Introductions and Announcements

Introductions were made and people said what they were hopeful for.

Abbey Stamp announced Multnomah County received $2 million from the MacArthur Safety and Justice Challenge to reduce jail use. The money will fund mental health stabilization for women, particularly women of color.

Babak Zolfaghari-Azar announced the youth-driven Measure 11 survey now has been completed 1781 times.

Matthew Heady announced the Boys and Girls Club just opened a new site in Rockwood.

The mentors group met with Chair Deborah Kafoury last week. There will be a meeting of mentors in January. Another potential ask is a peer support group for the mentor programs, so they may ask for a coordinator.

Dashboard Proof of Concept

Amanda Lamb and Jillian Girard presented a dashboard proof of concept. ( I was out of the room trouble shooting the projector so I don't have any notes on this)

Full House Solutions Presentation

Lakayana Drury and several youths from Full House Solutions (FHS) gave a presentation. Full House Solutions is a citizen driven, community building initiative to foster healthy relationships and change the perception of youth and law enforcement in local communities. Young men shared their experience with the summer program. Youth-led video projects (with help from Weiden & Kennedy) were shared.

FHS would like more help reaching into schools to find other youth that want to be involved.

The initiative focuses on African American men ages 15-22. Youth may be referred to Lakayana Drury.

Implementation Strategy Updates

Suzanne Hayden distributed the notes from the coordinators' meeting.

The November agenda will include reviewing a draft of the parent handbook.

Erin Fairchild noted the Strategy 3 group meet with school superintendents. The superintendents were also interested in white supremacy gangs. They were asked about policies that create barriers to mentors with lived experience being permitted in the schools.

Lily Yamamoto suggested a joint mentors and connection to schools meeting.

The next coordinators meeting is Friday, October 13th.

Vanessa Micale asked if we could capture leveraged resources in the dashboard

The meeting was adjourned.
