quite important for my toddler's development.
12781	7/10/2012	Appreciating reading and having a place to learn, entertain, and meet fellow community members for free is paramount.
12782	7/10/2012	Literacy is an important part of having a society that functions well. Also, libraries function as community centers, and in this digital age, it's good to have a place people can meet and/or receive help.
12783	7/10/2012	I feel that resources for public safety and for job seekers are more important.
12784	7/10/2012	saves me money from buying books and using facilities for my grandchildren
12785	7/10/2012	reading and information literacy are crucial for educational growth for all age groups
12786	7/10/2012	Since I rarely use the library I would say that it hasn't been that important, but as my toddler gets older I suspect it will become more important as he starts to read.
12787	7/10/2012	I've been to my library twice- once to vote and once to print something. I rely far more heavily on other services such as mass transit, which I use every day. Trimet cuts hurt me more than library cuts.
12788	7/10/2012	They supply free books and music- something much needed in economic hardship.
12789	7/10/2012	Literacy and education are the key to a strong society.
12790	7/10/2012	Libraries should be consistent in quality and service from branch to branch.
12791	7/10/2012	essential
12792	7/10/2012	story and reading are extremely important in society. there needs to be access for everyone to be able to get to books. story helps educate and relay the norms of a culture.
12793	7/10/2012	I am a reader! The public library is the single most important COMMUNITY CENTER that a good city has.
12794	7/10/2012	Public Safety will always be #1 with roads and other "essential services" ahead of the Library.
12795	7/10/2012	There is nothing more important than education. Its the basis of civilization, and the only means for its potential to grow.
12796	7/10/2012	For large segments of the population, this is one of the only resources/affordable-resources available for access to arts, web connectivity, self-improvement and education.
12797	7/10/2012	The free and continued access to information truly yields power. There is nothing like reading - it can be a vacation from reality, can teach you tangible skills, expands the mind, and sets up academic and other successes.

12798	7/10/2012	People don't need to spend money to have fun and learn and meet other people in their community.
12799	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important resource to level the educational playing field between children of different socio-economic backgrounds. A library is the symbol of intelligence in a community, being well-read and educated = empowered citizens.
12800	7/10/2012	The library is about the only resource I use. I have no use for the Adams ilk and those who spit in our faces.
12801	7/10/2012	Every person in my household uses the library on a weekly or at least monthly basis. Granted we drive the streets every day and and have 24/7 police and fire protection, but the library is the public service we notice/utilize the most.
12802	7/10/2012	Not everyone, especially those hurt from the Economy can find what they are looking for at their residence. A place for a Child or a great Adult is the Local Library.
12803	7/10/2012	Because encouraging people to be creative, well educated and critical thinkers is important. Local libraries promote this. Also, because of nostalgia, and wanting kids to have the same chance to walk to their local library in the summer and check out books in which they could loose themselves for entire afternoons.
12804	7/10/2012	Free access to reading material, friendly free help using the library services, are essential to being an informed citizen. The great Multnomah Library service is one of the reasons I moved to Portland, and the first act as all Portland resident was to get a library card-I tell friends yes, the taxes are high,but I have a Multnomah Library card!
12805	7/10/2012	I may be able to visit a book store to review before buying or purchase from Amazon, but service to children, families, job seekers, and elderly is INVALUABLE! We have cut so much from education already, sometimes the library is the only place families are encouraged to do more for their children - job seekers have NO other place to use a computer. Obviously water, sewer, police, fire dept. are more important - but the Library is right up there on my list.
12806	7/10/2012	The Multnomah County Library is an amazing library system and resource. I would hate to see it diminish in any way. A library gives resources for people to take care of themselves, it is supplement to education systems, employment systems, after school programs, etc. It offers resources for a person to do for themselves. Cuts in the library will be illustrated by corollary impacts to all these other programs.

12807	7/10/2012	Very important. They help build community, protect the environment (fewer books & media need to be produced, neighborhood availability reduces need to drive), and promote an educated and involved public. I love to read and to learn, and even though I have limited income-- I'm unemployed-- I have access to many of the same resources as the rest of the citizens of Multnomah County.
12808	7/10/2012	The library should be the hub of the community.
12809	7/10/2012	Allows for continued education and learning as a lifelong tool, not just for me but for students I tutor.
12810	7/10/2012	levels the playing field for all children; gives access to information; is one of the best things about Portland.
12811	7/10/2012	Because I love to read and learn and hate buying books.
12812	7/10/2012	Libraries are the best!
12813	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power
12814	7/10/2012	They give me an access to many amazing books ! :)
12815	7/10/2012	A cities wealth is its education. Access to information affects everything we do and want to achieve.
12816	7/10/2012	The library is the service that most people in our city use.
12817	7/10/2012	As an educator, I cannot even imagine living somewhere with poor or severely limited library services.
12818	7/10/2012	Very
12819	7/10/2012	Public safety services are more important
12820	7/10/2012	With access to the internet many printed material information is available online. Other public services provide services that are not available any where else
12821	7/10/2012	My family and I are avid readers and use the library a few times a week to access books we otherwise wouldn't be able to.
12822	7/10/2012	I use the library more than I use any other service provided by the county.
12823	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly and know that it offers very valuable services to others as well.
12824	7/10/2012	Somewhat
12825	7/10/2012	I consider it a nice ammenity, important for encouraging reading and love of books, but below basic needs for food/shelter, etc.
12826	7/10/2012	Such a wide range of people in Portland use the library, from kids to adults to seniors, from high to low income, from people needing a job to those checking out a movie. There isn't one person who can't benefit from the library.
12827	7/10/2012	Education is the most important public good and should be funded as such.
12828	7/10/2012	Vital to freedom of thought, knowledge and learning.
12829	7/10/2012	Local library services rank up there with public and safety services; they all contribute to create a community
12830	7/10/2012	Only emergency services and infrastructure are more important to me than the library. The library ensures equal access to learning materials for all county residents/

12831	7/10/2012	Without libraries the public at large cannot inform and teach itself as needed. Public commons are spread thin or are uncommon in today's world of so much private ownership and (in)corporations
12832	7/10/2012	Because they are a cultural hub for my community. Books are important to me and so it's important to also be able to access material for free, paid by my community.
12833	7/10/2012	I'm an author and a big advocate of getting kids access to books so that they become lifelong readers. The Library system ranks very high on that front.
12834	7/10/2012	They way this question is worded I must assume you are including the fire and police departments as well as water, sewer, garbage, etc. It is important and needs to be included, but I'd rather see traffic enforcement improved so pedestrians aren't in danger as we walk to the library.
12835	7/10/2012	Libraries are incredibly important as they provide access to all of the community to books, computers, community resources, and a safe place. Although their importance might be easily overlooked, they are clearly a very important part of social services. I volunteer with at-risk youth and regularly take them to the library to check out books or use the computer. These kids may not otherwise have any exposure to literature, current events, or a supportive community environment. I think a library is a sign of a rich social environment and not having one would be a great disservice.
12836	7/10/2012	education and resources not available any other way, such as out of print, etc. And, access to new books for low income folks
12837	7/10/2012	I don't personally use library that my
12838	7/10/2012	very important
12839	7/10/2012	Access to books and information are vital for our democracy to function. This is clearly visible when compared to countries that restrict, censor or do not make these services available.
12840	7/10/2012	The impact of libraries in preventing crime, promoting public safety, supporting healthy communities, helping people find work, building literacy and participation in society shouldn't be underestimated. We get a big bang for the library buck and I'd rather spend money on infant get-ready-to-read and children's literacy than on jails and police. (No offense to police but they already have plenty to do.)
12841	7/10/2012	Because everyone cannot afford to purchase books and the library give you that option tapes, computer c;asses etc
12842	7/10/2012	For me, libraries are right there under police, fire and transportation. Those things are needed for day-to-day survival, but it's the libraries that (again, for me) add an extra layer. It's not a "need", but it's a very "nice to have". It's what helps make Portland that much more livable.

		Local library services are very important because they serve multiple functions and affect many populations and age groups. They create communities. They provide information. They build pride in those that use their services, whether it be for regular check out of media or programs for job seekers and ESL students.[] []
12843	7/10/2012	While I may not use the services as frequently as others, securing my Multnomah County Library card was one of the first things I did upon moving to Portland – that and registering to vote. I didn't even have my own place yet or a job, but I had joined the community.[] [] Plus, libraries have been around for centuries upon centuries. I do not see them losing their importance in the digital age, rather they'll evolve like people do.
12844	7/10/2012	It's equal in importance, taking 2nd place only to firemen, policemen, hospitals, bridges, infrastructure
12845	7/10/2012	They form the heart of the community, introduce children to the magic of reading and serve as a great equalizer - a free service for all to enjoy.
12846	7/10/2012	The library provides an important service to the community by making available resources to those who may lack them. A library is the foundation and cornerstone to a well-read and literate community. It is also a safe haven to those who are less-fortunate. It is imperative that we continue to provide this library service and access to the library to our community.
12847	7/10/2012	In one wonderful heated or air conditioned (depends on the season) building one can learn skills from others, read a book, study in a quiet space, find a movie to watch or music to listen to, be welcomed by a wonderful knowledgeable staff member, use a computer, research a project without having to purchase all the materials....
12848	7/10/2012	They make information, education and art accessible to everyone, which is crucial for a community's health and growth.
12849	7/10/2012	A library represents a cultural storehouse that a computer cannot represent.
12850	7/10/2012	In this technology driven society not all of us can depend on or afford it in our homes. All people have free access to the library. It is a right of all citizens. Library services education should be and mostly is provided in all of the school systems.
12851	7/10/2012	Access to the internet, on-line book stores, local book stores and coffee shops, etc. provide the services I need. The County Library system, for me, may only be a place to go on rare occasion to study or browse older books. If I need a current and popular book, I typically can't wait for the book to become available via the library and I simply purchase an electronic copy (audio or other format). There are a plethora of social services, first responder services, etc. that all unfortunately rank far above the county library system.
12852	7/10/2012	Very important. Libraries is where I got my love of books.
12853	7/10/2012	We use it the most.

12854	7/10/2012	my family is a huge user of the library - we can walk to it.
12855	7/10/2012	I don't use the library as much these days, have internet access at home, my kids have grown up
12856	7/10/2012	People deserve the right to obtain knowledge without paying for it.
12857	7/10/2012	The library offers a lot in ways of learning and enhancing your children's future. It would be a loss to loss that.
12858	7/10/2012	Incredibly important! I grew up going to libraries and consider them part of the foundation of a good childhood, and now reading is a major part of my adult life.
12859	7/10/2012	I have the internet at home and I purchase a large number of books that I read but I know that a library is valuable to the community as a whole because it gives those people who don't have all the resources that I do access to them.
12860	7/10/2012	The only other public service that I use more often than the library is the park system.
12861	7/10/2012	none
12862	7/10/2012	Although I greatly value library services, I personally don't use them beyond checking out books. I think other public services have more of an impact in my life.
12863	7/10/2012	All should have access to free reading materials.
12864	7/10/2012	The library is a public resource for knowledge, and provides a firm foundation and resources to improve the lives and minds of the citizens.
12865	7/10/2012	I guess police and fire department are more essential, but I use the library more than I use them.
12866	7/10/2012	They are a strong part of a democratic society, allowing access to knowledge to all citizens. I believe people who are better informed make better choices not just for themselves but for society.
12867	7/10/2012	Libraries are a bedrock of our communities. I can't imagine a world without them. They are just as important as a well functioning public transportation system. They help further an educated civilized society.
12868	7/10/2012	I have an unquenchable nature and my computer only serves part of that. I LOVE my library!
12869	7/10/2012	Free access to information is vitally important for a community. Not everyone can afford to buy books, computers, or internet access, but the library makes these resources available to all.
12870	7/10/2012	Reading is fundamental to our children! And the Library is central to our city.
12871	7/10/2012	Children and students need the resources available (and to know about them) in order to do as well as possible in school and to become self sufficient and productive citizens in our community.
12872	7/10/2012	The library should be available to all, regardless of income. People with lower incomes are not as able to pay to attend some events due to budget limitations. The library is a great resource center for students and the elderly alike.
12873	7/10/2012	I love to read. I also think it is very valuable to have resources like these (books, computers/internet, etc.) available for the public use. The community aspects are important as well, as I like being able to bring my child in for reading times and other community activities centered around books and learning. I think the library is a very positive environment and represents constructive, healthy social values.

12874	7/10/2012	I like to read about all sorts of things and the Library serves as an important focal point for the neighborhood, even if I don't avail myself personally of all of the offered services e.g. child reading programs.
12875	7/10/2012	I read A LOT, over 200 books a year. It is my social life.
12876	7/10/2012	I feel like it is very important to have access to reading material. To have a love of learning and knowledge available to our communities. To hold a book in my hands and turn the pages. Reference material for fact finding and checking. A place to be with others who love books and public spaces.
12877	7/10/2012	Knowledge should be a right not a privilege. People of all income levels and ages need access to information and information technology.
12878	7/10/2012	Quiet& easy access, I feel I have a piece of ownership because I put my tax dollar at work for education & learning information.
12879	7/10/2012	I love being able to go to the library and handle real books.[]
12880	7/10/2012	I love being able to read anything I want without having to buy it.
12881	7/10/2012	I am a senior and the library is one of my main outlets into the outside world.
12882	7/10/2012	I've enjoyed using the library system all my life. Until now. i dont have space to store all the books i want to read[] i used to buy books and in a way that is a waste of resources, although i believe writers should be well compensated, especially non fiction writers[] so i value the huge availability of books at the library.[] i would be willing to pay $5 or more for the books alone, and more if you want to get into the netflix business.
12883	7/10/2012	Obviously police, fire, and infrastructure are crucial, but we have no society and certainly no democracy without education, and the library epitomizes the free access to information. Moreover, it does it in a way the internet does not, as published works give a verifiable author provenance to written works, although both are important. Providing access to literature for the less wealthy, theyoung, and the elderly is part of the underpinnings of a civilized society.
12884	7/10/2012	Library services are critical, but basic social services like housing, heating assistance and food programs are more foundationally important.
12885	7/10/2012	We seem to be living in a time that does not value knowledge, that views knowledge and understanding as a waste of money and a threat. That's dangerous in the short term and, not to sound too melodramatic, undermines civilization in the long term. A smart, well-educated, well-read population is our best hedge against the forces of tyranny.
12886	7/10/2012	Fundamentally, access to information and non-biased education for the populace is what separates us from other countries like North Korea. Providing resources for the poor and underprivileged so that every US citizen has the means and ability to pursue their dreams is a cornerstone of our culture.

12887	7/10/2012	The library is a great educational resource within our community. Internet access and access to reading materials raises the level of education and opportunity for low-income residents and thereby helps our community as a whole. Especially the Central Library is a great place for all segments of the community to interact as it is frequented such a diverse range of people. I use the library to keep up to date on new non-fiction works, especially regarding local and sustainable eating practices, which the library does a great job at keeping current.
12888	7/10/2012	Literacy is vital to creating an educated population. Children need to see that our community values reading. Plus, the resources available at the library, such as internet access and workshops, help adults.
12889	7/10/2012	Because the library has access to critical resources for people who might otherwise totally fall through the cracks. Libraries empower individuals and embodies some of our most basic rights.
12890	7/10/2012	I don't use the library as much as an adult as I did when I was young -- but as a kid, the library was critical to me. I was 20 when I saw my first Web page (slowly and lovingly rendered in Mosaic!); throughout primary and secondary school, the library was my point of access to a broader world of information. My daughter will grow up with a computer in her pocket, but the library can still provide that same lifeline I had to kids who are still on the wrong side of the "digital divide" (which is really just a polite way of talking about socioeconomic class).
12891	7/10/2012	Personally, the library is Very Important to me but overall must factor in safety & health-related services provided as well. Instead of the category Somewhat Important on your likert scale, I'd like to qualify my answer by replacing it with Important.
12892	7/10/2012	Having a literate society is the basis for democracy.
12893	7/10/2012	frequent use, high value
12894	7/10/2012	A library isn't as necessary to human survival as running water.
12895	7/10/2012	Extremely important
12896	7/10/2012	It's important to me to have free access to the forms of media that my library provides.
12897	7/10/2012	I am broke and I am addicted to boks.
12898	7/10/2012	I do not want to have to buy materials for school, I am a student and I love to read and watch movies, having them be at the library is convenient and saves me a ton of money.
12899	7/10/2012	Libraries give people free access to knowledge.
12900	7/10/2012	We don't use other public services nearly as much as the library.
12901	7/10/2012	I know where I am going to find useful information.
12902	7/10/2012	Public libraries provide a vital service, especially to our children. We need them open every day.
12903	7/10/2012	Local libraries provide a safe haven for people, a place for people to learn to read, to gather and share information, to explore the world. The health of local libraries speaks to the health of a community.

12904	7/10/2012	Almost all of my books, music come from the library.
12905	7/10/2012	An open, free library is at the heart of democracy. It provides information for EVERYONE seeking it: homeless, with home, young, old. It provides a safe, quiet place to learn and think. I equate it to freedom and a classless society.
12906	7/10/2012	the library is the most democratic of any social service - anyone can join and use the services, regardless of other factors.
12907	7/10/2012	They are used every day by hundreds of people for a variety of purposes. They are a source of information... not just books, but computers and public transportation information and community events. I have never heard anyone say, "Shut down the libraries!"
12908	7/10/2012	I use them much more than I use or hope to use fire or police. I am extorted to pay for water and sewer which actually covers multiple other items I would not select. It is unfortunate someone does not watch out for library services that way. Access to reading material and other media is crucial with the decline of our public school system, the lack of libraries in public schools and the unemployment rate. ☐
12909	7/10/2012	☐ Libraries are a haven of information and education, open to everyone. That has and always will be of the utmost importance.
12910	7/10/2012	There should be places for those who cannot afford computers & internet to access them. That seems to be more important than access to books and magazines. Public transportation, healthcare, education- those are all more important than libraries.
12911	7/10/2012	I have always been a library user, because they make a world of books and other materials accessible that I would not otherwise discover. You can "try" out a book without committing to the cost. I think it has made our family more widely read than they otherwise would be.
12912	7/10/2012	Because I am a voracious reader - always have been - and because I'm retired, living on a fixed income and cannot afford to buy books any more.
12913	7/10/2012	My family and I are voracious readers, and we rely on the library for almost all our reading materials. When my children were younger, we made extensive use of the library's story hours and children's activities, and I believe that helped instill a love of books in my children.
12914	7/10/2012	They help increase literacy. Literacy leads to success.
12915	7/10/2012	Because we cannot afford purchase books and reading stories to our baby is vital to her early development.
12916	7/10/2012	I find that being able to have access to books and other forms of media allows for me to keep informed and keep my hobby of reading affordable.
12917	7/10/2012	Our libraries are easily our most outstanding public service and help to enrich the communities they are in. Public libraries should be second only to schools.
12918	7/10/2012	We need an educated, informed society and the library and its services is key to making that happen.

12919	7/10/2012	They are the only place where poor and middle class Americans can educate themselves, and for children to get knowledge which they are not getting in schools due to budget cuts.
12920	7/10/2012	I really like being able to check out books and research topics with help from the librarian.
12921	7/10/2012	I believe easy access to the books, magazines, and other information available from the public library is invaluable. It provides the tools for an informed citizenry as well as recreation for young and old.
12922	7/10/2012	Police, fire, water etc are basic needs. The library is important but lives below basic needs.
12923	7/10/2012	Without the library my son would not be able to express himself today. He had a speech impediment. Picture books through the library has helped him develop his speech. He is continuing his reading as of today he can talk.
12924	7/10/2012	Libraries are used by our whole family. Parks used to have great importance to us, but even when the kids were small, we were more likely to visit parks in the suburbs which were better maintained than the Portland parks.
12925	7/10/2012	The Multnomah County Library is a huge factor in my quality of life here. I am a fast and voracious reader and cannot afford to purchase the number or variety of books I can access at the library. Even if I could afford the books, I don't have the space for them. In addition to the simple pleasure of reading, I rely on the library to provide the books I need to continue my own professional development. Lastly (but certainly not least) I rely on the library for the resources I need to expand and inform my hobbies as a crafter. I give the library great credit for expanding my knitting repertoire, from sewing to upcycling everything to cooking. I would be lost without the library.
12926	7/10/2012	They offer a community gathering spot and entertainment/recreation - something you can do even when the weather is bad. [] [] They help me provide a sense of community and belonging to my three year old.
12927	7/10/2012	They provide educational materials and resources for ALL people, not just those who can afford to access them.
12928	7/10/2012	Because its free. Free books, services, computer access, etc. In this economy that's very important to have that available for people.
12929	7/10/2012	It's the local public service we use most in our household, by far.
12930	7/10/2012	Education is the great equalizer. Creating a love of learning and a curiosity in youngsters, along with the resources to satisfy that curiosity, is an important tool in social justice work.
12931	7/10/2012	I think the library should come before public transportation and other things. If there isn't a place to learn and develop and find interests where are people going to turn? I like being able to get a book, read it and return it. I don't have a lot of means or space in my house to purchase every book I want to read. Reading needs to be a top priority as well as teaching people the importance of learning and how to learn rather than just teaching to teach and never looking something up. There is a wealth of information out there and the library is a great resource to find that information.

12932	7/10/2012	Because I have access to things I can't otherwise afford such as books, computers, movies. It also keeps me up on current issues and it is important that all people in our society have a communi place to meet and learn.
12933	7/10/2012	I don't understand the question. You want me to compare the library to the fire department? the police? the water department? Those things are requirements for living in a city, while the library is not. Compared to those things, the library is not important at all.
12934	7/10/2012	They are our source of knowledge. The library represents what kind of information is available to the public and what knowledge they can learn on their own. Free education of sorts. People need access to the changing politics of their community and it is readily available at the library.
12935	7/10/2012	We live in a very small apartment. We place a high value on reading, but simply don't have the space to own books, nor do we have the current income to purchase as many books as I and our grandson read. We don't have internet at home we don't have any tv service. We are constantly at the library for new books and videos, both entertainment and educational. Without the library, the 6 year old wouldn't be reading at nearly the rate he does. My husband would have struggled more to find work. Keeping up with unemployment claims would be next to impossible. The library is an absolute lifeline at this point in our lives.
12936	7/10/2012	I grew up poor with parents who did not speak English. The library was my window to another world. I learned, was entertained, and met new people at the library. One of the most exciting and entertaining aspects of my life was going to the library every saturday and getting new books. I still use the library frequently.
12937	7/10/2012	Access to books and music is vital. Cornerstone of a healthy society.
12938	7/10/2012	need to educate via printed materials
12939	7/10/2012	The library is an important resource, but not quite as important as police, fire, and other social services the county offers.
12940	7/10/2012	They offer a wide range or services or different leanings styles and all types of people can access them.
12941	7/10/2012	Access to great material in friendly, well-organized system (on-line reservation system is excellent)
12942	7/10/2012	Because I feel connected and it helps me improve my intellect - my life. It makes me feel like a wanted member of society in Portland.
12943	7/10/2012	Love to read and need to get free use of books. On a senior budget.
12944	7/10/2012	Not as important to me as others, but I do believe the library is an essential, valuable resource in our community.
12945	7/10/2012	We have plenty of problems with limited resources and we can't have it all. Don't get greedy
12946	7/10/2012	Because I feel that literacy is of utmost importance in the generations to come and will pay and fight for that!
12947	7/10/2012	can't buy books, use hold system. read a lot.

12948	7/10/2012	It is a fantastic supplement to our education system, which also is lacking in funds. Students who don't have the resources of books and computers at home can access them at the public library.
12949	7/10/2012	Literacy is very important to me. In a culture that increasingly values online and television media, I think it is crucial to emphasize the importance of literacy. The library provides free, exciting options, which makes reading more enticing.
12950	7/10/2012	Everyone uses the libraries here so much. More than anywhere else I have lived. Access to books and all of the other resources is as important as any other public service.
12951	7/10/2012	Libraries can be a safe haven for kids with no where to go. The resources available can teach people to read, open an unknown world and spark imagination
12952	7/10/2012	I'm on a fixed income. I rely on the books I can check out from the library rather than buying them myself. There is such a wealth of materials available.
12953	7/10/2012	Not everyone has access to computers, books, magazines. This access is important in a democracy and to provide access to education and information to all.
12954	7/10/2012	Libraries are very important to me and my family.[] See it as part of the education system.
12955	7/10/2012	It is a huge resource for people who cant afford to buy books to read or study or afford internet. Some people depend on those services for job seeking and schooling. Education is power.
12956	7/10/2012	The ability to read books and other media, to research, to find entertainment material at no out of pocket costs (apart from my taxes) enables all citizens, myself included, to improve oneself, to improve one's outlook, to open doors, to enable creativity and to lift man above one's physical conditions, to transcend and to improve all humanity. Without free public libraries, our life, our liberty, our existence is at stake. The repository of knowledge is key to our society. There is no greater public service to the greatest number of citizens than a library.
12957	7/10/2012	I value having free access to so many books and media, I can almost always find what I am looking for in the way of books!
12958	7/10/2012	The library can service all sectors of the community with valuable resources that range from reading to job search to computer access. Every community needs access to their library!
12959	7/10/2012	An educated society with access to free books and materials can create positive change in the world and our communities.
12960	7/10/2012	Learning and knowledge are always key to a civilized society.
12961	7/10/2012	provides a free education and information to All citizens of PDX
12962	7/10/2012	I can buy books or other media, but I can't pave the roads, maintain water mains & sewers,educate the youth of Portland or provide police and fire protection
12963	7/10/2012	Education and self education are important to give everyone the chance to better themselves. The library system gives everyone the opportunity to learn even if they do not have the financial ability to purchase resources for their personal use.
12964	7/10/2012	I depend upon the services of the library more than any other local public organization.

12965	7/10/2012	I can get most of the learning information from library
12966	7/10/2012	I would rank public safety higher. Fire, Police, and road maintenance are high. Capitol improvements rank below.
12967	7/10/2012	Libraries enhance literacy, education, self-sufficiency and community unity, which in turn helps people find and retain jobs along with helping children thrive in school.
12968	7/10/2012	Having access to a library is very important it offers a variety of programs for people of all ages and books to the community and for those who cannot afford to buy books. The children's programs are also important and provided families in the community a way to educate their children and have them socialized. Having the library accessible for research is very important to me and having access on the weekends as well because I don't always have time during the week to go get books and it's nice to have that opportunity on the weekends.
12969	7/10/2012	If I did not have resources to access the internet or purchase books (helps Powell's stay in business) I would be at the library a great deal of time. Our grandchildren do not live near us, but if they did, they would be at the library a great deal of time. There are families and senior citizens who access the library resources and benefit from having a library in the neighborhood. Currently I don't make a huge amount of use of libraries but other people do and I have in the past. I may be in a position in the future in which I need services libraries provide.
12970	7/10/2012	Access to internet and printing are things some people can only access at the library. These are essential for job seeking etc. Services that are provided can be of value to the community.
12971	7/10/2012	I believe libraries are a vital foundation of our community, providing a wealth of information to everyone.
12972	7/10/2012	I can't be in the sun or cold in order to find another library
12973	7/10/2012	See my previous comments under #6. Also, information that is rich in real value (unlike certain stuff of the web) should be accessible for an informed populace. Which we know we are losing/have lost at a clip. Google is not an organizing principle. Libraries organize information and its sources for better access and are staffed with human beings to help you into it. This is so important. Sharing this information by funding an organizing source, reading and returning a book so someone else can use it, same for the computers and databases: all of this makes self-obvious sense.
12974	7/10/2012	Education is one of the most important public services we have. I believe the local library system is a vital support to our schools and it allows adult members to continue a life of learning.
12975	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading and learning.
12976	7/10/2012	For one, a book in hand outscore a hand on a keyboard. I have sought, bought, borrowed, and thoroughly enjoyed books since my early childhood
12977	7/10/2012	We check out books all the time. Borrowing books from a library is a critical need for my family.
12978	7/10/2012	I'm a writer and avid reader. I use the library for research and personal enjoyment.

12979	7/10/2012	They even out the playing field for folks of all socioeconomic statuses.
12980	7/10/2012	The library is the only place in the world where I can take my three children and know that they are receiving one of life's biggest gifts and it's free. Where else can you do that? They all adore reading because of their access to the Multnomah County Library.
12981	7/10/2012	libraries are civilizing influences in a consumerist culture
12982	7/10/2012	Educational
12983	7/10/2012	place for people who need help to go
12984	7/10/2012	i believe libraries build a sense of community
12985	7/10/2012	I have many resources for finding books/materials. However, I realize I am lucky and I support all other programs, especially support for job-seekers.
12986	7/10/2012	i need books to read. Libraries are a perk to the community
12987	7/10/2012	I cannot imagine my life without reading and access to reading materials
12988	7/10/2012	Libraries are not only community centers for youth, adults and families, but they provide a wealth of resources for education and enrichment.
12989	7/10/2012	They offer so much to the people who cannot afford to pay for services. Libraries offer an opportunity for the poor to learn and explore.
12990	7/10/2012	Our family uses the library at least a couple of times a week.
12991	7/10/2012	Learning is extremely important. Libraries are something everyone can use and benefit from
12992	7/10/2012	I feel that it is important to easy/free access to all types of reading material.
12993	7/10/2012	The Educational benefits of public libraries pay off with reductions in violence and criminal behavior.
12994	7/10/2012	mostly bc i don't know what other public services specifically to compare them too. this question could be more specific through including a summary list of other local public services for comparison.
12995	7/10/2012	I place a high value on books - and the ancillary services that the library provides that are not the top priority for any other local public services.
12996	7/10/2012	It's the public service I use the most.
12997	7/10/2012	Very important since I love to read books.
12998	7/10/2012	We read to learn, without reading we understand less about the world around us.
12999	7/10/2012	The library is a free place for EVERYONE to go and learn. The resources that the library offers are extremely important in building a positive, healthy and beloved community in Portland. The library enriches the entire populations experience which then gets filtered into higher learning and the economy within Portland.
13000	7/10/2012	I like the library but if I have to chose between something like food services and medical care for low income families with children and schools having what they need to teach the children, the library will definately be behind on that a far as importance.

13001	7/10/2012	Libraries provide community centers, are accessible to all without regard to income, race, gender, age etc., and provide a place of lifelong learning. They are safe places to go for youth, they give us a window to the world through books and other media.
13002	7/10/2012	I access the online resources consistently. If they were no longer available, I would have to pay for services through other sources in order to get the same information. Also, we take our grandchildren to the story hour sessions and it is a nice break and enjoyable for the kids. If that were to be defunded or stopped, it would leave a VERY large hole in the relevant services that are provided to many, if not most, all families.
13003	7/10/2012	Due the high level of educational resources they provide to anyone who comes inside the library doors.[] These resources are available to everyone and not just a chosen few.
13004	7/10/2012	Reading opens up the world to everyone. The value we receive from free books and other learning materials is invaluable. Storytimes are so important to teach parents how important reading is to young ones. Computer access is so important to students, seniors, job seekers and others who do not have the budget to own their own computer and/or internet access. Libraries offer education, entertainment, social support, and so much more.
13005	7/10/2012	see my previous comment (no. 6)
13006	7/10/2012	I firmly believe that the opportunity that public libraries bring to citizens is of the greatest importance. The ability for members of the community, no matter social status or economic level, to be able to seek out resources and educate themselves toward a brighter future is what makes cities like Portland so great. All it takes is motivation and hard work and anyone who is issued a library card can turn their life into a great success.
13007	7/10/2012	They support education at a wide level and are an essential quality of life service that may be easy to overlook during times of economic hardship. They are also an important hub of social services for many people.
13008	7/10/2012	Clearly health services and emergency needs come first. But we are suffering through a period of highly inadequate public education; better support for libraries can be a significant part of better public education.
13009	7/10/2012	While Libraries are not providing a life-or-death service, they play an irreplaceable role in our communities. You provide access or learning and dreaming, without any consideration of a person's wealth. This has undoubtedly been the difference between success and failure for many students, immigrants, parents, teachers, transients and so many more! This is a vital service that I would gladly pay to ensure it remains available to all for many years to come!
13010	7/10/2012	I read a lot -- about 1 book/week for 40 years.
13011	7/10/2012	Emergency services and public safety are more important, but libraries come next.

13012	7/10/2012	I believe in a meritocracy where one's efforts to better oneself are rewarded with a better life. I also believe that a democracy cannot operate properly if the citizens are not educated. Worlds are opened in people's minds when a book is opened. A society is richer as a result.
13013	7/10/2012	I like to read and I like to hold a book to do so---not an electronic gadget.----therefore I use the library on a regular basis for that. (even though I buy a lot of books, as well). At this point I have not needed some of the other services offered, but it doesn't mean I won't at some point in the future, and judging from the no. of people I see using the public computers and the no. of children and parents I see there, I would say library programs are VERY important to maintain.
13014	7/10/2012	Libraries are a great resource, a place to do research that is reliable [unlike the internet]. Libraries are also a place to learn and expand ones knowledge. I also believe that libraries are crucial to many of us with small income, especially children. It os a safe place to learn and open ones mind!
13015	7/10/2012	I wish this question listed the other public services you're referring. In any case, free public access to information is the cornerstone of a free society.
13016	7/10/2012	Because it is my source of books.
13017	7/10/2012	I use my library more than any other local service.
13018	7/10/2012	Our local library is very important to me because it provides a place where my children and I can go to enjoy and explore our passion for reading.It is also a valuable resource for research and homework. Our local branch library provides an outstanding community resource. Also, there seems to be a wide range of users (diverse in age, race, economic background).
13019	7/10/2012	I depended on libraries as a child in NYC and I am getting back into using them as a retired person. I also want them there for my grandchildren.
13020	7/10/2012	They are a valuable cost friendly option for people to enjoy.
13021	7/10/2012	They enable people to access information and materials, and to gather together in community activities.
13022	7/10/2012	Because I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read!
13023	7/10/2012	I think it is important that everyone has access to information
13024	7/10/2012	People need to have access to books and other resources without having to buy them. I have been using libraries since I was in grade school, which I graded in 1961!
13025	7/10/2012	Very, very important.
13026	7/10/2012	Free access to a comprehensive marketplace of ideas is the core of American democracy.
13027	7/10/2012	We use the library a lot, but it is not as essential as other public services.
13028	7/10/2012	Libraries are essential to a community, but they are not life-or-death type services like others. This does not mean they shouldn't be fully funded, though!
13029	7/10/2012	There are many avenues to the resources I utilize the library system for.
13030	7/10/2012	I am a teacher, so I use the library to research and check out materials for my students. I am also a PhD candidate, so I use the library to research my dissertation.

13031	7/10/2012	Because they bring education and information into the community, which is the most important thing there is, next to basic necessities.
13032	7/10/2012	Libraries provide books, newspapers and periodicals that keep our citizens informed.
13033	7/10/2012	Free access to literature for all ages affects a lifetime for learners.
13034	7/10/2012	My granddaughter checks out at least 10 books a week for us to read to her. Very important for members of community that don't have access to computers and books.
13035	7/10/2012	It makes a community, a resources for those without them at home or school, a safe place, access to the world though books and internet.
13036	7/10/2012	The library provides access to knowledge and culture and is an antidote to the dumbing down by our mass media.
13037	7/10/2012	I am a voracious reader, and I grew up walking myself to the library after school almost every day. My love of reading has shaped my life, and if I had been required to buy every book I read, I would not be the person I am today, because I simply wouldn't have had adequate access to books.
13038	7/10/2012	I believe a public library system is fundamental to a successful community and republic. 1. I'm a teacher. ☐ ☐
13039	7/10/2012	2. If only those who can afford to purchase the services the library offers have them, then the have/have not of our society continues to grow. ☐ ☐
13040	7/10/2012	3. No place makes my children happier. Police, Fire, Public Works, and Schools are more critical to the community.
13041	7/10/2012	I value the opportunity to educate myself and hope others take advantage of library materials for the same reason. An educated populace makes a better functioning and more effective society.
13042	7/10/2012	Like public education and arts education and basic public safety service, access to books and media and cultural programs benefit all people.
13043	7/10/2012	Libraries provide an educational foundation in communities that may be otherwise resource-poor.
13044	7/10/2012	Because I love books and information, and I'm not able to buy (or store) all of the books and info I'd like to have access to. We are incredibly fortunate to live in a country that provides such widespread services along these lines.
13045	7/10/2012	They bring the entire community together and preserve our cultures. Having safe bikeways and effective public transportation are more practical public services, but the library definitely improves my quality of life, keeps me in touch with the community, and provides a valuable resource to children and seniors.
13046	7/10/2012
13047	7/10/2012	The resource materials and other programs are one of the most important local public services beyond basic utilities offered by the city.

13048	7/10/2012	Access to books and computers are vital to humans at all ages and from all backgrounds. From starting infants on a path to loving reading and education, to providing a resource for learning and a work space for school aged children, to giving adults access to continued education/computers and internet access/job searching and resource identification space, to providing seniors with activities and ways to stay engaged. The Multnomah County Library system is a part of what made me choose Portland as my home and the richness of the life I've made here would be impacted without it.
13049	7/10/2012	The library is an important educational and entertainment tool. It is important for the knowledge and understanding of our citizens
13050	7/10/2012	They perform a variety of critical services to our community- I still believe that reading is a significant concern to our young people- impacting education levels- job opportunities- with the ripple effect throughout the entire community. (police/ social services ect)
13051	7/10/2012	They provide books and other media for those unable to buy them; computer assistance, story hours for children, convenient research options - all the things libraries have done through the years. You also offer helpful and interesting programs to all.
13052	7/10/2012	Public services that provide for basic human needs are number one. The availability of library resources are important service that provide all people with equal opportunity for books, computers, classes, etc.
13053	7/10/2012	The library provides everyone with access to information and worthwhile forms of entertainment, including people with limited economic resources, and even including people who cannot go to the library themselves. The library has the potential to expose people to a wide variety of opinions in a way that other sources of information do not (e.g. Google, which modifies search results based on past history, or electronic book readers from which books can be remotely deleted). The library contains paper media that cannot be deleted or modified remotely. The library is a fun and healthy place for kids.
13054	7/10/2012	First Firefighters and Policemen then schools, public utilities and libraries.
13055	7/10/2012	Access to the services provided is important to maintain an informed citizenry and develop young peoples thirst for knowledge.
13056	7/10/2012	Reading, and access to it is very crucial. Especially in teaching our new generations literacy and technology skills
13057	7/10/2012	any kind of free educational access is vital to society, and most easily cut, or so it seems to me. Free places that give everyone access to computers, get help with using them if they don't know how, is especially important now with media being primarily digital. The economy is such that more folks don't have the money to buy books and magazines, not to mention having a dsl line or new computer, the library provides a huge range of entertainment, and educational resources. []
13058	7/10/2012	I listen to books on cd and would be devastated if I couldn't borrow those from the library. I am a serious reader and appreciate the access to free books.

13059	7/10/2012	They are a center of open knowledge--part of what makes our country more egalitarian than most, and therefore more equal.
13060	7/10/2012	Because libraries provide entertainment and information for free
13061	7/10/2012	I use it for all sorts of things: I have a small business, and use the ask a librarian for research help; it's a quiet space to work; my kids love the summer reading program; we checkout books and DVDs all the time.
13062	7/10/2012	As an educator, I use the library constantly. I tutor in libraries, check out books for myself and for my classroom, and ask the youth librarian for suggestions for my struggling readers.
13063	7/10/2012	internet
13064	7/10/2012	they offer resources to those who can't afford new materials and promote reading to young kids which is very important
13065	7/10/2012	I read daily, I don't like reading on a computer.
13066	7/10/2012	Access to books and programs/education for people of low income. Libraries are a fantastic example of community.
13067	7/10/2012	community literacy/education and availability of reading materials for people who can't necessarily afford to purchase their own books. i view this as one of our most imporant public services as far as maintaining or nurturing a well-educated public
13068	7/10/2012	information = power
13069	7/10/2012	I am at the library twice a week - i like finding out about new books browsing - i do not purchase books or dvd's - the library is my sole source for these items
13070	7/10/2012	I am absolutely addicted to the library. I regularly rely on it for non-fiction and fiction reading, research materials, movies, and computer access.
13071	7/10/2012	It's the most sustainable community oriented way of reading. Much more efficient than buying new books or buying an e reader.
13072	7/10/2012	It's difficult to compare unless you give us examples of what you want us to compare them to!
13073	7/10/2012	I have always used the library and depend on it to be there to keep up on information and be able to read books and materials I cannot buy.
13074	7/10/2012	I honestly use these resources all the time. When I was looking for work, the computer resources were quite valuable. Books and even other types of media is practically only available now at public libraries. Even with items like movies, the library has stuff that is out of print or only made to order or in expensive box sets.
13075	7/10/2012	Literacy is important and should be available to people regardless of socio-economic status. But not at the expense of essential programs like schools, police, and fire.
13076	7/10/2012	I use the library both personally and professionally - as a self-employed professional in the arts, access to a wide variety of media (including DVD's, books, CD's and music scores) as well as access to internet-based resources are critical to my success and happiness.
13077	7/10/2012	education and a healthy environment for all ages to go to.

13078	7/10/2012	It's important to me to be able to continue to educate myself, be exposed to new knowledge, culture, art, literature, etc. It's important for the populace to have free access to knowledge and resources, and for all people to supplement their education. A community without libraries is an impoverished and disadvantaged community.
13079	7/10/2012	My children use the resources for school work and pleasure reading
13080	7/10/2012	See foregoing comment.
13081	7/10/2012	I am an author of nonfiction books for young people. The Multnomah County library system holds dozens of my books. To me the library is an essential part of the research that enables me to write my own books--yes, even in this age of Internet research. In a more general way I place a high value on literacy and on access to books and information. To me such things are more important indicators of community health than, say, publicly funded fireworks displays and art installations, as nice as such things are.
13082	7/10/2012	Everyone can benefit from the library regardless of income, age, and ability level
13083	7/10/2012	As a teacher, they provide educational resources and learning experiences for me, my family, my students, and my community.
13084	7/10/2012	Libraries are vital to helping parents become better parents, to helping kids to learn how to read (especially in the age of school cutbacks), to helping keep people engaged in the community and mentally active throughout life, to help build community in a diverse world.
13085	7/10/2012	It helps kids at school as well as adults to improve their knowledge at a free range. Learning on your own.
13086	7/10/2012	I think all public services are important and the library is a very sensible service. Services such as police, fire, schools, and social services are more important than the library.
13087	7/10/2012	Providing all library services promotes good habits for young ones. It stimulates developmental skills
13088	7/10/2012	Education, hobbies
13089	7/10/2012	The library provides so many services that help people improve their lives. We must give all people the tools to educate themselves and grow.
13090	7/10/2012	Library = access to information Information = knowledge, creativity, imagination
13091	7/10/2012	Knowledge, creativity, imagination = success & advancement (of individuals, community & society) I'm a writer, so it's very important for me to have access to a large volume of books.
13092	7/10/2012	Aside from public parks, libraries are one of the few remaining common areas in a given community. Many people depend on libraries for the information, learning and other resources that libraries traditionally offer. The availability of a public library affects the livability of the surrounding community in many obvious and not-so-obvious ways.
13093	7/10/2012	They provide resources to those with the most need and bring people together in a learning environment.

13094	7/10/2012	Very important.
13095	7/10/2012	I can't imagine a city without a library
13096	7/10/2012	An educated community is a healthy community. Everyone deserves access to knowledge.
13097	7/10/2012	Libraries allow people of all socioeconomic classes to reap the benefits of reading and other media which is immeasurably important for our society as a whole.
13098	7/10/2012	Police and Fire (public safety) are prime importance. Free libraries are a basic need for the community.
13099	7/10/2012	Libraries provide so much to so many people....libraries are vital to communities! And, I absolutely love books.
13100	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot. They seem to be a wise use of public funding.
13101	7/10/2012	Even higher than public transportation. Knowledge and accessible information are vital to our society.
13102	7/10/2012	Provide resources and services to people who may not be able to afford them elsewhere. Unites the community.
13103	7/10/2012	I think social, welfare and protection services are top priority - but I do highly value our local library services and feel its important, especially in this electronic age. I would absolutely hate to see the "institution" of libraries become endangered and eventually extinct.
13104	7/10/2012	I love to read but don't want to spend money buying books.
13105	7/10/2012	The opportunity to READ, check-out books whenever I want and to have a source for other interests (live music, authors speaking, community/non-profit organizations hosting informational meetings, etc).
13106	7/10/2012	Supports thoughtful living and alternative to paid media
13107	7/10/2012	The library is the center of learning in a community.
13108	7/10/2012	Libraries provide chance for people to access books, media, resource materials. Many people cannot afford to buy books, subscribe to papers, or have personal computers. This provides those benefits for everyone young and old, rich and poor. It is especially beneficial for those less fortunate.
13109	7/10/2012	I believe in the value of books and of having books available to all members of our society.
13110	7/10/2012	I don't use the library that often personally, but I believe they play a crucial role in the community to others of all ages. If computer classes could be offered more, I think it would benefit those of older generations that are looking for jobs but don't know how to use current technology that well.
13111	7/10/2012	I only use the library for Ancestry.com. I am an amateur genealogist and Portland Librariaries do not seem to care about American History. For instnce Holgate has walls of books in Russian, Asian, and Hispanic but very inadequate coverage on the American Civil War. By the way, aren't the libraries in America?

13112	7/10/2012	Libraries are truly accessible, inclusive and empowering for all of us.[] Along with the public schools they are the most equitable path for individual progress this country offers. They may even beat the public schools, given the state of these now.
13113	7/10/2012	books are a great confort.
13114	7/10/2012	Public service for our minds and our shared culture, not just our homes, jobs and safety, is vital in the information economy.
13115	7/10/2012	It is among the few services that all citizens can use. It is not limited to a few that qualify or need special services.
13116	7/10/2012	of course libraries are wonderful for folks of all incomes and their kids to enjoy reading, but law enforcement and fire services have to take precedence for the welfare and safety of the community.
13117	7/10/2012	They are up there with public schools. They are the only source of information/development/knowledge for some. The only source of community for others.
13118	7/10/2012	All members of the community can get resources and educate themselves using materials at the library. The library gives us access to things that we may not have been able to afford otherwise (for some, this may be as simple as books, newspapers, and internet access, while for those who have those basics, it may be access to scholarly journals or periodical databases). The library allows us to broaden our perspective, because we might check out a book that we wouldn't have bought--we learn more from having access to the library.[] [] I say "somewhat important" because even though I think the library is a great resource to have, it is not as important as essential services like police, fire, and ambulance. However, if the basics are paid for, I completely support fully funding a wide range of library services.
13119	7/10/2012	I believe that local libraries are a critical foundation to a civilized society.
13120	7/10/2012	People can find resources to better themselves, and hence better the world. We live in an age where information is everywhere, all the time. Staying informed and learning are important to society in order for people to make educated decisions. Also, there are people who need the internet to find jobs so they can have better lives. Students and educators use the library for research, inspiration, etc. Children and elderly people enjoy books that take them to interesting places in the minds. There's the old cliché: knowledge is power.
13121	7/10/2012	Libraries provide an opportunity for learning and education for everyone. They provide access to the internet and other media, which is increasingly how people are learning about things. Libraries are an under-used resource that should be a corner stone of our community life--social, political, educational.
13122	7/10/2012	self education[] access to information[] builds community

13123	7/10/2012	I raised my kids at the "library" wherever we lived. They have all learned to love reading and frequent their own libraries for better reasons than "fun and games". Don't get me wrong... we all have a LOT of fun... I just don't think the many should be paying for the FEW! I also REALLY object to the different material you carry in other languages. In case you haven't noticed... We STILL are the UNITED States of America. By providing further segregation and making it easy for immigrants to STAY to themselves they never merge into the concept of UNITED States of America. I really resent all the money funneled to the few.
13124	7/10/2012	Because the library is one of the few, free or relatively free sources of information, education and resources to maintain, enhance or promotion of literacy and reading.
13125	7/10/2012	Obviously, the most important things in life deal with health, sanitation and welfare. Knowledge comes in second place however; that is the purview of libraries.
13126	7/10/2012	No other public services meet the needs of such a diverse group of citizens. I feel that the library services are very universal - a cornerstone of the community.
13127	7/10/2012	Libraries provide information and in some cases, inspiration. To be vibrant and meaningful, it must stay aware of the needs of the community it serves.
13128	7/10/2012	Access to information is the base of an educated electorate and job force!
13129	7/10/2012	Very important.
13130	7/10/2012	I would put transit service above local library services, but I do think it's very important that people have free public access to books, magazines, and newspapers.
13131	7/10/2012	They're where everyone (no matter how much money they have or don't have) can go for knowledge, information, resources, entertainment, and community support.
13132	7/10/2012	I use them all the time to explore different subjects/authors without a finance commitment initially.
13133	7/10/2012	This question was difficult to answer because I'm not sure which other local public services you mean. I do value library services and think they bring an important benefit to our communities.
13134	7/10/2012	community
13135	7/10/2012	I use the library quite a bit for books. I read on average a book a week, and wouldn't be able to afford to buy (or store!) that many books if I didn't have the option to use the library!
13136	7/10/2012	Without knowledge, shared publicly, we are doomed.
13137	7/10/2012	Because a community cannot thrive without places to go and learn and have access to informational and educational resources. Reading and education are very important to our citizens and our local economy.
13138	7/10/2012	Reading and learning are very important to me, and the fact that it's free to do it through the library almost any time that I desire is incredibly important to my life.
13139	7/10/2012	Most important on so many levels.
13140	7/10/2012	I love the library
13141	7/10/2012	Such a great quality of life enhancement for me. My local library really is a gem of the community.

13142	7/10/2012	Without libraries and mail delivery, you're cutting and let dangle a large part of the population that's already marginalized. Plus, speedy knowledge never hurts anyone.
13143	7/10/2012	because the question is ambiguous.
13144	7/10/2012	I can get anything I need. I can get help for anything I want or need to do or any place I need or want to go. The information is so valuable to my life. There isn't a topic I can't research when I'm at my library.
13145	7/10/2012	Public funding, as opposed to private for profit services
13146	7/10/2012	Communities need culture to survive.
13147	7/10/2012	I don't use the library often. Usually for hard-to-find books. Otherwise, I buy my own or use my Nook eBooks. Frankly, I would most often use the library to check out new hardcover books; however, they have a lot of demand and the library has a limited supply of books to lend compared to the waiting list of people who want to check them out. I find the wait time so unreasonably long (months???!!!!!) that I have completely given up even trying to reserve any new books any more. So, the one function that I would most like to use the library for is not a viable alternative to me. So, I hardly ever use the library any more. Sad :>(
13148	7/10/2012	A viable community needs it's citizens to have access to the services a library provides.
13149	7/10/2012	The local library is an integral part of our family life, our sense of community in THIS place right NOW, and the foundation to our children's love of learning and reading. To take that away -- even if for only one day a week -- is so sad.
13150	7/10/2012	Because many people such as myself do not have internet access.
13151	7/10/2012	For my needs, the library services are somewhat important because I enjoy reading in my leisure time. But I think for the masses it's very important to have library services. The library serves so many other needs than just leisure reading and I think it's important to have those free services available to everyone.
13152	7/10/2012	Access to information is key to helping people get where they want to be in life.
13153	7/10/2012	Libraries offer a unique blend of educational and pleasureable experiences. They are instrumental to our communities, for people of all ages and cultures. Libraries bring people together.
13154	7/10/2012	Readily available knowledge, information, resources, and entertainment contribute to the heart of what makes people learn, grow, and self express, which enriches the community overall in a ripple effect.
13155	7/10/2012	The library is a treasure house of information and media for me and my wife. We do not buy as many books or DVD's because we know that we have access to them at our public library. It is also important because it serves a strategic role in our community for people of all ages and a variety of socio-economic and ethnic backgrounds. It is encouraging to be a part of a county that emphasizes this type of service for its citizens. It give us a sense of being a part of a larger community.

13156	7/10/2012	An educated and informed public is vital to a democracy. Reading is a gift that we a society need support. [] [] If we're all watching Fox and other drivel on TV we might as well fold up the tent and start fighting about whose religion is better.[] [] No special library district. It will eventually start taking money from schools and other services. We elect leaders to make funding decisions and set priorities. You would not set up a special jail and sheriff's taxing district. Why is a library considered different than other County services? Fund the library with a levy or raise the property tax rate to sustain the current County services.
13157	7/10/2012	Improve quality of life to a degree but not nearly as necessary/vital as law enforcement, emergency services, education, and public infrastructure maintenance.
13158	7/10/2012	Regardless of the advancements in technology it is important to me for my son to love reading books - real live hold in your hands books. I love the atmosphere of the library where people are together for a common purpose.
13159	7/10/2012	The local library is a community hub. I am reminded of that every time I go in, and see so many from the community using its services. My family and I mainly use the library for print books, e-books, media for checkout...Not so much for computers or other programs. But I see others really relying on the library for these services on a regular basis.
13160	7/10/2012	While I may not use the library as much as many people, I think that a good library system is vital to the intellectual health of a community. I would support the library even if I didn't ever use it.
13161	7/10/2012	I see all people there using the library.
13162	7/10/2012	Because of the vast amount of resources the library provides to community members of all ages.
13163	7/10/2012	Access to information promotes education, emancipation, and fun
13164	7/10/2012	I use the library in a multitude of ways on a regular basis. My daughter especially loves story time and being able to check out books and kiddie movies.
13165	7/10/2012	i refer folks to the library to use the computer for housing, job searches and a safe place to be on a regular basis.
13166	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power; poor people need access to resource materials. And I personally love books and can't live without them. I read them way too fast to be able to afford to buy them all the time. And students need access to resources for school, as well as a lot of people for their jobs. There are so many reasons!
13167	7/10/2012	The public library has been a special place for me all my life -- beginning as a small child, and now into my older years. A fabulous resource for information and browsing as well as a source of books and DVDs.;
13168	7/10/2012	Because they are an integral part of the community.

13169	7/10/2012	I would not be the person I am today without having my local library growing up. It made a huge impact on me in regards to my wealth of knowledge, my social skills, and my independence. I was very lucky to grow up in a town with an excellent library system.
13170	7/10/2012	I use the library to for most of my leisure reading, but it is used by other people for access to computers, education materials and education opportunities for low income children.
13171	7/10/2012	I love to read and all my book reading I get from the Woodstock library
13172	7/10/2012	Being among books and among people who respect them is a good place to be, both for young and old.
13173	7/10/2012	Books is good.
13174	7/10/2012	Multonomah county library has helped me go back to school, it has helped me find employment,and it has been an invaluable resource for me as a parent. Thank you!
13175	7/10/2012	they supply more education to our young for growth
13176	7/10/2012	I use them on a regular basis and I feel like they are part of what contributes to a vital community, offering resources and knowledge to all.
13177	7/10/2012	We all want everything at yesterday's dollars and yesterday's services but unfortunately that is not reality. Given the depressed economy we (as a family) cannot support any new or increased tax levies despite the value of the service. My spouse has been unemployed/underemployed for 18+ months and we are struggling to meet our current financial obligations and simply cannot take on any more at this time. While I understand that many feel the library should remain open and fully staffed 7 days per week, I don't think it would be the end of this world to operate on a limited schedule until the local economy picks up.
13178	7/10/2012	I like to always have a book with me.[] I always take my grandchildren to the Central library when they visit. They have come to look forward to that activity & the ability to check out some books while they are here. I would never be able to purchase books as their age interests change.
13179	7/10/2012	The library is an aid to every other service. That makes it the #1 service.
13180	7/10/2012	Because I use it all the time. I find books that I want to read and am able to get them. I have access to multiple resources to find information I need and can use.
13181	7/10/2012	All services are important. How do you choose between e.g. libraries and fire protection? Libraries and public health? Libraries and road maintenance? Libraries and food security? I will not participate in some shallow popularity contest intended to make winners and losers of essential public services; all must be funded. Consider the benefits that could be realized with just one of the Blazers' salaries - or Portland's fair share, perhaps 1/300th, of the trillion-plus dollars spent on illegal wars, or of the sixteen trillion dollars freely given to banks. It is time we ask more of those who would ask less of us.

13182	7/10/2012	Very important. We get most of my nine-year-old son's reading material there. The library allows me to keep him stocked with a nice variety of books. He's an avid reader and if I had to buy these for him, I simply could not afford it.
13183	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading every day.
13184	7/10/2012	Educated citizens are rational citizens.
13185	7/10/2012	I believe in the freedom of information that should be available to all citizens.
13186	7/10/2012	its the ONLY public resource i use regularly with intent.
13187	7/10/2012	Police and Fire are more important, but we use the library alot. However, without the library we would still find books and other media. It would just be more difficult and expensive.
13188	7/10/2012	As I mentioned earlier, my local branch is always packed with a huge variety of people, all needing different things. My branch & its staff do a great job of working with the neighborhood.
13189	7/10/2012	Allows all to learn and mentally grow!
13190	7/10/2012	I'm a student and hope to be an educator when I am done. Literacy is fundamental to freedom.
13191	7/10/2012	Libraries are the cornerstones for a free country
13192	7/10/2012	As a child I spent lots if time in libraries, and I feel reading (not on a kindle) and ability to research a topic you desire in a safe and pleasant environment is crucial.
13193	7/10/2012	The library system is the one place where I feel like our public services feel like an amazing gift. I can't believe all of the materials available through our library and how well used our libraries are. They bring all Portland residents together and almost everyone I know is a heavy user. I love it completely and brag about it to people who don't live here.
13194	7/10/2012	LIBRARIES PROVIDE FREE ACCESS TO BOOKS AND MEDIA THAT WOULD OTHERWISE BE COSTLY.
13195	7/10/2012	Libraries are basically the purest form of communal and collaborative public institution we have. It's symbolic of our cultural priorities. Making knowledge and information available to all citizens without regard to ability to pay is IMPORTANT. Having this is profoundly American and it's meeting a need that isn't met in any other venue in our society.
13196	7/10/2012	I am older and use the library for books. I walk to the central library. I also check out material which provides DVD's for instruction---art, history. I love this, especially. Am currently using Art through the Ages, one DVD per day.
13197	7/10/2012	I believe everyone should have access to books to read and there are many people who cannot afford to buy books.
13198	7/10/2012	i can't afford to buy books and media.
13199	7/10/2012	It is vital for people to have access to reading and resources to support it.

13200	7/10/2012	I tend to buy a lot of books at Powells and other local bookstores, as well as Amazon.com. But the libraries are so important because they are open to everyone who wants to learn and they provide a wonderful opportunity to read books that a lot of people can't afford to buy. Our libraries are a wonderful resource. What would Portland be without them? Children, Seniors and everyone in between know they can go to their local library and find a book, a movie, a newspaper. Anything. Everything. Libraries are just as important as schools!
13201	7/10/2012	Library's are connecting community in many ways that are difficult to express, the fact that it is filled with people daily reading, communicating, researching and educating is worth volumes.
13202	7/10/2012	It's the one I use the most. Having free access to books and other materials and programs is extremely beneficial to me.
13203	7/10/2012	When I was a kid growing up poor in rural Oregon, the library was a miracle. I needed the intellectual stimulation and diverse perspectives I had access to through the books. Without the library my childhood would not have been the same. We simply couldn't afford to spend money on books; through the library, I had an abundance. While I have the means now to buy books and I don't use the library as much (plus, it's not in walking distance, or I would probably still use it)--I still think it's vital for people who don't have the means to buy books to have access to them. It makes our society better as a whole. I also think it's essential that they have access to free internet for the same reasons.
13204	7/10/2012	reading and access to knowledge is important to a healthy community. It is a peaceful meeting spot and community for people of every background - social, economic, rac, etc
13206	7/10/2012	Local libraries offer access to print and electronic information, as well as educational resources such as early childhood programs, computer literacy (specifically for seniors), and English language learning opportunities. Libraries are an underused complement of public educational institutions, and they have the potential to reach a broader range of ages than our K-12 institutions.
13207	7/10/2012	Because a literate citizenry makes better decisions about how we use all our resources

13208	7/10/2012	I have two children. We go to the library several times a week to check out books and videos. The library has helped my children to learn the value of reading and research. The summer reading program has definitely given them motivation to read more, and as a result their literacy and reading speed has increased. The librarians have been helpful in expanding my children's understanding of how to access knowledge and resources, as well as in providing ideas for school projects. One of my daughters goes to the library every day after school for a half-hour or more so she can use the library resources to help her with her homework. It is a safe and educational environment. I am greatly saddened and frustrated that the hours have been reduced. What's worse, the hours the library is available to school-age children and working adults have been hit harder than other hours.
13209	7/10/2012	There are so many reasons.. building community, increase in literacy, love of books, adventure, learning language, more community, ability to explore ideas, topics, places etc. that your family may not have an interest in, but you do. Decreases the importance on money and buying everything when you can just check it out from the library. Allows access to information and computers for those who cannot afford their own or need help learning to use them. I have visited Indian Reservations that do not have libraries, books are scarce. When families do not have access to books, information is hard to get and it sets people up to be at a disadvantage when not comfortable reading or with language styles, let alone information about community and world events.
13210	7/10/2012	The library offers a unique and very useful service
13211	7/10/2012	good reading material source
13212	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a community service which individuals cannot obtain on their own.
13213	7/10/2012	It allows people to check out and borrow materials, as needed. Sometimes, you need to check out a book or a video once.
13214	7/10/2012	A library is a foundation for a civil and thriving society.
13215	7/10/2012	My main source of reading material because I could not afford to purchase all the books I read for school and pleasure
13216	7/10/2012	They are the most important thing in our community. We get books, movies, classes, etc. plus meet up with friends there.
13217	7/10/2012	Reading is very important to our family.
13218	7/10/2012	Many people can't afford to buy books, so they can borrow them from the Multnomah Library system. However, I would have to know what other programs compete for library funding to know where it should rank among all other calls on funds.
13219	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power....for everyone. It is about equity....accesses.
13220	7/10/2012	I consider access to a library as important as educating our young. The library is an avenue to the world.

13221	7/10/2012	I grew up in a library and I love to read and feel a real book in my hands. I want my children to grow up with that same love for books and reading and I don't believe digital media can do it.
13222	7/10/2012	It provides services not found elsewhere
13223	7/10/2012	Because it has such a broad public impact on things like education, reading, and communication skills
13224	7/10/2012	I used the library while I was without a computer or internet service at home, but it is not the main public service I use.
13225	7/10/2012	Education is critical, and libraries provide access to education to people who otherwise would not have it available.
13226	7/10/2012	They are very important, a great way to try out books. It's nice alternative to having to purchase and then get rid of them.
13227	7/10/2012	Reading and information are essential to a well informed public.
13228	7/10/2012	Libraries promote and support literacy and community. They provide a place for people of all ages to explore, learn and foster creativity.
13229	7/10/2012	because I love reading and having a quiet place to relax and read one of my favorite novels
13230	7/10/2012	Reading is a great start in success. Libraries have programs for children, offer free passes to other activities, assist with employment. They do a lot for our community.
13231	7/10/2012	Free access to books, newspapers and other media are the foundation of democracy.
13232	7/10/2012	I think that libraries offer a place for everyone of every age to go and learn - they offer reading for children and book delivery for adults and computers for people who can't access computers elsewhere. It is a public good and although I don't use any of those services at this time, I think that libraries contribute to the literacy of the general population and that is important to me. I will gladly pay more for libraries to stay open and remain a public good.
13233	7/10/2012	I think a library that's rich in materials of all types and accessible to everyone who wants to use it is essential to a democratic society. []
13234	7/10/2012	Also, the library stocks materials that I couldn't afford to buy in the quantity I'd like. They are very important for my research needs and for maintaining my education.
13235	7/10/2012	Now that I am retired I can't afford to buy books as I used to. I find the library to be an essential resource for new publications as well as classics, for history, novels and digital entertainment. I don't know what I'd do without it.
13236	7/10/2012	Because with the freedom of information through the Internet, from the comfort of whatever location I choose to be in, I am not bound to the noisy, limited and unpleasant resource that my local library is. The idea of a library system as currently modeled in this city is out-of-date and becoming a dinosaur. The last thing I want to do is give it more money to keep it alive.
13237	7/10/2012	Resources for my child (and myself) that are bountiful and seemingly untapped by most.

13238	7/10/2012	Because access to literature should be a crucial part of our culture. Libraries are also community centers. They provide a safe and positive place for people of all ages to enrich their lives.
13239	7/10/2012	I think the library is an essential resource for those who do not have internet/books/CDs/DVDs at their fingertips. Also libraries foster a great sense of community and I love that they are open and welcoming to everyone. I think if we took the ease of accessibility away from the libraries, many people would suffer greatly.
13240	7/10/2012	They are important, but not needed 7 days/week. <input type="checkbox"/> See previous comment, however, to see why the funds are not there for them to be operating 7 days/week.
13241	7/10/2012	I think it is a great source for all children and seniors.
13242	7/10/2012	I've used library resources as a reader, job seeker, adult learner, student and nanny. I expect to use them when I apply to graduate school, when I have young children, when my parents grow old and need books and technology, and when I grow old. The library represents community and presents a crucial positive image for necessary government services.
13243	7/10/2012	It is simply a measure of how society functions for the benefit of all who are part of the community.
13244	7/10/2012	Of course, water/sewer is of more importance, but I believe having materials available to the public keeps our community on equal footing. If the library services were cut back, I think it would cause a divide in the classes. If you can't afford to buy a book, etc, you will read less. Our society will start to separate into the "haves" and "have nots". I know this may sound extreme, but it is important that everyone has an opportunity to read and have current materials. Cut back on the programs. Moms/Dads (or nannies) can sing and blow bubbles to their kids in the park.
13245	7/10/2012	Because I am struggling financially and could still survive if library services are curtailed.
13246	7/10/2012	Free use of internet for job search, personal use and quietness.
13247	7/10/2012	The library has been a big part of my life since childhood. I love to read, but I can't afford to buy everything I want to read myself, especially because I'll only read it once. During high school I didn't have internet access at home, so for a long time I spent every afternoon at the library. Colleges generally provide students with many resources in order to do research projects etc., but high schools don't always have those options. For this reason, I think that library services are essential.
13248	7/10/2012	Because there is nothing that can replace them. They are a haven for imagination, creativity, learning, research and self improvement.
13249	7/10/2012	libraries provide citizens access to information and self-improvement regardless of ability to pay.
13250	7/10/2012	They provide access for increasing knowledge and furthering education.
13251	7/10/2012	Libraries provide so many services to the community that many people need but couldn't afford. There wouldn't be an adequate private enterprise equivalent of what public libraries can provide.
13252	7/10/2012	libraries are the one thing that is free and open to everyone. they allow people to entertain and educate themselves.

13253	7/10/2012	To educate also low income families and give my kids the opportunity of a big selection of books.
13254	7/10/2012	Libraries create readers. Reading creates insight and intellect.
13255	7/10/2012	public schools, police, fire dept, come first/very important. public transportation and access to community assets, such as libraries, come second
13256	7/10/2012	Because I LOVE to read and i don't like having to buy more and more books. I like how you can get books for free at the libraries.
13257	7/10/2012	That is a hard question, since "other local public services" are not defined. I'd rather have a fire department than a library, for example, but I'd rather have the library than pick up of leaves in just a few neighborhoods... I'm not sure what is possible to trade off, so have trouble answering the question.
13258	7/10/2012	INFORMATION & KNOWLEDGE IS WHAT MAKE'S US A BETTER PEOPLE.
13259	7/10/2012	Public libraries give people many services instead of just one. At libraries you are able to have access to the internet, and many sources of media.
13260	7/10/2012	I do not use them as much as most other people do.
13261	7/10/2012	Public access to a current and reliable institution for obtaining information is a fundamental component of our culture and must be incorporated into an ongoing, viable public service support strategy.
13262	7/10/2012	The library enables me to read current books and magazines and have access to printing/scanning at a much lower cost than for-profit businesses -- a significant boon to a student and job-seeker. It serves as a hub for community news and events, and the fact that it is within walking distance makes the neighborhood a great place to live.
13263	7/10/2012	I have school aged child that needs access to a variety of resources to do his homework.
13264	7/10/2012	Because of the aforementioned shift in the perception of the local library as a source of serious research to more of an entertainment venue. i make it my goal to read a book a week on pretty varying topics and many of those books aren't ones i need to own. i think literacy and knowledge are essential to fostering a community that I want to live in. i want to be surrounded by people who think and doubt and rethink and learn about and discuss issues and vote with informed opinions. i want my city to think forward, understand the issues we face as a community and a world and be a resource as to how we can resolve those issues. education is the number one thing that prevents people from behaving like idiots. yes, this seems obvious, but education gives people hope that they can get somewhere someday, so maybe they don't do drugs or get pregnant too young or whatever other self (and other people) destructive behaviors that might tempt them if they feel like they have no options. imagine a community where no one made such life-destroying choices. education is the fastest way to get there. i grew up in a fundamentalist christian home, where science was deemed an abomination. and...i'm a woman. (need i say more?) if it wasn't for my single-minded dedication to education, come hell or high water, and my willingness to make any sacrifices needed to get that education, darwin only knows where i'd be now.
13265	7/10/2012	books and art saved me then and they continue to save me, and so many others, now, as i have a better understanding

13266	7/10/2012	libraries are one of the best things about modern civilization. The easy, open and free access to the wide breath of knowledge is amazing and empowering.
13267	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader within walking distance of the library and my friends and I use it a lot
13268	7/10/2012	For me they are very important since I can not afford to buy books and enjoy going to the library and finding new authors.
13269	7/10/2012	I'm a mother and my kids love to read. I grew up in Seattle Public Libraries, and enjoyed the ability to pour through books at my leisure. I want the same things for my kids
13270	7/10/2012	The services are very valuable to my family
13271	7/10/2012	The availability of information is vital to our success. With more and more information online, brick and mortar buildings become less relevant.
13272	7/10/2012	Information is power. It is access. It is critical to a thinking democracy.
13273	7/10/2012	Use the library every day.
13274	7/10/2012	Access to the library is very important for educational development for myself and community.
13275	7/10/2012	We have 3 young children who love books and story hour. The community aspect of the library is also important to us. Library access and quality are key parts of a livable community.
13276	7/10/2012	I think most public services--social and educational--are vital to our community and am hesitant to qualify one being more important than the other. Libraries are extremely important but equally extremely important as other local public services.
13277	7/10/2012	This is a hard question - there are tons of local public services, not sure what to compare it to. A healthy, thriving library is central to our communities.
13278	7/10/2012	a democracy cannot survive if its people are not educated.
13279	7/10/2012	It is an opportunity to meet local people and find reading material I would not otherwise discover. The librarians are great, so helpful and pleasant. The library is just simply a treasure in the community.
13280	7/10/2012	Access to the written word is critical to an educated populace. The library offers the full-range of information, whereas people usually go to websites they agree with--too limited.
13281	7/10/2012	I believe that good libraries are essential to the culture and education, of a city
13282	7/10/2012	It's important that people be able to educate themselves and have easy access with the means to do so.
13283	7/10/2012	I'm an avid reader and enjoy the access to books
13284	7/10/2012	Access to information and quality entertainment (reading) is vital for Oregon and the nation.
13285	7/10/2012	I could live without a library if the decision came down reducing public safety or libraries. Otherwise, I think it is fairly important.
13286	7/10/2012	Ready access to books and databases is ready access to education. It is fundamental for improving one's quality of life.

13287	7/10/2012	While fire, police, and paramedic services are important to public safety, and infrastructure like roads are important to public functionality, libraries are culturally important. We need them to encourage a thoughtful and educated public. Without that, how can we be the progressive city people seem to think we are?
13288	7/10/2012	Again, it is finding the balance as media continues to change and seeing what users need and want while maintaining an excellent standard of delivery and availability. If reduced hours are necessary to maintain quality of the libraries then I would be in favor of that. Finding when low use times are an adjust accordingly.
13289	7/10/2012	Education and access to information are vital to a healthy and prosperous community. By denying these tools a larger disparity between classes develops. Additionally, community building would not be possible without such "free" programs.
13290	7/10/2012	As I mentioned above, libraries are a public demonstration of what a community shares. We do not have identical tastes in literature, philosophy, politics or religious belief, but the desire to learn about our world is universal and libraries not only help a community satisfy that desire, they also remind us that this is something we share.
13291	7/10/2012	Books are important, but I think education also needs more funding.
13292	7/10/2012	The local library is the backbone of public education, and of my audiobook education. Both are precious to me.
13293	7/10/2012	Libraries serve as an educational tool to help the community. It enables underprivileged citizens to gain knowledge through books and classes to have better, and hopefully equal, opportunities. The emphasis put on local libraries shows a community dedicated to empowering their citizens.
13294	7/10/2012	The community needs streets repaired and garbage service to work. I like the libraries, but personally would have access to books and media from bookstores and the internet. I think libraries are great, we should keep them working because its a great free service for everybody, especially those who couldnt afford to buy computers and books. And its especially important for kids to have library access.
13295	7/10/2012	Books, reading, critical thought, news, public conversations about important topics, etc.: these are things severely lacking in our society and all are supported by public libraries. □ I like to read a lot and while I would prefer to own every book I read, I don't have the money (or, eventually, the space) to have that many books, and the library is an irreplaceable resource in that way. E.g., I recently read a book on the history of Liberia which unless I were a college student I would have had no way to access if not for the library (I got it through MultCoLib on an inter-library loan from Oregon State University). It wasn't the best book I ever read (far too dry, written by a government clerk), but I'm glad I had the chance to read it.

13296	7/10/2012	Whether we chose to read for leisure or to learn something new, the library offers the public irreplaceable and invaluable resources, plus the need for early childhood education and job seeking.
13297	7/10/2012	It's a place where community can safely go to learn, to meet people, to engage in activities. Both young & old share the library. People respect it.
13298	7/10/2012	The library is crucial to us. We don't do TV- we just read, and especially with two small kids, we LOVE taking out lots and lots of books!
13299	7/10/2012	I was raised by my parents to use the library and it has always been an important part of my life. I think having free access to reading materials is so important to improve literacy rates and to educate people.
13300	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power.
13301	7/10/2012	Because they give me access to materials I could not otherwise afford. I am now even going there to read the Oregonian.
13302	7/10/2012	A well educated public is necessary for society
13303	7/10/2012	They are a valuable resource for everyone in the community. It does not matter how old or young, rich or poor, educated or not.
13304	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to further knowledge.
13305	7/10/2012	Access to reading materials is very important to me because that's how I learn! Access to media is very important because I couldn't afford entertainment otherwise.
13306	7/10/2012	Literacy and education separate a civilized society from the uncivilized.
13307	7/10/2012	To give everyone access to information and reading material, no matter of your age or income is important in a society.
13308	7/10/2012	They are very important to me, as they are one of the few public service I utilize. I save an incredible amount of money borrowing materials instead of having to purchase them, and enjoy knowing I am saving the environment by reusing the materials.
13309	7/10/2012	Libraries offer an invaluable public service, specifically, the access to knowledge, exposure to culture, and the opportunity to be engaged with the community.
13310	7/10/2012	Critical education and professional development resource
13311	7/10/2012	Our families have always utilized the library from the time we were children in our parent's homes and we've continued that with our family. I don't know what we would do without the library and Title Wave Bookstore. For those who don't have spare money for extras, the library holds the key to a lot of wonderful entertainment.
13312	7/10/2012	For me, it is a great resource for finding interesting books, documentaries on DVD and music CDs. I also appreciate the amount of historical reference material on North Portland that is available.
13313	7/10/2012	I work at a nonprofit and am on a tight income, so I use the library to obtain all of my literary resources.

13314	7/10/2012	It was very useful when I didn't have access to a home computer to use the ones at the libraries. I also like checking out books and audiotapes. Encouraging education and knowledge is also very important to me on a societal level.
13315	7/10/2012	many people have no access to computer and internet. students can borrow book and use other resources , children and families with low income can use the materiel to enjoy
13316	7/10/2012	Local library services provide vital access to a vast array of information to everyone in the community. Limiting this access is detrimental to people of all ages and socioeconomic statuses.
13317	7/10/2012	I use the library more consistently then I use parks and community centers. As a teacher, I take my students to the library on field trips, to encourage reading, and to help them access leisure materials like music, movies and magazines. My family uses the library to access these resources too. The staff at Belmont are always helpful in finding and recommending books for my children.
13318	7/10/2012	A library is a resource for anyone to use; it can connect people with other public services, and it can educate people to an extent that they may be able to reduce their dependence on other public services.
13319	7/10/2012	helps strengthen the community fabric
13320	7/10/2012	Libraries level the economic playing field for citizens of a community. All are equal at the library. Libraries are environmental. Libraries enrich and educate our communities. Libraries enrich our town and community.
13321	7/10/2012	I, of course, could live my life without a library, but they provide me a free means of entertainment and self-serve education that is very important to my lifestyle. I would not be able to afford personal access to the books that I read at the library, which enriches my life significantly.
13322	7/10/2012	While I deeply appreciate my library I view it as more of a luxury than a necessity. Other public services (i.e. police, fire, medical, school, road maintenance, prison system, etc.) are more of a necessity in my opinion.
13323	7/10/2012	A place for free information and learning to take place. When I hear of all the education challenges, hours cut, low level of education for some - I think it is important for parents to supplement the education of their children by taking them to the library.[] As a resource for the work I do - this is the main reason I use the library, on lesser occasions I make use of it for recreational purposes
13324	7/10/2012	Reading and literacy are PARAMOUNT to maintaining an educated society. Having access to books and other information helps to make citizens more aware of their local community and the world. I'm in my late 30s and I still remember the day I was able to get my own library card.
13325	7/10/2012	You need to define "other local public services" if you're going to ask this question. If you're asking me if the library is more important than maintaining water, wastewater, fire, police, roads, etc., then no, it is not. The library is important to me, but not as important as others.
13326	7/10/2012	I can't imagine a world without libraries. From the time I was very young I have never been without being in the middle of a good book.

13327	7/10/2012	Because they fulfill community enrichment and education needs, that are difficult to find/access elsewhere - although filling road potholes is also important, without an informed and well-rounded community driving those roads, it becomes a moot issue.
13328	7/10/2012	I love libraries. They contain knowledge for little cost. They supplement schools. They provide reading readiness tools, job skills, community programs, a community center. They provide homework help, help to learn English, book clubs. All in all, they provide the tools and skills that keeps us civilized.
13329	7/10/2012	I believe all local public services are at the same level, all important.
13330	7/10/2012	Because I'm a literature lover and a lifelong learner. I thrive when I have a nearby library.
13331	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power.
13332	7/10/2012	My children depend on the library for school reading materials
13333	7/10/2012	Readin is impotant
13334	7/10/2012	highly
13335	7/10/2012	I believe everyone should have access to knowledge.
13336	7/10/2012	Access to books and other media, also reading programs for children are very helpful and encourage reading.
13337	7/10/2012	Books, internet, access for everyone.
13338	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power
13339	7/10/2012	information is gathered especially with the computers. Educating all ages on different subjects. A great resource!!!
13340	7/10/2012	Where else can I find out about anything in the world?
13341	7/10/2012	libraries not only promote literacy but also a sustainable, long term solution to our need for information.
13342	7/10/2012	libraries carry information, knowledge and are a help to those who cannot afford to buy books not to mention the computers that enable people to get jobs and information to handle life,...
13343	7/10/2012	My wife and I are readers, we're attempting to develop readers out of our children. Knowledge is key.
13344	7/10/2012	Although I don't visit as frequently as some people they are very important to me as a teacher. Several times a year I will check out more than 20 books for my classroom that I usually renew as many times as I'm aloud. The books provide extensions to units that I teach. Our school library is lacking in many resources so the public library becomes a very valuable resource.
13345	7/10/2012	It will bring in more revenue to keep the public coming to check out books or access the Internent.

13346	7/10/2012	I think a community without a fully accessible library system is a sign of the fall of civilization as we know it. I am also proud of the ranking our Multnomah County Library system has as one of the top most-used libraries in the country. I use the library all the time and would be devastated to see the new materials decrease as well as days and hours cut. I think the new hours ending at 5pm and not being open one of the days of the week make it harder to pick up items on hold before the deadline.
13347	7/10/2012	I am low-income and don't buy books. I get all my reading material and DVDs from the library. I don't have a computer and have only the library computers to check email or create a document.
13348	7/10/2012	While I don't use the library myself much, I believe in the importance of the institution. Although it is hard to rate a library system against sewers and water and police and fire and road maintenance and schools and courts. [] But I do think libraries are an important part of what a local government does.
13349	7/10/2012	I am a reader, my 6 year old daughter is a reader, we love having access to movies and books. We feel so blessed to have our library. I lived in a town in CA before moving to Portland that had such a small budget that the book and movie selection was so slim i very rarely found what I was looking for. The Multnomah County Library is one of the reasons Portland is so livable. I love that where ever you live in Portland there is a library close by.
13350	7/10/2012	My daughter loves her books and I feel that she has a love for books because her grandmother took her to the library for story time at an early age. It taught her that books are important and allows her a different adventure everytime she opens a new book. I also love the summer reading program, we have been doing this since my daughter was two.
13351	7/10/2012	libraries are a community hub where important information and resources are made available to all citizens free of charge. Education and opportunities for social advancement(employment, personal learning goals, learning aids for young students and toddlers) are available 6-7 days a week free of charge. This is a vital community resource that must be kept healthy and active in this city!
13352	7/10/2012	Because they help educate all economic statuses; they provide a safe, educational place for children, homeless people and elderly; they give parents of young children free activities and a brief moment of respite; they allow people to be exposed to EVERYTHING that has ever been written about (and most music and movies); they even have sheet music for loan at the Central branch which is invaluable to musicians. In short, I think the library is one of the top five most important public services a society can have.
13353	7/10/2012	In a culture that is so dependent on media the library levels the disparity between socioeconomic groups.[] It also is a community binder with activities that appeal to a wide range of ages and interests.

13354	7/10/2012	Making educational and reading material available to everyone at no-cost is an amazing gift to the communities. It enriches anyone who takes advantage of the library offerings. It helps to limit environmental impacts by encouraging the sharing of books/magazines/materials versus individual purchases. The variety of materials offered encourages users to diversify their reading habits. Stay focused on core library services and you have my full support -- libraries are wonderful!
13355	7/10/2012	I think the library is important but I would like transparency and accountability in how the library's budget has been spent. There are those that say the library's funding has steadily increased over the last few years and that the usage statistics are inflated -- yet now they are threatening to lay off workers, which just seems unfair to the community and the people that work there. My question is, has the library, then, been making the best choices in how it is being run? Do we need 50 copies of the hottest movie when no one is going to watch it 6 months from now? Why not increase fines or shorten checkout periods like Washington County, instead of spending money on items that won't matter in a few months? If their budget has increased, why do they continue to need more money, when many library systems around the country make do with even less? Why am I going to have to pay more money in my property taxes to possibly encourage continued mismanagement of the county's resource? Instead I feel bullied into voting for it, like the public is to be blamed for loss of library jobs, not the people who have been responsible for managing those jobs with budgets that spend responsibly.
13356	7/10/2012	The library definitely improves the quality of life for me and thousands of others in Portland. However, it doesn't save or protect lives, as some other public services do. Many of the services, in the big picture, are more of a luxury than a necessity. When I first came here I was blown away that materials were delivered to you from other branches!
13357	7/10/2012	I read and want to live in an informed, well read community.
13358	7/10/2012	Libraries promote literacy, which we always need more of.
13359	7/10/2012	Reading and maintaining an education is vital especially in the global market place
13360	7/10/2012	access to free information is crucial for a democracy
13361	7/10/2012	Libraries pay dividends in so many other areas of government and private life. It is essential to preserve access to information and knowledge, especially for those who cannot pay for it in private markets.
13362	7/10/2012	I am a senior citizen and I depend on the library for reading material. I read 2-3 books a week.
13363	7/10/2012	I love the library and frequent the Kenton branch often. I love being able to try new authors, as well as check out cd's and dvd's. Reading is my favorite hobby, and the library lets me enjoy it, without breaking the bank.
13364	7/10/2012	Public transportation gets me to work and all over the place, so it is ranked just below that. I read a lot and I can't afford to just buy book after book after book.
13365	7/10/2012	Literacy is needed in all aspects of a healthy community

13366	7/10/2012	Well I rate services like the police, fire department and other emergency services ahead of the library. I would rate them in a 2nd or 3rd tier.
13367	7/10/2012	I use the library services almost everyday, when the library is closed, this is one less important resource!
13368	7/10/2012	Utmost importance. Literacy is of most importance to this country and access to library materials is the best way to create literacy.
13369	7/10/2012	Reliability.
13370	7/10/2012	They are main resources that could help me to navigate other local public services and other information that I need for work and life.
13371	7/10/2012	If it was not for the free access to library resources I would not have graduated highschool due to financial barriers that left me without necessary tools to succeed.
13372	7/10/2012	Very high! It is a great resource for my children's reading and for my own reading.
13373	7/10/2012	Without libraries, the literacy rate would suffer considerably over time, as the library is the only source of books for a lot of people. You think there budget cut is bad now? Wait until there is less literacy and thus lower-wage jobs---less taxes coming in, and then there will really be budget cuts and library closure. Keep them open. They are the next most important thing after the 911 system to the well-being of Portland's citizens.
13374	7/10/2012	I am 68 and have been borrowing books from the library since I was knee high to a grasshopper. I am not rich enough to have private access to all library materials.
13375	7/10/2012	I love borrowing the media, but have no use for the extended services and will vote against funding them.
		Library services are the one local public service that I use most, other than city streets. [] []
		While public schools, fire and police depts., etc., all provide valuable services, I rarely interact with them directly, whereas I do visit the library quite regularly. [] []
13376	7/10/2012	For the amount we pay in property taxes to support MCL, we could probably purchase all the materials we check out over the course of the year. However, I appreciate the ability to read a book and then return it rather than needing to find space in my home for it. I like opportunities to sample music and other materials with which I may be unfamiliar, without having to purchase them. [] []
		This does not mean that I would spend a great deal more for a dedicated tax district for MCL. Our property taxes are already quite substantial and reaching the point where they are becoming unsustainable.
13377	7/10/2012	The internet provides an abundance of content and resources which can compete with the library but it doesn't provide other local public services like utilities, law enforcement, fire services and parks and rec. All of which I am very fond of and can't find a replacement for.

13378	7/10/2012	enthusiastic reader
13379	7/10/2012	I have access to the internet which provides a wealth information and education.
13380	7/10/2012	Libraries gave me a safe place to learn and love books as a child. Libraries made me the person I am today and were fundamental in my growth and development.
13381	7/10/2012	because I am low-income and do not own a computer nor have cable tele-vision so I need the Internet access and the ability to rent DVD motion-pictures to watch with my daughter
13382	7/10/2012	I am in college and use the library often for research
13383	7/10/2012	I use the library for nearly all of my reading needs and video rentals for both the sake of my budget, and because the options are so current and extensive.
13384	7/10/2012	prodigious reader.
13385	7/10/2012	one of the most important public services the local government can provide
13386	7/10/2012	They are great places for my kids to go and get an early love of reading. They are also great for low-income families who want to attend special events with their kids and have access to learning tools.
13387	7/10/2012	Great exposure for kids and families to reading and the importance of literacy /education
13388	7/10/2012	I depend on the library to check out books for my 5-year-old son and foster his love of reading. He has been visiting the library since before he turned 2 and always wants to check out stacks of books. I credit easy access to library services, in part, for his enthusiasm for books. Recently when we tried to visit two library branches and saw that both were close on that particular day, he was so disappointed he couldn't check out books.
13389	7/10/2012	Provides a free resource to all people - equal access to reading materials and educational materials. But not as important as schools or electricity or food stamps.
13390	7/10/2012	Issues regarding safety are most important. Having a library system like Multnomah County has seems like a waste of money
13391	7/10/2012	The library is a resource for all, and a basic right.
13392	7/10/2012	If you're comparing it with sewer service, road repair, etc, it's of low importance. (That said, we're probably one of the heaviest users of this branch). These types of surveys are terrible because by framing the questions in a certain way you can claim to know my opinion!
13393	7/10/2012	Gives everyone no matter what social level the opportunity to learn and try to better themselves. Whether they do that or not is up to debate. Maybe they're just checking out cds and using the internet to view celebrity gossip sites.
13394	7/10/2012	I use the library regularly for checking out both pleasure and professional reading material. It helps save me money since I don't have to buy the books I need access to.

13395	7/10/2012	Libraries are immensely important to me. I have the luxury of being able to buy books and music for the most part, but not everybody is so lucky. It is very important to me that everyone be able to have access to the information and entertainment that libraries provide. I am not aware of the programs that the libraries run for youth and seniors, etc, but they also sound like a strong public benefit.
13396	7/10/2012	When I had young children I would have said" very important". I took them to the library frequently. Now, my kids are grown but I still highly value the public libraries just not the way I did with young children.
13397	7/10/2012	Passionate about reading, learning and I am looking for a job
13398	7/10/2012	It's somewhat important to me because by using library materials, I am able to save that money that I would spend otherwise on books/movies so it can go toward things like my house payment, groceries etc. I do think there are other more important public services, but I also think some public services are less important or even unnecessary.
13399	7/10/2012	Books are my primary source of entertainment and relaxation.[] [] Books and DVDs are information resources as well.
13400	7/10/2012	I am such an avid reader, so personally my library is critical to me. I read so much I have a spreadsheet to keep track. No way could I afford to purchase all my books, even used. More generally, the library is important for what it offers all in the community, as a helper to so many types of people.
13401	7/10/2012	The library is a source of knowledge and information - the more knowledge you have, the better citizen you will be.
13402	7/10/2012	I read constantly, averaging a book at least every two weeks or more frequently. I can not afford to buy books in that number nor do I wish to accumulate a library of "once read" books due to my families' individual tastes. I attend your book sale days and gladly contribute my accumulated already read books for the enjoyment of others.
13403	7/10/2012	As a mother, I use the library to introduce my child to the joys of reading, meet other parents and kids, and invest in my child's foreign language development through the story times. The library and its resources are very important to our family.
13404	7/10/2012	I believe in the library system. It creates a space for learning for all. Though I do not agree with restricting access according to county (or country). I believe they should be accessible to everyone. I understand the desire to have funding come from the surrounding area, but there are many ways to allow access to all.
13405	7/10/2012	We need the library to grow our minds and it is such a great resouce to explore new subjects and to fortify new ideas. The library has always felt like home to me. There is a comfort I have whenever I'm in one.

13406	7/10/2012	Especially with this economic depression that we are in, it is important for people to have access to free information. Families, children, unemployed, etc. need access to books, information for learning that they couldn't otherwise afford on their own.
13407	7/10/2012	Books are sometimes the only available avenue for opening up the world. The choice is made by the reader, not by a marketing director, or by ratings.
13408	7/10/2012	Educated populace = cornerstone of democracy. It's as simple as that!
13409	7/10/2012	I have a preschooler and it has been the ritual of going to libraries in the communities that we have lived that has helped shape her love for reading, and learning and that is the best gift we can give to our children and ourselves. If we didn't have one close by, it would be less likely that we would go because it's so expensive to get around. We seem to stick to our neighborhood.
13410	7/10/2012	because it has a direct effect on our lives. Although it costs me about $15 / month in taxes, it evens out with all the reading I do.
13411	7/10/2012	We use it all the time for our reading materials and also to rent videos. It is a great community resource and gathering place. It anchors the local community.
13412	7/10/2012	I read an incredible amount without books I think I would go crazy
13413	7/10/2012	We read a lot!
13414	7/10/2012	Great resource for everyone
13415	7/10/2012	It's incredibly important to my family - we check out several books every couple of weeks.
13416	7/10/2012	Intellectual freedom; information literacy
13417	7/10/2012	Because public libraries provide resources, computer access and other services to the community. Access to books and self-guided education is of high importance to me.
13418	7/10/2012	the foundation of freedom for a country is the education of its people.
13419	7/10/2012	Place for kids of all ages to go regularly.
13420	7/10/2012	Source of information. Access to new books.
13421	7/10/2012	Wonderful place to stop in and find books and other materials.[] Also to put in a reservation request for new books.
13422	7/10/2012	I would say "very important" for me, personally. I use the library as a teacher and for my own self-education. But I marked "somewhat" only in relation to public services like transportation and emergency services, which must rank higher, in my mind.
13423	7/10/2012	It is important to my child. I also feel that being able to reuse a book instead of buying everytime and having the resources on hand are very valuable.
13424	7/10/2012	Keeping libraries regularly available, though with limited days/hours, AND keeping some of our money available for other human services is a sacrifice I'm willing to experience, IF longer library hours mean fewer services for other programs.
13425	7/10/2012	Every aspect of the community is serviced by the library.

13426	7/10/2012	Libraries provide the base level of information and communal services vital to a community. So many folks rely on our excellent public libraries for basic materials and services - books, web access, reference assistance, business information, job searches, education resources, storytimes, literacy and language support, homework assistance, a safe place to read, study and work, community meetings, etc.. The list goes on and on.
13427	7/10/2012	Libraries encourage learning - without access to learning we will not succeed as a country.
13428	7/10/2012	Literacy gives opportunity to everyone. Books bring joy and help educate the masses. Reading keeps kids out of trouble. The internet has a lot of this content now that is much more accessible.[] And e books seem to be the wave of the future. Just ask Borders or Powells. Or Amazon.com for that matter. []
13429	7/10/2012	I love libraries and bookstores and paper books - but I also liked going to tellers and now I pretty much do my banking thru ATMs or online just cause it's so much easier. [] You guys are fighting a rear guard action here. I don't think you can win long-term.
13430	7/10/2012	Firstly, I am a researcher by profession (historian) and rely heavily on library service to perform my job. Secondly, I take great pleasure from reading, and the library provides a source of recreation for me. Thirdly, I value the library as a public resource that makes information and information services available to a wide range of people in my community.
13431	7/10/2012	Education in this country, and Portland is no exception, is falling into the pits. As a result we are seeing more and more jobs being sent overseas. A look at the statistics that show how each individual school and the schools corporately are doing on test scores should indicate how important the libraries are.
13432	7/10/2012	Because the library provides a vital resource for those of us who are poor. It provides a means for social and economic mobility if a person wishes to use it. Without libraries poor people would have no access to information otherwise. We can't rely on just Google searches; we need access to books, articles, and video. The library opens up a world of possibilities beyond what you could read on the internet. And just for the record, by "poor" I mean people like myself who make around $30,000 - not poor by federal standards, or what you might think, but after all bills are paid I have less than $100 of disposable income.
13433	7/10/2012	The library levels the playing field - allowing all equal access to information.
13434	7/10/2012	Without a good public library we fail our children. It gives them a place to learn more about the world around us, a safe environment to go after school to do their homework if parents are working, a relaxing atmosphere to revel in the reading experience.
13435	7/10/2012	very high- the only reason I don't use the multnomah country library often is because I go to PSU and use their library
13436	7/10/2012	They provide so much to us and serve our broader education.
13437	7/10/2012	Cost, accessibilty, lifeline for information.

13438	7/10/2012	libraries have always been more accessible than other cultural institutions and they need to stay that way.
13439	7/10/2012	I have access to things I wouldn't otherwise be able to afford
13440	7/10/2012	Libraries have the opportunity to supplement schooling and make a significant change early in people's lives that will last with them forever.
13441	7/10/2012	Because people love to read and their knowledge increases
13442	7/10/2012	They are so varied in materials & makes it available to all economic levels to attain quality books, PC use & other services
13443	7/10/2012	They're not that important to me, but I'm a wealthy, college-educated person with similar parents. They're important to those who come from less-privileged backgrounds without the support and resources that are provided by superb parents and private education.
13444	7/10/2012	Hard to say, exactly - it's an institution and I partake of its services almost constantly. I don't know what I'd do without the library!
13445	7/10/2012	They are a key part of maintaining an educated, well informed population. When I was a kid (outside of Portland) my local library was a place where I spent a lot of time and it was great for my development as a citizen.
13446	7/10/2012	I want to live in a community that provides access to information and literature to everyone.
13447	7/10/2012	Libraries are knowledge repositories and dispensaries. Libraries enable any community member to bootstrap.
13448	7/10/2012	I love our libraries, but they are typically used more by affluent residents like me. I value social services for lower income residents (health clinics, food support, emergency housing, etc) more than social services for myself.
13449	7/10/2012	Because information and learning is accessible for free to all who need it or want to make use of it.
13450	7/10/2012	Because access to knowledge is the key to happiness, power, money, peace, sustainability and an egalitarian society. Equal access to intellectual resources is the only way to keep the rich from enslaving the poor.
13451	7/10/2012	It gives access to books and computers that some people would not have.
13452	7/10/2012	I read a lot for personal enjoyment and information. My son is kindergarten age and my daughter is 2 1/2. We got through a giant bag of books every week. My kids' growing literacy wouldn't be possible to this degree without all these great materials. There's no way we could afford to purchase all the books we read from a bookstore.
13453	7/10/2012	Nothing else replaces that level of access to so much media.
13454	7/10/2012	They are one of the few public services that provides citizens with the opportunity to grow, rather than protect existing property (like fire or police services).
13455	7/10/2012	Libraries are the great equalizer in society. They allow people from all walks of life almost unlimited resources for education, entertainment and social needs. Librarie are one of the things that make America the amazing place it is.

13456	7/10/2012	Access to written and electronic data and the Internet (and help making sense of both), is an essential part of being able to survive in this day and age. Right now, the libraries are the sole leveller in this domain, providing access to those things for a variety of communities who wouldn't otherwise have those resources.
13457	7/10/2012	my children look forward to going to the library and attending groups and story time.my family really enjoys reading and getting to check out a different variety of reading material
13458	7/10/2012	Libraries represent access to information for ALL social groups...and that is the cornerstone of democracy.
13459	7/10/2012	Knowledge is everything. The library is essentially a knowledge database and as such I see it as one of the most important attributes of our society. I enjoy being able to have free access to information instead of spending $20-$30 on a book. And I think everyone deserves that.
13460	7/10/2012	Where else can you go where unlimited literature is available to you for free, as much as you want to read? Not to mention the services the library provides such as helping people without a computer seek jobs and prepare resumes, teach computer literacy, and promote reading literacy. Society needs a well-working library system.
13461	7/10/2012	Gives access to learning and growth for all through a "dying breed" that of books.
13462	7/10/2012	Absolutely critical. I believe libraries and intellectual freedom are the cornerstones of a democratic society.
13463	7/10/2012	I use the library often and rely on it for my reading needs.
13464	7/10/2012	My kids and I love to read, learn, and watch movies and would not be able to at least read as often without the library.
13465	7/10/2012	I love to learn and the access to a variety of educational and inspiring materials is invaluable. I am grateful that I am able to learn and grow by absorbing materials whose cost would be prohibitive were I to attempt to purchase it myself, and which would ultimately end up in a landfill after I was done with it. It is also important to me that everyone in my community, especially those who are at a lower income and have even less financial resources to devote to reading materials, viewing materials and internet access, have the opportunity to learn and grow through the services and materials the library provides.
13466	7/10/2012	I don't think anyone would put libraries ahead of public services like police or fire personnel, but library services allow me access to databases that are vital for my business. The library allows people to be 'connected'.
13467	7/10/2012	Libraries are a vital part of our children's learning and should be worked in parallel to the school system. It is a place where one needs to think differently in finding what one wants, as opposed to the "Googling" feature we have all come to rely on. Requires a different type of thinking and interaction as opposed to a computer screen.[] [] Our children are our future and that future is today.

13468	7/10/2012	I make good use of them
13469	7/10/2012	Nothing is more powerful than knowledge.
13470	7/10/2012	General bettering and improvement of society as a whole.
13471	7/10/2012	knowledge is power. I love the internet and that most people have access to it, but nothing beats a good library with knowledgeable librarians.
13472	7/10/2012	compared to other public services, they are next in line to police and fire
13473	7/10/2012	They greatly enhance my well being and love of life, by providing free access to the priceless world of books, music, and film
13474	7/10/2012	Part of my lifestyle
13475	7/10/2012	Reading is an extremely important part of my quality of life.
13476	7/10/2012	people need to read and learn things that are new and exciting.
13477	7/10/2012	Currently using for Reference USA. Soon I will not using again.
13478	7/10/2012	Provodes me with all i need.
13479	7/10/2012	The library is one place that serves everyone and anyone. It provides a world (literally) of information, entertainment and learning resources that not even the internet can match!
13480	7/10/2012	I believe they fall beneath services such as fire, police, etc., but are very high on the list
13481	7/10/2012	I am able to check out books, etc. that I want to use but don't want to keep in my collection.
13482	7/10/2012	I am destitute but the library allows me to still function in society
13483	7/10/2012	Libraries aren't simply for checking out books anymore. They provide technology classes to seniors, story time to children, Internet access to job seekers, and so much more.
13484	7/10/2012	Cultural enhancement.[] Availability to all our citizens, despite their own personal resources...a sign of a civilized society.
13485	7/10/2012	I think they're a key influence in getting kids excited about reading. When I was a kid summer reading programs were a lot of fun, and motivated me to read and learn.
13486	7/10/2012	I have a young child who loves books and the library helps to keep that love alive. Without the public library, my child would have limited access to books.
13487	7/10/2012	A stong library system is one of the bed rocks of a free, open and educated society - and God knows we need that more than ever these days! The library acts as a social service provider, from providing information to recent immigrants about local government to providing shelter for homeless populations. With service cuts around the city and state, the library is taking over a lot of the slack.
13488	7/10/2012	It is important to me personally because I am writing a book on community philanthropy and the library is my main source of search engines. It also has an amazing collection of old magazines and journals on paper and microfilm that have proved invaluable. However, I think there is a more important issue generally. That is, we need to do every thing we can to raise a new generation of informed and involved citizens or our democracy will be in peril. The library is key to this effort.
13489	7/10/2012

13490	7/10/2012	The library has ceased to become a place I want to visit and much of that is due to the way the library is now used as a hangout for people who don't have the resources to hangout elsewhere but just need a place to sit or sleep. I have worked in mental health. I am not afraid of the mentally ill. I have worked in rehab. I am not afraid of people who drink. I just don't feel the need to interact or try to keep away while I'm reading or doing research. It's so easy to find books and media elsewhere and at a reasonable cost or free electronically I don't really use the library the way I once did.
13491	7/10/2012	this is a public service that I use a lot.
13492	7/10/2012	learning, reading, community get together spot.
13493	7/10/2012	because i love to read and get new books and magazines
13494	7/10/2012	We are a family of readers and we would like our young son to also love reading.
13495	7/10/2012	An educated community is a healthy community.
13496	7/10/2012	Because we use it more than any other service
13497	7/10/2012	Democracy requires unfettered access to information
13498	7/10/2012	They are second to schools.
13499	7/10/2012	As a student and a professional, I use inter library loan services, access research resources, get new books and access books on every topic I need for free. Access to information should not be limited to only those that can pay.
13500	7/10/2012	libraries support communities in many ways, not just via book lending. being well-read and educated is important, and reading is a valuable skill that must be passed on to younger generations.
13501	7/10/2012	I can't imagine growing up without local library services. It is an integral part of learning and development.
13502	7/10/2012	They serve as a community center for positive interaction and growth in many different realms for all ages.
13503	7/10/2012	Free exchange of information is important in a democracy.
13504	7/10/2012	Services the public, all ages and income
13505	7/10/2012	It's important to me that all people have access to information regardless of income level
13506	7/10/2012	I am a writer, reader and publisher...stories and data are very important to me, and libraries have lots and lots of stories.
13507	7/10/2012	Very important
13508	7/10/2012	Libraries provide many services that help drive education and utlimatley the local economy.
13509	7/10/2012	The library provides access to info and knowledge, not just for me and my family, but for the entire community.
13510	7/10/2012	Because culture is more important now than ever. We're losing something important by relying solely on the internet for media, news. The library is also a gathering place - it contradicts isolation

13511	7/10/2012	I like the idea of borrowing books instead of buying. It's the oldest form of recycling. I also like to take my 4yr old to the library and let her pick books and look around. I could not continue to function without my local branch.
13512	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time and having a library that we can walk to encourages the kids to read more.
13513	7/10/2012	Because reading is a vital part of learning and opening of the mind so that a person can learn to think for themselves.
13514	7/10/2012	The library is the one resource that my entire family uses on a weekly basis. [] We have already felt the loss of the 7 day library access.[] The more funding is cut the more impact it will have on our family.
13515	7/10/2012	Education, roads and the social safety net are the most important. Then comes Libraries to support those core programs.
13516	7/10/2012	They're essential to a healthy democracy
13517	7/10/2012	They are a source of knowledge, and from knowledge all other practical services can stem. An informed populace can effectively prioritize. Google is a wonderful tool, but it doesn't vet information in anyway. Databases, research engines, access to books, magazines and newspapers give some sense of factual content. Not to mention just the sheer pleasure of reading a good book!
13518	7/10/2012	Having free, public acces to books for reading and research is essential to my son and me.
13519	7/10/2012	With out knowledge where would we be? Sadly a large group of children learn the love and escape of books/reading outside of the home and that comes from the library at an early age until they get to school.
13520	7/10/2012	The library is a resource for the community. Is provides access to so many things that the community needs. It has computer access for those that need it, books for all to read whether for pleasure, school, or learning. It provides different activities for all ages. The summer reading program is important to keep minds going in preparation for the next school year. It helps provide materials for educators in their classrooms as well as Books 2 U.
13521	7/10/2012	I use the library consistently and frequently for my personal education. While I don't always have time to take a class or money to view current films in theaters or purchase music I hear about, I can live my value of being a life-long learner by reading, viewing, and listening to quality materials.
13522	7/10/2012	Because they provide a sense of community and support open access to education and information for all in the community. These are important values for me as an individual and as a parent.
13523	7/10/2012	I believe that the library makes educational resources open to anyone who wants them despite their financial lot in life. As a middle income household we could not keep up with our current level of reading if we had to purchase all of the books ourself.

13524	7/10/2012	They provide information not based on income level. If you are motivated enough and I think library programs should aim at this, people will seek out information. The city will be only as vibrant as the population is educated. Cronyism will not keep us successful, you only have to look to Detroit, Chicago and Trenton to figure that out. Ignorance will not keep you a tax base. Already people are flocking to the better schools. Wake up and smell the coffee, and I'm not talking Starbucks.
13525	7/10/2012	As a retired public librarian I have seen first-hand how vital EVERY public library service and resource is to SOMEONE, from babies to senior citizens, the unemployed, students, and on and on. What people (including me) get from their public library, they can use in all aspects of their public and private lives. Other public services are crucial to our lives, but the public library gives us the knowledge and confidence to manage those other services effectively.
13526	7/10/2012	We have a three-year-old daughter who loves books. I want her to see the library not only as a source of great books but also an important part of the community.
13527	7/10/2012	Literacy is the basis for all other function in society.
13528	7/10/2012	The library is one of the few government funded programs that I utilize.
13529	7/10/2012	They are critical for community connectivity
13530	7/10/2012	they are an enriching and guiding force in my children's lives
13531	7/10/2012	it's a free service that every family can enjoy. kids learn a love of reading, need to have access to lots of new & rotating books as they grow
13532	7/10/2012	I think it is a social justice issue to make available for all, at a minimum, books, periodicals, and computers for free. The additional services the library has, like english language learning, is a bonus, though I believe these programs are underutilized.
13533	7/10/2012	Libraries function as the cornerstone of a neighborhood - a meeting place and learning center for all. It's important not to let libraries be lost in the shuffle during hard economic periods.
13534	7/10/2012	I love the library. I walk there every day. I check out books on gardening, cooking, home decorating. I get music and movies and novels. My son uses the library as a resource for Boy Scout merit badge work.
13535	7/10/2012	Reading opens doors. It's better than anything, including traveling. The Multnomah County Libraries have played an important role in my entire life, from checking out books at the Hollywood branch as a child, to studying and researching at the Central library during highschool. Now I use the library semi-regularly to check out books and CDs. I value the resource, and I think libraries are a fundamental part of a thriving, educated community.
13536	7/10/2012	Part of it may simply be emotional - my wife and I both value libraries for what they represent as much as for what they literally are.[]
13537	7/10/2012	[] It's good to have a place that can offer public programs that build people somehow; libraries still seem relevant in this arena.

13538	7/10/2012	Because it keeps me (a senior citizen) informed and entertained. Also, and very important, it teaches my grandchildren the importance of books and reading.
13539	7/10/2012	Reading, and community education are of vital import to the health of any community. Libraries (in conjunction with schools) are at the core of those programs, ensuring that information, entertainment and education are not isolated away from low income or under priveleged portions of the community. When information becomes the possession of solely the wealthy, the entire community suffers for it.
13540	7/10/2012	Libraries provide me with hundreds of times the return on my tax 'investment'. No other government agency gives me as much direct services. Unlimited books, movies, and music? That sure beats paying some deputy sheriff to sit around all day running up his PERS.
13541	7/10/2012	I use the library
13542	7/10/2012	My kids benefit the most from access to reading and programs in the summer.
13543	7/10/2012	We have poor results for many educational efforts. College credits are outrageously expensive. A motivated person can self educate using the library resources. Unfortunately, many youth aren't motivated to learn until they are in 20s or older and cannot take advantage of our "free" education system
13544	7/10/2012	Ready access to reading materials and other information sources is critical for all of us. In tough economic times, libraries provide an even more important role than usual because people are less likely to spend discretionary income on books, magazines, etc.
13545	7/10/2012	As an ordinary citizen, I make use of the library on a daily basis, and rely on it most particularly when I need information about specific matters such as a new piece of software or a home maintenance issue. I consider the library, and the habits of mind it fosters such as critical thinking and wide-ranging curiosity, more fundamental to daily life even than health care, the police, or fire departments -- although obviously, those serve critical functions that may be of overwhelming importance on those hopefully rare occasions when they're needed. But I often say that if I had to choose between libraries and police, I'd pick libraries.
13546	7/10/2012	Citizens need to have access to information of every kind. Informed citizens are the foundation for change and for maintaining quality of life in all areas: home, community, city and national and worldwide. We need to have access to information besides the television media and internet.
13547	7/10/2012	Through the public library I was able not only to teach my son the importance of reading, but also it allowed me to get material to improve my English skills. My son participated in all summer reading programs during his elementary school years. We spent at least three hrs a week in the local library. He is now in his way to college and thanks that he became a good reader he didn't struggle with reading during middle and high school.
13548	7/10/2012	They are obviously less important than public safety services such as police and fire department.

13549	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge and resources is important to maintain a fair and balanced society. Additionally, I believe that reading and exposure to new perspectives, ideas, and places unleashes creativity and allows an individual to grow the scope of their mental horizons. Without access to a library and its resources, I believe that the drought of mental growth would fall largely upon our poorer neighbors. I believe all citizens should have access to resources to grow, search for jobs, research a topic, investigate an idea, enjoy reading, etc.
13550	7/10/2012	It's the most relevant to my needs, I'm young and low-income and it's how I continue to learn.
13551	7/10/2012	We are avid readers and we use the library to explore new books before making any purchases. We have attended the library with our daughter since she was 5 months old. She first crawled during the baby story time and I met other mothers there that after 6 years, I still stay in touch with. Talk about community! I also see the need for checking out books vs. purchasing a huge environmental asset. We get most of our movies/children show entertainment from the library as well. I am a writer and I have use the library as a place away from home (and away from coffee shops) to write. When I received an Oregon Literary Arts Friends of Lake Oswego Library Fellowship, I spent my writing time at the Central Library three days a week. My libraries are an integral part of my life and community. I would be devastated to loose more services.
13552	7/10/2012	Knowledge is Power.
13553	7/10/2012	While unemployed, I used the library heavily for employment research, wifi access, and free entertainment. Similarly I know others while unemployed or low-income rely on the library's services. When I become a parent, I hope to teach my children the value of reading and exploration through the local library system.
13554	7/10/2012	Excellent libraries are absolutely necessary for strong community.
13555	7/10/2012	it is a huge resource of knowledge for all
13556	7/10/2012	I tend to use library services more than other public services
13557	7/10/2012	Because we can afford to buy books
13558	7/10/2012	Extremely important.
13559	7/10/2012	Accessibility to books and other information should not be taken away from citizens
13560	7/10/2012	Equitable access to information, knowledge, possibilities for self education for everyone, including those who couldn't otherwise afford to buy books, access the internet etc.
13561	7/10/2012	I am an artist, musician, director of a non-profit and an educator. I use the public library to support all of these professions.
13562	7/10/2012	We pay tax dollars for service, as property owners we are concerned with all dollars allocated from our budget. The library represents education, music, fun, classes and resources that help balance our lives.
13563	7/10/2012	The library is the most important public resource for my family, because the weather in Portland compels citizens to seek indoor activities/spaces for the majority of the year, and the library seems to fit that bill the best.

13564	7/10/2012	Of the highest importance along with road maintenance...everyone must have access to the library.
13565	7/10/2012	I have the most direct contact with them. I don't talk to my trashman
13566	7/10/2012	Users can accomodate reduced hours as long as different branches have different hours. Not everyone needs every thing or every convenience at every moment.
13567	7/10/2012	A civilized society should always have free access to knowledge and resources to EVERYONE, regardless of class or income level. Especially for our children.
13568	7/10/2012	I grew up reading and using libraries. I've watched them evolve from print media only to all kinds of services. I love that they are a resource for people who do not have computer access at home, for job searching, etc. Most recently I have used libraries as a resource for movies and television series that I'd like to catch up on.
13569	7/10/2012	Free access to all levels of information is a fundamental keystone for a literate, cultured, and self-responsible society.
13570	7/10/2012	Overall they provide a huge resource to everyone in the community no matter their financial situations: (1) free rentals of books & movie including new releases; (2) a place to get internet/computer access; (3) a place for children to interact with other children and learn about books; (4) a place to run into your neighbors; (5) a safe place to learn; (6) a very important community resource!
13571	7/10/2012	Police and fire rate above the library, but I use the library wkly and appreciate definitely appreciate the option to
13572	7/10/2012	I would like the libraries to be of the same use and importance as the school system in Portland. If linking or sharing resources/programs between schools and libraries is an option, it might enhance both public services.
13573	7/10/2012	Having a free accessible resource for seniors, low income, job searchers, etc. keeps citizens and society informed, educated and overall healthier. I currently am married without kids. My husband and I both work full time. We have plenty of money but not much time. In other stages of my life, there is more time and less money, which is exactly when I love the library the most. I am so grateful that the ones I use (Hollywood, Belmont, Central) are beautiful, well maintained resources for our community.
13574	7/10/2012	They provide life enriching and citizenship enhancing opportunities
13575	7/10/2012	Libraries serve as connecting points for communities and there is hardly any other place like them. They are not stores they are not churches, they are the best part of the public sector and even if people don't realize how precious they are, they should be funded and supported with deep commitment.

13576	7/10/2012	Not everyone can afford to purchase books, videos or cd's or go out to the movies. The library makes these things available for people who otherwise couldn't access them. Also, if library funding and availability continues to be cut, educational opportunities for lower income families will dwindle. It is important that all economic classes of society have access to books, computers, and media.
13577	7/10/2012	Personally, the library is my refuge from depression and inactivity. A portal of knowledge for me to progress through life from.
13578	7/10/2012	Not as high as police, fire, etc. but high on the list below these services--something for everyone!
13579	7/10/2012	All income levels can have access to information, literature, research, wonderful programs like storytime, computer access... So enriching, educating, and liberating for the whole community.
13580	7/10/2012	Having community access to programs and materials that encourage learning are quite important. Other public services such as trash clean-up, road maintenance, etc. may rank higher - but the libraries are an asset that many people enjoy and benefit from.
13581	7/10/2012	Maybe the brick-and-mortar libraries seem a little antiquated by today's standards, but no amount of internet-based research can compete with research conducted through a well-supported library. ¶ A book or other material checked out from the library is FREE, and it's guaranteed to be real--because it exists in the real world--unlike many things that appear on the internet. Also, "going to the library" is a fun activity!
13582	7/10/2012	They are places of much more than just books. They were where I spent most of my youth as my home was not a safe place to be and I could go there and escape. Now that they have computers it is for some people the only way they have of keeping up with the world. The programs for moms and children cannot be replaced anywhere else.
13583	7/10/2012	I can access most materials (books, articles, journals, etc.) through work, school, iTunes, PubMed, and google. I'm not sure what is meant by "local public services", but I'm guessing this means Portland Police Bureau, contracted security, trash services, road construction, etc. These services are more valuable to me because they ensure safety and good health. Libraries are more for leisure.
13584	7/10/2012	A library must be part of any civilized community. It provides hope and chances for all.
13585	7/10/2012	Libraries may not offer 'life and death' services, but they do offer just about everything else. In addition to being community centers and neighborhood anchors, libraries are crucial for people in tough financial times.
13586	7/10/2012	I primarily go to the library to get great books to read and many times the branch I go to does not have a book I am interested in but another branch does. That they are so quickly and easily able to share their books around multiple locations is a great benefit to me. Also, being able to return my books to any branch is very helpful.

13587	7/10/2012	Because I don't use most of the other local public services, but I do use the library. However, I could do without or with reduced library services.
13588	7/10/2012	Free access to books, computers etc is very important/helpful to students, children and adults
13589	7/10/2012	Access to educational resources is essential in a democratic society, ESPECIALLY when school funding is constantly threatened, the state of the economy threatens families' ability to buy books, and working parents have less and less time to read with their children. The library provides a place of learning, community, inspiration, and internet access, which is a precious resource for those who do cannot otherwise afford it and need to research medical information, hun for jobs, etc.
13590	7/10/2012	As one of the key social institutions that provide educational, self development and other information to citizens from a wide range of socioeconomic backgrounds libraries strengthen our potential to be good citizens and a strong democracy--the bases upon which we build healthy societies
13591	7/10/2012	Libraries are a community support system. They provide access to information that is not available to everyone in their homes or at work. They provide a service to the public and specifically youth.
13592	7/10/2012	Literacy and lifelong learning are critical to the success of our community. My mother took me to the library as a young child, and together we checked out books for many years. Books have been a huge part of my life, and I believe my love of reading played a part in me loving school and doing well. That, in turn, encouraged me to finish college and pursue an advanced degree.
13593	7/10/2012	The classes/events for children are a huge importance to our household. Our preschool is unable to attend preschool because we do not qualify for head start and can not afford to pay. She has attended storytime since she was 3 months old. She has learned from the experiences she may have never had elsewhere. She has also made friendships along the way. It was also very helpful for her dad (as a first time stay at home dad) to get out of the house and talk with other parents. The summer reading program has also encouraged our teenager to put down the video game controller and pick up a book. The library means the world to us!
13594	7/10/2012	Education and information availability are interrelated. ¶ It's one of the most powerful resources in our life.
13595	7/10/2012	Libraries make vital materials accessible to myself and the community, especially for those who strive to gain diverse opinions and knowledge without the ability or desire to privately purchase it. It is a critical necessity to building civic engagement and increasing social awareness.
13596	7/10/2012	Providing access to information, books, magazines, internet, etc, to those who may not otherwise have it is the cornerstone of a productive society. Without that, we become less-educated and in danger of moving backward.
13597	7/10/2012	I use the local library for work-related research, family outings, and pleasure reading as well.
13598	7/10/2012	Allows everyone access to unlimited books, etc

13599	7/10/2012	they are not more important than police, fire ect...but they are an integral part of our society, or should be.
13600	7/10/2012	Provide a level playing field for low-income students and others who otherwise would not have access to resources.
13601	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time - I can afford to just buy new books when they come out! I'm not sure what other services I'm supposed to be comparing the library to, though.
13602	7/10/2012	I enjoy the library as it is available to any and all who enjoy it!!
13603	7/10/2012	a library is the heart of the community, serving those who don't have extra in their budget...
13604	7/10/2012	The library makes reading accessible to people, regardless of their economic class. It's rare to have a powerful resource that is truly accessible to all.
13605	7/10/2012	We use library constantly. In addition to home use i use library materials in my classroom.
13606	7/10/2012	My husband and I are both writers and we depend on the books and other resources provided by the library to do our jobs and earn our livings.
13607	7/10/2012	its a great thing to have
13608	7/10/2012	Because I can't afford to buy books all the time and yet I love to read and need books as a valuable learning resource in my life and business.
13609	7/10/2012	The library provides boos and other resources such as internet to people who could otherwise not afford it. The library is a place of knowledge and learning which run our society.
13610	7/10/2012	Libraries have higher-quality and more accessible sources of facts and entertainment than other government programs.
13611	7/10/2012	love of learning/ knowledge/ information... leads to future economic impact w/ a more educated society, resulting in per capital income growth and local stability.
13612	7/10/2012	The library is my source for books, if it wasn't for the library I would have to buy my books. That would get very expensive.
13613	7/10/2012	The library is a center of literacy, self-education and culture for all citizens without regard to income level. It is a great institution of our democratic society, a beacon of equality, even during the toughest of times.
13614	7/10/2012	I have been at least a weekly library user since I was old enough to read - 55 years. I can't imagine who I would be without the love for reading developed at an early age.
13615	7/10/2012	I only use the library to get CD's to rip MP3s and to check out books. Since I often have to wait a long time for books, I sometimes buy them used from Amazon.com and am considering a e-book reader. Plus, the library SHOULD NOT be a substitute for local movie rental shops. I think you are going overboard on the number of music CDs and movies you carry... I do not consider that a core deliverable.

13616	7/10/2012	We count on the library for books to feed my son's love for reading. We have been reading to my son since he was four months old. Our night time routine ends with a book. When he was little, we would read 3 or 4 books a night. Now, we read several chapters. On most days, he wakes up and asks me to read him a book. When we have time, we start our day this way. We have been doing the summer reading program since he was 3. We love to read and love to use our library. Sharing books with our community is a beautiful experience.
13617	7/10/2012	The library is a very needed and useful service to the public. It's a resource that seniors, small children and all ages in between can use and benefit from. Small children learn to use the library and love books from an early age that can continue though out their lives.
13618	7/10/2012	I had to pick one answer for a fairly non-specific question.
13619	7/10/2012	I will always cherish libraries, and think of them first when I want to peruse a book or subject at length without spending a lot of money. But the proliferation of other means of information gathering, especially the internet, has made the library slightly less crucial than it used to be.
13620	7/10/2012	I went to the library almost every week from the time I was very young and just learning to read until I was in high school. Having access to a large variety of books and a staff of very knowledgable and helpful libraries was really important to me as a child and teenager (and is still still important to me as an adult) and helped shape who I am now.
13621	7/10/2012	Access to books and other resources. Also, a critical community center.
13622	7/10/2012	I believe in an educated populace.
13623	7/10/2012	I homeschooled and having resources outside of curriculum based has enriched my children's lives and my own. The internet has a lot of information but somehow I trust a book because you have information sources... What does it say about our society that does not value books and learning?
13624	7/10/2012	I would put libraries behind emergency services and utilities, but on par with public transportation, schools and parks.
13625	7/10/2012	Libraries are the cornerstone of civilization.
13626	7/10/2012	Libraries represent civilization.
13627	7/10/2012	Libraries promote learning and I value learning in my community.
13628	7/10/2012	I use them on a regular basis it is apart of my community and provides a safe place for the kids and all people in the area.
13629	7/10/2012	I love to read, and love having the access to many many books. I also think it's important for everyone to have access to books.
13630	7/10/2012	We must learn to do with less in all of our public services.
13631	7/10/2012	Because books are very very important to me.
13632	7/10/2012	education for my fellow citizens, especially those in underserved communities is crucial. we are all in this together!

13633	7/10/2012	In addition to being important to me and my family, personally, it is important to maintain a public facility that is available to ALL citizens on an equal basis.
13634	7/10/2012	community center/community building, increase knowledge of the population
13635	7/10/2012	easy access, times and availability.
13636	7/10/2012	The library connects and informs -- regardless of one's politics or prejudices.[] Ditto for newspapers.
13637	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important part of the community - they provide crucial free access to information and technology that not everyone is able to afford.
13638	7/10/2012	we do not own a computer and live on a budget. we could not afford to pay for internet services. the library is close to our home and it doesn't cost us much in gas to get there.
13639	7/10/2012	We use the library as a regular outing, as a resource for new books as well as classics, as movie resource, as access to educational computer games for the kids, as interesting special activities.
13640	7/10/2012	I view library services in the same way as art, museums etc. They perhaps improve your quality of life, but they can't really be called a basic service or right.
13641	7/10/2012	We use the library all the time, and not just to check things out. We are doing OK money-wise but libraries represent an important resource for people who need to stretch their budgets.
13642	7/10/2012	Libraries=educated populace. I once saw a poster in a library that read:[] Libraries will get you through times of no money better than money will get you through times of no libraries. [] [] Portland is a place where at least some of the people believe that and act on that belief.
13643	7/10/2012	Education seems to come behind economic growth for most politicians. I think they've got it backwards. The library contributes to both.
13644	7/10/2012	Intellectual growth/ community activity.
13645	7/10/2012	Really believe in the philosophy of "shared" resources...rather than everyone "owning" books, etc
13646	7/10/2012	Libraries allow for broad, free education, and a quiet place to think, which is an empowering asset to any community (especially for those who cannot afford private alternatives).
13647	7/10/2012	Police, fire, roads are probably more important.... but library services are critical to offer equal access to information
13648	7/10/2012	Because the library connects me to my friends and neighbors through common reading materials. Also, I do not have children yet, but it is a resource I know I will rely upon heavily when I do have them.
13649	7/10/2012	Libraries provide one of the few remaining places where you can go inside without having to buy something, and get access to information and viewpoints. A well-informed citizenry is key to proper working of democracy.

13650	7/10/2012	Libraries not only provide important, valuable resources to the community, but also they are a physical place for the community to gather. Libraries that provide classes and opportunities for learning are very important.
13651	7/10/2012	Ask Benjamin Franklin - he had the right idea on the why its of paramount importance.
13652	7/10/2012	I spent my childhood in the library, and have never really had the money to buy books at the rate at which I read. If I can't access the library, the number of books I am able to read takes a dramatic nosedive. For me, it always comes down to the books.
13653	7/10/2012	Libraries give all people access to information. A thinking society needs libraries.
13654	7/10/2012	Knowledge is: power, inspiration, comfort. The books and other materials in the library change lives for the better. I'm shocked that more people don't take advantage of the incredible riches contained there.
13655	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of the great outcomes of government. Sharing of knowledge and culture communally is becoming increasingly commercialized and therefore restricted. Most media access is commercialized now and the momentum is for more revenue generation. That a library system exists at all is kind of amazing. I want to keep a healthy library system as long as possible.
13656	7/10/2012	Libraries are an integral part of the knowledge of the community--particularly when our schools are so lacking. They allow anyone and everyone--no matter social ranking or economic status--access to expanding they're knowledge, education, and worldview.
13657	7/10/2012	Ties communities together and keep literacy as a high priority through books and reading. Literacy develops young minds, and keeps aging minds working and learning truths.
13658	7/10/2012	There are too few educational opportunities for people of middle and lower income levels.
13659	7/10/2012	A society does not last long without education and educational materials in order to improve itself. Making the library a top order of importance goes to the heart of the future of your culture as a successful society that can work in a civil and progressive manner, as the future becomes more and more difficult to navigate successfully.
13660	7/10/2012	Grew up going to the library.
13661	7/10/2012	High
13662	7/10/2012	Reading is important to me.
13663	7/10/2012	police, fire, public safety much higher
13664	7/10/2012	It is a form of public education and is open to all people regardless of income, status, job, neighborhood. It cultivates an educated populace and introduce children to books and help us all be live time learners.
13665	7/10/2012	Reading is a fundamental building block and access to local libraries is crucial for any community to support itself and to be able to grow.
13666	7/10/2012	I feel it's a major cornerstone in our neighborhood.
13667	7/10/2012	access to knowledge for people
13668	7/10/2012	Because they are one service that helps propell our society with little to no cost for the end user.

13669	7/10/2012	Having access to a wealth of information that does not discriminate according to class is very important to me and my neighborhood. The library is a meeting place and an equal playing field.
13670	7/10/2012	Because it is a public service that reaches beyond just being able to check out a book for free. We need this source of ongoing education and learning available to our citizens.
13671	7/10/2012	Saves me money on buying books and introduces my toddler to the wonders of books/ story time/ interactions classes
13672	7/10/2012	While I consider library services very important I realize there are other life-threatening services that need to be addressed.
13673	7/10/2012	Because I can find FREE books that I enjoy to read. It is also important to have a place where children can gather to hear books being read to them. I used this quite a bit when my children were younger.
13674	7/10/2012	Because books are the source of our knowledge. Access to information is essential to a society.
13675	7/10/2012	The kids use the library at school as well and while I could see local branches getting closed I am assume Central would always be available.
13676	7/10/2012	I read a lot.
13677	7/10/2012	We are a democracy--we need an informed public. For most of us, the library will be the only consistent resource to insure literacy and access.
13678	7/10/2012	central to our democracy
13679	7/10/2012	I don't view access to a library as a necessity for me personally, as I can access books and media from other sources. But I do recognize that it might be more important for other people, such as children, senior and those without internet access.
13680	7/10/2012	An educated and informed community is one that can be involved in all areas of government, making wise decisions.
13681	7/10/2012	Reading is so important for our culture. Without experience reading and good reading skills you can't get a good job, your recreation is limited, and you just have so many fewer opportunities in life. To have institutions that encourages reading throughout our community is vital. I do have to say that I think public safety services (police, fire department) are more important than the library, because if we're not safe we can't really enjoy the benefits of reading. I also think that public parks are right up there with libraries.
13682	7/10/2012	i love the library system. allowing access to resources for everyone equally is very important. i am also amazed at the options at the library. you can learn anything you want to learn, if you are interested. i think that is incredibly valuable for those who may not know where to go for certain types of learning, or may not have the resources to participate elsewhere.
13683	7/10/2012	I don't have the money to purchase all of the books I'd like to read or the films I'd like to watch.

13684	7/10/2012	The service offered at the library save tremendous amount of money for my family because we can borrow resources as opposed to buying them. Additionally, since schools no longer have funding to support additional enrichment opportunities, tutoring, and access to educational materials for students it is essential for libraries to step-up and provide these services.
13685	7/10/2012	As a teacher, the library is one of the keys to my ability to educate children. As an avid reader, I lean on the library for most of the new books I read. As a writer, when I need to research anything, I always use the library's resources first.
13686	7/10/2012	Libraries have always been and will continue to be a key resource for the education of US residents and therefore the development of the nation.
13687	7/10/2012	Introduce my kids to reading. Save money by not buying books. Access to unique resources.
13688	7/10/2012	I believe programs that help with basic necessities (i.e. food programs) are more important than library services, but aside from these basics, library services are important.
13689	7/10/2012	I could not afford to buy the materials (including databases) I use at the library.
13690	7/10/2012	I grew up in libraries and feel that reading and having access to the wide variety of resources a library in this country normally contains is essential to both community awareness and development as well as language, writing, and reading skills, and an overall literacy of culture and communication. I think, of all the community institutions, libraries are a keystone.
13691	7/10/2012	I use the library weekly. The customer service is great. The library equalizes resources for all (computer availability for those who do not own a personal computer, homework help, etc), plus it's great to check out books and not have to buy them! It's fun to see the families bringing children to the library to help instill the love for reading and learning.
13692	7/10/2012	An accessible library is key to any vibrant community. It affords those who do not otherwise have the resources the opportunity to learn, grow, better themselves, and have some enjoyment. A local library is a beacon of inclusion, hope, and acceptance in a world that can often be harsh and unwelcoming. Getting a library card is the first thing I do when I move to a new place, without exception. Merely having that card makes me feel grounded and supported. I know that I can count on my local library, and its librarians.
13693	7/10/2012	provides important resources to people of all classes
13694	7/10/2012	Public transportation is most important, but libraries are important because they are free and accessible and safe for all.
13695	7/10/2012	Closer vicinity and direct accessibility.
13696	7/10/2012	highest of high
13697	7/10/2012	I love spending time in the library. The enviroiment and smell of the library are very important to my reading experience. I used the library very frequently when i was a student and without up to date materials and flexible hours I would have struggled to find the materials I needed
13698	7/10/2012	I use the library services; and I believe programs for young children help instill the love of reading and learning.

13699	7/10/2012	I believe in libraries as a free source of educational material, recreational material and informational material. It's important to me that the library resources are available to everyone in the community.
13700	7/10/2012	Because of all of the people who don't have alternative ways of getting information. Personally, I use audible, online bookstores and the University library to get access to materials, but not everyone has these options.
13701	7/10/2012	somewhat important, but I'd be equally as happy if the city would pave all the dirt roads in our city. what's up with that?
13702	7/10/2012	Good to see people in the area and use services at free or low rate.
13703	7/10/2012	It's a resource my family uses regularly. It enriches our lives and improves our literacy. Libraries improve the quality of life in a community.
13704	7/10/2012	I love books and reading, but not everybody does. That said, I do think it's important to keep our libraries vibrant and current.
13705	7/10/2012	I utilize the library and library materials daily. This gives me access to materials I wouldn't be able to access otherwise.
13706	7/10/2012	Nothing can replace it
13707	7/10/2012	The optional service I use most
13708	7/10/2012	we gots to have a literate electorate
13709	7/10/2012	I am not a ardent user, but appreciate the material when I need it.
13710	7/10/2012	Because I am able to check out (rather than buy) books that I read on my own or with my book club.
13711	7/10/2012	I do not buy books at all, but read an average of 1-2 books per week. All my books come from the library; without regular library access, my world would be a much more limited place.
13712	7/10/2012	It is an issue of quality of life. The more informed, enlightened and cared for a community is, the better they can take care of themselves and others.
13713	7/10/2012	I love to read
13714	7/10/2012	A well informed and educated public is essential to the Republic.
13715	7/10/2012	For many years, I was unemployed, and the library was my main source of information, art, and entertainment.
13716	7/10/2012	I value the materials and resources the library offers to all in our community that access it.
13717	7/10/2012	I read a lot and it is very nice to have the books avaialbe, both in print and online. I also appreciate the programs for kids, like my grandson who loves to go to the library.
13718	7/10/2012	Frequency of use. Value of borrowing kid's books rather than purchasing. Value of community in the library.
13719	7/10/2012	Sorry, but fire fighters and some other services for the very poor rank higher for me, but libraries are still near the top.
13720	7/10/2012	They are of average importance.

13721	7/10/2012	Public libraries serve many functions in a community. For the poor in particular, they are a crucial pathway to services, education, job hunting and self-improvement.
13722	7/10/2012	Because learning and higher education is what makes this country grow and tick. Without means to learn and grow: INFORMATION, We are doomed!
13723	7/10/2012	Good start to interest young people. Also that are low income to enjoy information
13724	7/10/2012	The materials and services they provide are available to everyone, not just those who can afford it.
13725	7/10/2012	Literacy and equitable access to information and tools is critically important to strengthen our communities by maintaining access to opportunities.
13726	7/10/2012	We need a local resource.
13727	7/10/2012	Because my family uses it regularly.
13728	7/10/2012	My kids love the summer reading program and love checking out new books every week all year long.
13729	7/10/2012	I love the library. It is a community space that I can go and spend time in without spending money. It helps me save money and reduce my use of resources by sharing books, magazines and DVDs. When I have kids, I know I will use the library even more often accessing the baby and toddler programs and spending more time at the library, especially in the winter and rainy seasons. I think libraries are key to a democratic society.
13730	7/10/2012	Difficult to list all the other public services. Some are clearly very important, such as police and fire protection. Many others are likely pretty unimportant. Local government services are generally poor.[] However, the library experience and the quality of the librarians is first rate.[]
13731	7/10/2012	I am a native Portlander and have always used the library system. When I lived away from Portland, I used Seattle and Sydney's libraries. Portland libraries are easily the best.[] I am just starting to use the e-book options which I find exciting that the library system continues to use technology to reduce costs.
13732	7/10/2012	Everyone can access the library for free. Many people can only use free services and it is a good place to accommodate those people.
13733	7/10/2012	Job seekers and others need assistance and resources to make ends meet and find opportunities. I use the library for reading books.
13734	7/10/2012	On par with access to nature and greenspaces for personal enrichment and inexpensive quality of life improvements or at least an few hours distraction from the grind of trying to get by in this economy.
13735	7/10/2012	Reading is probably the most important skill. Plus, reading expands the imagination and gives the reader experiences they wouldn't normally access.

13736	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time- being able to have access to books without having to spend money on them is very important to my budget and my quality of life. I belong to a book club that I could not afford to stay up with, if I had to purchase all of the books we read. The social contact I find from the book club greatly improves my outlook on life. I have not used many of the other services offered by the library but I would be interested in the small business classes, and I have a friend who passed his citizenship test with the help of your program.
13737	7/10/2012	Because everyone should have access to the knowledge and information that the library provides.
13738	7/10/2012	community building space that is open to everyone. a democratized source of information
13739	7/10/2012	Libraries are great resources for people of all ages! Libraries are important to community.
13740	7/10/2012	We value literacy, and want to instill curiosity and love of learning in our children. The library helps us do that.
13741	7/10/2012	Because we need the library.
13742	7/10/2012	I'm a voracious reader, freelance writer, and don't have to get internet service if I can use the library's.
13743	7/10/2012	Police and fire services are first, then road/public works, then the library.
13744	7/10/2012	Because the portland school systems are so behind compared to the rest of the country that we need another outlet to teach our children.
13745	7/10/2012	The services they provide, and the availability of those services.
13746	7/10/2012	No other places have books
13747	7/10/2012	They support literacy for all & build community in neighborhoods & citywide.
13748	7/10/2012	Education and knowledge are everything.
13749	7/10/2012	Obviously police and fire are of paramount importance.
13750	7/10/2012	As a family of 4 on a tight budget it allows my family to check out books and always be reading. My kids are excited to go to the library. It's a happy, inviting place to come.
13751	7/10/2012	“Literacy is a bridge from misery to hope. It is a tool for daily life in modern society. It is a bulwark against poverty, and a building block of development, an essential complement to investments in roads, dams, clinics and factories. Literacy is a platform for democratization, and a vehicle for the promotion of cultural and national identity. Especially for girls and women, it is an agent of family health and nutrition. For everyone, everywhere, literacy is, along with education in general, a basic human right.... Literacy is, finally, the road to human progress and the means through which every man, woman and child can realize his or her full potential.”
13752	7/10/2012	Our library was such a great resource for me and my young child-I brought my baby to book babies at least twice a week (Albina and Hollywood branches)... My son is now 4 and loves the computer programs and taking new books home to read. It has been an incredible staple to his early years-one of the few places I could take an infant/toddler who his not in daycare for socializing.
13753	7/10/2012	being able to research at my own pace, not using the computer at home.

13754	7/10/2012	Literacy and free and safe access to literary resources are, I feel, a keystone to an educated public.
13755	7/10/2012	Bus routes here are very limited and of almost no use to us. We use the library all the time.
13756	7/10/2012	Resource for learning, entertainment, childhood development, family development, a community hub.
13757	7/10/2012	Libraries are the repository of history and culture. The electronic media deliver the news; libraries allow you to explore some of the reasons that shape current events.
13758	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and love going to the library. When I was a child I adored reading sessions and library reading programs. I am expecting my first child and hope that the library will be a source of joy for our child as well.
13759	7/10/2012	I believe access to information, including free access to books, periodicals, and Internet, is critical to all ages in our community. Further, like access to public parks, access to libraries provides an important meeting place within the community as well as a place to obtain specific services.
13760	7/10/2012	I want my children to be able to go to the library, locate a book or article and be able to work their way through it in order to complete a research project. [] [] Being able to take my children to the library to interact with others and respect what it is that librarians and volunteers do. Having them see what it takes to run a public service like this is very important to me.
13761	7/10/2012	I enjoy checking out audio books online and listening to them as I work. I don't use the physical library much these days, but do occasionally take my son there to check out books.
13762	7/10/2012	Because of my use of the library, while I see the need for other public services, the library is the one I use and interact with the most.
13763	7/10/2012	Because I believe nothing is more important than knowledge.
13764	7/10/2012	Because a free society needs to be an informed society and must have as much free literary material available to it as possible.
13765	7/10/2012	We love having story time and being able to check books out. This is our favorite place to go and we look forward to our weekly visit all week long.
13766	7/10/2012	access to books and information is fundamental to a knowledge-based society
13767	7/10/2012	The library provides important services to a broad range of people, but are less important to me than social services.
13768	7/10/2012	I use our local library several times a week. The only thing I would like to see improve are hours they are open.
13769	7/10/2012	I think this is more for our communities than for me personally. Libraries have always been a spot for resources, gathering and continued education. This shouldn't change.
13770	7/10/2012	Libraries enable continued learning.
13771	7/10/2012	I read a lot.

13772	7/10/2012	i love the library and its resources
13773	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy the books and videos I want. And I'm sure that's true for a lot of people.
13774	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of the best and only ways for the working poor to have access to modern technology and education.
13775	7/10/2012	It's about the most direct and tangible local service we receive.
13776	7/10/2012	I don't want to keep buying books as I have no space and I'm trying to downsize. Having books available at the library saves me a lot of money and space.
13777	7/10/2012	because it makes my life easier.
13778	7/10/2012	Access to books is a benefit to everyone in the community. It brings people together.
13779	7/10/2012	I utilize the Library to obtain reading materials, and hope others in my community do so also to sustain the practice of reading, education, and life long learning. I believe in keeping materials available to those of us who cannot afford to buy materials available in the library. I also believe strongly that there is no need to own all the books I or that anyone else reads, thus reducing and recycling.
13780	7/10/2012	It's a resource that has been available to us for generations. It helps build good, smart citizens.
13781	7/10/2012	Education is important. Reading is important. Without either, we all lose as a community.
13782	7/10/2012	Libraries although important, are becoming somewhat obsolete... and other public services can't be replaced by the internet, like the library has.
13783	7/10/2012	If the library system wasn't strong and up-to-date there would be no other place for citizens to receive information and access in the community without paying for it
13784	7/10/2012	Fire and police are much more important than checking out a book 7 days or even 6 days a week. I also do not use any of the other library programs. The toddler and young children reading programs are important even though I have never used them - having good reading skills provides success in learning their whole lives.
13785	7/10/2012	I was raised by a library staff in Alaska because my parents worked so much. I have a very soft spot for the organization and education through reading. I think availability of free educational and reading sources are the most important public service tool out there. Knowledge is power, if people can see that and use it, it will help raise our next generation up.
13786	7/10/2012	I think there is a real danger of irrelevance, particularly as you cut programs and hours. There are now numerous other sources for media and information, often available 24 hours/day. At a certain point people will consider other options first, because the library is always closed.
13787	7/10/2012	I am a native Oregonian and grew up going to the Multnomah County library and participated in many library programs. I have taken my children to many programs over the years as well. I remember seeing the reptile man when I was young and thought this was really neat. There is a nice sense of community at our branch when you run into others you know. This is a resource that needs to continue to be available in our community.

13788	7/10/2012	Too many reasons - knowledge is paramount to progression and the library offers access to books, popular media, programs, etc. Regardless of a person's socio-economic background. That's important.
13789	7/10/2012	Other than utilities they are top of the list for me. I want my community to have and support a local library system much more than I expect many other services that I see.
13790	7/10/2012	Well, how does one begin to measure the importance of public civility, ongoing learning, and preservation of history and information?
13791	7/10/2012	Everyone should have access to books and the internet.
13792	7/10/2012	I am there every 3 weeks to check out new books. very important
13793	7/10/2012	It allows me to check out materials, learn about new music, and not have to spend money on books I will read only once.
13794	7/10/2012	I use the library on a regular basis. I order books and audiobooks, and am constantly picking up/returning something . I long ago gave up on buying books, because I read so much and have no room for them. I far prefer using the vast resources of our amazing library.
13795	7/10/2012	They keep us educated and engaged with our communities.
13796	7/10/2012	As a schoolteacher and lover of books, the library is extremely important to me so that I don't have to use my own money to buy books for my students and/or myself. Summer reading is also incredibly important for students.
13797	7/10/2012	Books and reading are the single most important part of my child's development.
13798	7/10/2012	It is entertainment if you have no money
13799	7/10/2012	Important to have access to free books, computer access, programs to encourage literacy in kids.
13800	7/10/2012	Schools are more important.
13801	7/10/2012	Quality of life
13802	7/10/2012	They are all pretty important, I just think a library system is the most undervalued.
13803	7/10/2012	an informed electorate is essential to the proper functioning of democracy
13804	7/10/2012	The local library has always been an important place to me. As soon as I could write my name, my Mom took me to the library to get my first library card (she now volunteers for the summer reading program at Hollywood Library). The library can and should be a community center--a place that offers resources to all individuals regardless of age, ability or socioeconomic status.
13805	7/10/2012	Because they are central to the community, offer free services that don't discriminate and allow me an alternative to buying books, etc.
13806	7/10/2012	help create and support community, provide access to media/educational materials, foster spirit of love of learning for kids, provide safe place for teens/kids/adults to learn and study
13807	7/10/2012	I have rarely used the library in the past 2 years but I still feel the library is vital to the community, especially young readers
13808	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently, and of all the public services offered, it's the one I use most... along with parks.

13809	7/10/2012	It would change my financial situation if I couldn't get the movies and books from the library. I most likely would have to do without.
13810	7/10/2012	Obviously police, etc are important. After that, we use the library and pools the most.
13811	7/10/2012	Importance of information access to lower income groups, children, and seniors; also a public resource I personally use often
13812	7/10/2012	It's the service I use the most.
13813	7/10/2012	There are more important public services such as law protecting fields and medical fields that are more beneficial to the public but the library services provides children and young adults to make more informed decisions about their lives because they can use the library to further their educations, interact with people, read hobbies instead of dangerous activities. The library is productive and it provides knowledge, knowledge is power.
13814	7/10/2012	Libraries foster an educated public, which improves society as a whole.
13815	7/10/2012	high
13816	7/10/2012	I check out books frequently, and would otherwise not have access to those resources.
13817	7/10/2012	I like the library.
13818	7/10/2012	Because nothing is more important than education. Essential social services (emergency services, basic road maintenance) are also very important as are parks & public transit. But, education trumps all of these because of its crucial role in building good citizens - the foundation of all of the rest!
13819	7/10/2012	Without the interlibrary loan system and current collection I would be unable to work as a freelance writer.
13820	7/10/2012	I think we have a very good library system, I don't think we need the best system in the nation, status quo is fine.
13821	7/10/2012	The internet has made information more easily available
13822	7/10/2012	libraries are a keystone of every civil society.
13823	7/10/2012	I value dissemination of knowledge and art, music to everyone
13824	7/10/2012	Reading is education, and education is the basis of an informed electorate.
13825	7/10/2012	Libraries offer more than books - they offer resources and a meeting place to gather and share knowledge. Using computers, teaching young children the importance of the written word - they are a place of learning and research, whether for personal pleasure or academic pursuits - libraries are a wonderful place, an experience no one person should ever be denied.
13826	7/10/2012	Because the library is an essential educational tool for the public and a source of countless hours of satisfying ones curiosity, imagination, fun, and meeting people from your community.
13827	7/10/2012	It is important to me to have a carefully cultivated bias-free source of information in an age of increasing privatization, where corporate interests are trying (with excellent and bountiful resources) to direct conversations to the disadvantage of public interest on a regular basis. On a personal level, I enjoy having access to recent publications.

13828	7/10/2012	Creation of community; access to resources; promotion of education and fun re literacy for my child
13829	7/10/2012	because if we cannot make education accessible in schools at least we can have public libraries!
13830	7/10/2012	it's important for library resources to be available to everyone for free - it allows and encourages intellectual development and growth
13831	7/10/2012	Schools number 1. Gotta have cops and firefighters. Gotta pave roads and install water pipes. Libraries after that - somewhat important.
13832	7/10/2012	access to various media that is NOT on a computer screen :)
13833	7/10/2012	They provide direct opportunities for continuing education, public outreach.
13834	7/10/2012	Reading is knowledge!
13835	7/10/2012	Libraries are at the center, I think.
13836	7/10/2012	As a job seeker who has been unemployed nearly 3 years, I need these resources and have no money to spend on them. I feel my life would be much more dire without the public library!
13837	7/10/2012	I am a big reader. I would hate to have to buy all the books I read!
13838	7/10/2012	I like the library but other resources are available if necessary.
13839	7/10/2012	I use the library ALL the time. I always have the maximum number of things On Hold, I always have 10-12 books and dvds and cds checked out. And I refer friends there regularly. I LOVE the Multnomah County library system!
13841	7/10/2012	"Other local public services" is too vague for comparison. I, too, work for a government agency that is under funded and under recognized yet my job keeps people healthy and alive. We must stop pitting ourselves against each other and instead build up the community commons together.
13842	7/10/2012	I'm proud of them and I use them. A fine library system says something about a city. And we have knowledgeable folks staffing the libraries.
13843	7/10/2012	in terms of quality of life on par with electricity.
13844	7/10/2012	High.
13845	7/10/2012	Access to books and learning materials are the backbone of our democracy.
13846	7/10/2012	i love to read
13847	7/10/2012	They're a valuable part of our community, but then, so are fire departments and schools and road crews.
13848	7/10/2012	The libraries are some of the best resources for information, have great programs that I see throughout the neighborhood, even if I'm not currently active in it, the people are the friendliest, it's a great working and reading environment, and safe.
13849	7/10/2012	I regularly enjoy reading for pleasure, to gain info for travel planning & other purposes

13850	7/10/2012	the library is a great resource. You can't get everything on the Internet. Books for home projects are great. Illustrations are great.[]
13851	7/10/2012	Series books are way to expensive to have to buy but when the library has them it's great reading.
13852	7/10/2012	You need to define "other local public services" before I can accurately answer question 7. I really appreciate having access to a library to be able to fulfill my reading desires affordably. However, I wonder if there isn't some way for the library system to become privatized or have a secondary source of funding, instead of relying solely on the government funding that it receives.
13853	7/10/2012	Because I use them regularly. While I understand the need for need for the police and fire department, I get more regular use out of the library.
13854	7/10/2012	It allows all community members to have equal access to books, educational materials, entertainment materials, and all other resources a library offers regardless of their income or educational level.
13855	7/10/2012	Access to books, movies, programs, computers - everything the library has to offer - is the most cost-effective way to enrich people's lives and to reduce the need for some other public services, most significantly, policing.
13856	7/10/2012	Important for democracy--gives all people access to information (and arts and literature and history and...etc.). Makes life more affordable, richer, more pleasant. Provides resources for those who need them & might not be able to afford them otherwise.
13857	7/10/2012	Its part of being a civilized society
13858	7/10/2012	I think that schools and public safety are more important than the libraries.
13859	7/10/2012	libraries hold a community together
13860	7/10/2012
13861	7/10/2012	I love books and music.
13862	7/10/2012	Libraries provide equal access to the foundation of self-improvement, namely knowledge. While I may have enough money to purchase books for my chosen format (Kindle), many do not and cannot. They deserve the same access to these resources as I do. For me, this is crucial and one the things I love about this area (it's value of this key resource).
13863	7/10/2012	This is the public service I use most often
13864	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to education and entertainment. They're important to me because they provide equal service to all members of our community regardless of one's personal wealth or education level.
13865	7/10/2012	It is important to me that my daughter sees reading as a fun activity. This means watching me read in addition to her reading/being read to. I can't afford to purchase the number of books we go through. The library is the only way for us to sustain our value of reading.

1

13867	7/10/2012	Obviously, garbage pickup is more important, for health reasons. Apart from that, a fine library is very important to all aspects of urban life.
13868	7/10/2012	Its all about the books! We teach our children to love learning and discovery by making a ritual out of visiting the library.
13869	7/10/2012	they offer access to critical community resources, knowledge, and entertainment
13870	7/10/2012	love to read...don't always have the money to purchase.[]
13871	7/10/2012	also like to have option to read or research away from home.
13872	7/10/2012	Free access to information is a foundation of a free society. An educated public is essential to the wellbeing of democracy. Libraries can be used by anyone, regardless of income or background. Many people rely on them to educate themselves.
13873	7/10/2012	Public libraries are important because they give people an opportunity to access the internet and educational materials, they also motivate people to be part of the community and help people get into reading.
13874	7/10/2012	Access to information and quality education is more valuable than almost anything.
13875	7/10/2012	I use our library the most out of any public service.
13876	7/10/2012	Essential component to a community
13877	7/10/2012	Because they offer educational opportunities for young and old no matter income. I think it's important to make reading a high priority in our community. Each generation needs to have a place where they can explore new ideas. It is a place where so many individuals can get their needs met. I love it.[]
13878	7/10/2012	I don't think it comes in front of fire and police but one of the things about Portland that I so love is the libraries and the buildings that we have for our libraries.
13879	7/10/2012	Right behind emergency/police/public health service
13880	7/10/2012	Information is considered by many to be the most important commodity on Earth. Libraries are a huge source of information and they are available to the public regardless of income level. In my opinion, libraries are a great equalizer and should remain available to everyone. for an educated populace[]
13881	7/10/2012	[] see Sallie Tisdale's paeon to PPL
13882	7/10/2012	I value the library services highly, but not above adequate services for youth and seniors, public safety, sewer/water, etc.
13883	7/10/2012	Looking at all levels of public services it is hard to place more value on one more than the others ,as I believe them all to be of equal importance . I wouldn't want roads or criminal justice to suffer from lack of funding anymore than I would like to see the libraries or education . They all go hand in hand in forming a strong community .

13884	7/10/2012	Literacy is essential to our quality of life, and to improving economically. Ignorance causes crime and poverty. □ And I really like books.
13885	7/10/2012	AS an avid reader, but with a fixed income, I cannot afford to buy books and still handle day to day expenses. The public library is the only place I can find enjoyment without the need to spend a fortune. Books are extremely important to children and the advancement of their imaginations. What a shame to curb that in children whose parents can not afford to buy them books that stretch their imaginations and their ambitions.
13886	7/10/2012	Access to information for the general populace should be available equally to all people, not just those that can afford it. Even in the computer age, the library is still the best source of information for many subjects.
13887	7/10/2012	Multiple excellent resources in a peaceful environment, what the library has always been to me.
13888	7/10/2012	Regardless of income it provides access to a level of education and services that build a foundation for a civil society. Learning to read, and having access to material to read is critical to human development (beyond the need for food and safety). It is the hub for voting in Oregon, the staff can help find the answers and information the people need. The resources at the library were invaluable when I was completing my undergrad degree and have been instrumental in helping promote reading for my child.
13889	7/10/2012	The library is very important to me because it allows all members of the community (especially low-income folks) equal access to information and programs to enhance their quality of life, which in turn makes for a happier community (I think. Hope.)
13890	7/10/2012	VERY IMPORTANT.
13891	7/10/2012	only thing i use
13892	7/10/2012	I am a voracious reader with a low income.
13893	7/10/2012	Heart and soul of an educated citizenry.
13894	7/10/2012	Access to free information is one of the foundations for modern democracy.
13895	7/10/2012	The local library branch ties the community together and is truly a place of equality. Job seekers, children, the well educated, etc. all end up at the library.
13896	7/10/2012	Universal access to information is as important as physical safety.
13897	7/10/2012	Because I worry about the effects of an uninformed, uneducated population. I think libraries help to extend and enhance our learning opportunities, letting everyone have access to information, books, etc.
13898	7/10/2012	Use electronic check out to Kindle.
13899	7/10/2012	I am retired and it has proven to be a great source of ways to fill my days.
13900	7/10/2012	"Those who seek be their own governors must arm themselves with the power that knowledge brings." -- James Madison
13901	7/10/2012	Probably the most used government service in my life, personally.

13902	7/10/2012	We access them frequently and there is something there for the entire family.
13903	7/10/2012	They provide education services and materials to everyone equally, and can help further peoples' lives.
13904	7/10/2012	It gives all the same opportunity to be educated
13905	7/10/2012	Libraries are currently the main form of voluntary education available to poor people, young people, old people, unemployed people, and people in general.
13906	7/10/2012	Because it's important to have access to information without having to pay for it as I am a low income person.
13907	7/10/2012	The library is part of our regular family routine. We love and use the library every week. It saves us thousands of dollars a year compared to buying all of the things we check out from the library.
13908	7/10/2012	To me, libraries are one of the core functions of government, along with police, firefighters, and health and safety regulation.
13909	7/10/2012	Education
13910	7/10/2012	reading is an important part of everyone's life. Not a lot of people can afford to run out and buy a book. It is convient & educational to go to your local lending library and check out a book to read.
13911	7/10/2012	Knowledge. The free library system is one of the building blocks of our society. We should strive towards making it better and better not endanger it with cutbacks.
13912	7/10/2012	Very important would be facilities I need to live in the urban area such as water, sewer, electricity, transportation, natural gas. I put libraries behind those, but pretty important.
13913	7/10/2012	The library offers materials and services that I cannot get anywhere else, for free. If I did not have access to the library, I would not have as much access to as many opportunities for learning, through books, reference materials, and databases that the library provides.
13914	7/10/2012	Public safety comes first. The libraries are used by many and benefit the community so I feel they are important to remain accessible and healthy.
13915	7/10/2012	I don't have small children but having this access is very important
13916	7/10/2012	Because it represents basic access to information, the ability for all people to gain knowledge and improve themselves. It allows those who are downtrodden the resources to pick themselves up. In an electronic age, it gives people a physical place to go and interact with resources and find information. It encourages reading and a curiosity about the world in children, which is one of the most valuable qualities we can cultivate in our nation's children - it will allow them to achieve more, be more productive, and approach problems in our world with more creativity and knowledge.
13917	7/10/2012	Not as important as emergency responders (police, firemen, EMT/ambulance), but very important to the general intellectual/emotional health of the community.
13918	7/10/2012	We all need access for information and help, whether through books or the internet. My children benefited from summer reading programs for years and now my elderly mother uses the senior resources frequently. I have recently discovered interlibrary loans and it's wonderful to know I can get any book I might need or want even if our library system doesn't have it.

13919	7/10/2012	For people who can't afford a computer they can do job searches, entertainment and learning activities for children, elderly support and contact with community. This is especially important for low income people who can't afford other community events. What a wonderful service and I am always amazed that people who don't value the services given. Thanks so much!
13920	7/10/2012	When I think about good programs funded by my tax dollars there is the library and . . . and . . . and . . . I can't think of anything else.
13921	7/10/2012	I get so much good use out of it-- books and cds mostly. Y'all have everything.
13922	7/10/2012	Vital resource for the community - provide things that no one else does for free.
13923	7/10/2012	Reading, writing, and thinking are at the center of my life.
13924	7/10/2012	School
13925	7/10/2012	Just below sanitation and transit
13926	7/10/2012	I feel that the library offers important access to books and other resources for our entire community
13927	7/10/2012	Public safety services are more important, but for my kids, the library is really important. I never used the library prior to having kids, though.
13928	7/10/2012	Because I do not use most other public services.
13929	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to books, DVDs, CDs, and internet, regardless of income or background.
13930	7/10/2012	Sharing books, computers, internet access & other resources saves the community (and me) lots of money instead of everyone having to purchase their own copies/services.
13931	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power and it should not be reserved for those who can afford the types of services libraries provide!
13932	7/10/2012	Personally, I use the library a great deal and would never buy as many books as I read from the library. But the library also serves an important community function for families and everyone seeking to educate and entertain themselves.
13933	7/10/2012	I have a family and my children love the library and it allows us adults to have access to books and other media that we don't have to pay for giving out much needed tight budget a break. We simply love the library.
13934	7/10/2012	You never go wrong with a book by your side.
13935	7/10/2012	A strong public library system is as important to a community as clean water, sanitation services, and safety - knowledge, and access to knowledge, is the intellectual lifeblood of a society.
13936	7/10/2012	They provide a common source of information which is available to all.
13937	7/10/2012	We use our library almost exclusively
13938	7/10/2012	Local library services are important because it is a central meeting place for all and should have all up to date information and services for eveything out there.
13939	7/10/2012	I love books and I think reading is important. Not enough children are interested in reading.
13940	7/10/2012	literacy, communication, free access to knowledge and information are fundamental to democracy

13941	7/10/2012	I have used the library system since I was very young. I have fond memories of checking out boxes of books. I love to read and want to instill that love of learning and reading in my daughter. When she was very young I was able to venture into the community to book babies. I met other parents and had time to socialize outside of the home. Now that she is a bit older, we continue to use the library for her, for me and for my husband. It is a vital service that we must support!
13942	7/10/2012	support community, develop children and ESL citizens, support continued learning, inspire!
13943	7/10/2012	I use the library more than parks, for instance, and roads always get funds,
13944	7/10/2012	Because I am a senior living on a limited budget and reading is one of my favorite things to do. I cannot afford to go out and buy all the books that I read in a year's time.
13945	7/10/2012	A democracy requires cheap unbiased uncensored public access to information. A democracy is our only hope, even if it is a thin hope.
13946	7/10/2012	See previous comment
13947	7/10/2012	My son is a very advanced reader who also reads very quickly. We would not be able to afford to buy enough books to keep up with his voracious reading appetite. Also, we believe reading is a very important education and lifetime skill. Everyone should have access to library resources to forward their education -- whatever their age and reading and level.
13948	7/10/2012	Information supports a free society. Information and services give people from all walks of life opportunities to survive (job-seekers) and better their lives. Serving children is essential to providing them with the possibility of living to their potential. I believe a well-functioning library actually cuts down on the need for other social and economic services by giving people the opportunity to learn and access resources.
13949	7/10/2012	Libraries are part of public education which helps make people better citizens by providing them with information and giving them tools they need to contribute as members of the community.
13950	7/10/2012	I am as liberal as they come, but it is time to take a pause from the capital improvement plans which have built and remodeled some fantastic libraries and readjust staff to the automation improvements.
13951	7/10/2012	Well, obviously no library ever put out a fire or paved a road, but a literate public is desirable for various reasons too lofty to go into here. It's certainly more important than the police, who seem to have nothing better to do than shooting the sort of fellow who uses the library bathroom to shave.
13952	7/10/2012	People need access to information to be informed members of society, to make decisions in a democracy, to improve their lives... Without the library bringing dependable information we would be left with unvetted internet sources and TV for our information.
13953	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge is essential to well functioning community.

13954	7/10/2012	I frequent the library several times a week to make book selections, get DVD's, read the newspaper and to use the computer I live on a fixed income and cannot afford the luxury of the items that I access at the library I now have a great-grand children who are learning to read and use the library as a resource as their parents cannot afford to purchase books .
13955	7/10/2012	In a time of increasing inequality, a good public library system helps open equal cultural and educational opportunities to everyone. I was raised in a poor mill-worker's neighborhood in Pittsburgh. I owe a debt I'll never be able to repay to the Carnegie Library system.
13956	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time and love the sense of community that is created. Also, I am able to access books/knowledge that I might not otherwise because I cannot afford to buy the books myself.
13957	7/10/2012	Democracy requires an informed electorate. Libraries are supposed to fill that need. I feel they need to do more in this area, frankly. But life is not all safety, bridges, and building permits. It's bread and roses: libraries are a gift we give to ourselves, one that supports culture, knowledge, learning, and aspiring to something better. I feel it would be best to place the library in a Cultural Tax District that includes other agencies that support quality of life: zoos, parks, museums, and libraries. Expand Metro to include libraries and museums.
13958	7/10/2012	I need the computer access,also the books are very useful in many ways.
13959	7/10/2012	affordable education and access to information are top priorities for me
13960	7/10/2012	We use it for continuing education and entertainment
13961	7/10/2012	Because information and access are an essential component to our free society.
13962	7/10/2012	Access to books and information is vital to a thriving society and civil government.
13963	7/10/2012	They save us money.
13964	7/10/2012	I rely on library to get latest magazines, journals and stay up-to-date with current news
13965	7/10/2012	They are quite important to me, but I realize that other public services may be more important to others.
13966	7/10/2012	Somewhat important
13967	7/10/2012	I love reading, am a student with not much money so the library is very important to me to study for school or read for pleasure or researching about where I want to travel etc.
13968	7/10/2012	For many people, the library is their only resource for books and computer access.
13969	7/10/2012	Opportunity for community education.
13970	7/10/2012	We use them all the time! Important, eco friendly and affordable access to books, media and information
13971	7/10/2012	FREE BOOKS. I'd say that education and self-betterment are pretty important.

13972	7/10/2012	i live on an unimproved road way full of potholes, ducks swim in them and portland refuses to take care of even though pay taxes. i don't have any children in public schools but work for the school system and see how incredibly mismanaged it is, so my use of the library makes me feel like I get something for the taxes i pay.
13973	7/10/2012	I rely on the library. Beyond book, audio & dvd rentals, I also print documents quite frequently from the library or need internet access. I count on it being an available option when I need it.
13974	7/10/2012	I am a heavy library user. As one of Portland's many under-employed people, I depend on the library for news, research, and entertainment. The library literally saves me thousands of dollars on materials that I could not otherwise access. My library card is my favorite card in my wallet. I feel a rare sense of pride in our country every time I visit the library.
13975	7/10/2012	We love to read and the extremely wide selection of wonderful children's books is amazing
13976	7/10/2012	I use the library to read/listen/watch material that is either too expensive to buy or that I'm unable to find in local stores. I go in at least once a week and am on the website at least three times a week.
13977	7/10/2012	Books and music are very important.
13978	7/10/2012	The internet has become the real center of information access, but it's also important to have a community space dedicated to information
13979	7/10/2012	I use the library frequently for casual reading and for research. I also think a healthy library system contributes to a good community.
13980	7/10/2012	Libraries allow all citizens to educate themselves.
13981	7/10/2012	If we want to live in a society that values knowledge and learning, all of our members need access to materials with which to learn and grow.
13982	7/10/2012	Libraries and schools are necessary for the community functioning and for helping us understand the necessity of supporting other local public services.
13983	7/10/2012	They are a great foundation for learning. The ability to expose children to a lot of books and to an enjoyment of books. They are an excellent community resource. Also, a friend of mine and I are making our own podcast about movies and I don't think we would be able to afford to do that if we didn't have the library and access to the DVD collection.
13984	7/10/2012	Only source for historical research on a national basis with the interlibrary transfer system
13985	7/10/2012	Education is a key component in making the lives in our community better. Better educated people have less dependence on other social programs and are better equipped to contribute to the overall well-being of the community.
13986	7/10/2012	I believe that reading and literacy are very important in society, and being able to access different information and having the community of people in or working at the library that encourage children to read and learn, and help adults to gain more information as well.
13987	7/10/2012	I am an information junkie. The library system provides superb resources for a multitude of needs in every age group and ever socioeconomic group. The staffs at the Hillsdale and Central libraries are wonderfully positive, courteous and helpful.

13988	7/10/2012	The library is a location where members of the community can interact and meet. It is also a generally safe location for children and young people to meet. Encouraging reading and other scholarly habits generally benefits society and community at large. In our rainy climate, the library is an invaluable, integral part of my community.
13989	7/10/2012	The libraries keep people informed. Provides a safe place for students to study. Safe place for families to gather and participate in activities and provides material for all walks of life and for all ages.
13990	7/10/2012	Libraries are key to introducing books, reading and new ideas to a broad range of community members. Libraries support education for young and old alike.
13991	7/10/2012	I'm not sure what is meant by "other local public services." If it includes the Fire Dept, I would have to say that's more important than the library, but I actually believe the library to be very important.
13992	7/10/2012	Especially in economic downtimes, they provide a place for people to be quiet and calm, to read newspapers and magazines they cannot afford, to read for self improvement or relaxation, to do research, to type etc . All of this can happen in a peaceful environment and is an alternative to what might otherwise be chaotic or depressing days.[] [] In addition, the library is a place for "life long education" for everyone. It is where children and young people can develop the habit of life long learning and enrichment through all kinds of books and it is, of course, a place that provides that for adults as well.
13993	7/10/2012	Because they provide invaluable resources to people who wouldn't have access to them.
13994	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader. Although I don't use the library as frequently as others, I think it is of vital importance for books and information to be available to all. Libraries are an amazing resource for everything from being able to check out and read the latest best seller to having a place to quietly sit and write. I can not imagine a world without libraries.
13995	7/10/2012	Other than public roadways, I utilize libraries more than any other single public resource.
13996	7/10/2012	Libraries help people to gain strength through education, to build community, and to get connected with what other resources the neighborhood has to offer. Decreased hours will decrease accessibility to citizens who need the library most: those with limited money, time and/or mobility. Without free and accessible access to information, our community, state and nation are weakened as a democratic republic--- since our citizens lose access to the resources which are crucial to political decision making. News shows and magazines are no substitute for access to varied textbooks and the Internet.
13997	7/10/2012	At this point libraries are one of the last bastions of freedom in the u.s.[] They may be the last actual democratic institution we have left, i.e., for the demos...[] They provide access to information for people who can't afford it. [] They provide literal and figurative shelter from the storm for the lost and for the seekers...

13998	7/10/2012	Easily accessible and one of the best library systems I've witnessed. Educational materials should be available to those that seek them.
13999	7/10/2012	an educated society is beyond value. access to information is a cornerstone to democracy
14000	7/10/2012	Very - 4 on a scale of 1-5
14001	7/10/2012	Libraries provide much needed programs for youth and older adults. They also allow people to enhance their world with literature from many places.
14002	7/10/2012	Access to information is key to success in America.
14003	7/10/2012	Library is an integral part of a community, and a necessary institution for public knowledge share.
14004	7/10/2012	Vital for a vibrant community, serve all members of society but are particularly helpful to low-income and unemployed community members.
14005	7/10/2012	Safety and health are more important, but education (including library services) are a close second.
14006	7/10/2012	Reading helps in all aspects of life.
14007	7/10/2012	I cannot imagine a world without books
14008	7/10/2012	supplement for the resources that we're loosing with cuts to kids schools
14009	7/10/2012	Libraries can serve as an integral part of a community, a place to learn, educate and rejuvenate. The baby and toddler classes are really helpful to parents wanting to provide experiences for their children.
14010	7/10/2012	My family likes to read and the library saves me money.
14011	7/10/2012	Top 3
14012	7/10/2012	Literacy, being informed, love of literature, open access to all in our community
14013	7/10/2012	For many people this is the only option to get reading materials and access educational information
14014	7/10/2012	Not only do they provide me personally with a great deal of reading pleasure, literacy is made easier for children and those new-come to our community through library literacy programs, materials available in languages other than English, and the easy availability of these materials.
14015	7/10/2012	Libraries are proactive, positive - good things come from libraries. They are great equalizers - everyone in the community uses them. I love libraries.
14016	7/10/2012	Most important
14017	7/10/2012	It is just as important as Mass Transit or a school. Books are the key to anything in life.
14018	7/10/2012	Safety is critical. Education is important
14019	7/10/2012	somewhat
14020	7/10/2012	It is a service that can't be duplicated in private sector. We will need a very literate population as time goes on. Not one familiar with tv shows.
14021	7/10/2012	i'm a reader.
14022	7/10/2012	I feel a good library is just as essential as any other service the County provides.
14023	7/10/2012	The library is the heart and future of the community.

14024	7/10/2012	It would be impossible to raise a strong reader without the library. Kids (and adults) require new books to encourage them and excite them. I could never afford to buy all the books my family has read over the years - and it is critical for their pleasure as well as the development of their identify as a reader. Our schools can't (and don't) do it all. Parents need the support of the library to raise their kids to be readers, thinkers and citizens.
14025	7/10/2012	My family benefits greatly from frequent library use; it enhances our quality of life. I would, however, have to reserve the very important category for more essential public services (police, fire, etc.).
14026	7/10/2012	Libraries serve the education needs of all our people, from young to old, from rich to poor, from HS diploma to Harvard educated. Society should be judged based on the quality of its libraries and not the number of jails we have.
14027	7/10/2012	Too many libraries are open...costing us lots of money to keep them open. You hold the taxpayers hostage at voting time...people who are NOT paying taxes on these services are allowed to vote and raise my property taxes. The libraries should be run by volunteers only.....
14028	7/10/2012	The question instills "what is a city without a library?".....please figure it out.....all citizens deserve a current resource for information, data, and services.
14029	7/10/2012	I am aware that my life is library dependent. I can not imagine my life without libraries. The quality of my life is substantially improved due to my local library and it is an inspiring thing to look at how influential libraries are. Libraries are of Great Importance now and ever more.
14030	7/10/2012	I do not take part in all the services provided by the libraries, however, I very much enjoy knowing that I support with my dollars and time (am a volunteer at the Belmont library) others in my neighborhood and community no matter their background or needs.
14031	7/10/2012	The library is used to the fullest extent, by all members of the community.
14032	7/10/2012	Public Libraries are necessary to enable a civilized democracy.
14033	7/10/2012	Libraries are places where there is a reverence for the spoken/written word. It's a place to feel the satisfaction of knowing that there is a world of people with real interests who are actively engaged in exploring. It's a place to focus, relax and most of all, learn. It's a place to find ways to live many lives without ever leaving one spot. Printed books don't trash your vision the way the glare on a screen does. The list goes on and on and on.
14034	7/10/2012	I use it for all my reading material access
14035	7/10/2012	I mean, there are flexible levels of acceptable service depending on how screwed everything else is, but I'm pretty convinced that dropping below "good enough" library service levels has really non-linear, hard-to-predict, snowballing/self-reinforcing knock-on effects. You can calculate what reduction in any other service is going to do, but libraries are dark matter. Maybe I'm biased, though, being a bookish sort.

14036	7/10/2012	Very important, but, of course, the absolutely necessary-for-survival public services (fire, police, ambulances, etc) are the very most important. Library services are important to me because they are free and I find myself, now, w/a very ltd income. I have small grandchildren who love their programs and I think media delivery to housebound people is much needed.
14037	7/10/2012	The state of Oregon is divided into counties to provide services to the citizens, The purpose of the counties is to provide services to the citizens. The county should provide services to the citizens instead of the bureaucrats. The library is a basic service the county must provide. Please cut the budget for the board of county comisioners 10 times more than you cut the library budget.
14038	7/10/2012	What "other public services" do you mean? Like police and fire fighters? [] [] The library is a big part of Portland. without it, we all go to Powell's and sit around in the World Cup Coffee & Tea?
14039	7/10/2012	there are essential services like police and fire and then there are quality of life services like libraries and parks. Libraries are the #1 quality of life service that I receive from my state.
14040	7/10/2012	They help inspire children to read and give others somewhere to go/something to do.
14041	7/10/2012	libraries provide many services and everyone can access them
14042	7/10/2012	We use it so consistently. Our kids read voraciously, as do we, and I couldn't imagine life without the library.
14043	7/10/2012	I read a lot.
14044	7/10/2012	Supports citizens in their self-education.
14045	7/10/2012	When buying a house, I always want to be in convenient (preferably walking) distance from a library and a grocery store.
14046	7/10/2012	I use the library very very often....it saves me from buying books, saves trees, is very convenient
14047	7/10/2012	The library gives me an opportunity to read and gather information important to my changing life.
14048	7/10/2012	I am a teacher in a low-income school and the library provides a place for my students to do research, find books, and have a safe place to go on a rainy day.
14049	7/10/2012	I read, I think, and, I write.
14050	7/10/2012	Without libraries no one can learn. Education is at the basis of any successful society.
14051	7/10/2012	I cannot afford to buy books and I read a lot. Libraries build community and help those less fortunate.
14052	7/10/2012	dont need them 7 days a week.
14053	7/10/2012	Libraries matter because an educated public votes.
14054	7/10/2012	I love to read and I don't like to own books or pay for them. But they don't seem more important than, say, dance lessons or parks.
14055	7/10/2012	Libraries are crucial information centers available to all members of the community. They give all of us access to all types of media. They are especially important for those who don't have home access to the internet and for students.

14056	7/10/2012	I have always enjoyed reading books and the library was always a safe place that I could go and discover the world without leaving the city. It is a place of imagination and wonder and for people who can't afford to buy books everyweek it is an escape from our troubles and a look in to happier times.
14057	7/10/2012	provides all community members with important resources, from books that inspire and educate to internet access and trainings to a warm place to sit and read the paper. if the library does not support these tools and resources, who will?
14058	7/10/2012	The community needs space and resources to organize. Education is key to creating a better multnomah county.
14059	7/10/2012	Police, fire protection, road maintenance water and sewer rates more important. Composting to make Sam Adams feel good is WAY less important. Frankly, can't think of a whole lot the county does except libraries and jails.
14060	7/10/2012	I am a voracious reader, music listener and film-watcher. I make very little money and the library keeps me informed and provides a valuable service. Knowledge is power, knowledge should be free to all.
14061	7/10/2012	The library is sometimes the only thing poor and/or aging and disabled folks can afford to do recreationally. It promotes literacy and provides valuable resources to the community. I think the library is of great importance and my dream is to serve the community working at the library.
14062	7/10/2012	They provide critical information, enhance education at all levels, offer enjoyment to counter our stressful lives, and improve community connections.
14063	7/10/2012	Well connected on the web now but when I could not afford the internet due to medical expenses the library was a god send!
14064	7/10/2012	Meeting the basic needs of people: food, shelter, water, clothes, human safety, health services comes before the library, in my opinion.
14065	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot and would be at sea without it.

		The library is a critical cultural American institution. It provides free information to anyone who seeks it. It provides a free opportunity to learn. It is especially important to families, because it provides opportunities for parents to supplement their children's learning as our schools get weaker and weaker.[] []
14066	7/10/2012	The library supports everyone in the community - the young, the elderly, the poor, the affluent, people who are native born, and people who are foreign born. It provides a wide variety of services - entertainment, education, self-improvement - that aren't available anywhere else. It ties the community together in a way that no other institution does.[] []
		Defunding the library may provide some short term financial gain. Losing the library's services takes a huge chunk out of our neighborhood and our community. I am proud of the way the city of Portland takes care of its neighborhoods and communities. I hope I can continue to be proud.
14067	7/10/2012	Knowledge is power. We need to educate the masses.
14068	7/10/2012	Because infrastructure services are more important
14069	7/10/2012	They are very important, but not more so than healthcare related services and public safety
14070	7/10/2012	Knowledge from books, and I love the classes offered even if I don't always get to attend them, its nice to know they are there.
14071	7/10/2012	Education and access to that and knowledge has no price value on it- it is priceless in this day and age and more so with the economy being what it is and the resources for those on low incomes to learn. It gives opportunity to those who want to and need to self learn in order to help themselves and therefore their community and resources.
14072	7/10/2012	Huh? You want to end up like Texas?
14073	7/10/2012	Want my kids to have access to the library.
14074	7/10/2012	Libraries foster a love of reading and lifelong learning. They are a democratizing force in our society, ensuring that people from all backgrounds and income levels have access to information.
14075	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge and information is essential to our democracy.
14076	7/10/2012	Access to books is necessary to promote education and literacy in our community.
14077	7/10/2012	Because of the library, my kids have been exposed to so many stories, books, media, and activities that they otherwise might not have had. Also, for a lot of low-income families it's an important supplement to their education.
14078	7/10/2012	It is important to me and the community to be well read.
14079	7/10/2012	Many people I know use the library to read a wider variety of books than they have on their bookshelves. It's important to have the library as a strong resource for knowledge and learning.
14080	7/10/2012	Libraries are important because they provide access to knowledge and an opportunity to learn to everyone who wishes to seek it out.

14081	7/10/2012	its a place where we can be quiet, lose ourselves in some books, randomly wander down ailes of art history books we would not normally look at. It is a sanctuary! It is church for a modern world without churches! My daughter is 6 now and we would go every week, picking out new books, saving us tons of money on store bought books. I love the library!
14082	7/10/2012	Cause it's something I rely on daily and it's good for seeing people in my community
14083	7/10/2012	Not everyone can afford internet or to buy books. The library is a centralized location for citizens to access a wealth of information.
14084	7/10/2012	Public libraries are crucial resources in this country. Where else can regular people get access to books for free? Nowhere, that's where.
14085	7/10/2012	Because there are so many public services that I value. To rank them seems impossible.
14086	7/10/2012	Education through books is extremely important. My 10 year old grandson LOVES going to the library.
14087	7/10/2012	Safety (Police, Firedepartment) are more critical.▯ Libraries are similar to public education criticalness.
14088	7/10/2012	The library system provides access to knowledge and information in an affordable way. The library is a sacred community asset. It is a safe place to learn and spend time. It is one of the greatest public resources.
14089	7/10/2012	It's important to have available access to books and media for people who might otherwise not have that access because of their financial situation. Also in a larger sense, it's good as a community that we share resources like books, dvds, etc instead of everyone buying them individually.
14090	7/10/2012	The library system is more than just a service; it's both a community asset and an institution that can help support and improve our community.
14091	7/10/2012	I believe in shared resources. We needn't all buy a book etc. or own a fire engine or educate our children at home or build roads or raise our own armies...education of the citizenry is hugely augmented by the availability of materials through a library.
14092	7/10/2012	It's a place of equal access for everyone. Cultures can meet in one place. Opportunities for a safe place of learning are priceless. Places for kids to go after school. Places that are quiet or orderly and safe.
14093	7/10/2012	Free access to educational materials and internet is an important public service. Especially when so many people are out of work.
14094	7/10/2012	Local public libraries provide resources that equip individuals to improve their lives. Often these benefits are long-term, and require dedication over time. A strong focus today is placed in the moment. Other public services address current situations and relieving strain immediately (financial, sustenance, medical, etc.). Our society does not emphasize investment as it used to, and seeks instant solutions to long standing problems. There is great value in a dedicated, long-term investment.

14095	7/10/2012	the importance of reading materials/information/community cannot be overestimated
14096	7/10/2012	The library is an essential part of community.
14097	7/10/2012	they provide vital services to the community, bringing people together, binding people together, working together.
14098	7/10/2012	An educated populace is the cornerstone of a functioning democracy. When I was a curious child, it was to the Public Library I went looking for information; as a curious adult, I have sought out information about the world in that very same place. An educated public is safer, cleaner, more polite, and reaps all the associated benefits of a more-educated populace (higher wage earnings, better taxation returns, stronger infrastructure investment).[] Additionally, the well-funded Public Library is a particular asset to those among us living in poverty. Children's reading hours give harried parents an hour's solace to browse the stacks; book delivery for seniors keeps older minds active, staving off the ravages of dementia, and harboring this wisdom-resource in our communities; computer-access and employment assistance programs for those seeking are a necessary asset in our down-economy; a free place to enjoy learning is the only thing in the world young minds need to do well in school, stay off drugs, and boost their successes academically.
14099	7/10/2012	I have two kids. Other public services are important as well. Why is this a zero-sum game? If it were a question of whether funding should go to restore school funding vs. restore library funding, however, I would choose to fund schools.
14100	7/10/2012	I think they are very important for a community, particularly as they can be an essential service for poor, disadvantaged and/or young citizens. However, I consider such things as public health and safety as critical, so can't realistically rate libraries at the same high level.
14101	7/10/2012	When compared to emergency services such as police and fire, libraries are of little importance. A basic social safety net also ranks higher as those type of services are required by some for immediate survival. For me, the library is a nice to have service, but I could survive without it. I lived overseas for over two years in a place where I did not speak the language well enough to use a library, and I really did not miss library access. For some, such as people who are looking for a job and do not have computer access, the library can be a necessity. With the advent of e-books, libraries will change. I doubt if they will be mainly the storehouse of contemporary books as they once were. They will probably retain their use as a gathering place to study (either individually or in groups) and they will be a computer access point for those without Internet access. For me, the "gathering place" is not needed. I suffered through several weeks of a lack of adequate home computer access when an old computer was dying and before I got a new. The library was a stop-gap place to keep me in touch with the outside world.
14102	7/10/2012	At a very personal level, I use library services constantly and consider the public library to be a central community institution.
14103	7/10/2012	The access to so many different books and movies.

14104	7/10/2012	Everybody needs to read or at least know how!
14105	7/10/2012	I don't know what I would do without my libraries. They are a big part of my life.
14106	7/10/2012	Free access to information is important for our community
14107	7/10/2012	because without a sales tax (when will Portland grow up?) everyhting is always screwed for funding to put it bluntly
14108	7/10/2012	I feel like it's so important to have the programs for young kids more for people who don't have many oppourtunities. The more activities that are free for kids in the community the better.
14109	7/10/2012	They provide me with the ability to obtain books / films / tv that I do not have room for or the money for. Libraries are essential to the fabric of the society, the education of society, and is a public service where everyone is on the same playing field.
14110	7/10/2012	We use the library for our home school. We check out books instead of having to purchase them all ourselves.
14111	7/10/2012	They give me and my family access to books, magazines and newspapers, which we would otherwise have to buy. In these times where books are becoming redundant, libraries play an important role in educating people and keeping the tradition of reading books in print.
14112	7/10/2012	A literate society is a more tolerant and productive society.
14113	7/10/2012	their local, and i can trust them
14114	7/10/2012	On a limited income book purchases are prohibitive; I am an avid reader for enjoyment as well as learning.
14115	7/10/2012	Because it's important for everyone to have access to books and information to continue a culture of reading and learning.
14116	7/10/2012	Libraries are a public source for educational materials. They provide a resource available to everyone who desires to be educated by reading and gaining knowledge. An educated public goes a long way.
14117	7/10/2012	Because I don't believe it's possible for people's lives to improve without the resources the library system provides, which they often can't get anywhere else. Internet access is becoming more and more necessary, and books will always be a way to help people grow, learn and open up new opportunities.
14118	7/10/2012	The library is a nice-to-have resource, but not a vital service. When tax dollars are distributed, schools, law enforcement and infrastructure should receive funding priority to libraries.
14119	7/10/2012	because i use it so frequently! i tried going to the library yesterday, and it was closed! its no good to close the library!!! my family has used it, and relied on it for very important occasions. parties, children education, school age resource, entertainment, job resource! it has so much to offer all of us! don't close it! not even for one day a week!
14120	7/10/2012	everyone finds the library useful - and free
14121	7/10/2012	Very important. My children have a great love of books and the library has played a big role in developing that love.

14122	7/10/2012	This is a service that is helpful to a wide variety of people.
14123	7/10/2012	because I believe everyone should have equal access to library resources. Library's are important to people in many different ways, and they should be available and accessible to all people regardless of where they live or how much money they have. I believe that a library is a wonderful community gathering place as well. It brings cities, neighborhoods, and families together.
14124	7/10/2012	I believe strongly in the access to information that libraries provide. Library programs and services are used by the entire community and social/economic spectrum; a rarity in public services. I believe they are a statement to our population's commitment to information access, personal growth and education.
14125	7/10/2012	reading is very important and it build up people to would feel dumb and that's a bad feeling to have cause people to rob and do things for survival because they can't get a job if they can't read
14126	7/10/2012	While not life or death, for the most part, library services enrich everyone in the community and create a leveling effect on the distributions of benefits across income levels. As a relative of four firefighters and a fire inspector, I don't devalue their services or those of police or educators (I was one for over 40 years), so I'd have to say the library system is on a level with those services because our civilization would be quite different without a free library.
14127	7/10/2012	Need books
14128	7/10/2012	Because that is where i get my reading material. I hardly ever buy a book.
14129	7/10/2012	Health and safety are first.
14130	7/10/2012	Great service that promotes learning, community and development in the area.
14131	7/10/2012	because i use them
14132	7/10/2012	They provide a resource for community members who may not have access to such resources in any other way.
14133	7/10/2012	I love to read
14134	7/10/2012	I learned to love books because my mother took me to the library all of the time when I was kid. I am now a published author
14135	7/10/2012	The amount of materials possible to check out makes my life much more enjoyable, entertainment and education wise.
14136	7/10/2012	It's centralized and convenient for me to use.
14137	7/10/2012	Good to have fire and police and water, but the library gives you context for how and why we have fire, police, and water.
14138	7/10/2012	For many people, they provide their only access to the internet. Advocate literacy and learning. Stimulate community building and civic responsibility. Libraries are crucial.
14139	7/10/2012	I have internet access at home and can get the content I need. However this is not the case for everyone
14140	7/10/2012	I don't want to purchase books EVERYTIME I would like to read one.

14141	7/10/2012	I think that the library services really are in a category of their own. There is really no way to compare them to other public services. I've never met a librarian unwilling to help, and there seems to be a passion to those who work in a library as opposed to those working in other public services. They see it as more than a job, and that translates to the environment and help offered.
14142	7/10/2012	Using the library helped me love reading and learning as a child, and as an adult, I rely on the library for books and other resources. It's a good use of our tax dollars!
14143	7/10/2012	Education that is available and free is of utmost importance to me. Everyone has the ability to learn as long as the resources are available. Education can only improve the world. As long as it is free, anyone can use the facilities. No excuses for ignorance.
14144	7/10/2012	Libraries were a lifeline for me, growing up in an impoverished household and dealing with frequently abusive family and school situations.
14145	7/10/2012	The library is one of those resources that really can be used by all the members of Multnomah county. Unlike say, the police or the fire department it's something people want to be able use, not something that they'd prefer to never have to deal with. The strength of our library system is one of those things that makes the area so great to live in.
14146	7/10/2012	They should be right after water, roads, fire,schools, and police.
14147	7/10/2012	We (a family of three) use the library for most of our entertainment and spend hours reading, watching DVDs, and hanging out. When we bought our house, we made sure it was within walking distance of a library, and it is (.6 miles!). We don't buy books or subscribe to Netflix, thanks to our wonderful library system. We'd hate to give up this lifestyle.
14148	7/10/2012	education, safe place for kids and seniors, information resources. I like seeing the school age kids using the library because knowing how to find information is more important than learning it.
14149	7/10/2012	to provide access to literacy for all citizens
14150	7/10/2012	I put education services higher - public schools win my top "very important" vote. But on the theme of education, access to a library is super important for self-educated folks. [] I can afford to buy books; my friends can, too; and we share. However, with the library, I am exposed to and read things that I might not buy and consequently it broadens my knowledge and outlook. [] [] On the one hand, it is priceless; on the other, people cannot afford all the services at an ideal level.
14151	7/10/2012	For the reason I already mentioned in #6.
14152	7/10/2012	While I really, really like local libraries, and have been a library patron since I was a small child, I don't think I can honestly say they're as important as clean water, plentiful electricity, and waste collection.
14153	7/10/2012	I like the library for entertainment, research and it surely gives me a place to go with my granddaughter.

14154	7/10/2012	I grew up with the library system being the only access I had to adventures in reading
14155	7/10/2012	First, it's a way to educate our citizens, regardless of age or income level. Second, it's one of the few non-commercial places our community can utilize. This is important to many in our neighborhood, especially those with kids, the elderly, those without computers, and those who just want a quiet, non-commercial place to do some work.
14156	7/10/2012	Literacy and access to information are absolute necessities in maintaining an educated citizen population. There's no point in giving people the vote if they can't be informed.
14157	7/10/2012	Access to resources we cannot/will not purchase on our own, access to knowledge & ideas for children, libraries have potential to level the playing field for all families
14158	7/10/2012	I enjoy reading, and books are expensive - the library system is the absolute best for entertainment, research, child development, and community outreach.
14159	7/10/2012	Education and learning are vital to a healthy society.
14160	7/10/2012	Libraries provide equity. By being available to all, any person can improve their station in life. Libraries promote a culture of learning and inquiry-- two characteristics that have served our nation well.
14161	7/10/2012	Behind public safety services, I believe that library services are very important to the community and offer crucial services and programs.
14162	7/10/2012	I am an able-bodied person with a home computer. I can access what I need from home. Compared to other aspects of my very busy life, the library is somewhat important.
14163	7/10/2012	I have a hard time putting a financial value on something as important as education and knowledge.
14164	7/10/2012	There is nothing more important to a civilized society than free access to information and literacy development. As our culture relies more heavily on computers for communication, it is vital for people of all income levels to have access.
14165	7/10/2012	It is a great resource for continually learning new things with my tax dollars. I take advantage of the library since it offers so many great opportunities.
14166	7/10/2012	provide a level of accessibility to knowledge for the community regardless of income, social status, etc
14167	7/10/2012	They help bring the community together with literature and culture.
14168	7/10/2012	Reading, thinking, learning is a lifetime goal. Only with a healthy library system can we attain our highest abilities.
14169	7/10/2012	Safety comes first, including infrastructure as well as safety services. Then comes education and social services.
14170	7/10/2012	Where the library is not able to serve (i.e. job seeking, small business startups etc) it seems that there are other government/ngos to take up the slack (SCORE, Employment agency).

14171	7/10/2012	Next to schools and along with parks, libraries are most important to me. Access to books and research materials is critical for education, job creation and social welfare. While we could chose to purchase books, we believe using books from the library and supporting a healthy library system is vital to community well-being.
14172	7/10/2012	They provide knowledge and access to learning. Other than basic life services, what is more important?
14173	7/10/2012	They provide access sto educational and entertainment materials that otherwise would be unavailable.
14174	7/10/2012	Roads, bridges, schools and public safety are more important. But, the library is one of the most salient public services provided by our tax dollars. My family enjoys and relies on its services
14175	7/10/2012	they are important but not as important as social services that fulfill basic needs such as food, shelter, and health care.
14176	7/10/2012	I feel that it is important to the local community to be able to come into a local library.
14177	7/10/2012	Free public libraries are the foundations of democracy - an informed citizenry can make informed decisions.
14178	7/10/2012	Access to a good library is critical for fostering a love of reading and discovery in my kids.
14179	7/10/2012	After food and shelter and safety, intelligence matters, probably more than clean sidewalks and well-maintained parks.
14180	7/10/2012	The library provides the resources that have educated and entertained me since I was a child and I can't imagine this city without its libraries.
14181	7/10/2012	They are the point of access for the community of all relevant information--whether regarding community resources, learning materials, literacy, job success, or any number of individual or community needs. Fostering a commitment to our public libraries is a statement of our values that shows we support access to education for our community.
14182	7/10/2012	People of all ages use the library and depend on access to information and materials. Many families are able to teach and learn with their children thanks to all the reading materials we have and programs that are available. It is one of the great things you can do when the cash is low. It can be family time. It makes memories.
14183	7/10/2012	Because they are used frequently and provide a great deal of value. Public libraries are a hallmark of a free, civilized society that values education and the arts... isn't that what we aspire to be?
14184	7/10/2012	Near the top!
14185	7/10/2012	We have over 50 books checked out at any given time. My kids are all avid readers, and spend much of their time lost in a book.
14186	7/10/2012	The internet.
14187	7/10/2012	For my Daughter and I it is an amazing resource

14188	7/10/2012	While I value schools I do not yet have children, so the library is one of the primary services I use. I am a voracious reader and cannot afford to buy every new book I want to read- nor is that environmentally responsible! I believe in collective resources... the library is a prime example and it works.
14189	7/10/2012	Extremely important
14190	7/10/2012	They are not a necessary service to daily life. It's nice to have the service if I need it but that need is very infrequent. I am a big believer in those that use a service should pay for it. Not certain why those of us that can afford to pay are paying for people who do not pay for the services they use.
14191	7/10/2012	Because ready access to information is critical to a free society.
14192	7/10/2012	Free access to information and culture is a must in a democracy.
14193	7/10/2012	libraries are becoming obsolete. all can be done on-line.
14194	7/10/2012	I use the library more than ant other social services.
14195	7/10/2012	It is important for everyone to have access to books, material, and other services available at the library. I sometimes use other resources for similar services, but I think it is still very important that these services be available to everyone free of charge.
14196	7/10/2012	Mostly research for school.
14197	7/10/2012	Because without accessibility to knowledge, we can't even call ourselves an advanced civilization.
14198	7/10/2012	It is the most visible public service that I use, though i do appreciate knowing police and firemen are on the job.
14199	7/10/2012	Information is a very low-cost, high-reward public good that benefits rich and poor alike.
14200	7/10/2012	I utilize the services of the library daily. It is a place to come and enjoy reading and learning.
14201	7/10/2012	Let's face it. Schools, city, county are all more important. Libraries are secondary.
14202	7/10/2012	Kids who are introduced to books at a young age do better in school, turn out better. Less violence, less teen pregnancies, etc etc. I have a young child and I want her to grow up in a better world and the library is part of that. It's available to everyone, and most programs aren't, which is why it's more important to fund this than other things.
14203	7/10/2012	I use the library almost daily, stop on the way home from work, and drop in on walks in the neighborhood. It's a small library, so I find that I often reserve books online, but I always find something in the stacks. It's a great resource, particularly now that we buy far fewer books because of our finances. I love it and rely on it.
14204	7/10/2012	I want the roads fixed and sidewalks everywhere as a priority. [] There has to be pension reform for fire fighters, police, and fix PERS.[] TriMet drivers are overpaid.
14205	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a multitude of different avenues of service, from providing reading material, to giving access to computer and internet, and support for job searches. However, reasonable transportation cost is probably more important. I guess it is a given that we need police, fire, road repairs, garbage.

14206	7/10/2012	This isn't much of a selection. Libraries are not as important as police and fire, but they are still very important. I guess my answer is something like, Because free access to information is important to anyone regardless of income and resources.
14207	7/10/2012	It's a cliché but knowledge really is power. Access to information is a basic human right and the library system is a cornerstone to that access.
14208	7/10/2012	I love libraries. They are the most democratic institutions. I use the library for my work.
14209	7/10/2012	Only ranked #2 because in my view we need police officers, firemen and teachers more but it's a close call.
14210	7/10/2012	Because they're not not too important, yet I don't feel like they're VERY important. If someone (like this survey) asked me how important the library services were, I'd say, "somewhat".
14211	7/10/2012	Very important when I do research for speeches
14212	7/10/2012	I'm an avid reader. The library saves us thousands of dollars by making books available that we'd otherwise purchase.
14213	7/10/2012	I use it
14214	7/10/2012	I love having access to so many books without having to buy them. I'm a frequent reader.
14215	7/10/2012	We are becoming a nation of non-readers. The library give the opportunity for people that cannot afford to buy books, to borrow them.
14216	7/10/2012	I use my library. My 2 year Old loves it. It's a big part of our neighborhood and community
14217	7/10/2012	I go to the library at least two times a week. I obtain most of my books there, although I buy some too. I also think it is a reflection of equality and community.
14218	7/10/2012	We use the library every week, but emergency services would clearly take precedence for funding.
14219	7/10/2012	Because it's a way for people to access books, movies and music, and reading programs for kids - all of which make for a healthier, happier and better educated public. Not to mention the internet and computer access, public gathering place, and other resources that our community needs
14220	7/10/2012	Reading is the most important skill you can teach young children
14221	7/10/2012	Multnomah County Library is way up there among the top five reasons I live in Portland.
14222	7/10/2012	I have always loved to read, and I know a lot of that was fostered through the public libraries when I was a kid. And...as schools cut back on librarians and other library services, kids need even more outside (non-parent) encouragement to read and to learn on their own. Plus, I remember doing hours of research (even as an elementary student) in the public library. Google cannot be the only way our kids learn to research!
14223	7/10/2012	By reducing investment in our youth and community, we increase our long term commitments to the public.
14224	7/10/2012	Reading and learning is fundamental. A lot of people can't afford to buy books or pay for the services libraries provide.

14225	7/10/2012	I'm not entirely sure what else falls in the category of "local public services" so I reserved "very important". I feel the Libraries are very important but without something specific to relate this opinion to, I choose "somewhat important"
14226	7/10/2012	I appreciate the access to current books. I know that the library is a vital resource for students, jobseekers and the general public. It is a symbol of a literate, educated society. It provides access to information for people who can't afford to buy books, cds, etc. It provides access to WWW for those without computers. Need I go on?
14227	7/10/2012	With access to the internet and other sources of free literature, legal or illegal, library are not as high a priority as some others.
14228	7/10/2012	The library is still the best resource for doing research and leveraging generations upon generations of knowledge.
14229	7/10/2012	because I think they are the type of facility that encourages learning and community members to gather on neutral ground and find and define what they have in common.
14230	7/10/2012	I appreciated at place to bring my children. A place to enrich them and let them socialize that was also free. I loved all the programs and story times.
14231	7/10/2012	The library has been important in my family for generations. It was my inspiration to learn to read before kindergarten. Otherwise, I wasn't allowed to go to the library with my mother.
14232	7/10/2012	right under life safety services, like police and fire. i would rank them even with our parks services. it make a neighborhood a neighborhood.
14233	7/10/2012	It's important to have an open and informed population, and to encourage interaction and discussion with others. Of course people need necessities, but in order to appreciate life, we also need time to learn and explore.
14234	7/10/2012	I think it is crucial that community members have no fee access to books, Internet, and resources that are otherwise costly.
14235	7/10/2012	I don't use the library as often as many other people do, but I do not rank the important of social services based on how often I personally use them.
14236	7/10/2012	Publics libraries serve the vital role of keeping the public informed and educated, regardless of their economic status.
14237	7/10/2012	The library is a place that can be accessed by anyone in the community. Some people can't access these services any other way because they can't afford the. Others who can afford to go to a book store or own their own computer still use the community aspect of the library. For many, it is the most important part of their neighborhood because it is open to all.
14238	7/10/2012	To allow everyone access to books, media ,place for kids to interact.

14239	7/10/2012	A literate population improves many things.[] The library provides a safe and enriching environment for youth as well as adults, and provides a community meeting/gathering place.[] The decline of bookstores and convergence to digital leaves a gap in culture that the library helps to fill, especially by preserving printed materials.[] Sharing materials reduces consumption. (Unclear question, by the way: if you mean, other Mult Co resources, that's one thing; but if you mean all public (city, city, metro, state, fed) services...like, say, water.....well, obviously, I value clean drinking water and a working sewer system more...) []
14240	7/10/2012	I use this [non-essential-to-life] service more than any other. My family relies on the libraries for a better quality of life; for teaching our children/modeling for them how we expect them to be in the world; for community and feeling connected to our neighborhoods; to read more than we could afford to if we had to only get books at Powell's; for programs for young children to improve social relations and beginning literacy; for free materials, flyers, etc., about our community; for the "safety net" of knowing, should I need it, I could use the computers and help myself find a job; as a safe place for our children, when older, to go for homework and after-school pursuits; as an air-conditioned and bathroom-ed destination when faced with the "what to do" doldrums with small kids; as entertainment and education that is friendly, stimulating, peaceful yet engaging and energizing, happy-making, and outrageously important to our well-being. We are so proud of our libraries. Keep 'em!
14241	7/10/2012	Libraries are common spaces open to all. Yes, social services are important, BUT having worked with the homeless community, library services are on the top of their list. Libraries are safe places to go & more importantly give them access to services to help their situation.
14242	7/10/2012	used
14243	7/10/2012	Do not a life or death matter like fire, water, electricity, police, road maintenance, utilities... Much less important than public schools, health codes, and the criminal system. The public library is about as important as community gardens, the public park system, city recreation activities, and parades
14244	7/10/2012	Continual lifelong learning is one of the most important aspects to living a fulfilling life. Libraries provide this service for every single person in our community regardless of socio-economic status.
14245	7/10/2012	Well, when compared to emergency services I'd rather have those funded than books. Books are so accessible now and certainly more affordable, whether through stores or other free services (Project Gutenberg). I check the library first for electronic copies of books, but have yet to be able to borrow one in a timely fashion - I end up going somewhere else. I haven't had kids yet, but when I do - summer reading programs and such will be very important. I remember doing that as a kid! But if it doesn't exist through the library, I'd find something similar within my neighborhood. I guess the libraries feel replaceable. I like them, but don't need them.
14246	7/10/2012	Its a great resource it should stick around for everyone to use.

14247	7/10/2012	I think they bring the community together and offer valuable resources to those who might not otherwise have an alternative way to access the internet, read, etc.
14248	7/10/2012	good for all ages
14249	7/10/2012	Access to books that we cannot afford to buy.
14250	7/10/2012	It is the one I think I use the most Because I was too poor to buy books for a very very long time, and a voracious reader. Libraries feel like home to me.
14251	7/10/2012	They are bind communities together and create a sense of togetherness. They are a cornerstone to strong, safe neighborhoods. The library has always been an important part. It is where the community can feel like they are close to one another and share a common interest, that of learning new things together. That would be one of the saddest things to happen if it were ever to close
14252	7/10/2012	After police and fire type of service, they are top of the list.
14253	7/10/2012	Most other public services benefit my body, while the library benefits my mind. I'm a more informed, engaged citizen of the county thanks to local library services.
14254	7/10/2012
14255	7/10/2012	They are a community equalizer: they provide information and space to everyone, regardless of income.
14256	7/10/2012	I like seeing people read on the bus
14257	7/10/2012	The internet allows you to access data on line and find the information that books used to do. The only thing they have that you don't have on-line is the microfilm of newspapers.
14258	7/10/2012	One of the few places left where information is not necessarily dumbed down
14259	7/10/2012	Free access to learning and literacy resources keeps information (and therefore society) democratic. Access to knowledge should be a right, not a privilege reserved for those who can afford it.
14260	7/10/2012	I use the library for work (I am a job developer for disabled individuals), and as a student (I am a Master Student). I NEED MY LIBRARY!!!!
14261	7/10/2012	Democracy/freedom depends on education and being informed
14262	7/10/2012	Libraries are essentially free knowledge & self-education centers that are available to every single person in the community regardless of age, financial standing, and native language. Absolutely integral to the overall health of a community.
14263	7/10/2012	The library is a resource that has no alternative. Also the fact that it's "free" is important to me. I grew up going to the library often and it's a place my family and I like to go together.
14264	7/10/2012	We need a literate society and I believe libraries contribute to that!
14265	7/10/2012	Libraries are a physical manifestation of our community. Also, I love to read, and would do much less of it if libraries were not available.
14266	7/10/2012	we need something of value to continue for the people to have some semblance of why well work and that taxes are about the peoples choices not a select few.....

14267	7/10/2012	Libraries offer almost unlimited opportunities to help people of all ages. From the youngest infant just learning communication to our senior citizens who can continue to learn and remain active. Books are so important. There are not enough words to describe why this is so.
14268	7/10/2012	The ability to read, and have access to reading material, is fundamental to my professional success and personal satisfaction. Having not had a television in many years, I turn to books for entertainment and edification. Access to a public library makes my life richer and more complex.
14269	7/10/2012	No everyone has access to technology, literature, education, community. Libraries are the hub for this. They give EVERYONE a place to go. When these spaces start to disappear or limit their access we as a city are diminished.
14270	7/10/2012	Not only does the library provide me personally with books and movies that i don't have to pay for, I also see it as a hub of the community, a place for people to connect, to meet, for children to learn, for people without internet access to have internet access, it's a shared public space, it's "our" library, etc,etc..
14271	7/10/2012	Because it is a public service I want to use and am aware of it. I am not as aware of others.
14272	7/10/2012	Libraries serve as centers of education and community. They are meeting places. They are inclusive and non-judgmental public spaces where community members (employees, volunteers, and patrons) can assist one another and strengthen the bonds of community. Libraries are a universal and well-recognized resource for academic, popular, and public information. Many library programs bring art and literature to member of the community who are excluded from other programs - home-bound patrons, patients, inmates. Inclusive access to information increases feelings of empowerment and engagement, which supports the physical, mental, and social health of individuals. Through volunteering, the Multnomah County Library also allows me to give back to my community in a meaningful way.
14273	7/10/2012	They are as important as our schools, roads, and water/sewer systems. They provide access to information, fellowship, and opportunities for growth to all in our communities.
14274	7/10/2012	I always go to the library to do research and studying for school or for personal exploration. I don't have internet at home so I also go to the library to use the internet as well. I am sure a lot of people do the same thing and to cut back on the library services would have a negative effect on everyone who does not have the resources at home such as internet and books. In conclusion, the local library services are of the up most importance to the community and it would be unfortunate to cut back on the library's availability.

14275	7/10/2012	The Library allows me to use resources for a variety of information, historical and current. Unlike the use of the Internet for answers, books and their references serve a legitimacy of time and accuracy the Internet does not afford a user. Research into a problem, situation, event, idea or theory can be done with out fear of inaccuracy, false information or lack of siting for source. There is no substitute for tracing an idea throughout it's historical creation and fruition through research, and that can not be done accurately on the Web. [] Another asset I value is the system itself. My local may not have the book i need, but the System can [] provide it. Having used books from all over the country on this lending system, i cannot stress enough [] how fantastic it is to share and use. [] Another asset: having the current novels and books available. A limited budget does not allow me to purchase new books, or even used. The Library serves me admirably and It's GREEN. [] thanks
14276	7/10/2012	I wouldn't place them above police or fire departments, but they definitely should be considered important - in the top 5 priorities
14277	7/10/2012	Our local libraries are an external classroom for all families!! They help families supplement school education with access to media & reading material. This is SO important for our family, on a daily basis we have books and videos in our home, thanks to our libraries. Everyone can go to Amazon.com but there is no way any Portland family could buy enough to personally own what our library system has on offer. Besides that, the library is a place to go on rainy days & after school and feels like a home away from home.
14278	7/10/2012	The library is very important to me, but I also think a lot of our social services are underfunded.
14279	7/10/2012	free education
14280	7/10/2012	Access to knowledge
14281	7/10/2012	They are a resource above and beyond what each family can provide within the home. They encourage education and literacy.
14282	7/10/2012	I find libraries to be an important resource for learning, for community, for having access to materials that otherwise I wouldn't have access to.
14283	7/10/2012	I frequent the library, and it is a resource for the whole community. I appreciate being able to put books and movies on hold. I am not financially able to buy all of the books I'd like to read, and I also don't feel the need to do so. Reading most books once is enough.
14284	7/10/2012	I rely on the library to find information.
14285	7/10/2012	Literacy is responsible for community strength and growth. Our children love books, and the library has played a huge part in that.

14286	7/10/2012	I am a readaholic. I cannot afford to buy all of the books that I read. The library is extremely important to me and I do vote on it's issues every time. I also expect that in my retirement, it will be even more important to me, so keeping library services for the future is also extremely important.
14287	7/10/2012	Reading and learning are my majof sources of entertainment as a senior citizn living on a fixed income.
14288	7/10/2012	Access to information and the pride of having a terrific library system.
14289	7/10/2012	They allow public access to knowledge -- and entertainment -- for people from every strata of society.
14290	7/10/2012	I love the library and think it is a big part about what makes Portland great. Public safety takes the "very important" category," but I see the library as a part of a well-rounded education system.
14291	7/10/2012	I think the library performs a great public service to people.
14292	7/10/2012	My wife and I use the library each a least once a week. We are both retired professors. I read at least two books a week, and my wife mainly listens to recorded books.
14293	7/10/2012	Free education is extremely important to maintaining a democratic society.
14294	7/10/2012	Educational resources are very important. The only resources I feel are more important are basic ones such as clean water and safety.
14295	7/10/2012	Literacy and education are the key elements to a democratic society. - not police, not fire, not rescue, not paved roads.
14296	7/10/2012	Something I use and depend on very frequently
14297	7/10/2012	Because our education system is not competitive with the rest of the world. So at least people that seek knowledge will be able to have an excess.
14298	7/10/2012	Knowledge and learning are power and life! If we stop learning we become stagnant. Not everyone is able to access intellectual stimulation via other sources (formal education, buying books, on-line references and media), a public "free" source to furthering our learning is essential to furthering our culture and development as people.
14299	7/10/2012	Need the fire department in case the library burns down. Need the police to keep peace. Need the library to people can improve their lives by learning throughout their lives. All other services lower than that, even parks and schools which are next on my list. Roads and sanitation are important, but access to educational materials can make even more of a difference in people's lives.
14300	7/10/2012	As a teacher i utilize the library as part of my job, very important
14301	7/10/2012	I think library services offer exceptional educational opportunities to people of all walks of life, regardless of their income. Since I place a high value on education, library services are very important to me.
14302	7/10/2012	they are part of my daily life. i could never afford to read as many books or see as many movies.
14303	7/10/2012	I love the moment that I can go pick up the holds I have, and have many fond memories of going to the library as a young child, so I would say the library is incredibly important..

14304	7/10/2012	I cherish being able to use the library.
14305	7/10/2012	I think libraries are the best.
14306	7/10/2012	There are other services that are more crucial to basic needs (e.g. emergency police/fire, health care for the needy, food stamps, etc.)
14307	7/10/2012	I do most of my research online and have my own computing resources. I also am now mostly reading electronic books which I buy rather than borrow.
14308	7/10/2012	I read a lot
14309	7/10/2012	Free libraries provide anyone tools to improve their own lives - by educating yourself you can find a new career, save money on home improvement, and learn skills to thrive in this country (i.e. English skills).
14310	7/10/2012	Personally, I love to read, and am on a tight budget. In general, thriving libraries are important to the health of communities.
14311	7/10/2012	we have one of the BEST library systems in any state that i've lived in. it's critical to try and maintain access for all communities.
14312	7/10/2012	They have provided me with limitless knowledge and learning experiences.
14313	7/10/2012	I use them SO often.
14314	7/10/2012	Free access to information
14315	7/10/2012	Education is high on my list of importance and libraries are a big part of public education. And on a personal level, I enjoy reading and would prefer to borrow books (vs. purchasing them).
14316	7/10/2012	Libraries are safe spaces and gathering places for the community, perhaps especially to vulnerable members of our community (children, the elderly, the jobless, etc.). They provide access to knowledge and information for ALL of Portland. In this, they are second only to schools in their importance to our community.
14317	7/10/2012	Reading is essential to my existence.
14318	7/10/2012	A community profits greatly from literature and media.
14319	7/10/2012	I don't use it that often, but I know others do. I think access to information is very important!
14320	7/10/2012	Although, I do not take full advantage of the classes offered I think its very important and useful to others.
14321	7/10/2012	Although I do not use them frequently, I am very appreciate having them their when I need them the most (research, job hunting, quiet study space, wifi).
14322	7/10/2012	I cannot imagine life without free access to the public library
14323	7/10/2012	They serve the community in a way like no other service.
14324	7/10/2012	its very important, but not life sustaining.
14325	7/10/2012	Only things that meet the basic human needs of people qualify as very important in my opinion. Libraries fall into the second most important category to me.
14326	7/10/2012	The library is great but not a necessity in times of need.

14327	7/10/2012	I've used libraries all my life, for a number of reasons that change as my circumstances have changed. It's always my first stop for reliable information on travel, medical issues...and "People" magazine gossip!
14328	7/10/2012	The very idea of a library is sheer genius. If it hadn't existed previously, no one would vote today to spend the funds to create the system. I am a voracious reader. I am encouraging my children to be voracious readers. The most fundamental and basic aspect of education relies on books and a love of reading. I cannot stress enough the importance of the library - the very concept of a library - to anyone and everyone. I get overly emotional just thinking about libraries being threatened or (god forbid) disappearing from our culture.
14329	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read, especially new material. The variety of books and the hold system are necessary to reading the books I want to read. Reading is my # 1 source of entertainment. I live on a fixed income.
14330	7/10/2012	They help me keep out of trouble and keep me on top of my school work while my son listens to their store time with the other kids and daycares
14331	7/10/2012	I think the library provides enhanced quality of life, but is less important than critical basic services like police, fire, basic infrastructure and utilities, etc.
14332	7/10/2012	Public services such as police and fire fighters are of utmost importance because it's a safety issue.[] Library services are not a safety issue so are ranked a little lower. A library is not just a place to check out books, it is also a place to learn and to encourage literacy. An informed citizen is a good citizen.
14333	7/10/2012	A good library system is a cornerstone of a democracy. Libraries help society function and uphold important values. They are also fun! A trip to the library when I was young was the best treat. If my neighborhood was better served by public transportation (I don't drive), I would be visiting our local branches much more often. They also help the environment by providing materials people can borrow instead of buying.
14334	7/10/2012	Free education and quality entertainment for both kids and adults
14335	7/10/2012	Information is critical, and entertaing.
14336	7/10/2012	Not as important as public safety or health but up there on my list!
14337	7/10/2012	Such a good library system...only comparable to New York's.
14338	7/10/2012	books are very important with young readers.
14339	7/10/2012	information and books are valuable part of an abundant and healthy life
14340	7/10/2012	I feel they offer lots of options for stay at home Moms, and others who may not get out of the house much. It gives them a free place to go and gain an education for themselves and their children, no matter how young they are. Same goes for senior citizens.
14341	7/10/2012	We use books daily for research and pleasure.
14342	7/10/2012	Everything libraries stand for is important; education, information, community, fun, etc.

14343	7/10/2012	keeps you engaged intellectually
14344	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of a few key pillars for the community.
14345	7/10/2012	I use the library to stay informed on current information as well as research history. Those are two of my main activities, next to various forms of exercise and family interaction
14346	7/10/2012	I read constantly, and I work across the street from Central Library, which I go to ALL the time, except now not Mondays.
14347	7/10/2012	Not as important as public safety but pretty high
14348	7/10/2012	For those who don't have access to e-readers, I feel access to books and the ability to read what interest you, it extremely important. I am and have also been a very big reader, and I think it's important for the younger generation to have this option. There is more to the world than just video games, TV and movies.
14349	7/10/2012	We live in an information society and all that entails for school, work, and play. Libraries are key nodes of information resources, particularly for youth, elderly, and disadvantaged, but for the whole of society as well.
14350	7/10/2012	Because they have free resources and access to information, both professional and leisure. I used to work at a low-income property (social work) and the n. portland library had a program that brought books to each floor of the apartment building. kids that would never have been brought to the library by any adult in their lives were READING for the first time. it was awesome to see.
14351	7/10/2012	We are nationally known for our libraries. The system works extremely well. Elderly people and shut-ins can order books to be picked up or delivered. The library system keeps us connected as a community. Job seekers can get help. People without internet access can use the system.
14352	7/10/2012	Libraries offer an outlet to people who need to stay current. Whether it is a class, an accessible computer or a helpful employee. The library has always been a constant option for someone who needs consistency within their community. Especially if that consistency does not rain true in their personal life. The library is always there and is always an option... until now.
14353	7/10/2012	Some services are more important and some are less important. I feel lucky that we have public libraries in this country.
14354	7/10/2012	There are few things in the community that bring the community together, and allow for everyone in the community to participate and benefit from its services. The library does all these things.
14355	7/10/2012	Library services are less important than water, garbage, safety buy more important than bike lanes and public loos.
14356	7/10/2012	Reading and the resources provided by the Multnomah County Library system can give opportunities to people that would otherwise go without. I think public libraries can provide the "leg up" to empower individuals to expand their knowledge-base and their opportunities in life. As someone that uses the library daily, this institution is very important to me, but I can only imagine it is that much more important in the lives of those with fewer resources at their disposal.

14357	7/10/2012	Libraries are a center for information gathering, learning, sharing, and being creative. The more access we have as a population to these services and opportunities, the more we are aware of each other, the smarter we become, the more compassionate we become, the better our society and communities become.
14358	7/10/2012	Reading is a huge part of my life, and the library allows me to read voraciously, when I couldn't afford to buy the books. I also love the fact that we are all sharing the books. It keeps our footprint smaller. On a purely selfish level, I'm a reader. I read, constantly. The library, in that regard, is simply an economic issue for me. I love books, and I love the library.[] []
14359	7/10/2012	Beyond that, it's a focal point for the community and allows the community - of varying degrees of ability and socioeconomic status - access to resources that would be very difficult to come by otherwise. Computer access, job resources, local reading programs, the ability to check out Writing A Resume for Dummies, these are all things vital to a community's enrichment. I use the library almost every day. The library, next to computer access, are two of the most important ways to disseminate knowledge and information. I was honestly rather sad to see the new electronic book check out system put into place. I think the human contact with librarians is very important. I really think the library is the heart of a community!
14360	7/10/2012	The library is one of the few places where education and learning can take place with little or no cost to the consumer. Reading opens up a world that, while it can't take the place of personal experience, offers experience, travel, imagination, fun, learning, thinking, etc at a local level, available to anyone.
14361	7/10/2012	Because education and access to it, enrichment, programs that keep people busy who might otherwise do something less productive, books and media, and general resources that allow people to come together and learn are tantamount to our success as an educated society.
14362	7/10/2012	People need to be able to have resources that might not be anywhere else.
14363	7/10/2012	Having free access to books/library service and encouragement of reading for young people is very important to me. Communication is key in our evolution and reading is the catalyst of communication.
14364	7/10/2012	Having economically viable access to resources (written, electronic, etc) for the purpose of educating oneself/others, creating a sense of community and cultural development are paramount to creating a vibrant and successful city.
14365	7/10/2012	it's the library. nuff said.
14366	7/10/2012	our kids love it
14367	7/10/2012	Great resource for books and media (CDs DVDs)
14368	7/10/2012	Information and resources unavailable anywhere else
14369	7/10/2012

14370	7/10/2012	Because they are one of the few public services that I have grown up using and still use as an adult. I can't say that about any other public service. When I was a kid I used to go to the library all of the time and check out lots of books...I would be very disappointed if that service wasn't available to other kids.
14371	7/10/2012	I think that services that provide for our health and safety are the most important, but that education in all forms (schools, libraries) are a close second.
14372	7/10/2012	Considering that I use the library on a weekly (or even more than once a week) basis, I think they're very important. Obviously, not as important as police and fire department, which are vital, but I think the library system we have is WONDERFUL, and it adds to the quality of life in Portland.
14373	7/10/2012	It's actually quite difficult to compare, but I chose "Very Important" because I love the library so much. I just love the ritual of going there to pick up a book (I often place holds on books), to return a finished one, and to just sit and read awhile. I love it when I see lots of people there, because I know we're having a shared experience. I love safe public places for disparate parts of the community to come together.
14374	7/10/2012	Spreads a sense of community and encourages intellectual growth.
14375	7/10/2012	We use the library to enrich the lives of our two boys. We go to storytimes, and through this our toddler has gained a love for books, and also many friends.
14376	7/10/2012	Relatively important to me in that I check out current DVDs to watch now that we dropped our netflix subscription, I can read current and new releases easily via the lucky day selections, and now that I have a baby I enjoy checking out a wide variety of children's books to read with him
14377	7/10/2012	Because my kid loves to read, and I see reading as the gateway to learning about almost anything that interests you.
14378	7/10/2012	I don't have the information necessary to compare the efficiency and level of service that all public services provide so I can't compare.
14379	7/10/2012	Libraries provide an important resource for all members of society -- across the socio-economic spectrum. They provide a central meeting place for programming for both young and old, and access to knowledge to all. They are an especially important service for those who cannot afford a computer, internet or to purchase books on their own, allowing equal access to these critical resources.
14380	7/10/2012	I use the library for my research papers. I check out books monthly to do my reports. I need the library for this resource or else I will not be passing my classes.
14381	7/10/2012	My wife and I use the library a lot. There are books and videos we do not need to own but which are valuable to us and the library allows us to read and see them and then return them to the library for others likewise to read and see them. It provides an important means for the Portland community to collectively husband its resources.
14382	7/10/2012	Access to information is a pillar of a democratic society
14383	7/10/2012	because you didn't mention the names of the other local public services.

14384	7/10/2012	I use the library weekly as a source of information (research via computer) which is very important to me.
14385	7/10/2012	Access to free literature and internet has kept our community, and society at large, thriving. With a lack of these resources the education level will diminish. With a diminishing education level, other social and local public services will likely bear the brunt of an increased demand. Poverty will deepen and knowledge will become a privilege of the wealthy. Thus, I believe that library services are on par in importance with other social and public services.
14386	7/10/2012	i think the free access to literature and media as well as the social programs that the library provides are vital to the cultivation of a free thinking, literate and forward thinking society
14387	7/10/2012	Access for all (regardless of income or lack thereof) to the resources of the library system are essential to a free and educated society.
14388	7/10/2012	Personal use. Community value of all services provided for literate citizens.
14389	7/10/2012	Even if not used daily, I think libraries have a symbolic/cultural importance that is hard to quantify. Personally, having access to pretty much any book on the planet, in a week or two, allows me to be much more minimal in possessions, which is important to me.
14390	7/10/2012	Library service is not essential such as safety and health.
14391	7/10/2012	In order for all students or anyone needed access to information (especially those without internet access) it is imperative we keep our libraries open and have current information available to all.
14392	7/10/2012	Libraries are crucial for providing equal access to information, and their high use (like here in Multnomah County) is the sign of an educated society.
14393	7/10/2012	To be well read and educated on the resource that are available
14394	7/10/2012	Because all can have access to books and computer services. Knowledge is your super power.
14395	7/10/2012	I think they are an integral part of a healthy and well educated society.
14396	7/10/2012	The libraries are central to community development and improvement
14397	7/10/2012	it's extremely important that everyone in the community have access to knowledge: newspapers, books, internet
14398	7/10/2012	It is a great resource for me.
14399	7/10/2012	I feel infrastructure and safety are top priorities.
14400	7/10/2012	I love the library so much I have library cards in three counties. They are a valuable resource for me as a teacher, and something I like to encourage my students to use. I can't imagine life without the library.
14401	7/10/2012	I use the library a lot, all of my life! It's a great resource to get current books for "free". I read 2-3 books a month.
14402	7/10/2012	Only an educated society has any hope of persisting let alone prospering.
14403	7/10/2012	This question is impossible to answer without more specifics. WHAT other local public services are you talking about??? ALL of them? National, state, local, school?

14404	7/10/2012	It is important for people to be well educated and it is especially important for children to be exposed to literacy at a young age.
14405	7/10/2012	I don't use library for that
14406	7/10/2012	Knowledge!
14407	7/10/2012	I like the service they provide to the community.
14408	7/10/2012	I need the wide range of books and media they provide that I wouldn't otherwise buy for myself.
14409	7/10/2012	I feel libraries are important assets for the community, but I also recognize basic services like sewer and water or public safety are more vital.
14410	7/10/2012	Every week I check out an armful of books to read that week.
14411	7/10/2012	I think everyone should have access to books and resource material. An educated informed public is important to me. Books provide a means to self-education and entertainment.
14412	7/10/2012	They have the ability to level the playing field for job seekers and general knowledge seekers. You eliminate economic status as a factor with a strong public library.
14413	7/10/2012	Access to life resources
14414	7/10/2012	I'd say that of all the public services available to me, the library is my #1.
14415	7/10/2012	Police, fire, schools, and infrastructure maintenance are of higher importance.
14416	7/10/2012	Libraries are a core component to communities. Both as a place to gather, meet, and learn with others, but also a level playing field for access to information, whether in the form of news, computer access, databases, CDs, movies, or books. Libraries are a huge responsibility of the public to maintain for a smart and intelligent population. Libraries provide such a huge range of services to a huge population across many socio-economic levels. I love the library, and grew up visiting libraries and utilizing many services they offer. It would be a huge detriment if the libraries role were diminished in any way.
14417	7/10/2012	Because they are information disseminating sources.
14418	7/10/2012	Invaluable...
14419	7/10/2012	It's the only way I can read books!
14420	7/10/2012	The library was a critical part of my childhood/youth and is now important in my adulthood. I am expecting a baby in October and look forward to introducing my child to the joys of the library. The library promotes so many wonderful things - literacy, community, responsibility, etc.
14421	7/10/2012	I have children and education/learning/reading are very important to us. I'm a writer who depends on the library for research, not just pleasure. I have volunteered in libraries and hold a degree in Library Science -- it's kinda my thing. I think the library is the most important public institution we have in our community, because it's a shared public space devoted to learning and knowledge for everyone. That's an extremely rare thing these days.
14422	7/10/2012
14423	7/10/2012	For the kids
14424	7/10/2012	I like having access to the library, but issues involving safety are much more important.

14425	7/10/2012	we love to read and read a lot individually and as a family. The bounty of free literature and resources is a wonderful thing.
14426	7/10/2012	All citizens need access to information if the city is going to work. Using other resources effectivly requires and informed population.
14427	7/10/2012	We use the library every week instead of buying books, because it seems wasteful to have a shelf full of books at home that you only read once. It's a great opportunity to read whatever you want! And less wasteful.
14428	7/10/2012	Education resources elevates everyone's culture and tolerance in this modern day stress.
14429	7/10/2012	Good place for youth to go, and people who cannot afford home computers
14430	7/10/2012	Free and fair access to information is the cornerstone of not only democracy, but civilization itself.
14431	7/10/2012	It is most important to our family because we use the library the most, more than any other serivces. We enjoy parks and recreations but it rains so much in Oreogn so we use the library year around for enjoyment and entertainment
14432	7/10/2012	I am a teacher. I have used the library for research materials and for sets of books that my schools could otherwise not have afforded. Not having an extensive library in some charter schools where I have worked, we would make weekly trips to the library so that the kids could check out books of interest, do genre studies, or research. Also, rather than accumulating more "stuff" in my house, I've reached a point where I'd rather enjoy a book and then return it to the library for others to use, rather than have it clutter my home.
14433	7/10/2012	On a scale of 1-10. 10 being a place to stay and food to eat. 1 being something trivial, that wasn't needed. I would say a 5. I could live without it sure, but having the library in the community is such a big selling point for me and my wife. It's one of those things that greatly improves the quality of life for us as we're big readers.
14434	7/10/2012	Very, very high. I use the library more than any other local public service. I would only put public education above library services in order of importance.
14435	7/10/2012	public health would be more important. police and fire keep me alive in time of need. the library helps me grow, but the essential services are more important. that's not terribly philosophical, but it's reality.
14436	7/10/2012	knowledge is power
14437	7/10/2012	Libraries, along with schools and museums, are the foundation of literacy and knowledge in our society.

		What are we comparing them to? Fire fighting? That's vital when your (or your neighbor's) house is burning. Schools? Far and away the most consistently important public service, in my mind. Safety? Of course important, especially when effective and fair.[]
14438	7/10/2012	Libraries are terrific places because they represent discovery and possibility - for so many people, across so many groups, classifications or backgrounds. I think the biggest competition will come from increasingly digital publishing. Keeping libraries robust physical places people from all parts of society will continue to use with vigor and pleasure is a key piece to keeping our communities actual communities. I would like to see digital publishers recognize public libraries as partners, not sources of revenue. I would like to see that happen on a local and national scale.
14439	7/10/2012	i love to read
14440	7/10/2012	I'm a freelance writer and the library provides me with a wealth of research materials for my work. Also, I love to read.
14441	7/10/2012	I think they're a great resource for the community. Not only do they broaden education, but they offer so many services to so many different areas of the community.
14442	7/10/2012	As someone with a limited budget, the library is a major source of my entertainment with book and DVDs to check out.
14443	7/10/2012	Highly important! We use materials from our local library in our homeschooling curriculum.
14444	7/10/2012	It is most applicable for me. A middle class, working adult who is reads and consumes a lot of media but doesn't want to always purchase books, etc. I don't use a lot of other public services.
14445	7/10/2012	Less important than things like the Fire Department and schools.
14446	7/10/2012	Without knowledge and education, it is impossible for social mobility to exist.
14447	7/10/2012	Important to have access to reading materials for family.
14448	7/10/2012	They are a crucial part of our educational system.
14449	7/10/2012	I think everyone should have access to information through books, videos, media, and computers.
14450	7/10/2012	Libraries are for borrowing books and for providing a silent place to read or study. Thats all.
14451	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books I want to read and all the movies I want to see. Although I read a lot of books and see a lot of movies, there are very few that I want to keep in my house forever.
14452	7/10/2012	The library provides access to information and resources to the most marginalized segments of our society. It serves a critical role in integrating our community.
14453	7/10/2012	Access to books for all. It is also becoming very important as a source for downloaded books on iPad and kindle.
14454	7/10/2012	Libraries are so vital to the life and learning of the community as they offer services across all age groups, races, etc.
14455	7/10/2012	Important to children's education

14456	7/10/2012	the library is part of my life and has been ever since i can remember. i'm 59, not that old but not that young either. everyone i know goes to the library, it's part of our lifestyle, our fabric. i guess i take it for granted, the library will always be there, meeting my needs.
14457	7/10/2012	public health and safety services are more important, but a community without a thriving library system is failing
14458	7/10/2012	An educated population is more equipped to handle the problems that other public services curent;y handle. It is an investment in our future.
14459	7/10/2012	Access to books, especially for underprivileged kids (of which there are many in the Kenton neighborhood) and lower-income adults, has the ability to change lives.
14460	7/10/2012	It's very important; We are a family on a budget and the Library offers something for each of us. No matter what I want to learn about, the Library usually has a book on it. My husband loves movies and we always take the kid there to get him engaged in reading and entertainment.
14461	7/10/2012	There are other sources available to me for the library services that I use
14462	7/10/2012	It's very important to have a reading, informed public. Nobody should lack access to literature, newspapers and internet.
14463	7/10/2012	Many people do not have access to books any other way. Reading is extremely important for anyone trying to learn or better themselves. Not to mention the computers that the libraries offer where someone could look for work and learn about skill or training. They are a great source of community and intelligence, a wonderful place for children to start their education and continue it while studying throughout their educational years. I'm someone who went to the library and met friends there through all my school years and I feel it was a great resource in many ways. Thank you for this.
14464	7/10/2012	Because all areas of public services are very important, and they are a public service.
14465	7/10/2012	This is the only public service that I use on regular (weekly) basis. Personal bias aside, education and literacy are an integral part of a successful community/economy.
14466	7/10/2012	For one thing, having access to libraries, and in particular, librarians, helps people learn about resources beyond the library. For instance, someone wanting to start a small business may go to the library, and through books, publications, the Internet, or most importantly, speaking to a librarian, may learn about the SBA and other governmental or non-profit resources available to help them with their business plan or funding.[] [] Also, we need to be able to read to learn more about ourselves, learn about others, learn in general, and relax!
14467	7/10/2012	I believe there are students that depend heavily on the resources that libraries provide, and students are our future. If a student can't afford a computer or access to specific books they need for school, the library fills that need.

14468	7/10/2012	Many users of the library would lack access to crucial means of education, and many patrons might occupy themselves in less desirable ways. Libraries kindle and keep dreams alive, spark new interests, help make all manner of projects happen, and foster community. What exactly is the purpose of this survey? I can't tell...[] [] Why don't you have a comments section at the end of the survey for comments indirectly related to specific survey questions? For example, I was at the Central Library yesterday and there was no computer available to use the library catalog. All computers were dedicated to internet access except two which were in use. I had to walk to another part of the library to use the library catalog. That's ridiculous. When I said something to the librarian, she totally sympathized. As much as I love the library, I resent the majority of computers being used to provide free internet access. Somehow the priorities have gone awry.[] [] Rather than making the survey questions so specific, why aren't you asking people what works and what doesn't? Isn't that what matters? Library funding is exceptionally good in the Portland area. Having the libraries closed one day/week is no big deal.
14469	7/10/2012	Libraries, in addition to making reading materials available for all ages, have the facility and ability to provide other community services including various types of classes and social activities for children and seniors, i.e., crafts, computer skills, enhanced reading and language skills. These programs do not need highly certified professionals to provide "teaching" or guidance to persons interested in learning, but rather talented volunteers. These services could be delivered for a very low cost without any additional overhead expense. They would expand the library's benefit to the community.
14470	7/10/2012	Libraries, in addition to making reading materials available for all ages, have the facility and ability to provide other community services including various types of classes and social activities for children and seniors, i.e., crafts, computer skills, enhanced reading and language skills. These services could be delivered for a very low cost without any additional overhead expense. They would expand the library's benefit to the community.
14471	7/10/2012	I really value being able to go and get materials I'm looking for
14472	7/10/2012	education and literacy are paramount to a healthy society
14473	7/10/2012	For me it's about picking up books I request from the system. That's what I use Albina for - picking up books, returning them, and occasionally using the computer.
14474	7/10/2012	I use the library often and would use it more often if I did not have internet access at home.
14475	7/10/2012	we need a well read, informed society
14476	7/10/2012	I feel that this is a place that offers people the ability to require knowledge.
14477	7/10/2012	It helps build community.
14478	7/10/2012	Access to literature and reading resources is of the utmost importance to any civilized society
14479	7/10/2012	Access to library materials for every citizen is a cornerstone of a functioning democracy. Giving the community the resources to read, to research, to learn, to keep informed - it's a basic premise of a functioning electorate and community.
14480	7/10/2012	the library is my main information and reading source.

14481	7/10/2012	I've always been an avid reader.[] []
14482	7/10/2012	Access to resources for low-income individuals Fire, police, water & sewage rate higher for daily living.
14483	7/10/2012	Because it is a great resource on so many different levels. Studying there as an adult is great. Checking out library books is great especially in this economy because we dont have to buy them and it is another way to stay green. I group up using the library and I share that experience with my kids.
14484	7/10/2012	I love reading and I don't have the money to spend on buying them and the library lets me choose from a variety of books and lets me get how much books I want.
14485	7/10/2012	Throughout history it has been instrumental in providing all citizens with access to information
14486	7/10/2012	Because they help inform and entertain while providing basic services like internet access that many people do not have at home.
14487	7/10/2012	For me, I simply enjoy borrowing books and reading as much as possible. But I also like to see that people who cannot afford their own internet access are able to use libraries. I like to see students of all ages have a place to study. I like to know that there is a community place where people who need services can go and ask questions. Everyone knows where their library is, even if they do not know where other places are...there are forms for public services in most libraries or they can be gotten from the internet. Children benefit from having reading groups and the elderly benefit from having book delivery. To me, a library is the hub of the community where ideas and learning are passed around--for free.
14488	7/10/2012	Libraries are the backbone of a civil and free society. Free access to information is almost a basic human right for me.
14489	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to books and computers that I could not afford otherwise.
14490	7/10/2012	Because the libraries serve all of us. Schools serve parents with children, roads serve those who commute.[] Education and reading is life-long and rises above practical values to truly support and nurture the most important dimensions of life. That it can offer this as a free public service is, like our national parks, one of the few remaining redeeming facets of American society.
14491	7/10/2012	Libraries = real democracy because access to information is key to any attempt to equalize access to anything else.
14492	7/10/2012	I value learning; and I believe all people should have access to the sort of information and cultural goods that free public libraries make available. Making further cuts to the library system is a step toward the decline and fall of civilization in America. Let's not go down that road, but instead fund our libraries adequately!

14493	7/10/2012	Education is the highest priority in any community. By educating ourselves and our neighbors we are better able to understand and get along in the world around us. I cannot afford to buy 10 new CDs every week, and a new book every 2 weeks. With the public library I am able to continue my education and learn about any topic that strikes my interest. When books are free and easily accessible, I read constantly.
14494	7/10/2012	I began reading at age 4. My five children were all early readers as were my grandchildren and now the great grandchildren. Because I took them to the library and bought them books and read to them this has been passed down in our family. The ability to read is of utmost importance, especially for the middle class and lower class. It is also a wonderful way to dream big dreams and escape what may, at the time, look like a hopeless way of life.
14495	7/10/2012	an educated and well-informed public that has access to information and librarians who can guide visitors to good information is what makes a strong democracy. we need strong libraries in our communities!
14496	7/10/2012	While not as immediately critical to everyday life as police or fire protection, libraries offer important educational/enrichment opportunities to a broad spectrum of people in our community. And in the long-term, having a better educated population benefits us all. It may even positively impact (reduce) our need for some social services.
14497	7/10/2012	I have children who love to get to the library weekly and get a new book. But more importantly having such an active library in the community proves to our children that learning is extremely important not just to them but to the community as a whole.
14498	7/10/2012	N/A
14499	7/10/2012	We visit the library weekly to get books and other forms of media. It is the key way we continue to be active readers in our home. We love our library!
14500	7/10/2012	its the thing i use the most
14501	7/10/2012	Somewhat
14502	7/10/2012	The public library provides valuable services that affect many different populations across the entire metro area.
14503	7/10/2012	Emergency services are more important, but libraries are extremely valuable to the community.
14504	7/10/2012	They provide resources for everyone.
14505	7/10/2012	I use their services constantly
14506	7/10/2012	We are not using much of other public services.
14507	7/10/2012	Most important are fire, police, humanity and emergency services. Then comes education. Because the library holds a plethora of knowledge. It is a source for personal growth, for exploration, for finding one's way in life. They are quiet temples in the business of a city. It also provides people with access to information and computers that is very necessary.
14508	7/10/2012
14509	7/10/2012	I grew up spending lots of time in libraries - reading/learning is very important to me!

14510	7/10/2012	It's a place my whole family, all ages, can enjoy together. In my neighborhood in particular, it is one of the few places for family-friendly leisure activities. It's also an important community gathering space.
14511	7/10/2012	I like having an easy and cheap way to get popular reading materials!
14512	7/10/2012	Free access to information that I couldn't otherwise purchase is very important to me.
14513	7/10/2012	I really feel that Library's provide a sense of community to the neighborhood. Its a wonderful resource that should be enjoyed by all, I really feel sorry for people who do not live near a library branch.
14514	7/10/2012	It's my contact with the outside world!
14515	7/10/2012	Libraries are the single most valuable resources to travelers and/or people new to a city. They provide and assist with information on everything from finding food & jobs to locations and homes.
14516	7/10/2012	The public library is a treasure chest and an avenue of potential interaction among local citizens.
14517	7/10/2012	Because, as a computer nerd, the world is changing, so that information normally found only in libraries can be found easily on the Internet. This is changing the whole culture of going to the Library to study.
14518	7/10/2012	I'm a teacher and the library makes it possible for me to teach what I teach. I could never afford to purchase all of the books I use throughout the school year.
14519	7/10/2012	We have enough dumb people out there . This at least gives them a chance . We all need to keep learning
14520	7/10/2012	i place fire fighters and police in the very important category, followed by libraries. in hard times libraries can operate on a six day a week schedule, but firefighters and police cannot. having said that, i don't think libraries should be cut beyond that ever and i do not want to live in a community that doesn't value its libraries.
14521	7/10/2012	because libraries mean education.
14522	7/10/2012	Because it gives underprivileged people access to a lot of information that the middle class can pay for. But his benefits everyone.
14523	7/10/2012	Provide an important place for the community to gather, and provides access to knowledge for free to everyone.
14524	7/10/2012	Access to information (regardless of demographic) is an important service for society
14525	7/10/2012	It saves money. It gives me access to things I wouldn't otherwise have access to. It is a community-oriented activity. I see and interact with people I otherwise wouldn't.
14526	7/10/2012	Ability to access books is great but would like more online books.
14527	7/10/2012	We use them, they're free for everyone. It's a positive place.
14528	7/10/2012	Personally, I like being able to read books without having to buy them. On a community level, giving access to technology and educational resources to people who might not be able to access them otherwise is a critical social service.
14529	7/10/2012	I think the library plays an integral role in our community.

14530	7/10/2012	A friendly place for members of the community to learn to love learning and reading.
14531	7/10/2012	Because libraries give any and all the resources to make changes in their own lives. Not everyone has the privilege of a home computer, personal internet, ready access to buy from Amazon or Powells. Information is power and the libraries make it available to everyone.
14532	7/10/2012	We live in a low-income area. Without our local library, kids (and adults) wouldn't have easy access to books and computers.
14533	7/10/2012	Library resources are critical for educational, social and cultural development and sustenance
14534	7/10/2012	I need convenient, easy access to both pleasure and reference books at no cost.
14535	7/10/2012	Parks and libraries are big priorities for me.
14536	7/10/2012	Libraries promote reading, writing, literacy and education in general. Educated citizens are our cities' greatest assets.
14537	7/10/2012	I believe everyone should have access to information and that is what libraries provide.
14538	7/10/2012	I have the resources to obtain what I need without the library for others it's more important to have the library. Therefore to me it's somewhat important because I understand other's are in need of what the library offers.
14539	7/10/2012	Local libraries are super important.
14540	7/10/2012	Everyone deserves access to information.
14541	7/10/2012	Because the library takes picks up the slack for our children as PPS libraries are lacking, if even existing in some of our lower economic neighborhoods. I need information to support my research goals.[]
14542	7/10/2012	[] I want to live in a well-educated, literate society.
14543	7/10/2012	literacy (and availability) are required for true democracy. Because to me, education means alot. When I have children, they will be going to the library alot because that is where I learned most of the things my drunken dad couldn't teach me adn i am incredibly successful. These libraries are very important to our communities and some of us rely in the more than others, but doing this is like shutting it down. Dont do it.
14544	7/10/2012
14545	7/10/2012	I read a lot and the price of books is prohibitive
14546	7/10/2012	knowledge is power
14547	7/10/2012	I am a strong supporter of the library system.
14548	7/10/2012	Important source of reading material
14549	7/10/2012	Extremely important. Having the Albina library near was a decision in my home-buying. It's also one of the first things I tell people who are new to the area.
14550	7/10/2012	Libraries were key to my growth as a child. I grew up very poor, but I read constantly and that saved my young mind.
14551	7/10/2012	Free access to information is the definition of a dmocracy
14552	7/10/2012	I utilize a closer non-Multnomah county library weekly. I love what it provides to the community.

14553	7/10/2012	Because they are one of the only things fighting literacy in this country, and they are the last entity to provide free services to knowledge-seekers.
14554	7/10/2012	I am a librarian. (Not in the public libraries, but still, I'm biased.)
14555	7/10/2012	Because it is a resource that is open to everyone and allows people to be creative and have the resources to find the information they are looking for.
14556	7/10/2012	We are already cutting education. An educated society is a healthier society, a safer society, and a wealthier society. If we prioritize education and the access to life-long learning, we will all benefit in the long run. Additionally, it is clear that Benjamin Franklin, at least, felt that a public library was instrumental to the good of society.
14557	7/10/2012	Some library resources are duplicated in other places but others are unique. Also, without libraries some people would be entirely cut off from access to basic resources and information. Everyone needs to have basic access to certain resources and when they don't everyone will be effected directly or indirectly.
14558	7/10/2012	I'm a big reader and all my books come from the library, i.e., I don't spend money buying books. I think it is very important to have access to books regardless of ones income. On the other hand, there are other very important public services for the county - crime prevention, roads etc. And there are many unmet needs among the poor that probably rank above the needs of the library. □ I think further cutbacks in days & hours are the best way to deal with the budget shortages. People don't need access to libraries every day of the week. They can adjust their schedules to find a time to go to the library. It's a little inconvenient but we can do it. I don't think we should increase property taxes in this economic environment. There are too many low and middle income homeowners (and renters in that they end up absorbing the property tax increases too) that are struggling to pay their property taxes already.
14559	7/10/2012	The library provides means of education and entertainment. It also helps people find jobs, among other things. These services, and the benefits receive from them, help keep people away from harmful activities, such as violence, drugs, etc... that cost the tax payers more money. Knowledge is power and a means to put fort efforts into more "productive" pursuits.
14560	7/10/2012	I think a library is central to a community.
14561	7/10/2012	I appreciate having the health and safety services such as fire, police, water, water, sewer, etc however in my life I utilize the library as an optional service more than any other optional service such as parks and recreation locations.
14562	7/10/2012	Libraries are fantastic resources, reading is important. I want real books, not ebooks even though I am tech savvy. It's important to be up to date on current book selections and I love the library!
14563	7/10/2012	When I go in to pick up something, I see how many people use the library.
14564	7/10/2012	They are free resources to the majority who cannot afford to pay otherwise.
14565	7/10/2012	Because I pay taxes for this service I feel that I should be able to use it. I use this public service more than others.

14566	7/10/2012	Because of the access you have with the people working there. They are very knowledgeable and can help out with most things
14567	7/10/2012	I use the online resources weekly, and it's the best way to get access to research and kindle books.
14568	7/10/2012	Because I rely on the libraries for affordable (free) resources- the amount of reading I do, it is so wonderful to have a free place to find books I love and am looking forward to reading. And when I have children, I am looking forward to bringing them to our local branch for reading groups, etc...
14569	7/10/2012	I love to read, and always have, and libraries made a huge amount of reading material available to me that I would not have otherwise had access to. A library is a portal to information access, and the assistance and curation that libraries and librarians provide only becomes more true as information becomes more varied and difficult to search and understand and at the same time more vital to our daily social functioning and decisionmaking.
14570	7/10/2012	I am an avid reader and music lover. I love the feeling of visiting my library. As a child I checked out stacks of books and read constantly. I would be a different person had I not had the access to so much through my public library -- less curious and compassionate.
14571	7/10/2012	Great source for learning materials. It is also a center for our community. I meet other families and find community notices.
14572	7/10/2012	Reading, education and job services are vital, especially in lower income areas such as North Portland. The library supplements where schools and family cannot.
14573	7/10/2012	I'm a student and a voracious reader. I can't afford to buy every book I want to read. If I get it from the library and I fall in love with the book, then I purchase it to add to my permanent collection. I usually have at least 6 books checked out at any given time. The library is one of the top resources in my life.
14574	7/10/2012	Resourceful in many ways
14575	7/10/2012	There are public services that I believe are of more importance such as "public works" (water, sewage, traffic control, etc.), yet access to books and educational resources are arguably the next step below the aforementioned services that are crucial for societal function.
14576	7/10/2012	free access to books, media, and computers is important!
14577	7/10/2012	Libraries help to build strong communities. They build literacy in children at young ages and help them to be school-ready by the time kindergarten arrives.
14578	7/10/2012	I'm an eager lifelong learner, and library is a prime source for learning materials.
14579	7/10/2012	They are a great resource for the community and something that makes Portland special...
14580	7/10/2012	Utilities and roads are infrastructure but I spent hours as a teenager in the library several times a week, reading and writing, and libraries provide a gathering space, a refuge, and access to knowledge and research.
14581	7/10/2012	Water, roads, public safety, and schools are of higher importance. Libraries are quite important, but not at that same critical level.

14582	7/10/2012	i still think that a library can serve as one a hub for our local communities. On the other hand, i do not believe in continuing to load up the already very high property taxes with library related subsidies.
14583	7/10/2012	Because I use the library and I think it's important in the overall scheme of things for people not to purchase everything-books, cd's, divd's-and store them. That they circulate through many hands is a much more sensible ways of living. Why cut the funding to libraries and fire depts, and transportation-things that matter?
14584	7/10/2012	I have been using the Capitol Hill branch since I was 5 years old. I will be 33 next month. The library helped me learn to read and has kept books an important part of my life to this day. Literacy is one of the human race's greatest gifts. I cherish that gift throughout the day, everyday. I want the community to continue to have access to our library system for enjoyment and enrichment.
14585	7/10/2012	Can't consider them "essential" in comparison with other public services
14586	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a crucial community base where people can access important information, share and build literacy with young and old, and improve the quality of life for everyone regardless of socioeconomic status or family situation. We depend on the library for education and entertainment for our family. Now that we have a child, we've come to love the programs for wee ones.
14587	7/10/2012	For people who can't afford higher education, or internet in their home, a local library is very important. For me though, it's just because I love the library. It's a wonderful place and the best way to affordably explore new books.
14588	7/10/2012	Libraries are important, but compared to police, fire, and other vital services, I'd rank them lower. The library provides a valuable service to all parts of our community from young to old. It provides a place where all are welcome, learning resources are available and information is free to all.
14589	7/10/2012	□ The library is an investment in our present and our future.
14590	7/10/2012	Free access to knowledge is key to the community.
14591	7/10/2012	Because it is a resource for everyone to use. Seeing the kids, older folks and people looking for work using the library is important
14592	7/10/2012	I have visited the library all my life. It is a vital source of entertainment and learning for me. I would be lost without it!
14593	7/10/2012	I use it a lot but I believe there are other service that are more vital to the community.
14594	7/10/2012	because other forms of entertainment are too costly (can't afford newspaper subscription, cable or internet subscription, can't afford magazine subscriptions, and without libraries we are as mushrooms under the rocks-

14595	7/10/2012	People must be encouraged to learn and grow, and the libraries are one of the key tools for self-motivated seekers of learning. I grew up in east Tennessee. My mother had a 7th-grade education, raised on a farm by illiterate parents; my father was the high-school educated son of a semi-literate mill worker and preacher. An excellent public school system and the indispensable public library in my hometown were the two key resources that led me to college, travel, and a broad view of reality.
14596	7/10/2012	I need the access to research funders for my non-profits! It's important to my job as well as my volunteer work. Couldn't do it without the library!
14597	7/10/2012	I have the means to purchase what I want so I don't have to worry about returning it at a specific time.
14598	7/10/2012	Having an excellent library system helps to educate the general population who may not have access to formal educational opportunities, provides access to information for folks who may otherwise have huge barriers to accessing information, and helps to instill a love of learning and reading in all people, young and old and in between.
14599	7/10/2012	The library is important to me in the sense that I use it frequently and it allows me access to literature.
14600	7/10/2012	while they don't rank quite as high as public protection (police, fire) they are a huge resource for all people in the community to learn and have access to information - that's a tremendous public need and there are no financial or cultural restrictions in our public libraries
14601	7/10/2012	Libraries are a huge resource for people whether it be for jobs, reading, English, computer access.
14602	7/10/2012	Reading is one of my top leisure activities. Having the resources to help me decide what to read is an ancillary benefit of the library.
14603	7/10/2012	Because I am a reader and a teacher, and I depend on the wealth of material available to me through the public library.
14604	7/10/2012	I think that libraries are critical in providing equity in our society. Libraries make resources and information available to all.
14605	7/10/2012	People need access to reading material
14606	7/10/2012	With the current services, including computer access, etc, the library is one of the few places that span all cultural and economic boundaries in serving the community.[] [] Also, it would cost a fortune to buy all the information available in library books
14607	7/10/2012	In this time of economic hardship and surplus of highly educated and underemployed people (of which I am one), the library makes it possible for me to have a continued sense of culture. I can't afford to travel, take classes, or find particularly challenging work but the library makes books, films, graphic novels, etc. available to me and gives me a better and more excited sense of the world. I'm very grateful for that.
14608	7/10/2012	I use the library constantly. I love the library. Literacy is extremely important.

14609	7/10/2012	Because they help educate with minimal cost (taxes). I prefer not wasting paper and space by renting books. And for free no-less!
14610	7/10/2012	I use them frequently and it's a point of civic pride to have an excellent library
14611	7/10/2012	Because reading helps keep a community vibrant. Additionally libraries are a way that those who are less privledged can improve themselves.
14612	7/10/2012	Education is the foundation of any great nation.
14613	7/10/2012	Because it helps to educate and gives people of all ages something to do
14614	7/10/2012	Libraries are really important to a strong, vibrant community, but services to seniors and children, and public safety, are slightly more important.
14615	7/10/2012	Using the library regularly makes me feel connected to my community
14616	7/10/2012	I am a home-schooling mom so the services and materials that the library provides are of utmost importance to me and my family.
14617	7/10/2012	anyone & everyone has access to book & computers on a dailey basic. knowledge is power.[] free entertainment. everyone can find something to do or enjoy at asges.
14618	7/10/2012	Research and culture bonuses.
14619	7/10/2012	My children devour books and we would never be able to afford buying them all. Without the library we'd be doing a lot less reading and I suspect that means a lot more screen time. Also, my children have learned that the books are a community resource, that they must be treated with respect because they aren't ours.
14620	7/10/2012	I'm a fast reader. As a kid during summer, I would check out 10-12 books every two weeks and read most of them. There is no way my family or I could have afforded to support my reading habit without the library. I'm sure I owe a gooc deal of my vocabulary and critical thinking skills to that book intake. Free public libraries are an integral part of how our society should function, knowledge should not be withheld from anyone on the basis of cost.
14621	7/10/2012	They provide quiet places to read, internet access for people who can't afford home internet and/or computers, and access to reading/educational material for those who can't afford it. The programs for kids are also important since they encourage kids to read, learn, and be creative.
14622	7/10/2012	Access to information, ideas, and culture are vital to a well-informed, thoughtful society.
14623	7/10/2012	The library is a great source of information. Our local system has kept up with the times with computer access, online movies, CDs and DVDs. Knowledge is the great equalizer in our society.
14624	7/10/2012	They reach all ages of the community on many levels.
14625	7/10/2012	high priority
14626	7/10/2012	Besides roads and water, it's probably the public service I used the most.
14627	7/10/2012	Because libraries provide education to the people - all people - and that is the only thing that will help advance our society.
14628	7/10/2012	books and knowledge should always be free for all
14629	7/10/2012	Because public libraries are keys to public education.

14630	7/10/2012	What other local services - Police? Fire? Less important than those. Watering the lawn in local parks? Way more important than that.
14631	7/10/2012	Libraries provide equal access to information to people across all socioeconomic backgrounds. Information access leads to the betterment of society as a whole.
14632	7/10/2012	Without libraries ignorance will increase.
14633	7/10/2012	I am a big reader. I can afford to buy plenty of books but I am trying to declutter my house, not bring in more. Although I am NOT reliant on other library services, they are important for the community as a whole, especially for children getting into reading at a young age and those who would not otherwise have access to reading materials, computers, etc.
14634	7/10/2012	Books / reading / learning are all critical to the community.
14635	7/10/2012	People need access to information, if they have internet or not. Families need a place to teach their families the importance of reading.
14636	7/10/2012	The only need we have is to occasionally check out books. If we could checkout e-books from a wider selection and inventory, we'd have literally no need to visit the local library. Most everything else we need that the library offers, we can find online on our own.
14637	7/10/2012	I believe the library is extremely important not only because of lending books and media, but because of the resources offered to the community. The library helps people of all ages in a plethora of ways. To lose or downsource this immensely important institution would degrade our community.
14638	7/10/2012	Education, entertainment, resources.
14639	7/10/2012	Lead to an educated populace
14640	7/10/2012	Libraries are the depositories of our collective intelligence. They represent the best of us.
14641	7/10/2012	Because an educated, literate public makes better decisions than an ignorant one
14642	7/10/2012	Library is not partisan. Library serves all ages, backgrounds, etc.
14643	7/10/2012	To have an educated, literate society
14644	7/10/2012	very helpful
14645	7/10/2012	They provide useful information and tools at times when people need them.
14646	7/10/2012	The library, accessible knowledge, is fundamental to learning. And learning never ends.
14647	7/10/2012	I think everyone should have free access to a wide variety of cultural and educational material.
14648	7/10/2012	Source for information & materials
14649	7/10/2012	The local library's services not only encourage literacy & learning but it provides a central gathering place for the community
14650	7/10/2012	As a professor, avid reader, and a parent, I use the library's resources frequently. I also believe in the unique and extraordinary benefits libraries offer to their surrounding communities. Libraries are a crucial part of creating essential community spaces and connections.
14651	7/10/2012	I love the service and access the libraries provide
14652	7/10/2012	I use the library religiously and would not be as well read as I am without it.

14653	7/10/2012	reading = education = more opportunity for all, better economy, better society
14654	7/10/2012	Reading is one of the best treasures of life. Getting books from the library is free.
14655	7/10/2012	Personal and community use.
14656	7/10/2012	I use the library weekly for personal and professional use making it very important to me. I would like to see it open seven days a week again.
14657	7/10/2012	I use the library every week for books I want to read. Seems a bit simplistic, but it is what is is (as they say).
14658	7/10/2012	I've used the local library since I was a young child - although not here in Oregon all of that time. There are resources available that I wouldn't have access to otherwise. I think that it's important to teach people that the library is there as an invaluable resource.
14659	7/10/2012	Libraries are a fundamental necessity in society
14660	7/10/2012	Libraries provide a means of self-education for everyone. They make information available to all regardless of income. An educated populace is in everyone's best interest.
14661	7/10/2012	Libraries are one of society's main civilizing influences, and a way to bring knowledge and education to the masses regardless of income level. Libraries help level the playing field, and make information available to everyone who wants it.
14662	7/10/2012	It is hard to compare libraries to education or health care. They are all very important.
14663	7/10/2012	They are the keepers and sharers of our cultures.
14664	7/10/2012	Knowledge is empowerment
14665	7/10/2012	Books and knowledge are very important.
14666	7/10/2012	As an avid reader and a family on a budget, we value the resources of the library. We have a young child and the storytimes are delightful and will help foster a love of reading in our daughter. as she grows, I hope we can continue to try out new book selections and programs on a regular basis. the library also serves an important bond for people in a community.
14667	7/10/2012	we use because we do a good deal of research.
14668	7/10/2012	Cannot afford to buy or even find as many books as I like to read, the library is a must.
14669	7/10/2012	Once basic needs are met, I think public education and access to information is most important to building and maintaining the society most of us want to live in.
14670	7/10/2012	Because I sometimes need it for school or, seeing as I read a lot, I need it for looking for new material to read
14671	7/10/2012	Libraries are archaic. We should devote that money to helping people secure internet access to materials.
14672	7/10/2012	Education raises any community.
14673	7/10/2012	I used the Public library often
14674	7/10/2012	because they help to maintain an informed community and provide educational opportunities that are more important than television or social media.

14675	7/10/2012	The library gives everyone access to information, for free. This is a highly valuable public commodity, especially in a city as economically varied as Portland.
14676	7/10/2012	This is a way that the public can be educated and even interact with other people, the library is an important entity for every community, especially here in NoPo.
14677	7/10/2012	The education of reading books - continuing throughout life - is vital to have fully functioning adults in society and books and libraries are needed to counteract the web and media based culture kids are exposed to everywhere else to stimulate reasoning
14678	7/10/2012	Library services are a common denominator across society. Libraries have something for everyone through all stages of life.
14679	7/10/2012	Access to information - books, magazines, journals, newspapers, internet, videos, ESL materials, classes, reading programs, community programs, etc., etc.
14680	7/10/2012	It encourages reading, and it's accessible to virtually everyone.
14681	7/10/2012	Most library print materials are outdated while more current material is available electronically e.g. on the Internet.
14682	7/10/2012	Access to information and education is vital for the growth of people's minds and empowerment. It enables people to become citizens.
14683	7/10/2012	Literacy is essential to the well-functioning of a society. Not only that, but literacy ensures technological advancement. In the words of a beloved former teacher, "our entire society is a celebration of illiteracy," and the removal of funding from the public library is indicative of this.
14684	7/10/2012	It is the only public service that I use that is free. All other public services are pay-per-use (buses are an example).
14685	7/10/2012	The Multnomah County library system supports my education - as a college student, I use the resources in the library quite often for research and writing. Without the library, I would be required to purchase many books, and simply wouldn't have access to a lot of periodicals.
14686	7/10/2012	Provide arts and a place for people to go. Allows people to stay away from bad and dangerous activities.
14687	7/10/2012	expanding and updating knowledge
14688	7/10/2012	Library is not as important as Schools, Police, Fire & Transportation.
14689	7/10/2012	I grew up with the library at home, and I think it's important. It's an important community resource.
14690	7/10/2012	I have not less than 10 books checked out at any given time for my children and me. Buying books today (even electronic) is not fiscally feasible.
14691	7/10/2012	They are the most accessible public service that I know of, and they encourage intellectual and personal growth.
14692	7/10/2012	Libraries provide access to information, learning, and technology for people of all socioeconomic levels. They provide safe study spaces for students and educational opportunities for adults who are not enrolled in school.

14693	7/10/2012	They provide a sense of community pride and an invaluable resource for the education of the general population.
14694	7/10/2012	Because frequent use of the public library helps to grow an educated, thoughtful, and respectful citizenry.
14695	7/10/2012	On pension.
14696	7/10/2012	Long term, education is more important than even fire or police services.
14697	7/10/2012	The strength of the library system is a measure of the quality of life in the community. A community that cannot prioritize libraries is dying.
14698	7/10/2012	basic education foundation
14699	7/10/2012	As seniors on limited budget, we depend on books as our source of entertainment and information. Being able to access audio and large print books as well as regular print is extremely helpful and very important to us.
14700	7/10/2012	My kids would not read as much if it were not for the library. I could not afford to buy that many books for them to read. They know so much about so many subjects thanks to the library. They will ask how is paper made. I will say I am not sure, but the library probably has a book on it! Let me order one.
14701	7/10/2012	They provide people with access to information, direct human contact and in some cases a safe place to be. The ability to get online, look at a newspaper or magazine and check out literature seems like it should be a right for every single person. If you don't have the funds to own a computer, have a newspaper subscription or purchase books the library should be there for you. Information should not be available to only those who can pay for it.
14702	7/10/2012	It is in that higher public good category of public education, basic utilities.
14703	7/10/2012	Libraries are something we take for granted--expecting them to be there when we need them. If we don't keep them funded at a useful level, they will slowly fade away, like so many of the services and freedoms we are losing daily due to the lack of willingness to fund public support systems.
14704	7/10/2012	The access to reading materials and the reading programs they support.
14705	7/10/2012	It is a such a great resiourec for young and old. There is a real sense of community within its various walls. Actually, having a "place" to go for aii its resources to is a joy
14706	7/10/2012	Both are important because each serve the community in a unique different way
14707	7/10/2012	Free and open access to information is essential to a literate democratic society.
14708	7/10/2012	I read.
14709	7/10/2012	I believe....reading....spending time in a library.....being quiet, reading, listening.....are great skills.....a great use of time.....and a great way to learn and collect information.....it is something anyone can do at any age....I hope libraries are always.... []
14710	7/10/2012	I do not know what a Library District is...and means... Reading opens doors.

14711	7/10/2012	Libraries are an important part of our community. They guarantee that all of us will have access to resources, not only for economic pursuits, but also to learn and grow more as people.
14712	7/10/2012	I use the library system regularly, but I am also realistic about other needed services. I believe the reduction in open library hours is part of the strategy to get County voters to approve the funding district. It is an "in your face" strategy. There were other reductions that could have been made. Public agencies (I once was part of a large one) have choices. They can make reductions in peripheral services or hurt the public enough to get them to vote for increases in taxes. It is a shameful strategy.
14713	7/10/2012	Every level of society must have access to the necessary tools to become functioning adults in a complex world. These tools include art and information found in books of all kinds as well as access to the entire world of the internet. Libraries make it possible for the poorest to have a more level playing field and thus, all of us benefit.
14714	7/10/2012	Libraries help build a community. I am a reader and retired. I try not to spend money where I don't have to, so the library is a perfect place for me to get books that I want to read. ☐
14715	7/10/2012	☐ Also, I just like being in libraries -- good childhood memories and a life-long love of books. Central Library has some wonderful architecture.
14716	7/10/2012	KNOWLEDGE SHARING
14717	7/10/2012	They are open to all, they provide educational services at no direct cost to participants; they teach, they entertain, they inform. The library is a place where everyone can feel welcome and where information is readily available. These are important things in a society.
14718	7/10/2012	I can't afford to buy all the books & media I'd like to. It's great that the library can & I can borrow it.
14719	7/10/2012	Everybody can access local library services, whereas, local public services have more of a specific target audience.
14720	7/10/2012	The library is a great resource for the entire community. The library system offers many free resources that would simply be too expensive to get other at other places. The library is a wonderful and free educational resource for all members of the community.
14721	7/10/2012	You can depend on getting the material you need for home, school, research etc.
14722	7/10/2012	The services provided by our libraries reach all levels of our community with underserved folks having access to programs they would not have otherwise.☐ Our libraries have become community centers offering resources to help us all become better citizens.
14723	7/10/2012	Reading is my hobby and very important to me. I use the library constantly. Also, my husband has had a stroke and has difficulty reading so he listens to audio books from the library EVERY morning.

14724	7/10/2012	I see the need and heavy use in two vastly different neighborhood libraries, Rockwood and Hillsdale. All walks of people use this library system, and depend on it for many reasons.
14725	7/10/2012	because I use the library all the time for many tasks. Because the library offers a healthy alternative to the mind-numbing consta-texting I see among the younger generation. Because I see homeless and jobless people online searching for homes and jobs that might turn their lives around.
14726	7/10/2012	Because I use it all the time for work and personal items. For example, without the ILL system, I would be severely hampered in my job, as I require access to scientific literature and my only other option would be to make regular trips to Corvallis to use the OSU library. My partner and I read all the time, and we get most of our movies from the library as well.
14727	7/10/2012	Because they are a major resource for educating citizens
14728	7/10/2012	Because libraries are the way we preserve who we are as a people and culture. Libraries represent the best about us.
14729	7/10/2012	Schools are very important and should be put at the top of the list of public funding, and libraries are also crucial in the development and furthering of childrens' education.
14730	7/10/2012	Libraries are essential part of the community, they provide a safe environment with great programs for kids to learn to love reading. If we want the next generation of children to work harder in their education, we need to provide them with the tools to do it.
14731	7/10/2012	They are of that level of importance to me because the most essential part of a good community is shared access to a common fund of high-quality intellectual and cultural works. The best part of the library is how much it is used, and it is used so much because it is both comprehensive, easy-to-use, and unafraid.
14732	7/10/2012	The library offers me movies, books and music that I would not be able to afford on my income. I think this is what a library should do.
14733	7/10/2012	They serve the all of the community including the young and old.
14734	7/10/2012	Free and equal access to cultural resources and knowledge.
14735	7/10/2012	Libraries are crucial, especially to children - they support reading and citizenship
14736	7/10/2012	Access to a vast array of materials to improve my mind and my appreciation of what government does to further a feeling of community
14737	7/10/2012	It is a resource that my family uses every week, and helps to keep our education & enrichment growing
14738	7/10/2012	The best example of civic virtues
14739	7/10/2012	They're the only public service that everyone uses
14740	7/10/2012	Library services are a main component in a program of 'coping skills' that I use to deal with symptoms of mental illness.
14741	7/10/2012	I'm a heavy reader whose thirst for books outstrips his bank account.
14742	7/10/2012	because it is a big world out there, and our library serves as a window and bridge to that world.
14743	7/10/2012	A strong library system helps foster stronger communities.

14744	7/10/2012	Because books are something I, and many other people hold close to our hearts.
14745	7/10/2012	Akin to public schools, they are a free public service that promotes education for all.
14746	7/10/2012	Because a well-staffed and well-funded public lending library is a HUGE resource to me. Having access to databases, to inter-library loan materials, to reference library staff, to computers and printers-- these are all exceedingly relevant and important to me. I've always loved libraries and been a patron since I was a child.
14747	7/10/2012	They are essential to a literate and well-informed public
14748	7/10/2012	Having free reading material available is very important to me. Libraries are the repository of so much information; people need free, easy access to all the library has to offer.
14749	7/10/2012	The libraries provide a place for learning, culture and connection for me and my family. It is extremely important for my daughter as she grows.
14750	7/10/2012	Community relies on services. More hours open mean more people are able to use the services. If the trade off is a reduction in activity sessions etc, then so be it. Library must be open as much as possible to allow as many people to visit. We are fortunate that staff are able to help patrons.
14751	7/10/2012	I simply can't afford to buy books or pay for cable TV. Most of my self-education and entertainment comes from the library. Also, I can always access the computers when mine is not working or printing. I know that libraries are extremely important to parents with small children, who are trying to instill good reading habits and a love for books. Also, people without computers are almost totally disenfranchised. Without a computer, people can not search for and apply for jobs. The library also has newspapers and magazines that people can't afford to subscribe to, and databases that are far too expensive for most people. Libraries are essential to maintain an informed population, educated voters and a democratic society.
14752	7/10/2012	Reading and curiosity are the bedrocks of civility.
14753	7/10/2012	That how I'm able to use the Internet without charge. Kids could enjoy free programs or other helpful programs. Its distracting for them without spend money. Huge help for my family. It's sucks to see that Monday is close wish it could be to how it use to be.
14754	7/10/2012	I'm a reader, a book blogger, and a book lover. Being able to receive information and materials is extremely important to me. With the economy at a virtual standstill, the public needs our libraries for job searches, communication, and as a thriving community center.
14755	7/10/2012	Literacy and access to resources are a crucial aspect of a democratic society. The library is the one place that anyone can have free access to information, literature, media, history, culture, et cetera. In Multnomah County, our libraries are a major contributor to our quality of life.
14756	7/10/2012	We use the library constantly as a source of learning and pleasure. I cannot imagine a better way to get my kids excited about reading. They LOVE story time. Every few days we go and check out bags full of books. I usually have at least 35 books checked out at a time. I LOVE LOVE LOVE the library.
14757	7/10/2012	High

14758	7/10/2012	Because books are expensive and reading is so important and such a joy. We love to go to the library. It is such a staple in our lives. We love that we can walk there, be there, check out books, and return the next day.
14759	7/10/2012	if you are low income or on a fixed income the library has services and access to services
14760	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time. We get all our movies and books for the family there. I also recognize the value it offers other members of the community; people with no internet and a need for skills training can get these at the library.
14761	7/10/2012	Holgate library is the nerve center for our neighborhood. It serves as a de facto community center (since our 'hood doesn't have one!) so it's a critical place for East Portland to connect and get services.
14762	7/10/2012	Library provides materials for people at no cost. Services for job seekers, seniors, & kids. These are all essential resources for people to better their lives.
14763	7/10/2012	The library is an invaluable community resource which is FREE to all members of the community and benefits everyone regardless of age, financial or job status, plus encourages education and literacy at all levels. This cannot be said of ANY other local public service.
14764	7/10/2012	I feel like my neighborhood relies on it, and my family sure does--we find so many things of interest we never would thought to look for in a book shop, online, etc. Also a lot of our staff (small biz owner) have used the citizenship and GED material to improve themselves, it's the cheapest easiest way to move up in our society.
14765	7/10/2012	Libraries are the foundation of civilization - they are the repositories of our culture and a large part of how that culture is transmitted. There have been empires that lacked roads, police, almost everything we take for granted, but the written word is the sine qua non of civilization.
14766	7/10/2012	Libraries offer a chance to grow, learn, research and enjoy books, CDs, videos. Especially needed for young children.
14767	7/10/2012	Library has been an educational resource for my children and family, encourages reading
14768	7/10/2012	Libraries provide universal free access to -- and kind, nonjudgmental, expert guidance in the use of -- our vast cultural and intellectual resources. In our increasingly polarized times, libraries provide a community gathering place that is, by its nature, welcoming to all ages, creeds, races, and so on. Libraries support schools in educating the young people who will help keep our communities vibrant in the future. Libraries are full of a diversity of viewpoints and a wealth of information - and great stories! And librarians will help you answer absolutely any question -- and relish the chance to do it! When you stop to think of it, libraries are an astonishing and valuable community treasure.
14769	7/10/2012	We use it a community base in our neighborhood. It is a place for us to connect with other families. Storytimes for the children is the most important aspect for us.

14770	7/10/2012	As a stay at home mom I am always looking for activities to do with my toddler. I have fallen in love with toddler story time: it's a wonderful way to connect with other parents in the community and to help my daughter establish positive associations with books and readings. She already loves books and it's so much fun to walk to the library with her to check them out. The library has also been a wonderful resource for me. I read approximately a book a week and the library has really helped me to save money now that I'm not working!
14771	7/10/2012	Reading is a HUGE part of my life. MCL is an amazing resource to our community and I would be lost without it.
14772	7/10/2012	Schools and public safety are more important to me but the library takes priority over most everything else.
14773	7/10/2012	I can my reading and media material there without having to buy them and read then once.
14774	7/10/2012	An air conditioned place to be in the summer months, ability to interact with staff, ability to browse lots of materials for possible checkout or just to read from, and be a volunteer at.
14775	7/10/2012	I use the library all the time for a variety of reasons. I go to the library more often than I go to public parks and other community establishments.
14776	7/10/2012	Because the services I and my family get from the library have an impact on our daily lives in a way we don't actually experience with anything but public school.
14777	7/10/2012	For me personally, they are very important because I use the library a ton to access books I want to read. I also think strong libraries are very important to the health of our community and each neighborhood - they contribute to an educated, informed population/
14778	7/10/2012	Libraries are a place where citizens can congregate to improve their lives. There is an indescribable elegance to library services that is felt throughout the community.
14779	7/10/2012	they are a key resource for maintaining an informed community at all levels of income and status. Effective government and other local public services need this informed community to keep the services effective and to change them intelligently when needed.
14780	7/10/2012	I think people can live without libraries, and there would be something important missing, but we can't do without police and firemen.
14781	7/10/2012	They not only provide me with reading material they are a community focus.
14782	7/10/2012	I'm a fast, serious reader and can't afford to buy a steady stream of reading material.

14783	7/10/2012	I use the library extensively and always have, since I was a child in Philadelphia, PA. I have used the library system in many cities, but I've been here 11 years now and Multnomah County's library system is the best, due to many factors, including variety/number of materials available, ease of obtaining materials, multitude of locations, accessible hours for people with a wide variety of schedules, special collections like the Wilson Room and zines, etc. etc. I can't imagine living somewhere with a substantially lesser library. I borrow a wide variety of books and dvds, use reference books at the Central branch, access the closed stacks regularly, read magazines and newspapers at the branches, utilize interlibrary loan, and--until recently--used the computer lab and internet computers regularly. It's a truly invaluable resource.
14784	7/10/2012	Security, roads, fire are the most important. Libraries are a luxury. Perhaps having fewer branches and being open 5 days a week would be better than adding an additional tax burden on property owners. Schools also have their own libraries.
14785	7/10/2012	Literacy is crucial to informed participation in the community - and literature is crucial to the human spirit.
14786	7/10/2012	My family uses the library frequently for personal enrichment and education. Library services are also very important to my community. It is one of the reasons I live here.
14787	7/10/2012	the library is a fabulous resource which gives my family access to a wide range of materials and media which might be difficult or expensive to obtain elsewhere
14788	7/10/2012	PROVIDES UNIVERSAL ACCESS TO EDUCATION AND COMMUNITY
14789	7/10/2012	because this is one of the best ways to ensure a well educated population.
14790	7/10/2012	Schools, libraries, fire and police, roads, bridges...what kind of civilization (yes, I said it!) are we without them?
14791	7/10/2012	It may be the only access many lower and middle income people have to the latest educational books and media and internet because it is the only free service for these services in the community.
14792	7/10/2012	Poor people need them (more than I do).
14793	7/10/2012	Very important.
14794	7/10/2012	Free access to information - for all - is the basis of our democracy.
14795	7/10/2012	An educated society has the ability to recognize and right its wrongs. The education my children will receive in school is only a portion of what they will need to navigate the changing scapes of our world - the library goes a long way in offering the ability to pursue knowledge unattainable in school, home, etc. This resource opens imagination, cognition, and helps in asking and pursuing the answers to any variety of questions. That knowledge base and the ability to access it is critical to our future.
14796	7/10/2012	The presence of books is a necessary antidote to the digital world

14797	7/9/2012	Having access to the world of knowledge, information, and artistic expression found in books and other media is one of the most important attributes of the "good life" and being able to borrow these materials free of charge is also extremely important. No one can afford to purchase all of the items one might want to read or need to know about. Being able to read different viewpoints is important for me and other voters as citizens to participate intelligently in our democracy. I cannot imagine life without a good, well-stocked library. As a senior, I have time to read more than ever before, and I also appreciate the importance of raising children who read and know how to access information through libraries and databases. This is essential to the future of our democracy, too. Having librarians who can get children and their parents interested in reading and who are available to help everyone find information, including how to use the Internet in a more sophisticated way than just by checking Google, is essential. As I age, if I ever lose my sight and cannot read printed books, I will appreciate knowing that I can get audio books at the library.
14798	7/9/2012	Access !!!
14799	7/9/2012	Best foundation of democracy around
14800	7/9/2012	Libraries are the gauge of the intelligence of a community. Libraries are meeting places for a community/neighborhood Libraries instill in young children the importance of books and reading.[] If a child can't read, what can he/she do as an adolescent, teenager right on up to adulthood?[] If a community doesn't have a library, it doesn't have much.
14801	7/9/2012	I can access educational and informative materials for a very reasonable cost since the resources are shared. This is particularly important for educating my children by helping me supplement the public school curriculum, which is also suffering from lack of funding.
14802	7/9/2012	I put "somewhat important" because your question doesn't specify what the "other local public services" are. I wouldn't choose the library over necessities of life like the police or drinking water. But I like to think that Portland is place where citizens are educated and involved, both politically and culturally. A good library is a central part of that.
14803	7/9/2012	I think, therefore I am. [] [] life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness [] [] Libraries are essential to the American Dream. If we want a true meritocracy, then we need equal access to information. aka library
14804	7/9/2012	Again, it is a sense of community for ALL the people.
14805	7/9/2012	Right after fire and police services.
14806	7/9/2012	Because limiting the spread of knowledge on a free or low-cost basis is absurd.

14807	7/9/2012	Literacy--especially helps instill a love of reading in young children Access to a wide variety of information and ideas and entertainment accessible to ALL (not just those who can afford to buy books or attend university). This is an extremely rich community resource. Libraries are community meeting places -- public spaces that we all hold in common. Visiting a library feels very different than places that require one to spend money (cafes or stores), to subscribe to specific beliefs (churches or temples), or limited mainly to families with children (schools). Libraries are special because they are free and open to every one of our citizens.
14808	7/9/2012	Very high. Free sources of information insure a democratic form of government. Without free information of all sorts, our very nature of government is challenged. A democracy is impossible with out free flowing information. If we lack our democracy, we are no longer the United States of America. That's the first reason.
14809	7/9/2012	Libraries serve all citizens through providing knowledge and the opportunity of knowledge. They serve older citizens, job seekers, school children, teenagers, and everyone else. They provide universal access to information and are the bedrock of our form of government. On a more personal note, I save thousands of dollars by using the library.
14810	7/9/2012	I value their being open to all Multnomah County residents--young, old, well-to-do, low income etc. They are a great and low user cost source of learning and inspiration and entertainment.
14811	7/9/2012	A free society needs open access to library services. Job seekers need info to become paying citizens. An illiterate electorate votes stupidly.
14812	7/9/2012	I love the library but there are other services that people can not live without, such as health services. Those deserve a priority over the library. I and I believe many other patrons can afford to buy a book or have a computer at home so would be able to live with reduced library hours and days. There are some services that should be accessible 7 days a week.
14813	7/9/2012	Because it helps create a well educated society!
14814	7/9/2012	Because the written word is the best of all media for education and the continuity and development of culture. It's the medium which, more than any other, promotes contemplation when it's in use.
14815	7/9/2012	Libraries help foster what I think of as the foundation of an intelligent, aware, and forward-thinking community. Libraries do this by providing access to a huge amount of information and entertainment (music CDs, novels, DVDs, etc) which, taken together, reveal a wide variety of cultural, political, and spiritual viewpoints. The fact that these resources are provided free and to everyone encourages an equality among people; it also encourages individuals to expand their horizons -- something critical not only for children, but also for people of all ages.
14816	7/9/2012	for me it's the highest as it is the one I use most frequently as I am a voracious reader :-)

14817	7/9/2012	I read a lot and belong to two book groups. Not only can I not afford to purchase all the books, but I don't have space to store them. I try to buy only those I can't get from the library or can't get in a timely manner. Then I try to buy from Thriftbooks.com or other low-cost sources. I recently had to buy an important book from Powell's but used a gift card funded by sales of my books.
14818	7/9/2012	There are emergency and basic services that are more important than the library, but I feel the library is a vital part of the community. Access to reading material is extremely important to me and for my family.
14819	7/9/2012	No where else can everyone be welcome to participate and partake of an amazing array of services.
14820	7/9/2012	Everybody needs access to the information that the library has to offer
14821	7/9/2012	An informed and literate populace is the cornerstone of a democracy.
14822	7/9/2012	I am an avid reader and I don't want to have to buy every book that I want to read. because of the free access to the world... my dad was an english teacher & literature we always being discussed in our home. the library was a treat to me growing up. it's difficult for me to imagine an american community without a public library though i hear that it's happened in some places, including within oregon! i have accepted libraries as one of the gifts being a citizen of this great country presents us with... we would be a lesser country without our libraries.
14823	7/9/2012	Libraries are very important for the resources, the information made available to people who cannot afford or don't want to used computers; they provide important "free" space for groups to meet, classes and events for people, encourage learning and concentration, and they are a safe gathering place for lonely folks, especially the retired and the tired senior citizens (like me) - a respite from the pace of the business world and traffic and noise pollution. I have always used libraries to study as a student and for de-stressing and research as an adult. They are hugely important to me.
14824	7/9/2012	Libraries encourage literacy, offer opportunities to the poor, function as a community hub, and encourage civic engagement.
14825	7/9/2012	The Library is a trememdous support to other County services. It certainly is an integral part of our educational system. The Library, in particular, is extremely important in providing resources (outside of the classroom) in support of ESL.
14826	7/9/2012	I use the library for work.
14827	7/9/2012	More important than building new prisons, to start with. They are co-equal with public education in my mind. A library is a school that is open to everyone regardless of age or income or accomplishment. They need to be open every day and funded to purchase new materials, and FULLY STAFFED.
14828	7/9/2012	I love to read.
14829	7/9/2012

14830	7/9/2012	Libraries give EVERYONE the opportunity to have access to reading materials and technology. There is a huge tendency toward creating an underclass in this country. Removing access to the libraries is like ending free and appropriate public education for all. That to me is one of the best defining tenets of US culture.
14831	7/9/2012	because libraries and tri-met are the services i use most
14832	7/9/2012	I cannot think of a public resource that I use more often than our library. We rely on it for books for our son and to keep ourselves informed of the current issues.
14833	7/9/2012	They do not rise to the same level as human services, but they are an important part of the fabric of our community. They help improve access to good reading materials for people of all means and ability/disability. This is important.
14834	7/9/2012	Democracy will only work if our citizens are informed and have access to truth. We need to keep a wide range of materials and information available to the public. And, we need to be sure folks get out of the home and interact with some sort of community, see others, hear others, etc. An electronic service only will further isolate citizens.
14835	7/9/2012	hard to answer without having other "other local public services" to consider
14836	7/9/2012	Libraries provide all kinds information to any and all citizens, and informed citizens are better citizens and voters.
14837	7/9/2012	I believe the library is right up there with immediate services. It serves the broader community in ways no other organization in the county can.
14838	7/9/2012	They are essential for me. I rely on the library for knowledge, for books, the internet, and most importantly as a safe, comfortable place to do work and to spend time. As a new resident of Multnomah County, the Library is a critical resource for me.
14839	7/9/2012	The local libraries is a place for all socio-economic and ethic groups to learn and interact with others. I grew up in poor, but my mother always sent me to the library and every summer, I participated in the summer read programs. Because of the libraries I enjoy reading all types of books, learned about different cultures, and participated in various activities the libraries have to offer. Lastly, I was grade levels ahead in reading because of our local libraries. I say all this to say that our libraries are creating a bright futures for the individuals that use them. Please continue to support the libraries!
14840	7/9/2012	I like to be entertained for free.
14841	7/9/2012	I love to read, but can't afford to purchase the books myself. If there were no public library, I would start watching a lot more TV, and would end up going crazy!
14842	7/9/2012	Seems like the best investment you can make in a democracy. Open the doors to everyone, help them draw on the riches the library has to offer, and there can be nothing but upside to the investment.
14843	7/9/2012	Core community need. Serves everyone regardless of income or social status.

14844	7/9/2012	I certainly believe in public libraries (which is why I have always voted for the levies, tax districts, etc.) but I am not happy with the way the question is worded. A better question would have a list of the local public services and ask one to rate them in order of importance. This question relies on a person immediate recall of all the local public services. Does this include comparisons to water services, street repair (DOT), police, fire ...? or the parks?
14845	7/9/2012	I prefer paper books for leisure reading, I also borrow DVDs. I purchase books from Powells and online, but there are some that I do not want to buy. I also think the elderly benefit from library services.
14846	7/9/2012	I use them to be a lifelong learner and wouldn't be able to afford all the books and databases on my own.
14847	7/9/2012	Beceause our family does a lot of reading and enjoy access to public computers and free wi fi
14848	7/9/2012	First, because they are the service that I personally use the most. Secondly, because they provide ways for people to educate themselves and enrich their lives in ways that if they did not, society would suffer for it greatly.
14849	7/9/2012	Because education/reading/access to information is at the core of our society. Multnomah County has an excellent library system that is extremely important to the population--particularly the poor and others on the outskirts of society. In short, people depend on the library and it is a unique resource. I don't want to live in a place that does not place the appropriate emphasis on those resources.
14850	7/9/2012	Libraries help fuel learning and knowledge; I believe books are a necessary part of a well-lived life. And, the Multnomah County Library does so much more than just offer books. It's a place for people to learn new skills, whether through a class offered or through a book. It's also a great resource, through computer and internet use, for job-seekers.
14851	7/9/2012	The Multnomah County Library is an amazing community resource. I believe it allows people of all ages and socioeconomic levels access to a wide variety of books, cds, dvds, and computer (internet) access.
14852	7/9/2012	Public access to information is second only to safety issues (Police and Fire) in terms of quality of life
14853	7/9/2012	The library puts teeth into the concept of democracy, providing free, confidential information and information access to everyone within the county.
14854	7/9/2012	The county has other things to do that are very important to people receiving social services.
14855	7/9/2012	Very important.
14856	7/9/2012	I think they are key to helping underprivileged, under-served community members have access to knowledge and services. Personally, I depend on them for research as well as entertainment.
14857	7/9/2012	Very important
14858	7/9/2012	We need to have a literate educated population to maintain or recover a democracy.
14859	7/9/2012	Free access to and use of information is necessary in society. The library guarantees this access.

14860	7/9/2012	I address this in my previous written answer.
14861	7/9/2012	While they are not quite as immediately valuable as police, fire, basic infrastructure, and education, libraries are very important in keeping the population generally educated and up-to-date. I love to read and it's not to not have to spend $10 every time I want to enjoy something new.
14862	7/9/2012	I believe in literate citizens and the idea of supporting community ("the commons"), not just rugged individualism.
14863	7/9/2012	The library provides me access to valuable and entertaining resources I could otherwise not afford as a college student on a budget.
14864	7/9/2012	Without public access to information and the tools for building life literacies, egalitarian society will erode.
14865	7/9/2012	I believe in the power of access to knowledge. I believe it is the poor, people of color, and children that need the library the most due to inequities in education funding and a generally unfair, unjust nature of our society. People need to be able to educate themselves. People need internet access. People need somewhere they can go to get the information they need to find jobs, vote, learn, grow. The library provides all of these and so many more.
14866	7/9/2012	They are the only really equally accessed public learning place for those outside of the k-12 education system. Early learning, homework help and access and post schooling adult learning is crucial to a better society. I am a teacher and need high quality books for my classroom. I also need to be able to change the books in my classroom on a regular basis. I do not have the money to buy this many books. [] Also, I am teaching my own daughter how to use the library as a resource and how to ask the librarians for help in finding answers to her questions.[]
14867	7/9/2012	The Spanish story times are helping her learn Spanish and they are so fun and engaging (stories, music, dance, games).[] Libraries are about books, but they also are about culture.
14868	7/9/2012	I love to read and I can't afford to buy books
14869	7/9/2012	Because they have allowed me to overcome my families low-income growing up and flourish in my school and society. was able to learn how to read at an early age because we were able to check out books from the library, and ever since then I have used it often to get extra help on school work and explore my interests.
14870	7/9/2012	Please see my comments in #6.[] [] Also, personally I would be bereft without my library. I grew up in a very small town in Calif.and browsing the library opened the door to the wide world to me. 60 years later I continue to explore new worlds, places, and concepts.

14871	7/9/2012	The library is a center for gathering, study and community cohesion that is inclusive without boundaries of any sort. It is a system of public spaces in which we practice the most essential values of our democracy.
14872	7/9/2012	VERY IMPORTANT! - I love to read, but don't want to purchase all my books. I love love love the local library, and honestly don't know what I would do without it.
14873	7/9/2012	The library provides materials that are not necessarily commercially viable and as such can't be found somewhere else.
14874	7/9/2012	The Library has been an important place for me through the different stages of my life. As a child I would sit with other children and listen to a volunteer read stories, then carefully choose what two books I would take home that week. I high school, I spent hours pouring through vintage fashion magazines at my local library. As a undergrad, I used the library as a place to study and to check out records to listen to in my dorm room. I always check the Librarian's choices area for good books to read. Now, finishing my master's thesis, I use the library resources to help my research. □ Without Libraries, my life would have been less interesting. Libraries have helped be explore and define who I am.
14875	7/9/2012	I think having books available for all ages and community book or learning experiences and meeting spaces or study spaces are just a critical element of life and pleasure and self development. I have always voted for every library levy even though my property taxes are outrageously high. I wish we had a sales tax that provided for library services.
14876	7/9/2012	Busy brains are important!
14877	7/9/2012	Everyone in my family has something that they value in the services of the public library, including access to books, the internet, music, etc, for toddlers and adults. It's also very important for me especially because I am a student who relies on the library for all my research needs. It's also very important that the library remains a free resource for our community.
14878	7/9/2012	We love books in our family and use the library extensively to get new ones on a regular basis.
14879	7/9/2012	n.a
14880	7/9/2012	making books and research material available to everybody is the foundation of our society. it is very important that those services are available without charge and for access to everybody.
14881	7/9/2012	Having public access to resources helps level the playing field for people that don't have resources. Libraries are community centers that many rely upon and benefit from programs and human contact. People don't need to own every book they read. Reduce, reuse, recycle.
14882	7/8/2012	Because I'm not in school anymore, but I still need to learn and be connected with society.
14883	7/8/2012	Fire, police and health care are more immediate needs.

14884	7/8/2012	The most important. The library provides a way to connect with anyone, everything and anything, including other local public resources. The library is the expertly rendered knot in the rope that binds us to each other as a community. It's what makes us a community, proactively. Every other resource seems reactive or proactive. The library is both proactive and reactive. It means everything to me and my family. I would happily pay whatever asked to keep services going at a fully funded level.
14885	7/8/2012	It's where I learned to read and love books and be the person I am now. It's important to share resources and inspire people.
14886	7/8/2012	Libraries are our most important educational community resource because they offer free and equal access to everyone. The Librarians at Hollywood and Belmont are the best, and probably not paid anywhere as much as they should be. I always feel sad when I encounter anyone who tells me that they do not enjoy reading. My guess is that they were not introduced to the joy of reading for pleasure at a young age. I feel grateful that in my lifetime I will never run out of great books to read. And as I age, I am also grateful that there are so many books on tape.
14887	7/8/2012	Libraries are important for education, people seeking employment, people on limited incomes who need access to technology and books in order to be successful in life.
14888	7/8/2012	Because I am of an income level that does not allow me access the resources available to me at the library.
14889	7/8/2012	Because knowledge is power. People need access to information and the library system provides that for anyone who is willing to get themselves into the building and to read or even just attend a program. They are one of the few institutions that give a glimpse of equality to the diverse population that makes up Multnomah County
14890	7/8/2012	Libraries are an essential source of information. It's the only place I can get books as I cannot afford to buy them. There are books on every conceivable topic and libraries can be used for entertainment, education, personal growth, research, etc... The library is also a place for building community, connecting with other people, and learning new things. I cannot imagine life without the library. It would be very lonely and quite dull.
14891	7/8/2012	1) A democratic society needs to be well educated. [] 2) Because our public schools are having so much trouble at present, the library must serve as an oasis of learning for many people of all ages. [] 3) For some during these hard economic times, the library is a refuge for the imagination, a source of practical information, and an important social and cultural place. The culture of the library helps young people and new immigrants learn by observing and doing.
14892	7/8/2012	They are a public service that I actually use. I feel like my tax dollars are being well spent. And I appreciate that they are available to everyone.
14893	7/8/2012	The library is a teacher of the community.

14894	7/8/2012	I believe they contribute immensely to our city and our neighborhoods. There are programs and materials for all ages and all interests.
14895	7/8/2012	Having equal access to libraries for the rich and poor is vital for the citizens and friends of every community.
14896	7/8/2012	I use the library weekly and sometimes daily for business, personal and research purposes
14897	7/8/2012	As a person with limited income, having access to library media vastly improves my quality of life, and having access to computers and library resources has been very important in helping me seek, gain, and sustain employment.
14898	7/8/2012	There is a lot of competition for local public services, and very often they are not sufficiently staffed or funded to provide for the needs of all who seek them. Libraries offer another avenue for finding resources, and a safe place where people can have access to resources they normally wouldn't, such as materials, computer access, educational programs, etc.
14899	7/8/2012	they have information that no one else can give...
14900	7/8/2012	The library is a vital center in our neighborhoods. They provide so many services. And at this time of economic challenge, they provide a place where everyone can have access to books and information.
14901	7/8/2012	Libraries provide a direct benefit to whoever wants to use them, not just a sector of the population. It provides informational services, books for learning, books and other materials to entertain and computer access for those who can't afford it at home. Libraries provide everyone with an equal opportunity to learn, have access to technology and be entertained in an affordable manner. It's more important now during these hard economic times than ever before.
14902	7/8/2012	I see the library system as a central and the ultimate reference and entertainment source. It's my home library on steroids. It houses a nearly endless source off books, both for entertainment and serious research, movies, music, magazines, etc. It's efficient for the community in that we all pay, through our property taxes, for the materials and staff to monitor those materials. For those of us who can't afford to buy all the materials we would like to have the library is the place to go. Just as the police department is necessary to protect the community, the library is just as necessary to educate and serve the community. I could probably live without some of my local public services but I could not live without my library.
14903	7/8/2012	Libraries provide so many services important to the public, not the least of which is free access to information. I am a retired senior and cannot afford to buy books - the library is my main source of reading material and multi-media. The loss of even one branch library in a community is a huge loss for everyone.
14904	7/8/2012	Because they are used by all kinds of people at all income levels in all parts of Portland. They're cross-cultural, they do not discriminate, the goal is to help people of all ages have access to all kinds of things.

14905	7/8/2012	They are very important to help people without other access to Internet, books, etc., but human services such as health and housing are essential too.
14906	7/8/2012	I would rank libraries above new police cars and equipment, and just below new firefighting/lifesaving equipment
14907	7/8/2012	The library is one of the only "free" public convening places left in America. It is an essential resource for information and literature to adults no longer in school. It is a monument to education and a beacon of enlightenment in a time of increasing ignorance.
14908	7/8/2012	they provide a door to advancement and options for many people. Getting kids to love reading at an early age is critical to our society.
14909	7/8/2012	My family and I use the library at least three times a week. I run a preschool in my home and constantly check out books for the school. We love our library!
14910	7/8/2012	The library does so much for the whole community. It serves people of all income levels and levels of literacy. It brings our community together
14911	7/8/2012	The library isn't just extremely important to me, personally. It's important to the kind of community I want to live in in Portland, OR. The free and public nature of the library enriches our lives--from the most wealthy (whether they know it or not) to the most poor. The library levels the playing field and fills in gaps that very few institutions can.
14912	7/8/2012	digital access is important
14913	7/8/2012	I love to read, and I depend on being able to get books from the library on a daily basis.
14914	7/8/2012	Libraries represent knowledge and access to learning. The worst threat to society is ignorance.[]
14915	7/8/2012	Police, fire, and emergency services are the only things that rank higher for me
14916	7/8/2012	Reading is a fundamental aspect of experiencing life and fruitfulness.
14917	7/8/2012	They provide services that in my opinion are indispensable in that they are for the most part free, although we do pay for them with our taxes. But it is an institution that we have just always been able to rely on and it would be a HUGE loss to let them go. I can't even imagine that. There are cities in this country however that have few if any library services and what they do have is sorely lacking. We are very fortunate to have such a great system and we need to fight to make sure they remain here for generations to come.
14918	7/8/2012	I don't regularly call on the police or fire & rescue departments but very very rarely, but they need to be available for life and death situations, and, like navigable streets, enable my getting to libraries for what's not life and death materials but things that enrich my life.
		Library services provide a wide range of civic supports to the community.

14919	7/8/2012	There is no democracy without public libraries. I'll say it again - there is no democracy without public libraries.[] MCL is a huge asset to both the city of Portland and the entire county. [] As librarians, media specialists and even the libraries themselves have been cut from our public schools MCL is more important than ever to our children and their teachers. [] MCL serves the most vulnerable members of our community - the homebound, new immigrants, the poor, the houseless, the unemployed, young children and their families.
14920	7/8/2012	My wife and I frequent local libraries on a weekly basis (hers is near home, mine is near work)...the library has been a big part of our routing since moving to Portland 15 years ago - and borrowed materials (books, music, movies) have provided countless hours of education and entertainment for our family of four.
14921	7/8/2012	It's like the marketplace for information!
14922	7/8/2012	The library services provide a constructive and educational activities for youth
14923	7/8/2012	I am a teacher. I want my students to have access to books and lots of enrichment opportunities offered by the library
14924	7/8/2012	Libraries fill a critical need, serving users of all ages, users with no other access to books, information, and the other resources the library provides.
14925	7/8/2012	My children are excellent readers, and they thrive in school. We could never afford to buy all the books they consume. We parents are also hugely avid readers, and it's the same thing. We love Powell's, but we can't afford to buy books as fast as we read them.
14926	7/8/2012	They are important because of the low income people in the community that depend on them to be there. Where else are they to go?
14927	7/8/2012	I grew up in a library, going from Peanuts to Nancy Drew and Hardy Boys, to tween books. If there is a library nearby for other children, they might have the same chance to enjoy Finklehopper Frog, Nancy Drew, and other books to take their minds off of boring summers or whatever might be going on in their lives.
14928	7/8/2012	I'm retired and can't afford to buy books any longer -- need to borrow them. And eventually I won't be mobile enough to get to the library and will need home delivery of books. Also, the library programs at Midland are essential to the needs of the diverse multi-ethnic and multigenerational community where I live.
14929	7/8/2012	I enjoy having a library that i can go to, I like to read and I would prefer to actually check a book out instead of having to buy it from a book store until I find out if I like the book or not.
14930	7/8/2012	The library provides free and uncensored information to EVERYONE. It's one of the key components that makes our society function -- as a democracy, and as an educated populace.

14931	7/8/2012	The library should be one of the central hubs of any neighborhood and city. It is a place where there is equitable access to resources -- where all people can become informed, dream, educate their children, have access to technology, etc. I think that the library is one of our public institutions that really lives up to its social justice mission.
14932	7/8/2012	Reading level and books help with lives of all.
14933	7/8/2012	Because without access to knowledge, people are easily manipulated. Libraries are crucial for children, especially!
14934	7/8/2012	I personally use the library's resources. I check out a lot of books and music, sometimes DVD, I use the subscription databases, I use the buildings for quiet places to work. But I think that the library also plays a critical role in serving everyone in the community, whether they use the collection like I do or the senior computer classes like my father. I have a suspicion that, as schools cut pretty much everything from the budget, the library becomes even more important for students as well. □ □ This is more esoteric, but I think there is something valuable in having an institution like our library, that works to relate to the general public and to respond to public needs, to reflect the our civic values of access to knowledge and community and self improvement and support. A library is about so much more than books, especially at a time when so many people have so much need.
14935	7/8/2012	I feel the library is an important source of knowledge to all people. I'm for education...
14936	7/8/2012	Access to a plethora of current reading materials for free and other media.
14937	7/8/2012	Not everyone has access to what the library has to offer if the libraries aren't open.
14938	7/8/2012	Our family would not be able to afford to buy all of the books and materials that we use.
14939	7/8/2012	An educated populace is essential to both a free and democratic society and a technologically advanced one.
14940	7/8/2012	former librarian who treasures access to information for all
14941	7/8/2012	I use the library more than most other public services. This is a service that everyone can utilize whereas some services are limited to populations.
14942	7/7/2012	I don't need to use the others very often
14943	7/7/2012	The library opens up the world to people who have no resources, i.e., home, computers, money, etc.
14944	7/7/2012	Free library services and access to information is absolutely necessary for our community. It's even more important when economic times are tough. All people need the library, seven days a week!
14945	7/7/2012	To me the library is almost as important as fire and police service. If my house burns to the ground, I know where I can still get books to read for free and how I can stay connected with my family through email and social networks.

14946	7/7/2012	Libraries are a place to gather, a place of safety, a place to come after school and a place of solace, in addition to having books. But, I don't have the $$$ to fund everything myself and I know others are in worse situations than I.
14947	7/7/2012	My business. I won my own business and there are times I need internet access and printing from the internet services. and copy machine services. also the air conditioning in summer is a life saver when it is over 90 degrees. Our home /office has no air conditioning
14948	7/7/2012	See number six. I am happy to rent things vs buying them and I value that MCLS (and esp those whose job it is to figure out what to order and how much) have such a far-flung selection.
14949	7/7/2012	free access to information and the assistance to find that information is primarily available through our libraries.
14950	7/7/2012	They give me a place to go. The resources. The staff and community.
14951	7/7/2012	I like to read. I live 5 blocks from my library. I can come here whenever I need a book. I like the quiet atmosphere and the friendly people who work here.
14952	7/7/2012	I think things that take care of basic human need are the most important, but libraries are second to that. Libraries give people a place to be. They give education for free to the community. They create life long learning opportunities. There is almost nothing more important than instilling a love of reading in the future generations, especially considering how far we as a culture have strayed from educating our children in communicating.
14953	7/7/2012	Police and Health and Social Services are more important.
14954	7/7/2012	libraries provide services to many different needs
14955	7/7/2012	I would consider very important to be public safety - such as fire dept, police, emergency response.
14956	7/7/2012	I count on my library to have the resouces that I need.
14957	7/7/2012	Access to information is crucial.
14958	7/7/2012	I guess if I had to choose I would rather have repaired roads and reliable electricity and water.
14959	7/7/2012	The library provides services and resources that many people in our community would have no access to on their own. Library services are the most "democratizing" services in our community. The vast majority of us are unable to purchase all the books and resources that interest us. The library makes self-education possible, is a safe and growth-inducing environment for people of all ages, encourages critical thinking and celebrates knowledge, humor, creativity and insight. It empowers the disenfranchised. I appreciate very much the fire department, police and roadbuilders. But the library is essential for our humanity and quality of life.
14960	7/7/2012	They serve every kind of person at every income level and allow for self education on every subject.

14961	7/7/2012	The library is vital to our community! It's an important way for us as individuals and families to continue learning, for members to come together in a place that is dedicated to encouraging education for everyone, for resources for all. If I didn't have access to our library, I would certainly be worse off. I cannot afford to purchase all the books, media, and audio materials I so much appreciate, and I don't think a large population of folks would either. Certainly not at the rate that we can borrow them. The library is for everyone. We need it.
14962	7/7/2012	The library is a community center of learning and information. The youth services alone would justify keeping the libraries fully funded, fully staffed to run programs like Story Time and Summer Reading.
14963	7/7/2012	They are important resources for the homeless to get computer access, job hunt, learn skills; they provide young people a place to learn at their own pace, a place for all ages to find information on things of interest; they provide a safe place for people with inadequate heating or cooling to go in extreme weather. They are a major resource for the community.
14964	7/7/2012	Access to books & DVDs; resources for local children.
14965	7/7/2012	Freedom of information, and self education. If we can't keep free access to information we are doomed to an unjust worldview dictated by the owing class ;-)
14966	7/7/2012	The library is something I use all the time. It can bring me new knowledge and learning, fun or entertainment. It can make me think, or make me laugh. Also, for those without much extra money (and I have been there) it is so uplifting to know it is there for the things I mentioned above especially for children. Keeping our minds open and exposed to new things is what helps us grow up and also keeps us young and a valuable person. It keeps us from being mired in unproductive thoughts about our situation. Instead it may enrich us with real knowledge or facts that can help us, or just encourage our mind to flutter free of those every day things. ☐ Sorry to go on, but I think what the library represents and provides is almost as important as food.
14967	7/7/2012	Reading/Writing is a fundamental right for a democratic society, Without it, people cannot exercise their free will, row, learn and educate others. I use the library all of the time for all sorts of things. There is no possible way I could afford to buy the resources that I use. If I didn't have access to them, how would I educate myself?☐
14968	7/7/2012	☐ While I am not wealthy, I have steady employment and make an okay living wage. If I can't afford the resources I use, think of even how more vital the library is to people who have less than me.
14969	7/7/2012	See my answer to question 6.
14970	7/7/2012	An informed and cultured public is a safer and healthier public, which benefits all other forms of public service.
14971	7/7/2012	Other social services do important work - they protect people, they keep things clean and safe, they keep us healthy - but libraries provide opportunities for our community. The public sector's job isn't just to be a safety net, its roles is to help the community thrive.

14972	7/7/2012	They are the foundation of communities and the most important public building behind schools for building an intelligent, respectful community
14973	7/7/2012	I read to live, and can't afford to buy books to support my habit. They preserve literature and literacy, make information available to those who can't do their own research, they have Actual Physical Books--all of which I feel very strongly are vital to preserve in an increasingly chaotic culture.
14974	7/7/2012	People need to be able to access the library and learn more about their services in their own community.
14975	7/7/2012	The ability to borrow practically any book for free is an amazing resource.
14976	7/7/2012	As a child growing up with lots of difficulties in a typical classroom setting, yet no lack of intelligence or motivation, I was able to learn a lot of things because of my access to books at the public library. Reference materials, technical books, etc are often very expensive, and the library makes these materials available to all. The internet can offer a lot of resources as well, but it still does not contain anywhere near the amount of specific information that a library is able to provide access to.
14977	7/7/2012	Ver Important. I cannot afford to buy new books. I don't like/want to read books on the computer.
14978	7/7/2012	Access to information is essential for a democratic society. Our libraries do an excellent job serving the community at all levels.
14979	7/7/2012	The library is a community gathering place. It is a source of enjoyment, learning resource. People of all ages benefit
14980	7/7/2012	freedom of information and self education along with guidance in finding those materials are at the top of my list of importance. Without these things, the quality of life and chance to improve our level of awareness, will be lessened greatly
14981	7/7/2012	Our local libraries make up for the lack of library's in schools and lack of school resources for books. Our library does a great job, engaging and supporting kids as growing readers and in the exploration of the world through literature.
14982	7/7/2012	The library has everything I need to learn about anything at all. I learned to use a computer there and it has books on how ot fix things or how to use a computer program or how to rewire the headlight on my old car. I cant tell you how much money it saved me but it saved my job when I coundnt afford to have my car fixed and had to get to where the bus doesnt go. Plus I get my movies and books and everything there.
14983	7/7/2012	highest
14984	7/7/2012	I cannot afford to buy books, but I believe my daughter NEEDS the daily reading that we do together. I also can't afford cable, or to go to movies, but the library makes it possible to be entertained for free!

14985	7/7/2012	The library is a womb to tomb service, there for ALL residents to benefit from no matter their citizenship status, age or socio-economic status. the lubrary's excellent and far-reaching outreach services ensure that kids, teens, students, non native English speakers and incarcerated teens and adults learn about and use the library.
14986	7/7/2012	it's one of the few tax funded services from which I get a direct benefit, so I can see where my money goes. from a societal perspective, libraries are so fundamentally egalitarian that to me, they represent freedom.
14987	7/7/2012	Because they support literacy efforts and provide resources to people who need them the most in a difficult economy.
14988	7/7/2012	Libraries have always been a kind of sanctuary for me. They symbolize a kind of miraculous civic trust - freedom of information and public access to all - that is no accident, and we can easily take for granted the amount of courage they actually represent. The mere physical presence of a library lets me know that my values are being defended within a given community. And a good library means I'm welcome.
14989	7/7/2012	Because all the materials are free. This contributes more to a democracy than any other single institution. It levels the playing field so that ALL patrons have access to services and information. It's life-changing.
14990	7/7/2012	i have two children and i want them to understand how important reading and access to information is.
14991	7/7/2012	Access to material and important resources for the communities within the city.
14992	7/7/2012	The library is on a small list of govt. services that I directly interact with.
14993	7/7/2012	I can't afford to buy books, or even rent movies (or pay for a movie service). I and my son read a significant amount every day. I always have a huge amount of books checked out, and have my hold list full (with a document on my desktop full of books waiting to be put on hold). Because of all of this, I visit the library at least 3x/week, often more.
14994	7/7/2012	Libraries serve all. Education is the foundation of well-being for our community. This is a long-term benefit which deserves to be a high priority. The benefits will be with us for years to come with a well-informed community.
14995	7/7/2012	I love the library I use it to the max and I never have any money so it is free and I enjoy it.
14996	7/7/2012	Because we are readers.
14997	7/7/2012	Without literacy, a civilization perishes. Without information, a free society cannot exist. The free public library is the cornerstone of modern American culture. It is obvious when I visit my branch, the Midland Library, that many of the people there are recent immigrants, poor or elderly. For them, it is a lifeline. For the rest of us, it provides access to books and information that only the wealthy could otherwise afford.
14998	7/7/2012	library services are used by all sectors of the population in multnomah county. library services are the true safety net of our society.

14999	7/7/2012	Libraries are the citizenry's most importance source of books and information.
15000	7/7/2012	Libraries' connection to education, whether teaching a child to love learning or facilitating an adult's bettering him or herself, makes them that important.
15001	7/7/2012	I check out many fiction books - about 250 mostly mysteries per year. I could never afford to buy these books on my own. Many are "new" books that are new releases, that I have reserved, by using the online catalog search from my preferred authors list, to put these books "on hold". The library system is very effective in providing such services.
15002	7/7/2012	An educated, literate population is crucial to democracy.
15003	7/7/2012	Public libraries are the hallmark of an educated and vibrant society. They represent freedom of thought and expression, of improving oneself. In other words, they represent the most fundamental values of our community. In these difficult economic times, it is clear we must do something to ensure stable, long-term funding for our libraries. They are a necessity; we cannot afford to cut corners.
15004	7/7/2012	The public library is a community gathering place, a center of learning, and an economic equalizer in that its services are available to all. Good libraries upgrade a community's quality of life and increase property values. They are important for a community's literacy, from birth to old age. Babies learn pre-literacy skills, children learn about reading for pleasure, parents learn how to support their children's growing literacy, teens learn social and leadership skills as well as the pleasure of reading, and adults find job help, recreational reading, and a deepened knowledge of everything from cooking to investing to history to hobby skills to literature. New immigrants learn about this country and improve their English. The library is a cultural center and a crucial gauge of a community's health. A good library is integral and indispensable to a good community.
15005	7/7/2012	Using Maslow's hierarchy of needs, of course police and fire and medical services are going to come before libraries - but once the basics are taken care of, without knowledge and access to knowledge, character development and quality of life are stunted.
15006	7/7/2012	We are a family that home schools. The public library is a huge part of our curriculum. We go to the Hollywood Library at least twice per week most weeks. The librarians make a big difference in my son's interests and interest level for the material. We can't say enough good things about the people and the materials at our library.
15007	7/7/2012	They are free for anyone to use.
15008	7/7/2012	We wouldn't otherwise be able to afford the amount of books to ourselves or our child without the library.
15009	7/7/2012	Libraries are the great equalizer. No thinking society can get along without them.
15010	7/7/2012	Media of all kinds is expensive and not always accessible. The majority of Americans cannot individually provide the services and media that libraries can. Libraries help ensure an informed and educated populace. It takes a community to ensure what libraries provide. Together, we can do more than individually.

15011	7/7/2012	I read for pleasure and information. I value literacy and support it through my volunteer efforts at my local elementary school. (I'm a retired teacher.) For example, providing preschool and toddler story times can be a first or early contact to get parents involved in their child's early education and show what is developmentally appropriate for young children. I know that libraries are a very important resource to those who are trying to find work, succeed in school and learn both skills and information to help them succeed in their personal and professional lives.
15012	7/7/2012	They are the lifeblood for continued learning.
15013	7/7/2012	They provide free access to knowledge and learning.
15014	7/7/2012	I use the library to continuously learn. I use the library to bring books to the young children and teens I work with.[] Having the library available as a resource keeps me, as well as many students, going throughout the year. Without it I would miss the opportunity of finding quality literature.
15015	7/7/2012	I think literacy and avid readership are incredibly important because it inclines people to be more informed, to participate more and think creatively
15016	7/7/2012	Without libraries our communities are in danger of falling to ignorance. Information and knowledge are the keys to a successful civilization.
15017	7/7/2012	Libraries are the only free space open to the community for various activities and discourse. This is the foundation of democracy.
15018	7/7/2012	Fundamental. I am a library employee. Even when I have not been a library employee, I have been an incredibly active, positive user of the library services. This library system is a cornerstone of our great city/region.
15019	7/7/2012	Ouch-how do you answer this? I want fire, police, schools and all the other services. Since schools are getting rid of staff in libraries, we need public libraries to fill in.
15020	7/7/2012	They are important to my family
15021	7/7/2012	It is a great resource to the community. I see the computers being used all the time by all ages, some people cannot afford access to Internet or computers. It is just a great place for information.
15022	7/7/2012	They help me learn and also save money.
15023	7/7/2012	I don't have as much income to rent movies or buy books. I really like to supplement my knowledge now that I no longer in school.
15024	7/7/2012	We use the library every week for books and media.
15025	7/7/2012	I think services that actually save lives may be more important-the safety net or actual emergency services. It is hard to imagine living in a community that does not support the public library.
15026	7/7/2012	Free, regular access to education through libraries is as critical as any other gov service.
15027	7/7/2012	Kids need the library as a safe place to go to study and get material.
15028	7/7/2012	Right up there with clean water, reliable energy sources, and practical waste disposal services.
15029	7/7/2012	i don't have children, and i live very close to work, so the library is the most significant bang for local tax dollars bucks.

15030	7/7/2012	As a frequent library user, once a week, it is my single source for material I want to learn about but can't afford to buy the book or download because I do not have an electronic reader. Plus I enjoy the physical contact of a real book that I can turn the pages. I'm old school. I don't use the computer resources because I have a computer at home - but I recognize the vital need for these services for those who can't afford a computer and monthly internet service. An informed society is very important to me.
15031	7/7/2012	The library provides resources to all people, even people looking for a way to pay for the other local services.
15032	7/7/2012	Free access to literacy materials is vital!
15033	7/7/2012	constant use that adds to my quality of life and brings joy. increases the human capital of our community as people are able to educate themselves for free. increases the literacy level of young and immigrant citizens.
15034	7/7/2012	Out of all the county's resources, I use it the most frequently and derive much satisfaction from doing so.
15035	7/7/2012	I believe the library can be the central foundation of a vibrant, educated community. A library is a safe place, a community gathering place, a supplement to education, a place to go when you are new to a neighborhood. A library assumes and assists a certain level of civility to exist in a given place. I rank libraries up with police, fire and education as mandatory expenditures in a tax system.
15036	7/7/2012	The library offers so many valuable services (access to an array of reading materials, different types of media, classes on different topics, and face-to-face help) provided to families and those who often cannot afford to access them any other way.
15037	7/7/2012	I value what they bring to the community, accessible for all income levels, sources of current and historical information, and I no longer have the money to purchase books/CDs/DVDs, etc. like I used to, so I appreciate having a wide variety of materials available to me.
15038	7/7/2012	information is the lifeblood of democracy
15039	7/7/2012	Because of everything I said in #6.
15040	7/7/2012	where else can people go to get free internet access to fill out their unemployment forms, or learn how to make a resume and find a job. where else can they find resources to expand their mind, create something, search for long lost relatives, research a multitude of topics, meet new people, participate in interesting conversations, and truly feel like a part of this community.[] []
15041	7/7/2012	all of this for free, in whatever language you want, no matter your political or religious persuasion, the library folks are there and are so excited to help you.
15042	7/7/2012	Other public services do not provide the same level of wrap-around support and unconditional access that our library does.
15043	7/7/2012	Information source and community connector Fundamental for every aspect of life - useful for every citizen.

15044	7/7/2012	We are a highly literate city. We Portlanders place a high value on information and engagement. The library is the place where those values are most clearly expressed. Portland is exemplified by its libraries.
15045	7/6/2012	Equal access to information and opportunities help to continually strengthen communities everywhere.
15046	7/6/2012	The library is not only a place to check out books and use computers, but to feel involved in the community and to connect with other people. The library helps people find jobs, recover from adverse situations, learn to read, and stay warm and dry. It's not just a big building(s) full of books.
15047	7/6/2012	If people do not have access to a variety of information sources, they are more easily controlled by the media and politicians who do not usually act in their best interest.
15048	7/6/2012	Very high
15049	7/6/2012	If people care to take advantage of them, libraries can supply so many of the requirements of a competent, informed citizenry: information by many different media, entertainment, a public gathering place that is safe, where children can learn and practice how to behave in public spaces with consideration and respect for all, services that are interactive.
15050	7/6/2012	The library is critical to ensuring that citizens are well informed, that children are ready for school, and that immigrants and others are able to improve their position in society.
15051	7/6/2012	Libraries help stave off stupidity. Public libraries are essential to the citizens of our Republic & an educated electorate is essential to the survival of our Republic. The feel good programs are all well and good but not as vital as excellent collections.
15052	7/6/2012	Education is the key to empowerment and getting ahead in life, and libraries offer that to everyone, free of charge.
15053	7/6/2012	The library helps us raise our daughter surrounded by wonderful classic and current books of all kinds. The family programming is a great community builder, and the staff are wonderfully helpful and friendly. The electronic book services are fantastic for me. We go to the library weekly, but I love being able to access ebooks anytime.
15054	7/6/2012	Free education! Entertainment! Value put on reading and education and the written word.
15055	7/6/2012	They're right up there with good policing, fine education from Headstart through graduate school, excellent fire patrolling.....I can't really say which is most important.
15056	7/6/2012	i rely on the library for assisting with my work as a Montessori teacher for classroom works. and my own education, interests and research. i would be lost with out the library!
15057	7/6/2012	Libraries are a flexible resource that help everyone. When you're poor, you do a lot of agency time. It's great to have an agency that doesn't make you spill your guts on a form and answer a bunch of questions to get help.
15058	7/6/2012	Libraries are an expression of democracy--equal rights and literacy. I believe the institution of public libraries is one of the best manifestations of American culture.

15059	7/6/2012	Because education is not high quality in Oregon, kids don't have places to go after school if their parents work, and libraries can fill in many gaps. Also because I use the resources enormously and cannot afford to buy all the books I want to read or use for research.
15060	7/6/2012	They don't trump fire and police, but they provide a wonderful point of civic involvement.
15061	7/6/2012	The library contributes to the livability of the community for all the members of the community -- even those who do not use the library -- by making life-long learning resources available to all regardless of socio-economic level.
15062	7/6/2012	I believe that free public libraries are a crucial resource for educating our citizens of all ages. I have volunteered providing books to inmates who have lower literacy levels ~ it's important to be able to read to get a job and to be able to function in our society in a multitude of ways. Libraries are wonderful places for children and adults to learn about the wonders of the world through a wide variety of printed materials and Internet access for those who don't have a computer at home. Personally I live alone and often enjoy going to my neighborhood library to browse the shelves or sit and read a magazine, often meeting folks that I know. When it's rainy and dreary in the winter, the library is an inviting place to go without needing to spend money to buy a coffee in a coffeeshop. I know that other public services are important, but none of them benefit me as directly as the libraries do on a regular basis.
15063	7/6/2012	Open to everyone no matter what income level or even where they are from. People who are traveling use the library too.
15064	7/6/2012	It provides something to do everyday...reading, using a computer, meeting place.
15065	7/6/2012	i think it's incredibly important for social equity to have information and information-gathering-technology - as well as literature and other reading materials - available to the public with no/minimal barriers-to-entry, in an environment that's welcoming to all.
15066	7/6/2012	When I need a book or magazine, or other similar information, the library catalog is the first place I check
15067	7/6/2012	Libraries are a proactive service that keep citizens out of reactive services such as health and public safety. Literacy is a key foundation of democracy.
15068	7/6/2012	Literacy and education are vital for the sustained development, and even the existence, of western civilization.
15069	7/6/2012	Books and media are very expensive and I am on a fixed income
15070	7/6/2012	Libraries serve everyone in the community. They support school children (especially now, when school libraries have been decimated and there are almost no trained school librarians left to teach our children), job seekers, immigrants learning English and working on citizenship, people who are home-bound, everybody who is cash-strapped in these hard times.

15071	7/6/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer, I think. Anyone can go, anyone can read and check out media. I feel that librarians and pharmacists are our most underutilized and extremely well-trained professions. I think that libraries are vital to the community. They provide a safe place to share information and to learn. I think a place like that is more important now than ever.
15072	7/6/2012	I use the library system the most.
15073	7/6/2012	Probably because I can't imagine a life without a library! I've been going to Hollywood for 40 years.
15074	7/6/2012	very important
15075	7/6/2012	Public libraries are a basic right.
15076	7/6/2012	Health, schools, and police are more important.
15077	7/6/2012	Because I read A LOT!
15078	7/6/2012	Because I use the library all the time, it is the one place where I really can see how my tax dollars are spent and where can directly benefit from them. I save thousands of dollars a year by reading books I get through the library.
15079	7/6/2012	I read a lot of books, both novels & historical. Having access to local branch to pick up books requested is very important part of my life. Also, check out many movies & music and check for local events happening.
15080	7/6/2012	I use the library for internet access since I don't have a computer at home and get materials (books, CD's, and DVD's).
15081	7/6/2012	Access to information is critical, especially for minorities and underserved communities. Libraries provide educational programs that some folks might not otherwise be able to participate in. Books can save lives. Stories help us to understand who we are as human beings. Libraries can be a haven.
15082	7/6/2012	Everyone in our family reads, so it's important to have a good rotating supply of books at a reasonable cost (paying taxes for libraries seems better to us than buying books that we might read only once or twice).
15083	7/6/2012	The library does so many things for the community. My son enjoys books, story times, the summer reading program and other programs. My husband and I get books, DVDs, music CDs, etc. My elderly parents get materials from LOS also. It has something for everyone.
15084	7/6/2012	I think that emergency services tops the bill, but libraries are next.
15085	7/6/2012	We love books and appreciate the opportunity to read them without having to buy them. I am a writer, and without access to written material at libraries I would find it very difficult (and expensive) to conduct research.
15086	7/6/2012	Access to books and other reading materials is essential to a healthy community
15087	7/6/2012	most
15088	7/6/2012	An uneducated public is dangerous.
15089	7/6/2012	I'd rather have my roads fixed. However, libraries are more important than bike lanes.
15090	7/6/2012	They fulfill a need you can't get elsewhere; great for low income people

15091	7/6/2012	It's an amenity that makes a good city great.
15092	7/6/2012	because they provide something that other public services do not, "Free access to all and everything"
15093	7/6/2012	This is a difficult question and I'm not sure that "very important" is the right answer. I don't know if we should equate libraries with the same level of importance as fire and police protection, K - 12 education, health care, the judicial system, and social services. Libraries are, however, the gateway to knowledge and information for so many people that it's possible to make the case that they are of equal importance to the other things I listed.
15094	7/6/2012	Personally, because I use the library often, and love having free access to so many books and audiobooks. But the library also serves people who might not otherwise have access to so many things--it's a public necessity!
15095	7/6/2012	they are a symbol of trust & offer a level learning playing field
15096	7/6/2012	Books are so important to the growth of a person, being able to read, reading comprehension, as well as being able to access computers and being able to learn new skills
15097	7/6/2012	Libraries are available to everyone. They provide the knowledge we need to have successful communities and enrich our lives more so than any other educational/cultural institution.
15098	7/6/2012	because it contributes very powerfully to our collective sense of well-being. it is a shared resource.
15099	7/6/2012	The taxes I pay to support the library more than cover the materials and programs I have access to.
15100	7/6/2012	If I had to choose only one public service it would probably be the library.
15101	7/6/2012	My husband and I use the library quite a bit. We use the online databases and electronic books and audio-books. With the exception of reading material in German, we rarely purchase books and rely on the library. We also borrow almost all of our movies from the library.
15102	7/6/2012	I use it frequently it's a great resource for exploring new educational opportunities. Also provides entertainment at a low cost.
15103	7/6/2012	Education and the access to knowledge and learning can help raise the level of our society. It is very important for materials and computers and classes to be made available - especially to those who cannot afford to pay for their own.
15104	7/6/2012	I love that the library offers resources for the community. Resources like job searching help, computer access, new materials, database access, literacy programs for children, etc, etc. The library is such a beautiful place, and I believe that it upholds the belief that everyone has a right to information of any kind.
15105	7/6/2012	Libraries provide countless services to all citizens, regardless of status.
15106	7/6/2012	I think the library serves as the one place where the playing field with resources for the haves and the have-nots is level.

15107	7/6/2012	Educated citizens are the core of civil society. We need to have free access to information to function as a healthy democracy.
15108	7/6/2012	important for citizens to have free access to internet & wifi and materials to watch and read
15109	7/6/2012	Literacy paves every child's path toward opportunity. The library provides access to literacy and community resources to children and vulnerable populations which can open doors for these people. It also provides one of the only free community gathering places besides churches, which plenty of people don't belong to.
15110	7/6/2012	I love to read and I am on a very limited budget.
15111	7/6/2012	VERY!
15112	7/6/2012	they're free and useful to EVERYONE
15113	7/6/2012	Information is a powerful commodity, and making information publicly available is essential to a liberated society.
15114	7/6/2012	Because they serve everyone regardless of income levels
15115	7/6/2012	I use the library frequently to help me find information for both my business and my hobbies.
15116	7/6/2012	Because in this tough economy they provide resources for those seeking jobs, those who can not afford internet access and for me personally, they provide free entertainment! I'm a student and the library also offers me yet another resource to do my research for school.
15117	7/6/2012	Democracy is based on the idea that the average person is, or can be, educated. Libraries provide that education - for free - through many avenues: early childhood programs so that youth enter school ready to learn; support for school-age youth to succeed academically (and a safe place to be after school); adult classes ranging from GED & learning English to personal enrichment.
15118	7/6/2012	Because the library is the last bastion of free public service available to all.
15119	7/6/2012	Libraries are a cornerstone of democracy, like public schools, and benefit all citizens.
15120	7/6/2012	Libraries promote growth and learning which is vital!
15121	7/6/2012	It's great to be able to have up-to-date resources available to me if I'm not able to purchase them or obtain them through any other forum.
15122	7/6/2012	free services to all people. free computer access.
15123	7/6/2012	Compared to police, fire, and water, they are less important, but in general I think a healthy library is the sign of a health community.
15124	7/6/2012	OK, the library is not the police or fire department or even garbage pickup ... but it's more important than leaf removal. An educated community (in whatever way people wish to educate themselves) is critical in these times of too-rapid information without time to pause and think.
15125	7/6/2012	Libraries are essential to the local and global community! I can't imagine a world without libraries...
15126	7/6/2012	Libraries are a key source of information and learning that is available to everyone. They also help people be giving them access to materials that they would otherwise need to purchase.
15127	7/6/2012	it's called democracy. An educated, informed public is what makes a democracy work.

15128	7/6/2012	Who else gives you free access to so much awesome stuff?
15129	7/6/2012	My passion is the library. Without the neutral space of the library, we lose something huge. Namely, democracy. Eventually we would be "owned" by corporate America.
15130	7/6/2012	The library is a place where all aspects of society can come together, plus feel civic pride in something that belongs to every body in the community.
15131	7/6/2012	It works for my children. Special activities, especially through the summer.
15132	7/6/2012	The library is everything! It's the center of our community, a symbol of democracy, and an amazing way to leverage resources to have access to books and online information.
15133	7/6/2012	Libraries are the last place where anyone can learn and improve themselves and their situation, regardless of their circumstances.
15134	7/6/2012	The Library provides free services for all. Not only does it provide entertainment, but it is a good resource for all people at all socioeconomic levels.
15135	7/6/2012	It is one of the only places where the entire community is served without judgement. Access to information is fundamental in a democracy.
15136	7/6/2012	The only truly free public internet access, support for schools with shrinking resources, keeps the public informed
15137	7/6/2012	I've seen burned out neighborhoods left to their fate, while the library was rebuilt after the fire: I guess everyone needs the library.
15138	7/6/2012	The ability to read and have access to information is a key part of an informed democracy.
15139	7/6/2012	At our library, folks from the entire neighborhood come together, to learn, to connect, to discover. The summer reading program keeps kids engaged with reading and helps diminish the gap between the end of one school year and beginning of the next. Literacy is the most important skill children will develop, and it's fun.
15140	7/6/2012	I love libraries and love books. It is a treat to see the Northwest library so busy all the time. With books and internet access, kids have a more level playing field.
15141	7/6/2012	Keeping the community connected, knowledgeable, and certain of the civic backbone of our city is a huge and important task. Libraries say we're all in this together and we care about each other. We share, we educate, we don't care how much money you have. Come in and drink in the thoughts of others: learn, enjoy, and be a part of our community. What's more important?
15142	7/6/2012	Other local services fire and police, transportation infrastructure, affordable housing all seem vastly more important on a daily basis. Students generally have access to K-12 and university libraries. I'm an avid reader and I want access to books but there are other resources for books.
15143	7/6/2012	I use the library to supplement what our school is or isn't teaching. I also use it for personal reading, but I think how I use it for and with my children is extremely important.
15144	7/6/2012	Libraries feed the mind, educate, entertain, sustain, and are key to a healthy democracy. Access to learning is fundamental. In addition, with reduction in K-12 educational services, libraries are increasingly an important resource for students.

15145	7/6/2012	I have very little money and being able to access things through the library means a great deal to me.
15146	7/6/2012	"reading is fundamental"
15147	7/6/2012	Personal and professional needs.
15148	7/6/2012	equal access to information and information resources
15149	7/6/2012	I love books and I love movies. I think having easy access to both is incredibly important. With the economy what it is, buying books and movies is a luxury that a lot of people can't afford. The library makes them available to everyone.
15150	7/6/2012	I have frequented the library since I was five years old, and I do not want library services to be cut or diminished.
15151	7/6/2012	The library in our neighborhood is a community resource. It is a place that strengthens our sense of community. It is difficult to compare with fire, police and other neighborhood services, but it is very important.
15152	7/6/2012	Services like Police and Fire are top priority obviously. Now, more than ever we need the resources of the library for education, career resources and entertainment.
15153	7/6/2012	Reading is knowledge and knowledge is power. Don't take away our power!
15154	7/6/2012	The library can serve every echelon of society equally. When times are tough financially, more people turn to the library for much-needed resources and information. It's open to everyone who needs it and everyone who wants it.
15155	7/6/2012	It is important to me because of what the library allows people to further themselves with knowledge no matter how rich or poor that person is. It is also part of our education system that complements our public schools and our public universities.
15156	7/6/2012	it's the cornerstone of a democratic society
15157	7/6/2012	I could never afford to purchase all the books that I want to read. If only the rich people could afford books and other materials, then those who couldn't afford it would not have access and would therefore be at a disadvantage educationally.
15158	7/6/2012	Because I use the library often
15159	7/6/2012	My income has fluctuated quite a bit over the years. Having MCL providing great services means I never have to go without when it comes to reading material, internet access, or programming for my children. Having a branch nearby is a major component for my quality of life to the point where it's a major factor in where I choose to live. I don't think I would buy or rent living space that wasn't within walking distance of a library branch.
15160	7/6/2012	Libraries are a key piece of our community's educational system. They're as important as schools. They're the lifeblood able to services and support for virtually every citizen.
15161	7/6/2012	Libraries are the foundation of a free and informed citizenry.

15162	7/6/2012	I love to read and with my reading appetite, my family can't afford to keep up with that cost. It is also important that our toddler gets opportunities to experience a variety of books to prepare him for education early on.
15163	7/6/2012	Without knowledge, or access to knowledge, the people will perish.
15164	7/6/2012	They fall right under the essentials (police, schools, roads), but maybe are even on the same level. They provide a lot of important services that fill important gaps in the community (providing access to books and DVDs, helping people with literacy, providing PCs for job-seekers). They are there to help with many things. For instance, summer reading for my reluctant reader - it keeps her going all summer reading. Helps with research for travel...enjoyment of books and music also on homework. Where else do you get resources about a bridge report for Portland bridges. Schools have such limited resources they rely on the public library for this curriculum.
15165	7/6/2012	Apart from fire/life/safety, having free and unrestricted access to information and services in support of education is a cornerstone of our society.
15167	7/6/2012	They serve everyone and provide services that go far beyond warehousing books.
15168	7/6/2012	Only thing like it.
15169	7/6/2012	I have a limited budget for books and entertainment. With the library I can have a steady stream of reading material at no extra cost to my budget. I can try books that I might not otherwise buy and expand my horizons.
15170	7/6/2012	Police, fire, schools, planning, streets, jails, utilities and parks are all important. We need to figure out what is important and then be willing to pay for it.
15171	7/6/2012	Local library services are the only local public service that I actively seek out on a weekly basis. Libraries are where I learned about myself and the world. Having a place to go to make discoveries was immensely important to me as a child, young adult, and is still important to this day for me. As a nanny, I took children there for story time. When I moved out of my parents' house and didn't have internet, I went there to check email, to make photocopies, etc. And most importantly, I went there to discover new authors, to research topics that interested me, and to have a quiet, clean, safe place to hang out as a teenager.
15172	7/6/2012	The library is the center of the community- provides access to information, books and resources, social connection, learning, service and civic discourse.
15173	7/6/2012	Libraries support reading, which enables a smart community, which is better for the community.
15174	7/6/2012	Because a well informed public is the first and best defense against tyranny.
15175	7/6/2012	I started using my local library as a tiny child with my mother for reading hours. As I grew, I rode my book there at least once a week to look at books and check out books to take home. It meant everything to me. I've continued to use my library primarily for books, media, and research and I'm approaching 60. Libraries have always been a huge part of my life, and I expect that to continue. Thanks.
15176	7/6/2012
15177	7/6/2012	They are an extension of schools

15178	7/6/2012	they are essential, right below police/fire dept/water, but up there with public schools
15179	7/6/2012	public safety, education, and infrastructure are more important than libraries, but we do need them. I wish there was greater integration of schools, parks, recreation, libraries, and public services together in neighborhoods. These should also take full benefit of technology and increase positive social interaction among residents.
15180	7/6/2012	Free sources of books, magazines, information from staff, programs for readers, outreach services to retirement and assisted living residences.
15181	7/6/2012	Libraries connect people to KNOWLEDGE. If used (correctly??), libraries are an ESSENTIAL TOOL TO MAINTAIN AN ENGAGED CITIZENRY. We need libraries for access to information, despite our digital world. We need libraries to connect us to each other. Libraries are free community connections where people are looking for knowledge. They are integral to a thriving community.
15182	7/6/2012	I believe information (books, magazine, how-to's) should always be free access.
15183	7/6/2012	The dumbing down of this country is a crying shame. When the working class no longer has access to library services it will surely be a sharp decline from there. Everyone deserves access to the knowledge and enjoyment provided by the public library system.
15184	7/6/2012	My family has access to books, DVDs, CDs, and online information we could never afford on our own. They help us relax, stay informed, make good decisions. I trust the web sites you have on the topics pages,
15185	7/6/2012	The library is where I get much of my reading material, and serves a hugely important purpose as a place to introduce my young child to the pleasures of reading. The public library is the only publicly funded entity that supports the literacy development of children before kindergarten. That's a very big deal! All kids should have easy access to free, high-quality library services. Also, many, many people who are looking for work need the library as a source for internet and help in using it. A free public library is really an essential element of democracy.
15186	7/6/2012	Provide books and other services to all, even those who can't afford them. Advocates literacy and love of reading, life long learning. Was my favorite place to go as a child. Still love it.
15187	7/6/2012	As stated in previous questions, the combination of access to books and media, and resources for job, business, educational and other research, and programs for children and education/self-improvement.
15188	7/6/2012	I feel that the more people read, the better off we are. Informed people make better decisions.
15189	7/6/2012	Very important in the current financial times. Still want to read, but books continue to increase in cost and are now too expensive to buy.
15190	7/6/2012	A quality library system reflects the quality of life in the community in which it is found. In supporting the public library system the public argues for the importance of books, information, and learning; the institution is a cultural marker.
15191	7/6/2012	Access to books and periodicals I'd otherwise not have.

15192	7/6/2012	Well known and available for multiple resources
15193	7/6/2012	Because when people can use the library's options and resources they will need other public services less.
15194	7/6/2012	The library is a cornerstone in creating equality of opportunity. Everyone needs access to all kinds of information. It's hugely important to have a public institution that makes our common heritage, culture, and knowledge available to everyone.
15195	7/6/2012	They are a cost effective way to provide information and services in all its various forms, (books, CDs, children's programs, senior programs) to the largest amount of people.
15196	7/6/2012	Because of the way libraries are run now days. (I know I am a librarian who worked for Seattle Public Library and other special libraries). Way too much emphasis is placed on delivery systems and not enough on good content. There are NOT ENOUGH LIBRARIANS in the system and patrons think they are talking to a librarian when they are talking to an LA, I've worked with a lot of good LAs but I would want to know if I went to the Dr. whether I speaking to the doctor, or a nurse or the receptionist. I know this is a cost saving measure but it does not serve the patrons. Leave books in the system that important books even if they circ only occasionally. And cut back on mgt. Yes we can do without you Ms/Mr big shot. Working librarians know that the patron comes first and that there is a difference between a book and a good book. Educated people by and large only use the library to put video businesses out of business because they can't find the books they want.
15197	7/6/2012	They provide a sense of community. They offer access to reading material and all that has to offer. Going to the library and picking out books is one of my child's highlights of the week. Book babies, and now tiny tots, is an activity that we participate in since she was an infant. Being connected to a library throughout childhood was very important to me.
15198	7/6/2012	Libraries are equal-opportunity resources that can benefit EVERYONE, of all ages and abilities. Libraries make it possible for people to help themselves and rise above their current levels of cognitive, social, emotional, or even physical state. Without libraries there would be only stagnation.
15199	7/6/2012	Because the library serves everyone- with a special emphasis on people who would normally not have access to what they offer. People of all ages, all economic levels, all education levels- whether they are new to our country or whether their family has lived here for generations. Whether they can speak English or not.. Free libraries are one of the great things about this country. Its right up there with free education and free speech.[] Its one of the best ways that I can think of for my tax dollars to be spent.
15200	7/6/2012	It is a place where everyone can access the knowledge that they seek without judgement.

15201	7/6/2012	I don't have to prove a need to come into the library and access what's there -- I can just do it. Lots of other local public services are because I am in trouble, or because I have to qualify or have a problem. No matter what, I can use the library, and I can use it to make my life better and more rewarding. It is so positive, and such a wonderful way to connect with my community.
15202	7/6/2012	When everyone has free access to information, we are all better off.
15203	7/6/2012	The services are very important to me because of its accessibility to all in our community and the the support that it gives to promoting and encouraging the literacy of all.
15204	7/6/2012	I am retired and on social security. I do not buy books anymore because of the cost -- or very few but I read about 2 to 3 books a week. Also, I like to browse for books of many different genres.
15205	7/6/2012	Very
15206	7/6/2012	Libraries are vital to communities. They equalize access to resources by providing computer access as well as loaning books and DVDs, they offer support to job seekers, English language learners and seniors, they encourage kids to develop lifelong reading habits, and are central to an informed public that is a keystone of democracy.
15207	7/6/2012	Use the library as my main source of reading materials
15208	7/6/2012	I don't have a lot of money and I appreciate being able to access learning materials for free. It has helped me so much in my education. I appreciate the way the library offers new books and great media for me. I also love that the library has cultural and family activities. It is a staple in our community
15209	7/6/2012	We use library frequently.
15210	7/6/2012	Libraries bring the community together. They provide access to information and culture. It is crucial to have an informed community for democracy to work. Schools can do this too, but for people who aren't connected to a public school like the elderly the library serves that role.
15211	7/6/2012	Almost everyone I know uses the library - how many other community entities so 'effortlessly' bring together such wide swaths of class, culture, income, employment,...
15212	7/6/2012	everything in the community is better because of the library--the library is an absolute positive influence on the community
15213	7/6/2012	The Multnomah County Library offers so much more than just books -- though books are incredibly important too, obviously. Our libraries promote early literacy, aid the jobless in finding sustenance, provide community meeting space, offer resources for continuing education, on and on. In a nutshell, our libraries offer us myriad ways to educate ourselves, which is an incredible public service. The library is extremely important to my family and has definitely instilled a life long love of books and learning in my kid.
15214	7/6/2012	Many of the services the county provides are very important. I believe the library is the glue that holds the community together. It's used by such a wide cross-section of our community. It's one of the few places that is truly welcoming to all comers. It should be open every day with convenient hours.

15215	7/6/2012	Help me stay up to date on new information. Gives avenue for reading new books, mags
15216	7/6/2012	It gives so much. Its there when you need it, with out fail.
15217	7/6/2012	A free resource for all the people, crucial when economic times are hard. Great job search resource. Also, focus on education in a society that seems to value that less and less.
15218	7/6/2012	Previous question is such political b.s. The library is an integral component of an enlightened community. Why is it being held for ransom?
15219	7/6/2012	I'm a small business owner and I depend on your paid databases to conduct necessary research. If knowledge is power, then the library is the most egalitarian portal to dispense that knowledge. ¶
15220	7/6/2012	¶ I guess I would also like to know what you consider "other local public services". I may not rank it above police or fire departments, but I would still rank it highly.
15221	7/6/2012	I'm not sure what you mean.
15222	7/6/2012	Without information, democracy cannot survive. It's the service I use.
15223	7/6/2012	Literacy offers people more opportunities to succeed.
15224	7/6/2012	Because reading and education are incredibly important, especially for children in a time when school funding and programs are being gutted. It also provides resources to those who cannot otherwise afford them, acting like a social equalizer.
15225	7/6/2012	The public library is a resource my family turns to almost every day. We use the library to learn and better ourselves and our lives, for entertainment, and we meet people of many walks of life, all in our neighborhood. There are few or nc cost barriers, unlike cultural events or 'institutions of higher learning.' Since the library doesn't operate with a profit motive, people of modest means can access books and services they'd otherwise be denied. I certainly could never afford to buy all of the books I read in a week, let alone a year! But I can share that cost with my neighbors, and have access to materials to last for the rest of my life.
15226	7/6/2012	Libraries provide critical free access to knowledge to citizens at a time when our democracy and education systems are in decline.
15227	7/6/2012	Information is power. The library is the place where I feel that I have access to open and unbiased information.
15228	7/6/2012	I got most of my education from books. I grew up with over-burdened public schools. Now, I'm a writer and a teacher of writing. I use my library daily. My grandmother always said- if you can read- you'll never be lonely.¶ The written word transports you and teaches you in ways you just can't get anywhere else.
15229	7/6/2012	I love to read, but don't have the resources to buy as many books as I want. Thus, using the library affords me the opportunity to read what I want when I want.
15230	7/6/2012	"You don't have to burn books to destroy a culture. Just get people to stop reading them." -Bradbury, Fahrenheit 451

15231	7/6/2012	It is at somewhat important, in that I feel that public safety is at very important (fire, police, public health). It is something I enjoy (helps me be sustainable personally), and an equalizer of opportunity. However, since I am not an audience of senior or family, the prominence is less than very important.
15232	7/6/2012	What would we do without a Library???? Hello - we all grew up at the Library! The written word-new and old-must be accessible to all for free! That is what libraries were originally designed for, I believe. My local library got my hesitant nose in books each summer as a child and helps me get my students noses in books everyday in the classroom and at home. But besides reading materials, the library is a community location to meet and connect with others, learn a new life skill (ie languages, computer/internet navigation, etc.), and a safe place for kids to find their interests, hobbies, and knowledge about the world around them.
15233	7/6/2012
15234	7/6/2012	i read library books every day. and seriously, as someone with a mental illness, not only have the materials themselves provided invaluable information, but just going to the library to browse has become a really important coping skill for me when i'm upset. i know that's really specific and random, but it's true.
15235	7/6/2012	Libraries are a huge resource for education and opportunity for all segments of our community. They level the playing field for lower-income people, encourage literacy and community engagement at all ages, and support our community's economy, civic life, and culture.
15236	7/6/2012	Libraries are fundamental in a democratic society, a foundation that supports all citizens in every aspect of their lives.
15237	7/6/2012	I use the library for education, entertainment and connecting with my community. The days/hours are important because they allow me to work the long hours I do, and still access the resources at the library.
15238	7/6/2012	They are an important component of public education
15239	7/6/2012	The library is the one of the only non-commercial community spaces left. It is the soul of this place, really.
15240	7/6/2012	Without libraries and access to information, there is no democracy.
15241	7/6/2012	Because they instill a level of literacy in our whole society, not just people who can afford books and computers, but everyone. They are the ONLY place in our society open and free to all, to pursue their own educational and enrichment goals, to bring a love of reading and learning to their children and to offer a real commons for everyone to enjoy. They have been important to me for my entire life, which is closing in on 60 years, and they are important to my children and every current generation.
15242	7/6/2012	Public libraries serve everyone and are free. They provide tremendous value to the community.
15243	7/6/2012	Very important.

15244	7/6/2012	I recently went to the Belmont location on a Monday and found out that the library was closed. I wondered what our society would be like if we were not to have access to free information and knowledge and I felt depressed. Like the many public services we enjoy in Portland, the library is essential in sustaining the quality of life and a sense of livability we are used to and want in our city.
15245	7/6/2012	My family uses the Multnomah County Library (and places nearly the same level of importance on) as we use any public utility -- water service, electricity, etc. If we didn't have the library, I believe life would literally have less meaning for us. We LOVE the library.
15246	7/6/2012	We use the library regularly. We also use the roads, my child will go to public school, we recycle and compost via City programs. My sense is there are many critical public services that we rely on and take for granted and only notice once they get cut.
15247	7/6/2012	They provide a ground-zero entry point into human being - ultimately continuing into more concrete avenues of local and national being (citizen, educated, critical thinking, technological). Not to mention the open space of an engaging and welcoming public commons.
15248	7/6/2012	It's a service that I use often. I would have to spend alot of money buying books, dvds, magazines and subscriptions to databases if I didn't use the library.
15249	7/6/2012	It's the only thing that's there to serve everyone -- regardless of your ability to pay. No paperwork, no membership fee, no religion, no hassle. And it provides the things that really matter in maintaining a healthy community -- IDEAS!!
15250	7/6/2012	The library is so much more than just checking out a book (although that's important, of course - not everyone is able to or wants to spend money on a book or DVD they'll only read/view once); it's about community. It's helpful for language learners, children interacting with other children before preschool, school-age kids getting help with homework. The very fate of the future is at stake! If we don't help invest in the children's educational future, they may eventually end up in gangs on the street. I don't want that. Also, with the continuing job recession, folks still need help searching for jobs. Many people had to cut back expenses, including internet. If the library provides them with help (a computer and internet for at least an hour) that's better than feeling hopeless about the future.
15251	7/6/2012	Not life sustaining, but important for local culture
15252	7/6/2012	I learn about things I otherwise wouldn't have access to because I would have to buy books.
15253	7/6/2012	Well we need roads, water, and electricity. But providing a place where people can learn and grow is important to communities as a whole.
15254	7/6/2012	My husband and I rely on the library for almost all of our entertainment needs. We visit the branch multiple times a week and have for years and years. We choose not to own a TV, so the DVDs, books and music we get from the library are our mainstay, something we enjoy and find enriching.
15255	7/6/2012	Access to reading/materials for free gives every person the opportunity to learn and seek knowledge equally. This is very important to me in that all people can have access regardless of their social, economic status.

15256	7/6/2012	I feel the library is the last democratic institution that exists in this country-all people have access to the materials offered and services are offered in many languages
15257	7/6/2012	Because Multnomah County Library is the best city or county service. I need my sewer. I love my library.
15258	7/6/2012	Books and other media along with programs keep the community literate and well served.
15259	7/6/2012	To me, reading books is almost as important as drinking clean water or breathing clean air or living in a safe community - I can't imagine life without it.
15260	7/6/2012	Libraries are very important for children, families, and the local economy. People go to the library and then other businesses nearby to spend money.[] Libraries are key to public education and informing citizens. [] Also, libraries provide books and readers are not bored or lonely, because we hac e our local library for books !
15261	7/6/2012	It's personally important because I use them. More importantly they are one of the only places that people have in the community to gather, use wifi and get information or help finding resources for free (well through taxes).
15262	7/6/2012	The library is a tool I use daily to learn and entertain. The library makes learning affordable
15263	7/6/2012	The library is essential to a vibrant, educated, proactive society. It's one of the foundations of our community.
15264	7/6/2012	Libraries are preventative care for our communities. Superior access to libraries, health care, and education means that communities need fewer policing, jailing, rehabilitation, and emergency care services. They also provide a useful and pleasant place for folks to go during the day when it's very hot, cold, or wet out.
15265	7/6/2012	gt4rbg4rg
15266	7/6/2012	Libraries are the one public service that its customers use by choice, for free, and serves every single person equally.
15267	7/6/2012	Intellectual vitality being available to everyone is an important thing, but not as important as, say, the fire department. It's close though!
15268	7/6/2012	high importance
15269	7/6/2012	I go to the library fairly often for a variety of reasons.
15270	7/6/2012	My children are avid readers and we have no more room for us to buy books. It is also very expensive. To be able to check out books for them is great. We can check them out and are able to read a lot more.
15271	7/6/2012	Question 7 is poorly worded. Would have been better to define what all the other services are. The library isn't a matter of life and death but it is a matter of community and public access to information and resources
15272	7/6/2012	An informed public has at least a chance against any tyranny. Knowledge shared isn't lost....
15273	7/6/2012	Stupid people make the world stupid.

15274	7/6/2012	I value free access to all community members to reading materials, internet access, music, and other media.
15275	7/6/2012	Based on the lack of long term effectiveness and dependability of a resource system such as this.
15276	7/6/2012	Access to information, literature, recorded music, etc. is important for all of us, individually and as a society.
15277	7/6/2012	Because I'm able to access media, books and online material. It's a community hub for all types for the community. You also feel safe there
15278	7/6/2012	There's nothing like the library. Unique services, all for free.
15279	7/6/2012	Libraries are the single most important access of information a community has and "information" is a pretty big umbrella. It's important to have a resource like this that is free and open to the public. A community is stronger when it's empowered by the influence of libraries. Anyway Multnomah County libraries are run so well that it would be a shame to see that cut. I mean, if I had to choose between a fire department and the libraries, I'd pick the fire department. Maybe that's selfish. But libraries are SO important. Libraries make our communities better places to live. Libraries open up worlds to people![]
15280	7/6/2012	[] They're not just essential for our community either! They're essential to our liberty. A library at its most basic level is free access to information! That's beautiful! That is a beautiful thing. And plus, all the schools are being defunded, so where else is there for kids to go to learn?
15281	7/6/2012	Books are a way of life.
15282	7/6/2012	Since I utilize the central library mostly, I am aware of the fact that not only does this library serve the community with research, internet access, job resources, reading programs, etc, but it also acts as a shelter, and a buffer for homeless and folks without a great deal of resources. There are huge gaps in service delivery, and the library is perhaps the only resource in town that allows and encourages "loitering" in the winter. I am very grateful that this exists.
15283	7/6/2012	Society cannot succeed in any other way without literacy and access to literacy.
15284	7/6/2012	Because I want to keep in tune with the world around me. The library does exactly that. If I can't afford to buy a book, I can borrow it. In the past, I could not afford any books and I grew up enjoying all that the library could give.
15285	7/6/2012	I use the library to find books to read, do research, check out movies and music. I run into friends at the library and it is central to my being. I depend upon the library since I do not have the internet at home.
15286	7/6/2012	The library system is for the people, not for the profit. I like other for-profit services, but I depend on the library.
15287	7/5/2012	Libraries provide free access to information and learning tools for ALL people in Multnomah County.

15288	7/5/2012	I use the library so often, that it would be an inconvenience if it was open fewer hours or fewer days. Also, I feel like my family would suffer from less availability. Other services would have a much less immediate impact on my life.
15289	7/5/2012	Because it is one of the few community services that you can go to have a quiet place to be rain or shine. Parks are a close second for me, but they are not as comfortable in inclement weather. Also, while there, you are surrounded by resources that can teach, amaze and/or entertain you. We have used the meeting spaces for planning meeting, book clubs and social family events. Our library adds quality to our community and gives my children and myself access to materials we would not be able to get otherwise. I cannot name another public service that gives us so much, especially space to be.
15290	7/5/2012	Use it all the time; makes living in Mult Co desirable; great value for the public investment
15291	7/5/2012	The resources available at the current level of convenience have been very useful to me and my family
15292	7/5/2012	Because I know I am a more active and self reliant citizen when I can find out information for myself.
15293	7/5/2012	Because I use them on a regular basis and always have. I have a child who has grown up using the library programs, as well, and know a host of people in my immediate family, neighborhood and social circle who utilize many of the library's offerings, too. It's imperative that the focus on literacy, and free access to multi-media are available for all of our citizens, whether they can afford to take advantage of technology advances on their own, or not.
15294	7/5/2012	Because I use, understand and value local library services.
15295	7/5/2012	all people should have access to books / internet / etc..
15296	7/5/2012	Education is the heart of a community. And our libraries also bring people together. :)
15297	7/5/2012	I have to get information on things I want to know and use.
15298	7/5/2012	It's somewhere below police and fire, somewhere above street sweeping.
15299	7/5/2012	Access to information and community programs available to all is vital.
15300	7/5/2012	I have lived in three different states and have belonged to several different local libraries. By far, the Multnomah County Library is superior to all others that I have known. They are organized, and well thought out. The on-line services are resourceful and very helpful, and if needed there are always real people who can point me to another source if the library does not have access to something, or if they simply do not know the answer to my question.
15301	7/5/2012	They offer families a way to engage themselves without breaking the bank!

15302	7/5/2012	The library serves the entire community; every neighborhood, every person of every age, every nationality, regardless of religious or political beliefs. Every single person in Multnomah County and the "free service area" can find useful and meaningful resources in the library. The library doesn't only serve a subset of people, such as people in need of particular services -- although I don't know how to put a value on any of the important and even more urgent services that the county and local government provides. They are all important, including schools, health services, and many others.
15303	7/5/2012	I believe very strongly in the availability of reading materials to all citizens - especially children. Reading is the most important ability to making informed citizens.
15304	7/5/2012	Always had a love of reading and information. I believe that people should have simple access to information. My wife is a librarian (not in Multnomah County), and I am an historian. So the power of books is important to us. Parents as well, child learning to read.
15305	7/5/2012	The public library saves me a huge amount of money every year. Without the library, I could not afford to read all of the books (and watch the movies!) that I read in a year and I would be unexposed to many subjects and authors that I would not encounter without the library.
15306	7/5/2012	I am a voracious reader on a fixed income, and I want to promote reading for everyone.
15307	7/5/2012	I want to live in a community that values literacy, and a free public library is the best way to facilitate that. I also want to live in a community that provides access to information for all of it's citizens, and welcomes people of all languages and backgrounds to access information and literature. Our libraries are the living rooms of our community - they provide meeting spaces for community events, shelter for those who need a warm dry space during the day and computer access to those who can't afford it themselves.
15308	7/5/2012	Because I wouldn't be able to indulge in a good book otherwise. The community around my local library is not a wealthy one- so a lot of kids go there to read because their families can't afford to buy them books.
15309	7/5/2012	With out an informed and educated community, nothing else will work well.
15310	7/5/2012	The library is the only place where people can access books from all over the world, and have access to computers and the internet regardless of their income level, because the library is free for EVERYONE.
15311	7/5/2012	Public libraries give everyone equal access to materials and services. When all people do not have access as individuals, they can get access at the public library.
15312	7/5/2012	I am an educator and a big proponent of services like the ones that libraries provide to families and children throughout the summer and during school breaks.
15313	7/5/2012	Essentially free access to literature which mobilizes communities
15314	7/5/2012	Because as a limited income senior citizen, it's where I can find the latest magazines and books.
15315	7/5/2012	because not everyone has internet access
15316	7/5/2012	Community services, education, meeting place, shelter.

15317	7/5/2012	I think that literacy and education are the cornerstone of an informed, successful and flourishing community.
15318	7/5/2012	The library provides one of the only free public spaces open to all people. Knowledge can be built in our community, children can learn to appreciate books and how to read. Unlike parks, libraries provide free resources.
15319	7/5/2012	Libraries give a place for people to turn to --- kids and senior citizens. In addition, we have a large digital divide in this country and libraries balance that divide.
15320	7/5/2012	our family uses the library almost daily- we are all avid readers kids & adults alike- we can't purchase every book we want to read...we use the library to fill our voracious reading appetites..We use our library to do research for homework, for the garden, for the kitchen, for hiking & camping guides, we use it check out PBS series like reading rainbow that you can't rent anywhere else. we use our library to go to story times and for the summer reading program, and to stock the shelves of our in home preschool so we can keep up with the theme of the week or current season. we go to the library when it is too rainy or too hot to find refuge in a peaceful place where we can find a corner, open a book, and step into any world the author has dreamed up for us...
15321	7/5/2012	because the library is a great resource for books, computer access, and homework help along with its many other uses
15322	7/5/2012	Libraries are critical for providing access to information for all citizens, including vulnerable and marginalized populations.
15323	7/5/2012	They maintain and foster the intelligence, culture, and job-finding capabilities of the citizens of our city.
15324	7/5/2012	They provide resources to people regardless of class, race, background, age, and other factors. Libraries make a better future possible.
15325	7/5/2012	They are one of the only public services that provides programming and services for all ages and all economic levels in our community.
15326	7/5/2012	Because "Behind every stack of books is a flood of knowledge" (do an image search, it is a really cool picture!)
15327	7/5/2012	Libraries are an important part of having a well educated and this productive community. Libraries help level the playing field between different socio-economic conditions. They can provide the means and abilities for people (old, young, poor, unemployed and everyone in between) to better themselves -- education and access to resources (books, classes and internet) are fundamental to achieving this. Libraries can stimulate a love of books in young children, can provide a safe place for children to study and stay out of trouble, provide internet access to those who can't afford it but need it to help land a job. And for those of us who are lucky enough to be able to afford books and internet ourselves, they give us a "happy place" to go to to remind us of those carefree childhood days spent at the library and gives us excellent access to a wide variety of books.

15328	7/5/2012	Libraries provide a vital resource for families who cannot afford to purchase a large number of books and access to the internet. They also allow parents to support their child's learning at home through reading. [] [] However, the library is less important than fire and police services.
15329	7/5/2012	Libraries are the places where we enjoy level playing fields, where everyone has access to information, escape, knowledge, and a warm, cozy setting.
15330	7/5/2012	Free access to information, regardless of ability to pay or mobility, is the hallmark of progressive society.
15331	7/5/2012	Because reading is fundamental! It helps people to learn and develop critical thinking skills. Libraries also provide a lot of other important services that make our communities better, and provide a place to congregate.
15332	7/5/2012	Most of Multnomah County's services don't apply to me or affect me. Libraries are something I need every day. That and bridges that don't fall down.
15333	7/5/2012	I think libraries are necessary for so many people- students and others alike.
15334	7/5/2012	It's close enough to be walkable, has a great selection of books... and Interlibrary Loan is available for books not in the MultCo Lib system. I receive a small stipend as a religious and access to books and articles is a boon both for personal reasons and professional ones.
15335	7/5/2012	Just below safety and security providers are libraries. They bring a whole community together.
15336	7/5/2012	Libraries are the most democratic of all institutions. Anyone can use the computers, borrow books and other media, and learning is free to be had by all.
15337	7/5/2012	these questions, this survey in general, sounds like it was written by an illiterate. So, on the basis of that being the most important thing to me, literacy, I would say figure out how to write a survey, please.
15338	7/5/2012	See #6. They are equalizers in our increasingly have/have not world, making ideas and information available to everyone.
15339	7/5/2012	i love books and love to read and the first thing of importance in a town is the library and getting a library card. it lets everybody learn[] and read!!!!!!
15340	7/5/2012	My friend is blind. I copy books on cds for her. I have copied almost 200 books for her. She can read one book a day.[] I buy used books from the Title Wave and send them to [it WAS Afghanistan and] Iraq for the troops. Sometimes, that's the only way they can get the books.[] My granddaughter is 3 1/2 and is beginning to read. What kind of importance do you think the library has to her?
15341	7/5/2012	I believe that public libraries are the foundation for healthy and sustainable communities.

15342	7/5/2012	Libraries perform and promote the basic educational building blocks for those in our community and keep access to education and materials to those in the community.
15343	7/5/2012	The library is the great equalizer as it's a community resource that's available to everyone without regard to income. It is one of the public services that strives to do what is essential: Make us better, more educated citizens. The library is a civilizing influence.
15344	7/5/2012	Because I don't understand what the question is asking. Is Multicolib more important to me than compared with the Sheriff or Human Services? It's not. It's as important as the other local public services, but 'As important' isn't an option on question 7 of this survey.
15345	7/5/2012	The library helps my girls grow up with a love of reading and a respect for books. I attend 2 pagesturners meetings as well as use pageturners to go with my friends so it is a social outlet. Also, I love being able to get all of my favorite authors through the library.
15346	7/5/2012	I know that the library provides many more services to people in Portland than to me... While I relish the ability to check out good, new books in a timely manner, but there are many other important things – like resources for job seekers and free/affordable classes/activities for families who can't afford to pay the cost of such services at a private organization – that I value, even though I don't take advantage of them. I see the library fulfilling a need that no other public services really can.
15347	7/5/2012	I use it a lot. And it is really incredibly important. But in the end, not as important as health and safety. Almost though!
15348	7/5/2012	because libraries give community members access to critical resources: jobseeking assistance, educational programming, research assistance, tutoring, language assistance, senior and youth programming, and a public space to read, write, and seek information.
15349	7/5/2012	Literacy, access to information and social center spots are invaluable to our community, large and small.
15350	7/5/2012	Libraries are both a lifeline and an equalizer. They provide access to those who would not have it otherwise as well as a safe space.
15351	7/5/2012	They help the entire community: all ages, income levels, gender, all language speakers.[] They help people find jobs by providing computers for searches and creating and sending resumes.[] They provide programs and books for young people to help create the love of reading at a young age.[] They provide up-to-date information through periodicals and online materials and recently published books, etc.
15352	7/5/2012	We love getting new books weekly and going to the kids' storytimes.
15353	7/5/2012	Libraries provide access to a wider world of information and community than is otherwise available to many of us. Even when you have access to the internet, there are some things that can only be handled locally. Libraries provide a hub where everybody in the community, regardless of where they are economically, can meet and share knowledge. Libraries help bind communities together.

15354	7/5/2012	Libraries offer valuable services to EVERY member of our community, regardless of their social or economic status. Not everyone has a computer or internet access. Unemployed folks need help finding work - the library offers REAL opportunities to learn, grow, and improve your life. The library teaches children social skills (how to behave in public,) financial skills (fines,) a sense of responsibility (how to take care of something that doesn't belong to you,) and the importance of community. You can always turn to the library in times of need.
15355	7/5/2012	Libraries provide an opportunity for everyone in the community regardless of economic level to have access to reading materials, AV materials, downloadable books, programming, and reference services to name a few of the services offered.
15356	7/5/2012	Libraries are a great equalizer in society.
15357	7/5/2012	Because I cannot afford to buy the books my daughter and I read.
15358	7/5/2012	They allow me to experience things I wouldn't otherwise.
15359	7/5/2012	They allow me to enjoy books, movies, and magazines free of cost, which is a huge savings for everyone. They allow equal access to information and education. They ensure that children have a variety of ways to engage with books and learning.
15360	7/5/2012	Especially with the poor state of the Portland Public Schools, the libraries are more important than ever. With the influx of people moving to Portland every year, we should be able to have fully funded libraries.
15361	7/5/2012	Without my librarian getting a certain book for me (there was one copy in the state of Oregon, at the University of Eugene), I would not not have been able to complete my last art and writing project to my satisfaction. I have and always will vote for library funding.
15362	7/5/2012	Libraries allow children to have free access to books and early literacy services. I also make extensive use of library materials as a teacher. While we may have to pay taxes to keep them open, I save hundreds of dollars a year by using the library for books and entertainment. They are extremely important for the community!
15363	7/5/2012	Meets so many needs and vital for those who are most vulnerable, the unemployed, elderly, English as second language, kids
15364	7/5/2012	I love to learn, at my own pace and time... & I love libraries as local information centers!
15365	7/5/2012	As a user, it is because they are a service that is available to everyone. Anyone who has a desire to access the libraries media can. Also, I would more prefer to have the Library closed on Sundays and open on Mondays.
15366	7/5/2012	Trumped only by emergency services.
15367	7/5/2012	An educated populace is a great civic treasure and libraries help educate people.
15368	7/5/2012	As a teacher, I am strapped for cash, yet want to provide my classroom with up to date, relevant resources. The library is very important to making that a possibility.

15369	7/5/2012	Our libraries provide free books and other materials for both educational and recreational purposes, for all ages. They provide computer access to everyone, particularly important for those who don't have that access at home. They provide wonderful materials and programs for preschoolers, school-aged children, and teens, including support for the parents, teachers and caregivers of those children. Libraries are also a gathering place for ALL neighborhood people. Unlike other County services, you don't have to be a certain demographic, certain income level, etc. - literally everyone is welcome at the library. That is huge!
15370	7/5/2012	i use them every day and having so many books available to my children has helped them to be literate and appreciate reading - Libraries anchor communities, they provide space for study, children's programs, senior programs and common interest groups to gather. [] []
15371	7/5/2012	- They provide access to books to all people. Reading is not only a source of entertainment but it is educational, whether you are reading fiction or non-fiction. [] [] - They allow me to read at the level and speed at which I am most comfortable - I finish 2 novels a week, I could not afford this on my own.
15372	7/5/2012	They help maintain an educated and well read populace.
15373	7/5/2012	"Libraries will get you through times of no money better than money will get you through times of no libraries." --Anne Herbert
15374	7/5/2012	Great pre-school educational activities and resources, good access to books, music, films, etc., close enough that we don't have to get in the car to visit -- we always walk or ride our bikes there, and there are always super friendly staff on-hand to help with whatever we need.
15375	7/5/2012	They are my connection!
15376	7/5/2012	It equalizes access to books and other forms of media (cd, dvd) and also access to computers.
15377	7/5/2012	I use them on a regular basis
15378	7/5/2012	Gives access to literature and other reading resources to those who might otherwise struggle to afford it. Supports youth literacy.
15379	7/5/2012	Public safety and basic maintenance should come first.
15380	7/5/2012	Library services encompass so many services to various community members.
15381	7/5/2012	Access to information, and the ability to educate oneself for very little cost
15382	7/5/2012	It is a upstream way of helping people- it is teaching a man to fish.
15383	7/5/2012	Knowledge should be open and accessible to everyone without hindrance.
15384	7/5/2012	Clean water is an essential as well as waste disposal. Besides those, the library is the most important public service/resource that I use.
15385	7/5/2012	access to books, media - increased knowledge!

15386	7/5/2012	I am an avid reader and access to the library allows me to be able to check out new books often. Going to the library and picking out books is a fun activity that my pre-school age son looks forward to. I feel as though this excitement will translate to a lifelong love of reading for my son.
15387	7/5/2012	They are a great community resource accessible to everyone.
15388	7/5/2012	I can't imagine living in a city without police and fire services. Too many crazies out there. It would be unpleasant to not have at least as good a library as we have today, but I could adjust.
15389	7/5/2012	I cant say they are more important than public safety and such, so not #1, but that are important to a vibrant community They are the only resource to keep the poor online, and that desperately important.
15390	7/5/2012	Access to information, help keep household costs down
15391	7/5/2012	All public services are needed and of importance to me, but the library is unique and vital in a variety of ways.
15392	7/5/2012	For me, the library ranks just behind police, the fire department, and food assistance. The library provides access to information and entertainment, which is a basic human need. The library also provides a connection between the public and some of the other services that the state offers. I can't tell you how many times I've heard of someone coming to the library to get help with food stamps or other government programs.
15393	7/5/2012	I believe all of the world's problems can be solved through education. The library is nearly the only resource available currently, to educate oneself freely.
15394	7/5/2012	Libraries are one of the basic public services, right up there with water and sewers.
15395	7/5/2012	Schools are in much more need of funding right now (need updated infrastructure)
15396	7/5/2012	they provide an unlimited source of information without having to wade through the political crud that colors other government agencies.
15397	7/5/2012	If it comes down to cut the fire department or the library, I think most people would say we need emergency services. I would agree. Libraries are great, and they enhance the community a great deal.
15398	7/5/2012	essential part of the community
15399	7/5/2012	Libraries are the heart and soul of the community. By providing access to knowledge and information they are a gateway to opportunity, or even just a way to escape for a little while. I can't believe our luck in having free access to an unlimited assortment of media. I love my library!
15400	7/5/2012	Education and free access to information for all are critical to civilization and our survival globally and locally.
15401	7/5/2012	knowledge is power.

15402	7/5/2012	I feel that where other organizations and institutions fall short, the library is there for you to step into and help find your way back on the right path. ¶ ¶ You can also see what a community's values (education) and what some of its ongoing issues (homelessness) are from the state of its libraries.
15403	7/5/2012	ALL Public Services are important, figure out a new tax system, people.
15404	7/5/2012	I think that libraries are less important than things like police and the fire department, but still very important because they provide learning opportunities to the community that would otherwise not be available.
15405	7/5/2012	As a teacher, I believe libraries are essential for providing access to lower income individuals and families.
15406	7/5/2012	I think they are crucial to an engaged, informed, connected community. Schools can provide some of that for our youngest citizens, but libraries are really for ALL.

15408	7/5/2012	I'm not sure exactly what "other local public services" refers to. Obviously I want a fire department and such first, but after not having a burning house books are the most important thing. If I didn't have access to the library growing up, to quantities of books I would never have been able to afford, I would not be who I am today. Library services must be preserved for future generations.
15409	7/5/2012	We Just need Them
15410	7/5/2012	Knowledge betters the body and the soul. With a more education populace, we'll have lower healthcare costs (better nutritional knowledge and less use of hospital facilities), a safer city (education lowers crime rates), etc. By investing in our libraries, we will reduce costs elsewhere.

15415	7/5/2012	Libraries are as vital to our community as schools, fire departments....you name it, they are just as important. They give everyone in the community access to information, internet, research materials, and a large variety of reading materials. This is especially important for the underprivileged, who otherwise may not have access to many of these materials.
15416	7/5/2012	Because I use the library several times a week, both for personal reading as well as for materials for homeschooling

15417	7/5/2012	All citizens should have access to the information and resources provided by the library system. I see it as an important component of our democratic society.

15419	7/5/2012	I love reading, and I've always been a big library user. I also love how many free movies and CDs are available through our local library!

15421	7/5/2012	I have the money to replace library services, but it hasn't always been that way. We need libraries.
15422	7/5/2012	My family and I live for books! We use them for recreation, learning, research. We are grateful that we can access the library, because otherwise we could not afford to read as widely as we do now. it raises the bar for everyone. it equalizes things. if you don't have your own computer, you can go to the library and find the job, or the home, or the information you need. it's an amazing shared resource, re: pay tax money and SHARE the resources... we don't need EVERYONE in the city to have a copy of the Notebook. Have 30 copies and circulate them. Same with movies, music. and it's a centrally located place where people can get together over these things. I think it's just great.
15423	7/5/2012	I have been a library patron my entire life. Now that I am retired, I use it more than ever. I probably read 3 - 4 books a week including histories, biographies, novels, self-help and so much more. I watch movies and informational DVD's, get the latest music. I am able to get the latest books and able to try books, movies and music that I wouldn't take a chance on if I had to purchase. For what I pay in taxes to support the library, the world is open to me. Would I pay more? Absolutely!
15424	7/5/2012	It is one of the few obvious benefits of paying taxes

15430	7/5/2012	Libraries are second only to public schools with regards to educating our citizens. Without an educated populace, there is no chance for a healthy economy.
15431	7/5/2012	I've always been a heavy user of libraries - for those not in the social safety net, they may be the only county program that gets used regularly.
15432	7/5/2012	Access to information and the ease with which knowledge is disseminated is a hallmark of a flourishing society.
15433	7/5/2012	Crucial social infrastructure.
15434	7/5/2012

15435	7/5/2012	Because I use the library more often than I use parks, public transportation and anything else you can think of combined. I would happily pay taxes (go library bond measure!) to support my library because it couldn't come close to totaling the amount I would need to pay to buy all the books I read or resource.
15436	7/5/2012	Free access to most books, movies and music.
15437	7/5/2012	Libraries are economic engines of our community. job seekers, small business owners and students go further with a strong library system.
15438	7/5/2012	Our Democracy depends on free and open access to learning and knowledge. Quality public libraries and quality public education go hand-in-hand in getting us there.

Multnomah County Library Survey

QUESTION 9: Looking forward to the future, here are options for consideration for public library funding. Please rank the following three choices: ("1" being the most desirable) *Your rankings will automatically be reordered upon your selection.

Answer Options	1	2	3	Rating Average	Response Count
MAINTAIN CURRENT LEVY & LIMITED Library SERVICE - The current three-year levy (passed by voters in May at a rate of $0.89 per $1,000 of assessed value) resulted in a fourteen percent cut in hours and staff, even with a special subsidy from Multnomah County. All libraries have shortened hours and are closed on Mondays. Weekly, the library is open only 44 hours - down from 57 hours/week. Property tax levies, like that for the libraries, are subject to compression by other tax measures (meaning not all taxes can be collected due to property tax restrictions) and reserves have been used up.	25.4% 4695	23.0% 4257	51.6% 9541	2.26	18493
INCREASE COST OF LEVY FOR FULL SERVICE RESTORATION - Multnomah County voters can restore library hours and services by renewing the temporary local option levy and increasing the rate to $1.19 per $1,000 of assessed value (because the full rate cannot be collected due to property tax rules) , this levy requires at least $10 million in subsidy from Multnomah County's General budget which is also funded by your property tax dollars.	13.1% 2428	61.3% 11337	25.6% 4728	2.12	18493
Establish a LIBRARY DISTRICT to restore library services and fully fund library services into the future - Multnomah County voters can establish a library district. The district under consideration would establish a permanent funding rate of $1.22 per $1,000 of assessed value. Because a district is subject to very little "compression" from other property tax measures, it would be a more stable funding source and would not require additional funding from Multnomah County's general fund budget.	61.5% 11370	15.7% 2899	22.8% 4224	1.61	18493

Other people say that we should wait until 2014 because voters just passed a renewal of the levy and there will be other funding measures for schools on the ballot this fall. Tell us what you think.
